242 MSC Students Make Honor Roll

Two hundred forty-two students made the first semester honor roll. L. A. Fair, Morehead State College registrar, announced today.

Honor roll students at Morehead are students who have a point standing of 3.0 or better, the equivalent of a B average. This is determined by the classing of 4's for A, 3's for B, 2's for C, and 1's for D.

Third Issue Of "Inescape" Now On Sale On Campus

By Brenda Jo Snelling

The third issue of the "Inescape," a result of the projects and exercises of the department of music, art, and the writer's workshop, is now on sale throughout the campus.

The first issue was published by the Writer's Club with the aid of the Department of Literature, Languages and Speech of Morehead State College in the spring of 1957.

Mr. Al Stewart relates that the name "Inescape" originated from a verse by Gerard Manley Hopkins, a famous poet, which reads, "But as air, meat, is what strikes me most of all in music and design in painting, so design, pattern or what I am in the habit of calling 'Inescape' is what I have all aim at in poetry."

Contributors of the current issue of 1958 include such Morehead personalities as Betty Marzan, Richard K. Burns, Mary Book, Fred Wing, Robert Brewer, Gary Link, Frances Towne, John P. Haag, and Wendell Maynard.

Including art, music, and poetry, this issue of the "Inescape" is currently to be commended as well as to be supported by the student body.

UPS AND DOWNS

The wife of a middle-aged business executive met him at his office late one afternoon. As they were going down the elevator, it stopped and a high-octane speaker got on. Poking the executive in the ribs she said gaily, "Hello, cutie pie!"

Unperturbed, the executive's wife leaned over with a smile and announced, "I'm Mrs. Pie."

High School Band Clinic To Be Held Here This Week End

The Morehead State College department of music will be host to the second annual East Kentucky Band Clinic Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of this week, Dr. J. P. Duncan, head of the department announced recently.

The clinic is open to all high school band students in the area served by Morehead State College, as well as their band directors. The students will compose a full symphonic band of 100 pieces for the purpose of providing them an opportunity to participate in an ideal band situation and expose them to new band literature.

Guest clinicians will instruct in the various areas of the band program during the three-day meeting. Seminars, for the purpose of demonstrating and instructing the students and their band directors, will be held in flute, oboe, bassoon, clarinet, french horn, cornet and percussion.

Byron Audrey, cornetist from Michigan State University, will lead the discussion of the department. Audrey is a cornet instructor and a soloist of national reputation. Sessions in the theory and application of proper methods in percussion will be led by Charles Simons, leader in nationwide percussion clinics.

Also serving as clinicians will be all members of the American Woodwind Quintet from the University of Indiana. They include Keith Kummer, oboe, Henry Gulick, clarinet, Roy Houser, bassoon, James Pellerite, flute, and Verne Reynolds, french horn.

Reign Shipley, director of Rowan County High School band and supervising teacher in instrumental music at Breckinridge Training School will assist with reed auditions and section rehearsals, as will Leslie Woodfill, assistant professor of music, Morehead State College, who will also lecture on making reeds for double-reed instruments.

Special features of the clinic will be concerts held on Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. Friday evening at 8 p. m. (CST) the American Woodwind Quintet will present a concert for the benefit of all band directors, students, and others who desire to attend the clinic.

The Morehead State College symphonic band will present a concert Saturday evening at 8 p. m. (CST) with Byron Audrey as guest soloist.

The Eastern Kentucky Clinic Band will perform in concert Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. (CST) for the benefit of visitors, band directors and the general public. There is no admission charge to any of the performances. All special features of the clinic will be held at the Baird Music Building.

Walter J. Marzan, director of the Morehead State College band, is the clinic director.

President's Council Will Sponsor Better-Dressed Week Here March 2-6

The second annual Better-Dressed Week on the campus of Morehead State College has been scheduled for the week of March 2-6.

The President's Council, under the supervision of Dr. Adron Doran, president of the college, is sponsoring the week and has taken charge of the program. This year is being observed in conjunction with a statewide better-dressed program.

On Tuesday of that week members of the Council are holding their regular meeting in the form of a formal dinner meeting in the Student Union.

The committee for obtaining the dance band was composed of Roy Spaulding, Charles Hodson, and Terry McHenry.

