

450 KEA Delegates To Meet Here Next Week

Degrees To Be Awarded To 73 At Commencement Thursday Night

Morehead State College will play host to 450 leading educators from throughout the state next week at the annual Kentucky Education Association Leadership Work Conference.

The state's foremost educators will arrive here Sunday evening for a three-day conference which ends on Wednesday afternoon.

The theme of the three-day gathering is "Improving Education Through: (1) Cooperative Efforts Through: (2) Personnel Policies; (3) Legislation; (4) All general session meetings will be held in the college auditorium with luncheon meetings scheduled for the Dorian Student House cafeteria.

We are delighted to have the delegates of the fifth annual Leadership Work Conference sponsored by the KEA visit the campus of Morehead State College," said Dr. Adron Duran, Morehead State College president, in a letter to all delegates mailed last week.

He added, "We hope your stay will be pleasant and that your participation in the Conference will prove profitable. We believe that a partnership between the representatives of the Kentucky Education Association and the state institutions of higher learning will strengthen efforts to provide an adequate program of education for the children and youth of Kentucky."

The 450 delegates will stay in the residence halls and meals will be provided in the college cafeteria.

Guest consultants at the leadership meeting are: George E. Redfern, Director of Personnel, Cincinnati Public Schools; Karl H. Berns, Assistant Executive Secretary, Field Operations, National Education Association; and Ed Henderson, Executive Secretary, Florida Education Association.

The first general session is scheduled for Monday morning, Aug. 11, with an address from KEA President Virginia Murrell following a welcoming message from Dr. Duran.

An afternoon session is scheduled for Monday at which time "The Legislative Program" will be discussed. A picnic and square dance are slated for Monday evening.

Four general sessions are on the agenda Tuesday with an NEA film "Crowded Out" to be shown at 9 p. m.

Wednesday morning's schedule will feature a discussion on how to promote the legislative program with a luncheon and conference summary to follow.

The conference will operate on Central Standard Time.

Sunday, August 10
2 p. m.—Registration, lobby, Dorian Student House.
6 p. m.—Dinner, cafeteria, Dorian Student House.

All graduating seniors, their parents and friends, faculty members and students are invited to a reception Thursday afternoon given by Dr. and Mrs. Adron Duran.

The reception, to be held on the lawn at the President's home, will be held from 3:30 to 5:00.

Enrollment Hits 1,341 For Summer

Morehead State College has a record summer school enrollment of 1,341.

The enrollment is an increase of 20 per cent over the previous all-time high Morehead summer enrollment of 1,100 in 1957.

The record enrollment figure does not include students in the seventh annual Writers' Workshop which began on the campus on July 1.

Students from 45 Kentucky counties are enrolled for the summer with out-of-state students coming from Alabama, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, Montana, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The largest fall enrollment in history is expected this year. An estimated 1,500 students are expected.

KEA President To Be M'head Speaker

Miss Virginia Murrell, president of the Kentucky Education Association, will deliver the Aug. 7 commencement address at Morehead State College, President Adron Duran announced today.

Miss Murrell is a native of Somerset and a supervisor of music in the schools of Bellevue. She is past-president of the Northern Kentucky Education Association, the Bellevue Faculty Association, the Northern Kentucky High School Women Teachers Club and the Zeta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma.

She holds the B. S. degree from the University of Kentucky and the M. A. degree from Columbia University and is an active member of the National Education Association of Teachers.

"We are most happy to have Miss Murrell deliver our commencement address," said Dr. Duran. "She has followed the tradition of KEA presidents who have spoken at our summer commencement exercises in past years."

The largest summer graduating class in the history of Morehead State College—173 students—will attend the commencement exercises.

Parking Space To Be Increased On Boulevard

The central dividing section of College Boulevard is being torn out now to provide a wider street and facilitate the current congested driving conditions.

Preliminary plans call for widening of the service road behind the major buildings on the campus with both College Boulevard and the service road becoming one way streets.

Such a move will greatly aid the flow of traffic on the campus and will additionally provide more parking space through the use of diagonal parking.

Although definite plans have not been announced, College Boulevard will probably be one way west with the service road one way east.

"We feel the widening of both College Boulevard and the service road will greatly relieve the present congested driving conditions," said Dr. Duran.

