

College Gets 25 Government Housing Units

Structures Will Be Placed On Tract
Near Men's Hall

The Morehead State Teachers College has been granted 25 temporary family dwelling units for married student veterans and their families. Congressman Joe B. Bates has notified President W. H. Vaughan.

The housing was supplied to the college as part of a joint program made possible by public law 293, an amendment to title V of the War Relocation Act.

Supt. of Buildings and Grounds W. H. Rice said that he had received information that shipment of the dwelling units would start immediately. They will probably be placed on the tract adjoining men's hall.

Mr. Rice said they would probably be available for summer school students. It is necessary that utilities be run to them.

Under the plan the government moves the units to Morehead and the college puts them up. The college then charges the veteran investment, without profit. When the housing shortage ends the units will be torn down.

Morehead already had the best set-up of any Kentucky college for veterans," Dr. Vaughan said. "At this, however, we had a great problem, which will be greatly alleviated with the addition of these units."

Vikings And Eaglets Win In Tourney

Br-Downs Basketball
61-15; Morehead High
Tops Sharpsburg 55-43

Breakridge and Morehead High competed very early in the first round of the district basketball tournament at Owensville, the Eaglets downing an outmanned but fighting Haidman team 61-15 while Morehead High ran up a big first half lead and coasted to a 35-42 victory over Sharpsburg.

Using his substitutes most of the time Bobby Laughlin saw his game run up his 20th victory. The Eagle was never in doubt. Sonny Allen dropped in three shots to give Break 4-0 lead while they increased to 10-0.

Paced by Berkeley Cox, who made the first nine points in the game, the Vikings scored almost all will for a 31-11 final score advantage over Sharpsburg. The Br-Downs came back in the second half against Morehead and but the late was never in doubt.

Breakridge and Morehead High are scheduled to meet in a semi-final tonight.

In the upper bracket an up and coming Salt Lick team upset Owensville and was favored to go to the finals.

Mr. Stetter is heavily favored to be the star of Winchester, beating Clay County 42-20 last night. The third at Grayson will not start until Friday, with Olive Hill the top-heavy favorite. In the 64th at Highland the Eagles barely beat Boyd County 32-31, and South Portsmouth topped Gretna 41-35. Rumor is the favorite but might run into trouble from Rockland, Catlettsburg or Ashland, all of whom have the potential power to upset the Ramblers.

Award Bronze Star Posthumously To Clarence Slusher

The bronze star medal has been awarded posthumously to Clarence Slusher, Rowan County soldier who met his death by suffocation in a trench during the war. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slusher of Ramm.

The citation of the award was made by Major General Hayes. It read: "Clarence Slusher, Technician Fifth Grade, Company 12th Infantry, for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in the European Theater of War on November 25, 1944."

"Technician Slusher volunteered to assist in carrying K rations to an advance patrol, and reached the wooded hill where the patrol was located, it was necessary to cross a valley which was under heavy enemy artillery, mortar and small arms fire. While crossing the ration detail was caught in the fire of both enemy and friendly troops. The latter had fired on the detail thinking they were being hit by the guide and causing two other members to turn back."

"However, Slusher and another man, realizing the need for food, carried on with the task. They reached a position where they were surrounded by enemy fire. Slusher was severely wounded, but refused to surrender and continued to fight until he was killed by enemy fire."

Harve McBreyer, who has produced more than a ton of tobacco per acre the last two years, will explain how he was able to get such a good yield and at the same time lost no bud or acre on his farm in 1945.

Farm leaders throughout the county who are interested in better farming are working to get a large attendance to the meeting because this meeting should provide more than 100 bushels of corn per acre on his farm in 1945.

Ex-Servicemen's Benefit Program Set-up Clarified

Veterans Benefits Under GI Bill
To Be Handled By Group; Qualifying
Vets Entitled To $65-$90 Month

To clarify the farm training program under the GI bill of rights, and to avoid the misunderstanding in the apprenticeship training program a local organization, functioning through the office of the School Superintendent, was formed this week.

Although the program is not yet clearly defined it is known that all payments to GI's on farms will be made through the office of the Superintendent and approval of the work in Rowan County must come through this committee which will also work with the American Legion.

The following organizations are represented at the group's first meeting Friday: Red Cross, American Legion, Vocational Agriculture, Fiscal Court, County Agent, Farm Service Administration, Soil Conservation, AAA and Farm Bureau.

A committee which will make recommendations on GI applications was formed. It consists of: C. B. Lane, representing the American Legion; Charles Hughes, Dan Brane, Ralph Darling, Claude Turner, William Rouse and Jack Hicks. Every farm veteran's application must clear this group, and it is probable that all apprenticeship training will be steered through it and the County Superintendent's Office.

Under the present act a qualifying veteran is entitled to draw $65 a month if single, $85 a month if married for a period of four to six months.

The group will meet with the American Legion, Commander Felix Williams, at Morehead, in order to get the program clarified and under way.

Former Moreheadian Dies Suddenly In Louisville

Dr. B. Clift Wilson of Clarkson, Ky., who formerly practiced in Morehead, died suddenly in Louisville, February 22, of a heart attack.

Inside Track Given Morehead On Site

Drawings for the 16th Regional Tournament will be held at Kentucky Wesleyan College in Winchester Sunday afternoon. The four competing teams will vote on the site for the tournament at that time.

It was reliably learned today that Morehead College, which competed the most for 14 consecutive years before it was moved in 1945, has the inside track on the site this year.

