Governor Commends MSC For Outstanding Service

Recommends Keeping Of Sales Tax

By Harry Mayhew

"You are doing an outstanding service in the field of education to the region and Commonwealth," Governor Combs told President Adron Doran and the faculty of Morehead State College. "Educational progress has been astounding but we have not reached our goal yet."

Speaking on campus last Monday, Combs also emphasized the need for Kentucky's college graduates to remain in the state. It is the efforts of our youth, he said, that will determine the future of Kentucky.

"Ours is an underdeveloped state," Combs said, "and it affords an extremely challenging opportunity for ambitious young people."

Designated as Governor's Day at Morehead State College, Monday gave the governor another opportunity to share the thinking of the citizenry.

In addition to his taking state government directly to the people, he has visited the state prisons, mental institutions and currently the state colleges. Morehead is the fourth college Combs has visited for the purpose of sharing views with educators and students.

Earlier in the morning Combs laid the cornerstone for the new $200,000 administration building which will be started within a month.

Presented was an engraved copy of Morehead's 40th anniversary edition of the yearbook in conjunction by Editor Harry Weber.

"We have come to realize in recent years that Kentucky's reputation for hospitality and gracious living is not enough to bring about progress," the governor said. "And you cannot have a progressive state if you do not have education."

Another student thanked the

the sales tax should be repealed

in this is a prime responsibility of educators in the state. It is an explanation of the use of educational television in Kentucky.

"Educational television I am convinced will become more and more important in the future and I want Kentucky to have an equal start with other states. Louisville is already a model for educational television in the nation."

Commenting on another question concerning what affect the Curriculum Study Committee's report will have on education, Combs said the recommendations are highly regarded in the state but that revision is a slow process.

When asked what he thought about the view that the sales tax or modified it would put Kentucky back a quarter of a century.

A student from Harlan County asked what could be done to solve the problems of distressed areas. The governor replied that the state was building as many roads, lakes and parks in these areas as possible but, he admitted, "we desperately need fellowes like you to remain after graduation to help us."

After being quizzed if he did not think starting teacher salaries should be higher, Combs commented that Kentucky should be more than 38th out of 50 states in.

Cooper And Dixon Deliver 39th Graduation Addresses

John Sherman Cooper, Senator from Kentucky, will deliver the 39th Morehead State College commencement address on May 31.

Dr. H. A. Dixon, president of Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., was the May 27 baccalaureate speaker.

Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State College, said the 284 candidates for degrees will attend the 7:30 p.m. commencement exercises in the Morehead Fieldhouse and the baccalaureate services at 4 p.m. in Buiton Auditorium.

The annual reception given by President and Mrs. Doran will be held in the Doran Student House from 5:00 to 6:30 immediately after the baccalaureate service.

Senator Cooper, who was re-elected to the United States Senate in 1960 after having been elected to the Senate in 1956 to fill the late Allen W. Barkley, holds the A.B. degree from Yale and a law degree from the Harvard Law School.

CLASS ELECTIONS

Allen, Mills, Vance Elected Presidents

Class officers for the 1962-63 academic year were elected Thursday, May 17, in a Student Council-sponsored election held in Doran Student House.

William "Seeburg" Thompson, Sue Galbreath and Gerald Woolard are the newly-elected vice-presidents of their respective classes.

Chosen as class secretaries were Sue Evans, Chris Lepper and Suzanne Amwawe.

Treasurers will be Len Obergfell, Ray Prater and Fred Vanderlice.

Allen, an English and physical education major from McDowell, is on the baseball and cross country teams. He is a member of the Collegiate Knights and the dorm council of North Men's Hall.

Mills, resident of Mt. Gilgoad, is a member of the Campus Club and the chairmanship council of Circles.

Vance, Sports Editor for the Trail Blazer, hails from Frankfort and is an English major. He was president of the freshman

Morehead Graduates Should Pursue Future In Kentucky

"Gracious living and hospitality will not provide jobs for the graduating seniors of Morehead State College," stated Kentucky Governor Bert T. Combs in a student convocation in Butts Auditorium Monday, May 21.

In connection with a program to bring government closer to the people of the state, Combs visited the Morehead campus, spoke at faculty and student convocations, and laid the cornerstone stone to the college's new administration building.

