Small Farmers Making Real Contribution

Small farmers of Rowan County joined with other family-type farm operators in the Farm Security Administration program in Kentucky last year to produce enough extra food to feed thousands more of our fighting men, production figures just compiled by the War Food Administration show.

Coy M. Ebbard, County FSA Supervisor, announced that this week he had been advised that the "little farmers" who planned their farming with the assistance of FSA have set records for the second straight year in production of certain war-vital crops and livestock.

The figures, he said, show that the 13,108 rehabilitation borrowers who operated farms both in (Continued on Page Five)

Kentucky's "Isaac Walton's" Barred From Fishing During May; Season Re-opens June 1

All public waters in Kentucky will be closed to fishing during the month of May, with the exception of those "navigable streams" under government lock and dam where pole and line fishing will be permitted. J. M. Perkins, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, announced today.

Changes in the opening hunting and fishing season that were made by the 1944 Kentucky Legislature will not become effective until June 13, 1944. The new law which opens the fishing season on May 30 instead of June 1 will not become effective until next year.

Among the "navigable" streams in the state are the Kentucky; the Ohio; the Green; and its two tributaries—the Barren and the Rough; the Cumberland; the Tennessee; the Big Sandy; and its two tributaries—the Levisa Fork and the Tug Fork. The four tributaries that are mentioned above are operated below the locks and dams that have been placed some distance from where they flow into the larger streams. The Game and Fish Law states: "It shall be unlawful to take

17 Year Olds May Still Get In Marine Corp

The following statement was issued today from Headquarters, United States Marine Corps, Louisville, Kentucky, and signed by the Officer in Charge, Lieutenant Colonel F. E. Kivens.

"Results obtained from statements made by me relative to the openings in the Marine Corps for 17-year-old applicants have been most gratifying.

"We can still enlist a few more and I would advise the young men who desire to know the branch of service he will serve in, and at the same time, wants that branch of service to be the United States Marine Corps, to get his application to us as quickly as possible.

"As I have previously stated, all enlistments of 17-year-old applicants will be on an inactive basis, subject to call probably during May. This will permit the finishing of the present school term.

"Information regarding this program can be had by contacting the United States Marine Corps, 3254 Highway Building, Louisville, Kentucky, or any of the Marine Corps Substations located in this area. The nearest Substation post office buildings of Lexington, Bowling Green and Paducah."

IT COULDN'T HAPPEN IN THIS COMMUNITY?

But Investigation Reveals Pitiful Story Where Law Enforcement Failed Someplace

It makes a little harder, but it was more protection from the rain and the cold.

Through the winter days these boys made their way to their beds each evening. There was no other home for them when the thermometer hit below freezing—when Moreheadians were meeting to protest the gas shortage.

You may see these three boys on the streets of Morehead almost any day. They black boots to earn the money to eat. Like kids sell, the money they do earn is spent mostly for hamburgers, soft drinks, ice cream and candy.

The saddest part of it all is that the situation has previously been reported to the authorities. Nothing has ever been done about it.

The mother of these three boys—if the word "mother" should be used here—deserted them, an investigation reveals. She also brought into this world several weeks ago a daughter. This infant she gave away. Then she abandoned her three boys.

A check with the school attendance officer shows that she has had no contact with Emmitt, Edwin and Glydon with clothes, and has made a sincere attempt to get them in school. But Emmitt, Edwin and Glydon have no one to get them ready for school; no one to see that they get there.

The boys have lasted through the winter. Perhaps they welcome spring more than anyone else could.

Yes—this is America! It couldn't happen here, it has happened and it is happening now.

Willis Gets Endorsement Of Rowan GOP

Republicans Condemn State Legislature

Kentucky Republicans in session at Louisville yesterday, instructed delegates to the national convention at Chicago, June 26, to vote for Governor Simon S. Willis so long as his name remained before the convention.

With harmony as thick as butter, the Republicans named Governor Willis chairman of the Kentucky delegation and Mrs. Willis, national committeewoman. Jonett Ross Todd, Louisville, was elected national committeeman.