The regional will be held on the evenings of March 8 and 9. SPENDING FULFILLING HERE.

Pvt. Elmer R. Brown is spending a fifteen-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Dillon, Flemingsburg Road.

Morehead College Vets Have 234 Years Service

Eighty-five ex-service men and one ex-service woman attending the Morehead State Teachers College has a total length of service of 2813 months or 234 years. The average length of service was more than two and a half years or an average time for overseas service was sixteen months.

The Army Air Force had over fifty percent of these men and women were in service before Pearl Harbor and eighty five were present in during both V days.

These men and women represent twenty-three counties in Kentucky with Carter County leading the group. The out of state students have come from as far away as Iowa, New York, and Florida.

If you are a female reader this interest story. The oldest veteran is forty and the youngest is eighteen. The average age is twenty-four. Over one-third of these men reported as being married but only eight claimed as children.

Over three hundred camps, airfields, stations, and hospitals within the United States and every state of the forty-eight plus all the other colleges inside the United States at one time or another were touched by their men. One soldier boasts twelve stations state side plus twenty-six months overseas in both oceans. The only comment to make is that this is a lot of ports of call.

Calling attention to the fact that the American National Red Cross under a congressional charter, is extending care and aid to servicemen in distant areas, treating wounded and aiding victims of catastrophe and always training men and women to combat sickness and accident, the Board of Trustees has designated the month of March, 1945, as "Red Cross Month."

The organization seeks to raise, by voluntary contributions, in a nation-wide campaign, a minimum fund of $100,000,000 with which to carry on its work while the foundations of peace are being established and, in its humanitarian service, to express the spirit of universal goodwill which recognizes no barriers in human welfare. In his proclamation, the President urges every citizen to make the utmost response to this "indispensable humanitarian cause."

The Red Cross, of three national organizations chartered by Congress, undertook and successfully accomplished a tremendous task during the active participation of this nation in war. It has many duties to perform in peacetime and it is to be paid to our veterans overseas, in connection with our belligerent effort. In addition, it has a long record of relief work in the peaceful years of our national existence, bringing aid, treatment and rehabilitation to victims of disaster. It also makes its contribution to the war against sickness, accident, suffering and death.

We call attention to these things so that the people of Rowan County will be advised of the appeal and prepared to make a financial contribution which will enable the foundations of peace to be carried on. During the war years, there was general desire to take part in Red Cross work by a financial contribution if not through personal service, and this spirit will assure the success of the campaign because our people are just as anxious to help suffering humanity in times of peace as upon the occasion of warfare.

Moving The Morehead Employment Office Would Be An Imposition

The bill introduced at Frankfort governing the administration of employment agencies of Kentucky may be properly termed a ripper bill. It would curb the hands of those who have been using the Morehead office to perpetuate in office many Democrats who would be let out.

However, we in Morehead, are not interested in who has the jobs—we are not vitally concerned with the "ins" or the "outs" but we are very much perturbed with the hands of those who have been using the Morehead office to perpetuate in office many Democrats who would be let out.

The bill, if enacted, would probably insure the Morehead office being retained. In this connection, it might be pointed out, that only this month the Morehead office ceased to be a branch of Ashland, and is now a full-fledged employment office of its own.

Although Mr. Babb did have some difficulties in Morehead while he was President of the college here, we hope that if the present bill is defeated and the control of the employment office is placed in his hands, that he will consider the vital need of this office in the community and give it the service that it is rendering to the people of this section of Kentucky. There is no doubt but that Morehead is the ideal location for the office, and to move it would be an imposition upon the people it serves.

A Modern Building

The construction of a modern business structure, housing some three or four businesses, besides offices or apartments, on the corner of Main Street and Fairbanks Avenue, as announced by the owner, Mr. A. B. McKinney, is but one of the first steps in the post-war building boom predicted for this city.

Mr. Bill Layne, who is handling the details for Mr. McKinney, points out that this new building, situated in the center of Morehead's business district, will be constructed of the best materials and besides being modern in all respects, will present a beautiful appearance. More buildings of this type will make our city progress. We have had too many cheap type structures in the past, and we trust that the tendency to construct buildings that are a credit to their owner and to the city will continue.

Shortly before the war several creditable business buildings went up. Mr. McKinney's building is the first to be started since the war, and we are optimistic that this is a fore-runner of the type of buildings that owners will put up in Morehead's business section.

Colorful Jefferson Day Speaker

Announcement of the committee in charge of the annual Jefferson Day dinner, that colorful Sen. Raybourne, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, will be the principal speaker, apparently assures this successful get-together another capacity crowd of the big-wigs in the Democratic party of Kentucky.

Mr. Raybourne is one of the most sought after speakers in the United States and Morehead and Eastern Kentucky now feel justly proud that he has accepted their invitation to address the Morehead meeting.

The annual Jefferson Day dinner held here, which was discontinued during the war, has become recognized as one of the outstanding, if not the most important, affair in the Democratic party of Kentucky each year. It is at this dinner that much of the political business is done. It brings together all the leaders of the Democrats in Kentucky and they use this occasion to iron out, behind the scenes, many political issues.

The number of plates will be limited to 500, which is all that can be comfortably and adequately cared for. But, in case you hadn't thought of it, 500 represents a lot of people at a dinner.