Also slated for the near future will be the paving of the street in Riverview.

Civic Music Association To Present Five Concerts

By Pat Spencer

Five concerts will be presented on Morehead State College campus during the summer by the Civic Music Association in cooperation with the Northeastern Kentucky Civic Music Association.

The first concert will be given by artists in the vocal, instrumental and dance fields.

A representative of the vocal field will be Margueta Moll, a soprano who will make her appearance at Bolton Auditorium on February 15. Moll has served as a soloist with leading symphony orchestras across the country. She has performed with the Metropolitan Opera. She possesses a beautiful lyric voice with quality and power almost unequalled.

The Continental Aires, a male quartet and pianist, will also represent the instrumental field. Recognized nationwide as an exceptionally talented group, the quartet has been featured in the Herald Tribune, a "highly musical and finely developed" set of male vocalists.

On November 3, sixteen singers and instrumentalists will appear in Morehead on October 21.

Dance Institute Here From August 17-23

By George Stevens

Morehead State College will play host to the fifth annual Kentucky Dance Institute during the week of August 17-23.

Under the directorship of Dr. M. G. Karsner, a member of the University of Kentucky physical education department, and Mrs. Shirley Durham, teacher in the Louisville school system, the gathering is conducted for the improvement of folk dancing.

The Institute will open with a party on Sunday night, Aug. 17, and will continue throughout the week closing after breakfast on Aug. 23. Morning sessions will be held for the instruction in folk games, stringed and instrumental music, contra and square dancing and leadership of school recreational programs.

The evening program will consist of a dance party in the gymnasium and a group singing immediately following in the grill of the Dorian Student House.

Any Morehead student, faculty or staff member is cordially invited to attend the institute. The entire Rowan County community is invited to participate in the evening parties and other designated activities of the Institute.

Others who are interested in attending the activities of the group may participate by paying a fee of $30 for the week if living at home. Arrangements have been made for those who wish to live and dine on campus with the fee being $60.

The staff will include Professor Arden Johnson, Division of Recreation, University of California; Veta Belajus, editor of "Vitality," one of the leading folk publications in America; and Hickey Winkler, square dance caller from Wilmington, Delaware who has just completed a nine-month tour of the East and Europe. Other staff members are Nancy DeMarco, folk dance teacher from Cleveland, O. and two folk singers from Chattanooga, Tenn., Bob Johnson, and "Fingers" Anderson.

This is the first summer the Dance Institute has been held at Morehead.

Conservations Workshop Has 47 Teachers For 3 Weeks

The fourth annual Conservation-Resource Use Workshop was held on the Morehead State College campus during the weeks of June and July 3, under the supervision of Dr. Franton West, head of the Science and Mathematics Department.

Forty-three teachers representing 16 counties in Kentucky and four teachers from out of state participated in the project. Several persons representing organizations interested in promoting better conservation practices in Eastern Kentucky served as consultants for the workshop. In addition, the workshop was supported by federal and state conservation agencies, some district and county organizations on soil conservation and reforestation for students wishing to attend the workshops.

Those organizations assisting Dr. West in the workshop's program were the United States Forest Service, Kentucky Division of Forestry, Kentucky Division of Soil and Water Resources, United States Soil Conservation Service and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Individual and group studies were made by the students on such subjects as forestry, timber management, reforestation, insects and disease and other fields pertinent to better practices in conservation. Also included in the program were field trips to surrounding areas so that studies could be made of local conservation practices.

The workshop was organized and conducted around four major issues: the renewable and non-renewable resources in Eastern Kentucky; depletion and abuse of these resources; conservation work being done at the present time and additional measures that could be taken to improve and conserve the resources.

New Brochure Published By Public Relations

A new general brochure has been published by the Public Relations Office.

Geared toward incoming freshmen, the envelope-size brochure is entitled "Questions You Ask" and provides scholars with a list of 32 pertinent questions and answers relative to student life at Morehead State College.

The brochure also includes pictures of campus life, a map with all buildings on campus and an information blank for incoming students.

The cover is printed in light blue with a campus scene in the background with black lettering over the scene.

Copies may be picked up in the Public Relations Office.

Copies of the new brochure will be sent to any interested person who wishes to know more about Morehead State College.