Rowan County Republicans scored the New Deal, blaming it with causing the war through unpreparedness and ignorance of what was going on in the rest of the world, at their convention here Saturday.

So Near, Yet So Far, For Tag

It was so "near" and yet so "far" for Tag Calvert, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Calvert, who is in the armed services this week.

In a sudden troop transfer movement young Calvert was boarded on a train—destination and route unknown. As the train speeded across the continent young Calvert realized there was a possibility that it might pass through his home town—Morehead.

The train was routed over the Lexington division of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and it passed through Morehead. But Tag was unable to notify his parents or his wife; that he would be here so "near" from seeing them.

Tag's train stopped for water at Midland. He did get a chance to yell to them from Kenton Penix. Going through Morehead he managed to get a passing glimpse of some friends at the depot.

Tag is in the "sun" forces of the air forces. He has been in service since August, being stationed at Camp Luna, New Mexico.

Egg Glut Calls Attention To School-Lunch Question

House of Representatives Decides Against Spending Taxpayers' Money on Food for School Children After July 1.

By BAUKHAGE, News Analyst and Commentator.

The four or five million school children won't get hot lunches after July 1 of this year.

You have often heard the lament around guests came and the 'lender was bare: 'If we only had some ham and had some eggs, we could have had some eggs.'

Today, Washington is worrying over two problems brought into focus by that little "it."

The government is buying eggs right and left 600 thousand cases of shell eggs, 13 million pounds of powdered eggs since January 1 to support the farmer's price, and giving some away — and here is where the problem number two, which I said was "it," comes in.

WILL THIS CONTINUE

Elsewhere in this issue of the News appears an article concerning three waifs, Emmitt, Edwin and Glendon ages 11, nine and eight years. Yes it is a pitiful story. Not only is it a sad account of neglect and suffering but it represents a stigma on our community Kentucky has proper laws to care for a situation of this kind. There is a law carrying with it a severe penalty for a man or a woman abandoning their children. This is a clearcut case. Further, the state of Kentucky provides homes for children such as this—homes that provide proper training, food and shelter. Somewhere along the line there has been a sad dereliction of duty on somebody's part. In two weeks Circuit Court meets here. Judge Bridges White can do well to investigate this case or ask the Grand Jury to go into it. Undoubtedly the case has never been brought to the attention of the Circuit Court. But, is only a few days until they can act.

GOP Resolutions

(Continued From Page One) of the World, while here at home it was busily engaged in destroying our American constitutional and representative form of government, in burdening this nation with a bureaucratic, extravagant and wasteful administration, in emptying the national treasury and burying this generation of our country's people, and all their future generations, under an insurmountable debt such as no nation in all the world's history has ever known, and in exerting its efforts through political brigandage to perpetuate itself and its leaders in autocratic power. Under its policies and practices almost the last vestige of personal liberty has been destroyed, and private enterprise and individual initiative have been practically obliterated by a national regimentation. "A stop to such national calamity must be made. We owe it to ourselves and to the generations which follow that we leave nothing undone to restore sound leadership and save our beloved nation.

"Therefore, to the end that we may have restored to the people our form of constitutional form of government and that our present war may be brought to a speedy and victorious conclusion and that this nation may again enjoy liberty, secure peace, sound economy, happiness and prosperity to all of which it is entitled, and which it has in the past enjoyed under the leadership of the Republican party.

"Be it now by the Republicans of Rowan County in convention assembled, hereby resolved that we reaffirm and rededicate our fidelity and loyalty to the party of Lincoln which, in the past, has been and in the future will be, the saviour of our nation in every period of peril.

"We believe that all citizens of the Commonwealth, irrespective of party, have at heart the well-being and improvement of the State of Kentucky. Partisan politics has no place in the conduct of the State's affairs in these trying times of "sweat, blood and tears."