No Major Crimes

Perhaps we ought to knock on wood before we say it—but all this predicted post-war crime wave has certainly not made itself felt in Morehead. In fact, this city and county hasn't had any crime, to speak of, for months.

The grand jury at the March term of Circuit Court won't have any major criminal cases to consider unless they develop between now and when court opens.

Perhaps, though, we'd better knock on wood again.

Morehead Grows . . . and Grows!

When the United States Navy discontinued the Morehead school, general prediction was that local business men would suffer. There's no doubt but that the Navy school did bring many thousands of dollars to this community, but its absence has hardly been felt.

Business has always been good in Morehead—it is one of those communities that is growing and growing. We entertain no doubt that business here will be better year after year. We agree with one business man who predicts that Morehead will double its population by 1950 and will have 10,000 people within the next 10 to 20 years.

On Taxes

By Ruth Taylor

There is one sentence that has stuck in my memory ever since I first heard it. "The fellow to be pined in the tax game is the one who has no tax to pay."

Think of that when you try to figure out what you still owe! Taxes are but a cheap price for what we enjoy. What are they but the cost of our liberty?

No where else in the world are men as free as they are here. No where else are the demands upon the people so light. And—those demands we set ourselves.

Each one thinks his problems are the greatest. Each one thinks that the current in which he lives is the whole ocean. It is well that we pause and remember the sufferings of our brothers overseas before we complain of the demands laid upon us.

Because we have lost everything having nothing left with which to pay taxes. They are the ones to be pitied.

Surely we don't any of us like taxes. But this is our country. Slaves do not pay taxes. They work at the behest and for the benefit of others. The conquered do not pay taxes—they give tribute. Only free men are taxed. Only free men can support the government that is their own.

"Never king dropped out of the clouds." No tyrant state without someone paying the way. Taxes are our insurance against tyranny. Taxes are what we the people pay for safety, for the rights of all men. A government of the people, by the people—a government of freedom—needs the support of all people. There are no privileged few when it comes to taxes. The right to pay for his own government is the right of every free born man.

Freedom claims an active effort from each citizen. We have no individual rights that are not in some sense modified by the demand for collective security and collective prosperity. The success of our efforts will be dependent more upon our willingness to make sacrifices to back them than upon the perfection of any machinery. Taxes, wisely and cheerfully paid—are proof of our sincerity of purpose.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," goes the old saying. Probably because they are so light-headed.

More and more fellows who were employed in war plants are returning back to their old home town again. It's nice to get back to your old job again, even if you can't enjoy that wonderful time and a half feeling.

We have suddenly come to the conclusion that the flu is a disease that makes you feel sick eight weeks after you are well.

Newly married couples are getting off to a bad start. No trying pans to buy—no meat to fry.

And so they came to a parting. On their wedding day he carried her over the threshold. A week later she threw him over it.

It may be hard to keep a good man down, but around March 15th a gent in Washington tries hard.

A new broom may sweep clean, but you can't beat the old one for getting into the corners.

Bad weather requires good driving. Take it easy Mr.

Over in Europe, it seems, everybody has a chip on his shoulder—but none to put on the table.

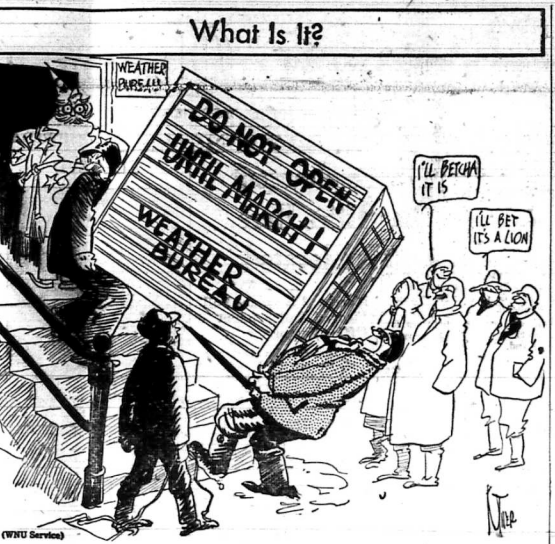

Money, they say, is the root of all evil. That's why we keep digging for it.

There was a time when a girl would blush when she heard a naughty story. Now she memorizes it.

Cigarettes are getting so plentiful now that they have been almost tempted to give up smoking.

I think that I shall never see, A girl refuse a meal that's free; A girl with hungry eyes not fixed Upon a drink that's being mixed; A girl who doesn't like to wear A dress that on looks like hair; But girls are loved by guys like me 'Cause I don't like to kiss a tree.

IT HAPPENED IN MOREHEAD (FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN)

The Market Dropped

Perhaps you may not know it, but more people who "invest" on the stock market than any community of its size in Kentucky.

That's the reason you've noticed that several local prominent citizens have been going around with long faces this week.

The market hit its biggest slump in six years.

Disappointed

This year's Morehead College Eagle basketball team proved to be the biggest disappointment that this town has experienced since he came to Morehead.

It wasn't that the Eagles didn't make a better than fair record—winning two thirds of their games. But, what hurt Ellis most was that he had high hopes for this club, and expected them to win the KMAC tournament. At that, the Eagles almost did win the meet.

But, in Eastern, they lost a semi-final battle. Eastern went on to beat Louisville easily that night for the title.

Morehead had the height and they had the fight, but they just couldn't hit. For example Morehead had more shot—more close attempts—than Eastern, but still didn't win. They snared the majority of the rebounds, and having the last minute's had three or four good shots at the basket, but just couldn't get the ball to go through.

