Regents Sell Underground College Lines

The underground telephone system on the campus of Morehead State College was sold to the Ashland Home Telephone Company. It has been announced by the institution, following a meeting of the Board of Regents last week.

President Vaughn and Harry LaViera, a member of the Board were named a committee of two to negotiate a purchase with the Ashland Home Telephone Company. The college has its own power plant but depends upon Kentucky Utilities during the summer and in case of emergency. The appointment of Margaret Warren, Lexington, as head of the department of physical education, was approved by the Board. The resignation of Stith Malone King, an assistant librarian, was accepted.

In order to devote more time to the college's workshop at Prestonsburg, Dr. J. D. Falls, at his request, was relieved as acting director of Bookkeeping Training School. Dean Warren Leppin was named acting director of the Training School, along with his other duties.

Fyffe Trial Continued To November Term

Foster, Bowman Indicted For Murder

The trial of Matthew Fyffe, 21, of Louisville, charged with the George Washington Day slaying in 1943 of Ida Mason, scheduled to start Tuesday, June 13. The trial was continued until the 7th day of the November term.

The November term is scheduled to begin on the 3rd Monday of that month. Attorneys for both the Commonwealth and the Defense advised Circuit Judge Bridges White that they were unable to procure all their witnesses at this time. More than sixty witnesses were heard here in May in the trial which resulted in a hung jury. The grand jury returned murder indictments against Donald Foster and Liburn Bowman, both of Morehead, charging them with the slaying last week of Clayton Lambert, escaped prisoner from the state reformatory. The case is scheduled to be heard Thursday. Both were released after executing $3,000 bond.

Foster and Bowman have indicated they will accept a plea of guilty to the slaying. They were deputized officers when they killed Lambert in the small hours of the morning of May 6 near the plant of the Kentucky Utilities in West Morehead. State officials had placed a reward of $100 on Lambert, described by local officers as "desperate and dangerous."

The grand jury also returned a five count indictment charging Foster and Bowman with intent to kill Lambert. The grand jury also indicted Foster and Bowman with intent to kill Lambert. The grand jury also indicted Foster and Bowman with intent to kill Lambert. The grand jury also indicted Foster and Bowman with intent to kill Lambert.

Poultry Leader Advises Farmers

At least 20 per cent of farm poultry flocks in this section should be marketed, C. B. Harris, poultry specialist from the University of Kentucky, declared this week after a survey of the poultry situation here and a visit with a number of the leading growers in Rowan County. He said that many farmers short on feed are selling roosters and culled birds.

Harris stated that it was his observation that most poultrymen are making every effort to care for their baby chicks so that they will be in production this fall in time to take advantage of the egg prices which usually prevail in September, October, November and December.

While visiting brooder houses last Monday, he saw two brooders that were equipped with electric brooding stoves. Electric brooding stoves, he stated, are rapidly entering the field of poultry brooding. Farmers find that electricity saves time and that the heat is much easier to control than any other type of heat. There is less danger of fire and the cost is very little if any more than other types of brooder house heat.

With Ernie Pyle at the Front
Large Number of Americans
Alter Themselves to Complexion
Few Who Have Been in Italy Can Conjure
Up Any Fond Memories of That Front

By Ernie Pyle. LONDON.—Well, here we are again in dear old London town. At least they still call it London, although you can hardly tell for the Americans. But before going into that I'll tell you about our trip here.

The morning I left Italy I had to get up at dawn to catch the plane. Sgt. Harry Gowing who was a part of the gang I had been living with, somehow managed to get both himself and me up right on the dot.

It was so early I hadn't wanted or expected anybody else to get up. But while I was still rubbing my eyes in a c.m. Pvt. Don Jordan with a beautiful breakfast tray of juice, eggs, bacon, toast and coffee, just as though we weren't at war at all.

Ernie Pyle all our Italian boy, Reif (pronounced "Rife") who ordinarily didn't come to work this morning, showed up just as it was starting to get daylight.

Reif was a grand kid, smart and agreeable and full of good humor. I'm sure he had never been so happy in his life as when working in our little madhouse. He had come naturally to help raise my luggage out to the airport.

Last but not least, in another minute had come prancing in my little friend Lieut. Maxine Friedman, the nurse-dietitian from the nearby army hospital. She is from Kalamazoo, Mich., and she is just about as high and weighs approximately 90 pounds.

A couple of months ago, when I was wasting away with anemia, Goldielocks kept sneaking me eggs and steak from the hospital. We had a lot of fun joking with her about my one corpuscule and it was Goldielocks who undoubtedly saved my life with her surreptitious sorties.

At the airport Ieif lagged in my bedroll and bags for me and I got all set for the day. We four were standing by a goodby. We four were started beside a command car. A group of officers came over to wish us goodby, while they waited for their planes. Our little goodby scene must have given them a shudder or two.

First I shook hands with Harry. And then, those pretty screws don't come into one's life every day, I managed to befriend Goldielocks a goodly kiss that must have shaken Rome.

