AIRPLANE OUTPUT:

Nearing Peak While the War Production board set up the mechanism for guiding conversion of wartime industry to civilian manufacture upon the cancellation of military contracts, the war and navy departments reportedly considered reduction in airplane output in 1945. Indicating that the U. S.'s record-breaking airplane production will have reached its peak by this year, considerable value reportedly will be on heavier bombing planes, with other features of the program centered on replacement and development of new types for particular fields.

Reports of the prospective trimming of airplane production dovetailed with WPB's reconversion studies, since 2% million workers presently are engaged in the cancellation of military contracts. The approach was made through a close friend of Governor Stassen who came to see Governor Dewey the other day and suggested that while he couldn't speak outright for Stassen, the Stassen forces might be willing to get on the Dewey bandwagon. Stassen could be assured of the No. 2 spot on the Republican ticket.

WOMEN'S APPAREL: Shipment Assailed

Holding a seersucker dress in his hand, Rep. Hartley (N. J.) stood up in the House of Representatives and declared that the garment was one of 6,000,000 to be shipped abroad under lend-lease and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration while American women were unable to obtain clothing of comparable value here.

Pointing to two other dresses which he said were the most expensive that could be purchased in New York, Rep. Hartley said: "The three dresses were inspected by the Hatch textile research bureau which reported the export garments have a thread count of 80 x 87.2 per square inch as compared with 84.8 x 64.8 and 88 x 78 for the other two."

PEARL HARBOR: Kimmel Would Testify

With two congressional committees working on measures to bring Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short to trial before June, 1945, for the Pearl Harbor debacle, the admirals' wives, Mrs. Kimmel and Mrs. Short, are being urged to testify. The admiral's wife is being urged to testify since the whole story of the catastrophe has not been told.

UNIONS: Sounds Warning

Declaring that public opinion has become inflamed against wildcat strikes, the UAW President, Walter Reuther, said in a warning delivered by embattled U. S. troops overseas that wildcat strikes are being received by embattled U. S. troops overseas. Reuther said that wildcat strikes are being received by embattled U. S. troops overseas.

AGRICULTURE: 1945 Goals

Because of smaller feed stocks, the War Food Administration report, which is considering smaller meat goals for 1945 while maintaining the high level of feed crops. Reuther said that wildcat strikes are being received by embattled U. S. troops overseas.

FERTILIZE PONDS

Fish grow bigger and faster when they get plenty of the right food, just like any other living thing, scientists have found. An abundant growth of water plants which support the animal life on which fish feed, can be stimulated by putting fertilizers in ponds and lakes, it was found. Commercial preparations and materials were used.

Business World

The 13,274 commercial banks covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation had net profits last year of $338,000,000, a 4% per cent increase over 1942. Interest on government securities constituted the largest item in the income. Chief reason for the higher return was said to be a substantial improvement in current operating costs of banks.

WORLD MONEY

Invitations have been sent to representatives of 15 nations by President Roosevelt to a conference on postwar financial problems to be held in Bretton Woods, N. H., beginning July 1. Chief proposals for discussion are expected to be the international monetary plan, in which each nation would have an equal vote, and a fund to stabilize the value of its currency fixed on a gold basis and fluctuations in gold value would be restricted. More than 30 nations have accepted the plan in principle.

Chinese Officials Build Hopes on Vice President's Trip; True Economic Pledge of Country Known Only Recently.

circulating stories no matter how true they might be. Finally, however, the truth came to be more and more widely disseminated, and the papers and magazines were filled with stories from writers returning from the front. To some degree, the Chinese now realize that too much censorship has hurt the truth.

Threatened With Collapse He served to help rather than hurt. In any case, the time came when something had to be done. That the officers with collapse right at the moment when bases within their territory were becoming vital in the final assault on Japan.

New, two things have happened which have considerably eased the strain, and these two nations who have each other so much and between whom such a reservoir of goodwill was, as Willie called it, built up, are both breathing easier.

One thing is the turn of the tide of battle in Burma for which the credit goes to "Uncle Joe" Stillew as leader of the Chinese-American forces. The other is the fact that the Chinese have taken to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Today, Chinese officials are building hopes on that visit. They believe that when the vice president returns, he will be able to stimulate an understanding in America of what they consider China's greatest affliction—economic chaos.

Nobody claims that China's troubles are limited to her economic situation. Some observers would put even the war, which is bad enough, into the political dimension which she cannot do without.

That it is not only necessary to describe their internal situation although printing press money has been put at the disposal of the nation in millions of dollars and that Chinese financial resources have been scraped to the bone.