The people of Kentucky should cooperate to the limit of their ability to support Gov. S. C. Willis in his program for the improvement of Kentucky, especially his educational program and his program for the more-effective and humane relief and assistance to the aged and infirm, and the completion and improvement of the charitable and penal institutions of this Commonwealth. We deplore the partisan efforts on the part of some in the recent session of the Legislature to sabotage those measures which all patriotic Kentuckians, both Democrats and Republicans, believe to be one of most constructive programs ever presented to the people of Kentucky.

"Be it now therefore resolved that we commend our Governor for his honest and sincere efforts to secure the enactment of his excellent program at the regular session of the Legislature and his determination to call a special session of the Legislature to further secure the adoption of his policies for the betterment of the schools and the welfare of the aged and helpless, and that we unqualifiedly endorse, approve and commend the administration of Governor Simon S. Willis. "Be it further resolved that the members of this convention hereby instruct the delegates from this county to the Eighth Congressional District convention to be held in Mt. Sterling, Ky., on the 24th of April, 1944, and the Republican State convention to be held at Louisville, Ky., on April 25, 1944, to cast their vote for Governor Simon S. Willis for permanent chairman of said Republican State Convention; and that the Republicans of this county request that the delegates from the Eighth Congressional District to the Republican National Convention to be held in Chicago on June 26, 1944, be instructed to cast their vote for Governor Simon S. Willis for the Republican nomination for President so long as his name be before said convention.

"Be it further resolved that the Republicans of this county do now and hereby adopt the unit rule and the delegates selected by their shall vote as a unit in the election of district delegates, district alternate delegates, district chairman and chairwoman, and district elector and alternate electors, and on all matters before the district or the state convention."

A-Mericans-All

From somewhere in England Private Cecil F. Cooper, writes his uncle, Robert Cooper, describing the farm in England. From his letter it is not difficult to infer that young Cooper intends to be a farmer when this war is over.

Dear Uncle: Will it please to answer your most kind letter just received. Sure had asked me so many questions, and he told me that he was his Colonel and he said it in a way that the Colonel must have been his own property and then went "Say I hear you bought another farm. Sure hope you have good luck with it. I would like to buy another one somewhere if I could find one cheap enough. There are some good looking farms here in England, but I don't like the place well enough to buy any farms over here.

How is Aunt Sally, and all the kids. Well Uncle, there isn't much to write about over here but I have to think of something to write. If I quit writing I will quit getting any mail so I will write something if I just have to say hello and good-bye.

Well I will have to sign off for this time. Pray for me and be good. Lots of love from CECIL F. COOPER.

Dear Folks: This place is a lot like Morehead and Rowan County much to my surprise. Very recently a good size shipment of service people arrived here from all fighting fronts of the world and we have had a good view of all soldiers, sailors and marines look like after they have taken on some of the lead that is thrown around the battle places. These men and boys were the ones who had enough of the part of life to hold the pieces together and are now on the way to the homefront where the pieces will be mended. It was possible to see them as a group for they were kept in one wing of the hospital here and they had visiting hours the same as our own patients.

When I decided to visit them, I found out that I was not the only person who had the same ideas about them but I stopped on the way at the PX and did some shopping just in case that I ran into some boy from home or an old friend from other parts of the state. The requests for personal passes to the wards had been so great that I had a time getting one and when I did I found out that I had told another one. It is very difficult to visit a hospital without having that look of a tourist just out for the scenery but the persons who went to see the boys had more than that on their minds and their faces were sincere with deep understanding of doing something good. They were bedded down as patients en route home and not as soldiers, marines and sailors or officers and enlisted men. Fact is, officers and enlisted men were pooled together because they wanted it that way for persons have that feeling after being under fire with their own men. The officers feel at home with their men and they like their duty and rank right in the middle of their wagon outfit. There were several other visitors there when I started down the line of beds and not knowing just how to act. I asked the orderly if there were any men from Kentucky and he said there must be for it was a collection from many fronts and I had to find them myself. The orderly had no more than answered my question when someone spoke to me from a cast bed. Now I had come to this place to see if I could find an old friend, and to ask as many questions as possible for my own information and before I knew it I was answering them right and left without knowing it. You don't know how easy it is to visit the wounded when you make them feel like you are enjoying yourself and you have some late news from the states. Before I had gone halfway through the wing, the place was smoking as if a smoke screen had been laid down for a major offense and all of my cigarettes and cigars were gone just as the Captain came up to me and said that I must stop giving them smokes as they were rationed due only to the nature of their injuries. This did not stop the puffing of the patients.

