Washington Merry-go-round Kaiser Backs Drive for Large Turnout at Polls

Election of Enterprising Officers Assures Program for Full Productivity, Famed Shipbuilder Tells Countrymen.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C. Now what about this job business that voters have so much to do with?

Mr. Kaiser's views on this subject will startle a lot of people. But they will not startle many of the members of the fraternity of big businessmen who, like Mr. Kaiser, know that their lives are cluttered with the same spread that covers the slice in the working man's life.

Mr. Kaiser believes in three principles: 1. High wages. (This is a hot one for the old-fashioned tycoon to swallow.) 2. Increased production. (That isn't so terrifying.) 3. The price. (Ar, her bombshell.)

These are necessary, he believes, to end unemployment which is in turn vital not only to prosperity but the only escape from depression, disintegration and war.

Kaiser Mentions Production Needs

Two essentials which he named immediately were: first, competition (that is, removal of monopoly), second, "credit." ("And," his son, who one of Kaiser's expert associates, pointed from the end of the table "guys.")

Mr. Kaiser told a number of off-the-record stories of how monopolies and trusts had kept him out of one business after another merely because they had monopolies and didn't want to face competition with a man who had learned how to make money by paying high wages, producing efficiently and selling at low cost.

At to credit, the stories he told would curl your hair. But Kaiser didn't blame the banks or the investment banks for refusing to loan capital to producers. But he did offer a way out. He suggested an international credit institution. An organization which would lend money on new ventures, giving them, say three-year loans; if these ventures showed a good record, then they would be normal investment for banks.

If private capital wouldn't go into intermediate financing, let the government do it under the same system as the Federal reserve system, said Mr. Kaiser.

But in the end the whole program comes back to jobs. A survey of his own workers showed that over 90 per cent of them had saved money for investment and also showed that the thing they wanted to invest in was automobiles. An automobile. That's what he expected. But, no, the answer was—a home. But there was no such assurance of security—of a job.

I suppose Kaiser had built nearly two-score successful businesses (he said his shipyards had built half the merchant ships in one-half the time they had been built before) and yet real distress came over his face as he began to talk about the tremendous possibilities for industry in other lines as yet unexplored.

"Think of it," he said, pounding the table. "58 per cent of the freight cars in this country are 25 years old. In the rest of the world, all China and build new ones. China would be glad to pay us in raw materials we need."

Some one asked him about surplus property disposal and that led him back to ships.

"You those we don't need—I'll be home—over in the countries that have lost all their shipping in the war, at a nominal rental—lend them ships to sell with the agreement that these countries will buy them when they can, and pay us in raw materials."

"The trouble with us," he said, "is that we measure values in dollars. It's our dollars that all that matters, it's a labor." (Back to jobs again.)

"Finally, he had to hurry away to an appointment. He shook out strands and begged each of us to help get out the vote this year.

"We can make this country roll," he said, "if we add to the smile—of course we'll have to walk up some of the Rip van Winkles."

Five Border States Hold Key To Presidential Race, Group Says

By SIMON MICHELETT, President, National Get-Out-Vote Club

The midway group of five border states, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma, and West Virginia, have again come into the political limelight as the fighting ground for the Presidential election of 1944.

The old campaign saying that "as good Maine so goes the election" has lost its political significance. But there is significance in the border-state trend. It can be said convincingly that—as go the five border states so goes the Presidential election.

This is seen by a glance at the national returns in the past six Presidential elections since women began to vote for President:

In 1920, four of the five border states—all except Kentucky by the narrow margin of 4,000 votes—voted for Harding, who was elected President.

In 1924, four of the five again—all except Oklahoma—voted for Coolidge who was elected.

In 1928, all five of the border states voted for Hoover, who was elected.

In 1932, 1936, and 1940, all five border states voted for Roosevelt, who was elected three times in a row.

But since the "off-year" 1938 there has been a marked drift of the election vote in each of the five states. This is shown in all election tests—the vote for governor, for U. S. Senator, for members of the U. S. House of Representatives.

In 1938, the Democrats in the border states had all five governors, all ten U. S. Senators, and all but three members of the U. S. House of Representatives. In 1938, the Democrats in the border states had all five governors, all ten U. S. Senators, and all but three members of the House of Representatives from the five border states. Six years pass.

