Foundation Plans For . . .

10th Anniversary Of Medical Center

The membership of Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc., which spearheaded the founding of St. Claire Medical Center, and subsequently promoted its growth and progress including the attendance of almost 20 specialists to Morehead, Saturday reelected five board members, filled a Board vacancy, and started planning for community and area participation in observance of the 10th anniversary of the hospital which admitted its first patient July 1, 1963.

the hospital, including a $3 1/2 million expansion. The Foundation also emphasized the part played by health care facets at Morehead State University, particularly in . . .

The Publishers Pen on page 5 - section two discusses celebrations at Morehead including last year's 50th anniversary of MSU, the planned September observance for St. Claire Medical Center, and two next year - opening of Cove Run reservoir, and Kentucky's Bicentennial.

Committee Will Be Named

Vice-President Eldon T. Evans presided in the absence of Foundation President Dr. C. Louise Caudill, who was in Sweden. Evans advised that Dr. Caudill, on her return, would appoint a committee from the Foundation to work with a 10th anniversary committee already formed by the hospital, and with the University and other groups to celebrate the 10th anniversary celebration, probably to be in September.

Evans said that he preferred to call this a "celebration" rather than an observance. Sister Mary Joell told the group Saturday that in its first year's operation St. Claire had a budget of $460,000, and the budget for fiscal 1973-74 is $2,300,000. She pointed out that the hospital employs 208 people.

"You should be very proud," the hospital administrator said. "You started out with the avowed and announced intention of becoming a regional health care center attracting doctors and specialists . . . and maximum health services."

"And, remarkably all of this has been accomplished in 10 short years." Sister Mary Joell continued.

"In any observance or celebration of our 10th anniversary, the one thing we should not forget is the consumer. For in the final analysis he is responsible for this truly amazing growth and progress."

By the "consumer" the hospital administrator was referring to the average citizen in the several counties Morehead area.

Five Members Reelected

Sister Mary Joell also praised The Morehead News for its continuing and all-out support saying, "We could not have had better press coverage since the hospital was conceived in 1959."

The membership reelected five members to the Board of Directors of the Foundation for three year terms. They are — Jane Caudill, Lorene Sparks Day, Eldon T. Evans, E.M. Hogge and Alpha M. Hutchinson.

Ed Mabry was elected to fill the one year remaining on the term of Russell Jackson who has moved from the community.

Holdover members of the Board are — Robert Allen, Robert Bishop, C. Louise Caudill, Aubrey Kautz, W.E. Crutcher, J.M. Clayton, Adron Doran, Glenn W. Lane and Adrian Razer.

Following the membership meeting the Board of Directors went into executive session and reelected the following officers for one year terms — Dr. C. Louise Caudill, President; Eldon T. Evans, Vice-President; W.E. Crutcher, Secretary, and E.M. Hogge, Treasurer. Crutcher re-named Eleanor Queen as Recording Secretary.

The Board voted $500 to the nursing scholarship program at Morehead State University, as it has done each year since the program was started.

BASKET ANYONE? . . . Clay Hardin, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hardin of Morehead, was among the first to arrive at the swimming pool in the Morehead Recreation Park on Sunday afternoon when the pool officially opened. He was treated to a trek to the pool by his grandmother, Mrs. Robert Lyons of Allen Avenue. Clay is shown with one of 200 baskets which are rented at the pool for personal belongings. Jamie Lacke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucke of Morehead and a student at the University of Kentucky, manned the basket room Sunday. (See additional photos on page 10.)

Swimming Pool Officially Opens

This might well sum up opening day of the swimming pool in the Morehead Recreation Park as only 113 swimmers showed up for the long-awaited pool opening Sunday afternoon.

Pool Manager Jim Osborne said he had anticipated a much larger crowd and attributed the poor attendance to a number of factors. Osborne said the opening could not officially be publicized prior to Friday since the State Plumbing Inspector did not make the inspection of the plumbing facilities at the park until that day.

The pool manager said the overcast and rain-threatening sky may too have played a part in the attendance. "Also, a lot of people told during the week they would not attend the crowd on opening day and would wait until the pool had been open a few days," Osborne told the Morehead News.

The Morehead Recreation Commission announced on June 20 in the Morehead News that the swimming facility would open on July 2, however, the opening was halted by an order issued by the State Department of Health in Frankfort. On Thursday, June 28, the State Department of Health contacted Rowan County Health Department officials with a mandate that the pool could not open until an approved bath house was installed. Jackson Builders, contractor for the bath house, was unable to complete the facilities for the July 2 opening and the Recreation Commission and the City of Morehead had no alternative but to delay until Jackson Builders completed its job. At that time, a spokesman for Jackson Builders used the phrase "probably completed by July 14 or 15." He was referring to the bath house.

Comments from those persons who did go to the pool Sunday were of a praise-worthy nature. One mother, accompanying her small child to the pool said, "Isn't this great, something we've needed for a long time." Another said, "I can't believe it's for real, we've certainly looked forward to it."

The operation of the pool and related facilities Sunday appeared well organized, with each of the young employees doing his or her job in orderly fashion. Most of the employees are Morehead State University students, some serving as lifeguards while others man the cash register for ticket sales and the basket room which houses 200 numbered baskets for swimmers' personal belongings.

The pool and park, owned and operated by the City of Morehead, is for the benefit and use of all persons in Morehead and Rowan County.

Cave Run Rumors Mostly Are Myths

Water Seepage Develops On The Upper Dam Site

Widespread rumors through a six county area which developed over the weekend that "something drastic" had happened in construction of massive Cave Run dam, 10 miles southwest of Morehead on Licking River, were mostly dispelled this morning by 7th district Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Col. Charles Fiala, Chief of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Louisville district.

has understanding the dam will be finished this year and open to the public by next spring.

The 7th district Congressman told the Morehead News that the most latest word from officials of the Corps of Engineers, urging that the project be expedited Perkins also said that Congress had voted all the money for the Corps requested for Cave Run. These funds were in President Nixon's budget, and no project in the nation carried higher priority.

Name of the reservoir is expected to be changed, probably by Congress.

A $2 1/2 million fish hatchery below the dam is nearing completion.

Water tests have shown that the reservoir will propagate such fish as rainbow trout and muskies.

Million Visitors First Year

Following the appearance of several top echelon of the Corps of Engineers at the dam site last week and cessation of work Monday, reports spread like chess in the wind that the dam was giving away . . . and a second dam would have to be built below that under construction . . . workmanship was faulty and had been condemned . . . and many more misconers.

A considerable network of roads will traverse the reservoir area in Rowan, Bath, Menifee and Morgan counties. All of these roads, plus bridges, are built to modern standards.

The Morehead News received the erroneous reports Sunday, and many telephone calls from residents of the reservoir area Monday. The newspaper contacted Congressman Perkins who asked the Corps for a full report.

Cave Run is the first venture of the Department of Agriculture (Daniel Boone National Forest) in maintaining the west Kentucky reservoir, all national parks have been under the Department of Interior, except the TVA Land Between the Lakes in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Colonel Fiala advised, according to Perkins' office:

- Construction of the upper side of the 200 foot high earthen structure water collected between the random fill and the impervious fill at the middle of the dam.
- When core drilling revealed this condition the contractor (Guy James Construction Co.) was instructed to cease further earthen filling.
- It will be necessary to drill into the water seepage area on the south side of the dam; pump out this water; and repack to engineering standards.

The benefit-cost ratio for Cave Run anticipates a million visitors their first year; and over two million within three years. Forest rangers say it is the best planned outdoor recreation spot in the United States. The forest service controls the entire watershed, but has sullen many concessions, including marinas and a $5 million hotel at Gateway Area Development and satellites.

Major Sears In July, 1971

Completion Target This Year

Rumors about the problems at the dam after workmen were laid off Monday spread rapidly throughout the area, and the Morehead News had scores of calls Tuesday and Wednesday. It was explained to some callers that there is no danger . . . there will be no significant delay in construction . . . and the collection or seepage of water in the middle, upper part of the huge structure will be corrected. . . . Some random or selective fill material is dumped.

In mid-July, 1971, a major flood almost wiped out the dam, then about three-fourths complete. The Farmers and Salt Lick Reservoir was destroyed. (Continued On Next Page)

Audit Request Reiterated By 2 Magistrates

Two magistrates of Rowan Fiscal Court reiterated their request for an audit of all county offices during the regular court session Thursday.

Magistrates Ora Mabry and Virgil Richardson, who voted in favor of an audit during a special session of Fiscal Court on July 18, said Thursday they still want an audit of the county offices.

When the issue was voted on at the June 18 meeting, Richardson and Mabry voted yes, while Magistrates Larry Breeze and Alfred Ellis cast votes in opposition of an audit. The bid was broken by Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell.

The original motion ordered that "all county offices be audited in the courthouse back to 1970 within 30 days." Upon request of the court, County Attorney Harvey Pennington wrote to State Auditor Mary Louise Foust in Frankfort requesting the desire of Rowan Fiscal Court to have audit.

Pennington read the reply from the State Auditor at Thursday's meeting. The letter stated that a fee audit could not be made by her office before Sept. 1 and she gave no date as to when the job could be done. She estimated the audit would cost the county about $1,200.

Magistrates Breeze and Ellis again voiced opposition to an audit, emphasizing that the money is needed too badly for other things.

Magistrate Mabry requested that Attorney Pennington write another letter to State Auditor Foust to determine if her office could specify a date prior to Sept. 1 on which an audit could be made.

The $1,200 estimated fee by the State Auditor would be for the years 1970 and 1971. All county offices were audited for year 1972 during the early part of 1972. An audit for 1973 could not be made until 1974.

Three Drug Raids Made In Week

Stories about drug raids in Morehead and Rowan County have appeared in the past three issues of the Morehead News and this issue is no different.

Since last Wednesday there have been three separate drug raids here, one of them involving two 15-year-old juveniles.

The first of the three raids was made Thursday night on Morgan Fork Road at Clearfield when two men were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana for sale.

Arrested were Corsetta Kaye Adams, about 22, Greenup County, Gary Edward Price, about 21, Mt. Sterling; and Eric Bentley, about 22, Wayne County. Eric Bentley were charged with possession of marijuana and Miss Adams with possession of marijuana for sale.

Det. Sgt. Clyde Thomas of the Kentucky State Police reported that Miss Adams and Bentley are students at Morehead State University.

Confiscate Pills, Marijuana

During the raid, made at a house on Morgan Fork Road rented by Miss Adams, police officers confiscated a quantity of marijuana and a small amount of capsules and pills. Det. Sgt. Thomas said the pills and capsules have been sent to the State Police laboratory in Frankfort to determine if they are illegal drugs.

The three appeared before Rowan County Judge Ott Caldwell Friday morning at which time their trial was set for Tuesday, Aug. 28, in Rowan Quarterly Court. Miss Adams has been released from Bath County Jail on $1,000 bond and the two males have been released from Rowan County Jail on $750 bond each.

Investigating and arresting officers in the incident were, in addition to Det. Sgt. Thomas, Capt. L. T. Owen, post commander of the Morehead State Police; State Police Detective Babe Howard and Assistant Police Chief James Pellyrey of the Morehead Police Department.

Sewer Program Plans Outlined

Even though the City of Morehead's annexation will not be finalized until the ordinance is published next month, much planning is in progress by the city in connection with improved services to residents in the area to be taken into the City through annexation.

