A Distinguished Cross Recommended For Former Rowan Youth

Another heroic action by a former Rowan County youth was reported this week with the announcement of the awarding of the Purple Heart and a recommendation of the Distinguished Flying Cross to Lt. William A. Young.

Lt. Young, son of County's well-remembered attorney and jurist Bill Young, was injured in action, but upon almost single-handedly flying his plane back to its base somewhere in Europe refused to be even hospitalized and asked that he be sent on another mission as soon as possible.

In the furious action of the battle, fought miles high in European skies, the navigator in Young's plane was killed, his co-pilot's eye was injured and his engineer's leg lost almost shot off.

Red Cross Praised By Youth In Prison Camp

Holbert Skaggs, a nephew of C. O. Leach of this city, writes that he is still a prisoner of War in the prison camp Stalag 111 Germany. He goes on at length in the letter mentioning how the Red Cross food packages are coming through regularly.

He states that there are 2900 Americans confined here and since the Red Cross food packages have been coming through the men have been gaining in weight. He says that the packages are a LIFE SAVER. He goes on to say that the Red Cross and the branch of the Y. M. C. A. assisting with war prisoners have sent musical instruments, and they now have a band. They have also established a good library and conduct church regularly for them.

'They're Starting Again' Says Forest Ranger Stoller

March 28, 1944, Morehead, Ky. Wallace Kiser was fined ten dollars in Commissioners Court today for allowing a fire to escape from some brush he was burning early in the afternoon of March 24.

The fire was at first confined to a small area between a branch and road, and Mr. Kiser left for Morehead after he thought the fire had burned itself out.

However, the fire broke out again when the wind freshened and quickly spread up a hillside and on to National Forest Land. Ranger Stoller went to the fire which was discovered by Lookout Fralry at Triangle Tower, and with the assistance of local residents and Boy Scouts quickly extinguished the fire.

Stoller stated that if Mr. Kiser had waited until sundown to burn his brush, the fire probably would not have escaped. Flying sparks are not apt to catch fire to leaves and brush but will catch on to the grass and burn down, said Ranger Stoller.

There are no limiting factors and will be properly applied, 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate maybe expected to increase the yield of corn 10 to 15 bushels and tobacco 150 to 200 pounds.

With the low cost of fertilizer nitrogen and high prices of most farm crops it is a good farm practice to use nitrogen this year under most conditions. Generally speaking applications of 60 to 100 pounds per acre on small grains and 80 to 100 and 100 to 200 pounds on row crops should produce profitable increases.

Jury Deadlocks In Fyffe Trial, Re-Set For Hearing

PROUD FARA'S, BUT STILL PHYSICALLY FIT!

After deliberating four hours a jury trying Rowan County's most sensational murder trial in more than a decade, was unable to reach a verdict in the case of Mattie Fyffe, of Sandy Hook, charged with the George Washington Day slaying of Miss Ida Mason, at Bodrum Crossing near Morehead.

Circuit Judge W. B. White discharged the jury after they reported themselves hopelessly deadlocked. Unofficial reports from the jury room disclosed that seven jurors were for conviction, five for acquittal.

The case was so sensational that all the standing room was taken in the courthouse long before the trial started each day.

The Commonwealth attempted to build an entangling web of circumstantial evidence around Fyffe, using as the principal basis of its arguments the $15,000 in insurance carried by Ida Mason with Fyffe as the beneficiary. The state presented 50 witnesses to the stand, including two private detectives a chemistry expert who allegedly analyzed the blood in Fyffe's car. The Commonwealth also used one witness who stated that he saw Fyffe and the Mason girl near the scene of the crime, in company with two people he did not know, on the night of the alleged murder. They also produced a filling station operator from Ashland who told of cleaning blood from a car "of the same make and model as Fyffe's."

Crippled Children Drive On

In the last two years Ketchukians have given the finest of surgery, treatment and correction to 3,687 crippled children from 1,400 families who were unable to pay for their care, according to biennial report of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission.

All of the 3,687 children are not handicapped, many are otherwise called on, but a lot of them are handicapped. Some are blind, some are deaf, some are dumb, some are lame, some are feeble-minded, some are epileptic, some are tubercular, some are syphilitic, some are cancerous, some are cancerous, some are cancerous.

At the age of 12, Fyffe was at a boarding school; a year-old child with club foot, who now stands as sturdily night of his mother's title boy; a big boy who spent ten years in bed and is now a war worker; a teenage girl, whose crippled childhood kept her from school and who now wears a brace to the school where she is a teacher. Those who can't walk, play and work normally have been eased, improved, filled with hope and many of them will be on their feet soon, said Prof. C. O. Peratt, county chairman for the Easter drive now being conducted by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children.

Ketchukians did this for their crippled children through the work of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission and its co-operating private agency, the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children. Administering state and federal funds, the Commission depends upon the Society for help in conducting clinics throughout the state, paying for extra treatment and services, finding children in need of help and guarding their health after hospital treatment.

