The RANGERS COLUMN

By John R. Hicks

In the early 1800's Mr. Bill Hedges, representative of the United States Forestry Service, visited Morehead. His business was the examination and appraisal of forest land to be acquired by purchase for the formation of a new National Forest in Kentucky.

Last summer Bill Hedges returned to Morehead, and he accompanied the writer along U. S. 50 east of town he indulged in some reminiscences. Recalled was the excellent bill-of-fare at Cecil's Hotel, famed from Huntington to Lexington as the best place in all eastern Kentucky to stop and eat ham and chicken. Recalled also were the muddy trails that passed over roads in Rowan County, and the "sick" look of the landscape, where forest fires had burned the very life from the forests surrounding Morehead.

Now, Mr. Hedges is an outsider. The contrast struck him because he has been away from here for a long time and because he is an observant man. The local residents who have lived here during this span of years remark on the contrast, they frequently do it, and means much to those of us who represent this branch of the Federal Government. We feel that it is our small measure, our meager contribution to this improvement of the natural resources of Rowan County.

The improvement, we realize hasn't come about because the Federal Government, by Act of Congress, and concurrence by the State of Kentucky, established a National Forest in your backyard and furnished the funds to administer it. The success of this venture stemmed from cooperation by the residents of Rowan County. You, as a group, have accepted the National Forest, its policies and its officers. To foster this interest we feel that you should know more about the Forest Service and how it works.

I would like, with your indulgence and the indulgence of Editor Crutcher in a small column in the News each week, telling you something of the way the Forest Service, through the medium of its District Forester, conducts its day-to-day business. The small measure, we feel, is in the News each week, telling you something of the way the Forest Service, through the medium of its District Forester, conducts its day-to-day business. The small measure, we feel, is in the News each week, telling you something of the way the Forest Service, through the medium of its District Forester, conducts its day-to-day business.

The fine balmy weather that made us all so spring-conscious over the week-end of the 9th dried out the forest to the point foresters began thinking about forest fires. Down in Jackson and Beckwells counties on the Rockcastle District which joins this District south of here at the Kentucky River the fire towers were manned both Saturday and Sunday and they fought one fire near Livingston on Saturday. The rain Sunday night alleviated the situation.

The records show that during the past ten years forest fires have burned in this District every month out of the twelve. Winter fires do not cause the damage that spring and summer fires do, for they generally do not kill the timber, but they often travel faster.

We have made about 50 railroad cross-ties averaging about 125 ties to the sale here in Rowan County since July 1. Ray Fraley, our townman at Triangle Tower, has marked most of these sales. The trees to be cut are blazed and stamped "U.S." at breast height and below stump height with branding hatchets.

There are more sales of this kind in Rowan County than in all the other counties in the District put together. This is, by and large, a salvage operation. The policy is to mark for cutting those trees that have been damaged by fire or otherwise, also trees of poor form and inferior species, and those that show little possibility of attaining sawtimber size. The market today will accept and pay good prices for any species of timber from poplar and basswood. On most of these sales the buyer cuts his trees and hews out the ties by hand just as his forefathers did when the county was first settled. Such sales benefit the forest by removing inferior timber and benefit the forest residents by providing a means of cash income when farming is slack.

Ken Pomeroy, former Project Forester here, stopped by the office last week en route to his station at Franklin, Virginia on the edge of the Dismal Swamp. He had his family in the car and he had about an hour's jump on the moving van transporting his household goods - to their new home, so he couldn't stay long. This outfit hates to see Ken leave Kentucky and the writer gathered from Ken's remarks that he hates to leave himself.

Good Roads Federation To Keep Watchful Eye On All Expenditures Of Road Funds

Kentucky's road fund administration and expenditures will be kept under close scrutiny by former officers and directors of the Kentucky Good Roads Federation. It was announced today by Len B. Shouse, Federation President, after a series of meetings of directors that have considered many suggestions that the Federation be continued.