To use one of the University of Kentucky's worn-out expressions, "Wait, until, next year!" This time we really mean it for we know that Ellis has the material coming.

Employers—Veterans

Complaints keep coming to this newspaper that employers are hiring veterans to work under the Apprenticeship Training Program without any official O. K. It seems that many believe all that is necessary is to put the veteran to work and he will flourish.

Mr. Howard, president of the club, as its representative to this meeting, the purpose of which is to work out a permanent organization to keep the Veterans Clubs in the state active and progressive groups.

Deaths From TB Drop In State In Past Year

Deaths from tuberculosis in Kentucky last year were fewer than in any other year in the history of the state.

A preliminary report by the director of the State Department of Health showed that 1,458 persons died of tuberculosis in Kentucky last year as against 1,697 in 1943. The rate for 1944 was 55.1 deaths per 1,000 population as compared with 60.6 per 1,000 in 1943.

One of every four deaths in the state last year was caused by heart disease, the report said, and the six other leading causes of death were cerebral hemorrhage, cancer, accidents, nephritis, pneumonia and tuberculosis.

A congressman recently estimated that it cost about $415 per day to treat the children of Congress.

The United States Senate has as a result of impeachment 14 different cases.

A PEOPLE FINDING A HOMELAND

LESSON TEXT: Joshua 1:1-4; 1:11-13; MEMORY SELECTION: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God: he is one: and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself: this is the first commandment which he hath given thee.—Deuteronomy 6:16."

God is the Lord of nations as well as of homes, and he is concerned that those who honor him in their homes have opportunity to serve him in their national life. This was true in special with Israel, but it is also true of us today.

Ready to enter the Promised Land, the people had to part with their great leader, Moses, who was not permitted to enter. The time comes when even the mightiest of men fall, but life must go on and new leadership must be found.

1. The Changel Leader (Josh. 1:1-4).

1. Workers Die—God's Work Goes On (vv. 1, 2).

God buries his workers at the end of their day of labor, but God's work goes on. The people had become attached to Moses and had learned to look to him for guidance, though they often murmured. With his death they might have assumed that there would be a lull, but the Lord was not in God's plan.

The Lord works through men. He gives them abilities and uses them where the people have to part with their great leader. But let them not become proud, for God uses someone to take their place when they are gone. They are not indispensable.

2. The Need Is the Same. So Is the Blessing (vv. 3, 4).

The promise given to Moses was still good. God's promises are always true. He is the only really stable thing in a trembling world. The question is, Are we ready to take him at his word?

The land was promised to them only as the sole of their foot should tread it. Israel never did it. They took the full promise of verse 4. They lacked faith.

God honors those who believe him and turn forward to him. He plants the foot of spiritual conquest in new territory. Some are doing it.

The enemies of God's people were many and mighty, but they were not able to stand. They were afraid, because they did not take God at his word. The application of that truth to us is obvious.

II. The Unchanging God (Josh. 2:1-11).

Between our first scripture and this second is the story of the conquest of the land (at least, of the larger part of it), and the division of the territory between the tribes.

Years have passed quickly, and the new leader, Joshua, is now an old man. He is going to his rest. He gathers the elders who represented the people and gave them advice. He tells them to go to his rest, even as he recalls the blings of the past.

1. God Did Great (vv. 1-3).

Joshua had gone through the trials of a long life. He had seen the people and given them advice. He had seen the people and given them advice. He had seen the people and given them advice.

Joshua reminds them that it was God who fought for them (v. 3). He used just such a reminder in our land today.

2. God Will Help (vv. 4, 5). Joshua had a word of encouragement for the elders. There was much yet to be done. The land had not been fully taken. He reminded them of God's promise to help them. He said they would depend on it in the future.

It is one mark of a great man that he looks beyond the end of his own short existence and plans for the future.

What about the future? Joshua reminded them that every blessing they had received, every victory they had won, was the work of God. There were more things to be done for the future. And it was enough!

3. He Will Help (vv. 6, 7).

Joshua told them that they were to be a people of prayer. They were to be a people of prayer. They were to be a people of prayer.

They were not even to swear by the heaven gods, even to mention the names of the gods there were to the Lord, a graphic presentation of the close relation between God and his people.

Aged Elliott County Man Found Dead Near His Home

W. M. Mayse, 77, farmer who resided near Ruin Creek in Elliott County, a mile west of Sandy Hook, was found dead near his home Sunday afternoon. Mr. Mayse had started to a tobacco bed on his farm, carrying an ax and riding a horse. When found, he still had the ax clutched in his hand. His neck had been broken, evidently from a fall from his horse. The horse returned to the barn sometime before the body was found. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Columbia Rucker Mayse; three sons, H. H. Mayse, of Lexington, and Ollie and Menifur Mayse of Sandy Hook, and two daughters, Mrs. Preble Green, of Greene, and Mrs. Mary Wilson of near Wrigley.

Congressman Adolph J. Sebath of Chicago has been a member of the House of Representatives of Congress longer than any other member of the present Congress.

for Distinguished Service in the Fields
HAD AWARDS been given for distinguished service on the home front, the overalls of many a Southern farmer would today be decorated with service ribbons. Handicapped by shortages of labor and machinery, he produced record yields of food and farm crops in the critical war years when they were needed most. He did this by working harder and longer—and by use of machinery which could not be replaced.