Combs' personable manner and outgoing character was highly evident as he readily shook hands, signed autographs, and mingled with the student body. Speaking to approximately 200 students, Combs emphasized the importance of education and highways to Kentucky's progress. Encouraging questions from the convocation at large, Combs answered with concern, ever stressing the importance of young college graduates pursuing their future in Kentucky.

Unique in this visit was the desire on the part of state officials to meet and talk with the future leaders of our state. It is gratifying to know that the opinions and wishes of the college student are afforded an appreciable degree of significance by our state government. This event has been but one in a program of such visits and seminars conducted by the helping to provide them with opportunities in

Student Council Rules Aid Elections

In relation to the past, a commendable change has been evidenced in the conducting of class elections. This year the Student Council has taken the responsibility for all major elections, resulting in a more efficient procedure and greater amount of student participation.

Student Council President Dick Robinson reports that class elections this year were engaged in by approximately six times as many students as availed themselves of the same opportunity last year. This is a direct result of a program designed to make class elections more accessible to the student.

This year, aspirants for class offices were required to file the candidacy no later than one week before election day. Voting booths were installed in the Doran Student House making the election accessible to all. Eligibility for voting in each class was checked according to a student directory and names were placed in separate boxes according to class. A public count was held by the Student Council and results were immediately made known.

Last year's procedure involved the election meeting at which time candidates were both officers at a specially designated class nominated for office and voted on. Confusing activities cut down on the number of students participating in limited participation in the elections.

The success of the Student Council has been greatly evident in these more efficient election procedures. More votes have been cast, poll work has been excellent, and results have been obtained with speed and clarity. The council certainly deserves a measure of commendation for a job well done in improving the election situation on the campus.

Expression Of Appreciation Is Due Raconteur Staff For Job Well Done

Certainly an expression of appreciation is in order if directed toward the 1962 Raconteur staff for a job well done. This year's fortieth anniversary edition has lately been the object of many favorable and well warranted comments.

Excellent layout, vivid pictures, and a unique history of the college combine into as fine a college yearbook as will be found anywhere. The staff's ability to capture the various aspects of college life in pictures and writing will prove to be a valuable keepsake to students for years to come as well as providing a "sneak preview" for prospective students. It is a credit and an asset to the institution.

Possibly the key to the Raconteur's success has been the hard work and effective organization of editor Harry Weber. Weber, a graduate student in guidance and counseling, began work on this year's edition early last summer and has labored untiringly until the last copy reached hands of its subscriber last week.

High on Weber's "top list" has been the need of associate editor Sharon McClelland. "Without her help the 1962 Raconteur could have never been a reality. Complete cooperation from section editors down to typists has been the story behind this year's edition.

To follow in the footsteps of one such as the editorial task has fallen to one who is Weber would be a difficult task indeed. But equally well qualified to do an outstanding job. The Trail Blazer takes this opportunity to extend its support to 1963 editor Tom Robinson governor for college students.

The apparent student interest was noticed in the response given to the governor's request for a questioning period. A number of relevant and well-worded questions were directed to the governor from which informative discussion ensued.

From this experience the thought comes to mind concerning the responsibility of college students as leaders of tomorrow's world to keep abreast of current affairs and to cultivate interest in the function and affairs of government. Students of Morehead State College, whether resident or out of state, should recognize their duty and obligation to Kentucky for the field of education.

Commencement Is A 'Time Of Beginning'

For thousands of students throughout the country the beginning of summer will mark the end of four years spent among the rigors, responsibilities, romances, and refinement associated with obtaining a college education. The culmination of this four year existence is an observance known as commencement.

This term is not only foreign to the vocabulary of the college student, as it normally suggests last good-byes, academic processions, caps and gowns, and the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance". Generally it is looked upon as a time of ending a particular period in one's life.

But what actually defines "commencement" as a "time of beginning", and rightly it should be so. For most, graduation from college will mark the embarkation onto a vast new set of experiences — that part of one's life for which he has spent the last 16 years making preparation. Possibly it can be depicted as a time of indifference rather and dependence, rather than reliance, responsibility rather than reliance, or "papa" rather than "son".

This change, possibly for some an abrupt one, does not present itself as an insurmountable obstacle. The sixteen years mentioned above take care of that. College has provided the beginning of that.

To the graduating senior, he's hoping your future years are filled with success and joy. To the underclassman, he's hoping you can hold out until the battle is over.