Kentucky highway leaders, in urging that the Federation continue active have pointed out that the overwhelming ratification of the November Amendment to the State Constitution has constituted a mandate from the public to the state's legislative and administrative officers to see that the expenditure of road money is a careful, wise, efficient, and non-partisan manner to the end that the whole state, both urban and rural, will receive the greatest possible benefit from the postwar highway financing program. The Federation was told that its work had only begun, and that it should continue as a public "watchdog" over

FFA News

The F. F. A. Chapter of the Morehead High School had a party for the first four grades. The party was held on a Mexican Christmas. There were four bags of gifts tied on a rope in the middle of the floor and swung from the wall. The children would take sticks while blindfolded and try to burst the sacks. When they burst the sacks, the gifts would fall to the floor and the children would then run and get them to a gift. The party was considered by the Home Ec Class to be quite a success.

A GOOD SCHOOL LUNCH

By Joy McGuire, F. H. A. Club Member

Doctors, dietitians and school authorities are all vitally concerned with the fact that many children do not get adequate lunches. And yet upon proper food depends not only their future health, but also their present health, cheerfulness and even report cards!
Lunch to provide what all growing children need should include a hot dish, milk in some form, and fruit. This should be substantial but easy to digest. This is true whether they eat at home or at school.

A good school lunch is essential to health, happiness, and yes report cards. Are you eating the right kinds of food?
Our school lunch committee has worked hard, striving to get the children of Morehead Consolidated School and other schools to realize the importance of a good school lunch to their health. A lot of the children have changed their eating habits. Our surveys show that, yet there are so many who are still eating wrong. We are proud of the ones who have changed to a good school lunch and are still consistently working on the problem of school lunches.

Morehead High Beats Haldeman, Alummi, Bethel During Week

By EARL ALDERMAN
The Morehead High Vikings annexed their third victory of the week by trouncing Haldeman at Haldeman last night 27-11. It was the Green and White's second win this year over the Leopards.
Cox dropped in two long ones to start the Vikings on the way to victory and they were never headed. Sturgill made eight of Haldeman's points, but his contribution was not enough to keep his team in the running.
The Bethel High School five fell before the Vikings 31-23 here Friday, in a game in which Cox and Stewart did not enter the line-up. The Vikings other victory of the week was over a good alumni team 22-19.

In this game the proteages of Telford Gevedon and Fred Caudill put-up their best performance of the year.

Corn Yield On Fall Farm Is More Than Trebled

"I produce about as much corn on six acres now as I formerly did on twenty," says Leland S. Hall, supervisor of the Rowan County Soil Conservation District. These increased yields, he continues, are the results of using lime, phosphate, mixed fertilizers, hybrid corn and following a four-year rotation consisting of corn or tobacco, burley, and two years of meadow. The extra acre not used for corn are now in winter grain, meadow or pastures.

Farmers are learning to increase burley tobacco yields up to a ton per acre in only a few years by following well known soil fertility building practices. Hay and pasture yields are also being increased in this area and through these close growing crops which cover the soil and form sods, much valuable top soil is being conserved.

Lipstick is something that gives an added flavor to an old pastime, says Gromman.

Willis Asks Closing Of Burley Marts

Governor Terms Conditions On Kentucky Floors "Dangerous"

Kentucky burley tobacco markets, where "dangerous conditions" exist, were requested by Gov. Simon Willis in an emergency proclamation yesterday to halt sales immediately and remain closed until the cause of slumping prices can be determined and remedied.
The governor issued the proclamation declaring "a public emergency exists" in the state's vast burley marketing system after Kentucky's House of Representatives today thundered unanimous approval of a resolution calling on him to take steps to close all burley markets.

Lack Of Authority Cited
The proclamation was issued shortly after Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit had advised the governor he lacked authority to order a sales holiday, but had the power to request the sales stoppage. Dummit recommended the request and expressed belief warehousemen in the state would comply with it.
Willis asked the warehouses to remain closed until "the dangerous conditions described by the House of Representatives may be corrected by appropriate action" by Congress, the U. S. Department of Agriculture or the General Assembly.

The action came when the statewide average market price for burley had tumbled from the $48.13 prevailing on opening day of the sales season to $38.33 yesterday.

Virginia May Act
At Richmond, Gov. Colgate W. Darden Jr., of Virginia, said today he would be glad to join Willis in a move to try to halt the falling prices of burley. "I will do whatever I can to help," Darden said.

Willis declared in his proclamation that the House resolution cited "numerous requests" made by burley growers "for relief from existing conditions of marketing."
"Apprehension exists that violence and bloodshed might result through efforts of the producers of burley tobacco to correct by force the conditions of which complaint is made," the proclamation further states.
Dummit advised the governor that the General Assembly could order a sales holiday or could delegate power to the governor to do so, but he pointed out, the assembly had not taken either step, and said all the governor could do was to make the request.