Included in the plans are proposed improvements to Morehead's sewer system which will cost an estimated $3,630,000.

At the meeting of City Council last Wednesday night, the City voted to negotiate with the firm of Seasonwood & Mayer and Gradison & Company, Inc. of Cincinnati, Ohio, concerning the firm's proposal to serve as fiscal agents and financial consultant for sewer improvement projects in the City. Bond counsel for the projects will be Grafton, Ferguson, Fleischer & Harper of Louisville.

Studied Four Proposals

Prior to making a decision on the fiscal agents to be used, the City met with representatives from four firms and received proposals from each regarding the sewer improvement program.

If and when the City decides to issue utility revenue bonds and/or property assessment bonds, the firm employed by the City will serve as financial consultant and fiscal agents in connection with the issuance of bonds. Proceeds from the bonds, if issued, will be used for the improvement and enlargement of the present sewage treatment plant here construction of an additional sewage treatment plants and/or the construction of sewer collection lines.

Financing Methods

The City has not determined whether the projects will be financed with a combined issue of bonds, or will be handled through separate issues, has not been determined if any or all of the bonds will be utility revenue bonds or property assessment bonds, or a combination of both.

Meeting jointly with the Morehead Utility Plant Board last Wednesday night, the Council and Plant Board requested that City Attorney Paul Blair contact the bonding attorneys in Louisville and arrange a meeting to determine which would be the better method of financing — revenue bonds or property assessment bonds. Attorney Blair told Council and the Plant Board that the bonding attorneys could offer more and better advice regarding this matter.

Prefer Revenue Bonds

It was the feeling of Council members and the Utility Plant Board that revenue bonds would sell better than assessment bonds. It was pointed out in order to have a good sale of property assessment bonds, they would have to be sold locally since it would be difficult for persons in other towns and states to determine the value of property through which the sewer collector lines will go.

The first phase of the proposed sewer system improvement program calls for the construction of sewer collector lines on North Wilson Avenue, in Sherwood Forest and on the City side of Divide Hill along Ky. 32.

Work During 1973

Attorney Blair said it is hoped that the first phase can be completed during the present calendar year, however, the City has not committed itself on a completion date.

As proposed by the City, the first project would be financed through the sale of bonds totaling $290,000. The second step proposed will be improvements to the existing sewer plant which would be contingent upon federal grant monies of $2,000,000 and the sale of $750,000 in revenue bonds.

Project three will be construction of a new collector line for the plant over Divide Hill, to be financed without federal money but utilizing $245,000 from the sale of bonds.

Approximately $1,400,000 in bonds and $2,236,000 in federal money bring the total estimated cost of the sewer improvement to the City of Morehead to $3,630,000.

The final proposed project will be sewer collector lines for the plant over Divide Hill, to be financed without federal money but utilizing $245,000 from the sale of bonds.

Engineers At Work

Currently, engineers from Howard K. Bell, Inc. of Lexington are in the process of surveying everything on the City side of Divide Hill in order that the city can begin obtaining easements immediately.

The total fee which the City will pay the fiscal agents for these services, if the firm issues bonds as mentioned above, however, fees are contingent on the approval and sale of bonds and if bonds don't sell, no fee will be charged. Included in the total fee of $22,000 is the legal fee of $15,000.

GETS APPOINTMENT — Gov. Wendell H. Ford has appointed Stanley H. Schwartz of Lexington to a four-year term on the Kentucky Industrial Finance Development Authority.

Schwartz recently was named president of Maloney Enterprises, Ltd. in Marietta, which owns and operates discount stores in several Eastern Kentucky communities, including Morehead. He is a retired Reserve Major in the U.S. Army, Corps of Engineers and served active duty during World War II and the Korean Conflict.

sent to Frankfort for tests.

Arrested about 6 a.m. were Keith Allen Stegall, Paul Stewart Aubrey, Liza Ann Fleming, Theresa Bays, Linda Hasenstab and Marty Boyle Kiser. Prior to their arrests Joseph E. Callett of Lexington was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana. Major in the U.S. Army, Corps of Engineers and served active duty during World War II and the Korean Conflict.

Chief Pfeiffer said Callett was arrested about 3:45 a.m. Saturday after allegedly shooting out a street light on Martindale Drive about 7 p.m. Friday. Chief Pfeiffer said the two-story house was kept under surveillance until about 6 a.m. when the raid was made and the others arrested.

Since citations were not written and all were charged in one warrant with possession of marijuana, local police officers did not make record of their ages and addresses. Chief Judge Austin Alfrey said that the officers probably weren't too concerned about ages and addresses since a bonding company in Winchester went their bonds Saturday afternoon. The officers know there's nothing to worry about since the bonding company has the names, ages and addresses. Chief Pfeiffer said the bonding company was called at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The trial for the six charged with possession of marijuana will be held Aug. 29 in City Police Court before Judge Alfrey. They can be tried in City Court since the charge is a misdemeanor, according to Chief Pfeiffer.

Judge Alfrey said Callett has been given until July 29 to consult an attorney and determine if he wants a preliminary or examining trial in the City Court on the charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon and destroying or damaging private property without felonious intent.

Callett has been released on $1,000 bond and the other six have been released on $250 bond.

Investigating and arresting officers were Sgt. Richard Alderman, Pil Carl Mulligan, Pil Chester Lewis and Chief Pfeiffer of the Morehead Police Department and Gary Messer of the MSU Security Force.

Juveniles Charged

Sgt. Det. Thomas of the State Police and Asst. Chief Pfeiffer and Pil Audrey Station arrested two juveniles Tuesday night about 7:30 o'clock at the old abandoned power plant across the railroad tracks in a field behind Jackson Buildings.

The juveniles, one female and the other a male and both from Rowan County, were charged with possession of marijuana. The adult, Donald Gene Gregory, 25, Clearfield, was charged with possession of marijuana and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Gregory was lodged in Rowan County Jail and the juveniles were taken to Bath County Jail, awaiting arraignment before Judge Caldwell at this location.

Police confiscated less than a pound of marijuana at this location.

Last Week's Case

Richard Carl Wallace, 32 and his wife, Suzetta Stegall Wallace, 24 who were arrested last Tuesday afternoon about 4:30 in a raid by City and State Police officers at their mobile home on the Elliottwood area on Trent Ridge Road, just off Ky. 32, have been released on $1,000 bond. No trial date has been set.

The Wallaces were specifically charged with possession of marijuana pending tests at the State Police laboratory in Frankfort of 100 capsules or pills confiscated when the arrests were made.

More Women Working

One of the most important changes in the American economy in this century has been the increase in the proportion of women who work outside the home, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Miss Lydia Lewis, former MSU Queen.

1973 Miss Kentucky MSU Grad

Lydia Lewis, a graduate of Morehead State University and a former MSU Homecoming Queen, is Miss Kentucky of 1973.

The 24-year-old titlist is the first black woman to win the state pageant, the same distinction that had in 1967 as MSU's Homecoming winner and in 1968 as MSU's entry in the Mountain Laurel Festival.

Now a teacher and model in Louisville, Miss Lewis studied with Mrs. Adron Doran at MSU before entering the Laurel Festival. A former resident of Maysville, she graduated from MSU in 1970 with scholastic honors.

Kartha Griffith, the current Miss MSU, was a semi-finalist in the state pageant. Six of the 40 contestants had ties to Morehead State.

Miss Lewis became the second Miss Kentucky with MSU connections. Mrs. Janet Hatfield Lowman of Ashland, the 1968 winner formerly attended the university.

The 1973 Miss MSU competition was recognized for the best local pageant program book in the state.

Proposed Road, Bridge Will Be Talked At Meet

A public meeting to discuss a proposed road and bridge from U.S. 60 west at Bull Gary's to McBryer Road will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 26, at the Clearfield School.

The Rowan County Sheriff's office, which is in charge of the meeting, reported that Secretary of Transportation E.M. Hogge of Morehead will be on hand to discuss with interested citizens the proposed project.

The road, built, would serve as a connector between U.S. 60 west and McBryer Road.

The ordinance states that any licensed or unlicensed dog running at large in the City will be impounded. The owner of unlicensed dogs which became impounded may reclaim the dog upon payment of the license fee and upon payment of any penalty which may be due because of the late purchase of a license. The ordinance states the owner of an impounded dog also will be responsible for a $5 fee for apprehending and impounding a dog and an additional fee for storage and maintenance of the animal.

The City also is in the process of hiring a dog warden. Once the dog pound is in operation and the City's dog warden, the law will be enforced, according to City Council.

communities below the dam site were evacuated and it was "touch and go" whether the dam, built, would give way as the waters rose within a foot of the top.

Sandbagging and heavy plastic material used by the Army for emergency airplane landing fields, such as in Vietnam, saved the structure. It is now high enough that this danger. The 1971 crisis was publicized nationally, and resulted in some new guidelines for future dam construction in the nation.

When it appeared that the dam might give way in July, 1971, the Red Cross rushed units into the area; the entire section was closed except to police, U.S. personnel and the press; and Morehead State University made available all its dormitories, cafeteria, etc. for a possible crisis, which was narrowly averted.

The 1971 "scare" probably motivated the fast spending, but mostly false rumors, spread over the weekend.

County Budget Is Approved

Rowan Fiscal Court met in special session Thursday at which time the County's budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year was approved.

The budget appropriations for the fiscal year total $298,554.64, as compared with $174,482 in estimated expenditures in 1972-73. The coming year's appropriations show a considerable increase over last year's because of revenue-sharing funds. The federal revenue-sharing monies represent $115,444 of the total appropriations.

The County's estimated receipts for the 1973-74 fiscal year from all sources (not including revenue-sharing) based on the previous year and allowing for growth total $195,710.42.

The proposed County budget was advertised in the Morehead News on July 5.

LATE GROWING SEASON — Morehead News photographer Clyde Conley took this picture over the weekend at The Tort Cornette farm on Bratton Branch. Ordinarily at this time of the year Rowan County burley tobacco is planted high, but a late spring and other adverse conditions have retarded the tobacco and all other agricultural products. Tobacco experts say, however, that this year's tobacco harvest could be good. (A weed) is hard, and grows fast with a few weeks of acceptable weather conditions. Arthur Little is raising this crop due to Mr. Cornette's age and health.

5,800 In Rowan Co. Have Re-Registered

Since the new Kentucky Election Law became effective last Dec. 1, which requires every Kentucky voter to re-register by Sept. 24 in order to vote this November, approximately 5,800 Rowan Countians have re-registered.

Rowan County Clerk Otis Elam said that 5,200 of the new Rowan County voter registration cards already have been processed through the computer system in Frankfort and returned to her office where they have been recorded in the voter registration books.

Clerk Elam said the other 600 new voter cards have been sent to Frankfort but have not been returned. The Clerk explained, "I try to send the new Rowan voter cards to Frankfort for processing on a weekly basis and am pleased with the number of persons in this county who already have re-registered."

"I feel Rowan County is way ahead of schedule on re-registering, as we already have 5,800 residents ready to vote in the November election," the Rowan-Clerk said. She anticipated that there will be a total of about 8,000 names on the voter registration books by the midnight Sept. 24 deadline for re-registration.

Re-Registration Booth

Clerk Elam said that her office personnel will man a voter re-registration booth each during the Seventh Annual Northeast Gateway Regional Fair here. The fair, sponsored by the Morehead-Rowan County Jaycees will be held July 31-Aug. 5, Tuesday through Sunday, at the Jaycees Fairgrounds at Roubottom on U.S. 60 East of Morehead.