In 1944, the Republicans hold the chair of Governor in two states, Kentucky and Missouri; two U. S. Senators, from Oklahoma and West Virginia; and 16 members of the House of Representatives—a net gain of two governors, two U. S. Senators, and 13 members of the House.

This Republican trend has been on the way for some time. In 1932, the Democratic plurality in the five border states for President aggregated 1,129,862. In 1940, this Democratic aggregate plurality dropped to 599,976—a drop of 50 percent in eight years.

In the meantime, the total Republican vote of the five border states rose from 1,682,511 in 1932 to 2,272,223 in 1940—a gain of 606,000, or approximately 40 percent in eight years.

In 1932, there were only three Republican members of the House of Representatives from the five border states—one each from Kentucky, Missouri, and W. Virginia. Today, there are 16 Republican House members from the five border states—two from Kentucky, two from Maryland, eight from Missouri, one from Oklahoma, and three from W. Virginia—a net gain of thirteen.

Moreover, the Democrats in many districts are holding their pluralities by narrow margins, and some may lose to Republican candidates in 1944. In twenty congressional districts of the five border states, or nearly half of the total 42 congressional districts, the Democratic margin in 1942 averaged only 5,000 votes per district. Such margin is readily swept away in a Presidential election.

It is therefore apparent that the five border states, especially in the light of the elections since 1920, have again become a fighting ground in the Presidential election. Together, the five states have a substantial bunch of Electoral College votes. Kentucky in 1944 has eleven electoral votes; Maryland & Missouri 15, Oklahoma 10, W. Virginia 8—a total of 52 Electoral College votes, or 5 more than New York state, and 13 more than the combined Pacific Coast vote of California, Oregon, and Washington.

It has become the custom of political prophets and the press to look upon New York and the Pacific Coast as the sections which will decide the issue of November. But it appears that the five border states have a political significance greater than either New York or the Pacific Coast. Another factor worth pondering is the fact that either accidentally or because moved by a common cause, the five border states seem to have an uncanny habit of moving in concert, as witness their votes in the past six Presidential elections. In 1920, 1924, and 1928 they had a Republican urge—in 1932, 1936, and 1940 a Democratic urge—and now, since 1938, they show another Republican trend. Twice they seemed to have raised the slogan—"Three Times and Out." What are they up to in 1944?

Perhaps the answer is found: (1) in the trend of the Presidential vote from 1926 to 1940 in the five border states; (2) in the trend of the Congressional record from 1938 to 1942 in the border states.

Here again the greatest change was in Missouri, followed by Oklahoma. This trend was marked by changes in State elections. Missouri in 1944 having a Republican governor, and Oklahoma having a Republican U. S. Senator.

Taking as a yardstick of the border state trend the congressional vote of the 42 congressional districts of the five states yields the following result—this time comparing the two "off-year" elections of 1938 and 1942.

Decline of the Democratic congressional plurality in the five border states from 822,447 in 1938 to 143,592 in 1942 amounted to a shrinkage of 678,855, or 82 percent. Congressional losses have followed the Democrats of the border states since 1932. But a 82 percent loss of the Democratic plurality from 1933 to 1942 is an indication of the popular trend. The loss of two governors, two U. S. Senators, and 13 members of the House, to the Democrats of the border states places this group of five states with their 52 electoral college votes in the close fighting field for Presidential candidates in 1944.

They may not go back to their Republican affiliations of 1920, 1924, and 1928, but they have departed from their 1932-1936 political records so far that they now rank with New York, Pennsylvania, and the Pacific States as one of the main fighting grounds of 1944.

Action On Our Garbage Disposal

The Morehead Board of Trade, through the assistance of The Rowan County and other civic organizations, is laying the plans for conducting a poll of Morehead residents and taxpayers to determine their reaction toward the creation of a suitable garbage disposal system.

Morehead's garbage disposal system, or more appropriately, lack of any system or plan, has come in for much civic discussion for the past several years but never before has there been a concentrated movement.

Everyone, including the City Council, seem to be in accord in most respects concerning the matter. All agree that Morehead needs a garbage disposal plan. There are several methods of disposal that should be deferred until after the war. This seems to be a far-fetched idea, because, for several reasons the time for action is now. Principal among these reasons is that the Army has already started disposing of trucks and other equipment at a fraction of their cost and other plans for civic use. Morehead would qualify for the purchase of such equipment. It can be bought now.

