Allen Heads Housing Authority

GOVERNING BODY . . . Pictured are the voting and ex officio members of the Housing Authority of Morehead who met Tuesday afternoon for the election of officers. Hubert Allen was elected Chairman and Frank C. Laughlin, Vice Chairman. Allen replaces W. E. Crutcher, who resigned last month on advice of his physicians. Mayor C. B. Cornett appointed Crutcher as a lifetime honorary ex officio non-voting member. Seated from left - Dr. Arvis Porter, appointed by the Mayor and sworn in Tuesday as a member to replace Crutcher; Chairman Allen; Vice-Chairman Laughlin; W. H. Rice, Standing - Crutcher, Mayor Cornett who is an ex officio member by virtue of his office; and Executive Director Bill Patrick. Morehead has 182 low rent federally subsidized units.

The Housing Authority of Morehead in special meeting Tuesday elected officers, sworn in a new member, and heard "highly acceptable" reports about the occupancy of Heritage Place, 100 housing units for the elderly, and the progress on 52 new family units to be erected on South Bridge Street near the Morehead-Rowan County Recreational Center.

Mayor C. B. Cornett named Dr. Arvis Porter as the new member. He replaces W. E. Crutcher, who resigned last month because of a coronary problem.

Hubert Allen, who has been Vice-Chairman, was unanimously elected to the Chairmanship, replacing Crutcher. Frank C. Laughlin was then elected Vice-Chairman, replacing Allen in that position.

Members of the Authority were advised by Chairman Allen that construction of the 52 general purpose units of two, three and four bedrooms on Bridge Street will start Monday. They will be built by the 340 Corporation of Lexington on their bid of around $1,000,000. The same developer selected the buildings at Heritage Place.

Executive Director Bill Patrick said that steel and heavy materials to the Bridge Street site will have to be transported over a dirt road (sort of a wagon trail) from near the Clearfield Bridge east along the south bank of Triplett Creek. Patrick said the existing bridge near the Morehead State University Power Plant was unsafe for heavy loads and has been condemned.

Ford Authorizes $300,000 Bridge

The Bridge Street project is expected to be completed by this time next year. Allen said Gov. Wendell Ford issued an order two months ago allocating $300,000 for a one-lane bridge on Bridge Street. This structure, which will have a guard-rail lane for pedestrians and perhaps another for bicycles, also leads directly to the recreation center.

All of Bridge Street will be re-paved by the city; and widened south from the C&O railroad crossing.

Mayor Cornett stressed at Tuesday's meeting the acceptable occupancy of Heritage Place for the elderly. "I wish everybody could see how happy these fine senior citizens are in their new (Heritage Place) apartments. I have talked with many of them and they are overjoyed. They have found modern and quality living quarters, plus the companionship and the pride of associating and working together," the Mayor said.

Claig Sprout SEZ

DEAR EDITOR:

I have gleaned through the years that your newspaper and all the news media are strong in your editorial contention that the public has the right to know whenever and wherever the public's interest and the public's tax money are concerned.

Me and Timothy Tugunone are in agreement with you, and we also concur in the public disclosure law for anybody running for public office.

So, Me and Timothy have a few questions which are most important and pertinent. Some of these questions are:

1. How much is the national debt, including all the loans that are made in the name of public housing, rural water systems, and other agencies, but guaranteed by Uncle Sam and paid off with interest by the government? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know?
2. How much foreign aid is the U.S.A. sending to other nations every year? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know?
3. Was the War in Vietnam settled with promises of billions of dollars of taxpayers money? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know what the deal was with North Vietnam?
4. It appears that the things other nations want to import from the U.S.A. are food and fuel (energy). Why does the government permit these exports when food and energy are the scarcest and the most important segments of our economy? How about the Russian wheat deal? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know?
5. Is it true that the treasury department has spent all the money (probably $450 billion) that is supposed to be in the Social Security fund? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know how solvent is SST?
6. How much gold was placed in the Fort Knox depository when it was first stocked, and how much is there now? . . . and if the amount of gold is considerably less what went in and who got it for what? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know what is or is happening to our gold?

7. How many people are getting food stamps, welfare, and other handouts and what is the amount each year? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know?
8. How many people are on the federal payroll and how much are they being paid? Don't we, the taxpayers, deserve to know where our money is going to the bureaucrats?
9. As you know the government put everybody under the Social Security regulations (mandatory) except the largest group of employees in the world—those working for the United States government. Is it true, as charged, that government employs pay much less in their retirement fund that does the 13 per cent that goes to Social Security from the free enterprise employee and the employer; but the government employee receives over five times as many benefits, although paying less than does the employee in free enterprise? Don't we, the taxpayers, have the right to know whether we're being conned in this respect?

The authors of the Bill of Rights and the Constitution clearly intended that the people have the right to know their (public) business is being transacted.

Timothy says, and I agree, that the people of the U.S.A. are damn fools for not demanding the answer to the foregoing and many other equally pertinent questions. The government is supposed to work for the people and be a servant of the people. The way I see it we are all working for the government and we are servants of the government. And, Dear Editor, that's the reason this nation is one helluva mess today and nobody knows the solution.

Yours Truly,
CLAI G SPROUT

As some of the tenants walked by the Mayor advised, "Here is an example of HUD and the local Housing Authority making our elderly folks proud and happy."

Executive Director Bill Patrick said that about 50 of the 100 elderly units have been occupied, but "we'll soon be full." Applications are being processed and are still being accepted for occupancy, Patrick advised the Authority.

A person must be 62 years old, or older, to qualify for Heritage Place. But, they can earn upwards of $4,500 a year and qualify.

Dr. Nesbitt's Class Participates

The Authority heard further good news in that Dr. Howard Nesbitt and one of his recreation classes at Morehead State University have started and will continue an entertainment program with and for the occupants of Heritage Place.

"Last week we had bingo games. Before that it was gospel singing. This week it will

Only One Firm Bids On Street Surfacing

East Kentucky Paving submitted the only bid for surfacing and/or resurfacing of certain streets in the City of Morehead. The bid, opened at a special session of City Council last Thursday night, was in a total amount of $34,700.

The bid was opened, but not awarded since the Bureau of Highways has not forwarded the contract it has with the City of the governing body. It is anticipated that the bid will be awarded within the next week.

All work will be according to specifications of the Bureau of Highways, but will be paid for from the gasoline tax refund from the state to the City of Morehead. The City's share this year is the two per cent return on gasoline tax is about $36,000.

Planning Commission Established

The Morehead-Rowan County Joint Planning Commission has been re-established and Clifford Barker, the only existing member on the old commission, has been appointed chairman of the eight-member body.

Woodrow Barber is the vice-chairman and John Needham is secretary. The other five members are: Pete Haman, Clemmon Crosswhite, Woodford Black, Ellie Holloway (City Council representative) and Calvin Ray Lytle (Fiscal Court representative).

The Commission will establish proposed zoning for the City and County and will make its recommendations to the City (Council) and/or County (Fiscal) Court; which legislative body or bodies will make all final decisions regarding zoning regulations.

Mayor C. B. Cornett and Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell made the appointments to the re-established Commission and the appointments have been approved by Council and Fiscal Court.

Mayor Cornett advised Council that he felt it urgent the Commission be re-established as soon as possible so that the areas of the City which have not been zoned can be zoned immediately.

The City already has announced that a public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 7, at Morehead City Hall, to consider a proposal of the Joint Planning Commission regarding zoning of real estate which lies adjacent to either side of Ky. Highway 32 and other real estate in the City which has no zoning.

Any person or property owner who desires to support or oppose the proposed zoning will be given an opportunity to be heard at the public hearing Oct. 7.

City Bans Coal Tipples; Zoning Hearing Scheduled

The City of Morehead moved today, with publication of ordinances, toward zoning and future environmental controls. Council adopted the following —

• A law preventing the erection of any coal tipple within the city limits. Morehead's present city limits, following last fall's expansion, cover 9.3 square miles.

• Called a public hearing at city hall for Monday, Oct. 7, to consider the recommendation of the Morehead-Rowan County Joint Planning Commission that all real estate on both sides of Kentucky 32, lying to a depth of 300 feet from Ky. 32, be zoned "General Business." (This part of the over six square mile annexed last year.)

• Present at the same Oct. 7 public meeting the proposal of the joint Morehead-Rowan County Planning Commission that all real estate (other than that as mentioned above on Ky. 32) that lies within the City of Morehead, and which has not previously been zoned, be classified as R-2 (Residential and apartments).

Plans are for an enclosed coal loading operation that must meet both state and federal environmental regulations.

The ordinance covering zoning on Ky. 32 to "General Business" specifies that if a property owner has real estate fronting on Ky. 32 but having a depth of more than 300 feet from his entire plot will be zoned "General Business."

Hunting Prohibited At Twin Knobs Recreation Complex

Richard J. Bonyata, District Ranger, Daniel Boone National Forest, Morehead, has advised that hunting will not be permitted at the Twin Knobs recreation complex on Cave Run Lake.

The "no hunting" restriction is being applied because of the various recreational facilities under development, according to Bonyata. Camping units, comfort stations, two boat ramps and a sewage treatment plant are not on the site. A bathroom, entrance station, additional comfort stations and camping units are being constructed. Also, a swimming beach and picnic units will be made available for use next summer.

Ranger Bonyata explained that under the rules and regulations of the Secretary, U.S. Department of Agriculture, persons are not allowed to discharge firearms in developed recreation sites. Violators are subject to a penalty of not more than $500 or six months imprisonment, or both.

The Morehead District covers nearly 111,000 acres in portions of Bath, Menifee, Morgan and Rowan Counties. All of this acreage is available for hunting with the exception of the small amount devoted to developed recreation sites.

"We invite hunters and other individuals to use their national forest land," Bonyata said, "but with the approach of fall, the danger of forest fires will increase, so urge hunters and campers to leave a dead fire and a clean camp."

NOTED FOR CARVINGS . . . Hubert Rogers of Hitchins, a well known wood carver, will entertain senior citizens at the Morehead County Gathering at the United Methodist Church at noon today (Thursday). The Carter County Extension Community Development Center in Central Kentucky, which will demonstrate carving and play one of his many Carving projects are known and admired in foreign countries as well as here. Lunch will be at 11:30 a.m., with Rogers' program at 12 noon. The public is invited to the program.

Controversial Time Problem Arises Once Again In Kentucky

By Gary Huddleston

It's that time again.

That old time problem, one which has plagued Kentuckians for decades, has reared its ugly head again.

And under existing laws, Gov. Wendell Ford is the state's official timer. With the power to decide just which direction — forward, back, or some confusing compromise — the big hands take.

As it stands now, Congress is about to reamend its most recent amendment to the national time law, and go from year-round Daylight Saving Time to eight months of DST a year, from March to the first of October. Except for wartime, or the current energy-imposed year-round fast time, this eight-month period would be the longest fast time observed to date.

Kentucky has for almost a year now been in the Central time zone, with the exception of 12 northeastern Kentucky counties. These 12 counties have remained in the Eastern zone due to their close economic ties with adjacent Ohio and West Virginia counties in the Eastern zone.

Kentucky Options

If the amendment now in Congress is enacted into law, Kentucky will have several time options, most at the discretion of the state's chief executive. These include —

- (1) The state can return to the time-zone boundaries in effect before last year's change, with 78 counties, most east of a line from Brandenburg to Whitley City, in the Eastern zone, the remaining 42 counties in the Central zone.
- (2) This would involve two time changes for Kentuckians between now and next March. On Oct. 27, the date year-round DST will end under the current bill, those 42 Central zone counties would turn clocks back one hour, to Central Standard, the 12 northeastern counties would go back one hour, from Eastern Daylight to Eastern Standard, and the other 66 counties would not change their clocks, moving only from Central Daylight to Eastern Standard, the same time.

Then, next Feb. 23, all counties, both Central and Eastern, would move up one hour, and go on DST, unless Gov. Ford asked for all exemptions from the change until April 27, the normal date of the semi-annual time change under the 1966 law.

(2) The legislature, and probably the governor, can act to exempt all of the state, or those counties in either time zone, from observing DST. Thus, if the 78-42 county split is retained, the Eastern time zone counties can be exempted from observing fast time, and the entire state could observe the same time during the spring-summer months.

This, however, would not address the problems of the northeastern "bedroom" counties, whose residents tend to work in adjoining states which would be one hour faster.

(3) The governor, following passage of the latest amendment by Congress, can ask the Department of Transportation approving making permanent the current time zone boundaries in Kentucky. This would place all of Kentucky but the 12 northeastern counties in the Central zone, and those 12 in the Eastern zone, exactly as it now stands.

In this instance, all Kentucky counties would move their clocks back one hour in October, then return them up that hour in February.

The advantages of this arrangement were altered to recently by Gov. Ford himself, when he said there had been less controversy over the current arrangement than at any other time in recent history.