The Clerk said the booth will be solely for the purpose of re-registering Rowan residents who have not already done so.

Re-registration is necessary to update local voting rolls and at the same time, provide a permanent voter list at Frankfort.

On The State Level

On a statewide basis only 25 percent of Kentucky's 1,488,000 voters have re-registered. The State is urging voters to re-register as soon as possible to avoid a backlog in processing forms at the State level.

Re-registration became mandatory for those desiring to vote as the result of Senate Bill 182 enacted by the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly.

Persons who will be 18 years of age before Nov. 6 are eligible to vote and re-registering forms for all persons are available at the County Clerk's office.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Although most fishermen seem to concentrate their efforts on the larger lakes, there are other places to fish in Kentucky which can offer both a change of pace and a full stringer to the angler willing to try them.

Some of the best summer fishing occurs in the tailwaters below our larger dams. The Kentucky and Barkley Dam tailwaters are well-known for their excellent catfish, crappie and white bass fishing, but not many are aware that fishermen who know these waters often catch their limit by plugging the shorelines for black bass, particularly in the Cumberland River below Barkley Dam.

Kentucky fishermen seeking large rainbow trout can find no better place than the Cumberland River below Wolf Creek Dam. Each year many trout averaging over five pounds are taken from these cool waters. During the summer, trout fishing is at its peak during periods of low flow. Strings of fish are taken by bank fishermen and by those who choose a peaceful float trip which may extend as far as Burkesville, some 30 miles from the dam.

For another change of pace, anglers might explore some of the numerous streams which flow through Kentucky.

On these smaller streams, fish will sometimes refuse to take artificial lures, so the fisherman should carry a small seine to catch minnows, crawfish or other natural baits, which will often catch fish when all else fails.

There are also many farm ponds throughout the state. The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has stocked some 60,000 of these ponds, and they are often prime spots for both bass and bluegill. Remember, however, that these ponds are on private property permission should be obtained from and landowner before fishing on his pond.

Fishermen shouldn't overlook the smaller state-owned lakes scattered throughout the Commonwealth. These are open to the public and are often "hot spots" for summer fishing.

No matter where you fish during the summer months, an important point to remember is that the best results usually occur in the early morning, late afternoon and night.

Guidebook Created To Aid In Industrial Development

By Arthur B. Lander Jr.

"The Kentucky Guidebook for Local Industrial Development" may be unique information in the U.S., to his knowledge.

According to Ronald W. Morgan, chief of economic research for the Kentucky Department of Commerce, there isn't another book prepared by a state agency quite like it in the U.S. to his knowledge. "It's actually a textbook," he said, pointing out that the guidebook, now in its second edition, was created to help local industrial development officials to do a better job in bringing industry to their communities.

The 189 page guidebook is put together in a loose-leaf binder format so that up-to-date information may be added more easily. It covers a wide variety of topics relating to a successful industrial development program. Topics covered in the guidebook include directions and structure of employment in Kentucky, where and how to find facts required for industrial development, local resources for industrial development, choosing an industrial site, and finding and handling industrial prospects. It is meant to acquaint local industrial developers with the facts about labor supply, utilities, available energy sources, local government, education, transportation and many other aspects of the community that may be important to the prospective industries.

"The feasibility of extending sewer, power and water lines are explored as well as financing the costs of industrial plant and facility sites through state government agencies such as the Kentucky Industrial Development Finance Authority (KIDFAA) and private corporations such as the Kentucky Business Development Corporation (BDC) and commercial banks.

The guidebook, a departmental effort, was first written in 1971. Since then it has served as the textbook for the Industrial Development Institute, a three-day seminar sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Commerce in cooperation with the University of Kentucky College of Business and Economics and the Kentucky Industrial Development Council.

Ronald Morgan, who edited the guidebook, said that representatives of utility companies, the transportation industry, water and sewer engineers, financial institutions and local, state and federal government officials are among those who teach at the annual institute.

Indicating that the guidebook is an "important tool for the industrial developer," Morgan said that copies are available through the Kentucky Department of Commerce.

HY WINNER... For the second consecutive year, the Commonwealth of Kentucky has won first prize in float competition at the U.S. Jaycees annual meeting in Minneapolis, Minn. "The Future is Now" was the convention and parade theme for the 33rd annual event, and Kentucky's float was based on next year's bicentennial celebration, inviting Jaycees from all states to "come to Kentucky in 1974." The trophy, which is presented annually by the host city, will be placed in the Kentucky Jaycees State Headquarters in Louisville.

TRIO Program At University Receives Grant

Morehead State University's TRIO Program has received a $220,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education for the 1973-74 school year.

With two major components, instruction and outreach, TRIO provides services formerly offered by the Upward Bound, Talent Search and Special Services programs.

Roland L. Burns, former director of special services in administering the newly consolidated TRIO Program, MSU is among only three institutions in the Southeast which have all federal student assistance programs.

Frank D. Sandage, instructional coordinator, is directing the on-campus program providing academic advisement, tutoring, counseling, remedial classes and personal development services for 200 MST students from low-income backgrounds.

Donald B. Tackett is serving as coordinator of the outreach component which will identify 125 disadvantaged high school students and encourage their participation in Upward Bound. Another function of the outreach program is to identify 1,200 high school students with low income backgrounds and encourage them to pursue post-secondary education.

Social Security

By Thomas B. Thompson - Ashland District Mgr. For Social Security Administration, write: District Social Security Office, 1818 Sartan Avenue - Ashland, Ky., Phone 325-7656.

Thomas B. Thompson, social security district manager in Ashland, points out this week that although responsibility for administering the Black Lung program was transferred to the U.S. Department of Labor on July 1, social security offices will continue to accept black lung claims as a service to miners and their families.

Under the 1972 amendments to the Black Lung Law, the Department of Labor will be responsible for miners' black lung claims filed on or after July 1, 1973. Money for the benefits will continue to come from Federal general revenues through 1973, beginning in 1974, benefits and payments for medical treatment will be paid by those coal mine operators who are found liable for their under the law.

The timetable is a bit different for Labor's takeover of claims by survivors of miners who have died, but most of these claims also will be under Department of Labor jurisdiction by Jan. 1, 1974. There is one exception: if a miner is receiving black lung benefits from the Social Security Administration at his death, any benefits due his survivors may also be paid by SSA, no matter when the death occurs.

The Social Security Administration will be responsible for payment of any benefits due in black lung claims filed before July 1. These new claims, like those which are already being paid, will remain under Social Security jurisdiction; they will not be transferred to the Department of Labor, nor will they become the Department's financial responsibility of coal mine operators.

As a convenience to applicants, social security offices will continue to receive black lung claims, and will forward them to the Department of Labor for action and decision.

"The Ashland social security office will continue to answer questions about the Black Lung benefits," Thompson said, "but I realize that some people will now have questions about the future, not the present program. I suggest that anyone who has a question about the new arrangement should write to Director, Division of Coal Mine Workers' Compensation, Employee Standards Administration, W.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. 20210."

Log School Restoration In Bicentennial Plans

By Helen Price Stacy
Morgan Countians, encouraged by the recent restoration of their courthouse clock as part of the county's 150th birthday observance, have begun to look for similar projects as soon as possible to avoid a backlog in processing forms at the State level.

Re-registration became mandatory for those desiring to vote as the result of Senate Bill 182 enacted by the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly.

Persons who will be 18 years of age before Nov. 6 are eligible to vote and re-registering forms for all persons are available at the County Clerk's office.

Simple Furnishings

Furnishings of the log school were simple—some punchons for the floor and hewed log benches.

The curriculum was just as uncomplicated as the building and its furnishings: The McGuffey Readers, Blue Back Spellers and Ray's Arithmetics not only taught reading, ritten and arithmetic, but also those important qualities of kindness, compassion, courtesy and a particular honesty that was almost inscribed on the faces of the hill people.

In 1910, the school was merged with a one-room school located in a gap between Paint Creek and the narrows of Paint Fork. Since research has failed to disclose an earlier merger of schools, it is believed that the old Spiltoog School, now standing on Spiltoog Branch of Open Fork of Paint Creek is the first consolidated school in Kentucky. This factor plus the school's method of construction and early principles of education make it unique and worthy of preservation, Morgan Countians point out.

Pupil Becomes Owner

On that day in July when Miss Smith called her scholars inside to take up books, one of the pupils was eight-year-old Hady Ferguson. The pupil later became the owner of the school and through the years was contented to look from his brick home on Ky. Route 172 and see the old school.

Ferguson had been asked many times to donate the school so it could be repaired, but he had been reluctant to part with it.

An interested Morgan Countian suggested to Mrs. James R. Perry, county bicentennial chairman, that the old school be restored and preserved as a part of the historical observance. She and her committee invited the West Liberty Kiwanis Club to participate in the project. Mr. and Mrs. W.O. Pelfrey were appointed to contact the owner of the school.

In June, Ferguson signed a contract to give the school to the people of Morgan County for restoration and preservation. Ferguson, 81, and the last teacher of the school, Willie Cankey of Hagerstown, Md., both will be honored when work on the school is completed.

Poke Sallet Day An Eatin' Meetin' Event

Kentuckians love to get together, and although they really need no excuse, more than 75 festivals and homecomings held each year provide them an incentive. In addition to meetin' there's eatin' and six of Kentucky's annual events each derive from some popular form of food. Tater Day at Benton. The Banana Festival at Fulton. Country Ham Days at Lebanon. Sorghum Festival at Hawesville, and the Apple Festival at Paintsville.

Harlan's Poke Sallet Day, in its 18th year, has evolved into a week of eating and being together. In this year's single day of "pork eatin'" there were 400 pounds of poke greens, 200 pounds of pork bacon, 60 dozen eggs and cornbread made with 50 pounds of meal consumed. Butter milk topped off the menu. Actually, the eating goes on all week - interspersed with a wide variety of events including a sidewalk art show, craft show, homecoming services in churches, road rally, motor-cross, square dance, jeep trail ride, horse show, and poetry and folk music festival.

The menu during the week includes an ice cream social, a Woman's Club dinner, a spaghetti dinner, crusade banquet, and a coffee break.

In Harlan as in every other Kentucky community where the meetin' and eatin' festivals are held, the effort is strictly local. Every civic group in the community participates in the event. There is emphasis on Kentucky's heritage with old-fashioned foods and original methods of preparation begin stressed in each community.

It is also a time for antiques - with time-worn articles forming window displays in each of the festival communities.

You can find such a festival somewhere here in Kentucky anytime from Tater Day on April 2 to the Apple Festival the first week-end in October.

State Will Eliminate Positions

Gov. Wendell Ford has instructed the heads of all state agencies to find and in another objective of reorganization - that of eliminating duplication.

In a memo to agency heads, the Governor said, "We have made considerable progress to date on the work of reorganizing state government for better management and more orderly policy control. An equally important objective of the reorganization process is the elimination of duplicated effort and the effective control of the number and cost of state employees."

The Governor directed that each agency head review positions currently vacant and eliminate those that can be abolished "without impairing your agency's ability to accomplish its work."

No vacant position is to be filled, he said, except in light of strict necessity. "It is not the intention of this action," Ford said, "to impair the orderly filling of critical positions in mental hospitals, correctional institutions or other vital work which must go forward."

