The Kentucky Department of Child Welfare announced this week the appointment of Loren Richter as superintendent of Morehead Girls' Center. He succeeds George W. Wilson who has been assigned to head the Kentucky Children's Home at Louisville.

Richter, a native of Kansas, comes to Morehead from Lexington where he just completed work for his Master of Social Work degree. While completing his work at the University of Kentucky, Richter also served the Burgin Christian Church as minister.

Easterday of St. Louis, Mo., and their three daughters, Karol, Karen and Katherine, moved into the administrative home on July 1.

Lou Nagy, assistant superintendent at Morehead Girls' Center, has been with the facility since mid-June, coming here from New York State where he was with the Department of Child Welfare. He received his Master of Social Work degree at the University of Louisville last year. He and his wife, Maureen, have two sons.

The new administrator has formerly been superintendent of Barkley State Boys' Camp at Gilbertville, assistant superintendent for treatment at Kentucky Village Treatment Center in Lexington, and psychiatric chaplain of Western State Hospital at Hopkinsville.

He holds a Master of Divinity and a Master of Pastoral Psychology degree from Vanderbilt University and is a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve.

Rowan Students Will Need Certificates Of Immunity

Students who will be enrolled in Rowan County schools this fall will be required to have certificates of immunity from the Rowan County Health Department or their family physicians, according to a statement issued this week by Neil Gurley, program coordinator of the Rowan County Health Department.

State law, according to Gurley, requires that all grade and high school students enrolling in school this fall have proof of immunization against diphtheria, tetanus, polio and measles.

Regularly scheduled immunization clinics at the local Health Department are held every Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and on Thursday from 1 to 4 p.m. (with the exception of Aug. 7 and 9). Students receiving immunizations at the health department must have written permission from parents or guardians, according to Gurley.

The immunizations may be obtained either at the Health Department or from family physicians.

The local Health Department official said . . . People have become lax about immunizations since there have been no epidemics of diphtheria, tetanus, polio and measles in Kentucky for a number of years. Gurley continued by saying, "The immunity level is low and people have become complacent."

According to information from the Rowan Health Department, Kentucky recorded five deaths last year attributed to measles. Figures also show that Kentucky's last reported polio case was in 1968; however, in Connecticut last year 11 persons, ranging in ages from 7 to 18 were stricken by the disease. The Health Department also reported that the U.S. Immunization Survey shows the number of polio protected children from 1 to 4 years has been dropping since 1965 and only two-thirds of all children in the country now are adequately immunized against this disease.

Gurley emphasized the importance of keeping immunization records current or up to date to prevent epidemics of the diseases in Rowan County.

Principal Hired By 1 To 0 Vote

The roll call vote — Aye 1, No 0. By this unique and perhaps unprecedented vote, Clarence Adkins was hired Wednesday as Principal of Elliott County High, which was until this week Sandy Hook High School.

The entire Board of Education, consisting of five members, were present, but four didn't vote, although there was a second to the nomination for employing Adkins.

The Elliott Board voted at the same session by 5-0 to delay until January the hiring of a Superintendent.

set at Wednesday night's session, but only because the number of teachers under his supervision will not be known until federal funding is announced.

On the other matter of hiring, discussion was brought to the floor by Mrs. Simmons on hiring of a superintendent for the term beginning July 1, 1974. Though Mrs. Davis' contract does not expire until then, action could be taken anytime during the current fiscal year to rehire her.

The superintendent said two board members were in favor of acting on the matter now but a third, for personal reasons want to delay the vote until January.

Vote of confidence in returning to the position with a vote then, she said, "I trust it will all come out all right at that time."

MSU Freshmen, Parents On Campus

Entering freshmen and their parents are visiting Morehead State University this week for the annual Orientation and Pre-Registration Conference.

The purpose of the visit is to familiarize parents and students with the campus and the university's academic offerings, said Dr. Morris K. Caudill, MSU's dean of undergraduate studies.

In addition to campus tours and other programs, the new students receive individual assistance in preparing class schedules and registering for the fall semester.

. . . but now a Farm Bureau Homeowners costs less

Who said, "Everything costs more than it used to?"

As of July 1, Farm Bureau Homeowners insurance costs less — a full 10 per cent less — than it did this last year.

We believe the fact that land prices and building costs remain on the upswing makes this reduction in rates especially good news. And the reduced price still brings the same blanket protection, insuring against fire, theft and other damage, personal property and family liability.

So, whether you are a time-honored friend of Farm Bureau, or a brand new member family, we hope you will ask your local agent about our new, lower, Homeowners rates.

Who knows? He just might have another pleasant surprise for you.

Day-by-day get-out doors, and editorial observation of the publisher of this newspaper.

As most of you dear paid-up readers and newsstand purchasers (also our beloved advertisers) recognize this column has always been a mixture of editorial comment, little (but really big) things about us average citizens which otherwise wouldn't get in the paper, humor, religion, community promotion, advice, criticism, praise, and many top-down things that a publisher (not just a writer) in our community comes across in day by day dealings with the public.

Some of you will think that we write about sex more than anything else. If you laid a line gauge (measuring stick) in the newspaper field on all back columns you'd find that sex has consumed a minimum of space. The truth of the matter is that the sex jokes we pass along to our readers reflect in their thoughts more than the profound subjects discussed.

Mark Twain said that the weather is the most discussed subject in the world but nobody ever does anything about it. We say that sex is the most thought about subject in the world, and people do do something about it.

A young married woman applied to the personnel office of Barton distillery and was handed one of their standard application forms. The name, address, date of birth, etc. Opposite the question "Sex?" she wrote "Almost every night."

This newspaper has editorially complained, vigorously as members of Board of Regents, like at Morehead State University must divulge their net worth, income, etc. under the new disclosure law.

A close friend with whom we may have more than a casual relationship, Elizabeth Spalding, Editor of the Kentucky Standard, one of the Kentucky's "very" best newspapers has the following comment in her July 8 column "What Have You..."

"The Attorney General has ruled that Kentucky's new income disclosure law covering officeholders, includes the trustees of the University of Kentucky, and the Board of Regents of Eastern Western, Morehead and Murray Universities, Kentucky State College and Northern Kentucky College."

These appointive positions carry no pay. The members really contribute a public service donating their time and knowledge. "In our opinion the next Legislature should repeal this section because the time will come when it will become next to impossible to get qualified people to serve."

Editor Spalding also wrote: "With the high price of just about everything we eat, some people remarked that I wouldn't eat horse meat even if it was Secretariat."

Before writing about the American Festival, focused this year in Washington on Kentucky, we have a question: "Have you ever been to the Smithsonian Institution?"

Well, there's no such place as the Smithsonian Institute. We thought we had been to the Smithsonian Institute six or seven times, starting as a young boy on my first trip to the nation's capital, had passed by it in an automobile several hundred times, and have written about the Smithsonian Institute all our adult life.

The name is not The Smithsonian Institution. It's The Smithsonian Institution. You're never too old to learn something new... or that you have been in error all your life. We would have taken the witness stand in Judge Austin Alfrey's Morehead Police Court and swore that the place was the Smithsonian Institute, and could have passed a lie detector test that it was the Smithsonian Institution.

How have you referred to this famous place? - Institute or Institution?