Most Kentuckians seem to have little difficulty with either Central Standard or Central Daylight time. But many have objected to Eastern Daylight time, especially those in Central Kentucky.

The syndrome of going to bed during full daylight in the summer, and going to work or school in total darkness in October is a frustrating, and sometimes dangerous situation for many Kentuckians, urban and rural.

It has been proven that such situations are particularly perilous for small children waiting for buses or walking to school in late autumn. And about the only people who derive benefit from this Eastern Daylight arrangement are a small number of businessmen who want to be on "New York" time, plus those golfers and other recreationists who like 6-hour leisure day latched on the end of an 8-hour work day. But the trade, more golf time for more risk of harm for school children, is not an even one.

If the governor asks to make our current arrangement permanent, 108 counties will be on the same time year-round, golfers and school children will both be taken into consideration, and the vast majority of Kentuckians "will very likely breathe a sign of relief that the long time war is coming to an end."

If he takes another option, he may be yielding to the whims of a select few, and ignoring what seems to be the sincere wishes of most workers, farmers, businessmen and parents.

Woman Charged In Bank Robbery Remains In Jail

Bond of $25,000 was set last Wednesday for the 30-year-old Whitesburg woman charged with armed robbery in connection with the robbery last Monday morning of the Salt Lick Deposit Bank when two armed bandits fled with about $9,000.

Mrs. Geraldine Hall Caudill appeared before Bath County Judge Ray Bailey last Wednesday when her bond was set at $25,000. She remains in Bath County Jail.

Warrants are on file for the two armed men who entered the bank and forced employees and customers behind a counter while they scooped up the cash.

The female suspect was apprehended by State Police in Letcher County last Tuesday morning and returned to Bath County that night. The two men remain at large and are considered dangerous, according to State Police.

KSP officers said the vehicle in which the robbers escaped belonged to Mrs. Caudill and her husband, however, officers said Mr. Caudill is not believed to be involved in the incident. The vehicle was seized in Letcher County.

State Police Capt. Sonny Owen reported Mrs. Caudill had no previous arrest record, however, both the male suspects have felony records and have served time in prison.

The KSP captain said Mrs. Caudill advised officers the two men took off from her last Tuesday morning in Letcher County and noted that at that time none of the money had been spent.

The robbery last week marked the third time the Salt Lick Bank has been held up during the past 10 years, and in all cases the robbers have been apprehended, according to KSP records.

Park Construction Bids Will Be Opened Oct. 3

The special session of Morehead City Council set for Monday Sept. 30 for the purpose of opening bids for construction projects at the Morehead Recreation Park has been cancelled.

City Attorney Paul Blair said he failed to advertise for bids in the Sept. 19 issue of the Morehead News for the park construction. The advertisements appear in this issue, however, and a special meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 3 at 5 p.m. at City Hall for the purpose of opening the bids.

The bid specifications, which are on file at the office of the Morehead City Clerk at City Hall, are for the construction of paving, fencing, lighting, and miscellaneous construction of dugouts and grandstands, and picnic shelter for the City Park.

Plans for the completion of the park facilities were prepared by Howard K. Bell Engineers of Lexington and presented to City Council at its Sept. 9 meeting by Dr. John R. Duncan, chairman of the Morehead Recreation Commission.

Dr. Duncan and other Commission members have urged that the City take immediate action in order to get the park completed prior to the expiration Dec. 31 of the BMR (Bureau of Outdoor Recreation) funds. The park has been 50 per cent federally funded by BOR, including the swimming pool, but the present contract with BOR expires Dec. 31 after which date any work at the park will be at the total expense of the City.

A one-year extension was granted the City on the original BOR contract which would have expired Dec. 31, 1973, however, the City has been unable to get another extension from the federal agency.

be arts and crafts, and next week the tenants start making and repairing Christmas toys for underprivileged children, or as their own gifts," Patrick said.

The Executive Manager continued, "Dr. Nesbitt and the MSU students are helping bring a whole new enjoyment of life to the people at Heritage Place. They look forward and plan for each Thursday's program." Patrick said the MSU students also apparently realize they are making a major contribution toward the happiness of these elderly citizens and "I think Dr. Nesbitt ought to give every one of them an 'A' in this class."

Patrick added, "If you want to see the happiest people in this community or area you'll find them at Heritage Place. It makes my job enjoyable to see their contentment and I like working with them."

Mayor Cornett said if HUD ever wants a first-hand demonstration of how its money and program is designed to operate then all they have to do is come to Morehead.

Allen, Rice and Crutcher have served as members of the Authority since it was created as the Morehead Municipal Housing Commission April 3, 1968. Laughlin was appointed three years ago. The members of the Authority receive no remuneration and usually pay their own expenses.

Allen is one of Morehead's business leaders. He and his brother operate supermarkets at Morehead, Olive Hill and Frankfort.

Program On Problem Drinkers To Be Shown

By R. G. Rollins

In cooperation with Kentucky Educational Television (KET), the Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR) will present a one-hour special, Oct. 21 at 7 p.m. The program will zero-in on the problem drinker and the corrects produced upon those close to the drinker.

The special, titled "Drink, Drank, Drunk," is hosted by comedienne Carol Burnett and is composed of comedy vignettes, original music and discussions of the problems by people who have lived through them.

The program will be of interest to the general television audience but, specifically, it will be aimed at people who have to deal with alcoholics on a regular basis - spouses, children, parents, employers, union leaders and friends.

Others who will view this program with particular interest will be those people who routinely encounter the alcoholic in their professions - doctors, policemen, social workers, counselors and clergyman.

A third major audience will be people who may themselves one day be alcoholics - people who may benefit from some information about early detection and warning signals.

"We are interested in cosponsoring this particular program because alcohol abuse and alcohol-related problems affect over 140,000 Kentuckians," says Laurel W. True, secretary for Human Resources "Within the Bureau for Health Services, we have initiated programs to assist the alcoholic to cope with his drinking problem. We have needed a 'Circle of Care' consisting of emergency treatment, inpatient and outpatient care, consultation and education programs, and a transitional process which returns the alcoholic to a productive life." Secretary True added, "Over 16,000 Kentuckians have been helped through this 'Circle of Care' in the past year, but while we may take some pride in this figure, we know that there are many more who could be, but are not being reached. Hopefully, this television program, 'Drink, Drank, Drunk,' will alert Kentuckians to the plight of the problem drinker and point them to a source of help and possible solution."

Enrollment In Schools Decreasing

Across the United States, the decrease in 1974-75 school enrollment is expected to be seven-tenths of 1 per cent below last year's enrollment, while in Kentucky it is expected to be 1.7 per cent.

"The decline is more pronounced in the first three grades, especially in the first grade. However, secondary school enrollment remains fairly stationary," said Lee Tyler, director of the Division of Personnel Attendance and Accounting for the State Department of Education.

"The decrease in enrollment in Kentucky is due mainly to the declining birth rate. This trend is expected to continue for the next four or five years," he said.

"The decline in enrollment in Kentucky has been slowed somewhat due to new kindergarten and special education programs that have been added this year," he said.

Enrollment in public and non-public schools, grades kindergarten through 12, has shown a steady decline since the 1971-72 school year when it was 790,220 at the end of the first month of school. At the end of the first month of 1973-74 school year, it was down to 777,454. This year, according to estimates submitted to the state Department of Education by local school personnel in June, 1974, Kentucky's enrollment will be approximately 768,916. Actual figures on enrollment will not be available until Dec. 1, 1974.

Kentucky Fallout Shelter Food Goes To Bangladesh

By Marva Gay

Twenty tons of stockpiled food has begun a journey from Owensboro to Bangladesh.

The Kentucky shipment is part of millions of pounds of fallout shelter survival food which is being donated to the famine-stricken country by communities across the nation. The Federal Defense Civil Preparedness Agency is having the food flown to the Asian nation at the request of the American Ambassador to Bangladesh.

According to the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services, the food is fortified survival crackers and hard candy which the federal government turned over to local communities for storage in fallout shelters in the early 1960s. When the food was developed, researchers said a few crackers or pieces of candy would supply a person with his minimum daily requirements for survival. However, according to federal civil defense officials, much of the food is deteriorating from age and is being given away before it becomes inedible.

The Owensboro shipment had been stored in fallout shelters at Kentucky Wesleyan College, Brescia College, the old Owensboro

Consumer Comments

This column is written by Ed. W. Hancock, Attorney General of Kentucky. Any reader having comments for consideration should write to Mr. Hancock at Frankfort, Ky.

In recent years a number of new approaches have been developed for settling disputes between businessmen and their customers. Although some of these approaches have involved favorable changes in the procedure of litigation itself, the parties to consumer-business disputes are increasingly hesitant to resort to the court system, because of expensive attorney's fees and the considerable delays which invariably attend even the simplest litigation.

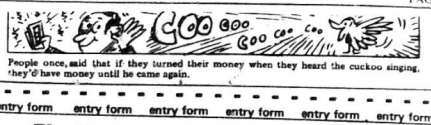

Through arbitration, which does not involve formal court action, the parties to a dispute authorize a third party or panel to resolve the dispute for them. It is an alternative to court action and, in many ways, it is a superior alternative.

The Consumers Advisory Council, which consists of 16 members appointed by the governor to act in an advisory capacity on consumer affairs, instituted a program of consumer arbitration for Kentucky in early 1973. Disputes are referred to the Council for arbitration by the Attorney General's Office after attempts by the division to bring both parties to a mutually satisfactory settlement have been unsuccessful. The arbitration process, of course, depends upon the willingness of the parties to submit the dispute between them. Both the consumer and the businessman must agree to be bound by the decision of an arbitration panel.

To date, the Consumers' Advisory Council has arbitrated 34 disputes between Kentucky consumers and businessmen from all parts of the State. This service is provided at no cost to either the consumer or the businessman and the arbitration hearing itself is held wherever the parties can conveniently meet. The success of the Council's program of consumer arbitration is evidenced by the fact that 96 per cent of the arbitration awards rendered thus far have been complied within 30 days of the arbitration hearing and without the necessity of any formal enforcement proceedings by the prevailing party.

If you are presently involved in a consumer-business dispute and you think that arbitration through the Consumers' Advisory Council might be an appropriate forum for the resolution of your problem, write the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Capitol Building, Room 34, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call on the toll-free hotline, 1-800-372-2960.

alternative to Robert S. Roberts, Owensboro-Daviess County Civil Defense director, about 28 persons from the local rescue associations, Army Reserves and civil defense staff gathered the food and stored it in the National Guard Armory in Owensboro the weekend before it was picked up for transport to Bangladesh.

Maysville Library Building Added To Historic Register

A 100-year old library without a front was one of five Kentucky buildings added to the National Register of Historic Places last August. According to Mrs. Eldred W. Melton, acting executive director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, three courthouses and a church were the other additions.

Chartered in 1878 the Old Library Building in Maysville served for a while as a museum. The first librarian was interested in natural history.

Until recently the library had no front, however, efforts of local citizens have made possible the addition of a front in keeping with the old design. The structure will be dedicated later this year. When in operation, the Old Library will serve Maysville as a genealogical library, museum and art gallery.

The three courthouses are in London, Adair County and Clark County. Built in 1909, London's Federal Building was the last of the series of the 1938 Harlan County Conspiracy Cases Trial in which 47 men and 22 corporations engaged in coal mining were prosecuted by the federal government for conspiring to prevent coal miners in Harlan County from organizing for collective bargaining. This trail was the first attempt in the courts to establish a precedent of punitive penalties under the 1935 Wagner Act.

A four-sided clock in the tower of the Adair County Courthouse is a landmark. This late-Victorian courthouse, designed in 1886 by McDonald Brothers of Louisville, was built by William Henry Hudson. Hudson was so proud of his work that he had his portrait carved in a capital (the top of a column) on the porch, a figure presumed to be his wife facing him from the capital opposite.

The present Clark County Courthouse was built in 1855. The first permanent courthouse in Clark County was a two-room log structure erected in 1794 for a total cost of $16. The first brick courthouse was built in 1797 and replaced in 1821.

Aside from being an architectural landmark of the Greek Revival style, the Clark County courthouse houses an unusually extensive archive of county records dating back to 1793. Henry Clay made his first speech in the earlier courthouse, and his last one there in the celebrated "cassensberry Will case" shortly before his death in 1852. At one time in the late 19th century, the courtroom was even used as an opera house.

The present Sacred Heart Church in Campbell County has played an essential role in developing and preserving the character of the Bellevue Community Herz Jesu Kirche, as the German immigrants originally called their house of worship, was designed by noted Cincinnati architect Louis Pickett to recall the native German churches of so many of its parishioners.

The tall brick nave and tower, succeeded in imitation of Indiana limestone, has distinct German Gothic features, with its tall pointed windows and "flying buttresses." The special feature of the building, however, is its interior.