And then I turned to shake hands with Reif. But Reif, instead, grabbed me by both shoulders and in true continental fashion implanted a large Italian smack first on my right cheek and then on my left. My resistance was astonished, and so was I. And though slightly embarrassed, I must admit I did not mind being pleased. There are swell people in any nation, and I know that in our crazy little group there was a genuine fondness for many of our Italian friends.

Thus buoyed and puffed up by this international occasion, I took to the plane and we were off. On the way out we flew right past the magnificence of Vesuvius, but I was feeling badly about leaving and didn't even want to look out or look back, so I didn't.

We flew most of the day and far into the night. Crossing the Mediterranean I knotted myself up on top of a pile of mail sacks and slept half the trip away from me.

And then, in a different plane, over western Algeria and Morocco, I got myself a blanket, stretched out on the floor and slept for hours. The sun was just setting when I woke up. I've written many times about how I'm not romantic to me, but I have to place all of a sudden things did seem romantic.

A heavy darkness had come inside the cabin. Fastened to the window shades, kneeling at the windows to absorb the spell of the hour. The remnants of the sun, the cloud-bank, the horizon ahead, making it vividly red and savagely beautiful.

We were high, and the motors thrummed in a timeless rhythm. Below us were the green peaks of the Atlas mountains, lovely in the soft, misty shroud of the dusk. Villages with red roofs nestled on the peak.

MASOUDI IN ITALY I've told you this and again about the dogs our soldiers have taken as pets and mascots. Escaping second to dogs, I believe, are Italian kids. There's no way of knowing how many Italian boys have been adopted by our troops, but there must be hundreds.

An outfit will pick up some kid, usually one who has been orphaned by bombing and has no home and no place to go. The children come along of their tree will, of course,

It was one of those moments impossible to transmit to another mind. A moment of awe of a marching world, of the reluctance of our own fate. It made you want to cry.

Some people laugh and say, "Well, that's the tip-off. When you're in England, the invasion must be about ready."

That, I assume, is a joke at me for having dinner with generals and possibly getting all the inside dope.

They flatter me, for I don't know a big more about the invasion than I do. I've intended going to England all along, and the only reason I held off till now was to wait for my friend Lieut. Maxine Friedman, the nurse-dietitian from the nearby army hospital. She is from Kalamazoo, Mich., and she is just about as high and weighs approximately 90 pounds.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Porch Suppers
Furnish Tonic
For Appetites

Wise homemakers will plan porch suppers for warm evenings. Not only will the family enjoy the gay informality of the porch but the changing of meal-time locale just naturally will pep up lagging of appetites that warm weather brings.

Checked cloths in bright colors will carry out the simplicity of theme that is customary when you "rough it" on the porch or if you have them, fringe cloths or bric-a-brac edged ones will do fine.

Centrepieces of fruit from the orchard or big bowl of colorful vegetables will dress up the table. Fat candles in squatly glasses will add a homely touch to supper, and the family will love to linger over it.

Keep to the simple and sensible with food and try to have foods cooked on one platter so there aren't too many trips to the kitchen. Meat and vegetables can go on one platter, bread on another, and dessert on one plate, everyone dipping out for himself in "help-yourself" style.

Barbecued chicken is an appetite tracer and so colorfully golden brown it will make an immediate bid for attention at the porch supper.

Barbecued Chicken. 1/2 cup catsup, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1/4 cup salt, 1 large onion, grated, 1 clove garlic, crushed, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 cup pepper, Dash of cayenne, 1/2 pound of chicken, cut in pieces.

Combine ingredients in order given, strain until salt is dissolved. Let stand several hours or overnight. Brush over chicken just before broiling. Broil in hot oven 20 to 30 minutes, turning frequently, and basting again with sauce, until chicken is cooked thoroughly. If sauce is kept for more than overnight, remove garlic clove.

"Veal on Skewers. Cut boneless veal in pieces 1 1/2 inches square by about 3/4 inch thick. Place on wooden skewers, alternating meat with small chunks of peeled potato, carrot and onion. Lay skewers in roasting pan with 1 cup hot water and salt to taste. Cover and bake in a hot oven 2 to 1 1/2 hours.

Spring Vegetable Tips: Cut string beans with scissors. It saves time and fingers. Carrots peel easily if blanched in boiling water for two or three minutes.

To retain the red color of beets, always cook them with about two tablespoons of their stem left on when boiling.

Old coffee percolators are excellent for cooking spaghetti. Stand spaghetti in percolator, add boiling water, adjust cover and cook. The steam steams beautifully while the spaghetti are cooked to perfect tenderness.

To wash spinach, use warm water rather than cold. It loosens the sand from the leaves.

Don't forget the lovely spring greens when it comes to adding color to the table and vitamins to your diet. Wilted Greens. 1 small onion, chopped, 1/4 cup bacon fat, 1/4 cup mild vinegar, 1/2 cup green beans, Cook onion in bacon fat until yellow, then add vinegar. When heated through, add greens and cook until wilted. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot.