Along with several members of the news and broadcast media this year around here, more than you may think Publisher was the guest of Governor Wendell Ford Thursday at the American Festival, spotlighting Kentucky, held by the reflecting pool of the Lincoln Memorial, and sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution.

Rev. Buell Kazee, long pastor of the First Baptist Church in Morehead, was featured on the following guitar playing etc. program every day. Because of personal friendships with the fact that Buell Kazee is the preacher who ever married this Publisher, we headed first for his show, a featured part of the festival.

We were informed that Rev. Kazee was ill, and unable to participate.

At this time we received a pat on the back and turning around immediately recognized two transcribed words: "Pork chops." Dr. Alie W. Holbrook and his good (still pretty, too) wife, the former Anna Jane Day.

They were also looking for Buell Kazee. Instead they found this Publisher. The Holbrooks may have been disappointed because Buell Kazee can certainly preach a better sermon, play a banjo and sing songs better, and is qualified to perform marriage ceremonies and officiate at funerals which the author of this column is not. But can't he better run a newspaper than Buell Kazee, and also know (and tell) better jokes on sex, and otherwise.

Dr. Holbrook has been a veterinarian with the U.S. Department of Agriculture for 18 years, and his work has carried him from Mexico and that place in California where they raise most of the head lettuce in U.S.A. that is selling under the Nixon price freeze at 49 cents a head.

Allie and Anna Jane now live at College Park, Maryland. The best information they imparted is that which just comes natural with him. The Washington crowds ate it up. The festival had a Joe Creason Corner, and our favorite columnist and old buddy friend Joe of the Louisville Courier-Journal was every- present. One of his columns had been blown up, and folks by the thousands stopped to read it and shake hands with Mr. Creason. Several stalks of green tobacco were hanging on the outside of the press tent near Creason's Corner. Joe told us that two little black boys stopped to look at it. One inquired: "What kind of a weed is that?" The other replied, "Them's cigarette plants."

Some further information and our impression of the week long festival - The Kentucky exhibit broke all attendance records. The Director of the Smithsonian Institution said the attendance record from helicopter on July 4 was 350,000. Texas was the first state to be featured, and four other precedents Kentucky on an annual basis.

The bourbon, tobacco and race horse exhibits were excellent and informative as were the crafts such as pottery making, quilting, sorghum mill, ham curing, saddle making and the like. The saddle maker at the Festival made the saddle for Secretariat!

The musical part (several shows, many going at the same time) were almost all the hillbilly or mountain music type; or gospel singer's rendering hymns in high nasal fashion. This part of the exhibit portrayed Kentucky like the Lil Abner comic strip. We must confess that every show attracted a large crowd and the applause was resounding. The music did not portray Kentucky as it is today, but as it was in the backwoods before the Civil War.

As an example of the latter we overheard the bartender at the Kentucky Society Dinner in the Smithsonian Institution remark: "I've never been to Kentucky, but I intend to go there one of these days. The first thing I want to see are the snaker handlers."

It should be emphasized that the Smithsonian people wanted the musical shows this way. If we had been in charge this music and the snaker handlers with the Stephen Foster story.

Adding the pluses and the minuses, it was a great week for Kentucky at the nation's next statement. The exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution was the best presented at the Kentucky Festival by the bourbon industry, and the best speech on an hour long radio program came from Thompson Willett, president of The Willett Distilling Company. He mentioned Kentucky's 30 wet counties as "oases" and predicted a bright future for the industry if the government gives its support rather than bogging it down with regulations and interference.

Mr. Willett also said that with government cooperation, bourbon made in Kentucky could go a long way toward balancing the alarming foreign trade deficit.

We ran into Edman Thomas from adjoining Fleming County at the Festival. We asked him what he was doing in Washington and he replied, "up here with them that's a-plain."

Most of us are egoists and when something comes to pass that we foresaw or predicted, cackle "Well, you'd see."

Long before cigarette advertising was banned from radio and television, this column said that sales would increase after the ban was made effective. Our conclusion was that all the cigarette ads of pretty girls, Marlboro country, handsome cowboys etc. was more than offset by the smattering of ads at the stations were forced to carry which portrayed, in substance: "Cigarettes will kill you." Our prediction that sales would increase has proven correct, although the cigar manufacturers haven't passed on to the grower or the customer all the millions of dollars they saved by not advertising on TV.

When the meat shortage was publicized we said it was a hoax, and pointed out: 1. Upgraded health regulations forced out of business all the small packers such as Ryan's at nearby Maysville; 2. The packers that were big enough to conform to the standards, such as Fisher's in Louisville, were bought up by the big four of the industry, and 3. The "big four" purposely and knowingly connived to create a meat shortage scare so they could raise prices. We also wrote at that time that we had heard a rumor that the big four packers had never been short of meat. It is now conclusive there wasn't and isn't a meat shortage, but the big four achieved their goal - high prices and big profits for themselves.

Following the meat shortage fiasco came the headlines of an impending natural gas crisis. The 11 major suppliers of natural gas insisted on an application to the Federal Power Commission to raise their prices at the well-head 30 percent; and the Washington Post computed, which has never been denied, that this would give the suppliers an 85 percent of their investment AFTER TAXES.

When the news hit of the impending gasoline shortage, and the price for this fuel may be increased to a dollar a gallon the major petroleum companies had connived in violation of the anti-trust laws, called "strolling through the park"; 2. The majors had for years been selling what they termed "surplus" gasoline to the independents at 9 cents to 9 cents a gallon cheaper than their own service stations, and the service stations bearing their emblem and brand were unhappy and had resorted to the courts; and 3. The majors were going to kill all the independents, and at the same time raise the price of gasoline out of all competitive business proportion. This week the Federal Trade Commission released the results of a two year study, and it said in different words exactly what this newspaper printed months ago. We quote verbatim, as follows, from that report:

"In the many levels in which they interfere, the majors demonstrate a clear pattern for avoiding competition through mutual cooperation and the use of predatory practices."

The oil majors have behaved in a similar fashion as would a classical monopolist: They have attempted to increase profits by restricting output.

The following statement may sound strong to many of our readers, and it comes from our heart which is sad: unless the President (and Congress) move to curb big business and direct their thinking and actions to the wage earner and the little businessman then this nation will fail. Our conclusion is based on all history.

Doesn't it strike you that soon after Mr. Nixon was elected for his second term that all these shortages, high prices etc. developed? Was big business and special interests geared to election day, all frantically mad to make billions of dollars and to tell with the people?

Lord, help us workers' issues because our government has forgotten us!

While we were in Washington Thursday a Capitol Plaza policeman on a fine looking horse (must have been bred in Kentucky) reigned up, dismounted, sort of saluted this Publisher and said: "I'm so glad to see you again Senator." "Let's see, you were here under the Truman administration." "Without hesitating we replied, "Yes, that's right; and I'm glad to again see you, and you look just as healthy as always." As we walked away our fellow newsmen chuckled, and two of them called us "Senator" the rest of the day.

We have often said in this column that a newspaper can have a thousand details correct, but make one little error, and the

Fleming-Mason Annual Meet Publisher's Pen

Will Include Business, Fun

The stage is set for the 35th Anniversary Annual Meeting of Fleming-Mason Rural Electric Co-operative Corporation, Tuesday, July 17, the "big top" will be moving in and erected on the Co-op grounds on the western city limits of Flemingsburg and at 6 o'clock registration of members will begin.