A man whose eyes were covered with bandages asked me about Sen. Barkley and his open break with the Administration and I told him everything I knew and then tried to read through the lines of the bulletin I had read on the matter and we had a long talk. We were bothered by a bright eyed kid of no more than eighteen who seemed to never run out of questions about everything. When they told me my time was up and I had to leave, I found a fellow who was from Kentucky and I knew it the minute he spoke. We only talked for a minute and then I made my way back through the beds and as I passed the man with the covered eyes I stopped and asked the kid next to him who was the man who had asked me so many questions, and he told me that he was his Colonel and he said it in a way that the Colonel must have been his own property and then went on to tell how he had described me to the Colonel. The two had been together since they left the states and now the kid was doing the talking and the Colonel was enjoying him more than it is possible for me to describe. Just as I left the kid hollered and asked me how long I had been in foreign service and I told him. He then turned to the Colonel and said, hell, he has been in foreign service longer than I have been in the army and ought to be up front where he could talk them to death. That remark paid me for everything I had given away and as I left laughing and most of the fellows were laughing. I turned and saw the face with the covered eyes and it was wrinkled with mirth. On the way back to the Base, I talked with some other fellows who had been visiting the same place and we tasted as we were from the same town and had the same thoughts. Those thoughts were that if those people could laugh after what they had gone through then we could take it here in stride. YOUR UNKNOWN SOLDIER

"Purple Heart" Headline Drama

Produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, creator of the screen's mightiest thrills, "The Purple Heart" acclaimed the most astonishing drama of our times, the story you could only guess behind the headlines Sunday and Monday at the Trail Theatre.

With Dana Andrews, Richard Conte, Farley Granger, Kevin O'Shea, Donald Barry, Sam Levine, Charles Russell and John Craven in the heart-stirring roles of the 8 dauntless U. S. flyers who were put on trial by the Japs for murder and not as prisoners of war, the screen thunders vengeance as they turn the tables on Jap lust and cunning—and win!

Trudy Marshall is also featured in the cast which includes Tala Birell, Richard Loo and Peter Chong in "The Purple Heart." The 20th Century Fox film was directed by Lewis Milestone from the screen play by Jerome Cady.

Mrs. Hall never recovered from the tragic death of her son, F. P. Jr., who fell while playing, striking his head. He lived only a few hours. She suffered a severe heart attack two years ago and never has been well since. She had a stroke of paralysis about four months ago but recovered sufficient to return home. Became worse about two weeks ago and in hospital since.

She was a member of Methodist church.

Fishing with pole and line will be permitted in all the above mentioned streams during the month of May below the last lock and dam. Remember this! The last lock and dam will always be found toward the headwaters of any river.

1942 and 1943 in Kentucky planted 30,002 more acres in crops in 1943, and sent to market 54.2 per cent more hogs, 67.7 per cent more cattle and calves, 41 per cent more milk, 34.9 per cent more chickens and 30 per cent more eggs.

The additional milk that these families produced in 1943 as sufficient to supply 44,502 fighting men for a full year. Hog production by the same families went up enough that the increase alone would meet the pork requirements of 4,000 soldiers for a year. The beef and veal increases are equal to a year's supply for 40,210 men; chickens for 21,626 and eggs for 43,647 men.

Increased sales of livestock and livestock products by these families were:

1942 Sales 1943 Sales % Inc.
Hogs lbs. 9,761,827 15,050,120 54.2
Cattle, Calves, lbs. 9,501,171 15,934,796 67.7
Milk, gal. 7,062,699 9,955,297 41.0

ens, lbs. 1,650,349 2,227,070 34.9
Eggs, doz 2,470,025 2,212,032 30.9

Besides that they save to market, families in the PSA program are producing more food for their own tables. Every PSA borrower has a home garden and most of them have increased the garden area and greatly increased in 1943 the number of quarts of food canned for home use, the supervisor said.