We have never seen any situation clear itself up by continued deferring action. Certainly, Morehead's garbage will continue to permeate the atmosphere, provide food for rodents and breeding places for insects and create the stench which menace it has for years unless some action is taken.

The financing of the plan is, of course, the problem. It would entail an initial outlay of perhaps $2,000. This would be for at least one truck and the ground for the disposal site. The present best plan is deep ditch would be dug and the garbage would be dumped there and covered over by scrapers. A team of horses could, no doubt, be rented one day a week or perhaps a half day would suffice to cover the garbage.

After the initial outlay there would be the fixed monthly cost of operating the truck and paying the collector. This would perhaps run about a hundred dollars a month.

One member of the City Council advises that the City is not in financial shape to install and then maintain the garbage disposal system. Yet, it is obviously the City's problem and only can be solved at the City Hall.

It is the duty of the Board of Trade to present to the City their plan with an itemized breakdown of the cost. By working together and if Moreheadians support the Board of Trade's plan there is no doubt but that it can be worked out. If and when public sentiment is strong enough, some solution will be found.

But, so long as everybody takes the attitude of letting the other fellow see about it we will be in the same boat as during these last several years of discussion on garbage disposal.

We urge Moreheadians to look into the matter. Cooperate with the civic organizations. They are making an earnest effort to abolish a nuisance to the people's health.

Follow the Leader

In a recent speech the Earl of Halifax paid tribute to General Eisenhower in the following words:

"Quite apart from the priceless value of his services in a military sense, I believe that no one has done more for Anglo-American relations in the broadest sense. He never asks if this or that man is British or American; all he wants to know is that if he is the right man for the right job. In this way, in France as in North Africa he has made two fighting forces into one."

This is truly a great tribute by a great statesman to a great general. In our pride in the recognition, however, let us not overlook the lessons that lie therein.

First—the secret of generalship—to properly delegate authority, to pick the right man for the job without permitting personalities, prejudices, or self interest to enter into the picture. A true leader is above pettiness. That is why he gets things done. That is why he can plan and push through his plans into successful execution.

General Eisenhower did not free France by quibbling, by pettiness, or oratory—but by doing his job with the best tools at his command, by respecting the men he used, picking them by ability, not by background.

Second—the personal challenge. Carry this idea down into the realm of your life in your own community.

You say, as do we all, that we must act as Americans, judging each other as people undivided in our joyous unity—but do you always permit your neighbor to be an American first? Or do you otherwise characterize him?
Do you, like your General, pick the men with whom you deal because of their individual ability and integrity? Or do you first consider their backgrounds, their religion, their politics, and lastly their character? Do you let your neighbor be an American or do you hypnotize him?

This has been, this is a big war. It has caused big leadership to be developed. Let us try to let some of that bigness seep down into our own hearts and into our own lives. Let US be big enough to ALL be Americans.

Pulpwood Maps Speed Victory

The United States Army today is better equipped with maps of the territory it invades than any army in history. With every new advance revealing every roadway, stream and hill are made available to our fighting forces. One news story related that captured German officers were found to be using these American-made maps in preference to their own.

Aside from their remarkable accuracy, these maps are marvels in paper construction. They can be soaked in water, gasoline, ammonia, with blood, or even mud without suffering any damage that soap and water won't remove. Pulpwood cutters can feel justly proud of this development in paper making because they are a part of it. A large part of the value of this paper is that it can be furnished our troops in huge quantities when they need it most.

More than 70 million maps were used in the invasion of Normandy. Ten million were used in the North American invasion. Ten tons of maps were dropped by parachute to Gen. Patton's army when it sped across France.

Thus pulpwood is doing a specialized job which pays dividends in lives saved and enables our armies to advance with the swiftness of a "wood" today may be used to make the maps for the invasion of Berlin and Tokio.

Voting As A War-Time Civic Duty

In Tribute to the Men and Women in Uniform—as they fight for their Country in the Armed Forces U. S. A.

It is an axiom of law that every Right has its corresponding Duty. Both the U. S. Constitution and the Constitutions of most of the 48 States declare voting—not merely a "privilege"—but a Right, and hence a Civic Duty.