Each year since the Co-op was incorporated in 1938 with 329 members, annual meetings have been held and at the close of World War II, they have been held outdoors for the most part. Now with over 11,000 members, thousands are expected at this year's Anniversary meeting.

Huston Delaney, Manager of the cooperative, states that this year's meeting will be a "family affair" and that all members, their families and all friends of the cooperative are urged to attend.

Featured at this year's meeting are such crowd pleasing events as: "buckets of light bulbs" for each member registering, brochures containing the financial report and other pertinent information, door prizes including a winner's choice of an electric stove or refrigerator, the "Miss Fleming-Mason RECO" contest, a bicycle for some lucky boy and girl and coloring books for the little ones.

Professional entertainment this year will be provided by Stan Hitchcock and Marti Brown, billed as Nashville's brightest new stars.

The business session will include the election of three directors for three-year terms. Nominated for re-election are Mrs. Lottie Whaley, J.E. Smith, Jr. and Clyde Cannon, three experienced directors and rural electric leaders.

FOLKLIFE FESTIVAL - Thursday, July 5, was Governor's day at the Smithsonian Institutions Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C., this year featuring Kentucky's art, industry and culture. Gov. Wendell Ford spent most of the day on the Mall between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument where Kentucky's exhibits have been set up.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENTS 25 YEARS OLD - Gov. Wendell Ford told the 25th anniversary banquet of the Kentucky Department of Commerce that the state's goals for the next 25 years should be job and income levels that rival the most affluent states.

who won the republican nomination for Rowan County Sheriff without primary opposition could be disqualified for failure to file an election expense report with the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance. We think that Colborn will not, and cannot, be disqualified because his nomination is "elective" and not regulatory. About the only say that the people have in government is by election - their vote; and the U.S. and State Constitutions play heavily on this overriding mandate.

We've had some telephone calls from readers who looked up in the dictionary, as we suggested last week, the definition of "Pisimire". If you didn't peruse your dictionary on this word we suggest you do it on reading this. Elderly people currently have a new incentive for living. They're determined to outlive the Watergate hearings. Since DDT was banned, flies have become weaker. They had been using it as a tonic. In these days of nostalgia about the only people who don't visit their old home towns are those who live there. It is repetitious, but we conclude this column by saying that fewer than 40 people control this nation and the rest of us are little more than peons. And, the 40 in control have violated the anti-trust and other laws so many times that if they were properly convicted from the evidence on each count, and their sentences ran consecutively they would receive a billion or trillion years sentence in prison. Lord, help us working citizens. You are our only remaining hope. Be careful tomorrow - it's Friday the 13th.

Arts, Crafts Festival Planned

Goods handmade by authentic Kentucky craftsmen, music sung by genuine Commonwealth musicians and paintings completed by the state's leading artists will add up to make the second annual Capital Arts and Crafts Festival "the real thing."

The festival, free to the public July 18 and 19 at the Capital Plaza Civic Center, is being sponsored by the Frankfort Arts Club with the support of the Kentucky Arts Commission.

Many of Kentucky's leading arts and craftsmen will be on hand to demonstrate their talent and to sell paintings, leatherwork, woodwork, ceramics, jewelry, weaving, needlework and quilts.

"The festival gives people from all over the Commonwealth the opportunity to share their cultural wealth and offers the artists an outlet to show and sell objects of art," said Irwin Pickett, visual arts director of the commission. "Only art which is handmade by the Kentucky artist will be featured."

On display will be a new Kentucky Arts Commission exhibit, "Please Touch," which will tour the Commonwealth beginning in September. Spectators will be invited to touch boxes covered with wax textures to make them aware of the "tactile sense in art," Pickett said.

Glue and scraps of wood will be the major ingredients when children make imaginative constructions during the festival. "Glue-in!" Other activities for children include a puppet show to be given both afternoons by Mrs. Alice Hume of Frankfort.

All the Frankfort garden clubs will exhibit arrangements of cut flowers," Pickett said.

Noted Kentucky folk singer Jean Ritchie of Viper will perform at 8 p.m. July 18 and at noon July 19. The McClure family of Berea will perform at noon and during the 8 p.m. performance July 18. The Berea Country Dancers, who will entertain during the July 18 evening performance, will involve the audience in authentic round and square dancing on the plaza grounds after the show.

Frankfort area musicians and music groups will perform at 8 p.m. July 19. Leading Kentucky artists who will be exhibiting their work include Keith Spears and Martha Henry, Louisville; Don Gilbert, Valley Station; Brenda and Edgar Hume, Lexington; Deborah Peckler, a silversmith from Danville; Homer Ledford, a silversmith from Winchester; and David Middlebrook, a ceramic sculptor from Lexington.

to the editor

This newspaper welcomes letters, particularly on subjects of general, local, or area interest. Interest is reserved to condense. No letters will be printed without author's signature and address.

The Editor:

I have been reading in the paper about the new school that Rowan Co. is about to build consolidating the Haldeman and Elliottville schools.

I think all of this is fine and good but I wish someone would tell me where that got the idea that Haldeman was in bad condition? I was a graduate of Haldeman in 1972 and there was nothing bad about it.

When I started to Rowan Co. High I began to find out that Haldeman was one of the most respected schools in the county. But I was and still am proud of my school and think it is one of the very best. I really hate to see it go.

So may I congratulate Rowan County for getting rid of that "dirty" school that I have come to love all these years. Oh, you may make a new school and tear it down but you can never wipe it out. Haldeman will always be in the hearts of the kids who went to it.

RECALLS OLD SWIMMING HOLES AT MOREHEAD

The Editor:

"Me and Harley Boyd And 'Morgan Chin.' We went to the 'Birch hole' But we didn't go in."

Reading about the new swimming pool at Morehead I am reminded of these lines some one wrote years ago when these two boys with their cur dogs, "Old Ring" and "Yaller," scouted the hills and hollows far and wide.

The "Birch hole" was across from the spoke factory at Morehead and the "Pipe hole" was across from the old light plant on the Eastern edge of Morehead. The water was pure and clear and the bottom was solid rock. There was no thought of a bath house. Often large crowds of boys would go swimming in the "All Together" leaving their clothes on the creek bank. Sometimes in extremely cold weather we could skate there on the ice.

MR. MILLER SAYS HE DIDN'T MEAN 'ALL THE PRESS'

The Editor:

I was approached by a newspaper publisher yesterday and constructively criticized for the poor grammar contained in my press release of Wednesday, June 27, and the cover letter sent to the editors of newspapers throughout the state. On this date I also received an editorial from a weekly newspaper taking me to task, using identically the same points as had my other critic. Permit me at the outset to express my sincere apologies to each of you and allow me to explain that my categorical reference to the "press" was generally to include those members of the daily news media which I knew would be assembled at the press conference in question.

Abiding by my principle of trying to cooperate with all members of the news media, I did, however, want to provide each of you with a copy of this particular statement. While I wish to stand on all the statements (other than being critical of "press" in general) I made in the subject press release, I apologize to those to whom I unfairly made reference either directly or indirectly. Permit me now to be more specific in the point I so poorly attempted as concerns the news media.

