

CE STEWART PRESIDES

Second Senior Seminar On Discipline Held For Student Teachers Here

The second senior seminar on the topic of classroom discipline has been held in Button Auditorium. The seminar was for all students who were completing their student teaching during the first semester of the year for those who are planning to be student teachers during the second semester.

In addition to the student teachers, all supervising teachers at the Breckinridge Training School and those from the Rowan County High School and Grade School were in attendance. Also, all the college students in the student teaching program, for a total of 250.

Setting was presided over by Lawrence R. Stewart, of the Division of Professional Education. President Stewart presented a series of papers on the topic of discipline and received much good feedback from the students. The speaker was Miss Margaret A. Stewart, Director of the Division of Professional Education and the Department of Education. She discussed ways of securing good class and interest and teachers should strive to find the methods which will be effective for use at different times and with the many different kinds of personality traits found in any classroom.

She strongly emphasized good discipline and the necessity in providing for effective living and learning conditions.

Mr. Russell Boyd, principal of Rowan County High School, also made a very interesting talk on the topic of discipline in the high school and ways school principals can assist teachers with this problem.

A symposium on the topic was given by six seniors who had just completed their student teaching.

They were Miss Patty Clay, Miss Lynn Crawford, Miss Kay Irwin, Miss Leita Kneller, Bruce Howard and Gary Neil Hooper. Each discussed discipline problems he or she had encountered in student teaching and the various methods used to overcome these problems. Time did not permit general discussion questions from the audience as provided for in the program. Miss Combs gave a splendid summary of the meeting, complimenting all those who participated in or planned the program as well as those in attendance who were attentive and vitally interested. Another meeting on this topic is to be held next year.

Portuguese Political Prisoner To Be Heard On Local Station

Rev. Lemaster Featured On WMOR Program

The Rev. Edwin LeMaster will be the featured guest on a special series, "Angola Report," to be broadcast locally by radio station WMOR. He was one of the mis-over WMOR. It will be a part of the daily devotional program, "Today With God," regularly heard at 12:30 p.m. "Angola Report" begins a series of several presentations focusing on the work of the church around the world.

Rev. LeMaster is a graduate of Ashbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. The Today With God program is produced by Ashbury Seminary and has been carried by WMOR since January, 1961.

Homecoming 1962!

Homecoming Day in 1962 will be Oct. 12. The Athletic Council, in session Jan. 17, approved the 1962 Morehead State College football schedule and Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tenn. has been selected as the homecoming opponent.

Alumni official personnel suggest that alumni and friends of the college begin now making plans for the day's activities. Homecoming has been increasingly better attended in the past few years and school officials believe that this year's day will be an even more outstanding one.

President Adron Doran pointed out that with this early announcement of the homecoming date, organizations on the campus will have an opportunity to plan before the spring term is over the part they will play in the day's activity. Last year's parade featured more and better floats than in any history.

ROUTE 60 TO BE WIDENED

Student Council Sign Project Is Delayed

By Roger Dixon

When East Men's Representative Pat O'Rourke first made the motion for a sign to be erected on the corner of College Boulevard and Route 60 diagonally across from Jerry's Drive-In, he had no idea the problems which would confront him as the work to erect the sign would go on.

When O'Rourke first proposed on Jan. 13, that the sign be constructed he had little information concerning it to present before the Student Council who would sponsor the sign. Therefore, he had to meet with his fellow classmates, Ted Byman and Larry Dales, and work out all the details before he could again present it before the council. At the Jan. 24 meeting of the Council, O'Rourke was armed with all available information and again presented his plan to the group. This time it was received with open arms, and the council voted to erect the sign if the necessary funds could be raised.

At this time O'Rourke put forth the plan of having the students donate a dime each towards the construction of the sign.

Students Respond.

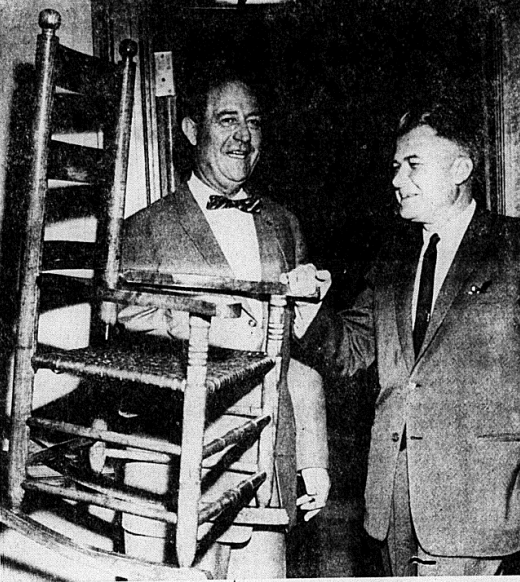

The student body appeared to like the idea, and they gave $70 for the sign's construction. O'Rourke was pleased with this donation from the students and said that it was a "fine response to the project and it was very good considering the fact that the drive was only three days long." Of course, this wasn't enough money to cover such a cost as would arise out of building such a sign as this, but this problem was soon overcome as the school offered to pay the difference.