Graduate Program

Those receiving their M.A. degrees in education this term represent the increasing number of teachers who are returning for advanced training.

Some of these wish to become school leaders. Some wish only to become more effective teachers. That an increasing number of Morehead's graduate students are in the latter category bodes well for the future of our educational system.

Undoubtedly, the Graduate Program at Morehead will play an increasingly important part in the improvement of education in Kentucky, especially in the Morehead region.

Student Voters Should Register

All students who are not already registered voters are reminded that registration with their county clerk is necessary to be eligible to vote in the general election this fall. Registration books will be re-opened at all court-houses on June 4 and will close Sept. 8, 59 days before election day. Any Kentuckian who is 18 years of age by Nov. 6 is eligible to register and vote.

Most students will be away from their homes on election day, Tuesday, Nov. 6, but will be able to vote by absentee ballot. The recent General Assembly made some changes in the absentee voting law but those qualified to use this method of voting still include "any bona-fide full time college student who expects to be away from his home on election day."

Morehead students should all remember their obligation to their country and their state and observe this greatest of freedoms — the freedom of choice — and register and vote on election day.

CONSTRUCTION WORKER ??? — Granted Morehead's construction program is continually expanding, but when did such pretty girls as Loretta Tackett from Southgate, Michigan, start working cranes? Actually, our Calendar Girl was only looking at the construction being done on Mignon Hall, the new women's dormitory, when she decided to get into the cab of the clam crane and get a bird's-eye view of the proceedings.

Fashion Wise

Women's Wigs Are Becoming Stylish Again

Girls, wigs are in style again. The first fashion wave in wigs started centuries ago, and they were especially popular at the court of Louis XV. It is estimated that there are from 200,000 to 500,000 women who now are possessors of wigs, and this does not take into consideration the two million American men and women who wear wigs of necessity.

An advantage for you sports-minded girls is that you can go swimming and have a heavy duty afterward without having wet, stringy hair. Just grab your wig and slap it on your head, and you will look glamorous.

A wig requires very little care, and will hold its band box fresh look for weeks and months at a time. When the wig is soiled, you just leave it at your hairdresser's for a dry cleaning and hair setting. If you are a do-it-yourselfer, you can take care of it at home.

The best wigs are made of natural curly, undyed and unbleached human hair. It takes a worker about a week to make a wig, as there are approximately 200,000 human hairs to be handknotted in a good wig. The best hair comes from Italy. The wig weighs only three or four ounces. For about $200, one can get one made of synthetic fibers mixed with human hair and machine made. The wig can be shortened by cutting, or lengthened by adding "loner" hair. Each wig has a different color, the hairpiece can be tinted or bleached.

"Filled to capacity" are words that describe the calendar of events for this sunny month of May at Morehead State College, especially for the grandiose traditions, banquets and bachelorette parties — annual dances — picnics and outings are just a few of the events that have or will take place this month.

Upsilon CWENS

The CWENS Initiation Feast was an event of May 1. The Home Economics Department was the scene for the festive occasion where new members were accepted into the Upsilon Chapter according to Anglo-Saxon tradition.

Kappa Mu

May 1 was also the date of the annual Kappa Mu spring banquet. Members and their guests enjoyed a talk on Vocational Guidance presented by Dr. Vernon A. Musselman of the University of Kentucky. Newly elected officers were installed by outgoing president Allan Smith. Other honored guests attending the banquet were charter members Mrs. Virginia Caudill and Mrs. Anna Bay, Mr. John Bay, Miss Alice Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Appel, Dr. Hollie Sharpe, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Conyers.

Open Forum

The Open Forum record hop on the tennis courts proved a huge success. A general consensus of student opinion is, "There should have been more dances like it."

CAPA Tridents

The new women's social club campus, CAPA Tridents celebrated their recent arrival with a dinner at the Old South Inn in Winchester. The 15 new members and faculty sponsor, Dr. Margaret Heaslip, attended the dinner.

Campus Club

The annual Campus Club spring formal was quite a success! Many alumni Campus Clubbers returned to campus for the festive event. Music was furnished by the Hal Scott orchestra.

Banquet

The Banquet staff and the Trail Blazer staff had a joint banquet May 17 in the Doran Student House. Ray Hornback served as toastmaster. Following the presentation of the 1963 officers of the Raconteur and Trail Blazer, Dr. Doran spoke to the group about the value of student publications on our campus.