Betty Cullen is serving as chairman for the style show committee with Charles Jones, Tom Hummer, Bob Brewer, Betty Cooper, Joyce Belcher, and Pat Spencer assisting her. The Home Economics Club will also be helping this committee with its work.

The purpose of the week is not to have everyone dress like a prince or princess, but to promote neatness and better taste in what's being worn on campus.

A semi-formal dance on Friday night will be held at the Student Union for the week. Bobby Martin and his band, of which Mr. Arch Leach is a member, has been chosen to play for the dance.

W. H. Rice Completes Twentieth Year Of Service At Morehead State College

Morehead at very low depths and now it looks like it might take it a year or so to get back to normal. Described as being personable and very witty by some of his associates, Mr. Rice is an active member of the Morehead State Club and has been for about 20 years. In addition to this he is a member of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, Inc. (Continued On Page 6)

Married to the home economics teacher from Morehead, Mrs. W. H. Rice has two sons. One graduated from the University of Kentucky and is a Civil Engineer in Florida; the other, a graduate of MSC, is with the United States Army.

Before coming to Morehead, Mr. Rice was a mining engineer in the Tennessee coal fields, in the coal and Harlan areas of Kentucky, and also in Virginia.

In speaking of the advances made at Morehead, he said, "The school has made a larger contribution in more ways than one." He said that he remembers well coming to Morehead as a student and how glad he was to find it in addition to this type of growth he has seen the development of moral and spiritual values on campus.

Mr. Rice stated that he had had a wealth of experience while serving here at MSC and that they would enable him to write a fairly adequate history of the school.

He has, he says, "seen

This Thing Called "Sport" . . . Has Its Meaning Changed?

What is this thing called sport? How is it concerned with athletics? During the early history of our great American nation, these two questions may have been worded together, as one in the same. Through the years the general understanding and interpretation of the two has changed. Now the education world has referred to competition in basketball, football, tennis, track, cross country, baseball, and the numerous "former" sports as "intercollegiate athletics."

With the spirit of the present college campus, it is easy for us to see why this distinction has been made. The word sport means "pleasant pastime" or "amusement."

Could you, or shall we say we, consider the present spirit a "pleasant pastime"? In a recent basketball game in the southern part of our nation, arena fans found it easy to criticize the conduct of the home crowd, home officials, and a very fine basketball team. Many cutting remarks were made because fans had been very "unsportsmanlike." Should we, here on the Morehead State College campus, not set our own house in order before we criticize others?

To more completely clarify our feelings here, let us consider a similar happening. In the situation referred to before, the fans screamed, yelled, and threw things at the visiting team. When a player went to the free throw line, fans screamed so much that the visitors' captain wouldn't shoot until the crowd quieted. This team which was on the road was a favorite of many of us; therefore this action was completely absurd.

Recently, we were host to another conference team and, with the score tied, a visiting player marched to the free throw line. The home crowd yelled to the top of their voice in an attempt to make the shooter miss. We were practicing the very thing that we had condemned so harshly. Let us here on the campus consider others before we appear so ridiculous. It is always easy to talk about the actions of others, but let us be able to say that we practice the more ideal "sportsmanship" even in a society in which the true meaning of sport has seemingly been forgotten. Let the old adage "It's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game" be the motto of our intercollegiate competition, so that in the end we can be proud of our conduct.

Spirit Is Up! But Not Consistent

At the last home football game and then at the M. S. C. basketball game we saw the same enthusiasm and spirit that has been evidenced at Morehead games in the past two years. Why? Well, we think that perhaps the pep band may have had quite a bit to do with it. In fact we'll say that we think it definitely had a lot to do with the spirit.

We would like to suggest that a regular pep band be organized under the sponsorship of the Music Club and the Music Department, and be present for every home game. The pep band would not only help make a lot of noise, but it would help the students work together more on their cheers rather than one cheer here and another over there and so on.

Of course, the home sporting events are over for this season, but it isn't one bit too soon to start working on the idea now for next September. If, when football season begins, the pep band is already organized it will probably go a long way in starting the whole thing off with a bang of enthusiasm and school spirit.