My reference to unfair reporting was meant to be that both the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Kentucky Post had accepted as fact the editorializing of an employee of the office of the United States Senate Secretary on our reporting to that agency regarding our recent fund raising events. This was done by and large without confirming those allegations with our Party officers. Then the Courier-Journal editorializing, using the same source, with no attempt to confirm with us. Since that time, the Kentucky Post has made a more thorough study of circumstances surrounding our reporting, and have so reported to the public. The Courier-Journal, to the contrary, has taken our offer to open our records as an opportunity to further attempt to discredit our efforts.

Unfortunately, the Courier-Journal has not seen fit to positively report the accomplishments of the Democratic Party over the past several years. All Kentuckians should be grateful that they (Courier-Journal) do not dictate policy for all other news media in the state. While I do not anticipate anything but continued opposition from the Courier-Journal and its monopolistic news holdings, the balance of the news media throughout Kentucky have been objective and in vast majority fair, in reporting of Democratic political activities.

We are not entitled to, nor do I expect favoritism from the news media. I do ask, however, that you be as direct and honest with the public as I am with the media concerning political matters. With few exceptions your profession has done this, and I express my sincere appreciation.

I assume full responsibility for the poor language contained in my recent correspondence, and assure you the lesson I learned shall not be forgotten.

J. R. Miller Chairman, Kentucky State Central Executive Committee Frankfort, Ky

PRaises MOREHEAD POLICE FOLLOWING KIDNAP REPORT

The Editor:

We want the Morehead Police Department to accept the heartfelt thanks of the dotting parents of a 15 year old girl who is presently a guest in your city. Let me explain in the following paragraphs the cause of our gratitude.

The Handbell Choir of the First Baptist Church of Prattville, Ala. was visiting in Morehead to participate in the Handbell Choir Music Festival sponsored by Morehead State University. We received a phone call from an anonymous source informing us that our daughter, Susan, a 15 year old, had been kidnapped and was at that time in the caller's custody. You can imagine, I'm sure, the anguish and concern, bordering at times on hysteria, which characterized the ensuing hour at our home. We tried immediately to contact Susan at Mignon Hall on the Morehead campus, but failed. The anguish grew. We then called your office for assistance. In our distraught state, we failed to get the name of the officer to whom we talked, but we can surely attest to the fact that he is a first rate gentleman in the finest sense of the word. He assured us that he would make every effort to locate our daughter for us. In a matter of hours we received the greatest phone call that ever travelled our wire - our 15 year old daughter with the news that she, in fact, was perfectly safe, and that nothing had happened to her beyond having a most enjoyable visit to your fine city. The original call was a cruel hoax perpetuated by a demoted mind.

The officer who was so kind to go to a great deal of extra trouble to allay the fears of distraught parents has earned our undying gratitude and respect. Please convey to this fine officer these sentiments for us.

By the way, an interesting sequel to the events outlined above is that the person who instigated it all is now a resident of our new jail in this city, due to the fine work of our local Sheriff and his fine staff of officers.

This incident has served to re-enforce the healthy respect which we have always had for law enforcement personnel. If those who are so free with their criticism of these fine public servants could have witnessed the kind, understanding help which we received from one of Morehead's fine officers as well as our local officers, we feel they would have real reason to reassess their opinions.

AGRICULTURAL LOANS

Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell Butler has announced regulations under which more than $300,000 will be made available in the form of educational loans to eligible farmers, farm laborers, and members of their families. Additional information can be obtained from county FHA offices, from local school superintendents or vocational agriculture teachers.

School Bus Gas Shortage

The Barren County School Board cannot get bids on the half-million gallons of gasoline they expect to use next school year. Assistant Superintendent David Hildreth said that seven area dealers were asked to bid, but all declined. The Simpson County Board of Education also was unable to receive bids for the 60,000 gallons of gas it will need for 1973-74 school year.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION: 90% of today's prescriptions contain drugs unknown just a few short years ago. Many of today's "wonder drugs" are only adolescents in the developing world of scientific miracles. The hypertension drugs made their debut with Rauwolfia in 1953. And in 1954, tranquilizers were first released for public consumption. The same year Jonas Salk led the way for the dramatic breakthrough in polio control. In 1962, enzymes were introduced to accelerate tissue repair and reduce inflammation. Going back a little further we find that penicillin... which has proved so necessary to life... has been in use just 19 years. It was only 14 years ago that the antistamines first appeared on your Pharmacist's shelves. Bearing these developments in mind, the future of prescription drugs promises discoveries inconceivable to the imagination. For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to C. E. Bishop Drug Co. IN YOUTH CORPS PROGRAM . . . Five Rowan County youths currently are assigned to the Morehead Ranger District, Daniel Boone National Forest, under the Neighborhood Youth Corps program. From left, they are Tab Hunter, Ronald Smedley, Billy O'Hill, Darrell Bolls and Dewayne Carter.

Rowan Youths Take Part In Neighborhood Youth Corps

Through a cooperative agreement between the Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council and the Daniel Boone National Forest, a number of Rowan County youths are participating in the Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

The program, which is funded by the U.S. Department of Labor, places unemployed young people, 16 through 21 years of age, in work-training projects designed to increase their employability or to permit them to resume or continue their education.

Aging Program Receives $1.1 Million Grant

Gov. Wendell H. Ford recently announced a $1.1 million grant for the state during fiscal year 1973-74, to be used in high priority planning and service areas, the largest HEW grant for the aging program ever allotted Kentucky.

Up to 80 percent of the grant, part of the Federal Title III programs for the state during fiscal year 1973-74, will be used in high priority planning and service areas, the Governor said.

Among the service areas covered under the grant are 33 senior citizen centers, the largest of which are located in Louisville, Lexington, Owensboro and the Northern Kentucky area.

According to Henry Beach, executive director of the commission, this increased funding will make it possible for the commission to reach an additional 80,000 senior Kentuckians during the next year and to offer services to many who have heretofore been deprived of them.

There are five youths presently assigned to the Morehead Ranger District, Daniel Boone National Forest under the program. They are working on various projects, including cleanup and maintenance at Clear Creek Furnace and Rouborn Hollow recreation areas, campground construction at Cave Run Lake, maintenance at Ranger District headquarters and timber stand improvement.

"We appreciate the addition of these Neighborhood Youth Corps enrollees to the District's regular work force," said Morehead District Ranger Richard J. Bonята. "They provide a valuable service to the Forest Service and at the same time acquire skills which should increase their employability," explained Bonyata.

Other agencies and organizations who are cooperating with the Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council in the NYC Program, include the Kentucky Division of Forestry, Rowan County Library, Breckinridge School, the Morehead State University Golf Course and Region 9 of ROPES (Regional Organization to Provide Education Services) based at Clearfield.

School Meal Guidelines Announced

New guidelines for determining eligibility for free and reduced-price meals in Kentucky schools participating in the National School Lunch Program were announced recently by Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, superintendent of public instruction.

All schools participating in the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program and Schools which receive federally-donated foods — are required to follow these guidelines, effective July 1, 1973, said Ginger.

In determining pupil eligibility, local school officials have the option of including reduced-price meals in addition to free and full price meal plans in their food service programs.