Slackers on election day set up the alibi that voting is a "privilege" which carries no civic duty. "What rights under colors can a deserter 'privilege'?" He would be shot as a deserter.

It is the duty of an American to his country less as a voter than as a fighter. If that were true this Republic would be in danger for lack of patriotic intelligence.

Every patriotic American is naturally glad to see our men and women in uniform. Men and women on the home front can do their duty as conscientiously and efficiently as the men and women on the war fronts. Whether fighters or voters, true Americans will not fail in their duty to their country.

So, on election day, patriotic American men and women will go to the polls and vote. Only by the expression of individual choice, whatever it may be, can the government be truly representative of the people. Our armed forces are fighting for the right to have a government which is truly representative. The least you can do for them is to keep alive, by voting, the right our men under colors are giving their all to preserve.

So let us make election day our National Tribute Day—the day when fighters and voters march as one in the cause of the U. S. A.

Mud-Slinging

The term, "mud-slinging" is with us again and is being mouthed daily in criticism of candidates for office. After a speech doesn't please—or maybe strikes home—it is classed as "just mud-slinging."

"What is 'mud-slinging'?" Webster fails to define it. Literally, it is the hurling of mud, dirt, and filth that bespatters the recipient. Politically, it is the hurling charges that are untrue, misleading, or unfair, and which besmirch an opposing candidate.

Before crying "mud-slinging," one should weigh what has been said. Is it true? Is it taking unfair advantage? If the answers are "yes" and "no," then it can hardly be called "mud-slinging."

Think before using this overworked term. Try to distinguish it from honest and needed statements of fact. The word is too often used as is much profanity—neither thoughtlessly or for lack of an adequate vocabulary.

What Next?

Mechanized manure removal is the latest method now being developed for dairy farms. Agricultural engineers are experimenting with a slow moving, endless belt conveyor placed in the droppings trough. It is designed to deliver its load direct to the manure spreader outside the barn. This is not all that can be done to lighten the line of farm production. A New York farm tried hitching in hay bind, cut off the blower end of its threshing machine, put the discharge shoot in the loft, and did as much work with two men as five would normally do.

People wonder how the American farmer has managed to get along during the war, in the face of labor shortage. He has done it through determination and ingenuity. If it had not been for these assets plus the effective help of his marketing organizations, the farmer would have been out of business long ago.

INSTITUTION IS BEING PLANNED FOR NEGROES

A child welfare institution for Negro children in Kentucky is being planned for opening at an early date. Miss Elizabeth Fike, State child welfare director, has announced. She reported that the Louisville office for supervising care of Negro children was closed September 1. Negro wards from all over the state were cleared through the office.
"These children had been placed in boarding homes in Jefferson County," she said. "Many have grown up and the few remaining made the expense of continuing this office seem unwise."
The planned institution, Miss Fike stated, is in keeping with the policy of extending and strengthening services to Negro children. Three Negro workers are now employed by the division, she said, including Stamps 60, 61, 62 and 63 in one in the Frankfort office of

DO IT WITH WAR BONDS!

Did you ever get ready to blast a grump and wish you had Hider and Tojo tied on top of one?

Well, you are giving this pair of varmints approximately the same treatment when you buy a War Bond. Because the money from that Bond is what enables our boys to work their way ever nearer and nearer to Berlin and Tokyo, smashing up a lot of Nazis and Japs on the way.

And here's a thing to think of: those Bonds will enable you to buy new equipment and machinery, repair and rebuild buildings, refurbish your home. For you get back all that you put in, plus substantial interest at maturity.

So let's obey that impulse to blast Tojo and Adolph to the skies... where we've already sent the Duke. Let's buy the Bonds that will help to do it!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest peak. Ammunition for use at the peak means money is needed... now!
2. In proportion to what has been spent already, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War production is faster and machines which the financial service has used to activate the money are now being used to produce a balance due to repair and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
4. War Bonds are the most investment in the world. A good time is needed regularly as a future due to repair and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the most investment in the world. A good time is needed regularly as a future due to repair and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.

Democrats Answer How Long To Keep Roosevelt

How long shall we keep the Democratic Party in Washington? How long? Until the farmer, businessman and worker shall have been insured against a recurrence of the devastation wrought by the unfortunate and unwise administration of Mr. Hoover.