The True Story

One Chinese official said to me: "We could get a bare 3,000 tons of goods a month from the outside, to be sold at prices controlled by the government. It would make the people's suffering in the world. Twenty big cargo planes making regular trips would be enough to carry it."

BREWSTER AXED

The navy has decided that the controversial Brewster Aeronautical Corporation will be discontinued. The corporation was set up to produce the Navy's new fighter plane.

This is good news for the navy, as it means that the navy will not have to pay for the losses of airplanes as less than expected and that the navy will not have to pay for the losses of airplanes as less than expected.

SINGLE COMMAND: Urged in Congress

Combining of the army, navy and air corps under a single department, and creation of a unified staff of various service officers under leadership of one officer who in turn would be under command of the president, was proposed in a measure by Sen. Lister Hill (Ala.).

MENTY GO-ROUND

Mr. Harold Hill's wife of the Ohio senator, complained that her husband's inside coat pocket bulged out in his pants. So he now has his belt put on inside pocket on both sides, to distribute the burden.

It never leaked out at the time but, on December 7, 1943, the story was written over a possible token attack on FDR's Harbor as an unnecessary risk. The story was alerted for fear the Jews would report their original performance.

There is a shortage of metal curtain rods, yet for two generations we have not seen such elaborate window treatments. The three ways shown in center and below seem to be exactly right with the Victorian furniture that is gaining in popularity all the time.

Each piece of the draped valance shown here is cut separately. The diagram at the left gives the dimensions of the end joints. The side aways cross in the middle, as shown at center, and overlaps them. The measurements of this center swing are given below, but these will vary according to the size of the window.

NOTE—This is the third of a series of indoor adaptations of period curtain fashions. Formal swing valances mounted on a valance board are illustrated with step-by-step directions in BOOK 11. The last normal type draped in one piece is shown in BOOK 11. Book 11 is available under direct order.

Beneficial Lightning

Around the earth in an average day there are some 44,000 lightning flashes. Collectively they release from the air each year about 100 million tons of valuable fixed nitrogen which is deposited by rain in the soil. The value of this gift from the heavens goes far beyond the 100 million tons of destructive damage of lightning.

Lighten Dark Skin

That is the reason that about overnight, the atmosphere surrounding Sino-American contacts in Washington has taken on a more hopeful and optimistic tone. The Chinese have been greatly helped by the success of the Chinese troops fighting under General Stilwell and the Chinese offensive moving out of China toward a contact with Stilwell's army.

With Ernie Pyle at the Front How a B-26 Bombing Crew Spends Its Working Hours

Fighting an Air War Means Routine; Men 'Work' About Two Hours a Day

By Ernie Pyle

A B-26 BASE IN ENGLAND.—"My crew" of two officers and three enlisted men have been flying together as team in their B-26 bomber since before leaving America more than a year ago.

Every one of them is now far beyond his allotted number of combat missions.

Every one of them is perfectly willing to go through another complete tour of missions if he can just be home for a month. I believe the same thing is true of almost everybody at this station. And it's a new experience for me, because most of the combat men I've been with before wanted to get home as soon as they could when they went home.

Every one of "my crew" has the distinguished flying cross and other decorations. Ernie Pyle with clusters. They have had six through their plane numerous times, but most of them have not been hit. They expect it to be rough when the invasion starts, but they're anxious to get it over with.

In the past they have usually flown one mission a day over France, with occasionally two as the tempo of the spring bombings has increased. During the invasion they will probably be flying three and sometimes four missions a day.

They will be in the air before daylight and they will come home from their last mission after dark. They will go for days and maybe weeks without seeing their families, and during that time, making hurriedly between missions, making a few hours of worry sleep at night, and being up at 11 or 12 o'clock hours before daylight to shuttle back and forth across the Channel. They and thousands of others like them.

Fighting purely an air war—as this one here has been up to now—in some ways is a lot like it is like running a big business.

Usually a B-26 crewman "works" only about two hours a day. He returns to a life that is almost normal one. There is no ground war to confuse him or distract him. He depends on how much they like him.

Because of this it is easy to get bored. An air crewman has lots of spare time on his hands. Neither the officers nor the enlisted men have any duties whatever other than flying.

When not flying they either loaf around their own beds, writing letters or playing poker or just sitting in front of the fire talking, or else they take leave for a few hours and go to the nearby villages. They can go to dances or sit in the local pubs and talk.