This year the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, the right arm of the state Commission, again asks everyone to contribute to the Easter campaign for funds. March 25-April 9. Money raised will help carry on the work in 1944 and will start a building fund for a much needed convalescent home when peace comes.

This work will include the re-pairing and overhauling of farm machinery, the sharpening of tools and the replacement of worn or broken handles. Let's repair our implements now rather than wait until the busy days begin. It will mean more crops and better food for our people and better tools now.

Herbert Bradley will be the instructor of this class.

Course For Repair Of Machinery Given

A course in farm machinery repair will begin Monday night, March 27, at the School Shop adjoining the Morehead High School Gymnasium. The class will meet on Monday and Wednesday nights for a period of six weeks. Each class period will be from 7 to 10 p. m.

Dr. Lakin To Speak Here On Next Tuesday, April 4

Dr. B. R. Lakin heard every morning from WLW Radio Station in the "Family Prayer Period" will speak in the College auditorium in Morehead on the evening of Tuesday, April 4, 7:30 p. m. The occasion being a great youth rally held in connection with the gospel work being done in the schools by Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Leeper.

A thrilling program will be presented by the young people consisting of vocal numbers sung by a chorus of 150 voices of students of the Morehead School, instrumental numbers on the marimba and other instruments, testimonies and other interesting numbers.

Dr. B. R. Lakin is in great demand everywhere and we are very fortunate in having him visit Morehead. Rev. Leeper worked on the Monday and Wednesday nights before he was able to make arrangements to bring Mr. Lakin here and it was necessary for him to cancel a number of calls and refuse many others in order to come to Morehead.

Schools are making arrangements to order and admit delegations in order that they may be recognized and Rev. Leeper is offering to give large American flags to the school having the largest delegation present. Dr. Lakin is greeted by jammed houses everywhere.

PEAKING
SPORTS

COUPLE of weeks ago the Cincinnati Reds were looked upon as the team to beat in the National League. Since then several things have happened and the Reds have been forced to move back in favor of the Chicago Cubs.

But that shouldn't bother the Reds. It's a long time until the season gets under way, and a good many changes may come to pass before the official opening. Picking the winners of the major leagues is a never-ending process this year. It's eight times as much work as it was in previous seasons. Instead of picking a team to bet on, you are being stuck with the selections.

MANAGER JIMMY WILSON at season's end, you can now pick the eight teams in each league. Eventually you'll strike the right combination. The only procedure is not to pick more than one team in the same league on the same day. That tends to confuse your listmaker.

And you must always add "as of today." Your choice of April 1 might seem extremely valuable tomorrow. On April 2 you can choose another team.

The Cubs on Paper
Back to the Cubs vs. the Reds. The Chicago club stacks up on paper as an excellent team even for a normal year. They have a strong list of experienced men and, fortunately enough, the list includes an entire infield. They have accumulated a fine bullpen. In fact, some of the new boys are so good that the Cubs are going to have a tough time holding their jobs.

The Cub outfield may be a thing of beauty. The club has three catchers, each of whom is expected to see more runs last year. Veteran Bill Nicholson knocked in 128 runs for the Cubs. Andy Pate hit 44 home runs in 1943. Willie Mays hit 33, and Ed Bauer drove in an even 100 as he hit 308 for Nashville.

Even though Pate and Bauer were the regulars, their pitchers were proof of their ability. They weren't playing against sand-lot teams. Too, the Cubs still have veterans Paul Galloway and Alvin Goddard, not to mention John Ostrowski, who topped the Coast league in home runs.

In the infield Manager Jimmy Wilson will have (with possibilities of change) Ed Stanky, Stan Hack, Leonard Marullo and Phil Cuyarrett, all more or less 1943 regulars.

The big question is in the pitching and catching staff. Right now the Cubs have Claude Passeus, Lou Verneke, Paul Derringer and Phil Eichelacker. Besides Jedis Rodriguez from Los Angeles, Pate and Mays will be playing (for the Reds). Bucky Walters and Ray Mueller are sure to be back. But one pitcher that one catcher doesn't make a team.

Yank Flier Shoots Down 8 And Staves Off Enemy.

LONDON — A shell burst which started James R. Hamilton, of Jayton, Ky., in a big aerial battle over Germany made him so sickly sick that he was shot down in a three-hour battle, it was announced. Hamilton was tall gunner. Flying Fortress East Point, piloted by First Lieut. Fred D. Grinham of Coral Gables, Fla., who said: "If that fellow didn't get out of his Nazis we'd eat our helmets—earphones and all."

"That battle of Sergeant Hamilton's," as his crew mates call it, began when their No. 4 engine was knocked out as they were over the target, the German liner Barfleur. The Barfleur lagged behind its formation and the Nazi fighters swooped in for a kill.

Hamilton opened fire, and the crew heard him yell, "Wow! I got the so-and-so." Then silence. No one knew he had been hit, for his plane kept blasting again and Nazi fighters were seen falling in flames.

