

Cowden Workers Return To Jobs

The entire work force of approximately 260 is scheduled to be back on the job today (Thursday) at the Cowden Morehead Company on West Main Street.

Jim Pollite, manager of Cowden's in Morehead, said the estimated 220 employees at the Cowden Olive Hill plant also will be back on the job today.

The plants were forced to shutdown December 20 because of the economic situation at which time Pollite advised the Morehead News.

Two of the Cowden plants in Tennessee were sold late last year "because of the business outlook and economic situation," according to Pollite.

The Morehead plant, when in full operation, manufactures about 9,600 pairs of dungarees per day which are sent to the Cowden headquarters in Lexington, Ky. where they are shipped to about a dozen leading chain stores.

Rep. Perkins Takes Action In School Lunch Program

Rep. Carl D. Perkins advised the Morehead News today that the school lunch and related food programs for children are in serious danger of being crippled.

Rep. Perkins had been joined by many other members of Congress, who noted they realize the importance of good nutrition for children, in the first phase of the effort to save the school lunch program.

The first action involved a Congressional concurrent resolution, which already has been introduced.

"In an effort to bring some stability to the program," Perkins said, "so that the local communities could continue to maintain effective nutrition programs for children in school."

The Kentucky Congressman said the provision, adopted in November, 1973 has

Rowan Teachers Eligible For Special Study Grants

Public school teachers in Rowan County are eligible to apply for summer graduate study grants in special education at Morehead State University.

Fifteen scholarships of $400 each will be awarded by the MSU Department of Psychology and Special Education for the 1975 summer term.

"With unemployment rising, and more and more families having to cut back on what they can purchase in the markets, we have a greater obligation to see to it that the children are fed properly," Rep. Perkins added.

He also pointed out that without adequate federal support, parents will have to provide additional lunch money for their children, and noted that many cannot afford to do this.

The legislation Rep. Perkins is preparing would expand the program, so that more schools can participate, and more children who need nutritious meals would receive them.

Rep. Perkins has also raised a strong objection to the Administration budget proposal which would eliminate several nutrition programs, including school breakfast and special milk.

Rowan's County Road Aid Program Outlined

The 1975-76 County Road Aid Program for Rowan County, previously approved by the Rowan Fiscal Court, was announced this week by Gov. Julian Carroll and Transportation Secretary Billy Patton.

Highway Commissioner John C. Roberts explained that the program provides maintenance for 115 miles of county roads in Rowan County.

The program is selected annually after consultation between the Bureau of Highways, and Fiscal Court. A formal

During a hearing Tuesday morning, Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell postponed making a decision on the local option election issue until Monday at 10 a.m.

The County Attorney further noted, "We will invite, during the week, everyone to come in and look at the petition if they are in question as to whether or not their name has been placed on it by someone other than the citizens."

consistently qualified registered voters whose signatures appeared on the petition. Rev. Dillon testified Tuesday morning that the names of 474 valid registered voters appeared on the petition, while Yonowine testified that 586 of the names were valid.

Decision On Local Option Issue Postponed By Judge

Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell postponed making a decision on the local option election issue until Monday at 10 a.m. Judge Caldwell rescheduled the hearing after Morehead Assistant Police Chief Richard Alderman testified Tuesday morning that his name had been forged to the local option petition as well as that of his wife, son and daughter-in-law.

Yonowine said his group used the original petition in comparing the names with the voter registration IBM computer printout sheets for verifying names signed on the paper. He said his group came up with 886 valid registered voters on the petition.

Yonowine said the dry force or temperance group copied the names from the original lists onto another sheet of paper and in doing so "grossly mispelled some of the names and were not able to find them on the computer lists." Therefore, according to Yonowine, those names were apparently removed as being invalid.

Rev. Dillon said his group checked for the names that appeared more than once on the petition and attempted to strike those names as well as others unqualified.

Chamber Speaker Says . . .

Free Enterprise Courses Needed

"We've got to do something about the discrepancy for the order and quantity and, we've got to demand the teaching of Free Enterprise courses to our young people if our country is to remain the best country in the world."

Those were among comments from Thomas (Tommy) R. Bell of Lexington who served its guest speaker of the annual Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night.

During the brief business session at the event, five new Chamber directors were announced. They are Agnes Williams of Williams-Nickell Oil Company, Larry Breeze of Breeze Insurance Agency, Ronnie Caudill of the Morehead Publishing Company, Donnie Wilson of Kentucky Utilities Company, and Steve Lewis of C. Roger Lewis Insurance Agency.

Inflation Declining

The speaker at the banquet is a nationally known referee for the National Football League and NFL's quarterback, Bell spoke of inflation and recession, noting that they are an indictment of our free enterprise. He said the most inflation has been 10 per cent and that is declining.

Bell said, "People can talk themselves into a recession, but I believe you can do anything you really want to if you have the determination and will to do something for it." He said, "If we don't have jobs for them, let's have them dig a ditch and fill it back up and make a day's work of it for a day's pay."

Thieves Take Tools, Clothing Valued At $400

Tools and clothing valued at about $400 were stolen sometime Monday night from the Chris Martin residence on First and Hargis.

Chris James Pfeiffrey of the Morehead Police Department said the thieves entered the residence after forcing an e-wood door at the rear of the home.

Chris Pfeiffrey said the tools belonged to Billy Hardin who has been doing repairs to the home, after that the clothing belonged to the Martins. The tools, according to officers, were in a wooden tool box inside the residence. Pfeiffrey said the thieves pried open the box and took several saws, a power drill and other items. No arrests have been made. The investigation continues.

Flu Statistics Increasing In Eastern Kentucky

Flu statistics continue to climb in Eastern Kentucky with 2,396 new cases reported to the Department for Human Resources (DHR) for the week of Feb. 8. Kentucky now has 14,485 new cases since the last reporting period with all six regions showing a marked increase. Western Kentucky, the hardest hit region two weeks ago, rose to the top again this week with an additional 7,797 cases. South Central, the hardest hit (Morehead is a Fourth Class City) of 780 new cases since the last reporting period. North Central has the fewest reported cases of all the regions, but showed a 404 case increase.

Counties in Eastern Kentucky with a significant increase in flu cases are: Harlan up 263; Lee, 203; Letcher, 52; Menifee, 30; Rockcastle, 121; and Wolfe, 269. DHR's Bureau of Health Services received reports from local health departments in 51 counties. These records are based only on reports submitted by physicians. A case must have been severe enough to warrant contacting a physician and the physician must file a report before it is included.

Must Get Involved
He concluded by stressing the importance of teaching the free enterprises, having respect for law of order and authority, and getting involved in something worthwhile.

Chamber President Dale Caudill served as master of ceremonies, and outlined the accomplishments of the Chamber during the past year. The Rev. Glenn Edgerton of Faith Presbyterian Church gave the invocation. Special guests recognized at the banquet included Gary Koch who will be manager of the Browning Manufacturing plant in Morehead and his wife, Julie; William Allison, consultant with Emerson Electric who is engineering representative for construction of the Morehead Browning plant, and Mrs. Allison; and Dave Carpenter, vice president in charge of operations of Browning Division, Emerson Electric.

President Caudill extended a special welcome to the Browning executives after which brief remarks were heard from Gary Koch.

The parking lot at the rear of the building also has been increased by about 200 spaces at the west end.

The expansion was the first since 1966 when 8,400 square feet were added to the building.

Despite Some Care Center Layoffs, M'head Not Affected

Despite the layoffs of staff members of Comprehensive Care Centers at Prestonsburg and several others in the state, the Cave Run Comprehensive Care Center in Morehead remains in full operation.

Ray Bailey, administrator of the Cave Run Center in Morehead, said the local operation continues in full swing, but noted he was aware that centers in some areas had cut work forces.

The Mountain Comprehensive Care Center at Prestonsburg recently announced the laying off of 86 staff members at all levels due to inflation and the recent veto of funds for community health centers.

At the time of the layoff, Betty Marshall, information officer for the Mountain Center, said, "We are experiencing financial distress which we hope will only be temporary."

She said, "We lost hope for any short-term relief as a result of President Ford's veto of the Community Mental Health Centers Renewal Bill."

"Slightly more than 200 employees were expected to remain on the payroll at the Prestonsburg center," Ms. Marshall added. "An anticipated loss of $500,000 in staff monies per year for the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center is expected." She noted, however, that all the same programs and services would be provided. The Cave Run Comprehensive Care Center at Morehead has 89 persons on the payroll, including part-time personnel, day care teachers and aids. Of the total, 69 are full-time and one of them is a psychiatrist.