Each agency head is to advise the Personnel Department within 30 days as to which vacant positions are essential and

Morehead Banker Attends National Financial Meeting

Alpha M. Hutchison, President of the Citizens Savings Bank, returned from the American Bankers Association's Third National Governmental Affairs Conference at the Washington Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C. Some 500 bankers met July 11 and 12 with senators, congressmen, administration representatives and regulatory agency officials to discuss banking legislation, regulation and related topics.

Featured speakers included Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who discussed the implications of foreign trade and arms control; Jeffrey M. Bucher, a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, who gave an update on pending consumer credit legislation and Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio a member of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee. Banking's social, community and corporate responsibilities were the focal point of interest for a panel of senior banking executives and Frank Wille, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

A second panel considered the legislative future of the Hunt Commission's recommendations for sweeping changes in the nation's financial structure.

6th Anniversary

cannot be abolished without impairing necessary service. All other vacant positions will be abolished as Aug. 1. Ford said.

Establishment of future positions, he said, will be contingent on certification of necessity by the agency head and must be reviewed by the commissioner of the Executive Department for Finance and Administration and the commissioner of the Department of Personnel.

Ford said the Department of Personnel will assist in assuring that employee's rights are safeguarded.

Dr. Doran Holds 3 Distinguished Alumnus Awards

When it comes to distinguished alumnus awards, Morehead State University President Allen Doran is simply supplied. In fact, he may be the only person in the country to hold such awards from three different institutions of higher education.

The third came recently from his first alma mater, Freed-Hardeman College, a two-year college in Henderson, Tenn. It was the school's first "Distinguished Alumnus Award" and it cited Dr. Doran's "outstanding service to higher education" as president of Morehead State University since 1954.

Dr. Doran's collection of alumnus trophies began in 1965 when the University of Kentucky, site of his doctoral study, bestowed its "Distinguished Alumni Centennial Award."

Murray State University, his alma mater for bachelor's and master's degrees, presented him its "Distinguished Alumnus Award" in 1972. He is a former president of the Murray Alumni Association.

"These awards are among my most cherished possessions," Dr. Doran said. "Nothing could be more gratifying for a university president than to have all of the colleges and universities which he attended say they are proud of his accomplishments."

In addition to three distinguished alumnus awards, the MSU president also holds three honorary doctoral degrees. They were conferred by Murray, Eastern Kentucky University and Ashland College of Ohio.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

90% of today's prescriptions contain drugs unknown just a few short years ago

Many of today's "wonder drugs" are only adolescents in the developing world of scientific miracles. The hy pertension drugs made their debut with Rauwolfid in 1953. And in 1954, tranquilizers were first released for public consumption - the same year Jonas Salk led the way for the dramatic "breakthrough" in polio control. In 1962, enzymes were introduced to accelerate tissue repair and reduce inflammation. Going back a little further we find that penicillin - which has proved so necessary to life - has been in use just 19 years. It was only 14 years ago that the antihistamines first appeared on your Pharmacy's shelves. Bearing these developments in mind, the future of prescription drugs promises discoveries inconceivable to the imagination.

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

League Endorses Primitive Weapon Hunting Grounds

The League of Kentucky Sportsmen endorses legislation authored by U.S. Senator Marlow Cook and co-sponsored by Senator Walter (Dee) Huddleston to establish the Commonwealth's first federal wilderness area.

The area designated in Senator Cook's bill is the 7,300 acre Pioneer Weapons Hunting Area in Bath and Menifee Counties in the Daniel Boone National Forest.

LKS President Reid Love has asked the league's affiliated clubs and individual members to urge their members of Congress to support the legislation.

The bill would not only preserve the unique Eastern Kentucky area, but would preclude its bisecting by a proposed vehicular road.

The proposed road, or an alternate road skirting the PWHA as proposed by the LKS, would eventually be approved by the Zilpo Point Recreation Area of the Cave Run Reservoir to be impounded beginning in December or January.

Specific regulations permitting hunting with pioneer weapons no doubt would be included in the final draft of the bill.

Few turkeys or deer have been taken on the area during brief open hunting seasons for muzzleloaders or bow-hunters.

A bisecting vehicular, two-lane road would, however, endanger the wildlife population, the LKS contends, as well as spoil the present wilderness character of the area.

Senator Cook's bill will no doubt retard, and could eliminate, the bisecting road. An Environmental Impact Statement on the Cave Run Reservoir has been drafted.

A rough draft indicates the cost of the LKS road would be about $55,000 more costly but, as Senator Cook points out, this dollar sign should be weighed against the road's effect

Colonel Charles Fiala, district engineer at Louisville, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, indicated shortly after the Cook bill was introduced in April that it could delay and perhaps alter the final decision on road construction in or near the PWHA.

Should this happen, the LKS would consider it a measure of success for Kentucky's two U.S. Senators and the league, also - July issue, Happy Hunting Ground magazine.

Farm Employers Subject To Health And Safety Act

Many Kentucky farmers employ one or more workers outside of their immediate families at some time during the year. All of these farmers should be aware of their responsibilities under the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970.

Although this act became effective in April 1971, its impact on farmers is just now being felt, notes W. Wilson Hourigan, Extension agricultural economist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Hourigan says the purpose of the Act is to assure safe and healthful working conditions for the nation's wage earners. The law gives employers the responsibility of providing a working environment which is free of hazards which may cause death or serious physical injury. It applies to all farmers except those who do not hire any labor at any time during the year.

All farmers-employers are required by the Act to have a poster, entitled "Safety and Health Protection on the Job," posted on their farm premises where employees normally report to work. The poster forms the centerfold of the U.S. Department of Labor pamphlet entitled "Recordkeeping Requirements Under the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970."

This pamphlet also contains the recordkeeping forms which must be kept by farmers who employed eight or more employees at any one time during the calendar year immediately preceding the current calendar year.

All farmer-employers are required to report to the Secretary of Labor within 48 hours each accident or health hazard which results in one or more fatalities or hospitalization of five or more employees.

Specific safety and health standards for agriculture have been adopted in the following labor areas: sanitation in temporary labor camps; storage and handling of anhydrous ammonia; pulpwood logging, and slow-moving vehicles. Details of these standards may be found in the U.S. Department of Labor pamphlet, "Safety and Health Standards for Agriculture."

The U.S. Department of Labor is

6,000 Attend 35th Annual Fleming-Mason Meeting

An estimated crowd of 6,000 members, their families and friends of the Cooperative attended the 35th Anniversary Annual Meeting of Fleming-Mason Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation on Tuesday night at Flemingsburg.

The highlight of the business session was the election of Mrs. Lottie Whaley, Clyde Cannon and J. E. Smith Jr., all of Fleming County, as directors of the cooperative for three-year terms.

Miss Susan Johnston, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lester R. Johnston of Maysville, Rt. 4, won the coveted title of "Miss Fleming-Mason RECC of 1973." A 20-year-old beauty, she plans to enter the University of Houston where she will study optometry.

Runner-up in the contest was Miss Pamela Elaine Stacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Stacy Jr. of Rt. 1, Ewing. She is a 16-year-old junior at Fleming County High.

The competed with 12 other contestants in the beauty pageant.

Along with the winner's title and sash, Miss Johnston received a $150 check for her wardrobe and a three-day expense paid trip to Louisville for herself and her parents where she will represent Fleming-Mason RECC in the "Miss Kentucky RECC" pageant at the State Fair in Louisville on Aug. 22. The winner of that contest will represent Kentucky in the national pageant at San Francisco, Calif., in February.

Miss Johnston was crowned by Miss Cheryl Adamson, "Miss Fleming-Mason RECC of 1972."

Huston Delaney, Co-op manager, presided at the business session which included welcoming addresses by H. T. Moyer, president, and Delaney and a financial report by J. E. Smith, secretary-treasurer. Numerous prizes were awarded during the meeting.

Opening Daughter's Mail

Eighteen-year-old Phyllis stalled so long in paying for a dress that her mother's collection department decided to get tough. They fired off a nasty letter to Phyllis' home, where she lived with her parents. But instead of paying the bill, she fled and sought the store for defamation of character.

"I was so mortified," she told the court, "that my parents opened the letter and read all those awful things about me."

However, the court said the store could not fairly have expected the letter to be read by anyone else. Denying Phyllis' claim, the court said it is simply not customary nowadays for parents to open the mail of an 18-year-old girl.

When should you assume that a letter you send may be read by someone other than the addressee? This question, which is sometimes crucial in a defamation suit, is usually answered on the basis of "reasonable foreseeability," as in the above case.

Thus, different circumstances may bring a different answer. In another case a store wrote a letter to a 14-year-old boy, accusing him of theft and threatening to send him to prison. He showed the letter to his parents, who promptly brought a defamation suit on their son's behalf.

In its defense, the store argued that the boy had only himself to blame for making the contents known to others. But the court held the store liable anyhow. The court said that with a boy so young and a letter so menacing, it was reasonably foreseeable that he would show it to his parents.

One correspondence is more than enough. He wrote several scurrilous letters to a neighbor, but mailed them to the addresses of other people on the block. And he left the envelopes unsealed.

Each of the recipients peeked at the contents before passing the letters on. This was grounds for a court ruling afterward, for holding the letter writer liable for making the contents known to his neighbors. He had not only expected but actually counted on his human curiosity to work for him.

From Lucille Womack, Las Vegas, Nv: I remember the caravan—the families in four Model T Ford Touring cars with only side curtains to protect us from the weather. Each car had been remodeled with seats that turned to beds for the adults. The children slept in cots. We left Michiagan on Route 30, Lincoln Highway. Each car had a wide red and black ribbon tacked on the back of it. This was so no one would get lost when we went through large cities. In Iowa the roads were only wagon tracks and rain left the roads almost impossible to travel. I remember our journey through Wyoming. We had to cross a summit of 8,000 feet before we reached Laramie. Every one had to help push the cars one at a time and put stones in back of the wheels as we climbed the steep grades. Then we passed through Utah on an on to the Midland Trail through Nevada. Back then there were no roads for crossing the desert — you had to pick a point of opening in the mountains and beat it for it. It took us 23 days to go from Detroit, Michigan to Bishop, California in 1923.

Easy Trail? Bicycle enthusiasts point out that 43 percent of all auto work trips by car in the United States are four miles or less. They say if these trips were made by bicycle, it would ease traffic problems.

Beans = Gold? Beans were once considered to be worth their weight in gold—the jeweler's "carat" owes its origin to a pebble bean on the East Coast of Africa.

Supply and Demand Only about 12 percent of each beef animal ends up as a broilable steak.

Stop The Bubbling! When cooking pasta products, such as macaroni, cut down on splashing and bubbling of the water by adding vegetable oil.

Idaho, Of Course! Truth-in-labeling of foods require that Idaho potatoes must have been grown in Idaho.

Meat In Chili If you buy "chili con carne," you should have a product that is 40 percent meat. But if you buy "chili con carne with beans," your purchase may have 25 percent meat.

Calories In Cheddar Cheese A one-inch cube of cheddar cheese gives you 70 calories.

Breakfast Bonus For variety, add chopped cooked meat such as bacon, sausage, ham, luncheon meat, frankfurters or chopped beef to scrambled eggs as they begin to thicken.

Attendant Over Million At Festival

There are 600 tobacco plants growing in homes and yards throughout the pageant at the State Fair in Louisville on Aug. 22. The winner of that contest will represent Kentucky in the national pageant at San Francisco, Calif., in February.