"Those fighters attacked us for three hours, and Hamilton kept coming back in the tail. My crew swears he got out eight Nazis and maybe ten. We would never have reached England if he hadn't been cracking away the way he did. And he was weak from loss of blood."

Hamilton is making a rapid recovery from his wound and will soon be ready for another bout.

Cornflake Refrigerator Cookies.
(Makes 8 dozen)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup water

Cream peanut butter and shortening; add sugars gradually, creaming softly.

Stir in sifted dry ingredients and water. Add the uncooked oat and raisins. Roll dough thin on lightly oiled board and cut with cookie cutter.

Dough may also be rolled and sliced 1/4 inch thick. Bake on a greased baking sheet in moderate (325-degree) oven for 10 to 12 minutes.

If partitioned cookies are desired, frost with powdered sugar icing when baked and decorate with candied cherries and nuts.

Lynn Says
Make Cookies! It's fun to make cookies when you have the "know-it-all" right at hand. Make these simple directions:

Start beating the oven before you actually make the cookies so all will be in readiness when you pop the sheets in the oven.

Assemble all the equipment needed. Assemble and measure the ingredients.

Prepare cookie sheets next. If cookies contain much fat, sheets need not be greased. Pans for eggs are usually well buttered, lined with waxed paper, then buttered again.

The shortening creams best at room temperature. It should not be melted as this injures texture and flavor of cookie.

Eggs are usually well beaten before added to the shortening and sugar. If the quantity of eggs is small they may be added directly to shortening and sugar.

CLEARFIELD NEWS

The first meeting of the Clearfield 4-H club was held Friday, March 24, in the school house. Officers were elected: President, Miss Fanny Jewell Elam; Vice-President, Billy Prentiss; Secretary, Clara Lee Gregory. The boys and girls are very enthusiastic. Murel Gregory is the sponsor.

Starting April 1, next Saturday and Sunday the Clearfield Christian church will start having Sunday school and church regularly. We would like to see many of the Clearfielders there. We need God now more than ever. Come and help us start up our church regularly. The church is on the hill above the school house.

The Rowan County Women's Club will meet Tuesday evening April 4, at the U. S. O. room. The Education Department, with Mrs. Russell Meadows, chairman, has charge of the program.

A most unusual program has been arranged for the annual importance to women. This is also the annual election of officers. President, corresponding secretary and treasurer are to be elected to replace Mrs. Roy Cornett, Mrs. Frank Laughlin and Mrs. N. C. Marsh.

It is hoped that all members can attend. No one will want to miss this program. Really it is a program of interest and surprise for your enjoyment and information.

Agricultural Leaders Recommend Planting Hybrid Corn In '44

The Agricultural Extension Course Leaders in Rowan County plan to plant Hybrid Corn in 1944 and recommend it to all of their neighbors. Mr. J. D. Plank, Wm. Elvins, R. A. Decker, W. J. Johnson, George Ellington and Eddie Perkins are the corn leaders this year and they will plant demonstrations in their communities to show the value of Hybrid Corn.

Hybrid Corn saves labor because first it is not generally needed to be thinned or replant the crop. second, the stalks of most hybrid corn stands up, third, the hybrid corn husks easier than open pollinated kinds.

Ky. White Hybrids in a test produce 73.2 bushels, while Ky. Yellow hybrids produce 68.2 bushels, out of state hybrids produce 48.9 bushels and Princes of Salmie produce 51.3 bushels. It is generally agreed that the White Corn will make a few more bushels per acre than will Yellow corn.

In determining the hybrid you should find out which hybrid has proven the most successful. of the White hybrid Ky-69 is one of the oldest, it has medium sized ears and is especially adapted to soils of medium fertility. It takes 128 days to maturity. Ky-72 is very similar to Ky-69 somewhat, more stocky and leafier. Ky-72B is very dependable, suitable for wide range of conditions, grain is softer than Ky-67 or Ky-72, 128 days to maturity. KY-201 is a rank growing corn, late, large eared soft grained hybrid, 140 days to maturity. This variety should be planted early on more fertile soil where moisture conditions are favorable. Ky-203 is a moderately early corn that has good sized ears, the grain is not too hard and this variety seems very dependable over a wide area, 128 days to maturity.

Rowan county farmers who do not use corn drills are taking advantage of the lower priced round grains and planting this grade of hybrid seed because they have found that they can raise just as many grains. Several seed dealers in much good corn as they can by using the more expensive flat Morehead have already stocked hybrid seed.

Sam Abernethy Knows a Thing or Two

Dropped in Sam Abernethy's store the other day and we got to talking about the American way of life.

"Suits me to a T," Sam said, as he trailed out a hole of tobacco that Bert Childers aimed to curl for after dinner.

"Well, I reckon we all feel the same way, Sam," I told him. "Just think—if we were regiments, like folks in enemy countries, most likely you wouldn't have this store to sell us your customers in the friendly, uncommodatin' way you do."