"It is regrettable that the General Assembly has adjourned without conferring this authority upon you," Dummit added, referring to the adjournment today until 8 p. m. Monday.

team, provided Mayhall, the only non-veteran, can come through by tournament time. He left little doubt of his rebounding, shooting and floor game Tuesday night.
In the bitterly and sometimes rough college match, the teams see-sawed for the first ten minutes before the Eagles managed to get about 18-7. Louisville came back to take a 20-17 half-time lead.
The Sea Cards were apparently off to a run-way as the second half opened, quickly taking a 27-18 lead. But Morehead came back to narrow it to three points. Then Louisville started hitting and the Sea Cards moved ahead 40-28. The Eagles retaliated with eight consecutive points to make it 40-36, but could not quite make the grade against the high-ranking U of L club.

UNSAVORY! Kentuckians Won't Like This, But It's True Just The Same

KENTUCKY, queen of the South 50 years ago, would be happy to let the following "achievements" fade into the dark past with the passing of the old year: Thirty-four per cent of her farms are valued at $300 or less; 24 per cent are not served by improved roads; 97 per cent have no "inside plumbing." A third of her school-teachers receive less than $12 a week (on a year-round basis); 47 per cent of her school-age children are not enrolled in schools; the state ranks 46th in length of time pupils attend school of the state's 5,914 schools, 3,838 are one-room buildings and 853 are two-room buildings. The state ranks 47th in literacy and 48th in the percentage of population 25 years old or older who have completed four years of high school.

Seven out of every 10 Kentucky youngsters have poor posture or other defects attributable, in part, to malnutrition and poor health practices.

No public water supply is available in 33 Kentucky communities (with populations of 200 to 3,000).

No pasteurized milk is available in 45 counties.

Almost 66 per cent of Kentucky's communities are wholly dependent on truck service - but its highways rank 48th in the nation's poorest, and its load-limits are notoriously low.

Kentucky ranks 46th in the number of employees per patient in mental hospitals. Louisville Courier-Journal

Propose That August 4 Be U.S. Holiday

Bills Introduced in Congress Marking It Official End of War
A bill to declare August 14 the "Armistice Day of World War II" has been introduced in both houses of Congress at the request of the American Legion.
August 14 is the date on which Japan surrendered to the United States.
Sen. Ernest McFarland (D) of Arizona, presented the measure in the Senate while Rep. Raymond S. Springer (R) of Indiana, a veteran Legionnaire, introduced it in the House.
"We in the American Legion have been thinking considerable thought to the coming Armistice Day (November 11) and its observance," the Legion told McFarland and Springer in a letter over the signature of Col John Thomas Taylor, its director of legislation.
"This has naturally led to consideration and discussion of a proposition before the Legislature which would be in the nature of an Armistice Day for World War II veterans. This discussion has convinced us that the date of August 14 is the most fitting date for such a holiday and we are accordingly recommending that the date of August 14 be declared a national holiday."

Womens County Has Complicated Situation in Judge's Race
The agreed order of two candidates contesting office for the office of county judge of Menifess County has been declared unconstitutional by state authorities. Neither one of the two candidates in the November election secured a majority of votes for the office. The candidates were J. R. Little, Republican, and Charles E. Gorman, Democrat.
According to the Governor tomorrow, as to the returns, Little secured a majority of six votes. Mann petitioned for a recount and his request was granted. During the recount there were some 200 ballots that the names were not removed from and these, on the cast side, and the candidates agreed to stop the count and accept a split term. Little is to serve the first two years and Gorman the last two years. Mann Willis said that there could not be a split term before the agreement was made. With the 200 questioned ballots not counted, Mann would have won by 2 votes. As a matter of fact, Mann did not receive a commission and, therefore, Judge Elmer McGlothlin is to serve the term until the situation is cleared up.
Judge McGlothlin informed the writer today that he is preparing to resign and will submit it to the Governor this week. As to whom the Governor will appoint, he will probably be Mr. Little, but the appointment will only be until the next general election, when a new judge will be elected.
Judge McGlothlin is accepting a position with the American Legion in the city of Memphis in a large territory. Sentinel-Democrat.