STUDENTS OF THE ISSUE

Sandra Miller Is An Active MSC Student

From Ashland, Ky. comes Sandra Miller, an elementary education major and history minor, whose likable personality and participation in activities on MSC campus have been responsible for choosing her student of the issue.

After graduation from Booker T. Washington, Sandi attended Ashland College for two years where she was a member of the French Club, BSU and chorus. Sandi received a $100 academic scholarship in recognition of her high achievement.

Sandi, who is doing her student teaching at the Ashland Training School (third grade), has belonged to such MSC organizations as the BSU, Cosmopolitan Club and French Club. In addition, she has participated in Better Dress Week and the Student Body picnic. She has been on the Dean's List since she entered Morehead, and is looking forward to her studies at the center.

Dear Ann Slanders (With Apologies To Ann Landers)

Dear Ann, Since college is nearly over for another year (hooray!) I will be looking for a summer job. My sister told me the only way to get a job is to bid, but my mother said that I can't type or take dictation. I get a good, decent job. I would need a car and I just to get the job! Sooner or later they will find out the job. Wouldn't be suited for the job.

Dear Jobless, Don't let whatever you do. Take it from old experience that takes time to get used to. I told you in my paper that I knew how to solve problems, well, let me tell you, my problems are much worse than yours.

Dear Ann, I have this super duper chance to go abroad this summer to work on an olive plantation in Spain. It offers very good pay and most of the laborers are Spanish. Since I came from college in Spain, I feel this would be a chance of my life. I told you in my paper that I knew how to solve problems, well, let me tell you, my problems are much worse than yours.

Dear Oliver, Don't tell them you hate olives until you are on the olives. Spas and your host are sailed for home, then tell them. Surely they could get it. Good luck and please say hello to Senor Pedro Pancho for me. He's a friend of mine.

Dear Ann, Remember a few months ago when I wrote to you about my Aunt Helen from Cincinnati? Well, I just had to write to let you know that she was as spry as any

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

This is the final column of my eighth year of writing for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, and this year, as in every preceding year, when I come to the last column of the season, I come to a problem.

My contract with the makers of Marlboro calls for me to write a humor column and, truly, I do the best I can—all things considered, I am not, I should explain, a jolly man by nature. Why should I be? First of all, I am shorter than everybody. Second, there are moths in my cashmere jacket. Third, I work in television.

All the same, when it comes time to write this column I light a good Marlboro Cigarette, put aside my trauma, and try with all the strength in my tiny body to make some jokes. Sometimes it works better than others, but on the last column of the year, it just flatly doesn't work at all.

Even in the very beginning this was true—and that, you will recall, was eight years ago when I was relatively young and strong and had not yet developed that nasty knock in my transmission. Well do I remember sitting down to write the final column of the year. Day followed lullard day, and not a yolk, not a huff, not a singer did I produce. I was about to give up and humor and take a job selling mechanical goods when all of a sudden, in a blinding flash, I realized why I couldn't think of any jokes.

I kept up from my typewriter and ran as fast as my little fat legs would carry me to the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, and I begged my forelock, and I said, "Sir, I am well aware that you have engaged me to write a humor column, but today, as I approach the final column of the season, I am far too misty to be funny, for the final column of the season is, after all, a leave-taking, and when I think of saying goodbye to my audience—the sweetest audience any columnist ever had—the college students of America—wonderful human beings, every man and woman of them—wise but kindly—astute but compassionate—perspicacious but forbearing—when, sir, I think of saying goodbye to such an audience, I am too shook up even to consider levity, so I ask you, sir, to let me, in the final column of the year, forgo humor and instead write a simple, dignified, straightforward farewell."

Then I took out my bandanna, wiped my eyes, ears, nose, and throat and waited for a reply from the makers of Marlboro. They sat around the polished board table, the makers, their handsome brows knit in concentration, puffing thoughtfully on the Marlboros in their tattooed hands. At length they spoke. "Yes," they said simply.

I never doubted they would say yes. People who make a cigarette as good as Marlboro must themselves be good. People who lavish such care on blending tobaccos so mild and flavorful, on deriving a filter so clean and white, on leaving a flip-top box so flip-top, on packing a soft pack so soft—people like that are one hundred percent with me!