How long? Until the essential escutcheons of this government shall have been cleansed of the debauchery of the Harding regime.

How long? Until the economic and financial structure of this Republic shall have been healed, of and protected against the return of the rampant and unchecked piracy during the deplorable administration of Calvin Coolidge.

How long? Until the war is won and the lives of our soldiers are no longer endangered by the delay and confusion that would inevitably follow any change in Commander-in-Chief.

How long? Until that permanent peace promised to the heroes of the first world war shall have been kept in spirit and in truth.

GOP Says Swing Is To Dewey

Indiana Certain In Republican Column Leaders State

Sam R. McKelvie, director of the western headquarters at Chicago of the Republican National Committee, warns all Dewey-Bricker supporters of overconfidence.

"The gains made by the Dewey-Bricker ticket have been so marked in all of the recent public and private polls, and in confidential figures coming to our office," declares Mr. McKelvie, "that there is danger that we will assume that the victory is already won and that this optimism will defeat us."

They show a decided groundswell that is destined from all present indications to sweep the selfish, dictatorial bureaucrats out of office by a decisive vote on November 7. But this just means that we need redouble our efforts during the remainder of the campaign.

Every vote counts on election day. We must get that vote cast. "Everyone of us can easily get 10 more votes for Dewey-Bricker and let's do the job in a way that there is no possibility of a decision on November 7 other than a ringing victory for a sound American way of life in the shape of a smashing plurality," says Dewey and John Bricker.

Reports coming from some of the states which have been listed as doubtful or favorable to Roosevelt indicate big gains for Dewey-Bricker in recent weeks.

Polls which have been taken in Indiana indicate that Dewey-Bricker will carry Marion County, in which the city of Indianapolis is located, by a margin of from 15 to 20 thousand. This will be a big gain over 1940. Farmers of Indiana are two to one for the Republican candidates. In the rural districts sentiment is especially bitter against Sidney Hillman and the communists. Conservative estimates place the Dewey-Bricker plurality for the state at 150,000.

Arguments On Public Debt Answered

Democrats Point Out Government Borrowed From People

It is very likely that during the course of this political campaign you as an average citizen have heard some discussion of the public debt and perhaps criticisms of the present administration because of this debt.

There are some little known facts about the debt that are seldom brought to light. For instance in 1940 Americans owed less to each other than they owed in 1929.

Private debt declined by thirty billion dollars between 1929 and 1933 and rose very little thereafter. This decline in debt, in borrowing, was one of the main causes of the hard times of the depression.

The government borrowed money from the people of the United States during the depression because private business could not.

The government borrowed $19 billion between 1929 and 1940, from the American people. The result was a fuller use of factories, more production, more jobs and more business—a higher standard of living for all. Business grew steadily better from 1933 through 1937, sagged a little in 1938, and has climbed steadily since that time.

While the Government debt increased during the depression by $19 billion (and remember, it is the American people themselves who own the Government bonds) the private debt of American people decreased by more than the $19 billion; decreased by $30 billions as a matter of fact. So the American people and their government actually owed less at the end of the times of depression than they owed in times of prosperity.

Then came "the war, to the winning of which pledged all our resources. We owed ourselves $19 billion before the war. On December 31, 1943, we owed ourselves $169 billion—the cost, to that date, of preserving our liberties.

Very likely the person who makes the most noise about the cost of winning this war would be the one of the first to cry out—and cry loudest—if we weren't winning it.

Our debt is an investment in the future of our nation. If one is convinced that the future is not worth any investment then let him cry on undisturbed.

Republicans Say Hillman Leader Of FDR Campaign

"More than 80 percent of the Political Action Committee (of which Sidney Hillman is chairman) has been revealed to have a communist background," reports John M. Costello, Democratic member of Congress from California, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American activities.

"When the Communist movement attempts to take control of the government under the guise of a labor political organization, it is a service to the American people to unmask its methods," the liberal Congressman said.

Long Term Hit It means that practically all of the prominent Democrats have upheld the tradition of a limited term of office for the President.

President Grover Cleveland said "When we consider the patronage of great office, the allurements of power, the temptations to retain public place once gained, and more than all, the availability a party finds in an incumbent when a horde of office holders with a zeal born of beneficence received and fostered by the hope of favors yet to come, stand ready to aid with trained political assistance, we recognize in the eligibility of the president for re-election, the most serious danger to that calm, deliberate and intelligent action which must characterize a government by the people."