Applying these standards, school food service administrators in the state may consider both the family income during the past 12 months and the family's current income rate to determine eligibility. For these purposes, income is considered before deductions, said Ginger.

In addition to income levels, local administrators should consider special "hardship" cases, such as unusually high medical expenses, disaster or casualty losses, special education expenses and shelter costs over 30 percent of total income, he said.

School children eligible to receive a free or reduced-price lunch may also receive a free or reduced-price breakfast in schools serving-breakfast.

Crime Commission Gets $1 1/2 Million

Gov. Wendell Ford announced today that the Kentucky Crime Commission has received an additional $1,585,000 in anti-crime funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the United States Department of Justice.

Ford said the newly-acquired funds will enable Kentucky's Department of Corrections to implement several progressive and long-needed programs. Two state correctional institutions at Eddyville and LaGrange will be among the major beneficiaries, where money has been earmarked for:

- + Expanded industrial and work programs;
- + Renovation of existing facilities;
- + Improved educational programs and facilities;
- + And increased security.

In addition, $95,000 was allocated to establish a five-year master plan, making it possible for the Crime Commission, Department of Corrections, and the recently appointed Legislative Correctional Facilities Review Commission to work together in producing priorities and directions for corrections in Kentucky during the coming years.

Grant Was Anticipated

Ford said the grant was a "pleasant, though not entirely unexpected, surprise."

"These funds were made available to Kentucky after other states and cities throughout the country were unable to obtain them within federal time deadlines," the Governor continued. "We stayed on top of the situation and let the Justice Department know we were interested if the additional money did become available."

Combined with $500,000 the state received two weeks ago, the Crime Commission gained more than $2,085,000 in funds for crime control projects during the last 15 days of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973.

William Gant, commonwealth attorney in Owensboro and vice-chairman of the Crime

Commission, said the award of the new funds is a "major coup for the Crime Commission. It shows that Kentucky is recognized by the Department of Justice as a state both willing and able to take new initiatives in the fight against crime."

Kentucky Crime Down

Ford noted that federal attention has been focused on the Kentucky Crime Commission since the state reported an eight percent reduction in crime last year, one of the nation's most dramatic decreases.

"The latest statistics further show that crime in Kentucky was down another 5.3 percent during the first three months of 1973," Ford pointed out. "While we have

Visitation Set At Girl Scout Camps

Approximately 800 civic leaders and other friends of Girl Scouting in 57 counties, including Rowan County, have been invited to visit two camp sites operated by the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council.

The sites, where established camp programs are in operation this summer — are Camp Cardinal in Carter County and Camp Judy Layne in Morgan County.

John C. King, executive director, Carlisle president of the Council, said that the leaders and friends would visit Camp Cardinal from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 14 and Camp Judy Layne from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 15.

Mrs. Kingsolver noted that the camps, which have both one-week and two-week sessions, attract girls from the fourth through the 12th grades and offer standard Girl Scout-oriented programs, with an emphasis on giving girls a love for an appreciation of the out-of-doors.

Additionally, Camp Judy Layne offers an extensive counselor-in-training program designed to develop leadership in older girls and training for future positions as camp counselors.

Judy Layne also has backpacking and exploring units, a primitive patrol, canoeing for older girls, canoeing unit and a Red River backpacking trek for experienced Scouts.

A highlight at Camp Cardinal, Mrs. Kingsolver said, is a horse-womanship course offered all seasons for older Scouts who qualify for the instruction. Camp Cardinal also has a primitive unit.

Camp Judy Layne, a 210-acre facility with man-made lake, is located in Daniel Boone National Forest near Frenchburg. Camp Cardinal, which has a 40 by 80 foot swimming pool, is near Carter Caves State Park.

been one of the few states to consistently receive over $1 million per year Law Enforcement Assistant Administration discretionary funds, the $2 million represents an unprecedented accomplishment."

Gets $8.38 Million

Ford said the state's total block grant for the fiscal year was $8.38 million, a 25 percent increase in Crime Commission resources for state and local criminal justice agencies.

The newly acquired $1,585,000 package will be used by the Department of Corrections for the following programs:

- Expanded industrial and work programs at LaGrange and Eddyville, $393,000;
- division of LaGrange Reformatory into four program sections, $285,000;
- renovation of existing facilities at LaGrange and Eddyville, $228,000;
- reception and diagnostic center at LaGrange, $215,000;
- increased security at Eddyville and LaGrange, $130,000;
- Lexington Halfway House, $125,000;
- Five-Year Master Plan for Department of Corrections, $95,000;
- improved educational programs and facilities at LaGrange and Eddyville, $90,000;
- training of corrections officers, $34,000;
- dormitory renovation at Kentucky Correctional Institution for Women, $20,000.

Attic Treasures Sought For Old State Capitol

By Bonn Brockman
Great-aunt Clara's antique brass candlesticks and Cousin Alfred's Victorian library table may be just what the curator of the Old State Capitol is looking for. As curator, William Barrow Floyd is in charge of acquiring authentic furnishings for the Old Capitol and its adjacent building, the Old State Capitol Annex. Because he wants to obtain Kentucky-made and Kentucky-used furnishings, Floyd is requesting that those with the appropriate furniture, silver and paintings donate their treasures to the state for exhibition in one of the two buildings.

"We have decided to restore the Old Capitol as closely as possible to the architect's original plans," Floyd said, "but, to interpret it for the public, we will be showing its entire usage throughout the period the Old Capitol was used." Therefore, Floyd is looking for furniture used between 1830 and 1908.

Different Time Periods

Rooms in the Old Capitol will be furnished with articles from different time periods. For example, the entrance hall will use furniture of the 1830 period, while the House of Representatives will be furnished in the post-Civil War period. American Empire furnishings are planned for the East Committee Room and Victorian era pieces will be in the West Committee room.

Basic furnishings need for the Old Capitol include:

+ Two mahogany American Empire sofas, upholstered in red satin with a gold motif, such as a laurel wreath.

+ Four red stenciled Hitchcock chairs.

+ One pair of six or eight-branch Empire candelabras with columned shafts.

+ Two pairs of large, heavy antique brass candlesticks and brass and iron fender, about 1830.

+ Two American Empire pier tables with marble tops and a large mahogany Empire secretary.

+ One mahogany grandfather's clock, to be displayed in the Senate, which will be returned to its 1830 appearance.

+ Two secretary-desks, two mahogany grandfather's clocks, two console or card tables, eight mahogany side chairs and 20 pairs of brass candlesticks for the House of Representatives.

Silver Among Needs
"We are also looking for examples of antique silver made by Kentucky silversmiths," Floyd said. "Income tax deductions can be received through

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I read your column every week and I even collect them. I am a 16 year old girl and I liked this certain guy. He always told my friends he liked me when they would ask him. He would come see me during lunch break at school, and he always put his arm around me and held my hand. He walked home with me after school every day. But lately, everything has been different. He never speaks to the anymore unless I speak to him first. Recently he told one of my friends that he only liked me as a friend. I asked him if he only likes me as a friend why did he put his arm around me and hold my hand. He said he always did that. One day another of my friends told him about me going out with another guy. He told her he didn't like me going out with this other guy. My friends think he likes me, but I think he is just trying to show that he liked me. Now when I talk to him he turns his head and ignores me when I should do.