While we're on the subject, may we add that we think the pep band at the Eastern game did an excellent job. We're sure that when the pep band is officially organized that these fellows should be the first ones to be called on.

Students Should Learn Alma Mater

Last Monday night at the last home game of the season we witnessed one of the most fantastic and unbelievable things we have yet seen on the part of the student body. Several times during the game the students rose to their feet and sang the Alma Mater. They sang "Song" with enthusiasm, hoping by this act to cheer the team on.

At one time in the game Mrs. Adron Doran played the Alma Mater for Morehead and a few scattered individuals stood here and there a bit uncertainly. Of all things? Very few people in the bleachers had even recognized the tune much less knew the words to our Alma Mater.

This is something that should be remedied . . . and soon! We would suggest that the Alma Mater be sung more often. True, it won't have much meaning to students at first, but as the words are impressed more upon their minds through repeated singing, we feel that a definite pride will develop in not only the song but the school as well.

We feel that the Alma Mater should be sung at least once during every home sporting event. At least twice a month in chapel the song could be sung because after all it is a student assembly and they should know the Alma Mater. Perhaps the college chorus could help promote interest in the song by singing a special arrangement of it in convocation.

At any rate something should be done to make the Alma Mater significant in the thinking of students and something that M. S. C. graduates will remember for many years to come.

"The number of clerical workers has doubled in the U. S. in the past 20 years," says a statistician. We probably don't know where we're going, but we certainly have more than ample records of where we've been.

There are problems concerning inner space, too, in addition to the primary problem of finding parking space. For example, there is never enough space for the back of the bus or in the rear of the church.

The whooping crane is about to become extinct—something that most likely will never happen to the rabbit.

Neatness, Good Taste Better-Dressed Goal

March 2-6 has been designated as Better Dressed Week for Morehead's campus by the President's Council. Several activities have been especially prepared and scheduled by the members of the Council. Both a dance and a style show have been planned in connection with the week.

It is not necessary to say that much time and money have gone into this program, but without the support of the student body the whole campaign for neater dress will be a flop.

The purpose of this week is not to promote the buying of new wardrobes and parading around campus for a week. Instead, the week is meant to put emphasis on merely dressing better in terms of neatness and good taste. Certainly, better dressing can be classified as a major part in our social development.

On the staff feel that this week of better dressing should be backed up and carried out to the fullest extent by the students. Not only will this attitude toward the program reflect the Council for their efforts, but the effect on the whole appearance of the campus should be improved.

Cheerleaders . . . You Were Great!

We've all heard the pledge given by the postmasters in the U. S. how the mail will go through wind, rain, and snow so that the job may be done. Well, in a way our cheerleaders can be compared to the postmasters because there has been many a football game when they had to yell, smile, and be full of vim and vigor when everyone else wasn't. They have experienced calls, laryngitis, and runny mascara on the football field in order to carry out their job even when the students weren't.

But they didn't stop here. Came the basketball season and they entered the basketball season with all the enthusiasm they could muster when to cheer and yell when they were tired. They have had to have the patience of Job so as to not get angry when there was no cooperation. They have used the wisdom of Solomon in trying to figure out ways of building up school spirit. And many times it has taken courage to stand unflinchingly on the basketball court and cheer when it seemed as though basketballs and three dozen players were stampeding in their direction.

Considering everything, we would say that the cheerleading squad for 1958-59 has done a superior job and may we take this opportunity to say "Merri!"

It is well that American manufacturers will build some medium-sized cars to meet the demand of those with small-sized incomes. Those with medium-sized incomes will, of course, continue to buy the large-sized cars.

The perpetrators of fads seem to be losing their ingenuity (it is hoped), as they haven't yet come up with some fool thing to succeed the hula hula hoop insanity.

It's a great pity humans don't have the capacity for physical adaptability that insects do. It isn't long before an insecticide is put into use before insects become immune to it, and soon thereafter they begin eating from it as a tonic.

Even effective outlawing of atomic bombs and missiles wouldn't bring permanent world peace. It would be necessary effectively to outlaw all weapons of war, back to and including the bow and arrow.

One trouble with quite a few old people is that they're yapping when they ought to be napping.