State Farmers Completing Plans For Cooperative

Delegates from Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and Kentucky will assemble at the John Marshall hotel in Richmond, Va., Wednesday, Nov. 15, for the twenty-first meeting of the Southern States Cooperative, an organization of 154,831 farmers.

Vice-President Harry H. Nuttle of Denton, Md., will call the meeting to order at 10 a.m. and will preside during the morning session. The invocation will be given by P. C. Turner, Parkton, Md., a member of the board.

General Manager W. G. Wyster of Richmond will present a resume of the cooperative's undertakings and achievements during the past year, and O. E. Zachary, Jr., of Richmond, will make the financial report.

Just preceding the afternoon session, the delegates from Districts 3, 5, 6, and 7 will each hold an election to select its representative on the board of directors for the next three years.

Each district's choice will be invited to the cooperative's delegate body during the afternoon for confirmation.

The district 3 election was made necessary when A. G. Harwood, Jr., of Williamsburg, Va., who was elected last year, resigned. District 3 comprises the 16 Virginia counties of Brunswick, Dinwiddie, Gloucester, Greenville, Isle of Wight, James City, Mathews, Middlesex, Nansemond, Norfolk, Princess Anne, Southampton, Sussex, Wardwick, and York. The 3-year terms of Mr. Turner, Mr. Nuttle, and J. E. McDonald of Martinsburg, W. Va., the directors from Districts 5, 6, and 7, respectively, expire this fall; however, all three men are eligible for re-election and were nominated at the district nominating meetings early this month. Also nominated in District 5 were D. G. Harry of Peleeville, Md., and G. Russ Canby of Silver Spring, Md. In District 5 are the Maryland counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Harford, Howard, Montgomery vs. Prince Georges, and Saint Marys.

Resides Mr. Nuttle, district nominees are L. D. Caulk of Woodside, Del., and Ralph A. Onley of Modest Town, Va. Included in district 6 are the counties of Kent, New Castle, and Sussex, Del., Caroline, Somerset, Kent, Queen Annes, Dorchester, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester, Maryland, and Accomac and Northampton, Virginia.

District 7's slate is composed of Mr. McDonald, Roy C. F. Weagly of Hagerstown, Md., and Earl S. Harvey of Swanton, Md. District 7 embraces the following counties: Allegheny, Fredricksburg, Garrett, and Washington, Maryland; Clarke, Fairfax, Frazier, Loudoun, Prince William, Shenandoah, and Warren, Va., and Berkeley, Brooke, Jeddridg, Grant, Hardy, Harrison, Jefferson, Marion, Marshall, Mineral, Monongalia, Morgan, Ohio, Preston, Taylor, and Tucker, W. Virginia.

The day's business will also include consideration of and vote on a proposed charter amendment and on by-law revisions. The meeting will close with the singing of the national anthem.

Each district's choice will be invited to the cooperative's delegate body during the afternoon for confirmation.

Walter Owen Feels Lucky On Rough Sea

Walter Owen is a seaman first class. He is somewhere in the Pacific and the letter is one written to his family at Clearfield.

Dear Wife and Kids: This leaves me OK. I hope it finds you the same. Well, I guess you think I am dead, but I have just been where I cannot write. I haven't had a letter from you for two weeks, but just keep writing. I will get them soon, I hope. I am getting so fat I don't know what I will do if I go on.

Well, we have a little rough sea for a few days and some of the boys get sick, but I was one of the lucky ones. I guess I am an old salt. I have moved from where I was, but can't tell you where I am.

Tell the kids hello and tell Fred I see some little black boys and that he looks like them. All you kids go to school and be good until daddy can see you again. I'll close now and don't worry if you don't hear from me so often. Write to me often.

Wounded Moved In Six Hours

WITH U. S. FORCES IN FRANCE—Evacuation of battle field wounded from France to the United States army hospitals in England has been accomplished in less than six hours from the time the soldier becomes a casualty, as a result of the operation of airborne ambulances which have been in use since D Day.

spirit of the Corps. The spirit that knows no other answer than "Retreat! Retreat! Hell! we just got here." And it is also the same spirit that in the face of 1,000 to one odds could say "The enemy has landed, the issue is still in doubt".