Tobacco Given Away

The tobacco plants were given away the last day of the festival and there was a mad scramble to claim what the people of the eastern seaboard had come to feel was a prize possession.

A large cardboard carton has reached the mail room of the Department of Public Information staff and travel division stuffed to the brim with questions about Kentucky.

A tractor-trailer loaded with Kentucky crafts was brought to Washington by the Department of Parks, only a few cartons returned to Kentucky and thousands of orders are to be filled by Kentucky craftsmen.

Another Way of Life

Musicians and craftsmen, a tobacco auctioneer and tobacco twister and the hundreds of others that made up the Kentucky staff, are still wondering why they are overnight celebrities. Each of the bustling metropolitan Washington a unique picture of another way of life.

There is an Indian blanket in Kentucky, traded for 20 twists of tobacco. The trade took place before an Indian trader in the festival area following a visit from the Indians to the Kentucky barn where chiefs received hands of tobacco from Parks Commissioner Ewart Hobson, who shared in the smoking of the symbolic pipe of friendship.

Probably the highest compliment given to the Kentucky delegation, and there were many, came from the National Park Police, who in saying farewell commented "You are the friendliest people we have ever met."

County Fair Horse Shows Attract Variety Of Breeds

By Anita Britton
 As spectator at the World's Championship horse show in Louisville, can't help but note the pomp and pageantry both inside and outside the show ring.

But the same air of color and excitement surrounds the Kentucky county fair horse shows. (On a smaller scale perhaps, but it's definitely there.)

Kentucky boasts one of the finest horse show circuits in the nation. Besides the "big time" affairs like the Lexington Jr. League Horse Park and State Fair Horse shows, Kentucky horsemen can feel free to brag about the smaller county fair shows.

Responsible as the launching pad for many of the breed and trainers of the future, the county fair horse show presents an opportunity for the more well-known exhibitors to present their stock before the bigger crowds.

There are several types and breeds of horses and ponies that make up the various classes in horse shows. The American Horse Shows Association Rule Book describes them and what is required of horses and riders in the show ring. The two breeds most generally featured at horse shows in Kentucky are the American Saddlebred and the Tennessee Walking horse.

The American Saddlebred is shown in three or five-gaited classes or in "the harness" classes. The five-gaited horse is considered the aristocrat of the show ring. He sports a full mane and tail and wears white quarter-boots that protect his front feet when he is performing. He enters the ring in a counterclockwise direction, performs, and then is reversed and performs in a clockwise direction (this is known as showing both ways of the ring). The five-gaited horse is shown in three gaits natural to his breed: the walk, the trot and the canter. In addition, he does two gaits that have been taught, known as "manmade gaits" - the slow gait and the rack.

The three-gaited horse is shown with a dipped mane and tail; the mane is shaved off and the tail is shaved down several inches from the body). The three-gaited horse does the three natural gaits of the breed: the walk, the trot and the canter, both ways of the ring.

A popular addition to the American Saddlebred classes are the pleasure horses. These classes are for three- and five-gaited horses that are shown without any artificial appliances such as set tails.

The fine harness horse is shown at two gaits, the walk and trot, both ways of the ring. He is shown pulling a four-wheeled vehicle.

The Tennessee Walking Horse, a breed developed by large landowners who wanted easy riding horses to carry them over their plantations, is also seen at county fair shows. The Walking Horse is known for his easy gait and good temperament as the "World's Greatest Pleasure Horse."

Another breed which is the source of much excitement at the horse show is the standardbred shown as a roadster. The roadster is the speed horse of the show ring noted for his speed at the trot. The roadster is asked to trot at three speeds, the jog, the road-gait and the trot-at-speed. Usually shown hitched to either a buggy or a bike a two-wheeled vehicle, the roadster may be shown under saddle in some classes.

Pulling a vehicle called the viceroy, the Hackney pony is a breed which originated in England, and is one of the oldest breeds in the horse kingdom. He is the high stepper of the show ring shown at two speeds of the trot, the park pace and the trot. According to custom, the Hackney pony is shown with a docked tail and braided mane.

The harness pony is found at many shows and closely resembles the fine harness horse in miniature. He is a cross of three pony breeds, the Hackney, Welsh and Shetland.

The harness pony is shown hitched to a viceroy or miniature fine harness buggy, carries a full mane and tail and is shown both ways of the ring at the park trot and the trot at will, and the slow gait.

A very popular class because of its importance to the young rider is the equitation class. The equitation or

Sandy Hook Man Charged After Firing Weapon

Marvin Wilson, Rt. 3, Sandy Hook, was arrested about 5 p.m. last Tuesday by officers of the Morehead State Police Post and charged with flourishing a deadly weapon in connection with an incident on July 9.

The arrest was made at the State Police Post where Wilson surrendered. He was arrested by Trooper Lurville Riddle on a warrant issued July 9 by Rowan County Judge Ott Caldwell.

Wilson was released on $500 bond and his hearing is set for July 24 in Rowan Court.

According to Judge Caldwell, Wilson reportedly fired a deadly weapon over the head of Otis Crum on Little Perry Road, Judge Caldwell said Crum, who requested the warrant be issued, was not injured.

MOREHEAD WOMAN FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Dorothy Lee Adkins, a cook, this week filed a bankruptcy petition in the Eastern District U.S. Federal Court, Catlettsburg. Her address is listed as Morehead.

She stated her debts totaled $4,477 and assets $402.

horseman's class is open to riders who have not reached their 18th birthday and are amateurs. Equitation classes are judged solely on the rider's ability and style. The horse itself is not judged but must be a calm, responsive mount. The rider must be able to execute the gaits called for, walk, trot and canter, and may be asked to perform certain tests. Equitation classes are designated according to the type of horse.

Besides offering fine family entertainment, the horse show can serve other purposes. For years, county fair horse shows have provided funds for charitable organizations.

From May until September, scarcely a day goes by without a horse show in progress somewhere in Kentucky. The horseman and non-horseman alike can appreciate the beauty and activity of the show.

NOW, IT'S OFFICIAL... Cutting the ribbon Sunday afternoon by Mayor William Layne marked the official opening of Morehead's first public swimming pool. Observing the ribbon cutting are Pool Manager Jim Osborne and Jama Gay, the Osborne's 1 1/2 year-old daughter, and JoAnn Needham (extreme right), a member of Morehead City Council and the Recreation Commission.

PRETTY LIFEGUARD Patty Skaggs, 21, a Morehead State University senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Skaggs of Clearfield, is one of five lifeguards working this summer at the swimming pool in the Morehead Recreation Park. ## Two Of Three Jail Escapees Remain At Large

In this age of consumerism, the family name is coming under increasing attack by many groups throughout the country. Better inspections, post-sale service and above all, better warranties are being demanded.

Purchase of a car or television set usually includes a warranty against possible defects, but no such protection is normally offered to home buyers.

This situation may change very soon, however.

Many new home builders expect a three year warranty to become standard in a few years. Although some builders have warranty protection programs today, and some municipalities require certain inspections, no industry movement toward protecting home buyers has received serious consideration until now.

The warranty may also apply to resale homes.

Meanwhile, the home service contract, as becoming a popular method to protect a home owner after the move-in. It is a type of pre-paid repair plan offered in many areas. Some new insurance policies also provide this kind of coverage.

In any case, home owners are beginning to get the better service they are demanding. Check the kind of plan available to you before you buy your next home.

A statewide alert still is in effect for two of three prisoners who escaped the Rowan County Jail on July 4 in the early morning.

The three, all of Rowan County, Scott Brown, 54, James Dewey Cline, 40, and Sylvan Howard age not known, escaped from the jail after Scott Brown apparently saved a heavy chain link on the front door. Jailor Jesse Anderson reported.

Brown and Cline remain at large according to Jailor Anderson and State Police officers of the Morehead Post. Howard was returned to the local jail on the same day he was escaped by officers of the Morehead Police Department.

Jailor Anderson said Howard was AWOL from the U.S. Army and that officers from Fort Knox packed him up the following day.

The jailer said the jail break was discovered in the early morning of July 4 and was reported to the State Police Officers at the Morehead Post told the Morehead News that Mrs. Jesse Anderson wife of the jailer reported the incident about 8:30 a.m. July 4. State Police said there were 12 prisoners lodged in the Rowan Jail at the time of the break, but only three were reported as missing by Mrs. Anderson.

Morehead News files show that Scott Brown has escaped from jails at least 20 times in the past decade.

High School Grads May Be Eligible For Grants

Representative Carl Perkins of Kentucky urges all high school graduates who need financial assistance in order to continue their education to check and see if they are eligible for Basic Educational Opportunity Grants.

The Seventh District Congressman said interested graduates should go to the nearest college, state employment office or county agricultural extension office, and ask for an "Application For Determination of Expected Family Contribution," which is the form needed to determine if a student is eligible for aid under the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program. The forms may also be available in some post offices. Representative Perkins said "We approved the program in Congress to help young people who graduated this year, and wanted to go on to college or other advanced training, but don't have the money." Representative Perkins said "Not everyone will be eligible under this program, but I know that it can help many of our young people learn a skill or a profession." Representative Perkins said "He said the form has all of the information needed, and applicants should not delay securing one, so that an eligibility determination can be made."

Legion Takes Belated Victory In Invitational

The Morehead Post 126 American Legion baseball team ran its record to 24-15 with a victory over Lexington Man O' War to give Post 126 a belated victory and the championship of the Morehead Invitational Tournament that was originally played in the middle of June. The final game of the tournament was supposed to be played during that time, but a schedule conflict forced the game to be played when Man O' War made a regularly scheduled trip to Morehead.

In the first action of the week, a "no show" by the team from Ironton, Ohio gave Post 126 a double victory on forfeit. Last Wednesday, in the first game of the two-day road trip, Morehead lost to Post 218 of Middletown, Ohio by the score of 2-1. Post 126 out hit Middletown in the game by five to three but was unable to push across the necessary runs. The pitching for Morehead was supplied by lefthander Doug Fryman who allowed the three hits that Middletown was to pick up.

The only player for Morehead to get two hits in the game was centerfielder Bobby Wells who had two hits in four times at bat. Others to get hits for Morehead were rightfielder Mike Blanton, shortstop Tom Deskins, and lefthander Danny Simons. In the second game of the road trip, Morehead lost to the other Middletown team, Post 231, by the score of 3-1. Post 126 again out hit the opposition by eight to four, but the same problem arose of the inability to score runs. The pitching for Post 126 was supplied by right hander Winford Adkins, who gave up three runs in the last two innings of the game.

The hitting for Morehead was well balanced as six of the men in the line-up got hits. The team leaders in this area were lefthander Corky Prater and right fielder Mike Blanton, with each two hits.

Saturday, Post 126 played an all-star team from the Mickey Mantle league in Huntington, W. Va., and defeated this team in a double header 9-3 and 17-2. In the first game, righthander Terry Fugate allowed three runs in the last inning and had relief help from Bobby Wells, to notch the victory. In the hitting department, Morehead used a balanced hitting attack that featured 10 hits, three by shortstop Tom Deskins, two by first baseman Danny Kiser, and a triple by Fugate.

In the second game, righthander Danny Simons pitched five innings to collect the victory as Post 126 pounded out 13 hits to score 17 runs in the course of the six inning game. Bobby Wells pitched the last inning of the game to collect his second save of the day.