The general college catalogue will still be given to persons waiting more detailed knowledge concerning the academic program.

Construction On New $1,500,000 Dorm For Men May Begin In Near Future

By Pat Spencer

A new dormitory for men costing approximately $1,500,000 will be under construction in the near future.

The dorm, which will house 400 men, is to be located on the site behind the Breckinridge Training School and will be overlooking the recreation area behind the college dorms in comparison to the present facilities for men, the new dorm will take care of twice as many men as either Thompson or Men's Hall.

Each of the dorms will be furnished with beds, bulletin boards, desks, chairs, wall cases for books and mirrors with electrical outlets. Also included in the dorms will be two built-in clothes closets.

The plans for these rooms were decided upon by the staff of the college and the Division of Engineering in Frankfurt. After careful consideration of the more recent design for college dorms and after noting the best features in other colleges, the best points were combined.

The dormitory will be financed through a loan from the federal government and funds from the state. The loan from the federal government will be repaid over a period of forty years through the proceeds from the dorm.

Preliminary plans have been approved by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

"Final plans have been filed and are due to be approved before very long," said Dr. Adron Duran. He went on to say that "the contract should be let by September 1."

7th Writers' Workshop Ends After Successful Two Weeks

The seventh annual Writers' Workshop held on Morehead State College campus ended last Friday with a lecture on the "Ideas of a Poet's Theatre" by John Napier.

Governed by the code "creativity is fundamental to both living and education," the workshop included in its program classes on the various phases and types of writing, lectures, socials, and informal discussions. The workshop opened on July 29 with registration in Thompson Hall and lasted until Aug. 1.

Mya Bockoc, a student who attended the workshop for the first time this summer, said that she had gained a greater understanding of the whole writing field. She further stated that "sincere criticism has made me look at my own work with more honesty."

From the writer's point of view, Mrs. Ann Trimble said that the Workshop had helped her in that she had gotten to know other writers. She stated that writers are, in general, a lonely people and that they enjoyed getting to know another writer.

On Tuesday evening a program on "The Voice of Poetry" under the direction of Dr. J. H. Lawton was presented. Several students participated in the program and presented dramatic interpretations of readings and poetry. Highlighting the evenings activity with interpretation of some work done by Albert Stewart, professor of English at MSC and director of the workshop.

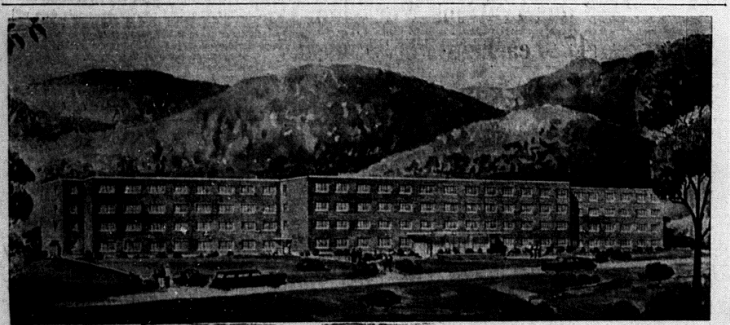

Also included in this year's workshop was the Poet's Theatre which was under the supervision of W. P. Covington III. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings a bill of three one act poetic dramas was presented in Bolton Auditorium. Island Place, act based on the Burr-Biennerhassett incident, and written by Woodridge Spears was presented. W. B. Yeats' "The King of the Great Clock Tower" especially arranged and choreographed by Mr. Covington was also performed. The final presentation of the evenings, The Ballad Singer, by John Napier, was exceptionally good because of the integral part music played in the play. Mr. Stewart said the play would describe the Poet's Theatre as "wonderful" and that it should have proven valuable to those who attended it.

Staff members were: Robert Hazel, author, poet and lecturer from the University of Kentucky; Mrs. Katherine Wilkie, Lexington author who has written a number of children's books; Joe Reister, head of the Louisville Courier-Journal Lexington bureau.

Staff members who discussed poetry, fiction, nonfiction and drama were: Robert K. Marshall, professor of English at Ohio Wesleyan University; Woodridge Spears, professor of English at Georgetown College and poet; James Still, Hindman poet and short story writer; Wilma Dykeman and James Still, Newport, Tenn., husband and wife team who appeared recently on "This Is Your Life."