The Army said 28,866 wives and children had been processed up to December 20.
All British wives and their children will be processed through the U. S. Army port at Southampton. Frank Wright, Negro, was held in the county jail here today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to rob G. E. Perry, Owingsville druggist, at the latter's home on High Street, on the night of December 31.
According to information available here, Perry, who was returning shortly after ten o'clock and drove to his home in his automobile. Lord Haw Haw Hanged For High Treason, Thursday

William Joyce, a Brooklyn Irish lad who became the scar-faced and snarling Lord Haw Haw of the Nazi radio, was hanged for high treason on the gallows of Wandsworth Prison January 3.
The traitor who once taunted Britain by radio trembled as he walked across the prison yard to the gallows, but he refused assistance. Dressed in a blue suit, he stood quietly on the trap door while executioner Albert Pierrepoint put the hangman's noose around his neck.
At midnight Joyce finished a game of chess with his guard. He went to sleep and apparently slept soundly until 6 a. m. When he awoke, he was hanged but did not shave.
The traitor's wife said farewell to him shortly after dawn, then was returned to her own cell at Holloway Prison. She was captured with him at Flensburg, Germany, last May 28. His brother, Quintin, and a sister also paid him a good-bye call.—Courier-Journal.

96,000 Traffic Deaths Estimated For 1945

An estimate that 1945 accidents caused 96,000 deaths, about 1,000 more than 1944 mishaps, came today from statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.
They attributed the increase entirely to the rise of motor vehicle fatalities following the end of gasoline rationing.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Favor Vets in Home Building; Act to Admit War Refugees Into U.S. Under Immigration Laws

Released by Western Newspaper Union

WESTERN NOTE: While relations are expected to improve, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of its reporters.

Transportation was among vital services impaired during Buffalo's worst snowfall in history, with more than 50 inches falling within a three-day period.

BUILDING:

Vets will have first call on all home construction of $10,000 or less under the administration's reconstruction building program designed to relieve the acute housing shortage.

Before a contractor will be able to put up a building, he will have to submit plans to the Federal Housing Administration, which will then make a check to see that the selling price is in line with costs.

FOREIGN MINISTERS:

Moving slowly toward agreement in the give-and-take of diplomatic exchange, the Big Three of world politics—the U. S., Britain and Russia—drew up a formula for the settlement of European peace treaties.

Under the compromise pushed by U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes, France will be asked to participate in the composition of a peace treaty with Italy, while the Big Three will deal with Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

IMMIGRATION:

In going on record against pending congressional legislation forbidding immigration, President Truman ordered the admission of 39,000 refugees annually within existing quotas of 133,070, of which Britain and Elze get half.

At the same time, the President asked the secretary of state and attorney general to arrange for a retention here of war refugees presently situated at a relocation camp at Oswego, N. Y., rather than have them returned to their native countries for formal application for re-entry to the U. S. as immigrants.

When they were brought to this country, President Roosevelt declared that they would be sent back to their homelands after the end of the war.

In announcing his immigration program, Mr. Truman pointed out

Rationing On Tires Ends, But Very Few Tires

Motorist May Not Get Adequate Supply Until Latter Part of Year

That the lifting of tire rationing Jan. 1 will not mean much, if anything, to car owners for a long time to come, was the unanimous opinion of Cincinnati tire distributors Friday.

"The situation will be exactly like what existed during the cigarette shortage," the distributor said.

Friday no distributor had a tire in his warehouses. Most retailers indicated there were not enough certificates issued by OPA.

Danger Over

Lifting of tire rationing was announced by OPA at Washington Thursday. The decision was based on the "considered opinion" that there no longer was any danger of a transportation breakdown.

Both the OPA and the Civilian Production Administration emphasized, however, that despite a big increase in tire production all motorists will not be able to buy new casings for some time.

"A plentiful supply of tires is not in sight for several months, perhaps all of 1946," John D. Small, CPA administrator, said.

power shortages and the six-hour day issue contributes to the supply problem, manufacturers indicated.

Diphtheria Fatal To Child At Preston

Binnie Jean Ford, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ford of near Preston, died at the home of her parents Thursday, December 20, after a two-day's illness of diphtheria.

Following a private funeral conducted at the residence by the Rev. George C. Frey, she was buried in the Kendall Springs Cemetery Friday afternoon, December 21.