According to Administrator Bailey, the average patient load per month is 900 at the Cave Run operation. The center serves the five-county area of Rowan, Bath, Menifee, Morgan and Montgomery.

Each of the five counties has a full-time office located at the county seat. In addition to the full-time office, there is a full-time school for mentally retarded children and full-time program for retarded adults in each county.

Just recently, the old Midland Tval Hotel on West Main Street in Morehead was converted to be used by the Cave Run Care Center. Known as the SID (Situation Identification and Disposition) Unit, it is the facility which is used for the alcoholic program. Bailey said 14 persons are employed at the SID Unit with persons who they also do followup work with persons who are treated at the Unit after they return to their homes.

Jim McGoover is director of the alcohol program and Wendell Quammen is in charge of the Alcoholic Anonymous portion. Quammen also is chief therapist.

The administrator said, "We help an average of five persons per day with the alcohol problem, most of whom come into the SID Unit drunk." He noted that it is a "non-medical" program, with no drugs dispensed at the facility. He said AA meets each Wednesday night at the location.

Bailey said the budget for the Cave Run Comprehensive Center is about $60,000 per year which goes for salaries, operations expenses, etc. in the five-county area.

Plant Board Will Accept Bids On Browning Project

The Morehead Utility Plant Board will meet in special session Thursday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Plant Board offices, 109 Bishop Avenue, to accept and act upon sealed bids for industrial area sewage treatment facilities.

The sewage facility will be a small package plant for the Browning Manufacturing plant now under construction in Morehead about one mile west on U.S. 60. The Plant Board proposes to borrow money for construction of the sewer facility for Browning and the manufacturing firm will repay the City over a 15 year period at whatever interest rate the Plant Board has to pay.

Browning also will pay the standard fees charged by the Plant Board for services. The new industry is expected to be completed in early summer and an estimated 100 persons will be employed at the firm during the first year of operation.

When Your Child Is Sick When those inevitable childhood illnesses strike, why not make the time that your child spends in bed as pleasant as you can? Here are some tips to help you and your child when he's sick to make the sickward a little easier on both of you. Give your child a bell to ring so that he can call you when he needs you without straining his throat. And when he calls, bring him plenty of liquids. Let him choose between water, soda and a variety of juices and serve the drinks in Dixie Knock-Knock cups with the added fun of a joke on each one. Have plenty of games at his bedside—coloring books and puzzle books. Also, pinned to the bedside, have a paper bag with the rim turned out so that all the way around so it will stay open. It makes a handy wastebasket. Check out the colored paper plates by Dixie as just the thing to serve small portions of food to a sick child. They pop up his interest, while whitening his appetite, and making more time more like a game. Smaller paper plates tabs up less room in a tray so you have a better chance to arrange them attractively, and they can be quickly disposed of to avoid the spread of germs. Follow these suggestions, add lots of love, and the next time your child's sick, things will turn out well.

Dear Readers: In spite of the best efforts of the local police and federal agents, national crime rose 16 per cent in 1974 over the previous year's record. This was the largest increase in six years.

It seems to me the worst tragedies are the crimes against children. Is there something parents can do to protect their youngsters from being the victims? I believe the best protection is to teach your children what to do and what not to do.

Today I am printing "Ten Commandments for the Protection of Children" by Samuel Roen, the author of "Murder of a Little Girl." I hope all parents who read this column will discuss it with their children tonight at dinner. It would be helpful, too, if teachers would clip this column and discuss it in the classroom.

My thanks to Samuel Roen of Orlando, Florida, for sending me a notice what the first letter of each rule spells out. (Ann Landers)

Practice The Buddy System: There is safety in numbers. Children should be in the company of other children or adults at all times.

Rapport: Intimate rapport should be developed between parents and children of all ages. Also between parents and other parents.

Observe: Every child should be taught to be observant of everything—the unusual, the suspicious, the strange man at the schoolyard, or playground. The strange vehicle. Children should be taught to note descriptions of parents, vehicles, license plates, and even to carry a pad and pencil so they can make accurate notes.

Teach Home Security: Make sure doors are kept locked at all times. No callers should be admitted when parents are absent. (The Boston Strangler gained admittance to 13 homes without force and murdered 13 women.) No information such as "My parents aren't home," should be given over the phone to unknowns. An excuse such as, "My father or mother cannot come to the phone," should end the conversation.

Effective Physical Actions: Every parent should instruct every child of the physical actions that can be taken in emergency situations.

Cooperate With The Police: Police should be consulted immediately when any suspicious event occurs. No neighbor, relative or friend should be shielded. Obscene phone calls, Peeping Toms, exhibitionists and "offers" should be reported.

Travel Precautions: Use well-lighted traffic areas. Keep car doors locked and windows closed. In case of emergency, try to reach a police station, or a busy or populated area. If this is not possible, remain in your locked car and hold down the horn until you attract attention and help.

Instruct About Strangers: Warn your children never to accept a gift or a ride from strangers. And tell them never to allow a stranger to get close enough so they can be snatched.

Order Schedule: Know where your children are going and ask them to phone you when they get there. If they decide to go or to another place, make sure they phone you so you'll know where they are at all times.

No Hitch-Hiking: Two often tragedy rides with the child who hitches a ride. Make it a firm, unbreakable rule—No Hitch-Hiking.

Highway Funds Will Be Sought

Highway Commissioner John C. Roberts said Wednesday that Kentucky will be doing "all we can to be sure we get our share" of $2 billion in unallocated highway funds released by President Ford.

But Roberts said bureau officials can't begin to identify projects to submit for the funds, or identify sources for matching funds, until they have more information on the President's action.

"All we have seen so far are the reports made by the media," Roberts said, "and these don't contain the fiscal and project priority details we need to get to work on our requests."

"Naturally we'll be taking a close look at all our projects which would be eligible for federal funding and trying to match them with the priorities in the President's statement. We'll do this so that we have a head start when we do get the details. Right now, though, any detailed plans would be pure speculation; we just don't have enough information to work on."

"Media" reports said the priority for funding would be given first to projects which would produce meaningful jobs, then to highway safety improvements and third to completion of key links in the interstate system.

Some Urban Mass Transit projects could be substituted for less critical highway projects.

Roberts said Kentucky has important projects which would fit one or all of these priorities. But we're not going to identify the specific projects until we have more details. "I would say though that we should be in a good position to receive our portion of this money. We have a good 'track record' when it comes to obligating federal funds and our planners will certainly be ready to match projects to the requirements."

"As soon as we receive the guidance we need to get specific, I think we'll be right on top of this," Roberts said.

A subscriber to a paper once edited by Mark Twain wrote him stating he had found a spider in his paper and wanted to know if it meant good or bad luck.

Mark replied: "Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and live a life of undisturbed peace afterward."

They were on their honeymoon and the groom gave the porter a dollar not to tell anyone they were bride and groom. At breakfast the next morning everyone stared. The groom called the porter and asked, "Did you tell anyone on the train we were just married?"

"No, sir," replied the porter. "I told them you all were single."

Mrs. Smith had a deadly gleam in her eyes as she entered her butcher's and said in a withering voice:

"Mr. Ripley, how do you account for the fact that there was a piece of rubber tire in one of the sausages I bought here yesterday?"

"Ah, my dear madam," responded the butcher, rising to the occasion, "that just serves as an illustration of how the motor car is replacing the horse everywhere nowadays."

The thug promptly did so, saying, "Well, you are an easy mark."

"Now God be praised!" said the Quaker, proceeding to throw off his coat and roll up his sleeves, "I have obeyed his teaching - and now I am going to lick hell out of thee."

One of the wonders of our society is the enormous reservoir of trust that characterizes business deals and credit transactions. Multimillion dollar agreements are consummated daily by telephone. Almost everyone has a credit card or two. Checks are routinely accepted in place of cash.

Now, however, owing in part to the Nation's gloomy economic downturn, bankruptcy at a whim threatens to spring a major leak in that reservoir of trust.

We hasten to add that, for some unfortunate individuals whose fortunes have come through no fault of their own, bankruptcy is a necessary move and not a disgrace. However, there are disturbing indications that too many other citizens are choosing the bankruptcy route as a "cop out" on their obligations, when more self-determination and pride are what are really needed.

The record year for bankruptcies was 1967 - a boom year, incidentally - when 208,000 Americans admitted publicly they couldn't pay their debts. Authorities now believe that record will be eclipsed by the end of the current fiscal year in June, with as many as 245,000 citizens declaring bankruptcy.