He emphasized that when these families turned to PSA for assistance, none of them had sufficient security to obtain credit from any normal source. Their record is "all the more remarkable", the supervisor pointed out, because to attain these increases it was necessary for the families to improve their methods of farming and to eliminate unwise practices that had led to their failure in the past.

Mr. Hubbard said he had tried to help Rowan County families to accomplish these things through wise use of credit, aid in planning, and guidance in carrying out farm and home operations. Rowan County PSA borrowers are repaying their loans and establishing themselves on a sounder farming basis for the years to come, the Supervisor declared, and PSA clients are not only producing more food but are building their home, making this part of the country a better place for the boys and girls to live when they return home.

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't you in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several countries where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some head-lines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise'."

"Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices," Federal Agents said. "Trick Liquor Truck Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor...plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."

THE WOMAN

By PETER B. KYNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Mary Sutherland... She obeyed, took a few sips and glanced up-steam as a desert raven fluttered into the water and started to drink.

CHAPTER III

She obeyed, took a few sips and glanced up-steam as a desert raven fluttered into the water and started to drink. "Is that a cry?" she asked.

"The blame of you! Well, I telephoned her an invitation to cocktails and told her you'd bring her to my suite."

"I fear, Len, you have never fed a sardine in a can. It's like this: you and that girl is sitting by the telephone waiting—waiting."

"I know that the girl who wouldn't wait by the telephone for you must be too ill to crawl to it. Come up, you great simpleton and bring that lovely thing with you."

"She's all dressed up and so am I," he crowed triumphantly. "You're taking us to a dinner dance at the country club at eight."

"But I haven't reserved a table for you and that girl!" he cried.

"Woman, I reserved it in your name this morning. Better dig yourself up a head."

"You great gladiator, I love you. You're practically my boy, aren't you? Didn't your mother beg me, when she was dying to look after you?"

"Your patience is about to be rewarded, darling. I've found the most wonderful girl in the world, there are only two hotels in this city fit to receive her and there isn't a vacant room in either."

"Where is she?"

"Sitting in the cab of my little truck at the entrance, waiting for you to return with tidings of great joy."

"You know I have, you've occupied it often enough. Now what is this all about?"

"May this girl friend of mine occupy it?"

"How long?"

"Until she can find accommodations for me, Miss Sutherland. During the winter months, I'm crowded and for the next three days guests will be sleeping in the halls on cots. I may have to secure a bed steady for you in some respectable private home."

"I belong a hunch club in Virginia and ride to hounds. Where shall we ride—in Arizona?"

"Very well, Pablo shall be your horse when you visit my ranch and I have a fine stud of stallions and saddle that used to belong to my mother. It will fit you. I assume you can ride."

Let's Face Facts Country Area Attract Future Home Builders, Careful Survey Shows BY BARROW LYONS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There are many signs that up-to-date small towns in most parts of the United States are enjoying an expansion that spells prosperity.

Barrow Lyons indicates that of the people planning to build homes after the war prefer small towns and country areas.

This survey was the result of questionnaires in the magazine which almost 30,000 readers voluntarily filled in and sent to the editor.

Only 1 per cent of the people intend to build homes after the war except to settle down in large cities, the survey revealed, and 17 per cent expect to build in medium sized cities.

Some of the reasons for this are: "The man who had greeted him said: 'How do you do?' 'Well, it's a pleasure to meet you. We won't discuss that, Henry.'"

"Oh, yes you will," came the brisk reply. "because I have a very sound reason for discussing it. You've bumped into me boys here, because the meeting was on a call on you at your ranch. I am one of you."

"After having seen Mary safely ensconced at the hotel, Len had gone out to the rodeo grounds and parked back of the horse in the stable."

Len Hatter drew a horse known as Mad Hatter and, mounted it, and started to ride. He was wearing a pair of blue jeans and a pair of cowboy boots.