"That's right," said Sam, "and you and I wouldn't be allowed to talk out loud about our government, or to listen to verbiage radio programs or to enjoy each other's company over a moderate glass of beer now and then."

From where I sit, that little coniah with Sam just about summed up the things our country, fighting for.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doakes Discover Something That Pleases Them!

FOLKS: In the cartoon above, you see Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doakes struggling with their income tax report. It has just about got Joe down. His wife Mary can't help any, except to give him another pot of black coffee and wish him luck. Scenes like this took place recently in countless thousands of homes, probably including yours.

But Joe found one pleasing item as he puzzled over his tax report. Wading through the details of his living expenses, he discovered what a very small part of his income he pays for his electric service.

"Shucks!" Joe exclaimed. "I used to squawk about our light bill being too high, and now I find it is only a little over one cent out of each dollar it costs us to live. That's not even pin money."

"That's true," Mary said. "Here's a piece in the evening paper about it . . . U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics cost-of-living index for fifty-six cities. It says the average family spends 42c for food out of each dollar of income . . . 17c for rent . . . 12c for clothing . . . 3c for fuel and ice . . . 3c for house furnishings . . . 20c for miscellaneous purposes . . . AND ONLY A LITTLE OVER 1 CENT FOR ELECTRICITY."

Joe wondered why some people say that government subsidized electricity, like TVA power, would be such a big help in lowering the average family's living expenses.

"Why if a family cut its electric bill 30 per cent it would be less than half-cent out of each dollar of living costs," Joe explained. "And if the government can sell electricity cheaper, why not have government food and clothing stores, and homes to rent—since these are the biggest items in a family's living costs?"

"But if the government should take over all business we would have Socialism, and we don't want that in America!" Joe snapped.

Joe is right too. It is easy to see why government can sell you food, clothing, insurance, newspapers, electricity, etc., cheaper than privately owned business can. Government agencies like TVA, and government stores and enterprises, pay little or no taxes, no postage, etc. And whatever they lose or waste is paid out of the pockets of the tax payers.

"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told you, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally, whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. BACK SOMBRE

BY CLIFFORD KNIGHT

Elsa Chatfield is snubbed by her Aunt Kitty who had an overabundance of money. Hunt Rogers and Barry Madison go to Mexico to find out who killed Senor Chatfield. On arriving they find that Elsa's party had preceded them by plane. James Chesbro is murdered. Elsa's father, Sam, meets death from the sword of a marlin while his chair breaks before him in the sea, and George Rumble is murdered and thrown into the sea. Sam's wife, and on examining the quilt with which Elsa had beaten Chesbro, discovers by the knot that she killed the knave that killed Chesbro.

New Continues.

CHAPTER XVII

"In the presence of Senor Lombardo and realizing the implication in it that you killed Chesbro?"

"For only a fraction of a second did she hesitate, then she answered calmly, 'Yes.'"

Senor Ottilio Lombardo, jefe del polica, came up the Orizaba's ladder the next day with the doctor by Dr. Miguel Cruz. On the heels of the doctor came the barefooted, ragged marichas, Felipe and Genito.

"I have puzzled much, gentlemen," remarked Lombardo in English after cigarettes had been lighted. "About the commission of Senor Chatfield that he killed Senor Chesbro. I do not understand it and I like no action. I have come that evening persuaded that it was better, despite your promise, that I keep Senor Barton in jail for the murder of Senor Chatfield. But when Senorita Chatfield speak I am confused, senor, and do not know what is best to do."

"I faint smile twitched at Rogers' lips and he looked away across the bay to the shore where the coco palms seemed to be bursting green rockets into the sky."

"There are many confusing things in this affair, senor. They have puzzled me too, but I believe that I can explain them all now."

"I would be very glad if you would."

"Four persons have died, Senor Lombardo—Katherine Chatfield, California; James Chatfield, Sam Chatfield and George Rumble, in Mexico. The explanation must include all four. It must be logical and there must be no loose ends."

"Yes, of course," said Rogers.

"Sam Chatfield and his wife, Bertha, arrived in California about a year ago last winter. They stopped at a hotel in Pasadena, and, unknown to her, she was with his sister, Katherine—Elsa's Aunt Kitty. That night Katherine Chatfield was murdered. The method used was that of morphine, to which drug she was an addict, taking it hypodermically. A very faint odor of the drug was noted the next morning by only one investigator furnishing the single clue to what happened. A few drops of morphine on the floor of the room, to which she was suddenly held to the unsuspecting victim's nose, and kept in place during the brief and violent struggle which probably followed and the victim was unconscious. There was necessary only to lead the hypodermic with the morphine and shoot it into the unconscious victim, wipe away all fingerprints from the syringe and the syringe bottle, and remove the prints of the victim on these things. Simple!"

"It is most simple," Senor Rogers said Lombardo, a serious expression upon his round, brown face.