Those tempted to go the bankruptcy route should beware. Creditors are reluctant to do business with a bankrupt; creditors also may not accept the action and may continue to hound debtors, and the notation "bankrupt" along with the date and amount defaulted remain on a credit record for 14 years.

For those individuals truly forced to the wall, one alternative to declaring bankruptcy is to use Chapter XIII of the Federal Bankruptcy Act instead. Under Chapter XIII a court gets most of a person's creditors to agree to partial or full payment over an extended period. And the "bankrupt" notation remains on the individual's credit record only seven years.

The best alternative, of course, remains that of watching one's debts extremely carefully, especially in these tough times, and not getting into the position of even having to contemplate bankruptcy.

ROWAN SWEETHEART... Linda Conn is surprised at announcement that she had been selected as Sweetheart of the Year for Rowan County. The announcement came during the fourth annual Key Club Sweetheart Dance held Saturday night in the Ballroom, Adron Doran University Center. The dance was a joint endeavor by the Key Clubs at Rowan County and University Breckinridge. Linda a 17-year-old senior is being presented loving cup and bouquet of roses by Jimmy Kerres, Key Club president. She is a member of her school's drill team, pep club, anchor club and Beta Club. She was a member of the Homecoming Court, a participant in Junior Miss Pageant and has been selected to appear in "Who's Who among American High School Students" and "Distinguished American High School students". Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Galen Conn.

Our fragile earth

By Dr. Jerry Howell

Director of Environmental Studies

Morehead State University

Many ecologists have said that our planet is overpopulated and that our population should not only be stabilized but drastically lowered. Among these ecologists is Dr. Wayne Davis of the University of Kentucky. In his article, "Overpopulated America," published in 1970, he defined "as most seriously overpopulated that nation whose people by virtue of their numbers and activities are most rapidly decreasing the ability of the land to support human life." He went on to say that the "United States was first place by a substantial margin."

The average U.S. citizen uses 35 times more natural resources than the average world citizen. This means that as far as impact on the earth is concerned, for every American born 35 other world citizens could be sustained. These figures do not include the extra environmental impact on the land resulting from a greatly increased consumption.

World people are becoming increasingly aware of our high consumption rate, along with those of our overdeveloped counterparts, such as England, Japan and Russia. The underdeveloped countries in Asia, South America and Africa are taking steps to deflate our affluent balloons. Some of the steps are designed to let a little air out of the balloon; others are designed to pop it.

For example, at the 1972 U.N. Conference on the World Environment in Stockholm, Sweden, the smaller, underdeveloped countries protested a proposed international birth control policy. They also protested similar policies at a 1974 U.N. sponsored conference. They claimed that the U.S. and its cohorts should be the first to lower their populations. They reasoned that our 210 million people were equivalent to 7350 million world people. And they have a point.

Other jobs have been made at the balloon but one recent thrust seems especially illustrative. The pro-Russian Middle East (Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Syria) owns much of the world's oil. Israel, owns very little. Saudi Arabia informed the U.S. in 1973 that she would not promise future increases in our oil quotas unless we softened our attitudes towards the Russian Middle East and stopped supporting Israel. During the 1973 war Saudi Arabia and their allies did stop selling us oil. The question may arise: "Is our way of life so dependent upon oil that we would sell out Israel for fear of losing major sources of oil?" Although the entire energy question is much more complicated than this one example, the example does point up our dependence upon world resources. This dependence is based primarily on our way of life and relatively high population.

Does our affluence and dependence upon world natural resources mean that we must soon forfeit our way of life or, at least, make some changes? Probably.

Jerry's RESTAURANT

Today more and more eating places specialize in only one kind of food. That's what makes Jerry's so special - especially at dinner time. It doesn't matter if you're hungry for steak or chicken, or sirloin tips in mushroom gravy, or maybe even shrimp orzo or a juicy ham steak. Sometimes there is even saucy lasagna on the menu and sometimes roast turkey with all the trimmings. And always - there are those green garden vegetables. You get a selection. Jerry's Restaurant specializes in making everybody happy with a different selection each evening. Choose from four entrees and select two vegetables. And for the same price, pick a soup or appetizer. Jerry's offers more than one kind of food - something for everybody.

your week ahead by DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: February 23 to March 1

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19
It would be a good idea to do some fence mending. Most persons of your sign have been taking a member of the opposite sex—for granted. You might be surprised.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20
An associate's over friendliness will be a subtle manipulation, in disguise. Think twice about motives and reasons behind the scene. Don't pull chestnuts from the fire.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20
For those under your sign unattached, this may be an excellent time to look around. Romance opportunity should be bountiful. You'll be persuasive in affairs of the heart.

MOONCHILD
June 21-July 22
You are entering a period when it's time to put a check rein on your feelings. Actually, an associate's indifference and carelessness will provoke you.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22
A variety of problems with someone younger than yourself shows in your chart. You might not believe so—sometimes, cruelty is the major cause.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22
Not that you haven't been told, hear or read about it happening to other people—money, or the lack of it, is going to do strange things to you.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22
Decided right now, you're not going to get your own way, this week. Whatever you do, don't take on a project that requires cooperation and teamwork.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21
You might try being realistic toward overtures that will come your way. Someone is attempting to throw you off balance in your job, task or project.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21
Don't borrow personal articles. Also, avoid lending same. According to your chart, there seems to be a hazard penalty for borrowing or lending valuables.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19
Well now, a close associate is, secretly, thinking in terms of changing residence. Checking into it, you will find the change will, definitely, affect your future.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18
Contrary to what you have been told in the past, it's not wise to be tactful or diplomatic at all times. So, take a stand against a trouble making associate.

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20
It's showdown time for you. See that you air a grievance that has definitely bogged down your job, task or project.

Application For Waste Treatment Funds Made

Gov. Julian Carroll is petitioning the federal government for a more realistic allocation of Kentucky's share of waste treatment construction money.

Kentucky's apparent share of some $4 billion to be released is insufficient, says Gov. Carroll.

The needs surveys were conducted at the direction of Congress and the EPA, under the Guidelines of Public Law 92-300.

In his letter to Train, the governor says, "From the Commonwealth of Kentucky's standpoint, FY 1976 funds are just that, fiscal year 1976."

These cards may be applied for at the circuit court clerk's office in the county in which the applicant resides.

According to F. E. Hodges, director of the driver's licensing division of the Department of Transportation, the cards are available to all non-drivers.

Gold Bullion We have the Agency to supply you with Gold Bars from 5 oz. to 100 ounces receiving the funds in 1976 under 1976 costs, rules and regulations."

He says that Kentucky was hurt in 1972 because of a poor distribution formula and does not think the state should suffer the same fate next year.

He tells Train that the construction industry in this country is in trouble and Kentucky is no unique.

Required of Kentucky under an EPA schedule for completion by 1985 are 28 major waste treatment construction projects.

He says the $33.7 million to $37 million that will be lost to Kentucky will result in only $9.4 million left to apply to all but one of the projects.

And he concluded, this cost figure does not constitute the state's total waste treatment funding needs.

State, Federal Trucking Laws Vigorously Enforced

Officers of the Bureau of Vehicle Regulation's Division of Highway Enforcement inspected a total of 88-700 freight-carrying trucks during January, the period covered by that state agency's most recent report.

The officers issued 2,039 citations during the past month to trucks found to be in violation of various state and federal trucking laws on Kentucky's highways.

The citations were issued to carriers ranging in size from half-ton pickups to five-ton tractor-trailer trucks.

"State and federal trucking laws are vigorously enforced by our inspectors," said Vehicle Regulation Commissioner O. B. Arnold, "in order to correct safety violations which are hazardous to the truck driver and the driving public with whom he shares the road."

"Also, by issuing citation to trucks which are carrying loads over the allowable gross-weight limit of the highway they are driving on, we hope to deter truckers from the practice of overweight hauling, which leads to severe road damage."

Included in the January citations were 271 issued to operators of coal trucks carrying overweight loads on Kentucky highways in 28 different counties. Arnold said that most of these citations were issued by officers weighing trucks with portable scales on coal haul roads in Eastern Kentucky.

A total of 126 weight citations were issued last month to carriers of other types of freight. Most of these citations were issued, according to Arnold, at the Bureau of Vehicle Regulation, weigh stations located on interstates and other major Kentucky trucking routes.

"The number of overweight coal trucks cited represents a much greater road damage problem than the number of citations issued to carriers of other types of freight," said Arnold.