And so from that day forward, the final column of the year—including the year you are, I devoutly hope, now reading—makes no attempt to be funny, but is instead a simple thank you and an adieu.

Thank you and an adieu, makers of Marlboro. The memory of our eight years together will remain ever fresh in my heart, and I would like to state for all the world to hear that if you want me back again next year, I shall expect a substantial raise in salary.

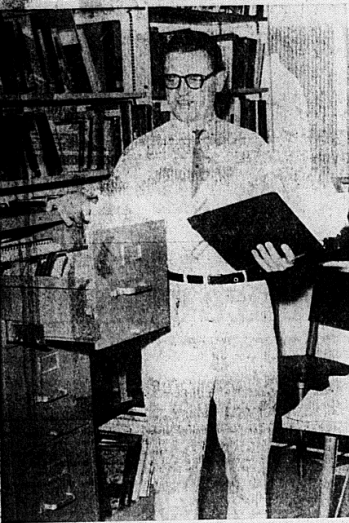

Thank you and an adieu, college students of America. May good luck attend all your ventures. Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

Small Max has said it all. We, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, can only add: beautiful second cigarette. Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

CHEERLEADERS—Miss Margaret Lupine presented Christie Lepper with her cheerleading certificate as Allan Gordon awaits his turn behind Christie. The other cheerleaders were: Albert Richardson, Sue Evans, Charlene Adkins, Thelma Barker, and Patty Clay.

ANOTHER BOOK ALMOST READY

Languages And Literature Chairman Is Writer, Reviewer

SCHOLARLY MANUSCRIPTS—Looking over his many manuscripts is Dr. George Boswell, chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature. His newest work on folklore, "Tennessee Folk Songs," is seen in the background. It will be submitted for publication this summer.

A quiet, impressive scholarly career is a mild description of the literary endeavors of Morehead's Chairman of Languages and Literature, Dr. George W. Boswell.

An expert writer and book reviewer, Dr. Boswell is currently preparing to submit "Tennessee Folk Songs" for publication. The work is 98 per cent complete and contains 700 collected and edited folk songs.

The author has been a book reviewer for the Nashville Tennessean and for many scholarly journals. He is vice-president of the Tennessee Philological Association, president of the Southern Folklore Society and councilor of the American Folklore Society.

Dr. Boswell is a member of a dozen or more professional organizations and in 1950 received the Jo Stafford Award in American Folklore.

He is also the author of "Tennessee Folk Songs," which consists of six collected and arranged songs, and "Fundamentals of Folk Literature," a text for college folklore classes.

But his scholarly publications have not been limited to folklore. Dr. Boswell has also written "An Instructional Handbook in Music," including history and sight-reading, and "A Study of the Bible as Literature," also a textbook for college classes.

Employed at Morehead with the rank of professor since 1950, the popular educator has been active in civic affairs and was recently elected president of the Breckinridge Parent-Teacher Association. Dr. Boswell received the B.S. and the M.A. from Vanderbilt University and the Ph.D. from Peabody College. He has also done work at David Lipscomb College and has taught at Sunbright (Tenn.) High School, Vanderbilt University and Peabody College.

Dr. Boswell has been invited by the National Council of Teachers of English to serve as chairman of a session of the annual convention to be held at Miami Beach, Nov. 22-24.

The session is "The Folk Tradition of Literature."

"It is indeed an honor to be chosen to serve as chairman of this session," Dr. Boswell asserted. "The topic is among my favorites."

New Social Club Formed At Morehead College

By John Hall

A new club has been formed and recognized on the Morehead State College campus—the Aquila Club. For those of you who don't know "Aquila" is the Greek word symbolizing a constellation of stars shaped as an eagle.

The Aquila Club was formed a short time ago by a group of college men who felt that there was not only room, but also a need for a new men's social club. Over the weeks of work and preparation, they were recognized as an active club by the Student Affairs Committee.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. John Collins, the Aquila Club hopes to promote a feeling of good will, good character and a sense of responsibility among its members and the student body as a whole. Thus, in addition to providing a means of relaxation and pleasure for its members, it hopes to help the student body and college as a whole.

All of us have used the library at one time or another and those who haven't don't stay long enough to tell of it.

The library is an excellent place to study, do research or just read for pleasure, but it also has many other facilities to offer. The Reference Room is the room most frequently visited by students, but the library has three floors and at least a dozen rooms, each of which has some service to benefit the student.