OUR REPLY: Ignore him and start looking for someone else to what we suggest. If he really likes you, he'll come back to you, especially if he sees you going out with other guys. If he doesn't like you anymore, at least you're meeting new guys, going out and having fun, instead of worrying about him.

donations." July cups, tea services and pitchers are the sort of silver he is looking for, Floyd said.

"We are seeking some additional portraits and paintings by fine Kentucky artists," Floyd said, "as well as oil portraits or busts of early governors."

Busts and portraits of chief figures in the state's history, including Daniel Boone and Henry Clay, will be displayed in the Kentucky Hall of Fame, to be in the Old Capitol's former federal court room.

A Kentucky Art Gallery in the old court of appeals room will feature creations by outstanding artists who worked in Kentucky.

"We would like to get worthwhile paintings by such Kentucky artists as Matthew H. Jouett, Edward Bush, Oliver Frazer, William Edward West, John Grimes, Frank Duveneck and Edward Troye," Floyd said.

The completion date for the restoration and renovation of the Old Capitol and Annex buildings is the fall of 1974, he said. "I should like to emphasize that when the architects walk out of the completed buildings," Floyd said, "the museum will not be set up in final form and will not be ready to open the next day. It will take a considerable amount of time to lay extensive carpeting, hang immemorable paintings, set up exhibits in the annex and in general prepare the buildings for exhibition.

"I can't wait much longer for donations to trickle in," he emphasized. "We need to get certain things set as soon as possible so we know where we stand."

The executive committee of the Kentucky Historical Society has set three criteria for its acquisitions. The object must:

+ Have political, social or cultural significance in the history of Kentucky.

+ Be an outstanding example of its kind which was used, or produced, in Kentucky.

+ Be necessary to the accurate interpretation of an exhibit relating to Kentucky history.

Floyd said that some furnishings will have to be special-ordered, including 96 desks and chairs for the House of Representatives and 38 desks and chairs for the Senate. Furnishings may be donated by writing to Floyd at P.O. Box 791, Frankfort.

SHOW PLANNED - Kentucky is to sponsor a major beef-cattle show in 1974 to be known as the North American Livestock Show and Exposition. The beef-cattle show in 1974 to be known as the North American Livestock Show and Exposition. The beef-cattle section will be a part of the total farm animal exposition to include all species. It is scheduled for November 17-24 at the Kentucky State Fair and Exposition Center.

Weekly Meditation

One wrote, "I've made a mess of my life. I started well, but something happened. Now I'm a failure, and I'm walking in darkness. Is there any light for me, a miserable backslider?"

There is! A long time ago one wrote in Psalm 112:4, "There ariseth light in the darkness."

The Lord has a way of bringing glory out of gloom and of using our failures as stepping stones to success. When we admit our faults, accept His forgiveness and abandon our lives to Him, He will bring victory out of defeat.

Come to think about it, some whom our Lord called when He was here on earth were failures. Peter denied Him. When one accused him of being a Christian, he lied, saying, "I am not!" Mark started out to serve the Lord. He began in waves of excitement. Then things got stale. Suddenly the inspiration was gone. He was tempted to quit. So he gave up.

But in spite of these failures, the Lord not only erased the sins of their past, but He enabled them to write a new and useful life. He can do the same for you. Failure need not be final.

'Damn Yankees' Being Performed At Jenny Wiley

A carefree, tuneful musical comedy about a man who sells his soul to the Devil but then firmly resists the wiles of the Devil's most bewitching temptress, is the attraction scheduled for the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre for a three week run July 11-29.

This is "Damn Yankees," which delighted New York theatergoers for over two years with its modernized Faust story and its rousing set of song-hits led by the celebrated "Whatever Lola Wants" and "You Gotta Have Heart."

Written by George Abbott - co-author of such other notable musical comedy hits as "Where's Charley?", "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn", "The Pajama Game", and "New Girl in Town" - in collaboration with Douglas Wallop, the musical's plot tells again the oft-told Faust legend, but this time amusingly and against a background of Big League baseball.

The story is told to the accompaniment of some of the decade's most popular song-hits. In addition to the "Lola" and "Heart" numbers, which led the Hit Parade for long periods, the tunes of "Damn Yankees" also include such now familiar melodies as "Goodbye Old Girl", "Two Lost Souls", "A Little Brains, a Little Talent", "The Game", and "Near to You". These ditties are by the team of Richard Adler and Jerry Ross who also wrote the song-hits of "The Pajama Game".

The show will run nightly, except Monday and Tuesday, through July 29.

Area School Bus Drivers Will Get Special Training

Over 440,000 children in Kentucky are driven to school daily by bus. With the awesome responsibility of transporting these children, Kentucky's school bus drivers have achieved a "commendable" record of safety, according to state Department of Education officials.

To help keep this safety record, the Division of Pupil Transportation will conduct the ninth annual driver's training school in 20 regional centers throughout the state. The program will be divided into two sections this year to train new drivers and inform veteran drivers about new safety measures.

Serving the school districts of Bath County, Fleming County, Lewis County, Mason County, Nicholas County, Robertson County, Rowan County and Maysville Independent, a driver training school will be held at the Fleming-Mason RECC Building in Flemingsburg on Ky. 32 July 19-20, beginning at 9 a.m. (EDST).

Kentucky State Police will participate in training more than 2000 school bus drivers in federal, state and State Board of Education regulations for traffic safety and pupil transportation.

Special instruction will be offered in the operation of the new eight-light warning system in the 1973 model buses. Some 600 buses will have this eight-light system in which drivers give a pre-stop warning with four yellow lights located on the front and rear of the bus. These warning lights indicate that other vehicles may pass. The regular red-light stop signals follow the warning lights.

Morehead Legion Wins Shelbyville Tournament

The Morehead American Legion Post 126 baseball team ran its record to 19-12 this past week by coming from out of the losers bracket to win the Shelbyville Invitational Tournament. This marked the second tournament in which Post 126 has played during the space of one week.

Last Monday, Morehead and Flatwoods finished a suspended game at the C.A. Taylor Invitational Tournament played at Ashland and Morehead came out on top by the score of 7-5. Four Morehead pitchers combined in what was Jerry Jackson picked up the official credit for the game.

In the hitting department, Post 126 was led by catcher Gary Casco, first baseman Danny Kiser and leftfielder Danny Simmons who all had home runs. Other key hitters for Morehead were second baseman Dale Horner, who had two hits and shortstop Tom Deskins, who had two doubles.

After Flatwoods' Morehead had to come back to play Ashland at 9 p.m. on Monday. Post 126 was unable to take the delayed doubleheader as Ashland defeated Morehead 1-5. The game was tied 0-0 in the fifth inning but Ashland broke the tie to go on to the victory. Larry Manahip was the losing pitcher for Morehead.

Morehead was led at the plate by centerfielder Bobby Wells who had a double and single and by catcher Gary Casco who had a double and single.

On Tuesday, Post 126 "ran into a steam roller" of sorts by the team from South Lexington beat them 15-0. Morehead's problem in the game was a third pitching staff coming out of the Ashland tournament. Winford Adams started and got the loss for Morehead as the pitchers gave up 17 hits over the seven inning duration.