"The problem is particularly acute in Eastern Kentucky, where loaded trucks carrying between 65,000-80,000 pounds on their trip to market from strip mine sites on the hillside roads which were built to carry loads of no more than 30,000 pounds gross weight."

Arnold cited Bureau of Highways estimates of 20 million damage to the state's roads each year from overweight coal hauling, most of which occurs in Eastern Kentucky.

In addition to the overweight citations, citations also were issued throughout the state during January for violations in the following categories: Authority (for hauling specific commodities), 66 citations; Cab Card (identifies vehicle and show that it is properly permitted and registered), 707; Registration (plate shows gross weight vehicle is allowed to carry), 349; Dimension, 47; KYU (fuel permits), 207; and miscellaneous, 193.

Missouri Prof Guest Lecturer At University

Dr. Howard W. Fulweiler, professor of English at the University of Missouri, is visiting Morehead State University next week as a guest lecturer.

His schedule includes lectures to English classes on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 9:10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. and an 8 p.m. lecture and reading in the Reed Hall Auditorium.

Starting at 9:30 a.m. in Wednesday, Feb. 19, he will be available in the Honors Seminar Room at Johnson Camden Library to talk with students and faculty members.

Dr. Fulweiler's Tuesday night program is open to the public. His most recent publication is "Letters from the Darkling Plain: The Poetry of Hopkins and Arnold."

For the State Capital Agree Or Not I Say What I Think by S. C. VanCuren

It is not the least bit gratifying to see an editorial prediction, or expression of fear, I made in an Oklahoma weekly newspaper more than 36 year ago approach reality.

This was during more than a three-year stint I spent as part owner of a weekly newspaper to answer the stern call to own a weekly and get away from the pressures of the daily newspaper. The beginning of World War II in 1941 ended that, and I have had no desire since that, time to return to the problems of the weekly newspaper.

When the bill, to create the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) went before congress, my editorial comment in a lengthy discussion was "there's a stranger in the woodpile."

My fear then was that TVA would endanger private enterprise by slowly creeping beyond the intent of the bill before congress. The proposal came following the disastrous 1937 flood in the Mississippi Valley. Flood control was the basic intent with hydroelectric power as a by product. The electric power was to be distributed to rural areas where investor-owned utilities could not fiscally afford to serve.

Enabling legislation provided low-cost government loans to the Rural Electric Cooperatives and to TVA to build the generating units and dams for the distribution system.

I did not question the intent of distributing electric power to the rural areas, but my fear was TVA would expand into other fields when this original intent could be accomplished.

Now TVA has stirred up a furor in at least five Southwestern Kentucky counties and some adjoining counties in Tennessee in the Land Between the Lakes (LBL), Barkley and Kentucky Lakes.

TVA asked Trigg County Fiscal Court for formal control, instead of informal control, over some county roads in the LBL area where nobody lives. TVA also wants to control some access roads to the area.

The protestors says they want the LBL control put into the hands of the National Park Service instead of TVA. They say TVA's operation of the area has resulted in "total destruction of the confidence of the people in the integrity of and motives of TVA."

The petitioners also are asking that the General Accounting Office pay particular attention the TVA's electrical rate structure, atomic power plant operations, conservation of woodlands and wildlife, fertilizer permits and production of coal by strip mining.

It looks like the people of that area are dragging their entire arsenal against TVA. There is still some lingering bitterness over the government driving the landowners from the LBL area through a series of condemnation procedures. These lasted for years.

My earlier fears seem to be coming true. I had no objections to the dams for flood control, or for the production and distribution of electricity to the remote rural areas by TVA. Over the years these objectives have been accomplished and the area is much better for it.

There's was a real need for these, but since most of this has been accomplished we have seen TVA and the RECC's encouraging into other areas that could be handled much better by private enterprise or other agencies of federal government.

The recent proposal of TVA to purchase Peabody Coal Company's vast mining business and coal reserves goes far beyond the pale of the original intent that created TVA. We have seen TVA build coal generating plants an atomic generating plants to supply their need for electric power. This was not in the original intent. Hydroelectric power is the by product of the flood control dams as far as they were supposed to go in this field.

Only recently has TVA opened its board meetings to the public. Although TVA is a public financed and government controlled agency.

Now, the people in the TVA and the RECC services areas are raising the loudest howls about the increased cost of electricity because of increased cost of coal. These are adding more Fuel Adjustment Charges to power bills than the other owned utilities, at least in this immediate area.

Having been accustomed through the years to extremely low electric bills in comparison to investor-owned utilities, the TVA and RECC customers are now feeling they are the ones discriminated against. The tables have been turned.

TVA should not be allowed to expand any further.

Geologic Map Of Rowan County Now Available

Two current members and a former member of the Morehead State University geoscience faculty have prepared a new geologic map of portions of Rowan and Fleming counties.

Dr. John Philleby and David Hyibert of MSU and Dr. Harry Hoge, now at Eastern Kentucky University, worked with the U.S. Geological Society to complete a map of the "Cranston Quadrangle," a 50-square mile area north of Morehead. The area involved lies mainly in Rowan County and includes a portion of Fleming County.

The map, No. GQ-128, may be purchased from the Kentucky Geological Survey in Lexington.

Insurance Firm Suspended From Business In Ky.

Harold B. McGuffey, commissioner, Kentucky Department of Insurance, has suspended the Summit Insurance Co., New York, from doing business in Kentucky.

According to an order, the New York Supreme Court has directed that state's superintendent of insurance to take possession of the company and rehabilitate it.

"This means that the company's future is questionable and its stockholders and policyholders could suffer losses," explained Harold B. McGuffey, commissioner, Kentucky Department of Insurance.

"As a result, the insurance department of its home state becomes involved with its major decision making process and attempts to assist them in becoming more stable."

"If the state of New York later determines Summit rehabilitated," he added, "they possibly could be reinstated to do business in Kentucky."

Kentucky statutes authorize the insurance commissioner, at his discretion, to suspend any insurer licensed in Kentucky who has had this action brought against him in another state.

Summit primarily writes property and casualty insurance and has been licensed in the Commonwealth since 1972.

The suspension orders them to cease writing any policies in Kentucky. All licensed insurance agents in the state have been notified of these proceedings.

HAY

There is a possibility that hay will be in short supply in Kentucky before it is time to turn out on grass. If you have more hay than you are going to need, let us know and we will help you move it.

BEEF CATTLE

Dr. Curtis Abert tells us that if you are trying to stretch the winter feed supply of your beef cow herd, one of the best ways is to separate cows which are nursing calves from those which are dry. The feed requirements of a dry pregnant cow are only about 60 per cent as great as those of a cow which is nursing a calf. A dry cow can be fed adequately with 16 pounds of hay per day and supplement Vitamin A.

SEED

This is the time of year that farmers and city dwellers buy seed for planting crops, lawns, gardens and recreation areas. It is important that we know the quality of the seed and the best way to do this is to read the labels on the seed containers. State law requires seed offered for sale to be labeled. Pay special attention to germination and noxious or undesirable weeds contained in the seed.

Many infestation of Johnson grass, Dodder, garlic and other weeds have gotten their start from poor seed. Also, it is important that we select varieties of seed that are recommended for Kentucky. We have a leaflet giving this information available upon your request. "Recommended Crop Varieties for Kentucky - 1975."

STRAWBERRIES

Strawberries should be set out in late February or early March to get maximum growth and runner development. Varieties adapted to this area are: Tennessee Blakely, Blakemore and Pocohontas. Everbearing varieties are: Ozark Beauty and Superfection.

For those who have berries that will be picked this year, an application of 200-300 pounds of 20 per cent phosphate per acre will increase the size of berries that spring. For those who want to order plants, we have some addresses that we will be glad to furnish you.

BUILDING PLANS

Did you know that you can get building plans for most any purpose? Among those available from the University of Kentucky are: Farm Engineering Department, those from tobacco barns, beef structures, dairy structures, greenhouses, water supplies, hay feeding barns and equipment and homes. Over 400 different plans for items ranging from small storage sheds, to barns, to trailers are available through the plan service. They are listed in a catalogue available from the Extension Office. There is a small charge for the actual blueprints depending on how many pages are in each set.

SOIL TEST

Do you know your soil needs to produce maximum yields? A soil test will help you bring yours in at your earliest convenience.

SPRING OATS

For those of you who are sowing oats this spring, the two recommended varieties for Kentucky are: Otis and Jaycee. These varieties are recommended because of their resistance to Barley-Yellow Dwarf Virus often called Red Leaf in oats. It has been a problem in oats for many years.