And every two weeks they get two days' leave. That again is something new to us who have been in the Mediterranean for a long time. They do get leave to go to rest camps, and even to town once in a while if there is a town, but there's no regular or regular rest camps. These boys up here get their two days' leave twice a month just like clockwork. They can do anything they want with it.

Most of them go to London. Others go to nearby cities where they have made acquaintances. They go to dances and night clubs and shows. They paint the town and blow off steam as they do. Some of them even go to the movies. They make friends among the British people, and they look up these same friends on the next trip to town.

They do a thousand and one things on their leave, and it does them good. Also, it gradually creates an understanding between the two peoples that the other is all right in his own peculiar way.

After a certain number of missions a crew is usually given two weeks' leave. Most of them spend it traveling. Our fliers often tour Scotland on these leaves. It's amazing the number of men who have been to Edinburgh and the lowlands. They have visited Wales and North Ireland and the rugged southwestern coast, and they know the Midlands and the little town of England.

These two-week leaves don't enable them to get home for a trip back to America. That's all they live for. That's what they talk about most of the time. A goal is just across every day.

Crewmen Include Student, 'Cowboy From Arizona'

Speaking Sports By Bob Johnson

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

GENE Sarazen, one of the few professional golfers who has his ability and willingness to express himself, is emphatic in the belief that golf is due for some of the greatest changes ever known to a sport.

He made his feelings quite clear recently upon the completion of a tour of army camps.

"They're using golf now as a main feature of a program for the rehabilitation of the soldier, and that means we'll have thousands of new golfers around the landscape. With the influx of new players, the great change is bound to come."

Specifically, Sarazen stated that the days of swanky country clubs, with costly initiation fees and stiff dress codes will be a thing of the past within a few years after the war is over.

He said that a comparative few country clubs will be left. The rest will be brought to the little fellow, and the few remaining private clubs will have a few years after the war is over.

Gene Sarazen to encourage public courses to provide "leaders" for membership rolls. He is setting up a committee in this matter. Quite a few of the ultra-rich courses are almost devoid of players and only a few millionaires could afford to keep them open.

The Private Courses This is not a criticism of private courses. There is no reason to criticize them. But the handwriting is on the wall. Public courses are almost devoid of players and only a few millionaires could afford to keep them open.

The most serious blow to expensive golf layouts came with the depression. The rich failed to get their clubs and the business of many clubs were exhausted. Membership declined and were slow to get back on their feet.

Another change is due—the diet of playing the game will be reduced. "There is no reason why a set of clubs for the average golfer should cost more than $25. The clubs have to be Mickey-banded clubs. What's wrong with glass heads, plastic and things like that? The price of clubs have to be cut. The new crop of golfers will demand these things—and get them."

About Leo Diegel

Sarazen's reference to golf's role in the rehabilitation of the soldier brings to mind the case of Leo Diegel, another well known professional.

Diegel has suggested a plan for the rehabilitation of the wounded and the mentally ill in the PGA, and the paid golfers' union. His plan came from the British, who have found that golf has a very real therapeutic value that does not exist in any other sport.

"It won't be long before we'll have our share of these cases," reasoned Diegel, "so why not be prepared for the inevitable?"

The result is that the first golf course designed for convalescents is now nearing completion. It is a nine-hole course on the grounds of the Valley Forge Golf and Country Club, Philadelphia. The hospital is government owned, but the government supplied only the land. Benelli golf competitions were held to raise money and it wasn't long before Diegel and his helpers had raised enough funds to build the course.

Diegel is the sparking of the PGA's efforts to nationalize the idea. The plan is simple. The PGA would serve as the planning committee. The clearing house — and a golf course would take over, just as in Philadelphia. Once the units are completed they would become a government enterprise.

Very little thought has been given for sports as a healing agency. The emphasis has been on sports for morale. The government is beginning to realize the value of athletic as a rehabilitation agent and several programs have been put into effect.

But it wasn't until Leo Diegel got underway that golf got any official attention.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

Wedding Bells Bring Out Brides, Beauty and Gayety

Lynn Says

The Bride's Day: She's the center of attraction. Let everything work toward that end. Flowers and linens for wedding repart are so much a part of the wedding cake let it be the primary decoration—in the center of the table.

For the family sit-down breakfast, the bride and groom sit together at the head of the table.

Strawberry Ice-cream. 4 cups sifted, uncooked sugar. Dash of salt. 1/4 cup fresh, crushed strawberries. 3 teaspoons lemon juice (about). Add sugar and salt to crushed fruit. Mix well. Then add lemon juice until consistency to spread thinly on cake.