A TYPICAL FIELDHOUSE CROWD—This shot is not sensational in any way but exemplifies the typical crowd at an athletic event. The expressions on the faces of the persons in attendance show the varied reactions of the normal fan. Note the lady at the lower right who seems to notice everything but the game.

The Trail Blazer Will Take No Sides

For the next several weeks all eyes in Kentucky will be turned toward the gubernatorial primary election, with an advanced look to the November final. We on the staff of The Trail Blazer do not expect the students on the Morehead State College campus to be odd or different, but rather we do expect them to participate in the happenings which are connected with political races.

Due to many things which we could point to and say that our institution has been involved in and has emerged a less instructive and constructive institution, we would like to take this opportunity to say that we do not intend to take any part in any political discussions, races, or promote any political group or groups.

College students should definitely be concerned with who is selected to represent them, but it is not the duty of any campus organization to promote any specific group. The Trail Blazer has as its objective the betterment of Morehead State College, not the election of any candidate.

As we enter into this spring's red-hot political race, we will take no part or no side. However, when a campus group makes news, we will do our best to convey this news to our readers in a way which will leave no possible chance for anyone to accuse us of bias in the campaign's outcome.

We add our expression of approval to the following article which appeared in the student newspaper at the University of Kentucky recently. The article is printed exactly as it was in that paper.

STRADDLING THE FENCE

"This week the first news stories about the current state gubernatorial race appeared in the Kernel, and this week we received, just as we had expected, telephone calls and visits from persons interested in the campaign's outcome."

"We have not been accused of bias toward any political group, but we can see the potential holocaust—now a mere bonfire—beginning to crackle on the horizon. Before an unexpected political wind blows the flames across the University forest, we think it appropriate to reiterate our position in regard to state politics."

"Many years ago, during the tenure of President Patterson, the University became involved in a bitter political fight which nearly resulted in its annihilation. The matter reached the floor of the legislature, and a strong sentiment to cut off all funds to the University was in the air. Fortunately the issue was resolved, but its lesson has never been forgotten."

"The Kernel is not the University's official spokesman, and the administration does not dictate what we shall or shall not print. Yet we realize that editorial opinions, while they reflect only the editor's views and not necessarily those of the University itself, are sometimes constructed as just the opposite. If the Kernel were to say the world is square, there are those who would immediately assume that everyone here believed that absurdity."

"The Kernel is also supported in part by students' fees, and it would be unfair for the editor, himself a student, to impress his political views upon those who do not share them."

"Thus precedent and the fact that the Kernel is your paper, attempting to support your interests and express views which concern you, have proved that neutrality is the only way to avoid an unpleasantness such as the one encountered by President Patterson at the turn of the century. Perhaps neutrality is not an entirely satisfactory solution, but it is the only fair one."

"When either political party makes news on the campus, we have a duty to report it, as we would any other news. In doing so, we shall present the news in as factual and unbiased a manner as possible, without comment, endorsement or censure."

The staff of The Trail Blazer realizes that this is not the University of Kentucky but if we were to search the historical facts about our institution, we could certainly find instances similar to the one about President Patterson's experience.

We want to help our readers to find out how our students are reacting to the political world; but we will not take any role in supporting them because our views are very similar to those suggested by the editor of the Kernel.

Library Aids Intelligent Study Habits

By Bill Thornton
(in the Arkansas State College Herald)

Does the thought of studying make you as tired as if you had tramped a long day in high heels? When you look at an exam, do you wonder if you're in the right class room? If your answers to these questions are "yes," and you aren't concerned, don't bother to faint. Here are a few hints to help the puny machine get cold. However, if you would like to bring up your grades—no matter how low—at least one letter—read on.

Before you accept this intellectual-a-bomb, let's cook up an imaginary situation for you to try on for size. Take English. You have to, you know. Suppose you've got a low "C," and your instructor for just can't seem to get to you. Maybe it seems that of dad is well, can't help you. You're stuck. The rub—an instructor can't paint a lesson on your subconscious like he'd redecorate the kitchen—you've got to play ink-blot, and absorb, or at least keep your eyes open in class. He should be able to expect that of you, in any case.

From there on, in you can work a miracle just by spending some time in the library. You don't have to drive yourself—just go in, sit down, and read the assignment.