In hitting, Post 126 was led by catcher Gary Cisco who had three for three including a home run, first baseman Danny Kiser, who had two for three including a home run, and three other players, lefthander Corky Prater, rightfielder Gerald Hutton, and pitcher Dan Simons, all who had two hits.

On Sunday, Morehead played Lexington Man O' War for the championship of the Invitational Tournament and then a regular season game immediately thereafter. In the first game, righthander Jerry Jackson, who was named as the most valuable player in the tournament, pitched a three hit shutout as Morehead downed Man O' War by the score of 7-0.

Post 126 got only five hits in the game, but they made them count as lefthander Danny Simons had two for three to lead the team in that department. Other players to get hits for Post 126 were Winford Adkins, second baseman Danny Kiser, and third baseman Wendell Jones.

In the second game of the doubleheader, Man O' War came back to defeat Morehead by the score 3-1. Winford Adkins went the distance for Morehead and gave up only six hits, but his teammates were able to get only four during the game to serve as the reason for only one run on the home side of the board.

The hits on the home side were made by rightfielder Mike Blanton, shortstop Tom Deskins, second baseman Dale Horner, and third baseman Gerald Hutton.

Morehead's Babe Ruth Team Eliminated 11-1

Morehead's Babe Ruth baseball team failed to live up to expectations, and was eliminated Saturday in District 7.

Morehead fell apart in the third inning allowing Nicholas County to score seven runs. Nicholas County won the game, played at Boyd County High field, by a score of 11 to 1.

Ashland, the tourney favorite, was also eliminated, losing to Greenup 4-2. Nicholas County jumped on Morehead pitcher Chuck Adams for single runs in the first and second, and blew the game apart with seven tallies in the third inning.

Star of the game was Nicholas County pitcher Gerald Thompson. He led Morehead's Babe Ruth team to six hits, and had three hits of his own. Steve Gee batted in Morehead's only run with a double in the 6th inning. Gee had two hits.

Billy May also collected two hits for the losers. Nine runs were charged against Adams in the 7-1-3 innings he pitched. Alderman hurled the last 2-3-3 innings for Morehead and gave up two runs.

Cave Fish Lives Without Eating 2 Years

By David Kemmer

With food prices as high as they are, some of us may have at one time or another thought how nice it would be if we could live without eating.

Animals that live in caves must be accustomed to going without food for long periods of time because there is very little food available in the dark stillness of a cave.

Dr. Fred Whittaker, a University of Louisville biologist, reports that he and a colleague, Dr. Loren G. Hill, now with the University of Oklahoma, kept a spring cave fish alive in an aquarium for two years without feeding it.

The spring cave fish is small, about 3 inches long when full grown is light brown in color, and while not blind, can only detect light and dark.

It frequents sinkholes, streams ponds and caves in the Mammoth Cave region of Kentucky. For about three months every spring it stays above ground feeding and then disappears into the caves for the rest of the year where it mates.

No. 29

New Members Appointed To Health Board

The Kentucky State Board of Health has approved the appointments of Dr. Richard W. Carpenter, Dr. Frank D. Scutfield and Dr. Beth H. Penrose of Morehead as members of the Rowan County Board of Health. Their terms expire December 31, 1974.

The three new Health Board members succeed Dr. George Barber, Dr. Billie Joe Casdill and Dr. John Kiesel who have served two-year terms on the Rowan Health Board. Neil Gurley, program coordinator of the Rowan County Health Department, said the three new board positions were approved by the State from a list of seven physicians named submitted by the Rowan County Medical Society to the Kentucky State Board of Health. Gurley explained that by law, Kentucky's county boards of health are composed of seven persons, three of whom are physicians approved for appointments by the State.

In addition to three physicians, the law requires that a practicing dentist and a practicing registered nurse be on the board. The county judge, by virtue of his office, also is a member of the board and the other member is appointed by the fiscal court.

In Rowan County, the other four members of the Rowan Board of Health, whose terms expire at different times, are Dr. Harold Holbrook, dentist; Janice Brumagen, registered nurse on the teaching staff of the Morehead State University nursing program; Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell; and Clyde Litton, appointed by the Rowan Fiscal Court.

Gurley explained that the terms of various members expire at different times to avoid an "all new health board at once."

Local boards of health are responsible for:

• The public health laws enacted by the legislature and the regulations adopted by the State Board of Health or by the local board itself.

• The local health programs and services carried out by the local health department.

• Policies of the local health department.

Show By Berea Artist In Progress At MSU

An exhibit of landscape paintings by Lester F. Pross, chairman of the Berea College Department of Art, is on display in the Claypool-Young Gallery at Morehead State University.

The 55-piece show, which will be shown through Aug. 10, features oils and acrylics. Many of the paintings are for sale.

Pross' works have exhibited regionally in Appalachian Corridors II, Touring Exhibition, Faces of Kentucky I and II, the Louisville Art Center's Annuals and the Mid-States Exhibition.

Pross, who holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Oberlin College, has been a Fulbright lecturer in art at the University of Punjab in Pakistan and a visiting professor at Union College and the American University in Cairo, Egypt.

A member of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen, Pross is a past president of the Kentucky Art Association.

"The artist has abstracted the essence of the landscape by reducing it to flat geometric planes of color," said Dr. Bill

Ford Proposes
 Crash Program
 In Coal Research

Gov. Wendell Ford, speaking to the Midwestern Governors' Conference in Rapid City, S. D., recently, called for increased use of coal as a solution to the energy crisis, but stress the need for research to make this use environmentally acceptable.

Ford proposed a federally funded "crash program" of national coal research to find ways of removing the major air pollutant, sulfur dioxide, from coal.

The Governor cited the progress of a pilot project funded by the last session of the Kentucky General Assembly in the gasification and liquefaction of coal. He said, "This is a perfect opportunity for Kentucky to solve many of the national problems on energy — if we can find a way to eliminate the high sulfur dioxide content that is emitted from the stacks of utilities."

Despite the need for environmental controls, Ford said that at present, the technology does not exist for economically feasible removal of sulfur dioxide from coal.

He said that while "utilities are ready to buy the equipment right now, it would be irresponsible to require them to buy equipment that may not be a lasting solution."

The Governor continued, "It is imperative that the consumer be protected from increased utility rates caused by hardware that may not do the job."

Kentucky ranked second nationally in coal production last year and ranked first the year before.

AWARD WINNERS.... The varsity cheerleading squad at University Breckinridge School won six awards last week at a cheerleading camp at the University of Kentucky. Sponsored by the National Cheerleaders Association, the week-long sessions attracted more than 1,000 participants. Breck was chosen as one of the best squads in camp. Seated from left are Margie Corbett, Kim Miller, Patty Allen and Elizabeth Tolliver. Standing are Nancy Bendtzen, Kathy Louder, Tina McClure and Katie Brooks. Miss Miller is the captain.

FHA Names New Committeeman

Gordon Lewis has been named the new county committeeman for Farmers Home Administration. He succeeds Curt Lewis.

Gordon Fogle, FHA County Supervisor, in announcing the appointment of the new committeeman, explained that a committeeman serves a three-year term and doesn't succeed himself. Gordon Lewis will serve the area with the office in Morehead. He was one of 67 appointments recently announced by John H. Burris, FHA State Director. Burris stated in his announcement that 41 of the appointees are women "showing that women are accepting a greater share in assuming public service positions."

FHA committeemen certify all applicants as to eligibility for FHA services. Applicants who can obtain loans from other sources at reasonable rates and terms are not eligible for FHA loans, according to Fogle.

Burris pointed out that over 400,000 Kentuckians currently are benefiting from services of FHA. He anticipates that more than 20,000 more rural people will join the group in 1974 fiscal year. "These people will use housing, farm operating, farm ownership, water and sewer loans, and other authorities of the agency," Burris said.

Kentucky's Birth, Death Rates Reported Declining

Approximately 6,000 fewer Kentuckians were born in 1972 than in 1971, according to a comparison of provisional vital statistics reports published by the State Department of Health's Division of Research, Planning and Statistics for those two years. Deaths decreased by about 100.

Provisional statistics generally reflect trends, says Bill Mackey, division director. Official, totally accurate vital statistics aren't permanent until published in a report usually produced one year or more after the date it carries. Weeding out duplicate birth and death certificates and publication production account for the time lag.

The provisional report says 50,852 Kentuckians were born in 1972. Kentucky's 1971 provisional figure was 56,983. The birth rate declined, then, from 17.7 in 1971 to 15.7 in 1972. (Birth and death rates are figured on a basis of number of occurrences per 1,000 population.)

The death rate also decreased from 9.8 per 1,000 population in 1971 to a provisional figure of 9.7 in 1972. Numerically, 31,458

Kentuckians died in 1972. 31,552 deaths were recorded in the provisional report the year before.

Leading causes of death remained stable. A few more Kentuckians died in 1972 from influenza and pneumonia and diabetes than in 1971. Heart disease, cancer and stroke continued to lead the list of killers. Accidents, influenza and pneumonia, and diabetes mellitus retained fourth, fifth and sixth positions. Arteriosclerosis provisionally rose to seventh place, replacing certain causes of mortality in early infancy, which dropped to eighth. Suicide was again ninth, a place it took for the first time in 1971. Emphysema was tenth.

Maternal deaths showed numerical and rate decreases in the provisional report. Maternal deaths were nearly cut in half — 15 in 1971, eight in 1972. Stillbirths were down from 705 in 1971 to 637 in 1972. Stillbirth rates are figured on the number per 1,000 total births. This rate was 12.2 in 1971 and 12.4 in 1972. Maternal death rates, figured on the number per 10,000 live births, dropped from 2.6 in 1971 to 1.6 in 1972.

AWARD RECIPIENT... Leland Hall is shown above with a certificate of award presented him by the Extension Service, University of Kentucky, for his work in Rural Community Development. This award was presented at the Annual Awards meeting of the North East Kentucky Rural Community Development Association held at the Henry Clay Hotel in Ashland on Saturday evening of last week. Mr. Hall has been active in Community Development work in his community and at the county level. He has served as a member of the Board of Directors of the NERKCD for four years.

Tobacco

There have been several different kinds of tobacco troubles this year among which have been organic toxicity, manganese toxicity, root rot and chemical injury. Organic toxicity and root rot cause reduced vigor of the plants, and treatment recommended usually is side dressing with ammonium nitrate. Manganese toxicity, caused by acid soils, is corrected by application of lime. Chemical injury is usually damage caused by 2,4, D or other herbicides if used, they should not, be used close to the tobacco field during hot weather. They may drift for several hundred feet and cause tobacco damage.

Bulletins

We hope that you know about our bulleting service. We have bulletins both from University of Kentucky and U.S.D.A. on most any subject. This is a free service and can be obtained by stopping by the Extension Office in the basement of the Courthouse or by calling 784-5457 or 784-8416.

Fertilizer For Forages

Kentucky farmers are using more fertilizer for forage crops. Warren Thompson, Extension Forage Specialist, estimates that there has been an increase in the past ten years of over 50 percent in the number of farmers fertilizing forage crops. The application of lime, phosphate and potash on grass leucaena pastures has been the leading fertilizer practice. The use of nitrogen in the late summer on fescue and bluegrass to promote growth for fall and winter grazing is also becoming more popular.

Planned Calving Pays

One of the advantages of a planned calving season for the beef cow herd is that it allows the sale of calves in groups. That is pointed out by Curtis Absher, Extension Beef Cattle Specialist, at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. He says market studies show that selling calves in groups of the same kind brings an additional $5 to $20 per calf over selling calves in single lots.