On the first floor there are the magazine rooms. The library subscribes to 600 different periodicals covering every type of subject matter. The periodical room has many technical magazines and periodicals of a specialized nature.

It also provides a pleasant place to study or just enjoy the air-conditioning on these hot days. The browsing Room is a place for relaxation complete with comfortable chairs, magazines, and a phonograph.

On opposite sides of the main entrance are the Kentucky and the James Still rooms. The Kentucky Room is devoted to books whose subject or author are on or from Kentucky. LESSON 8—Becoming a specialist Experienced girl watchers, for whom routine watching has lost some of its excitement, often become specialists. (This is definitely not recommended for beginners. However, it may be practiced as a change-of-pace by more advanced students.) They may spend an entire field trip concentrating on one part of a girl. This tends to step up activity, since it does not require that the whole girl be beautiful. For example, if you decide to specialize in knees, you watch only beautiful knees. (The dorman above appears to be an ankle specialist.) Whatever your watching specialty, make sure your smoking specialty is Pall Mall's natural mildness—it's so good to your taste.

Trail Blazer Senior Athletes Of The Year

John Galloway

Ray O'Keefe

Jim Scobee

Marshall Banks

Granville Williams

Tony Gast

Jim Hastings

Allan Gordon

Chad Stewart

The Sports Department of the Trail Blazer have chosen who they think are the outstanding senior athletes during the year 1963-64.

This past year hasn't been what those concerned with Morehead might consider successful in athletics.

A series of bad breaks and a lack of experience in spring sports were the main factors. We all know that the boys have put forth 100 per cent all year. However, there are some boys who have put forth 100 per cent for four years. These boys devoted a great deal of their college life to their respective sports.

These seniors which we are speaking of will receive no great recognition on the most part, other than the satisfaction of knowing that they worked hard for Morehead State College.

Credit, then, must be placed where credit is due. That being the senior athletes, they will come. We praise them all, and although every one isn't recognized here, they have done their part through their contribution.

Here is a run-down of who we the sports staff, feel are most deserving. Not that all seniors aren't, this is simply our choice. You may not agree—but we doubt it. Golf—John Galloway—"Catdog" as he is referred to by his friends, is a product of North Middleton, Ky. John played second man on this year's team. He turned in some excellent rounds on Cocks Jack Merrill's crew.

Track—A tops-up all the way. Two fellows who have won more meets and scored more points in four years than the whole team did this year. They are Jim Scobee and Marshall Banks.

Scobee—Mr. Versatility himself. Jim could do anything in track except throw the shot—and then again we couldn't sell him short on that. Scobee has starred in the dashes, the distance runs and the jumping events and has scored points in all of them.

Banks—Speed is his middle name. Truly a great athlete. That's Marshall Banks. Marshall ran the dashes for this year and won both the 100 yard dash and the 220 dash in the recent Ohio Valley Conference meet at Richmond, Al.

though hampered by a leg ailment, Marshall has shown tremendous speed and is also a capable jumper. Proof of his contribution is the fact that he received one of the highest honors an athlete can hope to achieve. The track team has voted to retire his jersey, meaning no other person can wear it again. He also received the Mystic Club sportsman award.

Baseball—Jim Hastings—an all-around athlete, Hastings has excelled in both baseball and football for Morehead.

If there was kicking concerned with baseball, the versatile athlete would no doubt have the best control in the OVC.

Hastings, a fairly husky hurler for the diamond crew this year, came through in the clutch against Eastern in the division play off when he pitched Morehead to one of their important wins.

Soccer—Ray O'Keefe—Ray served as student manager and coach during the past year for Morehead's soccer team. . . . and it was a more than adequate job. Much credit should be given to this 'New York' senior. He has spent countless hours in his successful effort to give soccer a name at Morehead.

Ray can be seen almost every day during the season and even in the spring tutoring the team. He is a student leader on campus and has excelled in intramurals greatly during his four years at MSC.

Swimming—Allan Gordon—Allan is a well known figure on Morehead's campus because of his tremendous versatility. He was diver-supreme on this, the first year of inter-collegiate competition for the swimming team. He gained many points for Coach Jim Pack's crew this year and deserved credit for his devotion to the team.