From this battlefield in Britain to a hospital in Britain extended a chain of mercy—a life-saving, fast-moving h u m a n bridge that works 24 hours a day. It extends from the squad to ambulance plane to base hospital, to the collecting station, clearing station, evacuation hospital, to ambulance plane to base hospital. Often some of these stages are by-passed for added speed.

Each patient was placed in the plane according to the seriousness and nature of his wounds. They were carried from ambulance to plane by Medical Corpsmen such as Cpl. Jensen of Ryder, N. Dakota; and Pvt. Alvin Brasher of Sullivan, Ind.; George L. Conally of Morehead, Ky; and George Barkley of Hazel, South Dakota.

Inside the plane, flying nurse Villa Matzinger Moss of 166 Edmund St., St. Joseph, Mo., looked after the wounded. Some wanted water, others cigarettes. There were pillows to arrange, blankets to adjust and pills to give. She was helped by the copilot, Second Lt. C. R. Jones of 5th St., Ontario, Canada.

The pilot of the plane was Second Lt. Robert B. Ladd of 1061 E. 5th Street, Salt Lake City, Utah. His crew included Staff Sgt. Albert M. Hoffman of 291 Sickle Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y., crew chief and Cpl. William Marmorstein of 10831 Drexel Ave., Cheveland, Ohio, radio operator, who assisted the nurse when he wasn't busy at his radio.

When the plane landed in England, Nurse Moss stepped out and handed her list to the waiting doctors. Three of them were waiting ready for any emergency, ready to receive the wounded men, hastily classified them and assigned them to one of the six surrounding hospitals.

Marine Corps To Celebrate Anniversary

Shoe rationing may continue for some time after Germany's defeat, William A. Molster, National Director of Shoe Rationing, indicated in a statement made at Atlanta this week. Mr. Molster pointed out that lend-lease shipments of shoes to the United States would continue to Europe after Germany's collapse.

Tension Of Prisoners On Increase

Creates Additional Problem For War Prisoners Aid

Tension among war prisoners increases as possibilities of an end of the European war increase, Dr. Ethan T. Colton, War Prisoners Aid executive director, has been speaking in Kentucky in the interest of the National War Fund, said today.

Quoting Tracy Strong, general secretary in charge of war prisoners work, Dr. Colton said that the possibilities of an end to the European war increase, the men who are in prison camps can naturally be expected to become more restless and more anxious that their future be quickly determined.

Therefore, Dr. Colton said, the recreational, educational and cultural material provided by War Prisoners Aid and its services in organizing activities becomes of constantly greater importance.

When the war has been concluded, Dr. Colton said, and repatriation is begun, there will be important tasks for war prisoners aid at staging areas for repatriation, at embarkation points and possibly at ports of entry. The work of war prisoners aid will last while there are men who have war prison status, and it needs the continued support of such organizations as the Kentucky War Fund campaign for war prisoners aid, the USO, United Seamen Service, and Refugee Relief for our allies.

THE ROOSEVELT DEPRESSION

"In 1934, when the depression was five years old—longer than any other in a century, we still had twelve million unemployed. By 1940, the depression was almost eleven years old. This administration had been in power for seven straight years and there were still ten million Americans unemployed."

Roosevelt, on the polls, holds a slight edge, but if there is a shift in last-minute sentiment of only a percentage point or two these states may sweep a new man in the White House. The foreign policy stand of the two candidates came in for the most prominence last week. President Roosevelt made a 55-mile tour of New York City climaxed it with a speech saying that he favored the United States cooperating with other powers in using armed force to prevent a further war. Candidate Dewey has also come out for a World peace organization reiterating his stand that the post-war foreign policy should be worked out by the President and Congress. Democrats claim that the increased national interest in foreign policy has reacted to their favor and have "declared there is a great, inevitable swing to Roosevelt." Republicans, on the other hand, deny this and set out that "Dewey's forthright stand on foreign relations is all that was needed to swing the election." During the week the Demo-

Republicans countered by saying many prominent Democrats were supporting Dewey.