ROWAN COUNTY NEWS 7 Thursday, December 18, 1946

factory minds a spare tire. While sidewall tires will continue to be banned. Tire export restrictions also will be continued, OPA announced.

The fact that OPA has issued throughout the United States approximately 22,000,000 certificates more than there are tires available gives a pretty clear picture of the tire situation, one manufacturer said.

Akron manufacturers pointed out that there now is approximately 24,000,000 cars in the United States. This means 96,000,000 tires. Even if the tire production jumps to 12,000,000 tires for the next quarter there still will be a great shortage as statistics and records show that one tire goes bad every three months.

According to Bowles, the 1945 production will total about 28,000,000 passenger tires, an increase of 64 per cent over the 1944 output. Production for 1946 is forecast at 66,000,000 passenger tires. This is 13,000,000 more than ever made before in this country, Bowles indicated.

Bowles described the outlook for production of truck and bus tires brighter than for passenger tires.

To Honor Certificates Tire rationing certificates in the hands of motorists will continue to be honored by dealers through Dec. 31. No new certificates will be issued after Friday, except in emergency cases.

"A Look at the Books" OR "A Finger in the Pie"?

Which is the UAW-CIO really after? Is it seeking facts—or new economic power? Does it want to know things—or run things?

These questions concern you as well as General Motors.

For years the facts about General Motors have been made public.

In spite of this, the UAW-CIO demands a chance to look at our books, with the hint that we could meet Union demands "if the truth were really known."

We have firmly declined to recognize this as a basis for bargaining:

1. The Full Facts are Published

How much General Motors takes in each year—how much it pays employees—how much it pays to stockholders—how much it pays in taxes—how much net profit to make—and many other facts are plainly stated in annual reports and quarterly reports.

These are broadcast to 425,000 stockholders from coast to coast—on newspapers and libraries. Additional copies are free for the asking.

2. All Figures are Thoroughly Checked

Every General Motors annual statement is audited by outside auditors. Similar figures are filed with the Securities & Exchange Commission.

Does the UAW-CIO honestly believe that General Motors would or could deceive these experts?

3. Basis of Collective Bargaining is Defined

The Wagner Act lays down the rules for collective bargaining. These cover such areas as rates of pay, hours of work, working conditions.

No mention is made of earnings, prices, sales volume, taxes and the like. These are recognized as the problems of management.

4. Something New has been Added

The obvious fact is that the UAW-CIO has gone beyond its rights under the law—and is reaching not for information but for new power—not for a look at past figures, but for the power, to sit in on forecasting and planning the future.

A "look at the books" is a clever catch phrase intended as an opening wedge whereby Unions hope to pry their way into the whole field of management.

It leads surely to the day when Union bosses, under threat of strike, will demand the right to tell what we can make, when we can make it, where we can make it, and how much we must charge you—all with an eye on what labor can take out of the business, rather than on the value that goes into the product.

5. This Threatens All Business

If the Union can do this in the case of General Motors, it can do it to every business in this land of ours.

Is this just imagination? Union spokesmen have said, "The Union has stated time after time that this issue is bigger than just an ordinary wage argument, that it is bigger than the Corporation and bigger than the Union."

For Labor Unions to use the monopolistic power of their vast membership to extend the scope of wage negotiations to include more than wages, hours and working conditions is the first step toward handing the management of business over to the Union bosses.

We therefore reject the idea of a "look at the books" not because we have anything to hide but because the idea itself hides a threat to GM, to all business, and to you, the public.

GENERAL MOTORS "MORE AND BETTER THINGS FOR MORE PEOPLE"

Model Plane-Making Grows Into Big Industry

Because it boasts three million anxious practitioners, model airplane building today is the nation's No. 1 hobby and, under the impetus of war-stimulated aviation, it still is spreading like a raging grass fire.

Launched on a rubber band, the model plane sport today is becoming highly technical with gas-powered creations bigger than their youthful creators competing for space with their full-scale big brothers.

Of warlike pretensions, the little engines turn up as high as 8,000 revolutions per minute, and can thrust such head-on planes over top logs at better than 80 miles per hour. Long-range designs have flown as far as 300 miles, have stayed aloft as long as 12 hours.

Even jet-propelled models have made their appearance.