Make a note of things which seem to be stressed in the paragraphs. The atmosphere in the library is conducive to concentration—it's easier to keep your mind busy when reading. You'll be surprised at how much you'll remember from these easy-going sessions.

Maybe this doesn't sound like fun, even though you can get a "B" instead of a "C" by doing it. Well, that's the way it is. You're laid out to be a carnival site, anyway. With Happy Mayhew

It happens to the best of us! Dr. Nolan Fowler, professor of history, has not missed a class in ten years—that is until recently. One recent morning he attended an early class meeting and later went to his office to discover later that he had worked through a class. This happened on Friday the 13th which goes to show that that date is not unlucky—at least for the student.

Dana Warman, sophomore from Buffalo, N. Y., is among this year's participants for membership on the Eagle football squad. Dana played semi-pro baseball for the Buffalo Warriors in '58, but this was only one of eight championship teams that he played for. The Brooklyn Dodgers offered him a sizable bonus to sign a contract with them before the club moved to the West coast. He turned the offer down in favor of a full scholarship to the University of Miami, Florida, last year.

Bobby Martin and his rock and roll band have made a hit on the campus, according to a number of students. The group has had a number of appearances on campus. They played for the Campus Club Dance and the recent Sweetheart Dance. The group's recordings are found on campus juke boxes and are sold in the college bookstore. Arch Laclefield, English and French teacher, is the saxophone player of the group, Laclefield, Martin, and the group have a good seller now going called "Back to School".

Would you like to live in Southern Rhodesia, Africa? If so, take the example of Inez Francis, a registered nurse who graduated from nursing hospital in Ashland last year and is working for a degree at Morehead presently. In '41 Inez plans to go to Rhodesia with a group of other girls to establish a nursing school to care for 27,000 natives.

QUICK QUOTES

What are this year's class of senior stars going to do after graduation? Answers to this question were given in the last issue in this column. Again this issue, seniors from a cross-section of the class tell what their plans are after graduating this June:

Phyllis "Hoot" Vanhousen says, "I plan to teach physical education, sociology, and economics after I graduate."

Mary Mullins, senior representative of Who's Who in American Colleges, also plans to teach. "I hope to teach home economics after graduation," she said.

"I am going to coach basketball after I graduate," replied James Whitaker. "I will also teach sociology and economics," he added.

Bert Nixon also expressed his desire to teach. "I intend to teach geography and coach after being graduated."

"I am going to work on my master's degree and possibly teach," said Grover Taylor.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Dr. Clifford Rader at one time was very active in tap dancing?

"Happy" took a nap of fourteen hours recently?

There were twelve perfect standings made the first semester?

Dr. Fowler's pet peeve is personal publicity?

The Eastern Kentucky Band Clinic will be held on the Morehead campus this week end?

Georgette Day, Barbara Ferrell, Santa Carol Hall and Eunice Forester, freshmen enrolled in Morehead's nursing program this semester, were awarded scholarships because of their academic records the first semester.

Granny Williams, a skilled shooter from the charity line, still is leading the Ohio Valley Conference and the nation in free throw shooting, according to latest NCAA statistics.

Billy J. Hall, graduate assistant and Trail Blazer editor graduated from elementary school, high school and college in only 14 years.

"Gray Bread", casting Susie Caudill, Betty Mays, Martha Waltz, and Judy Hackney, Breck students, won a superior rating at the Regional Drama Festival?

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

The number of students on probation at the end of the first semester hit over the 100 mark. A number of students missed the required standard by only a small percentage. Wouldn't a little more effort on our part to benefit us many times over effort out-put? One senior from a recent class lacked only one quality point to graduate—a single letter grade!

Crippled Children Drive Opens With Workshop At Morehead

Representatives of Rowan, Carter, Bath and Montgomery counties were guests of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children at a banquet and workshop held in the Doran Student House on the Morehead campus, Thursday evening, Feb. 12.

Mrs. Adron Duran of Morehead and a member of the state board of directors gave the welcoming address and the Rev. Ray Allen offered the invocation.