Morehead only managed four hits in the game, but three of these were by centerfielder Bobby Wells, all singles. The other hit was a single by shortstop Tom Deskins.

Upret South Shore 14-1

Wednesday brought a complete reversal of form for Morehead as they downed South Shore by the score of 14-1. Danny Simons started on the mound for Morehead, but had to be removed after only three innings because of a sore shoulder. Bobby Wells finished the game and picked up the win for Morehead.

In his, Post 126 featured a balanced attack as second baseman Dale Horner had two, pitcher Bobby Wells had three, rightfielder R.J. Williams had two, catcher Gary Casco had a triple and three RBI's, and shortstop Tom Deskins had four RBI's.

Down Bardotown 14-1

On Thursday, Morehead played the opening game in the Shelbyville Invitational Tournament. In the top of the sixth inning, Post 126 found itself trailing Bardotown by the score of 1-0. However, Morehead used a double by rightfielder Winford Adams to score five runs in the sixth, and a home run by Tommy Deskins to score five more in the seventh to down Bardotown 10-1.

DRIVING TIPS

SIGNALING, PASSING, YIELDING: An experienced driver in one lane as much as possible. If you change lanes to pass check mirrors, signal, accelerate and move into your new position with plenty of time to spare. Yielding is always dangerous, but necessary to an emergency. Do have a responsible insurance policy for every ten miles per hour of speed.

NEVER STOP ON PAVEMENT: If you see your car to slow your car, drive on to the next exit. Always attempt or attempt to change lanes could cause a tragic accident. Always don't try to pull off the pavement and back up to your exit. It's illegal and dangerous. If an emergency develops, drive onto the shoulder and stop. Shove the car back, use a hazard light to your rear bumper or red tail antenna and stop. The best of all night, see flashes and/or interior lights.

The key hitters in the game, other than Adkins and Deskins, were catcher Gary Casco, who went 3 for 4 and third baseman Wendell Jones, who had two hits.

On Saturday, Morehead lost a heartbreaker to Shelbyville by the score of 8-3 as Shelbyville leftfielder Buck Druin hit a grand slam home run in the bottom of the seventh to win the game. Morehead had a 5-3 lead into the last of the seventh, but they were unable to hold it. The losing pitcher in relief for Morehead was Jerry Jackson.

Leading hitters for Morehead in the game were catcher Gary Casco, who had a three run home run, and centerfielder Bobby Wells, who had a double and a single.

Defeat Corbin 9-3

Later Saturday afternoon, Post 126 played Corbin in a losers bracket game and defeated them 9-3. The game was much closer than the score indicated as Corbin led as late as the fifth inning. But, Post 126 came up with three runs on doubles by Gary Casco and first baseman Danny Kiser to take a 4-3 lead. Morehead scored five times over the remainder of the game to build up the 9-3 margin: Doug Fryman went all the way on the mound for the win.

Post 126 was led hitting by Casco with a double and single, Kiser with a double and single, second baseman Dale Horner with a single and two RBI's, and leftfielder Danny Simmons with two hits.

Two Wins Needed

On Sunday, Morehead had to play Shelbyville in the finals to decide the tournament. The only catch was that Morehead had to beat Shelbyville twice while Shelbyville only had to win one game.

In the first game, Morehead jumped off to an early lead in the fourth inning as hits by centerfielder Bobby Wells and catcher Gary Casco sparked a two run inning. Shelbyville came back with one run in the fifth to make the score two to one. Then, in the sixth, a two run home run by Buck Druin made the score 3-2 in Shelbyville's favor.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh, leftfielder Danny Simmons, pinch hitter R.J. Williams, and pitcher Winford Adams all singled. Simmons scored, and rightfielder Mike Blanton singled up the middle to win the game.

In the second game of the day, Morehead jumped out to an early 2-0 lead on RBI singles by Dale Horner and Danny Kiser in the first inning. Then, in the fifth inning, pitcher Jerry Jackson singled and was eventually driven in on a single by centerfielder Bobby Wells.

The Winning Game

Shelbyville scored a run in the sixth to make it 3-1, but Morehead came back to add another run in the seventh as shortstop Tom Deskins doubled and was driven in by a single on the part of Bobby Wells. Shelbyville added a run in the bottom of the seventh to make the final score 4-2.

Morehead coach Don Hardin was high on the defense his team played during the entire tournament. Hardin cited particularly centerfielder Bobby Wells, second baseman Dale Horner, shortstop Tommy Deskins and catcher Gary Casco for their defensive plays throughout the tournament.

Post 126 will be in action again on Wednesday and Thursday in a two day road trip to Middletown, Ohio. On Sunday, Morehead will play at Lexington Man O' War in a 1:30 doubleheader. The first game of the championship game of the Morehead Invitational Tournament that was played early in June and delayed because of tight scheduling.

With the Project's final report, the State Department of Education will prepare legislation for the 1974 General Assembly with revisions for financing education, Higley reported.

State Clean-Up Campaign Will Follow Hardin Example

By Marva Gay
"Yesterday the county - Tomorrow the state," could become Tom Reed's and Bill Henry's motto.
Reed, director of the Division of Special Programs in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, and Henry, director of the beautification program within that division, frequently refer to the plan that won Hardin County the Cleanest County in the Nation Award last year. They hope to use the plan for the entire state and win the Cleanest State in the Nation Award for Kentucky.
The cleanest county in the nation award was presented to Hardin County last year by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., because of the 44 point program they conducted. Keep America Beautiful also presents an annual state award.
Pilot Counties Designated
Mary Sprague, who spearheaded the Hardin County program, was on hand recently when Governor Wendell Ford kicked off the state's Commonwealth Clean-Up Campaign at Winchester. Bullitt, Caldwell, Christian, and Clark counties were designated pilot counties for the campaign, which will center on removing junk cars and roadside trash. Reed estimates there are over 400,000 junk cars throughout Kentucky.
Reed said, "We want to follow Hardin County's example because they enlisted so many groups - government, industry, business, schools, scouts, civic and professional organizations - in a concerted clean-up and beautification project. That's what we need to do all over the state. When we do that, we'll be able to say we have the cleanest state in the nation."
A Joint Effort
When Hardin County started its project, the Elizabethtown and Hardin County League of Women Voters, the Chamber of Commerce and the County Judge's Office got together to form the Hardin County Environmental Council. It was that council that pulled together all the other organizations.
Among the projects Hardin County conducted was a clean-up of 125 abandoned automobiles and 60 loads of trash from a five-block area, a county cost survey of illegal dumps, junkyards, abandoned cars and unsightly premises, and a survey to determine the percentage of residences having no sanitation pick-up service.
The campaigners also installed a basketball court and mini-park in depressed areas, tore down an unsightly house, cleared lots, passed out litter bags, placed litter barrels in all city and county parks and replaced county litter barrels with dumpsters.

Other projects included initiating a newspaper recycling program, passing an ordinance eliminating future installation of ugly signs, cleaning up roadsides, and distributing litter and pollution report cards. The cards were sent to litter and pollution offenders by the county judge. They depicted the cost and damage of dumping and littering.
In information and education, the group promoted press coverage of activities, coordinated an environmental information week with the public library, placed information in school and public libraries and helped two schools begin ecology classes.
West Hardin County High School began two ecology classes and incorporated a 30-acre environmental laboratory T.K. Stone Junior High School began ecology classes and worked on improving the school grounds.