Wood Best Insulator For Homes

By Neville Shackelford

Since the first days of settlement, Americans have been blessed with trees. From the wood of the tree came shelter, warmth, food, and material for furniture, tools, and vehicles of conveyance. Pioneer babies were rocked in cradles of wood, and it was in boxes of wood that they, their parents, and ancestors were finally buried. Without the abundance of trees and their products this nation, undoubtedly, would have never attained the pre-eminence and greatness it now enjoys.

Even today, with all our brick, stone, plastics, and synthetics, wood is still one of the best construction materials available. Notes Ralph Lewis, Extension forestry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. It ranks among the most beautiful of materials and, according to the National Forests Products Association, the production of lumber requires the least energy consumption and pollution when compared with the production of other common construction materials.

To give an example, it takes only about 430 kilowatt hours of electricity or its equivalent to produce a ton of lumber. A ton of steel requires over six times that amount of energy and a ton of aluminum needs almost 40 times that of wood.

Then, after construction, wood keeps on working to save energy. As an insulator against the cold of winter or the heat of summer, wood is four times more efficient than under block of the same thickness, six times more efficient than brick, 15 times more efficient than concrete or stone, 400 times more efficient than aluminum.

Not only is wood the best natural insulator of any commonly used building material, but its advantages in design of wood-frame construction permit other insulating materials to be used to the best advantage - air spaces and added insulating materials between wood frame. Comparative tests conducted in several states have shown that masonry structures consistently require more fuel to maintain the interior temperature at desired levels. Whether heating in summer or cooling in winter, the tests showed fuel-saving advantages ranging from 18 to 30 per cent.

When it comes to conserving energy and money, wood is a winner. Whether used in the construction of houses or in the manufacture of furniture, it will, if given protection, withstand the wear and tear of generations. Houses built of wood more than a century ago still stand - as sturdy and substantial as ever. There are also furniture pieces and wooden tools in existence that were made in colonial America.

Highly workable and lending itself to a thousand uses, wood has a unique charm and a singular beauty. It is a renewable resource that can be maintained year after year by good forest management. The tree from which it comes filters impurities from the air and releases a surplus of oxygen upon which

Wood is not only versatile, but also vital.

4-H News

The Tildon Hogge School 8th grade 4-H Club held a Valentine sock-hop last Tuesday in the school gymnasium.

A color scheme was carried out in decorations which included red hearts. The event raised $45.40 for the club which plans to use the proceeds for a skating party at Muses Mills, the date which will be announced later.

Subsea Production System

Exxon USA's prototype Submerged Production System is launched from a barge 27 miles southeast of Grand Isle, Louisiana. The unit, designed to produce oil and gas with remotely-controlled, ocean floor equipment, has been lowered to the sea floor in 170 feet of water for an extensive testing period. The test project, representing more than 300 man years of research and development and an investment of $30 million, is presently designed to operate in water depths to 2,000 feet. Objective of the FPS program is to develop a petroleum production system for water depths beyond the economic and technical limits of platforms.

Miss Anderson, Mr. Smedley Wed In Church Ceremony

Miss Deborah Sue Anderson, daughter of W. N. Anderson of Owensboro, and Mrs. William Krayzel of Glen Burnie, Md., became the bride of Jerry Lee Smedley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Smedley of Morehead, in a candlelight ceremony on Saturday, Jan. 18, at 2:30 p.m. in Bellevue Baptist Church at Owensboro.

The Rev. Henry Schaefer of Owensboro officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Organ music was presented by Merrina Melusner of Owensboro. Paula Daniel sang the "Lord's Prayer". The couple exchanged vows at the altar decorated with candelabra and ferns. Pews were lined with pink carnations and bows.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white satin princess style with puffed sleeves, scalloped neckline with a half collar. She had a chapel train of net bordered in daisies. Her only jewelry was a single pearl, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible with baby's breath and white rosebuds. The matron of honor was Mrs. Vickie Edwards of Frankfort. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sherrie Horthley, Elizabeth Brown, and Miss Beth Hale, Owensboro. They wore gowns of burgandy velvet accented with lace and matching veils. They carried white muffs.

Bobby Turner of Morehead served as best man. Usbers were Steve Bumgardner of Morehead, and L. D. Murray of London. A reception was held following the wedding at Baptist Building in Owensboro.

The bride is a graduate of Owensboro High and completed two years at Western Kentucky University.

The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of Rowan County High and is employed with MFA Insurance Company as a claims adjuster. He has been transferred from Owensboro to Bowling Green where the couple is making its home.

MSU Still Has Chance For Berth In Tourney

After a win and loss last weekend, Morehead State University remains in contention for a berth in the Ohio Valley Conference post-season tournament. The Eagles, now 10-11 overall and 3-8 in the OVC, upset league-leading Middle Tennessee on Saturday, 89-85, but lost to Western Kentucky, 99-86 on Monday. MSU jumped out to an eight-point halftime lead against Middle and handed the Blue Raiders their first conference loss in 10 outings and snapped a school record winning streak of 13 straight.

Western Kentucky led by 10 at intermission and held off several MSU rallies to pin the Eagles with their worst loss of the season. Pacific also downed the Eagles by 13 earlier this year.

"We played very well against Middle Tennessee," said MSU Head Coach Jack Schalow. "It was a total team effort. But Western was fired up and played a great game on Monday and we were fighting from behind all night."

With a 3-8 conference record, MSU is tied with Eastern Kentucky, East Tennessee and Murray State for fifth place in the standings. Due to Western's ineligibility for the tournament, the OVC's fifth place team will participate in the tourney on March 7 and 8 in Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Art Johnson and George Williams provided MSU's offensive fireworks in weekend games. Johnson scored 47 points and Williams added 40 and grabbed 24 rebounds. Ted Hundley scored 37 points and picked off 21 rebounds in the two games.

MSU entertains East Tennessee this Sunday and visits Tennessee Tech on Monday.

Lady Vikings Unbeaten In Conference Games

Thursday night the Deming Devils fell victim to the overpowering Rowan County Lady Vikings as they posted a 62-26 victory. This win is the 12th straight victory for the Lady Vikings, leaving them 16-3 overall, and undefeated in conference play.

The Lady Vikings got another fabulous performance from senior guard Jenny Hinton as she hit on 15 of 32 from the field and 7 of 10 from the free throw line to tally 37 points. Hinton also was responsible for numerous Deming turnovers as she stole the ball 11 times. Senior guard Cyndi Fannin showed her value as she stole the ball 18 times to initiate Rowan County's fast break.

Rowan County's front line showed plenty of depth as 38 rebounds were pulled down with Mary Johnson adding 12 points. Aggressive defense accounted for only 9 Deming field goals.

Deming's Teresa Mitchell accounted for 18 of Deming's 26 points as her height and strength outmuscled Rowan County's inside defense.

Rowan County got off to an explosive start as the Vikings outscored Deming 20-4 at the end of the first quarter. Deming got their defense moving as they held Rowan County to 10 points the second quarter.

The Vikings coasted home the second half with strong performances from reserves Linda White, Angie Barker and Verna Johnson.

The Lady Vikings to go into action again with a home game against Menifee County Feb. 24 at the RCHS gymnasium at 7 p.m.

Wrestlers To Compete At University

Collegiate wrestling teams from four schools will converge on Morehead State University this weekend for the Kentucky Intercollegiate Wrestling Championships. Competition begins Friday with weigh-ins at 1:30 p.m. in the Laughlin Hall building. Quarter-final and semi-final matches begin at 6 p.m. at Wetherby Gymnasium. Saturday's schedule includes consolation matches beginning at 9 a.m. with the finals set for 2:30 p.m. Admission is free for all sessions. Wrestlers from MSU, Eastern Kentucky, Georgetown and Northern Kentucky will vie for the state crown. Centre and Kentucky will not participate. "There will be some fine young talent in the tournament," predicted MSU Coach David Beaver. "We hope the fans will support the tournament and come out and see the competition."