Butter Frosting. Malted Grapefruit Juice. Chicken Pot Pie. Olives. Colored Cakes. Sweet Pickles. Finger Rolls. Wedding Cake. Ice Cream.

Here comes the bride! There's nothing so rare as a day in June, nothing so glamorous as a wedding. Even in these days of frugal living, quick-as-a-wink weddings, everything is made as nice as possible for this is the happiest day of her life.

Weddings should have beauty and gaiety, even when purses are slim, for when the boys are doing their job in the far corners of the earth and the girls are left behind, they should have the one thing that keeps them going—a bundle of happy memories tied with a white satin bow.

So let the linens for the table be white and fresh smelling, the silver polished and gleaming, the china white and the glass clear. Use only for "best" because that's what a wedding is all about. The girls are left behind, they should have the one thing that keeps them going—a bundle of happy memories tied with a white satin bow.

Three kinds of repart are usually used for weddings. The first, and should be light and very simple: 1 1/2 cups gelatin. 2 tablespoons cold water. 1/4 cup lemon juice. 1/2 teaspoon sugar. 1/2 teaspoon salt. 1/2 cup apricot jam. 1/2 cup seedless grapes. 1/2 cup red cherries. 1/2 cup cranberries.

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt. When mixture begins to harden, fold in fruit. Pour into mold and chill. Serve on lettuce with salad dressing into which whipped cream or chilled evaporated milk has been added.

Bride's Shower Cake. 1 1/2 cups egg whites (12 whites). 1/2 cup butter (soft). 1 teaspoon cream of tartar. 1/4 cup cream. 1/2 cup sugar. 1/2 cup almond extract. 1/2 cup vanilla extract.

Place egg whites into large bowl, sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over mixture and mix together with several strokes of flat wire whip. Sugar. Sift flour once, measure, add 1/2 cup sugar and mix together 4 more times. Beat egg whites with whisk, using soft, gentle motion that keeps whisk beneath surface. Continue beating until white (stiff) peaks when drawn across surface of egg whites. Add remaining sugar gradually, beating as you mix and mixture begins to form slightly rounded surfaces when white is released. Do not overbeat. Add the flavoring. Remove from oven and invert on rack over a sheet 1 hour or until cold. Remove from pan. Let stand 12 hours or longer before cutting. Ice top and sides with

... she cooks as well as she writes...

... and the results in both cases are perfectly delightful for 225,000 homes that take the Courier-Journal

CISSY GREGG, the home-maker's gym guide to gastronomic adventures, has endeared herself to every woman of the Courier-Journal family of readers. Into each home-tested recipe goes a dash of her sprightly personality seasoned with good sense gleaned from careful study of current marketing conditions. Cissy's articles adorn the pages of favorite recipe books and are passed on to friends.

Of good old Kentucky stock, blue-eyed Cissy grew up in Cynthiana amid scores of cousins... and came to us by way of the University of Kentucky wearing a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics and Agriculture.

Full of neighborly chattiness, she moves with hoiden grace among her array of culinary equipment... has always been the prima donna of her own kitchen, and says that no amount of theory can take the place of practical knowledge of short cuts in cooking routines. Woman readers having a first fling at cooking, due to scarcity of domestic help, find Cissy an oracle of wisdom.

Cissy's husband, Lt. Colonel Edd Gregg, now in active service overseas, was a peace-time architect. He designed their charming hilltop home where Cissy and the dog, Pat, an Irish terrier, wait for letters and Edd's ultimate return. For never-failing interest in the problems of her readers, whose letters fill the mail pouches and keep The Courier-Journal's switchboard humming with calls, Cissy's friends think she deserves a citation.

More Eggs

(Continued From Page One) said, adding that aggressive merchandising has thus proved an important factor in increasing egg consumption. "For instance," he asserted, "records of A. & P. Food Stores, one of the larger purchasers of Kentucky eggs, show this company bought 942,351 dozen eggs in the state last year, more than doubling their 1942 purchases and paying Kentucky producers $267,712 more than during the previous year."

Even greater cooperation by distributors and consumers is needed now, the poultry official said, to assure farmers a profitable market for their surplus production during the next few weeks and thus insure that a feast will not be followed by a famine. "Each of us can help," he concluded, "by eating more eggs during this period. Remember they are a 'whole' food, complete with proteins, essential vitamins, fats and minerals."

THIS AMERICAN SOLDIER GAVE HIS HAND

... Will You LEND Dollars To Your Country To Assure Victory And Peace ?