Also on the staff were: Anne Ridings Trimble, Russellville, outstanding "Confession" magazine writer; John Napier, Oak Ridge, Tenn., outstanding poet; Billy O. Clark, Ashland, author of three novels and Kentucky's youngest successful author; Jim Patrick, Ashland Daily Independent staff writer; and W. P. Covington, Director of Speech and Dramatic Arts at Morehead State College.

Albert Stewart, Morehead State College creative writing instructor, was director of the workshop.

NEW DORMITORY—An architects drawing shows the new 400-bedmen's dormitory which is to be built on the Morehead State College campus. Construction will begin soon on the $1,000,000 plus building.

GIRLS' STATE—President Adron Doran has been an advisor to the annual Girls' State for a number of years. Here he is shown with Governor Kay Shropshire, Lexington (left), and Pat Hall, Ashland. Speaker of the House, Pat will be a senior at Ashland High School this year and will attend Morehead State College after graduation.

Dr. Doran To Attend Executives School

President Adron Doran will attend a School for Executives at the University of Connecticut from Aug. 17 to 25.

The school, sponsored by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, will feature daily presentations of case studies of college and university administrative problems.

Leading educators from throughout the nation will attend the week-long gathering.

A grant from the Carnegie Corporation has made possible the case study method of approaching administrative problems. Dr. B. James Borrenson, Executive Dean of the University of Maryland and Dr. Robert Katz of the Business School of Harvard University will coordinate the case study program.

Dr. and Mrs. Doran will leave by automobile. Mrs. Doran will attend special classes for executives' wives.

Football Team Faces Nine Game Schedule

The 1958 Morehead State College footballers face a rugged nine-game slate highlighted by six Ohio Valley Conference skirmishes.

Paul Adams' Eagles open with powerful Virginia Military Institute on Sept. 20 in the Virginia school's own home yard. The Eagles then return home for a get-together with rival Marshall on Sept. 27.

Then comes powerful Tennessee Tech at Morehead on October 4 with West Virginia Tech traveling to Morehead on Oct. 11 to provide the competition in the school's first night homecoming battle.

Following the homecoming tilt, Adams' charges play five straight OVC games, meeting Murray, Middle Tennessee, East Tennessee, Western Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky on successive week ends.

The 1958 schedule: Sept. 20—Virginia Military Institute (away); Sept. 27—Marshall College (home); Oct. 4—Tennessee Tech (home); Oct. 11—West Virginia Tech (home); Oct. 18—Murray State (away); Oct. 25—Middle Tennessee (away); Nov. 1—East Tennessee State (away); Nov. 8—Western Kentucky (home); Nov. 15—Eastern Kentucky (home).

Whitley Visits MSC Campus

Paul Whitley, ex-track great at Morehead, was a visitor on the campus during the past week.

In the spring of 1957 Paul set the still-existing OVC marks for the half-mile (1:57.2) and mile (4:29.9) runs. His conference mark for the mile is also the Morehead record for the event. In addition, he holds the local school's standard for the half mile (1:53.0), a record which he also established in 1957.

Whitley now is in school at Emporia, Kan., where he had great success in track the past spring. His best time for the mile, 4:09.9, was exceeded by only seven other American runners this season.

Probably his most noteworthy accomplishment was a second in the mile at the NAIA (small college) meet which was held at San Diego the first Saturday in June. He also competed with success at the famed Texas, Kansas and Drake relays.

Whitley has two seasons of cross country and one of track remaining. His coach, the renowned Fran Welch, feels that Paul will soon take his place among the great runners of America, and that he will be a prime Olympic prospect by 1960.

Basketballers Face 24 Rugged Foes In 1958-59 Schedule

A rugged 24-game schedule faces the graduation riddled Morehead State College basketballers in 1958-59.

The Eagles of Bob Laughlin, with three starters lost by the graduation route, will have to depend on sophomores from last year's outstanding freshman squad in a rebuilding year for Morehead.