Mrs. Eldred Melton, director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, reflecting on these latest additions to the National Register, said, "entry to the National Register not only signifies the site to be of historical merit, it also affords protection against adverse action by other federal matching grants for restoration and adaptation."

Volunteer Fire Departments Increase Throughout State

By Marva Gay
Volunteer fire departments in Kentucky are increasing. In the last six months, the State Fire

Marshall's Office has recorded 30 new fire departments—most in small communities. According to Jim Klosterman, chief deputy state fire marshal, the increase is being spurred by a federal information program, revenue sharing and a state funding program.

"An information program sponsored by a federal fire commission made many small communities realize they needed a fire department. But, they discovered they couldn't afford the equipment and training necessary to set up a volunteer fire department," Klosterman said. Revenue sharing has helped the small communities fund new fire departments. "But," said Klosterman, "most could not afford departments without help from the state fire department aid program."

This year, the state legislature appropriated $710,000 to continue the program, begun in 1969, for the next two years. That included a $100,000 increase to cover rising expenses and new fire departments.

The program contains $100,000 a year to provide workmen's compensation coverage for volunteer firemen, $2500 a year for equipment and training, plus $5,000 a year to fund a commission on fire training and education standards. The commission is preparing minimum training standards for fire fighters and fire departments. Klosterman said those standards should conform with anticipated federal standards and will enable the state to obtain federal funds for fire departments.

About 12,000 volunteer firemen now are covered by workmen's compensation purchased by the state. According to Klosterman, many volunteer fire departments in small communities could not afford to purchase workmen's compensation for their fire fighters. "When the 1972 legislature approved state purchase of workmen's compensation for the volunteer departments," said Klosterman, "it allowed many more communities to start their own departments and encouraged many men to join the departments."

Local governments usually provided workmen's compensation for fire fighters in departments of large metropolitan areas. Klosterman emphasized that before the fire department aid program began, one of the main problems besetting many communities was the cost of fire fighting equipment and the absence of training. Under the aid program, the State Fire Marshall's Office can provide both equipment and training to any volunteer or paid department that requests it.

Most of the equipment and training aid has been used by volunteer departments in small communities. And, much of that was used to help departments obtain certification from the State Fire Marshall. To be certified, a volunteer fire department must have both workable equipment and 13 men and a chief who have completed or have applied for fire fighting training from a vocational education center. About 470 volunteer departments have been certified. Said Klosterman, "The equipment these people need can be very expensive. For instance, we recommend that each department have at least two self-contained air masks. We prefer they have a mask for each person since smoke inhalation is one of the major killers of fire fighters. But, one mask alone costs $250 to $300.

Lake Cooper is concerned about the indebtedness of the Rowan Co. School System

The admitted indebtedness of the Rowan County schools according to the financial statement quoted in the Morehead News is $125,406.19 this is in violation of Kentucky State Law.

Rowan County Schools still owe $1,313,577.50 on bonds and interest on new buildings and improvements to existing buildings that were completed over 10 years ago.

The budget for 1974-75 shows a deficit of $104,000. This is little improvement over last year's debt. There is a possibility that the deficit is greater than the budget presently shows.

Operators Cease Saying 'Operator'

Operators have been saying "operator" when answering their calls for who knows how long but no anymore. Today, Thursday Sept. 26, they began using their names when answering calls coming into General Telephone Company's Morehead long distance center.

District Manager E. L. Ashurst said that long distance and directory assistance operators are identifying themselves to telephone users in an effort to provide a more personalized, friendly service.

"Not all of our operators are answering the same way," Ashurst said. "Many of them are using last names instead of their first. It has been left to their own discretion as to how they prefer to answer calls."

General Telephone Company operators in Ashland and Hazard also have broken from the tradition of saying "operator." The program, which is just starting in the company, has been accepted very well in other General Telephone areas by telephone users," Ashurst said.

Health . . .

Smoke gets in your eyes. And your blood, too.

A 30-month study of 29,000 blood donors showed that smokers have excess amounts of carbon monoxide in their blood. The researchers from the Medical College of Wisconsin questioned the practice of transfusing blood from smoking donors to some patients. Tobacco smoking was one of the most important factors leading to increased carbon monoxide levels. Other factors were car exhaust, occupation, and geographical residence.

The study found that carbon monoxide levels correlated directly with the number of cigarettes an individual smoked. A pack-a-day smoker had carbon monoxide levels two to three times higher than did non-smokers. Unlike oxygen which is breathed in and out again in minutes, carbon monoxide in the form of carboxy hemoglobin stays in the blood for hours.

Other studies show there are increases in carbon monoxide levels in the blood of non-smokers who are in the same room with smokers. With these raised levels of carbon monoxide in their blood, experimental subjects have shown impaired performance on psychomotor tests. These levels of carbon monoxide in the blood create stress for patients who already suffer from heart and lung diseases. Another study in St. Louis concluded that if smoking were banned in that city it would lower carbon monoxide levels more than would the adoption of stringent car exhaust controls, specifically the installation of catalytic converters.

Phone and Feet Save Energy

Oil embargo or no oil embargo, energy conservation will be part of America's future for many years to come. One good way to save fuel is to make better use of the telephone. The U.S. Department of Commerce advises: A barrel of petroleum in the telephone industry does the communications work of 250 barrels in the transportation industry, according to government estimates. We have 140 million telephones in this country. Let's use them more efficiently to conserve energy. Urge the U.S. Independent Telephone Association, which represents the 1,700 non-Bell telephone companies serving one of every six phones throughout the country. The best advice is to substitute the telephone for that favorite automobile whenever possible. Call out-of-town friends and relatives instead of visiting them. Use long distance calls and conference

YOUR ELECTRICITY

MUST cost you more. Here's why.

There is no shortage of electricity in our service area. You can count on all you need for home, office, store or industry. But today you can also count on something else - higher costs. Electric bills that must get bigger and bigger. Why?

Inflation
Sky high prices for everything we use to generate electricity, and bring it to you. Wire, transformers, trucks, wages - the thousands of things that make up our "market basket" - it costs more to bring you electricity every day.

Environmental Controls
A clean environment carries a huge price tag. Money we must obtain from our customers. We will spend $10.3 million in 1974 for environmental control equipment, more than $50 million between '73 and '77.

Construction Costs
To meet our ever growing demands for energy, including the demands for power caused by the shift to electricity from other fuels and by Kentucky's industrial expansion, we must spend at least $500 million between 1974 and 1978. And costs keep growing as inflation adds to planned expenditures.

Interest Costs
To serve those growing needs we must borrow money to build - more than $300 million in permanent financing by 1978. The interest cost alone could be as much as $30 million a year, fixed charges that must be provided by our customers.

These are the reasons behind the rising cost of electricity. The more and more our costs go up, the more and more our rates must rise. And the more equitably they go up now, the more competitively we can borrow the money we must have - and the less your rates will rise in the years ahead.

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

FACTS TO HELP YOU

OF MUTUAL INTEREST
There are some things that only money will buy - luxuries that make life more enjoyable, college educations for your children or a retirement income, to name but a few.

But, money seems to buy less and less because inflation rears its ugly head everytime we go to a movie, buy a pair of shoes or drink a cup of coffee. Economist say that price increases which shrink purchasing power are an avoidable and will probably prevail for many years to come - regardless of the course of business activity.

Common stocks may help offset the ravages of inflation - something fixed return investments cannot do. But how many people can afford to buy enough shares in a diversified portfolio of equities spread out over a sufficient number of industries to hedge against risk? The question is thus how to put your after-tax dollars to work more efficiently.

One possible solution is investing in mutual funds. If you should choose to commit funds to this kind of investment program, your selection doesn't end there. Mutual funds come in a variety of forms. Some take a high-risk, aggressive approach, while others stress a more conservative investment philosophy. Some concentrate on income-producing stocks. Others seek long-term capital growth, and some maintain a balance between these two.

Currently, income-oriented funds offer attractive opportunities. According to John Bennett, Senior Vice President of The Putnam Group of Mutual Funds, alert fund managers, through the use of intensive analysis and sophisticated computer programming, can successfully trade high-grade utility and corporate bonds to achieve maximum yield consistent with prudent risk plus possible capital gain.

SECRETARY OF CABINET — Gov. Wendell H. Ford has named James O. King Secretary of the Cabinet and Commissioner for Finance and Administration. Kentucky Historical Society Largest In The Nation

A recent survey released by the American Association of Historical Societies revealed that at 10,800 strong the Kentucky Historical Society has the largest membership in the nation.

Gen. William R. Buster, director of the Kentucky Historical Society, said the Maryland office mailed a questionnaire to the 15 leading state societies and received 12 responses.

The survey reported that annual membership fees in the Kentucky Society are $5 per person, compared to a high of $25 in New York for joint membership. It also was revealed that state funding in Kentucky for the Society was $221,000, while Wisconsin spent $2.3 million, the highest figure, and was third in membership.

Kentucky reported the third largest number of adult visitors to its facilities (150,000), although the museum has since been closed for the massive restoration project of the Old Capitol and Annex. General Buster attributed Kentucky's leadership to the society's sale of sought-after print reproductions as well as the Commonwealth's colorful history.

"The Register," the state's oldest periodical, and "Kentucky Ancestors," a genealogical magazine, are mailed quarterly to members. Several additional publications are available to patrons at a special discount price.

The Society not only oversees the many historical markers that dot Kentucky's highways, but they also sponsor the Commonwealth's Young Historians' Clubs. Their Historymobile, a traveling tractor-trailer chronicling the state's colorful heritage, further promotes interest in Kentucky's past.

Only 900 people belonged to the Historical Society in 1969, General Buster said, but under the leadership of the former director, Col. George M. Chinn, the roll increased to its present status. Colonel Chinn recently retired to the position of deputy director.

Three 'Fishing Unlimited' Weekends Slated This Fall

The peaceful waters at three Kentucky State Resort Parks — Rough River Dam, Barren River Lake and Lake Cumberland — will be splashing plenty with hooks, lines, sinkers and, hopefully, fish, as the popular "Fishing Unlimited" programs get under way in their fall edition.

The first Fishing Unlimited weekend will be at Rough River Dam State Resort Park, Falls of Rough, Oct. 11-13. Barren River Lake State Resort Park, Lucas, will have its angling competition the next weekend, Oct. 19-20, and the last Fishing Unlimited will be held at Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, Jamestown, Nov. 8-10.

At Rough River Dam and Barren River Lake, from 4:00 p.m. till sundown Friday, any fish caught in will be destined for the weighing scales as tournament competition gets under way. That evening at dinner, the anglers will get a fall fishing report, fishing tips and fishing movies.

From sunup to sundown Saturday, the quest for the big one that slipped the hook the day before will continue, and at dinner a report on the day's catch will be given. Sunday at noon, competition will end. A buffet and awarding of trophies for the various category winners will end the program.

The Lake Cumberland weekend will follow the same format except fishing competition begins at noon Friday.

A valid Kentucky fishing license ($5 Kentucky resident, $10 out-of-state) is required. Participants can purchase three-day permits for $2.50 and a trout stamp for $2.25.

Reservations should be made by Oct. 4 for Rough River Dam, Oct. 11 for Barren River Lake and Nov. 1 for Lake Cumberland.

Information regarding reservations and rates for the weekends can be obtained by contacting each park, or by dialing toll-free (1-800) 372-2961, or by writing Recreation, Kentucky Department of Parks, 10th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Soccer Eagles Win At Home

University Breckinridge Soccer Eagles defeated Trinity High School of Louisville 3-1 in Morehead last Friday.

Trinity scored the only goal in the first half USB right wing Keith Rabins turned the game around when he tied the score with a goal early in the second half. The winning goal was scored by center fullback Mark Stewart on a penalty kick late in the game.

Goalie Mickey Miller played an outstanding game for the second straight outing. Center fullback Mark Stewart spearheaded the defense which won the game for University Breckinridge. Other strong defensive work was provided by Billy Calvert, Jay Roberts and Kevin Nesbitt. The Eagles entertain St. Camillus of Celina, Thursday, Sept. 26, at 4 p.m. at Brechtli Sports Center.

Nancy Cook

Mrs. Marlow W. Cook was formerly Nancy Remmers of Louisville, Kentucky. Her graciousness and vivacity are a reflection of the partnership she shares with her husband in his political life.

Nancy comes from a family deeply rooted in Kentucky tradition. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Remmers of Louisville. Mr. Remmers, now retired, was vice president of Kurfees Paint Company, one of the oldest industries in the Commonwealth.

Born and reared in Louisville, Nancy attended Atherton High School and later was graduated from Connecticut College in New London, Conn., with a major in psychology.

Nancy and Marlow met in 1945 at New London. Nancy was attending college and Marlow was serving in the U.S. Navy, and attending submarine school. They were married on November 22, 1947, in Louisville.