George R. Kavanagh of Lexington, and State Eastern Seal Chairman presided at the workshop. A 3 point program of services and needs was outlined for the workshop by Mary Paxton, program director from the Louisville headquarters. The 3 point program is: (1) Early discovery for treatment; (2) Medical treatment; (3) Special education; (4) Recreation for social adjustment; and (5) Vocational training and job placement.

Paul Combs, Director of Public Relations for the Kentucky Society, displayed the various materials and succeeded ways they might be used to publicize the campaign.

Mrs. Adron Duran presented a very interesting discussion on the various types of projects which might be used by the various groups to raise money for their needy.

Speech, Dramatics Department Has Increased Staff, Program

By Lois Moore

The Speech and Dramatics Department of Morehead State College under the leadership of W. H. Covington, III has made a well known name for itself.

Closely associated with this department is the drama club known as the Morehead Players.

The first production of this year was "Lads in the Dark", a musical by Ira Gershwin and Brice by Moss Hart. This production was received well by the faculty, student body, and visitors. The results from "Lads in the Dark", promises many great things for the future.

Tryouts began Feb. 17, for the production, "To the Moon", by Tom Tichenor. This play promises to be very effective in our "space age" of today.

"To the Moon" is the ninth Children's Theater Production sponsored by the Morehead Women's Club.

The money made from this production comes back to the college in the form of two scholarships. Two of our students that are on campus now, won the scholarship last year. They are Lynn Crawford and Barbara Caudill.

The Morehead Players are presenting a Children's Production, "The Color Conscious Conscience", by Irene Lockridge at the Children's Theater Conference held at Berea State College March 19, 20, and 21.

The Drama Department of Georgetown College will present the same play with an adult cast.

The object of the Drama Department Conference is to evaluate the differences between the production with a child's cast and the same production with an adult cast.

Mr. Covington was selected to be on the panel along with Mr. Jerry Gitchewell of Mississippi State University; Miss Martha Brish of Nashville, Tenn., a member of the National Children's Theater Conference; and Dr. Orin Corey, head of the Drama Department at Georgetown College.

Leaving the functions of the Morehead Players and their productions, let us return to the Speech and Dramatics Department itself.

A person may obtain a major or minor in speech and dramatics. The student must be considered as one department. However, you may obtain a major in speech or a major in dramatics, and in that way make a separation in the department.

One hour of credit for each semester of effective participation will be awarded the student for work done on special departmental activities such as—major play productions; a series of studio productions; projects related to the Regional Speech Festival and Clinic; and special radio projects.

Top Personalities Support World Youth Festival

Outstanding personalities in the industrial, art and education fields have recently expressed their support of the VII World Youth Festival to be held in Vienna from July to Aug. 4, 1959.

Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland industrialist notified the U. S. Festival Committee that, "Certainly any project which enables people from different countries to get together and discuss common problems should be beneficial in building international understanding and friendship." He added that, "We wish you the greatest success in this undertaking."

Further support was noted by Dr. John Sorenville, professor of philosophy at Hunter College. He commented, "Through international contacts, meetings and discussions, a very great deal can be accomplished. In this matter, no one should be afraid of trying to do something. If he is wise, what he will be afraid of is not trying to do something." He continued, "Whatever gains you make will earn the gratitude not only of today's youth throughout the world, but of all succeeding human generations."

Leonard Bernstein, New York Philharmonic conductor, extended best wishes for success of the Festival to the International Preparatory Committee in Vienna.

Rockwell Kent, noted painter, has accepted the International Preparatory Committee's invitation to be on the jury which will award prizes in the arts in Vienna.

Mr. Kent said, "The Festival is an event that should be supported with the enthusiasm that has backed our own Olympic teams and by the belief that American youth, in cultural competition, can show itself as rich in resource, fitness and accomplishment as the youth of any nation in the world."

In addition to these comments, other favorable sentiments have been expressed by world leaders. Ratu Aminah Hidayat, Vice-President of the Constituent Assembly of the Republic of Indonesia noted: "I hope that all those taking part in the Festival will take advantage of the occasion not only to make new acquaintances but also to understand and to come to love each other; in this way the spirit of friendship and peace between nations will be cultivated and will eventually lead to everlasting friendship in the spirit of peace."

Applications for becoming part of the U. S. delegation must be submitted to the U. S. Festival Committee at 246 Fifth Avenue by March.