"Either a man or a woman could have done that," Senor Rogers said again. "Now, consider these facts: Present in the house, besides the servants, who do not figure in it at all, was Sam Chatfield and his sister who was the mother of a child. He knew that she not only had refused to acknowledge the child, but had permitted his daughter, Elsa, to be cruelly slandered, and not only had done nothing to quiet the gossip, but most likely had been instrumental in circulating it."

"Also in the house that night was Elsa, who openly and frankly at all times, as you heard in the other night, has admitted that she hated her aunt. Besides these two there was Senora Bertha Chatfield, who, since she married Sam had resented the treatment given her by her sister-in-law, and who, as a wife, knew how her husband's attitude toward Katherine Chatfield."

"There, Senor Lombardo," Rogers continued, "I have named three persons with motives to kill and obviously with the opportunity to do so. But there were others that night who came to the door, and who had done some publicity work for Katherine Chatfield, came to receive his pay, which was refused him. The good name of the defendant and hot words, and Rumble left. But he remained in the neighborhood uncertain whether or not he should return. Did he go back and kill her?"

Rogers was developing very logically the facts in the first night, and Lombardo followed his words closely. Doctor Cruz sat smoking coonhuck cigarettes endlessly, his pebbles making merry sizzle for his eyes. Neither spoke.

"That night, also," Rogers went on evenly, "Read Barton was Katherine Chatfield's attorney to give her a book kept by Chesbro. Read has been very frank to admit that his father's death—a suicide—can be laid at the dead woman's door. A little leniency shown in a criminal time would have saved his property for him. Did Read Barton kill her?"

"James Chesbro arrived and departed that night; we do not know why, the reason for his visit never having been explained before his death. Did he have some motive to kill the woman? Next came Dwight Nichols. Rogers' nodding head, as if smoking calmly, listening without offering to interrupt.

"Dwight Nichols profited by some two hundred thousand dollars at the death of Katherine Chatfield, because of some jointly owned property. Dwight has stated that he was summoned, for some reason unknown to him, to advise with Miss Chatfield. Margaret Nichols was jealous of Katherine Chatfield, because she feared her husband's love was being stolen from her. She also, made a visit that night. However, Mrs. Nichols says she got only as far as the entrance hall when someone dashed out of the house in Dwight's direction. The latter merely sat and smoked calmly, listening without offering to interrupt.

"I think, Senor Lombardo," said Rogers, dropping with a smile into Spanish, "you will get Pedro out of jail when I finish telling you who is the guilty person." Lombardo's only response was an involuntary lifting of the eyebrows.

"However," Rogers took up again in English in a more serious vein, "the name of the guilty one must wait a few minutes longer. I will come to it at the proper time. But now let us look for a moment at the death of Sam Chatfield. His is the most puzzling in the entire series. So much seems accident, so little may have been the handiwork of a murderer. As he has been known to the sailor members of the chair in which Sam sat in the launch. If the chair had not been there, there is little likelihood that he would have fallen overboard, probably none at all. Did somebody remove the mat? There was opportunity to do so for everybody who went on the fishing excursion, and even for George Rumble, who came on board. All of the other members of the party, knew beforehand that Sam Chatfield would sit in that chair when we went out."

"And yet, I know of no motive upon the part of anyone for the death of Sam Chatfield. Of course, I never know of the death of a husband and a wife. Did Senora Chatfield have some motive unknown to us, and did she cause the excursion in the launch? But—let's drop Sam Chatfield from our minds, and go on to George Rumble. I think that in it we will find something of interest—perhaps the key to what we are seeking."

Lombardo shifted in his chair and looked away for a moment to the tall towers of the church. Doctor Cruz crushed under the spark in his crucifix under his belt, and for a moment his hands were idle. The marichas were growing restless, under the heat of the sun. "He had been said in English. Read Barton sat easily with legs crossed, and Dwight continued calmly to smoke.

"It is not conceivable in the death of George Rumble," Rogers began once more. "For Margaret Nichols said that she permitted she went to the wharf that night to find someone to send for her husband. Felipe and Pancho went on the yacht. She asserts, however, that she did not see anything on the wharf; did either, or both, of them kill the woman?" Rogers halted to sip from his frothy glass.

"It is all very strange," Senor Rogers said Lombardo, stirring uneasily in his chair. "How can you discover the truth in so complicated a case?"

Rogers smiled faintly, and I thought that there was the merest twinkle in his mild blue eyes. "We exclude from suspicion all those persons who subsequently died by violence—Chesbro, Sam Chatfield, George Rumble—as victims of and not themselves the probable killer, whom have we left?" He glanced from Doctor Cruz to Lombardo, then nodded toward "Elsa Chatfield, Senora Bertha Chatfield, Margaret Nichols, Dwight Nichols, and Read Barton. Those five."