After service duty, Marlow entered the University of Louisville, and was graduated from the University's Law School in 1950. While her husband was earning his law degree, Nancy joined the faculty of Kentucky Home School, where she taught science and mathematics.

The mother of four daughters and one son, Nancy still finds time for hobbies. She loves gardening and landscaping, and the neighbors will attest to her ability as an amateur landscape architect. Both Nancy and Marlow are avid readers and enjoy similar types of literature. They both enjoy discussing the issues of the day.

Nancy's sparkling personality makes her a "natural" for the Washington scene. The social demands of a Senator's wife require an exhaustive pace, but Nancy takes it all in stride. She manages to find time to meet with the Senate Wives Red Cross Group for volunteer work with the Red Cross, various congressional wives groups and activities, and is active in the local PTA groups.

TO SAVE YOUR TIME AND MONEY

If your dishwasher doing you dirt? Then maybe you're not dishwashing out the right treatment. The appliances experts at Whirlpool have a few suggestions to follow for good washing results.

Too much iron in the water may cast a yellow tint on your dishes. You can put down this yellow peril by letting the dishwasher fill, stopping the machine before it proceeds to the next cycle, and adding one quarter to one-half cup of citric acid crystals before re-starting the unit to complete the cycle. You may want to install an iron filter.

If your dishes don't sparkle like they should, it's a bright idea to check the spray arms in between cycles. They're not blocked by large items and can turn freely.

Glasses and plasticware become spotted or filmed if tap water is too hard or too cold. Try using more detergent. Prevent silverware from nesting and food properly to keep large items from blocking the water spray.

To remove spots and film, wash and rinse the dishes as usual, but omit the dry cycle. Set a bowl with two cups of white vinegar on the bottom rack and rerun the machine through a complete cycle.

To avoid dishwasher detergent in optimum condition, store the detergent tightly closed in a cool, dry place. The water tank storage area is generally too warm and humid.

If your dinnerware is etched in your glasses, rainbow hued and they weren't when you bought them, you may be using too much detergent and too hot water. Go with the detergent and if water pressure is low, don't use water for other purposes while the dishwasher is running. Be sure adequate running water is available to prevent the water from overflowing.

Eagles Suffer Loss To Murray

The script read the same but the ending was different Saturday night for Morehead State University's football squad.

Coch Roy Terry's Eagles held off Marshall in the final seconds a week ago and then found themselves in the same position against Murray State last weekend. But the visiting Racers scored a two-point conversion on six seconds remaining to post a come-from-behind victory, 25-24.

"It was a disappointing loss," said Terry. "Our young men played well, but they gave up and deserved a better fate."

Morehead State roared to a 17-7 halftime lead on a 63-yard touchdown run by fullback Rick Fox, a 45-yard TD scamper by tailback

Frank Jones and a 30-yard field goal by Don Russell.

Quarterback Alex Brawner hit wingback Ron Mosley with an 18-yard scoring pass to wind up the Eagle scoring.

"I thought we played the better game," said Terry. "It is hard to take when you lose in the final six seconds."

Senior tailback Frank Jones led the Eagle ground game with 128 yards in 21 carries. Fox added 81 yards in six carries. Brawner, a senior from Hialeah, Fla., hit seven of 10 passes for 95 yards and one touchdown.

The Eagles carry a 1-1 record into Saturday's battle at Middle Tennessee. Game time is 7:30 p.m. CDT.

PRESSURE. Morehead State University quarterback Alex Brawner (12) looks for a receiver during MSU's 25-24 loss to Murray State. Brawner, a senior from Hialeah, Fla., completed seven of nine passes for 96 yards and one touchdown. The Eagles, now 1-1, visit Middle Tennessee this weekend.

Baseball, Soccer Teams In Action This Week

Morehead State University's fall sports teams will attempt this week to rebound from a bout with weather as they entertain baseball and soccer opponents.

The Eagle soccer team had its home opening doubleheader with Kentucky Wesleyan rained out Saturday. Marshall comes to town on Tuesday and Kentucky visits Friday for doubleheaders at Allen Field. Both twinbills start at 1:30 p.m.

Coch Amy Allen's Eagles split a doubleheader with Kentucky last week, winning 3-2 and losing 3-0.

Coch Buck Dawson's cross country team fell to Eastern Kentucky 27-30 Saturday at Richmond to even its record at 1-1. "We did not run well," said Dawson. "We should have won the meet and I believe things will improve by this weekend."

The MSU harriers participate in the UK Invitational Saturday in Lexington. The MSU soccer team, after a season-opening 1-1 tie with Vanderbilt, returns to action Wednesday to host Bellarmine at 7 p.m. Dr. Mohammed Sabie's Eagles meet Fairmont State Saturday at 2 p.m., also at home.

M'head District Ranger Lists Hunting Prospects

More than 600,000 acres of the Daniel Boone National Forest beckon to the thousands of hunters who are looking forward eagerly to the opening of the deer and small-game hunting seasons. The Forest covers portions of 21 counties in eastern Kentucky, making it the largest public hunting area in the State.

The Daniel Boone National Forest is divided into seven Districts, each of which is administered by a District Ranger. A rundown on hunting prospects and camping facilities are reported by Morehead District Ranger Richard Bonytta shows —

1. Best areas for deer hunting are:
 - a. An area 5 miles north of Cranston, bounded on the west by Ky. 377 (Morehead- Vanceburg Road) and on the south by Dry Branch.
 - b. An area 2 miles northeast of Morehead, Ky. bounded on the west and north by 184, or 2 miles south of Farmers, Ky. and on the east by Ky. 799 (Big Perry Road) and on the south by U.S. 60 (Morehead-Olive Hill Road).
 - c. An area 2 miles south of Salt Lick, Ky. or 2 miles south of Farmers, Ky. in southeastern Bath County, southwestern Rowan County and northern Menifee County. This includes the Pioneer Weapons Hunting Area. Deer are concentrated in this area, and hunting should be good.
 - 2. Small Game:
 - a. Quail — Quail hunting is only fair on the Morehead District, however, small concentrations of quail have been observed on Clear Fork, which is the drainage northwest of Cranston, Ky.
 - b. Grouse — Grouse are evenly distributed over the Morehead District, but slightly heavier concentrations have been observed in:
 - + An area just immediately northeast of Morehead, which was described in the deer hunting areas.
 - + An area including Upper Lick Fork and White Pine Branch in southeastern Rowan County.
 - + An area including Cave Branch, Mine Branch and Bear Branch in northwestern Morgan County, accessible by Ky. 1274.
 - c. Squirrel — Populations fair to poor.
 - d. Rabbit — Most National Forest land is not heavily populated with rabbits, but at present, the Clear Fork area is recommended for quail hunting will be good for rabbits.
 - 3. Camping Areas
 - + Forest Service campgrounds are located at Clear Creek — 5 miles south of Salt Lick and Roderum — 1 mile east of Morehead. The latter is closed during freezing weather.
 - 4. Areas closed to all hunting: Twin Knobs Recreation Area.

In the Morehead District, camping is not permitted within 300 feet (water's edge) of Cave Run Lake or within 300 feet of road leading into the lake, unless it is at a site designated by the Forest Service.

Also, camping within the Pioneer Weapon Hunting Area is limited to sites designated by the Forest Service.

Hunters interested in a particular area or location should contact the District Ranger for more detailed information on hunting prospects and camping areas.

Check for National Hunting and Fishing Day activities in your area and drop by on Sept. 28. Let Kentucky's sportsmen know that you appreciate their efforts toward a better environment.

The purpose of this day is two-fold. First, it is to honor the contributions which sportsmen have made to conservation and, second, to acquaint the general public with the nature and scope of these contributions.

It is this second reason which keeps those involved from their favorite squirrel woods or fishing lake. Although on their day, many hunters and fishermen will spend it explaining to those who drop by the exhibit or open house which their club is sponsoring. Just what sportsmen have done and are continuing to do for the conservation of our natural resources.

Briefly, they will explain to their visitors that sportsmen were among the first to call for a halt to market hunting and the other practices which rapidly were depleting wildlife populations at the turn of the century, and how they were responsible for establishing fish and game departments in all 50 states and for both state and federal laws to protect wildlife.

They also will tell how sportsmen, through their hunting and fishing license fees and by a federal excise tax on hunting and fishing equipment, finance wildlife surveys, research, management and the acquisition of much-needed lands for both game and no-game species.

Brother Of Mrs. Beatrice Lewis Claimed In Ohio

Death came Friday in Windham, O., to Arvil McGlone, 71, native of Carter County, and a brother of Mrs. Beatrice Lewis of Morehead.

Graveside services were recited Monday at McGlone cemetery by Rev. Ott Kibbey. Mr. McGlone was for many years a plant guard for Harbison Walker Refractories in Olive Hill. He moved to Windham 20 years ago to accept a similar position with the same company.

Immediate survivors are his wife, Mrs. Ella Johnson McGlone, a son, three sisters and three brothers.

Mr. McGlone was born Sept. 30, 1903 at Carter, son of the late Robert and Leah (Wolford) McGlone.

Your Social Security

By Thomas B. Thompson, Ashland District Manager. For Social Security information write District Social Security Offices, 1816 Carter Avenue, Ashland, Ky. Phone 325-7666.

People disabled since childhood may be eligible for supplemental security income payments when they reach age 18, regardless of their families' income, according to David Bryan, social security district manager in Ashland, Kentucky.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. "The program can be especially important to young people who are severely retarded or have other handicaps that keep them from becoming self-supporting," Mr. Bryan said.

Eligible people can get supplemental security income payments at any age, but the eligibility of children under 18 can be affected by their parents' income and resources. "However," Mr. Bryan said, "severely disabled people who remain unmarried are considered dependent of their families starting at 18, or at 21 if they're in school. Starting then, they may be eligible for some supplemental security income payments if they have little or no income of their own."

Families of people disabled since childhood can get information about applying for supplemental security income payments by calling or writing any social security office.

"The amount of the monthly supplemental security income payments people get depends primarily on other income they might have," Mr. Bryan said. "People with no other income at all can get $146 a month for one person and $219 for a couple. People with some other income may get reduced supplemental security income payments."

The supplemental security income program is run by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The Ashland social security office is at 1816 Carter Avenue. The phone number is 325-7666.

People disabled since childhood may also be eligible for social security benefits if a parent gets social security payments or has worked long enough under social security and is deceased, according to Mr. Bryan.

"The amount of monthly social security payments can affect the amount of supplemental security income payments," he said.

State Schools Hit Hard By Inflation

By Mary Huntwork

While the national rate of inflation today is 7.1 per cent according to the Kentucky Department of Commerce, some Kentucky school superintendents and finance officers are citing much higher rates of increase of prices of essential school supplies and services.

The rising costs of paper products, fuel and food, for example, hit the school systems as hard, if not harder, than they hit the individual consumer.

James Wood, finance officer for the Bowling Green Independent Schools, reported that the costs of instructional supplies for his district are up 21 per cent over last year.

Under the category of instructional materials are such teaching essentials as construction paper, Scotch tapes and duplicating supplies.

The cost of paper alone has risen 17 per cent over the 1973 figures for Clark County, according to Superintendent Ernest R. White Jr.

Prices Skyrocket

Finance Officer Ernest Grayson of the Jefferson County Schools listed several other reported items for which prices have skyrocketed during the past year:

- + Tempera paint — up 30 per cent;
- + Mimeograph paper — up 63 cents a box to $1.51;
- + Duplicating fluid — up 136 per cent;
- + Newsprint, a formerly inexpensive paper with a multitude of uses in art classes and elementary activities, costs 200 per cent more than it did in 1973, Grayson added.

Both Grayson and White commented on some costs to the schools that the public generally overlooks — supplies for vocational education and laboratory classes.

Wood said that metals parts for welding and wood products are among the supplies getting more and more expensive every day.

According to Grayson, the cost of the silver nitrate used in chemistry classes has increased 1,000 per cent — from $9.50 a pound in 1973 to $105 for the same amount today. "Needless to say, we'll be doing fewer experiments with silver nitrate this year," Grayson added.

Transportation Costly

Gasoline prices have elevated school transportation budgets across the state. Wood said that Bowling Green's transportation budget, $53,000 two years ago, has risen to $74,000 this year. In Jefferson County the cost of gasoline for

Tobacco Damaged By Heavy Rains

By Elizabeth Smith

The recent heavy rainfall throughout Kentucky definitely has been damaging to this year's tobacco crop, agriculture specialists say, but farmers still have a fighting chance if sunny weather prevails over the next several weeks.

As of mid-September, burley cutting was running about 25 per cent behind schedule, said Aron Scott of the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Scott said that reports from county agents throughout the state indicate that approximately 41 per cent of the burley harvest was in, as compared to 66 per cent this time last year.