THE sketch above was made in an Army Hospital within a day's journey of this town. The subject is a young man who fought several months in the swamps and jungles of Guadalcanal. Then a Jap grenade blew off his right hand and he came back home.

Now he faces the heart-breaking task of learning to dress and shave and feed himself and earn a living, with the aid of a wooden hand. This lad is one of scores of thousands recently mutilated or killed in defending the United States and safeguarding the American way of life for all the rest of us.

How can you, as a civilian, help win this war in which everyone has a huge stake? How can you show your appreciation to the men in the armed services?

By oversubscribing to the Fifth War Loan, which starts June 12 and ends July 8. This Loan is to provide funds to carry on the war to quick victory. The goal is $16,000,000,000, of which $6,000,000,000 will come from the sale of bonds to individuals. That includes everybody.

Of course, most people have been buying bonds since Pearl Harbor. It hasn't hurt. It hasn't meant sacrifice. It has meant only that the bond buyers have saved surplus earnings at a profit . . . $4 return for each $3 invested.

This Fifth War Loan demands extra effort . . . greater economy . . . downright stinginess with yourself . . . so you can put more dollars into bonds.

Remember the boys who gave their lives at Bougainville, on the Tarawa beaches, in the Casino streets, in the skies over Germany. Remember those butchered at Bataan and murdered in Jap prison camps.

And remember the lads who have come back to our hospitals—crippled, blind and insane—from those grim battle places. They really need you! In their name, for your country, for your children's future—buy more War Bonds!

OLD FASHIONED AMERICANISM IS FAVORED BY WASHINGTON BEED MADISON is the capital city of Wisconsin, has about 70,000 population, and is the birthplace of the "progressive" movement. It is the heart of a state that has done more experimenting in government than any other commonwealth in the Union. Recently the people of Madison became agitated about whether or not the city should own and operate the local gas and electric company. They decided to hold an election to settle the question. The voting campaign was considerably warmer than the weather. Hours of radio oratory and columns of newspaper publicity were devoted to the subject. When the votes were counted the score was 12,940 to 6,885 against municipal ownership. To many Americans interested in public affairs, this result looks like a political and economic straw in the wind. What The Farmers Think CROSSLY, Incorporated, is a well-known organization which gathers information for manufacturers, radio stations, magazines, newspapers, etc. For example, the manufacturer of Such-and-such hand lotion, who is spending $2,000,000 a year on radio advertising, may hire Crossley to find out how many million people in the U.S.A. listen to the entertainment program that goes with the advertising. And Crossley gets the facts with amazing accuracy. Last winter Crossley was engaged by the Association of National Advertisers (representing the biggest firms in the country) and thirty-six leading farm publications to learn what American farmers think of business. Two questions were submitted to a cross section of farmers, on every economic level from poor to wealthy, in all parts of the country. For Private Enterprise THE first question: "Which do you think would do a better job of running business - private management or the Government?" The second: "The Government now owns many large manufacturing plants. When the war ends should it sell them to manufacturers or concede them to manufacturers?" competition with business?" Just completed, the survey shows 78 per cent favor private management, 16 per cent favor Government, and 6 per cent have no opinion. To the second question, 81 per cent say the Government should sell the plants to manufacturers, 15 per cent favor Government operation in competition with business, and 4 per cent have no opinion. Seems To Be Good Sign THESE figures greatly impressed the people who paid for the survey. They have published a book covering all the details, it makes interesting reading for men and women who wonder what this country is coming to. Boiled down to the bottom of the pan, both the survey and the Madison, Wis., municipal ownership elections indicate a healthy trend away from socialism, government ownership, and control of the American people by bureaucratic management. It is a good sign to citizens who have been disturbed these last ten years by the spectacle of federal politicians to cite one instance), beginning with T.V.A., seeking to socialize the electric power industry. To Safeguard Freedoms THESE politicians have spent hundreds of millions of dollars of tax money to build hydro-electric plants and transmission lines, largely to duplicate services rendered by private companies, and force such companies out of business. They have financed local communities to use power from government projects, which they have left no stone unturned to establish tax-exempt government monopolies not subject to local and state regulation and taxation. This has meant a steadily growing national tax bill, with higher and higher taxes for the average citizen. It is especially burdensome for families in ordinary circumstances—such as the average citizen—owning a wife and two or three kids. To safeguard our personal freedoms, let us all hope the trend away from government ownership becomes stronger day by day! An advertisement of Kentucky Utilities Company