Now, things seemed to be going a little better for all concerned, the money problem was solved, the sign had been designed and problems concerning it had all been solved, and the Building and Grounds Department was going to erect the sign for the council.

However, the near to final blow has hit the sign workers. With everything ready for the go ahead from the college, the State Highway Department let out some information which threw the old fashioned money wrench into the work. They were planning to widen Route 60, and until they had decided exactly how much they were going to extend the width of the road, the sign would have to wait.

When this final problem is solved, the location of the sign will be definitely settled, and the long awaited project will be able to get underway. Therefore, with a little patience, Morehead students will see a group of men running around working to put up a four-by-eight sign across from Jerry's which will present the college to visitors driving through Morehead.

DR. DORAN AND GOVERNOR BERT T. COMBS are holding a rocking chair made by the arts and crafts operation at Jackson which is now in Dr. Doran's office. The Morehead president saw the chair in Gov. Combs' office, liked it, and the Governor sold it to him for nine dollars, the price the Governor had paid. Gov. Combs has since purchased a new rocking chair for his office.

MEN IN UNIFORM

Alumni In The Service

Army Pvt. Donald Ison, a 1961 graduate of Morehead State College and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ison, Jackson, Ky., completed the eight-week training at the Reserve Forces Act program at the Armor Training Center, Fort Knox, Ky., Jan. 18.

Ison received instruction in operating and maintaining Morse code equipment and field radio and was trained in Army radio producers.

The 22-year-old soldier entered the Army in August 1961 and completed basic training at Fort Knox. He is a 1957 graduate of Jackson City High School.

Army Pvt. Larry L. Wright, a former student of MSC and son of Mrs. Mary Wright, Salt Lake, completed the eight-week typing and clerical procedures course at the Armor Training Center, Fort Knox, Ky., Jan. 19.

Wright entered the Army in August 1961 and completed basic training at Fort Knox. The 24-year-old soldier was graduated from Owensville High School in 1955.

Army Pvt. John M. Stallard, a 1961 graduate of MSC, whose wife, Patricia, lives at 2133 Riverside Drive, Dayton, O., completed the eight-week clerical and typing procedures course at the Armor Training Center, Fort Knox, Ky., Jan. 19.

Stallard entered the Army last August and completed basic training at Fort Knox.

The 24-year-old soldier is a 1955 graduate of Whitesburg High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Stallard, live in Ermine, Ky.

Major Duerson H. Barnes, a graduate of Morehead and son of Mrs. H. E. Profit of De Land, Fla., is being assigned to Lockbourne AFB, Ohio, following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for missile guidance control officers at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Major Barnes received instruction in the radio inertial guidance of the Titan missile. The major entered the service in 1941. He and his wife, the former Alma L. Barnard of Mt. Sterling, have two children, Dan and Diane.

Morehead Alumni Scholarship Funds Given

A contribution of $50 to the A. Y. Lloyd Scholarship Fund has been received by Morehead State College from Alton S. Payne, class of 1959. Payne is a Winchester attorney.

The Lloyd Scholarship was begun

by Payne and two other attorneys, Elijah M. Hogg, class of '37, and Earl Dean, former student of Morehead State Teachers College. Hogg is a Morehead attorney and Dean is currently practicing in Harrodsburg.

Lloyd, now Adjutant General of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, is a former government professor at Morehead and was advisor to the three attorneys during their undergraduate days.

Breck In Brief

Charles L. Jones recently joined the Breckinridge Training School faculty as mathematics supervising teacher. He comes to Morehead from the Northern Township, Morrow County. Jones earned both his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Morehead State College.

Donald F. Holloway was called to Huntington, Ind., in mid-January due to the death of a sister-in-law, Mrs. Helen Holloway. Holloway supervises speech and dramatic activities in the school curriculum.

Mrs. Virginia Rice, education chairman of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs participated in a two-day conference of the federation at Lexington on Jan. 25-26.

Murrow Wicker assisted in teaching Mrs. Rice's home economics classes during this time.