What Happens To Land

Of our 634 million acres of potential cropland in the United States, we are cultivating 36 million acres. Each year we take out one million acres for parks and playground. We also take out 420 thousand acres for urban development, 160 thousand acres for airports and roads, and 420 thousand acres for lakes.

Pest Control

Jim Kirkland of the Dow Chemical Company was in the county Thursday putting out a trial on the Harve McBrayer place using a material called Tordon for control of multiflora rose.

Parasites

Jim Bingham of the United States Department of Agriculture visited farms having alfalfa Thursday checking on presence of a parasite of the alfalfa weevil that has been released by the U.S.D.A. It is hoped that this parasite will control the alfalfa weevil.

Farm Chemicals

We sent every tobacco farmer a letter last week telling about the new regulations on the use of chemicals by the OSHA. Crops covered for Kentucky are tobacco, apples, peaches and grapes. If you have any questions, stop by the Extension Office; we have revised regulations posted on the bulletin board.

Beef Cattle Important

Beef cattle are now ahead of tobacco as the number one source of agricultural income for the state of Kentucky. Kentucky ranks 10th nationally in Beef cow numbers. There are 89,000 beef cattle farms in the state with the sale of cattle and cows accounting for almost 313 million dollars in farm income in 1972.

Testing Reveals Brucellosis In Cattle

Expanded testing for brucellosis and tighter surveillance on movement of cattle is revealing an alarming number of infected animals, Dr. Tom Maddox, state veterinarian, reports.

Brucellosis, commonly known as "bang's disease," is primarily concerned with reproduction in cattle. Affecting breeding — or if contracted during pregnancy can cause abortion of the unborn calf. The disease is not physically visible and in some cases is transmittable to humans in the form of undulant fever.

Dr. Maddox says that on the surface, it would appear that brucellosis is increasing among Kentucky herds, when actually the tougher program is finding more reactors (those animals which respond positively to tests for brucellosis).

Cattle Being Tested

"We are not letting cattle move from one yard to another without being tested first," Dr. Maddox says. "If a reactor shows up at stockyard, we are making all cattle accompanying this reactor go back to the farm of origin under quarantine or to slaughter."

Dr. Maddox said another reason for the upswing in the number of reactors is the fact the state of Tennessee is testing all cattle 18 months old and over, going through markets there. In the past, farmers including those in Kentucky, suspecting that they had infected animals, could take them to a Tennessee market to be sold without a test. Consequently, if the animals were infected, the lack of testing at the selling point meant that the infection remained unknown to health officials.

In an effort to further the brucellosis eradication program, Dr. Maddox is calling upon cattle farmers for help. He makes the following suggestions to cattlemen:

Beware of Purchase

Do not buy cattle from a livestock dealer or another farmer without having a brucellosis test. At the time, it might seem cheaper, but in the end, it will cost a great deal more.

All breeding cattle bought from sale, stockyard, livestock dealers or other farmers should be kept isolated from other cattle and be tested again in 30 days. They may have been exposed to brucellosis, the incubation period is from 21 to 30 days, which was not evident at the time of purchase.

If calves are vaccinated, this should be done as close as possible to 3 months of age. A lot of calves and heifers are being brought into Kentucky from western states and are being vaccinated at ages from 8 to 12 months. Consideration is being given to stopping the use of vaccine in Kentucky. Abuse of vaccine accounts for a good percentage of the problems encountered today.

Under Quarantine

If a reactor is found in a herd, speed is important in its removal to keep other animals from being infected. All brucellosis infected herds will be under quarantine until the herd has 3 negative tests not less than 120 days from the date the reactor was sold.

State Agriculture Commissioner Wendell Butler urged farmers to cooperate with the requests being made by Dr. Maddox. He said most farmers have cooperated well in the past, helping to advance the eradication effort.

"Brucellosis is a costly disease," Butler said, "and every cattlemen should be dedicated to its eradication. We have come a long way in the past two decades and it would be a shame for us to falter now, particularly when we are in sight of full eradication."

Publisher's Pen...

Day-by-day set-down, and editorial observations of the publisher of this newspaper

We ran into Harry Lancaster, the affluent Athletic Director of the University of Kentucky, over the weekend and he said that work is being expedited on the new multimillion dollar UK stadium but it might be "touch and go" whether it's completed for the first scheduled game.

One of the factors which couldn't fill its old stadium, and the Wildcats still almost finish at or near the bottom of the Southeastern Conference football standings, the huge expenditure of public funds for a big stadium reminds me of the man who wanted to be married who built a five bedroom house for his bride, and after marriage discovered that he was sterile.

This is an era of "celebrations" in Morehead.

Last year the community observed, appropriately so, the 50th anniversary of Morehead State University. Incidentally, the perpetual bronze plaque expressing the feeling of gratitude of our citizens to the University and its successful administration will soon be erected, probably at University Boulevard and the northeast corner of Second Street.

Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc. Saturday laid preliminary plans for celebrating the 100th anniversary of St. Claire Medical Center, on August 15.

Two big deals are coming up in 1974. One is the local and area observance of Kentucky's Bicentennial. The first white settlement west of the Alleghenies was in 1774 at Harrodsburg.

The other is opening of Cave Run reservoir. This is written Monday and our pretty and efficient Editor advises she has regular engineering work in September in Cave Run construction, maybe water seepage. If that be true, the story will appear elsewhere in this issue of the good old Morehead News. We're hoping - in fact, sure - of praying, that the delays at Cave Run, a project that this newspaper has editorially (and individually) advocated since 1959.

Then, of course the 100th Kentucky Derby will be run next year. That'll really call for a celebration by all you readers who wager on the hope that this column handicaps as the winner.

If this Publisher should get married in 1974, which we ain't planning to do as of now, then 1974 would be a humdinger "celebrating" year for this old codger.

Too much celebrating can result in one heck of a hangover and subsequent misgivings.

A few years back we penned an item about a "widow" woman.

One of them learned Ph.D.'s at the University wrote us a mean letter, and said we should never refer to a widow as a widow woman. He said a woman who lost her husband by death is a widow, and a man who lost his wife by death is a widower. Of course, he's grammatically correct, but folks in this area have been referring to "widow woman" so long that it's become colloquial. However, it's sort of odd that people do refer to a "widow woman" but never to a "widow man."

We received a dozen of them delicious small apple turnover pies over the weekend from two fine ladies who reside on Grassy Creek. Their card - "From two widow women - Riva Ross and Stella McKinney."

We know Riva, but can't recall Stella. It seems appropriate to include a personal visit to Grassy Creek because this Publisher sure likes them apple turnovers (pies) (delicious for breakfast when re-heated). There may be more goodies on Grassy Creek than we had realized.

A lifetime friend, Prentiss Bach, delivered the apple pies. He also brought us an autographed copy - "Memoirs of a Happy Hooker." Pauline's autograph was Prentiss', not Pauline's.

As most of you who follow this column know, Pauline Tabor, who operated "Pauline's Place" at the recreation center in Bowling Green for almost 40 years, has attained national acclaim.

When the house was torn down in an urban renewal project, some enterprising men bid it in. They cleaned up financially. One even paid several hundred dollars for a strip of wall paper, certified as having been taken from the ceiling in a certain room and above a specified bed.

We understand that the cream shipping can which set for years on the front porch went at a premium price. When Pauline's Place was open for business the can was outside the front door, when closed the can was taken inside.

The bricks from "Pauline's Place" were carefully removed, and preserved. They sold at $6 each. Aubrey Rather, who recently moved from Morehead, was in our office the week before Christmas three years ago, handed us one of the authentic bricks with the comment: "I brought you a Christmas present and think you will like it. It is a brick from a building that you frequented and patronized." We neither admitted or denied that we had ever heard of "Pauline's Place" or partook of its pleasures. But, we kept the brick and it is an excellent conversation piece.

We haven't had the chance to read Pauline's book, but know that we will recognize some of the persons even though the names are fictitious. They will consist of former Governors, U.S. Senators, bankers, business executives, some of the best known names in sports etc. They'll be a smattering of people high in the journalistic field, although as a general rule it is an established truism that newspapermen have high depend on the press - newspapers. We do know that at every governmental level, federal, state and local - there is strong and growing evidence that politicians and office holders are trying to pass and enforce laws contrary to the Constitution which intended to guarantee freedom of the press.

It's sort of odd, but understandable, that politicians (or statesmen as Alben Barkley preferred to call them) are more sensitive to who is for or against them than other professions.

For example, at the State Capitol where the democrats are now in control, everybody loves the newspapers for their wonderful and factual coverage of Watergate, but detest and criticize newspapers for reporting about such things as the All American Movers scandal.

Throughout most of our adult life we have known that the segment of people with the most sensitive skins are politicians, be democrats or republicans. Their prestige, image and jobs depend on public opinion.

The above reminds us of an incident when Sparky Anderson became Manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Visiting the ball park, Anderson ran across a man who seemed to be in charge of everything. He inquired what his position was, and the man replied: "I'm the grounds keeper." I've seen Grounds Managers come and go but I'm still here, and I'll be here when you're gone."

So, the politicians, come and go (and die usually broken-hearted) but the news media remains strong through every administration and stands tall and incorruptible!

A friend, Dr. Ben K. Patton, 813 N. Wilson Avenue, called and wanted our recipe for fresh peach ice cream.

We looked back in our files of three years ago, and found it. We re-read our column about making fresh peach ice cream and how friends were Tom Sawyer into furnishing the ingredients and did all the work while this Publisher supervised, and concluded it was one of the best columns we had ever written. It's strong through every administration and stands tall and incorruptible!

The fresh peach season is almost on us, and herewith is the recipe you may note that no cooking is required, and the most delicious peach ice cream you have ever eaten, with minimum work, is guaranteed -

- ### Fresh Peach Ice Cream
- 2 cups sugar
  - 4 cups fresh peaches, sliced
  - 5 eggs
  - Two 13-oz. cans. evaporated milk (two tall cans)
  - 2 cups whole milk
  - 1 1/2 cups vanilla
- Mix sugar and peaches, mashing the peaches. Set aside. Beat eggs in large bowl of electric mixer at medium speed. Mix in evaporated milk, whole milk, and vanilla. Stir in peaches. Pour into freezer can. Freeze according to general operating directions. Makes approximately 1-gallon.

The peach ice cream recipe is not copyrighted, and you are welcome to it. We might accept an invitation to help you enjoy the ice cream particularly if the invitation is from a pretty widow woman, or divorcee.

We visited a good friend recently and she played one of those old, Woody Woodbury records. Woody says that the ideal wife is deaf and dumb; oversexed; and owns a liquor store.

We read that a Congressman was asked if he believed that Nixon knew about the Watergate affair. He replied: "Well, if he didn't he's like the man who played the piano in a house of prostitution for five years and didn't know what was going on upstairs."

We personally know, favorably so, Mayor George Archer of Prestonsburg, a leader in the medical profession, who was gunned down last week. No arrests have been made, and police indicate they have no strong suspects. Members of the family and close friends said that Dr. Archer had no known enemies. We take this with a grain of doubt - no man reaches the high stature in life in eastern Kentucky, including political leadership, as this column previously suggested for the definition of pismire?

One of the major drawbacks of this genteel Morehead community is an oversupply of human pismires.

Topless sunbathing has added to the excitement of girl watching in France this hot summer, in two ways this one.

Outraged husbands have taken to shooting at the watchers.