Allan is that fellow that can defy the law of gravity so well. At least that's the way a certain teacher describes him. And that's the way it seems because of his graceful dives. He was also varsity cheerleader this year in both football and basketball.

Football—Anthony Gast—One of the most outstanding individuals on Morehead's campus this year, Tony served as captain of the Eagles football team. He showed great desire, hustle and ability. Tony's senior year crew over the past four years and made many sacrifices along the line.

He played in the middle of the line every year but one. During his junior year, the team was weak at the end position. So Tony filled in and did a more than adequate job.

Tony was recently elected by the coaching staff and players as the Most Valuable Player on the 1962 team. This honor says all that we are trying to say about Tony Gast.

Basketball—Granville Williams—"The greatest thing since sliced bread" to borrow an adage from another great basketballer—That is perfect for describing Granville Williams. His exploits on the hardwood need not be mentioned for they already have and will continue to be for many years hence.

He did for Morehead what Cris Columbia did for the United States—put them on the map. At least in athletic circles. Granville will play professional ball for the Pittsburgh Rens next season and he should make big leavers out of many fans up there during his climb to fame.

Tommy—Chad Stewart—Yes, we realize that Dr. Stewart is not a senior.

But we also realize that he won't be back at Morehead next year and there isn't a senior on the squad—So here's a special salute to Dr. Chad Stewart, a man who has contributed much to Morehead, both in athletics and academics.

One of the most well-liked teachers on campus, Dr. Stewart, through his superior force, brought Morehead a long way in tennis this year, as he prepared a future for the inexperienced team.

He's going to Murray next year in this circle. We, the Sports Department, would like to wish Dr. Stewart.

So that should just about do it—Our choice as athletes of the year, 1961-62.

It's a vision circle—freshmen in high school, freshmen in college and freshmen in life—these boys have finished two phases of this circle. We, the Sports Department, would like to wish them the very best on that last leg—and if their performance here at Morehead are any example of what they will do in the future—Well, no sweat.

Vance's Slants

Well, it's all over but the shoutin'—or cryin'—which ever the case may be.

The school year has come to a close—Oh joy oh rapture, and so has the sports year here at Morehead, and I'm left with nothing to write about except the sports year.

Alright, so it wasn't the best season ever, but I'm here to say that I'm darn proud of a bunch of fellows that got out there and did the work as best they could. To me, they are a high sight better than those "verbal athletes" that devoted their college days to griping about or running down the teams.

Maybe I'm being a little pessimistic in one respect, but I've heard plenty of it recently.

Maybe everyone isn't a Granville Williams, or a Howard Murphy, or a Moose Stewart, but they're out there giving it all they got, and fellas, I love ya for it.

If ya'll will pardon a corny quotation, "Ya win some, and ya lose some." Sure I know that much more was expected in athletics this year, but if ya'll stop and consider those little bad breaks and the fact that there was a lot of freshmen in the spring sports, I think we can all sort of take on the "Wait till next year" attitude. Next year we'll have practically the same teams in most sports, and with the right breaks I think we can go a long way.

I'm sorry if I got a little carried away, but I have a trait that no journalist should ever have—I'm sentimental—ain't that sweet? Come to think of it, I could use a lot of cliché's like "Ya can't win 'em all," "It's only a game," "It's not whether you win or lose, etc.," etc. But I reckon I've said enough.

SPECIAL THANKS

Before I go any further, or before you turn the page from pure boredom to the Ohio Valley Conference meet at Richmond, I have helped me along in my maiden voyage as a Sports Editor ("I guess you can tell it too"). Credit should be given to Bill Herbert, Jim Payton, Tom Almeida, the other members of the staff, my "technical advisors" Charlie Richardson and Dick Robinson—And sort of a special thanks to Max Benton.

Max has really been helpful in supplying me with the statistical statistics, etc. He's a real hustler that deserves a lot of credit not only for assisting me, but for playing a direct part in making this the finest year ever for intramural sports.

He's also quite a sports writer and has given me the stories I needed, already written up and I didn't ask one—Thanks Max. Since I'm on intramurals, congrats are in order for the 205 softball team. They played tremendous ball throughout the tournament and proof of this is their championship certificate which every boy received along with their T-shirts. Also hail the Mets, for their march to the finals of the tourney.

In awards day for the athletes, the intramural department announced the winners of an annual trophy given to the top point producer over the season.