Students entering Breckinridge for the second semester are Charles H. Castle, Linda Melton, Burnell Blair, Eddie Lemaster, Connie, Mary Alice and Melinda Graves.

During January three students withdrew to attend out-of-state schools: Jimmy Grayson of River side, Calif., and Joni and Bobby Johnson to Lake Worth, Fla.

The high school assembly programs in recent weeks have featured safety and a ski depicting Student Council emphasis for the new semester.

Howard Adams, Jr., field representative of the Department of Public Safety addressed the assembly on Jan. 18 with the topic "Driving Safely." He also presented the film, "Kentucky's Society of Touring Safely."

Sponsoring this program was the Girls' Athletic Association, under the direction of Mrs. Nan K. Ward, supervising teacher of health, physical education and recreation. On Jan. 25, Dale Bots, president of the Breckinridge Student Council presented all council members who set forth the council plans for student appreciation day, teacher appreciation day, switch courtesy day, religious emphasis week, better dress week and student government day being scheduled for the second semester.

The Ludlow Stamp party given by the Future Homemakers Chapter of Breckinridge for the visiting basketball team, cheerleaders and sponsors in January was a huge success.

Special features included table games, record top contests, a floor show, a balloon dance and refreshments. Bill Whitaker, Jr. of radio station WMOR was emcee for the occasion.

Approximately 100 students and faculty were in attendance.

At regular intervals from among the art classes at Breck, one student is selected the artist of the month. The honor for January goes to Jim Bob Laughlin for his oil painting on canvas of "Graveyard at Sunnybrook." This 8" x 24" painting is on display in the Breck-inridge lobby.

The annual road trip is a highlight of the year for the school's basketball team and cheerleading squads. This year the trip is scheduled for Feb. 8 and 9 to Cumberland and Whitesburg in southeastern Kentucky.

Accompanying the troupe will be Coach John E. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Whitaker.

BY SPEECH GROUP

Campus-Wide Radio Station Is Planned

A campus-wide radio station, operated as a service to MSC students is now in the planning stages at Morehead State College.

Plans for the proposed station to be operated under supervision of the speech department at Morehead began in earnest with the completion of the new classroom building. The new building houses studio facilities intended for workshop activities in the speech department.

Brent Fry, speech instructor, said that the new facilities, studios, turntables, recording equipment, microphones, and a mixer could be very easily put to use to start a radio station for the entire campus.

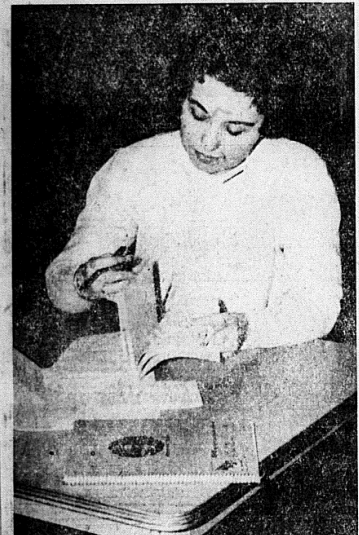

Another force in the proposal is a student, David Henderson, a sophomore from Washington, D. C. Henderson has had radio experience on WAVA in Washington. The station has donated equipment for the use of the new MSC station from WAVA.

Also in connection with the new station is a proposed radio workshop course to be included in the curriculum of the speech department. Mr. Bangham will instruct this course in the techniques of radio.

Dr. Duncan, Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts said that this proposed radio station would not be restricted to speech majors or speech students. While it would not be a disorganized affair or a playing in the hands of a few students, it would be completely operated by students under the supervision of the speech department.

Many possibilities for the station can be seen readily. The broadcast of events such as concerts, lectures, ball games, and many other campus activities would be possible. The station will also offer disc jockey shows of classical, jazz and popular music.

Arrangements have been made with the Federal Communications Commission to broadcast an area that would adequately cover all parts of the MSC campus. Time of broadcast has been set tentatively from 2 p.m. until 11 p.m. The station has already contacted the Intergovernmental Broadcasting System, a network of college radio stations for affiliation with that system.

LONG-RANGE PLANS—This young lady is double checking the catalogue to make sure she will be able to graduate in four years. Required courses come first!

Photographer's Work Is Not All Play

"Photo by Jim Edwards." These simple words have appeared on hundreds of glossy pictures which have been shown in various publications ranging from the Trail Blazer to some national magazines.

Edwards, a second semester senior who is majoring in business administration, is the main photographer for the college and may be seen at all times of the day "shooting" pictures for the Bachelor, Trail Blazer, or for general release shots from the Public Relations office.