"The wet weather had damaged tobacco in both the field and the barn," Scott said. "There's been a high degree of rotting, more leaves are slipping off the stalks, and molder growth is causing additional problems in some fields."

And, he added, materials for heating and drying are scarce in several parts of the state.

Harold Harberson, tobacco specialist in the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, said that although the total burley crop is going to be short, the final assessment will depend greatly upon the weather during the next few weeks.

An average of 2.5 to three inches of rain fell throughout Kentucky in the first two weeks of September, the National Weather Service reported, which is about one inch above normal. Some areas were hit harder, such as Greenville, which received 7.08 inches; Glasgow, which received 7.28 inches; Berea, 4.85; and Princeton, 4.38.

Scott said that Kentucky's other crops have not yet been damaged by the heavy rain, but that drier weather is needed to speed up maturation.

Corn and soybeans are coming along pretty well, he said, but need to start maturing at a faster rate in case of an early frost.

Foresters Prepare For Fire Season

During a recent training session on forest fire control, state foresters were unable to start a fire because rainy weather had left the forest too damp to burn. The foresters would like to see the wet conditions remain throughout autumn to hold down the number of forest fires during Kentucky's fall fire season.

But they don't know if the current weather will continue during the official fire season which runs from Oct. 15 through Dec. 15. Ironically, heavy spring and summer rains may have increased the possibility of forest fires during the coming fall. Harry Nadler, director of the Forestry Division in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said heavy foliage produced by the spring rains is a "perfect fuel" for fire during an extended dry period.

Nadler's crews began preparing for the fall forest fire season early. The foresters have been visiting residents near Kentucky's 11 million acres of timberland to warn them of potential fire hazards.

This preventative program has proven successful in recent years. Nadler said in 1973, 13,392 acres burned compared with 54,000 acres in 1969. The director agreed that weather is the most important factor in fire prevention, but he said "people are more aware of the danger now than in years past and are more careful."

The state Forestry Division experienced its best year of fire control in 1972, when less than 900 fires were reported. However, the second lowest number of fires was reported in 1973, which Nadler described as "only an average year" for rainfall.

Nadler said people "who don't exercise caution with matches and flammable materials" create the biggest problem for foresters during a fire season. Most forest fires in Kentucky are caused by fires which get out of control when people burn debris. Arsonists account for 25 per cent of the fires. Less than 1 per cent of the forest fires are caused by lightning, Nadler said.

The division has added 265 people to its regular staff to work during the fire season. They will aid the foresters in maintenance of watchtowers and firefighting. If an emergency situation were to develop, the director said more people would be hired. Volunteer help also is available from local residents.

In addition to the traditional watchtowers, airplanes are used for fire detection. A flying service has been hired to make daily reconnaissance flights during the fire season.

There have been approximately 1,000 forest and grass fires so far this year. But Nadler added, "The criteria for 1974 is not here yet. We don't know what will happen, because we are entirely dependent on the weather. If wet weather continues we should have no problems, but if dry weather comes,

Suspect Arson In Burning Of Grahn Building

A storage building of Louisville Firebrick Company at Grahn was a "total loss" in a Saturday morning fire.

The Grayson and Olive Hill fire departments were called at 11:30 p.m. Despite a water shortage the departments battled the flames for five hours and were able to save nearby structures.

The burned building was a large one — 125 feet by 500 feet.

Firemen used heavy tarps to erect a temporary dam at a small nearby creek to obtain some water. Grayson Fire Chief Ed Kemper said arson is suspected.

COOKING TIPS — Cook and freeze

Prepare double recipes for spaghetti sauce, soups, and stews which take a long time to cook. Then freeze half for future use.

Counter-top appliances — electric frypans, broilers and rotisseries — generally use less electricity than your range when cooking the same food. If you use the oven, avoid opening the oven door unnecessarily. Make sure the door seal is tight and not leaking heated air.

Morgan Sorghum Festival Will Be Held Oct. 11-13

By Helen Price Stary

Everyone who has a sweet tooth that can't be satisfied should mark Oct. 11-13 as the date for the annual Morgan County Sorghum Festival in West Liberty. A highlight of this Eastern Kentucky event is a mule-powered cane mill set up on Main Street and enough short stalks of cane for all who want to dip into the warm, thick syrup for a taste.

Country sorghum, freshly ground, cornmeal pumpkins, squash, corn, shuck beans, calico by the roll and even plug tobacco will be offered for sale.

Also, more than 100 craftsmen will display home-made articles.

Morgan County women have been working several months putting together quilts to sell during the festival. These vary from old-fashioned designs made from every available scrap of cloth to cross-stitch, applique and briar-etched bed covers.

Mrs. Minnie Johnson of Cow Branch will be back with dozens of bonnets. And Mrs. Carrie Shover of Mordica will show everyone how to card and comb sheep's wool and then spin it into yarn.

Craftsmen from throughout Eastern Kentucky will demonstrate the making of fire furniture from walnut, maple and other native woods and will have handmade furniture for sale.

Others will sell antiques and sell or trade knives, guns and maybe even a bound dog or two.

Henry Sexton from Dixey Ridge in the Blaze community will sell handsome baskets of many sizes, homemade breads and short-handled hoes which he makes from a length of sapling.

Mrs. Roy Tyler of West Liberty has been sewing and crocheting since last year's festival to stock up enough pillow cases. And Mrs. Bonnie Cox of Cottle will have yards of tatting for sale, as well as stationery which she decorates with springs of tatting flowers.

There will be cornshuck doll, dried-flower arrangements, hand-made clothing, wood carvings, original paintings, afghans, tacked comforts and hundreds of authentic mountain-made craft items for sale.

An old-timey, country-days atmosphere will prevail at the festival. In addition to the many quality crafts to be displayed, visitors should take the opportunity to enjoy bowls of soup beans, cooked with chunks of side meat in iron kettles set in the courthouse yard. Along with the beans will be onions and cornbread. And food booths will have country corn, ham sandwiches, pies, cakes, cookies and many foods based on use of Morgan-made molasses.

West Liberty is a few minutes drive from both Mountain Parkway and Interstate-64. Located on US 60, the county seat is ready to welcome festival visitors near and far.

Ann Landers

Copyright - Field Enterprises, Inc.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been amused by the letters in your column from first, the middle child who complained about his spot, then the oldest, and finally the youngest. Here is a charming little essay I found stuck between two baby books in our library. I don't know who wrote it or when I first read it, but I'd like to share it with you.

Dear First Born: I've always loved you best because you were our first miracle. You were the genesis of a marriage and the fulfillment of young love.

You sustained us through the hamburger years, the first apartment (furnished in Early Poverty), our first mode of transportation (1955 Ford), and the 7-inch TV we paid on for 36 months.

You were new, had unswerving grandparents, and enough clothes for a set of triplets. You were the original model for a mom and a dad who were trying to work the bugs out. You got the strained lamb, the open safety pins and three-hour naps.

You were the beginning.

Dear Middle Child: I've always loved you best because you drew a tough spot in the family and it made you stronger for it.

You cried less, had more patience, were faded hand-me-downs, and never in your life did anything first. But it only made you more special. You were the one we relaxed with and realized a dog could kiss you and you wouldn't get sick. You could cross a street by yourself long before you were old enough to get married. And you helped us understand the world wouldn't collapse if you went to bed with dirty feet.

You were the child of our busy, ambitious years. Without you we never could have survived the job changes and the tedium and routine that is marriage.

To The Baby: I've always loved you best because while endings are generally sad, you are such a joy. You readily accepted the milk-strained bibs, the lower bunk, the cracked baseball bat, the baby book that had nothing written in it except a recipe for graham-cracker piecrust that someone had jammed between the pages.

You are the one we held onto so tightly. You are the link with our past, a reason for tomorrow. You darken our hair, quicken our steps, square our shoulders, restore our vision, and give us a sense of humor that security, maturity and durability can't provide.

When your hairline takes on the shape of Lake Erie and your own children tower over you, you will still be our baby. —A Mother.

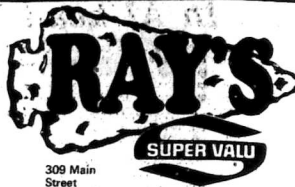

Dear Friend: Beautiful — thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: I thought you were supposed to give advice. Well, why don't you do your job? Recently a Buffalo reader asked if there was a poker hand called a double-ace flush. You said, "Not in Sioux City. As for Buffalo, I can't say."

Well, there IS such a hand, and if you'd have looked it up in Hoyle's you'd have known.

On page 53, it says, "Any wild card may represent another card, whether or not the holder of the wild card also has the card designated. This permits double or even triple-ace-high flushes." Get on the ball, honey.

Dear B.B.: Thanks for Hoyle's answer, but in Sioux City, they never went in for those wild-card games.

Second Annual Governor's Prayer Breakfast Slated

More than 600 civic, business, labor and religious leaders are expected to attend the Second Annual Governor's Leadership Prayer Breakfast on Wednesday, Oct. 2, 8:30 a.m., at Frankfort's Convention and Sports Center.

Commonwealth comprise the sponsoring committee, headed by O.T. Dorton, Hanoverville, Dorton, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, will preside over the breakfast.

Featured speaker at the breakfast will be General Harold K. Johnson, who from 1964 to 1968 was Chief of Staff of the United States Army and now is vice chairman of Financial Group Bankshares.

Johnson is a survivor of the infamous Bataan Death March, surrounding more than three years in Japanese prison camps, and as he phrases it, "by the power of prayer."

He has been active in the International Christian Leadership movement and has received the Benemerite Award from Pope Paul VI for his contributions in the spiritual field.

He also is director of Genesco, Inc., General Employment Enterprises, Inc., Financial International Corporation, the First National Bank of Washington and the Research Analysts Corporation.

The general, 62, is chairman and a director of the George Olmstead foundation, which provides opportunity to outstanding young military personnel for study abroad. He is a trustee of the Association of the U.S. Army, the Association of Graduates of the United States Military Academy and of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Additionally Johnson is a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, a consultant to the National Security Agency and a member of the board of visitors of the Defense Intelligence School.

He and his wife live in Arlington, Virginia. Gov. Wendell H. Ford also will participate in the program, as will Lt. Gov. Julian M. Carroll, former Governor and U.S. Senator, Earle C. Clements and State Senator Eugene Stuart and Tom Garrett.

Charal arrangements will be performed by the Kentucky State University Concert choir, directed by Carl H. Smith.

The purpose of the program, according to the governor's invitation, is "We will meet this year in a critical hour of our nation's history, as Americans everywhere earnestly seek God's guidance in solving the many problems that beset us, confident that He will respond to our prayers."

high price of sugar and the scarcity of canning jars. Food at the supermarket isn't going to drop to even levels according to all forecasts. Instead, it'll continue to rise despite the impending recession.

These city banks have big and imposing looking vaults and all kinds of burglar alarms and armed guards. But, they don't have much money these days to guard or protect. The vaults, burglar alarms and guards are veneer.

Elsewhere in this issue of the dependable and good old Morehead News is a story (spread over two pages) about conversion to standard (one hour slower) time during the months of November, December, January and February. The news account recites that Gov. Wendell Ford has all kinds of alternatives.

If the Governor seeks our advice we'll recommend that he do nothing, i.e., leave the 12 Kentucky counties presently in the eastern time belt, and the other 108 in the central zone.

Too much time has already been spent in fooling around with "our time," and we are in agreement with the Congress that daylight time be in effect eight months of the year (March through October) and standard time the other four months.

If Gov. Ford tries to fool around with the old time zone dividing the state just west of Louisville, we'll all be even more confused.

"Could I see the man who was arrested for robbing our house last night?" the man asked the police sergeant about conversion to standard time.

"This is highly irregular," he replied. "But what's the reason?"

"I want to ask him how he got into our house without awakening my wife."

Be on the lookout for a couple of con artists games that Parade magazine claims are based on swindling the unwary.

In one of the schemes, a phony unmarked bank guard hangs an "out of order" sign over the night depository. He then stands by with an empty canvas sack handcuffed to his wrist.

The other con game begins at a bank's Christmas Club account window. The crook observes the cashing of a withdrawal check, then phones the person at home, identifying himself as the vice president of the bank.

He claims that the teller who cashed the Christmas Club check is suspected of passing counterfeit money. He says a Secret Service man is on the way over to exchange the money received at the bank for bona fide cash.

What actually happens is that the con man appears impersonating a Secret Service man and trades the victim counterfeit money for the real cash.

It's kind of difficult for the bank to protect its customers against such flimflamming, since most of us tend to be on the gullible side. After all, some of the smartest people in the country, including famous show business personalities, businessmen, and even a prominent banker — were taken recently for $100 million in a bogus oil-drilling operation.

There is nothing wrong with having nothing to say, unless you insist on saying it.

Our oldest daughter, who is the advertising manager and promotion director for Kentucky's largest department store, says that all some of the smartest people for youngsters is booming.