Peace has come—but new tractors, trucks and machinery are still hard to get. You'll very probably have to nurse your old machinery through another trying season. Your Standard Oil man can help you with this. Not alone by supplying you with dependable lubricants that will give longer, more useful life to your machinery—but by furnishing you with a Lubri-

Noted Writer To Visit On MSC Campus

Will Speak On Writing
As A Profession

Through the auspices of the college literary committee, Mr. Dudley W. Dudley will spend two days on the campus of Morehead College talking informally with students and faculty members on the subject of writing as a profession.

Mr. Peterson, a writer of some note, will appear on the Morehead campus Monday and Tuesday, March 4 and 5. At both the 9:30 and 10:30 hours on Monday he will meet with combined sections of Freshman Composition in room 9 of the administration building, speaking on the subject of "College and the Writer." At 12:30 p. m. Monday he will speak to the junior and senior high school students at Breckinridge Training School, and at 3:00 he will appear in the class in Victorian Prose, room 9 of the conference with any people who care to talk to him.

On Tuesday he will meet with the three remaining sections of Freshman Composition at 9:00 a. m., speaking to them also on the subject of "College and the Writer," and at 10:00 he will speak to the entire student body at required chapel exercises, on "An Art Worth Learning." He will again hold individual conferences from 3:30 until 5:00.

In addition to being a writer, Mr. Peterson is an able sportsman and is prepared to speak authoritatively on a number of subjects in that field. He plans to spend the rest of his vacation during his stay here.

Mr. Peterson is instructor of creative writing and Victorian literature at the University of Pittsburgh, and his students of writing have been awarded first prize in Story Magazine's national short-story contest and third place in the Atlantic Monthly short-story contest; first and third prize in the Atlantic Monthly poetry contest.

Outside of writing, his chief interests have been outdoors and teaching, and most of his stories and poems are centered about these two interests. He has written poems, essays, and short stories for leading periodicals, and in 1941 his trout-fishing novel, No Life So Happy, was published by Dodd Mead and received excellent reviews from both the literary journals and the sporting magazines.

Dr. Dudley Will Have Article Published

AMERICAN SPEECH, a quarterly magazine of linguistic usage, will carry an article by Dr. Fred A. Dudley, head of the English department of Morehead College in one of its subsequent issues.

The article, entitled "Swamp and Some Other Kentucky Words," contains information about a number of words peculiar to this section of the country. Dr. Dudley came to Morehead from Iowa five years ago, and finding habits of speech unusual and interesting, began making a collection of those which struck him as being unusual. He checked these in dictionaries of dialect and narrowed his list to those words and expressions heard in this section of the country which are not listed in any such dictionaries. This list of words is incorporated in the article which has recently been accepted for publication.

The Cost of Keeping Our Women Beautiful

How much the average woman spends to keep her hair and face lovely is one item in the cost of living that is seldom discussed and is not included in the statistics of the Labor Bureau.

The business is one of enormous proportions. Our guess is that it is a billion-dollar-a-year industry.

Well-to-do women tell us that they have standing weekly appointments with their hair-dressers, and that they spend not less than $3 per visit. This does not include permanent.

Nearly every woman has at least a yearly permanent which may be the end of it all up, we decided that 30,000,000 women between the ages of 15 and 100, average not less than $20 a year at the beauty shops. That accounts for 600 million dollars.

Facials, pedicures, and massages account for another hundred million. A great American industry—all for charm.

Harris & Durham Attend Forum On Ky's. Problems

Miss Anne Franklin Harris, dean of women, and Miss Genny Durham, editor of the Trail Blazer, attended a panel discussion on the Problems of Kentucky which was held at Eastern State College, Richmond, Kentucky on Tuesday night, February 18.

Those assisting in the panel discussion were Mr. Harry Schater, president of the Committee for Kentucky, Mr. Maurice Bement, executive officer of the Committee for Kentucky, both of Louisville, and representatives from Berea College, University of Kentucky and Eastern State College. A brief history of the state of Kentucky was given to begin the forum after which Kentucky's major problems were outlined. Kentucky's educational and economic problems seem to be the most pressing at this time. These problems were presented to the group who brought out definite points and things that must be done in order to bring Kentucky's standards up. "Kentucky is at or near the bottom of every worth-while thing in life," said Mr. Schater. "The students of today will play the biggest part in the remaining of Kentucky." Mr. Schater brought out the aims and objectives of the Committee for Kentucky and also told of the progress they had already made.

"The improvement of agriculture is the keynote of the success which we are striving for," said Dr. Beers, sociology professor at the University of Kentucky and editor of the recent book "Kentucky's Designs for the Future." He continued his discussion with the importance of soil conservation in the rebuilding of Kentucky.

This panel discussion was the second to be held on Eastern campus, the first one being a discussion on a new constitution for the state.

Price Control Volunteers "Carry On" In Kentucky

Reports from Kentucky's fifty-seven Price Control Boards for January show that 1852 volunteers worked a total of 3590 hours in the fight to hold the line against inflation. Geo. H. Goodman, KY. OPA District Director, said today.

Included in Board Membership are 28 clergymen, 4 doctors, 76 farmers, 28 representatives of labor, 76 teachers, 128 merchants, and 116 consumers.

Celling prices and postings were checked by volunteer Board Representatives during January in 5,255 food stores, 1182 surplus war goods outlets and 182 parking lots. Price Control is a people's program and this fine cooperation is appreciated, Goodman said.