The Eagles, who have captured the Ohio Valley Conference crown two of the past three years, finished second in the OVC last year. Laughlin's charges will play 13 games at home and 11 on the road. The Eagles play 12 conference games plus non-conference games with such teams as nationally ranked St. Francis, Mississippi State, the colorful Southeastern Conference power which edged the Eagles in the final round of the Mississippi State holiday tourney last year, Marshall, the nation's top offensive squad last year, Miami, Fla., Tampa, Ohio University, Morris Harvey, St. Francis, David Lipscomb and Bellarmine.

Playing in the new Morehead Fieldhouse will be Western Kentucky, Murray State, Eastern Kentucky, Middle Tennessee, Tennessee Tech, East Tennessee, Marshall, Ohio University, Morris Harvey, St. Francis, David Lipscomb and Bellarmine.

The Eagles open with six home games before venturing out of the friendly confines of the Morehead Fieldhouse to test the Bailey Howell led Mississippi State Maroons on Dec. 19.

The Morehead schedule: Dec. 1—Morris Harvey, Morehead; Dec. 4—Alumni, Morehead; Dec. 6—Tennessee Tech, Morehead; Dec. 9—David Lipscomb, Morehead; Dec. 13—Western Kentucky, Morehead; Dec. 15—Ohio University, Morehead; Dec. 19—Mississippi State—State College, Miss.; Jan. 5—Bellarmine, Morehead; Jan. 8—East Tennessee, Johnson City, Tenn.; Jan. 12—St. Francis, Morehead; Jan. 15—East Tennessee, Morehead.

'A JOOLY GOOD TIME'

Annual Band Camp Largest Enrollment In History With 154 Area Youngsters

By Johann Sebastian Bark
The largest summer Band Camp in the history of Morehead State College ended Sunday as 154 tired but happy youngsters performed superbly in concert.

The Sunday evening concert highlighted two weeks of concentrated band training for the record number of youngsters from schools in Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia.

Representing grades 6-12, the talented youths put in a full day every day as they went through a full marching drill each morning at 8:00 followed by a squad drill and recreation before lunch. Full concert rehearsals were held each day at 12:00, with sectional rehearsals at 1:00 and a full rehearsal again at 3:00. Supervised entertainment was held each evening.

Two concert bands performed Sunday with the Eagle band

(grades 6-8) and the Eagle band (grades 9-12) performing after a precision drill exhibition.

There were a total of 82 boys and 72 girls attending the camp with the girls staying in Thompson Hall and the boys finding lodging in the fieldhouse.

The band camp was under the direction of Fred Marzan, Director of the Morehead State College bands. Visiting lecturer was William Svec, former director of

Kentuckians Impress Novelist On Writers' Workshop Staff

(The following story was written by Jim Patrick and printed in the July 31 edition of the Independent, a newspaper of Morehead as a member of the Writers' Workshop staff.)

By Jim Patrick
A recognized authority on creative writing is "extremely impressed with the versatility and variety" of the state's only writers' workshop.

There are so many people in your state who are doing interesting writing," says Robert K. Marshall, professor of creative writing at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O., and a published novelist.

"It's good to come to Kentucky which has such vigorous men as James Still, Jesse Stuart, Hollis Summers, Billy C. Clark, Robert Hazel and others who are not just talking about writing but are actually doing it with great energy and are actually published."

Marshall, who is on the staff of Morehead State College's annual Kentucky writing workshop, added that it is the most interesting writing of 20 years ago in his native state of North Carolina. Such writers as Thomas Wolfe and Paul Green emerged from that period in North Carolina, he pointed out.

"There is so much going on in writing in Kentucky right now," Marshall said, "that you find such genuine and sincere writers as here."

Marshall is impressed, too, with the technical development of the workshop which will end on Saturday. "This has been my first workshop and I have thoroughly enjoyed it," he said.

The Ohio Wesleyan professor will be speaking at another writing workshop in Columbus, Ohio, on Monday evening. There he will be lecturing on folk literature.

Here at Morehead, Marshall is serving as a special lecturer, and is also a consultant on novel writing. He is the widely acclaimed novel, "Little Squire Jim," now in its third edition, as the basis for a lecture Monday evening.

He outlined to the workshop how he had written the story, the technique of developing the characters, the research to make it authentic in details, and the effort to make it a novel, a true story, a "fantasy alive and realistic."