"Now, then," Rogers said, a crispness coming into his voice, "we come again to the death of James Chesbro. Of these five who could possibly wish him to die? Senora Bertha Chatfield? I can think of no reason; I know of no motive, in fact. On the other hand, Read Barton and Chesbro quarreled with each other over the love of Elsa Chatfield. Chesbro, the laid discharged Barton from his employment. An excellent motive, he commented. "But—Dwight Nichols killed a man for a very definite motive, I think the real one, to account for Rumble's murder—Rumble knew the man who killed her. What, in that case, will a murderer do? He will strike at the first opportunity, for he is a criminal, not a woman. And that's what happened."

Lombardo stirred uneasily in his chair. "Who, Senor Rogers," he said, "heard Senor Nichols say that he knew the murderer?"

"Barry Madison, Sam Chatfield, Dwight Nichols, and I."

Read Barton shifted his feet and cleared his throat lightly. "It shouldn't be left out, Hunt. Rumble hinted very broadly to me that he thought who killed Chesbro, then closed up like a clam when I asked him about it."

Rogers looked at him sharply, as if to determine whether the statement was made in a vein of bravado, or because he wished to be helpful. The silence was silent and then appeared to shift his approach to the problem of Rumble's murder.

As for Rogers, I could not escape the conviction that he was enjoying himself hugely at the expense of Lombardo. His face, however, showed no more evidence than that of a judge. Lombardo started slightly at Rogers' question.

"No no, se, senor," he admitted, reverting to Spanish in his confusion.

"I think, Senor Lombardo," said Rogers, dropping with a smile into Spanish, "you will get Pedro out of jail when I finish telling you who is the guilty person." Lombardo's only response was an involuntary lifting of the eyebrows.

SAUL BECOMES A NEW MAN
LESSON TEXT: Acts 9:1-15:18.
GOLDEN TEXT: "I am not a creature—II Corinthians 5:17."
The lives of great men inspire us with an eagerness to make our own lives count for God and for country. Particularly is that true of the life of the apostle Paul, for he combined personal greatness with absolute purity and devotion to Christ, which made his life doubly effective. We recall, however, that this peerless leader for Christ was first the bitter enemy of everything Christian and we ask, "What changed this man?" The answer is the redeeming grace of God—but that is the story of our lesson. He became a changed man as we witness in the following lesson.

I. From Threatening to Trembling (9:1-16)
The enemies of God and of our Christ are often loudmouthed and terror-spreading individuals who, for a time, strike terror into the hearts of men. Such was Saul of Tarsus, and such are the antichristian leaders of our day. They seem to be powerful and able to sweep all before them.

But wait! Luther said of God's arch-enemy, "He is small as a sparrow, but he is true. See what happened to Saul. Off on his journey of persecution and destruction, he was struck blind on the Damascus road, and the great thresher is found to be trembling and astounded. The next day, and one every month shall be stopped (Rom. 2:19), and all His power, and on to George Rumble. I think that in it we will find something of interest—perhaps the key to what we are seeking."

Lombardo shifted in his chair and looked away for a moment to the tall towers of the church. Doctor Cruz crushed under the spark in his crucifix under his belt, and for a moment his hands were idle. The marichas were growing restless, under the heat of the sun. "He had been said in English. Read Barton sat easily with legs crossed, and Dwight continued calmly to smoke.

Rogers looked at him sharply, as if to determine whether the statement was made in a vein of bravado, or because he wished to be helpful. The silence was silent and then appeared to shift his approach to the problem of Rumble's murder.

As for Rogers, I could not escape the conviction that he was enjoying himself hugely at the expense of Lombardo. His face, however, showed no more evidence than that of a judge. Lombardo started slightly at Rogers' question.

"No no, se, senor," he admitted, reverting to Spanish in his confusion.

"I think, Senor Lombardo," said Rogers, dropping with a smile into Spanish, "you will get Pedro out of jail when I finish telling you who is the guilty person." Lombardo's only response was an involuntary lifting of the eyebrows.

Put Seaisick Sailors On Shore Duty

Recently I was reading of the number of cases of seasickness among officers and crew of the naval services, in absence of internal medicine. Dr. R. S. Schwab reports his examination of 115 naval personnel with chronic seasickness. He was able enough to bring them to the hospital.

He found that 50 per cent of these men showed abnormalities of digestive tract. By use of the barium meal and X-rays, the following conditions were discovered: (a) Irritability of the stomach, (b) increase in flow of stomach digestive juice even when patient was fasting, (c) some increase in the number of "holds" or cramps in the lining of the walls of the stomach, and (d) loss of peristalsis.

A large percentage of persons who suffer with seasickness show nervousness and emotionalism.

Dr. Schwab makes the definite statement that "a man with pronounced dizziness, nausea, vomiting, headache and depression of spirits is not as able as one who is not so affected. This difference is not easy to measure but it involves alertness, skill, and resistance to infection, cold, heat, and immersion in the sea."

Men who suffer with chronic seasickness should not be allowed to enter the service. If already in the service they should be given jobs where they are not exposed to the service. We will await with deep interest the trial of the new cure for seasickness discovered by Drs. W. H. Penfield, Montreal, and C. H. Best, Toronto, and their associates.