Mixed Spring Greens. 1/2 pound best greens, 1/4 pound cauliflower, 1/4 pound lemnon juice, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1/4 pound chicken livers, sautéed and cut fine.

You'll want desserts that aren't too rich and are easy to prepare. Berries are good and in season now: "Strawberry Meringue Pie." 3 cups milk, 1/2 cup vanilla pudding, 2 beaten egg yolks, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 1/2-inch baked pastry shell, 1 cup strawberries.

Gradually add milk to pudding, stirring constantly. Cook over hot heat until thick and part of hot pudding is egg yolks; stir in remaining hot pudding. Cool slightly; add vanilla. Pour into shell. Place strawberries on top of filling. Pie as meringue.

We Made It Work

The cost of living has been virtually stabilized for nearly a year, according to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Thus the danger of an uncontrolled price rise disrupting production in a crucial phase of the war, is apparently eliminated.

Credit for this all important, though possibly temporary victory over inflation should not go entirely to government stabilization agencies. For example, how would the people have learned to live under a maze of regulations issued thousands of miles from their homes if local newspapers and other sources of information had not voluntarily burned the midnight oil to enlighten them?

Retail merchants, too, are responsible for the success of price fixing and rationing. They have sought by every means at their command to impress upon consumers the importance of supporting the government in its program to maintain stability. They have often been a step ahead of the government by instituting voluntary controls over distribution of scarce articles. And it is not surprising to find leading retail stores have played a leading role in helping the retail distribution industry enforce cost-of-living regulations. Efficiency and maximum service at minimum cost are the key to their existence. Uncontrolled inflation is anathema to the operating methods of the chains. As a result, they have become the consumers' strong ally in the fight against inflation. The best guarantee that the present victory over inflation may not be temporary, lies in the fact that it came from the combined efforts of the people and private industry.

SUNDAY MORNING TRIP UP CLEAR CREEK

Editor, Rowan County News: Clear Fork creek valley is a tributary of Main Triplett creek and the beautiful fertile valley lying along its banks are also known as Clear Fork.

This stream of water, when low is the purest, most sparkling I have ever seen, but when swollen by rains breaks into a very dangerous, muddy demon. Yesterday morning while my nephew and I sat in his car stranded in the middle of this awful, swollen stream and feeling the call lifted with his rolling tide I began to wonder why this locality must wait so many, many years for roads and bridges.

I am sure if our officials had been with us on that dangerous trip something would surely be done to give the good people of Clear Fork a break. There are many of our most productive farms located along that terrible stretch of muddy road and progressive farmers who pay taxes. They raise produce for market but virtually half the crop each year are deprived of an outlet for their produce because of bad roads and high water. Wake up, officers, do something.

FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

By EVELYN WEST
Rowan County Health Nurse

In our last article, we talked of the many services of the Rowan County Health Department. We shall, from time to time, outline some of these services.

The Honar Crippled Children's Hospital in Louisville, has a clinic in Lexington, Ky., to take care of the crippled children throughout the Eastern part of the state. This clinic is open to all the crippled children of our county. The field worker from the clinic along with county nurse contact these children in schools and elsewhere. These children have been crippled from birth, infantile paralysis, accidents or tuberculosis of the bone.

Cases of these children are carefully investigated, and those not able to pay for this service are given the very best attention. These unfortunate children are examined, and X-rayed by the staff of Doctors in Lexington, and Louisville, who are specialists in this type of work.

After the examinations they are measured, and fitted with braces, or plaster casts applied to help straighten the bones in crooked backs, arms, legs, and club feet, etc. Many are kept in the hospital for surgical operations, whenever necessary, and are taught helpful exercises to develop their twisted bodies.

Each month clinics are held on the first and third Friday. The County Health Nurse visits these children at least once a month to see that they are in good health, and accompanies these children to the clinics every two to four months.

We have one small child in our county who has been under the care of the crippled children's clinic for over four years. When this child was born he had one club foot. When he tried to walk he walked on the ankle of the crippled foot. Since he has been under this care, and by the aid of plaster casts, and braces on his shoes, he is able to walk on his foot. Some day he will be able to walk without the aid of the braces.

There are twenty-five children in Rowan County who are being taken care of by the Crippled Children's Clinic in Lexington.

ALTHOUGH Jimmy Wilson's career as pilot of the Chicago Cubs can't be marked down as a shining success, his voluntary departure from managerial ranks wasn't greeted with demonstrations of frenzied joy. For Jimmy was well-liked here.

Quite a few critics point to Wilson's record as a big league manager and insist loudly that he has been a failure. The best answer to those critics is the attitude of the players working for Jim. They voice 100 per cent approval of their former manager.

That approval was summed up quite succinctly by Roy Johnson, named acting coach upon Wilson's withdrawal: "I've been working for