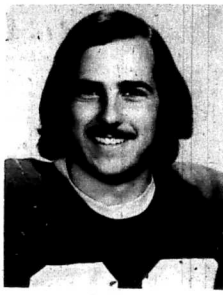

Russell On Academic All-American Squad

Morehead State University placekicker Don Russell has been selected to the first team of the 1974 College Division Academic All-American Football Team. The Louisville senior holds eight MSU kicking records and is the first MSU player to be selected to an Academic All-America squad. Academic All-America selections are sponsored by the College Sports Information Directors of America and the American Heritage Life Insurance Company. To be nominated, an athlete must achieve at least a "B" average (3.0) on a 4.0 scale

District Tourney Opens March 6

The 61 District Basketball Tournament for both boys and girls will get underway in Morehead Thursday, March 6, at Rowan County High School with four teams playing in each of the tournaments. Zane Collins, tournament manager and coach of the Rowan County Vikings, said this is the first time since 1964 that Rowan County has hosted the tournament. He also noted that it will be the first year for a girls' tournament. Collins said only four teams will compete in district play since Ezel has consolidated with Morgan County Schools. Tournament drawings were held last Sunday with Morgan County and Rowan County paired for the first game in the boys' tournament. That game will be played at 8:45 p.m. Thursday, March 6. Menifee County and University Breckinridge will meet at 8:45 p.m. Friday, March 7. The winners of those games will compete for the tournament title at 8:45 p.m. Saturday, March 8. The girls' tournament will see Morgan County and Rowan County in the first round of action at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 6. On Friday, March 7, Menifee County and University Breckinridge will meet. The finals will be played on Saturday, March 8, at 6:30 p.m. Advance tickets at the participating schools are $1.50. Tickets at the door will be $2. Drawings for the 16th Regional Basketball Tournament will be held Sunday, March 9, at Wetherby Gymnasium on the Morehead State University campus. The winners and runners-up of the tournaments on the district level will meet for the pairings at 12 p.m. The 16th Region is comprised of 16 teams in four districts. All of the boys games in the 16th Regional will be played at Wetherby Gym, with the 16th Regional Tournament for girls to be played at Paul G. Blazer High School in Ashland. The regional games will be played the week of March 10.

RCH Defeats Fleming, Upset By Maysville

Continuing to play well away from home, Rowan County High School's Vikings took a close 60-57 decision from EKC rival Fleming County last Friday night. The Vikings built up an 18-point lead late in the third quarter and then fought off a late Fleming County rally to preserve the win, their 14th of the year. Steve Hodges led the Vikings in scoring with 21 points, while Daryl Thompson added 12 and Buck Gilley had 10. Hodges had 9 assists and Thompson grabbed 10 rebounds. Tony Brewer, a fine 6-3 senior forward, took game honors with 23 points for the home team, which is suffering one of its poorer seasons in years with a 12 record. Fleming County is the defending 10th Region Champion. Trailing 55-33 with just under four minutes left, Maysville High's Bulldogs applied a pressure defense, forced six consecutive Rowan County turnovers, and scored 11 straight points on their way to a come-from-behind 71-61 win over the Vikings Tuesday night at Maysville. Rowan County had led 34-31 at the half and 50-48 after three quarters.

but their cold second-half shooting (8 for 24) and their inability to move the ball down the floor spoiled the difference. Keith Skillern, a 6-4 junior forward who didn't play against Fleming County because of illness, scored 18 points and hauled down 13 rebounds to pace the Vikings. Steve Hodges added 13 points, and Daryl Thompson contributed 11. The Bulldogs were paced by senior forwards Kirby Bennett and Willie Walker with 20 and 19 points, respectively, as their record climbed to the 500 mark at 12-12. The Vikings, who have won only five games on their home floor this season, host EKC foe Elliott County tomorrow (Friday) night. The Lions, whom the Vikings have defeated twice already this season, (57-47 and 64-57), are led by 6-5 junior James Ferguson, one of the better "big" men in the region. Rowan County travels to Russell next Tuesday night.

Racing Commission Denies Dates To Two Race Tracks

The Kentucky Racing Commission (KRC) voted recently to deny summer racing dates to Commonwealth Race Course in Louisville and fall racing dates to Lortonia Race Track, near Florence. The action, at the commission's Feb. 5 meeting, is the result of a California felony conviction against Empire Corp., a company closely related to Sportysmens Inc. — the majority stockholder of the two Kentucky tracks. The commission found that such dates would not be in the best interests of racing in Kentucky. According to the resolution adopted by KRC, the trustee was assigned to Sportysmens' Kentucky holdings, it would consider awarding the dates to the trustee. The resolution explained that if a trustee were named, it would have to be a banking institution with assets of more than $100 million and qualified to do business in the state. The proposed dates are June 9-July 11 at Commonwealth and Sept. 3-Oct. 3 at Lortonia. The deadline for issuing racing dates is March 1. Dates for the state's remaining tracks have been approved. Officials of Sportysmens indicated that the decision would be appealed.

Breckinridge Loses 2 Non-Conference Games

The University Breckinridge Eaglets could not get untracked this week and lost two games while barely winning the other by a one point margin. The one win was a big one, as the Eaglets escaped at East Carter in an EKC game with a 38-37 verdict. This kept Breck alive in the tight conference race with an 8-0 record and one game remaining. Bud Lucke led the way with 30 points followed by Jim Morrison and Billy Calvert, who each had 18. Keith Haines added 7, Steve Gilley 6, Louie Magda two, Skip Holley 2, and Tom Boody 1. Lucke had 17 rebounds and Raines 13. The Eaglets shot only 37 per cent from the floor and 63 per cent from the foul line, but outscored their opponents 41-35 while having 8 less turnovers in picking up their 2nd win of the year. Louisville Fern Creek came to town Saturday and gave the Eaglets a good spanking 62-37. Keith Bartlett scored a game high 31 points and seemed to score any time he wanted to against the helpless Breck defense. Micky Sargline and Pat Keene added 30 more points as the Creokers burned the nets for 47 per cent from the floor and 87 per cent from the foul line. Breck could only manage 33 per cent from the floor in dropping their sixth game of the year. Guards Skip Holley and Jimmy Morrison were the only Eaglets able to hit double figures as they picked up 18 and 11 points respectively. Lucke and Gilley added 19 points each while Boody and Calvert added 4 apiece and Raines and Magda 2 each. Morrison was also the top rebounder from his guard position with 11 while no

Track, Swimming, Wrestling Teams Performing Well

Morehead State University's track, swimming and wrestling teams turned in standout performances in recent outings. In track, MSU's Bobby Jones took second place in the 60-yard dash at the Indiana Relays and finished seventh in the triple jump in the Mason-Dixon Games at Louisville. Oscar Jones of MSU placed fifth in the Mason-Dixon high hurdles with a time of 8.6 seconds. In swimming, MSU upped its record to 2-4 with a 71-46 victory over Centre College. Seniors Rick Fuller and Brent Lange broke three pool records. Fuller set new marks in the 1000-yard and 500-yard freestyles with times of 10:53 and 5:18 respectively. Lange was clocked at 2:27 in the 200-yard breast stroke. In wrestling, Morehead State's matmen finished fourth in a field of seven in the Southeastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Championships. Gerry Anthony finished third in the heavyweight class, Mickey Rymek was second at 150 pounds and Mark Harbarger placed third at 142 pounds. MSU is 10-3 on the year and hosts Marshall on Saturday at 3 p.m.

Three Youths Charged In Break-In At Home

Three Morehead juveniles were arrested last Wednesday afternoon and charged in connection with a break-in of a Morehead residence on Monday, Feb. 3.

Morehead Police Chief James Pfeiffer said the three are charged with breaking and entering of the Herb Elman residence at Second and Bays.

Chief Pfeiffer said officers have seized a radio and camera which were stolen from the home, but several other items still are missing, including some old coats, 22-caliber rifle and jewelry.

The youths, two of them 14 years of age and the other 15, are scheduled to appear before Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell at 10 a.m. Thursday (today).

A hearing also is set for Thursday (today) before Judge Caldwell for three juveniles charged with breaking and entering and possession of stolen property in connection with a break-in Friday, Feb. 7, of a business on West Main Street located across from the Ford Garage. The business belongs to Claude James.

These youths were arrested the night of the break-in about 50 feet from the place of business. Chief Pfeiffer said merchandise had been taken from the business to a nearby residence. All of the items were confiscated with exception of a knife, according to Chief Pfeiffer.

The break-in of Allen's IGA on West Main Street on Feb. 3 still is under investigation.

Here are three basic hangups that all normal humans have. You might call this the "Triple-A" technique for winning friends. For when you use these three "A's" - with an understanding of what is behind them, you'll find more and more people automatically warm up to you.

1. Acceptance. Accept people as they are. Allow them to be themselves. Don't insist on anyone being perfect before you can like them. Dress in fashion in a manner that is neat and expect others to wear it in order to gain your acceptance. Above all don't hang on for acceptance. Don't beg in substance. "I'll accept you just as I am" is the best, or change your way to suit me.