The Evel Knievel stunt which netted $200,000 after 86 million before taxes reminds us of Ed Barrum's observation that "a fool is born every minute."

Larry Stone advises that Walter Ashley of Central City has invented the Evel Knievel toast: "You drain your glass and throw yourself against the main piece."

"Would you say Evel Knievel look a dive?" "See no, hear no, speak no Evel Sequel." "Money is the route of Evel."

Stone also advises that Cincinnati Reds won more games away from home than they do at home and suggests that Riverfront Stadium, therefore, be moved across the river into Kentucky.

He was a wolf in a frog's clothing. He held the sweet young thing that the wicked witch had placed a spell on him. But, if the SWT could take him home with her, he could conquer the witch and her parents found the prince in her bedroom the next morning, they wouldn't believe the tale. Gosh.

The young lad watched, worried and anxious, while his father changed from a business suit into a tuxedo. Finally, the boy could bear it no longer.

"Dad," he pleaded, "please don't wear that suit. It always gives you a headache the next day."

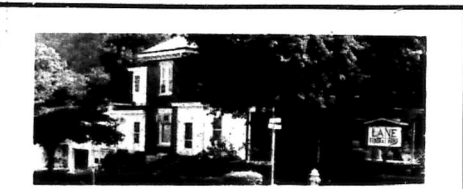

"How do you feel today?" the young doctor asked his elderly patient.

"My right leg is giving me misery. It's pretty stiff and aching-something fierce."

"Well," said the doctor, "that's just old age."

"Don't believe so," said the old man. My left leg's exactly the same age and it don't bother me none at all.

Inflation

Recession (or depression) They go hand in hand about as much as a polecat and a hummingbird.

When there's recession heretofore, commodity prices always dropped.

The domestic and economic experts say the recession is bound to come this year; and with it more inflation, or higher prices.

It doesn't make sense that people will have less money to spend, and pay more for everything at the market place.

From everything at hand the experts are agreed that the recession, maybe depression, will last four or five years, and the inflation will continue for about the same length of time.

It's a double-headed monster, and nobody has the answer.

Clay Sprout writes elsewhere in this issue. It seems that foreign nations don't want products manufactured in the U.S.A., except maybe guns for a revolution. What they want from us is primarily food and energy.

And, the two shortest things, and highest in price, today are food and energy such as petroleum products and coal.

The United States has had for years a trade deficit with foreign nations, and it affects the Washington bureaucrats can balance the foreign trade only by exporting food and the things we, the people of the U.S.A., need the most.

Meanwhile, the United States is sending foreign and our tax dollars) to almost every nation in the world. Surely, we have become our brother's keeper while the wage earners of this country struggle and suffer to make ends meet.

This Publisher is day by day and in almost every way becoming more and more an isolationist.

The major immediate question for the Morehead community as winter approaches. How much natural gas will Tennessee Gas Transmission sell during cold months to the Morehead Utility Plant Board.

A shortage of natural gas is a stark reality. The local question is how will it be rationed, particularly to cities and towns that obtain their supply from the big belt lines of TGT which pass through Rowan County.

Lake newspaper, we already know the price will be high, but how much will we be able to purchase, and what will be the rationing plan of TGT as approved by the Federal Power Commission?

It's an approaching problem of grave concern.

If we were a minister or one of the church members who delivers the prayers, we would include: "Oh, Lord, grant that this coming winter be mild."

Moreheadians, who mostly use natural gas, probably won't be as hard hit by winter as rural folks in Rowan County and the area who burn coal. Our information is that coal will be $30 a ton if you can get it. Users of fuel oil are in the same unenviable category.

We recently visited with a major coal operator in eastern Kentucky. Our question to him: "With all the highway contractors and many big business giants getting in the coal business the production must be double that of past years. Why, then, is there such a shortage of coal and why is the price so high?"

His answer: "It's being exported." He added that foreign nations are paying more for U.S. coal than the price being charge to domestic consumers.

There's that "balance the foreign trade" phrase again, and our growing embracement of isolationism.

The first frost of autumn came to this area early Monday morning. We almost cried looking out the window and seeing the cold white-stuff on the trees, flowers and bushes.

All we know about the California gold rush is what we read in the history books. But, it must have been sort of like the coal boom now underway in eastern Kentucky.

With six axheads to find Murray connected with the pass but the Eagles were ahead 25-24. Thoroughbred coach Bill Ferguson elected to take the gamble and go for the two point conversion, and sent in the play — a pass.

The pass fell incomplete and most of the 8,000 partisan fans roared, rose from their seat and started leaving with the certainty that Morehead had won 25-24.

Obviously, there was no pass interference in the intended receiver. But, one of them stripped shirt boys ruled that Morehead defensive back, Bob Bentley, pushed a Murray player in a part of the end zone far removed from where the pass was thrown. So, our Eagles were penalized within a yard and a 26-25 Murray victory.

It was a revolting development, particularly since it was obvious that Morehead has a better football team than does Murray.

Loyal and veteran Morehead fans never left a game more down-hearted and disappointed.

Saturday's loss to the Racers proved one thing, however: Coach Terry has a good football team at MSU, and will be reading and hearing good things before the season ends with nine more games to play.

It seems that everyone we talk with is agreed that Morehead and all of Rowan County should be zoned sort of like the metro system in Lexington and Fayette county.

A city-county planning zoning commission met last Thursday evening, and this is a step in the right direction.

Our experience is that such zoning requires several years, and perhaps results in many law suits.

Zoning a city of the fourth class like Morehead is difficult and controversial. But, that task is minor as compared or contrasted to zoning an entire county.

Most farmers who offer their land for sale claim that it is ideal for sub-division, or commercial property.

You'll recognize this more clearly if you hear a condemnation case in state or federal courts.

Anyway, the city-county zoning commission and our elected public officials have the editorial support of this newspaper. At the same time we are cognizant of the problems and dissent they will encounter, and the years that may be required to achieve equitable county-wide zoning.

The day is with us when you just can't do what you want with a piece of land for what you have a few simple deed.

A woman getting a divorce said she was cutting her wedding ring in half — half to send to her mother-in-law and the other half to the other woman.

Newspapers all over Kentucky have quoted an item that appeared some time back in this column. i.e. Sometimes we are forced to believe that the government printing money with making a record of how much is printed.

A fellow strolled into his Federal Office Building the other day and asked, "Is this the headquarters of the war against poverty?" "Yes, it is," the clerk replied. "Good," he said, "I've come to surrender."

This Publisher, who is unclanking in ego, wrote several issues back in this column the Los Angeles Dodgers would win the National League West division — that the Redlegs were "deadheads." We said Cincinnati's baseball team lacked the killer instinct and couldn't beat the Dodgers when they collided eyeball to eyeball.

If you'll look at the standings today you'll discover that another of our predictions has come true.

The Reds didn't deserve to win although we think they potentially have the best team in baseball.

There are nine positions eight positions, outside the pitcher, on a baseball team, and 24 teams in the major leagues.

We believe the Reds have the best players at four of the eight positions, while the other 22 teams have the remaining four — that Johnny Bench is the best catcher in baseball, Joe Morgan the best second baseman, Dave Concepcion the best shortstop, and Pete Rose the best left fielder.

If Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson asked this community publisher why the Reds didn't win their division, the NL league pennant and the world series, our answer would be two words: "They're lack-adapted to the big word 'Lackadaical'" which we can spell better than pronunciation is defined by Noah Webster as 'listless'.

Our senior citizen Rowan County weather predicting panel forecasts, 1. This winter will be mild, but not as balmy as last winter we sure hope their woolly worm, terrapin back, squirrel hoarding an moss gathering conclusion, 2. The fall leaves, coming soon since we've had our first frost, will be beautiful with myriad colors. They arrive at the later conclusion because our area had extremely heavy and consistent rain during the closing days of the summer.

When the leaves turn it is time to get out that color camera and record the beauty that abounds all around us, and which too many take for granted. At this time we live in the most beautiful place on this earth.

We would have to assign the highest 1 q ratings to our readers who planted tended and harvested big gardens, and canned and froze everything they could despite the no longer a major problem in Rowan County, including the local school systems and Morehead State University.

One veteran investigator, who asked that his name not be used, said: "It is my opinion that the smoking of marijuana and use of drugs among the young set was a dangerous fad. It appears no longer 'the thing to do' and students are critical and avoid addicts."

The Department of Highways of Kentucky should accumulate a big surplus as the petroleum shortage has skyrocketed blacktop, other construction costs have risen alarmingly, and little highway construction is under way or immediate contract lettings scheduled.

Incidentally, despite the high cost of gasoline, State Police say there's more highway travel than anytime in history.

The Lil' Abner cartoon (comic) is making a significant contribution by portraying that Mama and Papa Vocum and the people of Danpatch, U.S.A. are refusing federal welfare handouts, preferring to keep their pride and personal integrity.

Remember when there was individual pride in making your own way? Now almost everyone is looking for some kind of federal handout.

A man who had been married ten years consulted a marriage counselor. "When I was first married," he said, "I was happy, I'd come home from a hard day at the office and my little dog would race around barking, while my wife would bring me my slippers. Now after ten years, everything's changed. When I come home, my dog brings me my slippers and my wife barks at me."

"Well, I don't know what you're complaining about," said the counselor. "You're still getting the same service."

Morehead Mayor C.B. Cornett is kinda cusin' mad and has a right to speak out. Anybody who resides in these parts recognizes the terrific traffic jam between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. as the flow starts from Morehead State University.

The city is using traffic policemen at principal Main Street intersections during this rush period, and it has considerably speeded up the flow of vehicles.

Council also passed an ordinance permitting motorists to make a right turn on a red traffic light provided the lane they were entering was clear. This is the same law that Florida and many states and cities have.

The "turn right on red" statute is good. But Mayor Cornett says "There's so darn many of our people who still refuse to turn right on red, even though no other vehicle is approaching."

The mayor made his own survey. We followed with our own and he is correct. Ladies, mostly it is you who are not turning right on red when you should, and held up Morehead traffic behind and all around you.

Mayor Cornett conjectures if Council shouldn't pass another law which would assess a fine against those who don't turn right on a red traffic light when the lane they are entering is open. The present "turn right on red" city law is permissive. Perhaps it should be made mandatory with punishment.

Crime Commission Reviews Plan For Spending Funds

By Sue Anne Salmon

Rough drafts of the state's 1975 Comprehensive Criminal Justice Plan for spending about $4.4 million in federal funds were presented for the first time to members of the Kentucky Crime Commission at its bi-monthly meeting, Sept. 12-13, at Barren River State Resort Park.

At the meeting, crime commission committees also reviewed 72 grant applications for non-observance.

The Housing Authority of Morehead, of which this Publisher was a part, worked without remuneration for 16 years (since April 3, 1958) to obtain 182 units of low rent housing which could well have gone elsewhere.

Bob Anglin, one of Morehead's best known citizens, and a resident of Heritage Place, recently opened 100 units of low rent housing for the elderly, stopped by the Morehead News this week to observe: "You never saw such a bunch of happy people as at Heritage Place. They've not only found comfortable and respectable living, but also, and of greater importance, companionship and mutual friendship."

Bob's comments made us feel good all over like a girl being embraced for the first time by a boy she has long admired.

The author of this column is right happy that Rowan County's two school board races are being conducted on an acceptable plane. Nothing can get nastier, or damage the image of a community more than chaotic misformation battles for a place on the Board of Education. Sportsmen say that dove and squirrel hunting isn't so good in Rowan County, but they're getting the limit in some adjoining counties like Fleming. Rowan is not so good for rabbit hunting but we excel (lead the state) in grouse, and the Commonwealth's "Pheasant" within 10 years a 45 pound muskie will be landed in Cave Run reservoir, and the picture will appear in the Morehead News. No tournament will cut off your circulation quite as efficiently as a wedding ring. Bachelors like detergents, work fast and leave no rings behind, every successful man is a very surprised mother-in-law. Everything this Publisher likes to do is either illegal, immoral or fattening. The divorce rate has dropped 50 per cent in Rowan County during the last six months. Maybe the impending recession and high costs of living have something to do with staying married. A good slogan which they'll never use for politicians "Stop TRUTH Decay."

Everybody in this community seems to commend the Morehead Publishing Company for proudly flying the American flag (except when it rains) but nobody seems to do much about the flying the flag in front of their own place of business. We're temporarily disillusioned with government but remain patriotic, and believe this nation will somehow get straightened out which will come when the people fully awaken and recognize what has been going on. Maybe a recession plus inflation, will be the painful awakener.

Applications from state and local crime fighting and crime prevention projects and agencies. These individual committees and the executive committee recommended approval for 44 grants, which represent about $1.3 million in federal funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA). Over $500,000 of that sum was recommended for juvenile delinquency projects.