Wondering Woods Opens

Wondering Woods, Kentucky's newest family vacation attraction located near Cave City, opened Tuesday. Its developer, Cynthia Herby Moore, calls it "a Showplace of American Heritage."
Joining a growing number of travel attractions in the Central Kentucky Cave Country, Wondering Woods is off Highway 1-65 on Ky-70.
Features include Harmony Tower, a 71-foot-high bell tower that serves as entrance to the woods; Chapel Garden Galleries, whose sculpture, was figures, gardens and music relate to man's search for truth in various religious philosophies; Tranquil Valley Village, a circa-1900 community, and Sylvan Trails with trolley and surrey rides through the woods.
Mammoth Cave Wax Museum and Huckleberry Hill are the other Cave Country attractions operated by Moore. In the Cave City Park City-Horse Cave area are Mammoth Cave National Park as well as various religious and state-operated parks and resorts, museums, chalets, motels, restaurants and camping facilities - many open all year.
Wondering Woods will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and noon to 6 p.m. on Sundays. An admission price, $2.90 for adults and $1.90 for children 6-15, allows visitors entrance to all buildings and exhibits. Children under 6, when accompanied by adults, are admitted free.

Information On Registering Births Available

Rowan County Health Department's local registrar Doris Caudill says she works for some of the newest and oldest Rowan County men in her job of registering births with the State Department of Health's Office of Vital Statistics.

In most cases, she helps process birth certificates for new babies. The physician or midwife present at the birth files a birth certificate certifying the birth he's attended.

The local registrar takes care of forwarding the "news" to the State Department of Health in Frankfort. Proof of the existence of a new person is issued in photostatic copy or birth "form," upon request and payment of a $2 fee.

For older persons; however, the procedure varies a little. Many older persons in Rowan County don't have birth certifications. It's just been since 1911 that the Vital Statistics Law went into effect, according to Mrs. Caudill. "If you were born before 1911, you must submit affidavits and documentary evidence to verify the date and place of your birth," Mrs. Caudill said. "You'll need affidavits from two people who are at least 10 years older than you are... people who remember when you were born. One affidavit must be from a relative and one from a non-relative. In addition you must submit one item of documentary evidence, such as a birth record in a family Bible, baptismal record or a school census record. The certificate then issued to you is called a delayed birth certificate."

If an older person cannot find friends and relatives 10 years older than he is who are still living, he can substitute three pieces of documentary evidence for the affidavits," she added. "A marriage license application which gives age or birth date and place of birth would do. An insurance policy or physician's office record also gives this information."

Mrs. Caudill said she rarely has to deal with the problem of helping people 18 years of age and under register their births. The reason? About 99 percent of all Kentucky births now occur in hospitals and all hospital births are properly recorded and on file in Frankfort. However, some babies are born at home and their births may not have been registered. "For a child up to seven years of age whose birth was not recorded, a birth certificate is accepted for registration if it contains the bona fide signature of the attending physician or midwife," she explained.

If a child is born to American parents overseas, the local registrar can advise the parents where to write for a certified copy of the birth certificate.

Savings Bonds Sales In Rowan Show Increase

Series E and H Savings Bonds sales in Rowan County during May were $12,925 bringing the year's sales to $63,688 of the annual goal of $142,400. Sales a year ago were $56,029.

For Kentucky, sales for the month were $6,175,705 while cumulative sales reached $2,319,297 of the $71,200,000 goal. Sales a year ago were $2,796,772.

Nationally, the sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds for the same month were $655 million, 14.3 percent above 1972 sales of $573 million. The cash value of Series E and H Bonds and Freedom Shares outstanding on May 31 reached a new peak of $69.7 billion. Holdings of Series E and H Bonds alone topped $59 billion for the first time, which represented a gain of $387 million during May, the largest monthly gain since 1945.

Environmentally Speaking

THOMAS O. HARK... Kentucky Department of Health and Environmental Protection

With the increasing concern on the part of federal officials, senators and representatives toward adverse impacts upon our environment, state government and industry officials must be prepared to implement new procedures to comply with the standards set forth on any new environmental laws and regulations.

Several federal bills covering the surface mining of minerals are now under consideration in Washington. Some bills pending in the Congress will drastically curtail mining of coal in Eastern Kentucky. However, we feel that research we are doing in new mining methods and revegetation will accomplish our ecological goals and still enable the operator to provide energy for our nation.

Our Division of Reclamation and our Office of Planning and Research are researching a solution to this question. That research is embodied in a project called "On-Site Control of Surface Mine Sedimentation." We have submitted a pre-feasibility study and grant application for this project to the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and are waiting their approval. This is one of many projects we hope to undertake in an effort to protect our environment while maintaining a good economic climate with the coal industry.

What to build that won't tie you down.

An all-steel Citation® building can keep up with your changing needs. Its expandable endwall option (which can be provided for when you plan the building) makes it a simple matter to add on to the length. And, because Citation® sidewalls are straight up and down, and have no load to bear, whole wall sections may be left open - or a large door (or doors) installed. All in all, a Citation® is pretty hard to grow out of.

Living Constitution

Visitors to the nation's capital can gaze upon the original United States Constitution, painstakingly preserved in a helium-sealed glass case in the National Archives Building.

But you don't have to travel all the way to Washington to "see" the Constitution. Just step into your local courtroom on Law Day, May 1, or any other day for that matter, and you can watch the Constitution in living action. Nowhere are its durable dictates more plainly on display than in ordinary court proceedings.

For example: In the "open door" policy you can recognize the Sixth Amendment in operation, guaranteeing to every accused person a public trial.

In the careful spelling out of accusations you can see Article One, Section Nine at work, guarding against the holding of any prisoner without clear and specific charges.

In the jury box you can see the embodiment of the Seventh Amendment.

And as testimony is given, the Fourth Amendment is screening out evidence obtained by unfair methods, the Fifth Amendment is shielding the accused from having to testify against himself, and the Sixth Amendment is giving him the opportunity to confront his accusers and ask them questions.

Mean-while, on behalf of the community at large, the law's wheels turn carrying out the President's call for "establish justice" and "insure domestic tranquility." One who foregoes a visit to the courtroom because he fears the proceedings are too complicated is missing a basic point: it is the simple elements, these constitutional ABC's, that are most important in a system of justice.

Perhaps this is what Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes had in mind when he said:

"We need education in the obvious more than investigation of the obscure."

Thought For Food

Mushrooms In Salads
One of the most delectable salad ingredients being discovered by more and more home-makers is "thinly sliced fresh mushrooms. Just rinse them briefly and slice. (You don't peel modern cultivated mushrooms!) While their texture is crisp and crunchy, they are porous so that they blot up salad dressing in a most appetizing fashion. It's a good idea to marinate the sliced mushrooms in dressing a half hour before you add the leafy greens and toss the whole salad for serving.

You can use fresh mushrooms in almost any non-sweet salad; in a well-seasoned antipasto kind of appetizer salad; in the leafy green of mixed vegetable salads which can be served either before, with or after the roast; in a protein-rich chef's salad and, artistically arranged, in aspic-type party salads.

Mushrooms also are low in calories - under 100 per pound!