Each student working for a major is expected to finish a full length play or do equivalent work in the art form.

This story would not be complete without some historical background of the Speech and Dramatics Department.

Mr. Covington came to Morehead State College in 1950. At that time there were only three dramatic classes offered.

Dr. Lawton came to the Department in 1957 to create more emphasis in speech, especially debate. This was the first year speech and dramatics were offered as a major.

Don Holloway was added to the staff this year and Thelma Crowell also helps in speech correction.

This day I dread
The hour that approaches,
For having spent
It no more encores.

And in that hour
I might have missed,
A living tower
Of earthly bliss.
Some moment sweet
That will be past,
Will fail to keep
A memory lasting.

*The author would like to know your interpretation.
His is thus:

As you walk down the garden path,
Be careful not to step on any roses.

Memories are today's actions tomorrow.

MODERN MANNERS

As we continue our articles on "modern manners" for modern people, in this issue we shall discuss, what to wear when the invitation says . . .

Reception . . . or tea . . . or cocktails . . . or a buffet four to eight o'clock

A moderately dressy afternoon dress, street or ballroom length, plus hat and gloves. It's bad manners, by the way, to keep gloves on while eating or drinking. For the gentlemen, a suit, white shirt and tie are quite appropriate.

Internal dinner, high tea or buffet supper--from six o'clock on.

The same "afternoon" or "cocktail" dress. If you like, leave the hat home. Again, suit, shirt and tie are appropriate for the gentlemen.

Virginia Dinner, former Morehead State College, former and resident of Carter County, Ky., has completed the Trans-World Airlines' flight business training course at Kansas City.
She is expected to TWA She liner flights from Kansas City.

B.S.U. News

The fourth Greater Council meeting of the Baptist Student Union was held last Tuesday evening at the B.S.U. Center on Fourth Street.

The Greater Council, composed of Executive Council members and their committees, met for an evaluation of the B.S.U. program thus far this year. There was general discussion of the good and bad points in the program followed by plans of what could be done to improve B.S.U. programs on campus.

Two short skits promoting attendance for morning watch services were presented by Barbara Anglin, Mary Helen Birch,
Donna Hughes, and Wayne Wade.
June Gray gave a devotional at the close of the meeting.

Attending the meeting of the Greater Council was Miss Beth Hayworth, Assistant Secretary of the State B.S.U., who was here in connection with the Young Women's Auxiliary's mission study.

The Executive Council would like to remind everyone that there is a general open house at the Center each Friday and Saturday evenings. You can sit back and relax to smooth music from the Hill-Plays, play a tense game of chess, or just sit back and relax.

There are also refreshments on sale, or bring your own and treat them up in the kitchen. Everyone is invited regardless of church affiliation.

Beginning next Tuesday evening at the church each evening at 6:45 there will be an open forum on witnessing. The discussion is being led by Marcia Hall, director of B.S.U., and Jim Fugate, president of the organization. It is hoped that several will attend these sessions in order to receive credit toward the First Magnitude standards.

The Devotional Committee announced that morning watch is being continued from 7:20-8:00 each week day morning at the Center.
Also, Vesper services are held each Thursday evening at 6 p. m.

Answer warmly and immediately.

Condolences
The most difficult letter of all.
Be brief, tactful and sincere; never gush or morbid. Mention some quality of the deceased if you knew him, or of his reputation if you didn't. Offer help, if you think you can be of any use. If you must answer a letter of condolence, be brief and direct. Up to six weeks may elapse before
the reply, which may be written by a relative ("Mother asked me
to tell you how much she appreciated your kindness," etc.).

Apology . . .
For errors of the craved type.
Depending on the length of your ability, you can write on note paper, "informal," or visiting card.
Be sure you can be of any use. If you must answer a letter of condolence, be brief and direct. Up
to six weeks may elapse before
the reply, which may be written
by a relative ("Mother asked me
to tell you how much she appreciated your kindness," etc.).

Warning . . .
All these quick and simple condolences may mean extra work after all. They may bring you so many new invitations and gifts that you'll be working overtime to acknowledge them.

In our next issue we shall begin a discussion on "The Proper Ways of Introduction" and "How to be a Social Guest."