The commission's recommendations for approval of grants were forwarded to Gov. Wendell H. Ford for his consideration.

Applications Rejected

The crime commission rejected several grant applications "without prejudice" and 17 of those applications will be submitted automatically at future crime commission meetings.

Secretary of Justice Henri Mangoot, chairman of the crime commission, scheduled a meeting for Oct. 18 at Frankfort to review the final draft of the 1975 comprehensive plan and to review more grant applications.

Some committees scheduled interim meetings before Oct. 18, to review in further detail the rough draft which they received Sept. 12.

Bert Hawkins, director of the Justice Department's Division of Planning and Budgeting, told crime commission members that if they submit revisions and corrections for the rough draft by early October and approve the final draft at the Oct. 18 meeting, then - pending LEAA approval - the plan may be operational by late December.

Hawkins also advised members that the plan - compiled by the state Justice Department's Executive Office of Staff Services - is accompanied by an opinion of Department to Justice General Counsel James Baker which explains the 1975 funding ratio. State functions will be funded on a 90/10 (federal/state) ratio and local functions will be funded on a 75/25 (federal/local) ratio.

Commission's Duties

The Kentucky Crime Commission is responsible for distributing funds for state, county and local crime fighting and crime prevention projects under provisions of the federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 and the Crime Control Act of 1973.

The comprehensive criminal justice plans, compiled annually, include a general description of state-wide criminal justice standards and priorities, grant programs outlining needs in the areas of courts, corrections, juvenile delinquency, police and manpower development, and an overall grant application to the LEAA.

The 928, two-volume plan for fiscal year 1975 contains an application for about $3.4 million from the LEAA's federal funds. The plan emphasizes creating an evaluation section to monitor weaknesses and strengths of federally funded programs, improving school and other juvenile delinquency programs and creating at least one regional jail.

Many of the plan's priorities were gathered from members of 16 regional crime councils and other Kentuckians who attended a series of nine public hearings conducted by the state Department of Justice earlier this summer across the state.

What Does Hair Tell Us About Our Health?

Hair contains all trace elements that are found in the body. Researchers have discovered that diseases, including cancer, cause changes in the various mineral levels in the body and thus affect the amounts of certain trace elements in the hair.

By measuring the elemental levels researchers can sometimes uncover a suspected disease. In some cases indications of pending problems may be reflected in changes in the hair earlier than in the blood, in the urine or by more conventional means of analysis.

High levels of calcium and magnesium indicate metabolic disorders like low blood sugar. Low levels of zinc may reveal physical or emotional stress. A deficiency of lithium coupled with a high concentration of copper points to mental disorders.

Certain amounts of zinc, chromium and other trace metals, point to diabetes. Large amounts of cadmium in the hair warn of the possibility of impending heart trouble.

FALL SETTING OF FRUIT TREES

If planning on setting some fruit trees, late November or early December is the ideal time to do it. There are several reasons for this and one of the most pertinent of these is that the mortality rate is almost always lower and the tree will make better growth during first season in the orchard than spring set trees substantially exceed demand. With the world's largest potash reserves in Canada, there should be little difficulty obtaining needed supplies, barring transportation problems

MILK FEVER

Dairy Scientist at Iowa State University says that milk fever prevention may be possible by feeding a ration low in calcium for two weeks before calving. They believe the calcium deficient ration forced the cow to absorb more calcium from the digestive tract and mobilize calcium from the bone.

NEW ORNAMENTAL TREE

I had the pleasure Sunday of visiting with Bill Straw, former County Agent in Nicholas County who is now retired. Bill has developed a new ornamental pear tree that is being received with acclaim by the folks who have seen it. This tree is very vigorous, is disease resistant, has waxy green leaves and grows to a height of 10 to 50 feet with a spread of 40 feet at maturity. Its foliage turns brilliant red in the fall.

CONTROL LAWN WEEDS IN THE FALL

Many perennial broad leaf weeds such as buckhorn plantain, broad leaf plantain, wild garlic, dandelion, and ground ivy can be controlled with treatments of 2, 4, D, Silvex, Banvel or combination of these chemicals in the fall. These chemicals volatilize at high temperatures making them safer to use in the fall when temperatures are lower. Banvel should not be used around the root area of desirable shrubs or trees — restrict its use to open areas. FERTILIZER SUPPLY SITUATION

Nitrogen fertilizer supply will continue in tight balance for the next several years, says a recent USDA report. Production of nitrogen is estimated to grow to 11.1 million tons by 1980. However, over the same period domestic use should increase from the approximate 9.3 million tons used this year to 10.4 to 10.8 million tons. The resulting 3 per cent to 6 per cent surplus will merely prevent distribution problems and short shorthages. Average nitrogen rate per acre may increase from 55 pounds in 1974 to 68 pounds in 1980.

The tight phosphate situation is expected to ease as new plants begin operation by 1975 or 1976. It is expected that supply will

If not picked up then the tobacco becomes property of the festival.

COVER CROPS CONSERVE NITROGEN

Dr. Charles Bortner and other researchers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture have found that small grain or grass cover crops can be expected to conserve 40 or more pounds of nitrogen per acre. They should be used on tobacco ground and other areas that have left-over nitrogen.

On fields where there is little or no left-over nitrogen a straight seeding of vetch or other legume or by including them in a grass mixture will add 40 to 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre before it is turned under next spring.

Study On Agriculture Marketing Completed

Gov. Wendell H. Ford has announced the results of a marketing study completed by the University of Kentucky at the request of the Governor's Council on Agriculture. According to Ford, the study was conducted "to determine how much Kentucky farmers could expect to market profitably over the short-term and the long-run."

Ford announced the results of the study at "The All-Kentucky Products Breakfast" sponsored last week by the Promotion, Commission of the Governor's Council on Agriculture. The breakfast culminated a four-part tour of Kentucky promoted by the council to give farmers, buyers, and processors the opportunity to take a first-hand look at what goes into Kentucky's agricultural products.

In discussing the results of the study the governor cited several specific ways Kentucky could increase its share of the domestic and world markets.

Currently some Kentucky packers are purchasing from 50 to 60 per cent of their slaughter hogs from out-of-state. Unless Kentucky increases pork production, possibly by using a larger percentage of its corn as hog feed, the current situation will continue to exist. Most of the states south and east of Kentucky are grain-deficit states, thus Kentucky should strive to increase grain sales to them.

More grain and soybean buying stations or elevators are needed in central Kentucky. When possible and feasible, producers consider contracting a portion of their annual production in order to obtain a larger share of the market.

Kentucky's research and educational marketing programs should be expanded, and producers should work to increase the quality of their products.

In closing Ford said: "It is my hope that this study, which will stimulate an awareness of what can be accomplished in Kentucky. Certainly, it gives our agricultural industry something on which to build and grow. We have provided many tools to help agriculture. I also am funding the compilation of a buyer's guide which will contain a listing of all the producers and processors in the state."

Buyers' guide which is being prepared by the Governor's Council on Agriculture, is expected to be released within 60 days.

Consumers' Corner

Antacid
Food and Drug Administration recently released final regulations requiring over-the-counter antacid products to meet new standards for safety and effective ingredients as well as for dosages to be permitted.

Most antacid products will remain on the market, but labeling, ingredients, dosages and promotional claims may be changed under the new rules, highlights of which include:

— Labels must carry a section called "Drug Interaction Precautions" that will tell consumers what drugs react unfavorably with the ingredients in the antacid.

— Manufacturers must limit the claims for the antacid's effectiveness to heartburn, sour stomach and acid indigestion.

— Antacids may be combined with an analgesic (pain reliever) only if the product's label says it is designed to relieve indigestion — for example — as well as acid indigestion.

— Labels listing ingredients will be required.

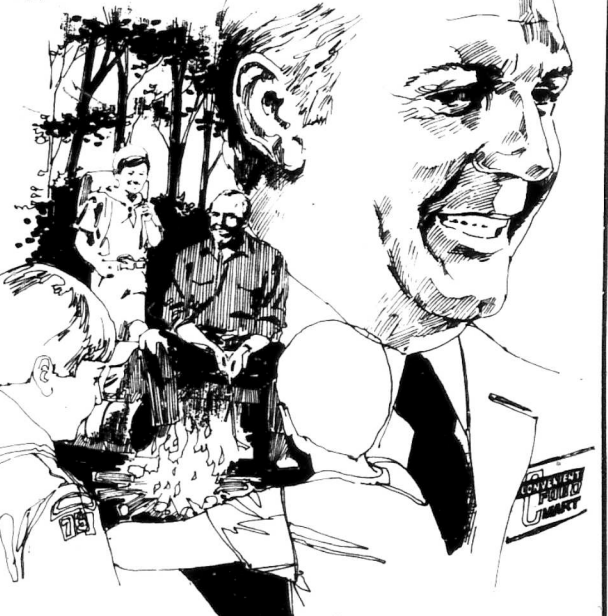

— Before 1980 antacid products are involved in the regulation, FDA is setting June 1975 as the effective date for completing changes.

Kentucky Time Zones Under Washington Study

Informed sources in Washington today advised this newspaper that Congress is virtually certain (probably next week) to vote for a return of Central standard time about four months of the year — From Oct. 27 to February 23.

However, the Senate Commerce committee has made an "in depth" study of Kentucky time zones and will probably report "they should be adjusted," according to information supplied this newspaper.

A Senate vote and Presidential action could come next week on a bill to amend the emergency daylight saving time energy conservation act.

When that act took effect Jan. 6, Gov. Wendell Ford issued an executive order moving 66 Eastern Kentucky counties from the Eastern to the Central time zone. Twelve counties in Northeastern Kentucky remain on Eastern time.

The Commerce Committee said Friday, when it reported out the proposed amendment for action by the full Senate, that a conference between Kentucky officials and the U.S. transportation secretary is "absolutely essential."

Gov. Ford has said if the bill is unchanged, he will petition the Transportation Department to put the 66 eastern counties back on Eastern time, as they were before Jan. 6.

Returning to the time zones previously in effect would put Kentucky in accord with time in surrounding states if the bill is passed.

"Failure to adjust the Kentucky time zone limit will create a potential hardship of two time changes (on Feb. 23 and April 27) for the people of Central Kentucky who were formerly in the Eastern time zone and now are located temporarily in the Central time zone," the Commerce Committee report said.

The committee said the transportation secretary should "make a final decision that is most compatible with the needs of Kentucky" before Oct. 27.

At its September meeting, the state Board of Education elected its chairman, vice-chairman and secretary for the coming year. Rev. Bob Brown, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church in Lexington, Kentucky was elected chairman. Dr. David C. Asher, a physician in Pineville, was elected vice-chairman. Mr. Sam Alexander, deputy superintendent of public instruction, Frankfort, was elected secretary.

Despite the hue and cry about the girls' basketball bill passed by the 1974 General Assembly and signed by Gov. Wendell H. Ford, only two schools requested exemption from participation.

Estill County sought exemption for financial reasons and Dawson Springs because only four girls were interested. Both were granted one year exemptions by the board.

In his report to the board, Dr. Lyman V. Ginger said that the lawsuit filed recently by State Representative Larry Hopkins, R-

Lexington, and Albert Christen, Louisville, finance commissioner in former Gov. Louis B. Nunn's administration, is a "real shocker" and one that "would hit education very, very hard indeed" if it is upheld. The lawsuit challenges the authority of the legislature to give the governor the power to spend surplus funds.

Dr. Ginger said that every school system in Kentucky will have a deficit budget if surplus funds are lost that have been allocated to cover a 2 per cent increase in current expenses.

Other areas of education that would be affected if the lawsuit freezes or revokes surplus funds include free textbooks for grades 1-8, construction projects at 24 vocational schools; construction and expansion at the School for the Deaf in Danville; staffing, equipment, materials and a subregional library for the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped; and a computer service that will simplify record-keeping for schools throughout Kentucky.

Warren County School Superintendent, Robert Gover, described a financial problem in his school system shares with all but two of Kentucky's 185 school districts. The source of the problem is two sets of figures used in property tax assessment by the state Revenue Department.

Local property taxes are collected on the basis of assessments made by local property valuation administrators, but the amount each school district must contribute to receive state money through the Minimum Foundation Program is based on a different set of figures. The second set of figures is the Department of Revenue's estimate of property value based on surveys of property sales in the area.

In almost every case, the second set of figures is higher, so local school districts have problems coming up with their required shares. The board decided to ask the Revenue Department to use one set of assessment figures.

In other action, the board gave its permission to the Ashland school system and the Fayette County school system to contract with private companies to computerize attendance records. Dr. Ginger said that the Department of Education hopes to have a computer system available for all Kentucky schools, without charge, by September, 1975.