His is a diversified job, which is not always the stereotype photographer's dream world of posing beautiful girls lined up priming to have their pictures taken. While working at Morehead, Edwards has taken shots ranging in content from "holes in the ground" to Calendar Girls.

A transfer from the University of Kentucky, Edwards is well qualified for his post as the official campus shutterbug. He stated that he had been interested in photography for many years (eight to be exact) and has been learning new techniques ever since he took his first picture.

Originally he started developing an interest in the camera business when his parents bought a small developing kit while he was in the eighth grade. He started printing up his own pictures and grew to like it so well he developed it into a lifetime hobby.

From this small developing kit Edwards went on to bigger and better kits and began taking more elaborate pictures. When he was in high school he took sports shots and other various pictures for the school. During his senior year he was the staff photographer for his annual at Ashland Senior High School.

After graduating from Ashland High, he went to the University where he didn't engage in any major photography work as he decided to concentrate on his studies. However, when he came to Morehead he again took up photography full force as he was offered the job by the college.

"Also," said Edwards, "I'm working at something I like, and there's nothing better than that for any person. I am, at the same time, learning all sorts of new methods of photography as the pictures I have to take are never the same. This job is one which is far from dull as new problems and challenges are continually popping up."

Taking a great interest in his work, Edwards keeps a display case beside his office in the basement of the Administration Building where he shows off his best shots of the week. He feels that by doing this he can advertise his work and can also show the students a little of what is occurring around the campus.

Picture plans for Edwards are relatively simple as he plans to continue his work in the business administration field, while at the same time continuing his picture taking as a hobby. At the same time he feels that his status as an amateur photographer has been dropped as his hobby has turned into a job — even though it is an enjoyable one.

"Al Stewart is an outstanding author and poet who has a keen insight and understanding of his man nature," added President Doran, "and we are pleased that his volume of poems could be published by the Morehead State College Press."

THE MANY LOVES OF THORWALD DOCKSTADER

When Thorwald Dockstader—sophomore, epicure, and sportsman—first took up smoking, he did not simply choose the first brand of cigarettes that came to hand. He did what any sportsman, epicure, and sportsman would do: he sampled several brands until he found the very best—a mild, rich, flavorful smoke—an endless source of comfort and satisfaction—a smoke that never failed, never failed to please—a smoke that size could not wither nor custom stale—a filter cigarette with an unfettered taste—Marlboro, of course!

Similarly, when Thorwald took up girls, he did not simply select the first one who came along. He sampled. First he dated an English literature major named Elizabeth Barrett Schwartz, a wisp of a girl with large, luminous eyes and a soul that shimmered with a pale, unearthly beauty. Trippingly, trippingly, he walked with Thorwald upon the beach and sat with him behind a windward dune and listened to a couch snail and sighed sweetly and took out a little gold pencil and a little morocco notebook and wrote a little poem:

I will lie upon the shore,
I will be a dreamer,
I will feel the sea once more,
Pounding on my knee.

Thorwald's second date was with a physical education major named Peaches Glendower, a broth of a girl with a ready smile and a size 18 neck. She took Thorwald to the cinder track and a race 18 neck. She took Thorwald to the cinder track and a race 18 neck. She took Thorwald to the cinder track and a race 18 neck.

He did not simply select the first one who came along...

Thorwald's final date was with a golden-haired, creamy-knocked, green-eyed, red-dipped, full-cavied girl named Totsi Sigafos. Totsi was not missing in anything. As she often said, "See whippers, what's college for anyhow — to fill your head full of licky old facts, or to discover the shining essence that is YOT?"

Totsi started the evening with Thorwald at a luxurious restaurant where she consumed her own weight in Cornish rock hens. From there they went to a deluxe movie palace where Totsi had popcorn with butter. Then she had a bag of chocolate covered raisins — also with butter. Then they went to a costly ballroom and did the Twist till dawn, tipping the band every eight bars. Then they went to a Chinese restaurant where Totsi, unable to translate the menu, solved her problem by ordering one of everything. Then Thorwald took her to the women's dorm, boosted her in the window, and went down town to wait for the employment office to open.

While waiting, Thorwald thought over all of his girls and came to a sensible decision. "I think," he said to himself, "that I will stick with Marlboro. I am not rich enough for girls."

Marlboro, however, is rich enough for anybody. It takes mighty good makin' to give you unfiltered taste in a filter cigarette. That's the favor you get in the famous Marlboro recipe from Richmond, Virginia. You get a lot to like.