2. Appreciation. Look for something to appreciate in the other person. It may be something small or insignificant. But let the other person know you approve that and the number of things you can sincerely approve of will begin to grow. When the other person gets the idea that you are appreciative he will begin to change his behavior so that he will be appreciative of other things.

3. Approval. To appreciate means to raise in value, as opposed to depreciate, which means to lower in value. Let other people know that you value them. Treat other people as if they were valuable to you. Don't keep them waiting. Thank them (give them "special" individual treatment).

Creative Homemaking

Exhaust Fan Clean-Up

A good meal isn't all you whip up in your kitchen. Take, for instance, the cooking odors, smoke, excess heat and grease that you concoct right along with your gourmet treat!

In combating home pollution, your stove's vent hood and exhaust fan gets some pretty heavy use.

To maintain top performance, this essential piece of kitchen equipment should be cleaned regularly. Here are a few easy steps to follow:

1. Read carefully the manufacturer's instructions regarding cleaning.
2. Turn the exhaust fan to the "off" position.
3. Soak all removable parts for ten minutes in new Grease Relief™ and warm water; it's grease-cutting action gets at the sticky grease you can't see. Rinse and let dry.
4. With a wet sponge or cloth and your cleaner, wipe the fan blades, hood and all those hard-to-get-at places. Rinse with a clean sponge and polish with a soft clean cloth. Be certain to keep water away from all electrical wiring.
5. To keep your fan from becoming sluggish, use a drop or two of machine oil in the motor once a year.

Some Unsafe Toys Remain On Market

The Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR) warns toy shoppers that some unsafe items remain on the market.

DHR's Pesticides and Consumer Safety Program, directed by E. Edsel Moore, conducted a two-month survey of children's items, mainly toys, being sold by retail establishments throughout the state. DHR joined the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission in an effort to see if the nearly 1,200 toys banned by the commission were being sold to the public.

"Last year, at least one banned item was found in one out of every five establishments screened," Moore said. "This year, banned item was found in every 47 inspected."

"This illustrates the effectiveness of consumer awareness, better control of the toy industry and distributor channels," he continued.

The survey showed that 346 banned items had been removed from the market, which, according to Moore, eliminates 346 potential injuries to children.

Screening was conducted at the county level by local health department sanitarians and volunteer groups, with local health departments serving as information centers for toy safety tips.

Moore said that efforts will be concentrated on finding potentially dangerous, as well as banned, toys during the next survey, scheduled for October, 1975.

Examples of toys that have been banned are flimsy baby rattles that contain sharp objects and imported toys that hold brightly-colored, but contaminated water.

Moore warns consumers that labeling is not required by toy manufacturers; it is voluntary. Therefore, reading labels to determine if an item is non-toxic or flame-resistant is still one of the most important guidelines for toy shoppers.

"When gifts are purchased, take time to read all instructions and make sure the child understands how to use them," advises Moore. "Proper storage, periodic checks for repair and disposing of any broken or potentially dangerous toys are still the best rules of toy safety for adults and children."

Breck Student Elected State Thespian Officer

Teresa Lynn Logan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Noah Logan has been elected Kentucky State Thespian Treasurer of The International Thespian Society.

The International Thespian Society is an educational organization devoted to the advancement of secondary school theatre.

The Society is comprised of outstanding drama students and teachers from over 3200 affiliated high schools throughout the United States, Canada and the world.

As a State Student Officer, Teresa will work with the other State Student Officers and the State Thespian Director in conducting Society business and promoting Thespians throughout the state. She also will help plan the annual State Thespian Conference and encourage student participation at all State, Regional and International Thespian Conferences.

She served as Assistant Director for the "Curious Savage" and appeared in such productions as "Everybody Loves Opal," "Butterfly Buffet" and "Nobody." She attended the 1974 International Thespian Theatre Arts Conference on the Ball State University Campus, Muncie, Ind., the last week of June, 1974.

Budget Savings
by Ann D. Allen

You don't have to eat your heart out over the big blue food prices any longer. You can get more out of your budget. There are many ways you can save, if you keep these tips, suggested by the American Dairy Association, in mind:

Try foods which require little cooking, such as chicken livers or chicken, since there is little loss of shrinkage and you can save on fuel.

Less costly food items like soups, relishes and salads take the edge off appetites, so you get more servings from the more expensive main dishes.

Save time from roast meat or poultry and a tablespoon or two of vegetables. When you have more summer dishes with water or vegetable juices for soups or stock of live in saucers.

Go back to simple, tasty and inexpensive desserts, such as custard, rice pudding, fluffing, island, blanc manie, tapioca, Bavarian cream, cobblers, fruit crisps, fruit fluffys, gelatin.

When buying fresh food, purchase the smallest size available. If you don't like it, you have less to lose.

Youths Conduct Service At Prison

The Junior Handbell Choir of First Christian Church in Morehead and Dr. Roy Roberson, pastor of the church, conducted the worship services at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Federal Correctional Institution in Lexington. A number of parents of children in the Handbell choir also attended the services. Members of the choir are pictured above being directed by Dr. Roberson. Following the worship service, adults were taken on a tour of a portion of the federal prison, where about 350 inmates from throughout the country are kept. The prison formerly was a federal narcotics facility built 1933-35 and designed to accommodate about 1,000 persons.

SENIOR CITIZEN'S CORNER

PENSION BENEFITS

More than four million retirees and their beneficiaries are now covered by the Pension Benefits Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) under the jurisdiction of the Department of Labor and is empowered to cover 20 million persons plus many self-employed individuals. PBGC's task is to ensure that companies are holding the necessary funds in their retirement plans to pay for benefits due workers. Pension plans are required under the new law to purchase insurance from the agency which covers individuals already retired and those with vested interests. The Corporation is authorized to pay as much as $750 monthly in retirement if a person plan fails for any reason. Companies and unions are required to pay premiums ranging from 50 cents to $1 annually for each individual covered. This far-reaching legislation goes a long way towards removing worker concern about losing pension benefits because of circumstances beyond their control such as bankruptcies and mismanagement of pension funds. One weakness of the law is the seemingly inadequate treatment of pension portability. As the labor force continues to become more mobile, this part of the legislation may require modification.

Remember Experience Does Make The Difference

State Monies Will Match Federal Highway Funds

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has agreed to make $15 million in state funds available to match impounded federal highway funds released earlier this week by President Ford, the governor's office announced today. "This amount, plus $2.5 million we have on hand, will allow us to apply for $70 million of federal money," said Highway Commissioner John C. Roberts. The Bureau of Highways has advised the Federal Highway Administration of its intention to submit formal requests for authorization of projects having a total cost of more than $65 million. Robert's letter to FHWA Division Engineer Robert E. Johnson said this would be done "in the next few days or weeks." The summary given FHWA lists interstate construction projects that will require $30.2 million of federal funds. Also included are primary projects totaling $11.1 million, secondary projects, $6.9 million, urban, $10.5 million, and bridge replacement and railroad crossing protection projects of $2.7 million. Roberts explained that state funds must be used to match federal funds in various proportions. Interstate construction is 9-to-1 federal to state. Other highway construction is 70-30. The President's decision, announced in Topeka Tuesday, required that 80 per cent of the money released be assigned to construction projects and that bids be taken or work started, within 45 days from the date when funds are obligated. Also, federal guidelines suggested special attention to areas of high unemployment, to interstate projects and to safety projects. Roberts said, "We believe the projects we will propose meet those conditions and we look for early approval by federal authorities." While details remain to be resolved, interstate projects will include activities on I-24, I-64 and I-75, as well as the Kennedy Bridge intersection in Louisville. Interstate 24 is the last major interstate route in Kentucky not yet complete and several projects are proposed for it. The Northern Kentucky routes 1-275 and I-471 are not affected by this special program since all sections ready for construction are already underway. Primary projects include US 45, the Mayfield-Lone Oak Road, US 27, Lexington-Paris, US 27, Pine Knot-Tennessee line, KY 55, the Springfield Bypass, US 460, Paintsville-Oil Springs, and US 60, Lewisport-Hawesville. Among urban projects proposed is right of way acquisition on the Jefferson Freeway. The amount sought is $5.7 million. The governor's office said details about these and other projects would be provided by the Bureau of Highways next week.