"The American farmer who toils for his family's welfare and the American worker who toils for his family's bread are partners. Their interests are inseparably welded together in a common interest. The focal point of their common interest is good."—U. S. Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania.

Don't Blame Your Dealer if You Can't Get G-E Appliances and Radios

It's not the dealer's fault. We don't think it's our fault.
Maybe it's nobody's fault. But here's what happened:

Here's how fast G. E. and its affiliated companies were making and shipping things for you:

	OCT.	NOV.	DEC.	On hand Dec. 31, 1945
IRONS	60,440	67,564	85,968	2½ days' production
CLOCKS	181,998	177,681	256,038	2½ days' production
REFRIGERATORS	12,755	17,577	28,432	4 days' production
WASHERS	3,068	4,672	6,874	4½ days' production
RANGES	3,056	8,973	8,996	3 days' production
RADIOS	85	5,129	9,401	1½ days' production
TOASTERS		312	2,386	2698 (No shipments were made because production was inadequate to provide samples for dealers).

Out of the 2,485, 138 appliances manufactured in 1944 and 1945, General Electric shipped 98%.

AFTER the war ended, we weren't able to get back into production of some appliances as soon as we had hoped, and production rates weren't as high as we had hoped. A number of unforeseen things like material shortages made the job harder.

But there were only 120 days between V-J Day and December 31, 1945, and in those 120 days we partly reconverted our factories from war to peacetime goods and got production started. During the year we turned out 2,313,791 electrical appliances.

We shipped these appliances out practically as fast as made—so fast that at the end of the year more than 98 per cent or those we'd built since reconversion began were out of our factories. Most of them were in the hands of users.

Then, on January 15, 1946, our plants were closed by the strike. Not a single electric home appliance has been built or assembled there since. And, because our warehouses are practically empty, your dealer won't be able to obtain any more until we can get back to making them.

We want to get back to producing as fast as possible. The manufacturing organization is set up; the machines are ready, waiting to be set in motion. These factors will help us to do an even faster job than we did in the months before the strike.

But we can't pick up production quite where we left off. Production lines are too complicated for that. A great many things have been dislocated by the strike.

When the strike is over, and the refrigerators and toasters and radios you've been waiting for begin to come off the lines again, we'll get them into hands of our dealers just as fast as we can. They'll be competitive in price. They'll be General Electric quality.

So, please don't be impatient with your dealer—or with us.

TIME FOR REVISION

Kentucky is in a legislative straight jacket. It is trying to live under a Constitution which was written for conditions that existed in the 1880's.

These provisions are hampering the administration of our school system, and are hindering progress. The time has come for Kentuckians to acquaint themselves with this problem.

Ellis Johnson Guest Speaker At West Liberty

Morgan county's three basketball teams and their coaches were guests of honor at a pre-tournament basketball banquet given last Wednesday evening in West Liberty with Ellis Johnson, coach of Morehead College, as the guest speaker.

The banquet was prepared and served by the home economics department of the high school. Dr. Alec Spencer, president of the Kiwanis club, presided as toastmaster.

The honor guests included Coach Glenn Stanley and his West Liberty team, Coach Carl Stewart and his Cannel City team and Coach Carr and his Erol team. Kiwanians and their ladies and a number of townspeople attended.

Ellis Johnson gave an interesting talk, sparkling with wit and humor, and closed with a commitment to West Liberty for securing so fine a coach as Glenn Stanley. He termed Stanley as the best grid player ever produced at Morehead College and declared West Liberty "is lucky and fortunate to have Glenn here as your coach."

Supr. Ova O. Haney and Coach Stanley also spoke briefly. A delectable menu was served by the home economics girls.

Morgan County Child Burned To Death

The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Turner of near Cincinnati, who was burned to death when fire destroyed their farm home Feb. 14, was brought back to Morgan county and interred in the Nickell-Cisco cemetery near Mathews.

The parents are natives of Morgan county. Mrs. Turner is the former Miss Frieda Nickell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Nickell.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner were out on their farm getting up some hogs when neighbors discovered the fire. They rushed to the house and broke through the flames to get their son, who by that time was unconscious. He was rushed to a hospital but succumbed shortly.

Income Tax

In the following paragraphs there is set forth essential information on income tax obligations and exemptions on the part of those who have served in the armed forces during World War II. At best, this is a rather complex and intricate subject. However, it is being treated here in outline form and should prove helpful to veterans. It is understood, of course, that involved situations will require the expert advice and assistance of an income tax or internal revenue representative.

EXEMPTION: There is exempt from taxation so much of the compensation for active service in the armed forces as does not exceed $1500.

ABATEMENT: All unpaid taxes assessed against any person on active duty with the armed forces between the 7th day of December, 1941, and the termination of World War II, will be cancelled provided they are not paid prior to death which occurs while the veteran is on active duty.

All taxes for the year during which such death occurred will be rebated and cancelled whether paid or unpaid.

All such taxes paid after death occurred will be rebated.

No rebate will be made for taxes paid prior to the death of such person for taxes assessed prior to the year of death of such person.

DEFERMENT: The duty to file income tax returns is automatically postponed for any person who is on active duty with the armed forces of the United States or allied governments outside the continental limits of the United States for a period of ninety days or more. There will be no requirement to file until six months after the return to the United States of such person. Penalties and interest will not begin until the end of such period.