The board directed the Department of Education to contract an outside agency to conduct an in-depth study of its Bureau of Rehabilitation Services and Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The board also heard a personnel matter in executive session. The matter involved charges which Mrs. David Lisle made against the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services. The board decided unanimously that her charges were without merit. The board did not specify the charges.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Dec. 3-4, 1974.

CHEVROLET'S NEW EFFICIENCY SYSTEM.

Our cars are designed to run leaner, more economically, run cleaner (to meet new federal emissions standards) and save you money every mile. They're doing this through the use of our new Efficiency System that includes:

- 1. High Energy Ignition, Standard. This system delivers up to 85° hotter spark to the plugs than conventional systems. It's designed to give surer starts on cold or wet days, and longer life for spark plugs. Our Early Fuel Evaporation system also helps contribute to faster engine warm-ups.
- 2. Catalytic converter, Standard. All 1975 Chevrolet use the GM-developed catalytic converter to help reduce certain exhaust emissions. GM's catalytic converter development program included 1,000 vehicles, going over 20 million miles.

New fuel filler neck, Standard. Only unleaded gas should be used with catalytic converters. So our gas tank neck is designed to accommodate only the smaller unleaded fuel hose nozzles. The use of cleaner burning unleaded fuel means you can go longer between routine servicing.

- 4. Outside air intake, Standard. This brings cooler, denser air to the engine resulting in improved efficiency and performance after warm-up.
- 5. Steel-belted radial ply tires, Standard. GM-Specification, they provide improved traction on wet and snowy roads. Also, since they roll with less resistance than conventional tires, they can help contribute to fuel economy.
- 6. Econominder gauge, Available. This gauge measures engine vacuum and helps show you how to drive more economically. When the needle is in the green area, you are moving along economically. Fast starts or uneven speeds cause the needle to drop out of the green, reminding you not to drive with a heavy accelerator foot.

Efficient Plumbing Systems Keep Water Supply Safe

Many people are unaware of the connection between efficient plumbing systems and clean water until an inadequate or faulty system causes dirt or other contaminants to infiltrate their water supply.

To guard against such failures, the division of plumbing in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection checks the installation of pipes, fixtures and other plumbing paraphernalia. Established in 1970, when Kentucky adopted its first plumbing code, the plumbing office administers one of the oldest programs in the environmental health field.

Gene Perkins, plumbing director, has witnessed many changes since he joined the division in 1946. During his first year, the division worked within an $18,000 budget, funded solely from the fees collected for plumbing permits. Today the budget totals more than $1 million.

The plumbing division could be considered the pulse of Kentucky's economy because as the latter grows, so do the division's responsibilities. Plumbing permits are required for construction of every house, school, apartment building, factory, business or any other structure with a plumbing system.

Perkins said the number of inspections in the last few months indicates that many people and businesses may have delayed building houses or industrial sites. In the last fiscal year, the division checked 3,000 more plumbing installations than during fiscal year 1973 - only a slight increase compared to other years.

Perkins said, however, that the situation may be changing in areas other than private housing.

Perkins noted that the number of new plumbing plans for other kinds of buildings has "picked up remarkably in the last two months." However, he is unsure that the increase is any indication there may be an upsurge in construction in the long run.

He said the increase could be the result of a 1974 revision in the state plumbing law requiring the 44 counties not previously included to adopt the state plumbing code. Watching the division grow from a small operation into a state-wide agency is a point of "personal satisfaction" to Perkins. "It has been a beneficial growth," he said. "It will insure that people have safe water to drink and sewage properly disposed."

Perkins advocates regular checks of plumbing systems after construction is completed for continued assurance of clean, safe water.

Citing several examples of faulty plumbing causing rancid and dirty water, which can and has led to illness, the director said the law should be revised to include regular maintenance inspections.

"Everyone knows something is wrong when the water changes color," Perkins said. "But it is the particles you can't see that can really be troublesome. It takes trained experts to detect problems that may not be visible to others."

The basic idea has generally been approved. One youth, arrested under a curfew law, challenged it as a form of discrimination against younger people. But the court pointed out that minors are inevitably singled out with regard to everything from marriage to driving, from attending school to hearing liquor.

Upholding the law, the court said: "Children are under recognized disabilities in many respects. Because of their lack of mature judgment, they are subject to continuing supervision until they become of age."

Nevertheless, a curfew law may be struck down if it is too broad. Another case involved a curfew that banned all minors from the streets after 10 p.m., with almost no leeway for exceptional circumstances.

In a court test, the judge noted that this law could punish youngsters coming home from evening classes, from work at the library, from school games or dances, even from church activities.

Finding the law invalid, the court said it violated "the right of every person to enjoy and engage in lawful and innocent activity."

In one recent case, police nabbed the father of a 16-year-old boy for "allowing" him to be out after the curfew hour.

The court conceded that it was constitutional to punish the parent in such a situation. However, it seems the father had been told—and had honestly believed—that his son was spending the night at the home of a friend. Dismissing the charge against the father, the court said he could not have "alleged" conduct of which he was not even aware.

I REMEMBER THE GOOD OLD DAYS

From Peter Sillart, Hollywood, California: I remember when the movie studios started springing up right near my Hollywood home. Big new feature movies were promoted lavishly here, too. All the stars would turn out to see the grand productions of the burgeoning industry.

Yes, it was in the 1920's that Hollywood, California became a household word. The influence on other parts of the country—and the world for that matter—was incredible. Movie-goers everywhere dressed and behaved like their favorite stars on the screen. These studios where they made the pictures sure grew fast, too.

The movies were fun for everybody then. I hope it's true that more people are starting to go to the movies again. Back then it sure was exciting what with all the new people coming to town. Splendid homes grew out of the ground. New stores, too, selling all kinds of different things.

Best of all these studios began to produce excellent entertainment for great numbers of people at fair prices.

The Now Washbasket

By Bobbie Hill

Hot weather is coming, and now is the time to freshen up that light summer clothing you've been storing through the winter.

They may have been put away clean, but even so it is advisable to launder them lightly to wash away that closet mustiness.

To eliminate static clinging of the garments containing man-made fibers, add a fabric softener at the wash stage recommended on the package.

During the humid summer months, panty hose should be soaked nightly in a basin of warm water for several minutes with one fourth cup of the borax product added, followed with a rinse. This cleans and freshens nylon fabrics.

Also, lingerie and spandex garments should be washed every day, using the same additive to freshen them.

And be sure to wash those heavy winter things before storing them, using the borax product to prevent that musty closet aura.

LOOKING AHEAD... Mrs. Lucy Silvey of Vanceburg, right, and her daughter, Mrs. Jackie Brooks, check the spring semester class schedule at Morehead State University where both are enrolled. Mrs. Silvey, a 60-year-old grandmother, started at MSU this fall as a full-time freshman. Mrs. Brooks, who lives in Garrison, is a junior. The commute each day from Vanceburg, a round trip of 100 miles.

Grandmother Enrolls As Freshman At MSU

Mrs. Lucy Silvey of Vanceburg is not Morehead State University's typical freshman.

She is a 60-year-old grandmother who has reared eight children and who decided to enroll as a full-time student because, her words, "the campus is an exciting place and going to college is a challenge."

Mrs. Silvey commutes from Vanceburg to Morehead each day with one of her daughters, Mrs. Jackie Brooks of Garrison, a junior at MSU.

Says Jackie of her mother's situation: "I think it's great. Not many people get to go to college with their mom."

Mrs. Silvey's husband, Orville, is a disabled Army veteran and, as a result, she received VA benefits which help defray her costs.

Mrs. Silvey, who is majoring in art, says the idea of going to college grew out of the many trips she made to the MSU campus with her daughter.

"I realized this fall when Jackie registered again that I really wanted to find out if my dream could come true," she recalls. "We went to the admissions office and then to the VA counselor and, within three hours, I was a student with a full schedule of classes."

When she enrolled, it had been 39 years since she had been in a classroom as a student. Mrs. Silvey was graduated from Lewis County High School in 1935.

Her youngest child, Jayne, is a 14-year-old sophomore at LCHS. "She is so busy with school and being a majorette that my being gone during the day is not even noticed," the mother said.

The other Silvey children are scattered in

Rowan Soil Conservation

By Doug Hatchett, District Conservationist

Rowan County's Conservation District released its annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974 to its co-operators last week. Prepared by Leland Hall, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and approved by the Board at the September meeting, the report narrates the activities and accomplishments of the District in the fields of conservation education, resource conservation, and farm conservation planning and application over the twelve month period.

Highlighting the conservation education activities of the supervisors during the year was an exchange tour with the Brown County Ohio Conservation District in August and September, according to the report. Supervisors of each district toured and observed the conservation programs in each district to share experiences in solving conservation problems.

Hall commended the Junior Board of Supervisors for activities in promoting conservation in the District. The Junior Board is a group of high school students organized and sponsored by the District Board to involve youth in conservation. Two members of the Youth Board were sponsored by the District to Conservation Camp and one member was sent to Forestry Camp during the year. These youth leaders are trained in conservation to assist in orienting other young people toward conservation. Other education activities included a District sponsored essay and poster contest for students, a soil stewardship observance, a co-operators meeting and dinner, various news articles, demonstrations and slide talks, and a District Newsletter.

The report listed the resource conservation assistance provided by the district to various units of government and groups. Soil evaluations were made on three sites for industrial development in addition to other evaluations made for suitability for sewage effluent fields. The report noted the need is growing for these types of soil and resource studies, especially in the areas of Cave Run Reservoir where much development is anticipated.

In the areas of farm conservation planning and application, Hall reported 225 different individuals were serviced during the year. Twenty-four co-operators were assisted in developing conservation plans on 2,500 acres. Eight old conservation plans covering 1,035 acres were revised and updated according to land use and treatment needs. Inventories and evaluations were prepared as requested on 24 different land units.

Hall stated a limited number of copies of the report are on file in the district office and are available to the public on request.

For the State Capitol

Agree Or Not

I Say What I Think by S. C. VanCuren

As the U.S. Senate campaign between Republican incumbent Marlowe Cook and Governor Wendell Ford enters the final weeks, it looks like the governor has an advantage.

His natural advantage is that Democrats outnumber Republicans by two to one in Kentucky and this makes it an uphill battle for Cook. Another advantage is the governor is in a better position to raise campaign money, considering that the state has about 30,000 employees although no direct campaign solicitation is permitted under the state's Merit System.

When Cook ran six years ago Republicans were in control of both county and city government in Jefferson County, but is now under control of the Democrats and the political machine is formidable in the state's largest population county. Ford also had the advantage of inheriting a smooth-working campaign organization that elected Senator Walter Huddleston, a Democrat, two years ago over former Republican Governor Louis B. Nunn.

To win a U.S. Senate seat in Kentucky, a Republican must gather a lot of Democratic votes and this can happen when factions of the Democratic Party are divided. The Democrats are unified this time as witnessed at the fund-raising dinner here September 21, when all former Democrat governors appeared at the affair. Lieutenant Governor Julian Carroll, while his relations with Ford were strained on cool in the early part of his term, is not giving full support to Ford's campaign Carroll is speaking all over the state in support of the governor.

Relations are still cool between former State Democratic Chairman J.R. Miller and Carroll, but this isn't having any effect upon Carroll support who all seem to be united in support of Ford. Of course one of the inducements here for unified support is that Carroll will take over as acting governor next January if Ford wins. This will give Carroll a full year in office to campaign for a full four-year term.

Ford and Miller both tried to push Carroll into the U.S. Senate race last year and earlier this year, but Carroll wanted no part of it, and Ford announced his candidacy near the end of the legislative session this year.

Former State Senator Charles Upton, a Republican from Williamsburg, has in effect announced his support of Ford. Upton told newsmen that Ford was kind to him when he was in the Senate. Upton has said that Cook has lost some support in the Fifth District which is the Republican stronghold. To win a Republican almost has to come out of the Fifth District with a 50 or 60 thousand majority and he must win by a big margin in Jefferson County.

The two major issues developed so far in the campaign are inflation and the proposed controversial dam on Red River. Ford has told newsmen that they are making too much of the dam as a campaign issue, but the people still are strongly divided on it. Ford has come out for the Dam while Cook is opposing it. Cook has said the people make the issues in a campaign.

Cook interrupted his campaign last Thursday to be in Washington for a strategic vote to improve closure to end the filibuster on a consumer protection bill before the Senate. In this fourth effort to stop the debate, the supporters of the bill failed again.

Some Ford supporters claim that Cook has stayed in Washington too much and lost contact with people in Kentucky. Cook argues that he has had to stay in Washington to look after the affairs of Kentucky citizens on some strategic measures in Congress.

If anything, there may be a slight rift in the Republican Party in this election for some of Nunn's supporters feel that Cook didn't make much effort in support of Nunn against Huddleston.

This campaign hasn't generated the general interest that gubernatorial campaign usually generates in Kentucky. Surprisingly, neither side has issued any polls of importance to claim they are leading.