Local Option Issues are Clear-cut

The local option question is so well known to the voters of Rowan County that it was our original intention to say little or nothing by letter or through the newspapers to you. Rowan County has already had its share of local option elections, costing the taxpayers thousands of dollars. The pros and cons of prohibition have been an issue here for so many years that you have had ample opportunity to make up your own mind. But, within the last few weeks there has been so much propaganda, so many meaningless phrases, words and contradictions recited by those who are attempting to cram local option down the throats of the people of Rowan County that the time has come that they should be publicly answered.

In an effort to besmirch everyone who believes differently than they do this group has resorted to a campaign of subterfuge and deceit. They pointed out a statement made many years ago that in local option territory a person's farm could be seized for a violation and the informer was entitled to a part of the proceeds of the sale—they classed this as a last minute trick to fool the voters. In the first place, as the files of Morehead's newspapers will show, this statement was printed two months before the election. It was not disputed or refuted BECAUSE IT WAS THE LAW—IT WAS THE LAW THAT THE DRY FORCES CLAMORED ALL OVER FRANKFORT TO GET PASSED AND IT RESEMBLES IN MANY RESPECTS THE BILLS THEY SOUGHT TO HAVE ENACTED INTO LAW AT THE LAST SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

They Asked You To Vote Local Option In Morehead—What Happened

Last year a local option election, about which there was much fanfare, was held in Morehead. By a margin of 186 votes the city did enact local option. In less than two months after this law was enacted the VERY same people who led the prohibition campaign wrote a letter (now on file at the City Hall) to the Mayor and the City Council in which they stated, under their signature, that "THERE ARE NOW 12 OR MORE PLACES IN MOREHEAD SELLING BOOTLEG WHISKY." By their own letter they admit the failure of local option—a failure that has resulted every place it has been tried.

Later, when these people, at the request of City Police, were brought before the grand jury they said there were more than 12 places bootlegging whiskey but that it was impossible to prove it. They even asked for the removal of the police department. The removal of men whose work had not been questioned at the City Hall until they besmirched them.

Before local option there were five whiskey stores in Morehead, operating legally, paying taxes and observing the law. Further, they were all confined to the city where police protection was available. Now, not five, but twelve or more bootlegging establishments, paying no taxes, making no contributions to the community are operating according to their own statement.

Are We Betraying The Men In The Service?

In an advertisement in the newspapers, those advocating local option say that if the boys in the service were here "they would help us vote dry."

Surely, such a statement is not based on fact. When the boys were here several years ago and a vote was taken on local option the county went overwhelmingly against local option.

Every service publication—"The Yank" and all the rest including the American Legion publications bear the fact that local option elections are being held while they are away and unable to cast a ballot. In a recent poll conducted of men in the armed service four-fifths stated they believed they were being treated unfairly by the calling of local option elections while they were away protecting our homes, our churches and making this country a spot where free men and women could express their sentiment by ballot. An even larger percentage stated they would vote against prohibition.

What rebuttal can the Drys give against such an overwhelming proof.

Further, our boys were here two and three years ago. Why was not a local option election called in Rowan County then? More than three years had elapsed since the previous election and another vote could have been legally called.

Who Pays The Bill?

THOSE SUPPORTING LOCAL OPTION HAVE CONTINUALLY WARNED YOU THAT WE WOULD SAY THAT REVENUE from the legal sale of whiskey and beer would stop if prohibition were enacted thereby cutting off old age pensions and the like. We have never made such a statement but we do say that millions of dollars are paid each year to municipal, county, state and the national government through the legal operation of the beer and whiskey industry. If these taxes do help to maintain our government in a large part. They do help pay for the old age pensions. They do help build roads. America is too big and our state too progressive to cease the payment of old age pensions and the like no matter what happens. But, it stands to reason that the loss of this revenue must be made up in some other manner, and the subsequent result will be that it will be levied upon you in some form of taxes.

If you do not believe local option will work a financial hardship in any taxation program then go to Morehead's City Hall and you will see that a sizeable chunk has already been cut from the revenue for this year. Any council member can tell you that the City has been financially hurt by the loss of several thousand dollars by the enactment of local option.

The bootlegger doesn't pay any taxes on his place of business. But he will be out on April 10 to vote for local option. ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE THE SAME TICKET THAT HE DOES?

THE CHOICE IS NOT HARD These Are The Issues

Are You Against the Bootlegger and the Illicit Liquor Industry Such as Flourished in Rowan County During Prohibition Days?
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Are You Against the Enactment of a New Law Which Our Boys in the Service Have Stated Through Their Every Publication and By Every Poll That They Are Against and Have Publicly Condemned the Practice of Calling Such Elections While They Are Unable to Vote?
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Are You For the Collection of Revenue From the Legal Sale of Whiskey or Beer as Against the Setting Up of Illegal Establishments?
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Are You Against a Circuit Court Docket Filled with Liquor Cases and Lie-Swearing and Evasion the Like of Which Was Never Known Until Prohibition?
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Are You Against the Continuous Practice of Calling These Local Option Elections, Costing the County Thousands of Dollars, When the Question Could Have Been Voted Upon By the Entire County at One Time, and at Any Time During the Past 3 Years When All of Our Citizens Were Here To Cast Their Ballot in the Democratic and American Way.