The payment of tax on income which has been earned by such member of the armed forces may be deferred without interest or penalties by permitting payment in twelve equal installments beginning six months after return to the United States and payable each three months thereafter for a period of three years. If such a person has other income it may be computed separately insofar as the requirement for immediate payment is concerned and the balance of total tax may be deferred.

Medical expense of individuals which is in excess of five percent of his income may be deducted in computing tax up to the limit of $1250 for single persons and of $2500 for married persons.

Exemption applies only to compensation for active duty. Such income includes only individuals' special status increases. These are compensation longevity, overseas duty, flying pay, combat infantry, and decorations. They do not include subsistence, quarters, or uniform allowances, per diem or travel pay.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Postwar Boom Developing in Plane Industry; Spike Fears
Of Big Atom Spy Ring in U. S.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When space is expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts, and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Jubilant over ending of steel strike, workers in union headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa., caper joyously.

AIRCRAFT: Postwar Boom

Keeping its promise of developing into one of the big businesses in the postwar world, the aircraft industry is looking forward to the production of almost 1 billion dollars worth of planes in 1946, with over 25 per cent of civilian design.

With travelers air conscious, and interest of vets and civilians kept by war experience and developments, manufacturers expect to turn out about 250 million dollars of planes this year, ranging from the latest strato-liners to two-seaters. About 50 transports will be produced. Indicative of the big job ahead, Douglas Aircraft corporation has a backlog of 100 million dollars of commercial planes. Lockheed, 125 million; Republic, 50 million; Boeing, 25 million; Martin, 30 million; and Consolidated-Vultee, 18 million.

Having produced 1,500 of the famed "Cubs" since V-J Day, the Piper Aircraft company has over 5,000 more private planes on order. With assembly now running at the rate of 17 "Champions" daily, Aeromax has a backlog of over 3,000 small craft. Grumman and Beech also are producing for the civilian market and Ryan has laid plans for resumption of output.

Consistent with the desire to maintain U. S. sterling power short, 500 million dollars worth of military aircraft will be manufactured this year and 200 million will be spent in export work.

ATOM SPIES:

U. S. Holds Secret

While Canadian authorities investigated the activities of an extensive atom bomb spy ring in the dominion, reliable sources indicated that no widespread espionage existed in the U. S.

As the FBI kept a close check on foreign agents, Secretary Byrnes denied that the state department had forbidden G-men to arrest suspected atom spies out of fear of straining relations with the British. At the same time, Byrnes minimized the importance of any Canadian leaks by emphasizing that the U. S. alone possessed the secret of manufacturing the A-bomb.

While government authorities play down reports of an atom spy ring, insiders ridiculed a story that a Soviet agent had been allowed to leave a West coast post office to deliver a suitcase loaded with A-bomb secrets. Because of the vast amount of technical data connected with atomic power, the word "plans" would weigh several tons.

Responsible Canadian authorities pressed their probe against 25 named or former government employees held in connection with the leak of atomic secrets to Russia. With rumors that it was expected that the dominion had provided protection for a former communist agent involved in the spy ring, it was learned that Moscow had issued orders to its secret police to put him out of the way.

THE RANGERS COLUMN

By JACK HICKS

Some time next month we will undertake an experiment new to this section of the country. I might say at this point that that is one of the chief allurements to a career of forestry.

Jack Hicks

The Bureau of Plant Industry in Washington will ship us several thousand seedlings of Oriental chestnut. These young trees, exotic, blight-resistant cousins of our native chestnut which is now virtually extinct, will be planted in rich places on limestone soil in two separate areas of the District. We have tentatively chosen one cutting on the Red River in Powell County and another similar of Lower Lick Fork in

We will plant, not in open fields, but under forest conditions of the over-lapping timber and leaving the planted area in partial shade. Thus the chestnut seedlings will be introduced into the Red River similar to that in which our native species formerly thrived, and it is anticipated that they will quickly acclimate themselves to forest habitat, making true forest plantations rather than chestnut orchards.

Field planting of the Oriental chestnut is not a recent undertaking, though it has not, that I know of, been attempted in Kentucky. However, plantings on open land were made more than ten years ago. In 1937 I had the opportunity to help start a 2-acre plantation that included most known strains of Chinese and Japanese chestnut, both pure breeds and hybrids, in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia near Natural Bridge, a country that had once supported pure stands of American chestnut. Advanced stock was used, some of the young trees being as much as 10 feet within a year of the few years the larger individuals were bearing chestnuts.

An interesting sidelight to this particular plantation was the protection afforded it against possible four-footed trespassers. An 8-foot deer-proof fence was erected around it and the wire was buried another 4 feet below ground level to keep out rodents, particularly rabbits and ground-hogs. In 1940 a good crop of chestnuts developed during the summer, and Mr. Diller, Senior Pathologist from Washington who sponsored the job and considered this plantation his particular favorite, was informed of the fact that it was known he wanted to collect this seed to plant elsewhere. Diller made his annual pilgrimage soon after the first frost, only to find that someone or something had beaten him to his boot; not a single fertile nut remained on the ground. The burrs were there, all nicely open, but not a chestnut. An investigation soon revealed the identity of the marauder, neighboring

Field planting of the Oriental chestnut is not a recent undertaking, though it has not, that I know of, been attempted in Kentucky. However, plantings on open land were made more than ten years ago. In 1937 I had the opportunity to help start a 2-acre plantation that included most known strains of Chinese and Japanese chestnut, both pure breeds and hybrids, in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia near Natural Bridge, a country that had once supported pure stands of American chestnut. Advanced stock was used, some of the young trees being as much as 10 feet within a year of the few years the larger individuals were bearing chestnuts.