An 18-year-old man peering through a hedge at a topless housewife picking apricots on her property on the Riviera this week was seriously wounded by a rifle shot from her irate husband.

A brawl on a Corsican beach ended with a woman pulling a shot and landed two vacationing couples and five Paris youths in the police station.

The fracas was touched off by the appearance of Michelle Osselant, 28, sunbathing nude on a beach near Porto Vecchio.

Her husband, a doctor from France, took exception to the persistent stare of Laurent Minighetti, 19, and words led to blows.

Uncomplained to police but also returned to the beach accompanied by his brother and three cousins. Another couple joined the Osselants.

Osselant pulled a revolver, police said, and fired two shots into the air and two into the sand. His friend also aimed a gun. Police hailed the entire group to jail to cool off, then released them on instructions to remain on hand for investigation.

LE Party pantheons, displayed in a plastic container shaped like an ostrich egg and fitted in the end of a cardboard cylinder, reported sales of $35,000,000 in 1971. The firm had problems, however, with shipping damage and pilferage when the bottom of the cylinder worked loose and was removed by shoppers who put the egg back on the shelf without the hoisery.

Herman Kappeler and Robert A. Wellons Jr. have solved the problem with the improved package for which they have received patent No. 3,741,379. The cylinder bottom is now tightly closed and cannot be removed without detection.

The patent is assigned to Niernand Industries, Inc., Statesville, N.C., which makes the cardboard cylinders. The pantheons are manufactured and distributed by the Hanes Corp., Winston-Salem, N.C. Current sales are reported to be at an annual rate exceeding 100,000,000 pairs of pantheons.

The Morehead News has received numerous calls and inquiries "What has happened about the absentee ballot box in Rowan County being emptied by a federal grand jury at Lexington?"

We don't know, and the United States Attorney won't tell.

Recently we printed the many "firsts" on integration at Morehead State University, probably the nation's leading institution of higher learning for compliance.

In that recital it was mentioned that the first black homecoming queen of any mixed race university or college south of the Ohio River was Lydia Lewis an MSU student from Mayville. That was in 1967.

The same Lydia Lewis became Miss Kentucky in the final eliminations at Louisville Saturday.

Wanna bet she won't be among the five finalists at Atlantic City ... or maybe Miss America of 1973?

Lydia's picture is in this issue, probably page 60. Although this Publisher is an old Confederate at heart, we must admit that Lydia has all the attributes of a girl you'd like to walk hand in hand with up Evans Branch after sundown.

It is conclusive that this has been the worst year to gather a good mess of bullfrogs in Rowan County's 117 year history.

Sister Mary Joell, administrator of St. Claire Medical Center, Saturday told the Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc. that health care the third largest business in the United States.

We hadn't thought about it, but compute in our mind that she's correct.

It's probably the second largest business in Morehead and Rowan County, considering all the facets - hospital, MSU nursing program, physicians, convalescent home, prescription drugs, mental health center, physical health, etc. Only Morehead State University with annual payroll of $6 and one half million would be larger in our community.

St. Claire Medical Center operated its first year July 1, 1963 through June 30, 1964, on a budget of $450,000. The budget for this fiscal year is $2,300,000. St. Claire Medical Center employs 208 people.

Add to this payroll, all the out of town patients, and people visiting patients - the amount of money they spend in Morehead while here ... and you come up with an idea of the economic importance of St. Claire.

The good Lord has many white marks opposite the names of a great many local and area people - some a constructive leader, but gave all they could afford - who conceived and helped perpetuate this hospital - and are now further contributing to its growth and progress.

Truly, Morehead has become the health care center of northeastern Kentucky - one of our predictions, made 11 years ago, that we has so pleasantly and fruitfully come true.

While fleeing a woman who attacked him with scissors in a restaurant, a diner fell 50 feet down a cliff and landed in a cageful of hungry brown bears, the Belgrade daily Vecernje Novosti reported.

Doctors said the man's life was still in danger as a result of a mauling by three bears.

Spasoje Vitas, a 26-year-old Belgrade shop assistant, was dining at the cliffside restaurant overlooking a zoo in the Kalemegdan Fortress Park.

During an argument, a woman diner pulled a pair of scissors from her handbag and attacked Vitas, who jumped over the restaurant fence to escape.

The only thing on the other side was a 50-foot drop into the pitch dark bear cage. Vitas landed on the back of one of the animals, the paper added, and for the next 30 minutes he was mercilessly mauled by the bears. The animals had been awaiting food the restaurant was open every night.

Diners tried to help Vitas by hurling bricks, rocks, bottles and chairs at the animals. Finally police and zookeepers managed to separate the bears from their victim with iron bars and push the bleeding, battered Vitas to a hospital.

If the Readers Digest doesn't cease sending those $25,000 a year for life direct mail letters we won't buy the envelope and mail it back ... A woman doesn't really reform a man; she just nags his spirit down to a nub ... The value of the dollar has fallen near the bottom of the point where a dollar to a doughnut would be an even bet ... We hope a speedy recovery for President Nixon, and have previously stated that the worst thing that could happen is impeachment charges. But, we have a fair idea that the President didn't run as high a temperature as many a consumer does over these high prices as big business runs rampant and in violation of anti-trust laws

Apparent Heart Attack Claims Former Resident

Mrs. Lucy Martin Banasiak, 58, formerly of Morehead, died unexpectedly Saturday night in Toledo, Ohio, following an apparent heart attack. Mrs. Banasiak, who had her home in Toledo for 35 years, had been hospitalized about three weeks.

Born Sept. 5, 1915, in Wisconsin, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Martin. She was a member of the Catholic faith.

Surviving are her husband, William Banasiak of Toledo; one daughter, Mrs. Michael Brunnermet of Akron, Ohio; four sisters, Mrs. John W. Bays, Mrs. Elmer Hamilton and Mrs. Mary Tackett, all of Morehead, and Mrs. Charles Daniel of Barberton, Ohio; and four grandsons.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday at a Catholic church in Toledo. Burial was in Toledo.

Urbanski Funeral Home in Toledo was in charge of arrangements.

If there is a shortage of gasoline, why is it just as hard as ever in Morehead to find a parking space? Many Europeans are rapidly getting rid of their American dollars. Many Americans are doing the same thing. The ghost of thousands of baby chicks that were killed by drowning or suffocation have been haunting the Cost of Living Council. Parting shot to Women Libs. If women should have equal rights with men, then this Publisher insists that men should have equal special privileges with women.

Reprinted from the July 15, 1973 edition of the Louisville COURIER-JOURNAL

Joe Mauk, left, a forest technician working on campfires near the new Cave Run Lake in the Daniel Boone National Forest, talks with Richard Bonyata, head ranger for the Morehead District. Bonyata's job is largely administrative, and he spends much of his time in his office, below. When he goes into the field, it's usually to inspect the work being done in his 110,000-acre district.

Modern forest ranger prefers a city home

By KEITH RYNION

MOREHEAD, Ky.—People who don't know Dick Bonyata very well sometimes ask him how he manages to work as a forest ranger and rear a family at the same time. Doesn't it get lonely for them, living so far from the city in an isolated cabin in the woods? Don't they miss seeing a doctor? Does he spend his time fighting forest fires and hobnobbing with raccoons, rabbits and deer?

When this question is posed, the normally sober-faced Bonyata breaks into a grin. "That may have been a fairly accurate way of describing a ranger's life, 30 years ago," he said. "But today a ranger like Bonyata, who is in charge of the Morehead District of the Daniel Boone National Forest in Northern Kentucky, finds himself more a business executive than a backwoodsman. That a ranger's style of living has changed during the last 30 years isn't regretted by Bonyata, his wife or their four children. Since his office at the entrance to the forest is only minutes from their comfortable brick home in the center of Morehead, his family sees plenty of him. His wife, Marilee Bonyata, grew up down the street from her husband in Grinnell, Iowa, married him and went with him to Iowa State University. When Bonyata, now 41, studied there in the mid-1950s, he followed pre-med courses with his eye on a career in optometry. But a summer job in a lumber yard brought him into contact with timber men and rangers, and soon afterward, he switched his major to forestry. After graduation in 1957, he joined the U.S. Forest Service, and he's been with them ever since.

Bonyata has a staff of some 16 assistants, several of whom are specialists in fields like timber management, fire, insect and disease protection, recreation management, landscape architecture and range management. Although Bonyata is well-versed in each of these fields, his is a supervisory and decision-making role. Consequently, most of his time is either spent behind a desk, on the telephone, or in meetings at the forest headquarters in Winchester, Ky.

Probably at least 90 per cent of my time is spent in the office doing correspondence, coordinating staff work in the district and making plans and regulations for this district," he said. His district, one of seven in the national forest, is made up of areas Rowan,

Bath, Menifee and Morgan counties and covers some 110,000 acres. When he goes into the field on an inspection tour, it's possible to check on the timber being marked for harvesting, to see how the landscaping is progressing in a timber-cutting area, or perhaps, in most recent months, to look over the site of Cave Run Lake, a new man-made recreation facility being built in the forest near Morehead. One traditional role that forest rangers haven't abandoned in their vigilance in preventing forest fires. "We've been fortunate here that we don't have bad fires like they do out West," Bonyata said in the five years he's been in Kentucky, there has only been an average of four forest fires a year, and none of them has been very serious. When fire does break out, he is able to call in help from other districts of the forest.

While Bonyata oversees several campuses in the forest, neither he nor his wife care much for camping. Golf is his sport. "I like to play, but I don't get a lot of time to do it," he said. Mrs. Bonyata is involved in Morehead civic affairs—she serves as president of the Rowan County 4-H Council, has worked as a Welcome Wagon hostess and is active in the Rowan County High PTA Booster Club and Morehead United Methodist Church. The Bonyatas have three children living at home and one who is married. The eldest, Mrs. Becky Wells, 21, now lives in Hampton, Va., but last week, she and her two sons—Michael, 21 1/2, and Rick, 17, 8 months—paid a visit to her parents. The three other Bonyata children are Chuck, 16, Betsy, 13, and Ricky, 7. "From a family standpoint," Bonyata said, "if you have children, you want to be accessible to schools, doctors, shopping, dentists and the like." Living in the wilderness would isolate his family from many of these services. Both the Bonyata boys are active in sports—Chuck plays on the Rowan County football team and Ricky has joined a baseball league. With his salary of about $19,000 a year, Bonyata and his family must feel like they have a pretty good life for themselves here. Yet, like a lot of other people whose businesses frequently transfer them, they have worries too. Since he joined the forest service in

The proportions of Negro and white graduates from high schools who enrolled in college were approximately equal for the first time in October, 1972 - 48 percent for black graduates and 49 percent for white graduates, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Rev. Ted Greene
This Month's Editor

his heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord." God has not promised His children freedom from trouble or tidings. But thoughts, not things or tidings, cause worry.

There are the thoughts about the past: the faults and failures. And there are the thoughts about the future: what might happen tonight and tomorrow.

The child of God confesses the mischief and mistakes of the past. They are forgiven and forgotten, and God turns the setbacks into successes.

What of the unknown future? It is committed to the known God. He turns the obstacles into opportunities, and He enables the trusting soul to triumph.

When Sir Harry Lauder received word that his son was killed in World War I, he said to a friend, "At a time like this, man will turn to grief and become a grouch; or he will turn to drink and become a drunkard; or he will turn to Christ and become a Christian. I will turn to Christ."

Will you?