If You Are Then Show Your Feeling Toward This Continuous Expenditure of the Taxpayers Money By Voting NO on April 10.

Are You In Favor of Keeping Our Business and Our Money Legally at Home as Against it Going to Some Other County Which Has Acted Wisely in Refusing Local Option?
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Are You Against The Continuous Besmirching of Our Peace Officers by Local Option Adherents Who Claim That Bootlegging is Already Rampant in Morehead.
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Are You Against the Enactment of Prohibition When It Has Proved a Failure Every Place It Has Been Tried?
If You Are Then Vote NO on April 10.

Let's State The Facts Correctly!

It has been said, entirely erroneously, by local option advocates that thousands of wet newspapers are now turning dry. They quote from several newspapers, none of which are published in Kentucky. However, they should investigate a little further and they will find that the very newspaper which they quote are OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION and LOCAL OPTION, and always have been. Every major newspaper in Kentucky is OPENLY against PROHIBITION and have CONTINUALLY TOLD THEIR READERS OF THE DANGERS OF LOCAL OPTION. These newspaper editors represent the leaders in their community—they represent the best interests of their community. YET IN EVERY CASE IN THIS STATE THEY ARE OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION. Surely local option adherents cannot say they are not shameless; surely they will not try to besmirch men who have been leaders for the right thing for decades.

Every Rural Church And School A Gathering Place For Bootleggers During Prohibition

During prohibition the Circuit Court dockets of this county were filled with indictments for disturbing rural churches and schools. Every court day, people from all sections of the county flocked to Morehead to appear before the grand jury and file complaints of the sale of whiskey at church gatherings and at the social. These were prime places of business for the bootlegger.

Now it is rare that a similar charge is filed. It has become safe to hold church in the rural sections, and the schools now have their community gatherings without attracting all the illegal whiskey dealers in that section.

You people of Rowan County have not forgotten that. The court records are the best proof.

Why Wait This Long For A County-Wide Election?

Those seeking to have you vote local option in Rowan County say, through the newspapers, that it has been their intention from the beginning to call a county-wide election.

Why—oh why wasn't a county-wide election called in the first place? Surely they know that these elections cost taxpayers plenty of money—funds that come from a county treasury already heavily burdened with the problem of meeting current expenses, let alone set aside funds for badly needed road and bridge improvements and payments on outstanding indebtedness. Is it their intention to thwart the will of all the people of Rowan County by calling place-meal local option votes that are costly and accomplish little.

What About The Court Docket?

Those who are asking you to vote local option have made a great appeal on the grounds of the number of people fined in our courts as against the days before prohibition was repealed. We ask them to search the records of the Clerk in Rowan County's Circuit Court. They will find that during prohibition there were 10 times as many whiskey cases as today. They will find, as stated above, five to ten times as many cases of disturbing churches and schools. They will find that indictments for perjury are only a fraction of what they once were. They will find that there are less than half as many felony indictments each term. They will find that penitentiary sentences now meted out are only about one-third what they once were. They will find a decrease in the practice of a few men signing bonds (on whiskey violation charges) by the score, almost extinct. They might visit the Sheriff's office. It used to be that one could hardly go in that office without seeing a still ready to be cut up and destroyed. They might also find out that it is necessary for the Sheriff to employ fewer deputies than during prohibition. If they should visit the Coroner's office and search his records they will find that deaths from poisonous whiskey are now only a fraction of what they were then.

And, if they care to search the records in the Federal Courts they will find that the largest number of present-day indictments for whiskey violations come from counties that have enacted local option. They will also find that the Alcoholic Control Unit generally concentrates its men in dry or local option territory. If they care to go still further they will find that the greatest number of whiskey violation arrests made by the Federal government come from the southern states which have enacted local option laws almost identical with the one you are asked to vote for in Rowan County.

Yes—The Judge Knows

Under the heading "The Judge Knows" the local option group again attempt to appeal to you, all the time covering up the real issues.

Yes, Rowan County's Judge does know. During prohibition our present County Judge was Sheriff. It was necessary to keep a large staff of deputies and three-fourths of the law enforcement necessary was against bootleggers and moonshiners. It was a twenty-four hour job for any sheriff to attempt to thwart the illegal whiskey traffic in Rowan County. Hardly a day passed that the Sheriff wasn't making a raid somewhere and there was enough moonshine whiskey poured down the sewer in front of the court house to float an LST. One street in Morehead became so bad that a dozen bootleggers were in every block.

Deaths from poisonous moonshine whiskey were anything but rare. The Circuit Court docket was filled with whiskey violation cases. Many an eminent Judge has stated that more lives were sworn in the court room then that ever before or after repeal.