PEAKING OF SPORTS

By Bob Mitchell

HOW many fight followers remember the only time in the history of the heavyweight division that a man won the title while his opponent was sitting down?

To end this horrible mystery in a hurry, it was July 4, 1915, when Jack Dempsey met Jess Willard in Toledo, Ohio, for the world championship.

Challenger Jack—now Lieutenant Commander Dempsey of the Coast Guard—was in the best shape of his career. And he was exceedingly fortunate because that particular Independence Day happened to be one of the hottest days in the meteorological history of Toledo. Both fighters were literally bathed in perspiration as the 7-foot Jack Dempsey climbed into the ring. Dempsey was considerably shorter than Willard and had given him a 65-pound weight advantage.

Jack's exceptional physical condition wasn't shared by his opponent. He had lost his sight on the heavyweight title and was willing to work hard for it. And because he had lost his sight, he was in a very bad way. In fact, he verged on softness.

The First Round

Ollie Pecard was the referee. He called the two men to the center of the ring for their last-minute instructions. Then came the opening bell, and the brawl was under way. Dempsey circled around for a few moments, then uncorked a vicious right that plowed into Willard's mid-section. Willard staggered and Jack followed with a left high on Willard's forehead.

Dempsey didn't overlook his corner opportunity. He moved in like a wolf. He let loose a long, hard right into Jess' stomach and Jess quivered like an aspen. Then came the most telling blow of the fight. Dempsey hit Jess with a left to the face that threatened to knock Willard's head from his shoulders. He went to the canvas, a surprised, slow grin on his face.

Frenzied Dempsey to one side and started to count over the prostrate champion. Jess managed to blink in his last moments as he went up to six, but he was already a beaten man. Again Dempsey moved in for the kill. A left to the head followed by a right to the body, put Jess on the canvas for the second time. Jack waited for him to get up, which he did at the count of eight. Dempsey belted him all over the ring, the champ going down again for the count of seven. All in all, Willard's longest down seven times in the first round. The last knock-down came just before the bell ended the round. Referee Pecard was counting when the bell rang and that's what caused the mixup.

The crowd was yelling so hard that the referee didn't hear the bell and kept on counting. He belated the ten count, crossed the ring and held up Dempsey's right hand in the customary salute of battle.

Jack Keating, Dempsey's manager, hurried Jack out of the ring into his dressing room while Willard's handlers were helping him to his corner. Just before Jack got his dressing room the officials were sending a messenger after him to come back to finish the fight.

Hope for Willard

The one-minute rest had worked miracles for Willard. At the time the two men entered the dressing room hadn't helped Jack's wind.

Jack coasted for the first minute of round two. The tables were turned a bit when Willard blasted through with a hard right to the chin that caught the challenger unprepared. Dempsey grabbed and held and didn't get up a half head of steam for the remainder of the round. But that first round had been hard on Willard.

By the third round Dempsey was more rested and had recovered. He didn't manage to get in a side-splitting wallop, but he was giving Willard a terrific beating.

Willard was grumpy at the end of the third round. He looked like a beaten man. Just about 20 seconds before the start of the fourth, Jess held a fast consultation with his manager and trainer. At the end of their rapid-fire chat, Willard's manager reached over and grabbed a white towel. Even as the bell rang for the fourth, the towel sailed over to the referee's feet and the fight was over.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If dish towels are rinsed thoroughly each day, they'll be sweeter, whiter and easier to launder.

Breads or rolls may be made to taste fresh by moistening them slightly and heating them in a moderately hot oven.

Sprinkle a little talcum powder on ribbon knots that are hard to loosen and they will untie much easier.

Brooms get bowlegged if allowed to stand rigid side up. Hang up or stand upside down. Small screw-eyes on handles make hanging more convenient.

If you know a Navy man, don't ever call him a "glib"—sailors consider the name an insult. You can get on the right side of him though if you offer him a Camel—or better yet, send him a carton. Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in the Navy (Army, Marines, Coast Guard, too, for that matter) based on actual sales records from the service men's stores. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages from overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.