An interesting sidelight to this particular plantation was the protection afforded it against possible four-footed trespassers. An 8-foot deer-proof fence was erected around it and the wire was buried another 4 feet below ground level to keep out rodents, particularly rabbits and ground-hogs. In 1940 a good crop of chestnuts developed during the summer, and Mr. Diller, Senior Pathologist from Washington who sponsored the job and considered this plantation his particular favorite, was informed of the fact that it was known he wanted to collect this seed to plant elsewhere. Diller made his annual pilgrimage soon after the first frost, only to find that someone or something had beaten him to his boot; not a single fertile nut remained on the ground. The burrs were there, all nicely open, but not a chestnut. An investigation soon revealed the identity of the marauder, neighboring squirrels had made the raid and, just as when they did, the history nuts in this part of the country, had left their "cuttings" behind. I met Diller again last year in the Supervisor's office at Winchester. He told me that the Ridge plantation is his best in the whole country now, but that most of the open-field plantings have not satisfied him. He believes the young chestnut will do better when under-planted on good limestone land within the forest.

Personally, I am pleased that we have been assigned this experiment; first, because it is a new job, secondly, because this new species of chestnut to our forests of the east.

The American chestnut was, at the turn of the century, definitely one of the most valuable and plentiful hardwoods of the Appalachian region. I can remember picking up chestnuts in New York as a boy; today I venture to say that not a single native chestnut tree can be found in that state. The chestnut blight, introduced into New England about 1900 from Japanese tree stock transported here on a Dutch boat, spread south like wildfire and has blighted native stands everywhere, so that a mature, healthy American chestnut tree is, today, a rarity.

In sections of Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina where this species grew in pure stands, whole mountainsides of timber were killed within the space of a few years leaving bare gray ghosts of tree trunks in place of green forests. Much of this territory has now restocked to various species of oak; the chestnut has sprouted but the blight has kept killing back the new sprouts as they approached the nut-bearing stage.

No effective control of the chestnut blight has ever been discovered, although scientists have worked this problem since the advent of the disease. It is known that the Oriental varieties are practically immune, while American chestnut has virtually no resistance. This plant disease might be compared to the human disease, measles. Measles, in America, is a common childhood disease that is rarely fatal. It was introduced among the natives of a South Sea island by a ship's crew a number of years ago and proved as virulent an epidemic to these people as the bubonic plague would be in this country.

Whether the Oriental chestnut was once just as susceptible to the blight as the American chestnut and has, over the centuries, developed an immunity is mere speculation. If that be the case, there is a good possibility that the American chestnut may follow the same pattern of evolution. In the meantime, however, we can, perhaps, by means of this new type of planting, introduce a variety of varieties of the Oriental tree into our forests that will supply lumber and game food within our lifetime.

Contrary to the October 15-November 20 season announced as being favored in revamping Kentucky's squirrel hunting season, Director Earl Wallace of the Division of Game and Fish today said that the Division had been misunderstood or misrepresented in these advance announcements.

Wallace further pointed out that the Division of Game and Fish had never advocated a squirrel season of October 15-to-November 30.

The opening and closing dates that probably will be sought when new legislation is introduced are, August 15-to-November 30, inclusive, Wallace added.

Morehead Has
11-8 Record
For SeasonEagles Defeat
Western 53-49

By GORDON MOORE

By virtue of their 53-49 victory over the Hilltoppers of Western Kentucky State Monday night, the Morehead College Eagles closed their regular season with eleven wins and eight losses.

The Eagles won third spot in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference race with a 9-6 mark. Morehead downed all of the teams in the conference, except Eastern and Louisville. They chalked up victories over Georgetown twice, 60-35 and 61-44; Berea twice, 55-37 and 80-49; Wesleyan twice 57-34 and 53-44; Murray 60-53, and Union 71-40. Losses in the conference were to Louisville 40-44 and 50-61, Eastern 41-45 and 62-53 in an overtime period, and Western 40-62.

Outside K.I.A.C. play, Morehead has recorded two triumphs and two setbacks. In the Ohio Valley Tournament at the opening of the season, the Eagles turned back Georgetown 61-31, but lost in the second round to Louisville 41-54. Marshall, another non-league foe, lost at Morehead 41-46 in an overtime period, but gained revenge at Huntington in a 53-48 conquest.

Bobby Laughlin, aid mentor of the Breckinridge Training School Eagles, piloted the Eagles through their first five games, before Ellis Johnson returned from the Navy. Carroll Hawhee, junior from Cannelton, Indiana and Jack Pobot, sophomore from Georgetown, Ohio, have been the only two boys on the squad to play in every game. Bill Miller, 6'4" center missed one game with an injured hand, while Park Prater was out half the season with

The Eagles have hit consistently all season long, amassing 1,046 points in 18 games for an average of 58. The opposition has been limited to 801 points or 44.1 a contest.

Hawhee, Pobot, and Miller led the Morehead attack with 256, 218, and 213 points respectively, with game averages of 14, 11, and 12.

In the fiscal year 1945 more than 90 cents of every dollar spent by the Federal government went to meet the direct costs of the war, according to a statement by Secretary of the Treasury Vinson.