How to keep a house from catching cold! ONE WAY to keep a house from getting cold is by weatherstripping all doors and windows. Closing up the cracks that let cold in—and heat out. There is going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. Not because less coal is being mined. It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of bituminous coal will be mined this year than last—with fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike! There are adequate rail facilities for hauling the coal to your city. But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And your coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him. Little, common-sense precautions can Save Coal—and Serve America

Knocked Out but Keeps on Flying

Hit by Jap Bullet, He Flies Almost 300 Miles.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—The strange story of a navy dive bomber pilot who—"through God or by instinct"—flew his plane almost 300 miles after being knocked unconscious by a Japanese bullet was disclosed in an official navy memo to local Curtiss-Wright officials.

The pilot, Lieut. Comdr. John D. Blitch of Charleston, S. C., 30-year-old commander of a Curtiss Heron diver squadron based on an aircraft carrier in the Pacific, was attacked by six Zees after his formation sank or damaged seven vessels of an enemy convoy. A few minutes later, the bomber formation broke off the action and headed back to the carrier. The formation had covered about 280 miles of the distance when Blitch's plane suddenly nosed down and crashed into the sea.

Blitch, who later was picked up after drifting more than 40 hours in a small rubber raft, said he knew nothing of what had happened from the time he was hit by the Japanese bullet until he was revived by water splashing into his cockpit as the plane began to sink.

"It was either God or instinct—probably both—that brought Johnny Blitch back to the grave," observed the carrier's chaplain.

Blind GI Says, 'Show Me Where to Shoot' and Dies

ALAPE, NEW GUINEA.—Just before he died, Pvt. George Klym of Goshorn, N. D.—blind and comatose American soldier—pulled on the sleeve of a battalion hospital corpsman and said: "Don't move me. Just show me where to shoot."

With that the world of war slipped from him and it made no difference that his eyes had "lost the light of life. The corpsman covered his face and went on to the next case.

Not 30 minutes before, Klym, standing midnight watch in a fox-hole outpost, fought off a Japanese "banzai charge" with an automatic rifle singlehanded until the rest of his outfit was aroused by the din and joined him to repulse the suicide attack.

In the dark all the Japanese could see was the blinding muzzle of Klym's gun and so they fired and charged at it. He took their fire, stood his ground and pumped bullets into the charging enemy. They shot out both his eyes and still he stood and fired. He was still firing when he went down. And he wanted to die some more time before death intervened at the battalion hospital.

Jap Shin While Church Rites in Guam Go Ahead

AGANA, GUAM.—Shinners may be seen in Agana, ruined capital of Guam.

In a tent next to a ruined church, services were held recently with a score of men attending and a portable organ playing.

A squad of men, looking for a Japanese soldier, were busy during the night, worked to within 30 yards of the church. There, in the midst of the hymn singing, they found the lone enemy. Shots drowned out the organ for a few seconds, and the Japanese lay still.

The organist never missed a note; none of the singers even turned around.

Sentry Calls 'Halt' but Bull Keeps on His Way

CAMP CARSON, COLO.—Sentry duty can sometimes result in a fellow gaining some important knowledge. At least that's the opinion of Corp. Paul Tracy, of San Pedro, Calif.

Corporal Tracy was on night patrol recently when he saw a shadow. He shouted at the shadow to halt, and when there was no answer, advanced to claim his "prisoner."

The "prisoner" turned out to be an angry, full-grown bull, and Corporal Tracy did a quick job of climbing a nearby tree.

Suicide Fails, Lies 20 Hours With Broken Leg

WASHINGTON.—Her two suicide attempts having failed, Miss Phyllis Murray, 25, a government worker, lay in a clump of weeds for 20 hours with a broken leg without calling for help.

Miss Murray, daughter of James J. Murray of Pittsburgh, an officer of the maritime commission, told of her self-swallowed rat poison, when it had no effect, jumped from a 100-foot cliff in Rock Creek park.

Neither she nor her father could supply a motive.

That's Probable
Joan—I wouldn't marry you if you were the only boy on earth.
Jasper—Of course you wouldn't; you'd get killed in the rush.

Limited
"What's the idea?"
"She?" the selfish, stuck-up little snail. "If the women's friend I could tell you a few things about her!"

Bright but Unwise
"Your husband seems to be a very brilliant man. I suppose he knows 'most everything'."
"You're being surprised. There are a lot of things he doesn't even suspect."