Marshall said that every effort is made, Marshall said, is to make small things interesting and to lead to larger ideas. He made big ideas comprehensible and understandable to the reader. This technique was cited by Marshall in lecturing to his novel-writing class here, using sections from "Little Squire Jim," and his other novel, "Julia Wynne," as examples.

VISITING NEWSMAN—Joe Reister, head of the Louisville Courier-Journal, visited at Morehead State College campus last week as a guest lecturer at the Writers' Workshop. Reister discussed various aspects of writing and slanting material for the various news media.

ed: "Here at Morehead, encouragement is put to work; here, the writer as well as the student lives in a world of writing. They breathe the same air, talk the same talk, and walk a path that each hopes will lead to their goal: a good story, thus giving part of the answer for the naked eye to see."

Tips on writing offered by James Still, Hindman, a successful novelist, short story writer and poet, included that you have to invade the privacy of your friends; learn a great deal about dialogue by listening for it; often your characters are composites of many people; preserve your own integrity for the naked eye to see; don't look for reflected glory from other writers.

As to himself, Still said that the spirit to write moves him every day. "If you write only when you feel like it, your book will be out in about 2,000," he said, advising aspiring writers to find out why they want to write in the first place.

Former Ashlander On Staff
Robert Hazel, former Ashlander and professor in creative writing at the University of Kentucky, was in the workshop's poetry section this year, lecturing Tuesday afternoon on poetry and presenting a special reading of his recently published poem, "Washington, D. C. 1958," which is in four movements.

Hazel is the author of two published novels and is working on a third.

Another member of the poetry section is John Napier of Norris, Tenn., who teaches writing to government employees at Oak Ridge. Norris is author of "The Ballad Sinner," a poetic drama, and a number of prize-winning essays.

35 At Workshop
The 35 students this week at the workshop are benefiting, too, from the writing know-how of a number of other authors who comprise a staff regarded by Workshop Director Fred Marzan as one of the most outstanding in the seven years Morehead has held an annual two-week conference.

"There is no secret formula for successful writing, however," according to Billy C. Clark, Catlettsburg, who is recognized as Kentucky's youngest novelist with two books already published and two others due for publication soon.

Clark said that he personally does not feel that "creative writing" can be taught and can be "encouraged only when the individual is willing to put encouragement to work."

About the workshop, Clark added:

reviews and articles.

"Confession" type of writing has been forgotten in this workshop, either. Mrs. Anne Trimble, Russellville, Ky., a professional in the confession field, said that each hopes will lead to their goal: a good story, thus giving part of the answer for the naked eye to see."

Tips on writing offered by James Still, Hindman, a successful novelist, short story writer and poet, included that you have to invade the privacy of your friends; learn a great deal about dialogue by listening for it; often your characters are composites of many people; preserve your own integrity for the naked eye to see; don't look for reflected glory from other writers.

As to himself, Still said that the spirit to write moves him every day. "If you write only when you feel like it, your book will be out in about 2,000," he said, advising aspiring writers to find out why they want to write in the first place.

Former Ashlander On Staff
Robert Hazel, former Ashlander and professor in creative writing at the University of Kentucky, was in the workshop's poetry section this year, lecturing Tuesday afternoon on poetry and presenting a special reading of his recently published poem, "Washington, D. C. 1958," which is in four movements.

Hazel is the author of two published novels and is working on a third.

Another member of the poetry section is John Napier of Norris, Tenn., who teaches writing to government employees at Oak Ridge. Norris is author of "The Ballad Sinner," a poetic drama, and a number of prize-winning essays.

35 At Workshop
The 35 students this week at the workshop are benefiting, too, from the writing know-how of a number of other authors who comprise a staff regarded by Workshop Director Fred Marzan as one of the most outstanding in the seven years Morehead has held an annual two-week conference.

"There is no secret formula for successful writing, however," according to Billy C. Clark, Catlettsburg, who is recognized as Kentucky's youngest novelist with two books already published and two others due for publication soon.

Clark said that he personally does not feel that "creative writing" can be taught and can be "encouraged only when the individual is willing to put encouragement to work."

About the workshop, Clark added:

49 Admitted To Candidacy For Masters

Forty-nine persons were admitted to candidacy for the master's degree at a meeting of the Graduate Council, Wednesday, July 31, at Palmer Hall, Director of Graduate Studies, has announced.