Governor Discusses Legislature

By Anthony Pearce-Batten
When Julian Carroll succeeded Wendell Ford as governor of Kentucky, the chairmanship of the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) passed from the executive branch to the legislative leadership. Because of a law passed during the 1974 Legislature, the LRC was placed under the co-chairmanship of the House Speaker and President pro tem of the Senate, positions now held by Norbert Blume and William Sullivan respectively. As the last lieutenant governor to be chairman of LRC, Carroll was largely responsible for that action and encouraged the emergence of a stranger, more independent legislature. Now as governor, Carroll remains enthusiastic about a strong legislative branch. "I happen to think the job of chief executive of Kentucky is too big for one man, no matter what his experience, education or intellect might be and thus he needs the assistance of the other branches of government to take care of the people's business," he said. Carroll thinks the LRC has helped improve the legislature by "1,000 per cent" and that state government would benefit from the "scrutiny of legislative evaluation and from legislative input."

Dollars & Good Sense
by William W. Martin
AVOC FINANCIAL SERVICES

Inflation seems to be keeping food prices spiraling upward, making it harder for just about everybody to make ends meet. So, for the next few columns, I'll be discussing ways to stretch your food dollars.

Since most of our food money is spent at the supermarket, that's a good place to begin. The key to an efficient shopping trip is planning. You can chop whole dollars off your grocery bill by checking the market aid, clipping coupons, and making a shopping list. A good shopping list has to be very specific, listing exactly what you need. Don't just list general categories like meat or vegetables. Instead, list two pounds of hamburger, three tomatoes, one head of lettuce, and so on.

And once you get to the store, stick to the list. This is easy as long as you follow a couple of rules. For instance, don't shop when you are hungry. And try to shop alone because husbands and kids have a way of filling the shopping cart with all sorts of needless goodies. And try to plan your shopping trips for early morning or late afternoon when the store is less likely to be busy. Don't just plan in general, take some extra time, but if you can save five dollars by spending an hour planning, it's well worth it.

Readers' questions are welcomed and should be sent to P.O. Box 2210, Newport Beach, CA 92663.

Speech, Debate Teams Capture Tourney Awards

Morehead State University's speech and debate teams captured the second place award in overall competition at last weekend's Old Grey Mare Invitational Tournament in Murray. MSU's team of Wanda Haynes, Somerset sophomore, and Mike Hellard, Versailles senior, won the junior varsity debate championship. Pam Todd, Madisonville senior, and Steve Rohmann, Louisville junior, finished second in the varsity debate division. Miss Todd also finished second in the individual debate competition. In individual speech events, Gary (Rook) Piddgett, Louisville sophomore, was the runner-up in impromptu speaking. Laura Conn, Ashland freshman, was second in after dinner speaking and Susie Keller, Bellevue senior, was third. George Moran, Louisville freshman placed fifth in poetry reading. Coach George (Skip) Coulter's debaters compete this weekend in The Citadel Invitational at Charleston, S.C.

Dress for comfort and save in a sweater.

You can save electric energy and money, AND still be comfortable. It just takes a sweater and clear thinking. When you carefully and thoughtfully set your thermostat to 68 degrees you can almost hear cheers from your pocket book or wallet.

A thermostat set at 68 instead of 75 degrees can save over 20% on your monthly heating bill. So pull the wool over your eyes and save. Call your co-op for saving ideas.

Electricity is the good to waste!

LABOR COMMISSIONER . . . Court of Appeals Judge Marvin J. Sternberg administers the oath of office to George Wagoner, center, as the new acting commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Labor. Gov. Julian Carroll, right, made the appointment Monday. Wagoner replaces James R. Vocum, who has been granted a leave of absence. Wagoner, 55, of Jeffersonville, has served the last 3 1/2 years as deputy commissioner of the department under Vocum.

Art Seminar, Workshop Scheduled At Carter Caves

By Helen Price Stacy

"What's a knife painting?"
"How do you mix that color?"
"What do you mean, no paint on a tissue painting?"

Wherever artists exhibit, many viewers want to know how the paintings are created. Most often, time does not allow an in-depth discussion of mass, form, color, technique, perspective and materials in various steps to a work of art.

As a result of such experiences, Kentucky Heritage Artists—15 of them—are participating in a three-day art seminar, workshop and exhibit March 14-16 at Carter Caves State Resort Park near Olive Hill. Discovering talent, assisting those who want to paint and talking with established artists will be part of the weekend.

Robert Powell, executive coordinator of the program, describes the Kentucky Heritage Artists as a "prestigious" group embodying very diversified talents "as far as technique, ideas, style, media, execution, sophistication and subject areas."
Powell states that for "everyone who has wanted to paint, those who want to know more about painting and art and those who only want to look at art of a painting—the Carter County park is the place to be for this weekend."

Activities are scheduled as follows:

Friday
2 p.m.—registration
3:30 p.m.—acrylics workshop with John Stamper and A. J. May 7:30 p.m.—pastels workshop with Al Cornett and Nellie Meadows

Saturday
9:30 a.m.—drawing and graphics with Doug Adams and Harold Collins
10:30 a.m.—watercolor workshop with Joyce Williams and J. Kim Smith
2 p.m.—oil painting with Russell May and Helen Price Stacy

3 p.m.—general session on exhibits and marketing with Don Ernsor and C.G. Morehead

Special interest groups will gather at 4 p.m. and again at 5 p.m.

A critique session is scheduled at 7 p.m. "This session is purely for instructional purposes," Powell explained, "and anyone registering for the seminar may submit one painting to be discussed by four competent artists."

Powell, who will be assisted in coordinating the program by Tony Oswald of being held especially for the seminar. Reservations may be made directly with Carter Caves State Resort Park or by using the toll free number—1-800-372-2961 from any location in Kentucky. Others wanting to make reservations may dial toll free in Louisville 583-9786, Lexington 252-4913, Covington-Cincinnati 261-2643.

For information about the seminar workshop or advance registration contact Robert A. Powell, Kentucky Heritage Artists, Inc., P.O. Box 878 Frankfort, Ky. 40601, phone 502-223-5752.

UNCLE SAM

One way to look at it is that the strong take it away from the weak, the clever take it away from the strong and the government takes it away from everybody.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

School's "Long Arm" The Eddie, an overrated teen-age like, is built the right on his way home from school. When several parents finally complained to school officials, Eddie was placed on probation.

But what point, his own parents decided to take a hand. Filing a lawsuit against the school, they sought that always the educational problems of kids ought to be handled by the parents, not by the school.

However, the court upheld the prohibition order against Eddie. The court said schools have a "long arm" reaching any misconduct by students, even away from school grounds, they pointed out.

That court also says the educational process, said the judge.

"The test case is not the time or place of the offense, but its effect upon the morale or efficiency of the school."

Still, to justify disciplinary action, the harm to the school must be substantial.

Thus, another court voided the suspension of a high school athlete who had been found at a car containing several bottles of beer.

The bottles were not in the car but he was drinking. And the incident took place during vacation.

The court said there was not enough harm to the educational process to justify the penalty.

In a third case, two students were suspended for publishing an "underground" newspaper, which they had distributed, off school premises.

Evidence in a court hearing indicated that the newspaper did indeed contain criticism of the school. But the criticism was not

1) libelous; 2) inflammatory; or 3) obscene.

The court thereupon lifted the suspension, saying that school authorities had overreacted. They should have been particularly wary, said the court, of infringing the constitutional rights of freedom of the press.

Letters to Lassie

By Rudi Weatherwax, Owner & Trainer

Dear Mr. Weatherwax:

We're eating a lot of turkey these days and we always share dinner with our pet. But they've been having digestion is turkey bad for dogs?

W.C.M.

No, dogs love turkey and it's good for them. But the most turkeys and stuffing from your table may be too highly spiced and the excess fat rich for your pet's digestive system. Also, turkey skin is hard, abrasive and indigestible to dogs. But your dog can still have turkey. There is a roast turkey/battered dinner put out under the Recipe brand that we feed Lassie and our other dogs all year round.

Dear Mr. Weatherwax:

Brandy is a beautiful purchased pup. He cost me a bundle and I worry about losing him. How can I be sure he'll be returned to me if I ever get away?

D.S.T.

Nothing really guarantees a pet's return. He is allowed to roam free - also restricted by traffic, by state neighbors and by other animals. He is endangered by accident, poison, road-kills and herbicides. He can't even get away from current license, tag and an identification tag imprinted with your dog's name and your phone number. Many humane societies also recommend having your pet protected, patented and permanent with a tattoo through a dog tattooing service and national register. This will always be your proof of ownership and identify a definite identification anywhere in the United States.

If you have questions or pet care problems, write to: Lorraine Chapman's All's Pet Farm, Inc. P.O. Box 191 V, Camden, NJ 08101.