This year the award went to a sophomore from Waverly, O., John "Paul" Jones. John, a likable sort of chap, acquired his points while playing on two championship teams and three very powerful challenges in the other sports.

Way to go Jones, John. (Private joke.) He's pretty good at Rock too.

The track season ended with Marshall Banks being one of the winners of the Ohio Valley Conference meet at Richmond. Marshall took first place for Morehead in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. This speed merchant will be greatly missed next year—oh well, Howard will be back.

I also understand that Norman "Gorilla" Pokley did pretty good in the OVC meet too. The surly basketballer received honors in the javelin toss. At a boy norm.

Although tennis and golf wasn't the most outstanding for Morehead in the OVC, as I said once before—they'll all be back next year.

BASEBALL

The Eagles came on strong toward the end of the season in baseball and earned a playoff for the Eastern division title.

And as usual, a bad break kept us from it. Rex Clancy's crew, who were the best hitting team in the conference this year, just couldn't manage a hit when they needed it most.

Thanks to guys like Moose Stewart, Dennis Doyle, Ray Allen, Harold Seargent, etc., etc. Morehead had probably one of the best hitting teams in the OVC.

Moose broke the OVC home run record with six round-trippers and Tom Ellis tied it with four.

Doyle stole nine bases to crack the record in that department by three.

Stan Morgan slammed two doubles in the Eagles final game of the year against Ohio University.

Way to go Stan — we knew you could do it!

Tony Gast, a very deserving fellow, received the Most Valuable Player Award at honors day. It was voted to him by the coaching staff and his fellow members of the football team.

Marshall Banks, whom I spoke of before, received what is possibly the highest honor any athlete could hope to. By popular demand, the college is going to retire his jersey. And it couldn't happen to a nicer fellow.

As Sports Editor, I would like to take this opportunity to give praise to the following boys: Tony Gast, Jim Hastings, Fred Hall, Pete Swain, Ed Noe, Tony Hamilton, Granville Williams, Marshall Banks, Jim Scobee, Ray O'Keefe, Dick Kinsinger, and I missed one, PLEASE forgive me.

These fellows have done more than their share over the past four years and on behalf of everyone—We'll miss ya, fellas—in more ways than one.

Boy, my column is beginning to sound more like I'm signing an annual. But the school year is up, these boys won't be back next year, and I feel they deserve one last bit of recognition.

Well, that just about does it. For this year, I've been my pleasure ("Cause I know you haven't enjoyed it"). I hope your team wins the Series. (Hope you're not backing the Mets though.) Stay cool this summer chillun'. Put your money on Ridan in the Belmont, and I'll see ya'll in the fall.

Gallion At The Bat

By Ray ALLEN

Young Ray Gallion child of scorn, Sits on the bench all forlorn, Reminiscing of his previous form, And generating the bench heat to keep warm.

Why so weary and why so glum? Pretty soon you will come; Sit there chewing your gum, And wishing it was your home run.

Young Ray Gallion child of scorn, Sits on the bench all forlorn, Reminiscing of his previous form, The only uniform not soiled and worn. Belongs to the youthful child of scorn.

With malice toward none, and encouragement for all, He is regretful of his mediocre fall, But wishes for his chance to play ball, For sitting there he feels so small.

Eager to play and get his chance, He dreams of the day of romance; Leaves the bench to practice his stance, While the spectators give him a sneering glance.

Young Ray Gallion, child of scorn, Sits on the bench all forlorn, But a great player he does join, With his heat to keep the bench warm.

He knows he can hit the ball, When he gets his chance, if at all; For lack of confidence, he will never fall, He painfully awaits his starting call.

Young Ray Gallion, child of scorn, Loves the game, but is still forlorn; He meditates and celebrates his previous form, But inwardly curses the bench, he must warn.

Get in there Gallion! Here's your chance; The score's knotted in the ninth at a glance; He struts to the plate, and assumes his stance, Knowing if he fails, it'll be his pants.

Young Ray Gallion, child of scorn, Has his chance to not be forlorn; If only he can regain his lost form, He will never again keep the bench warm!

He rubs his sweaty hands upon his pants, And sets himself in his crouching stance; At last he has found his romance, And eyes the pitcher with an icy glance.

A speeding sphere is thrown at his head, Gallion falls down as if he were dead; As the pitcher smirks and wipes his forehead, Ray slowly rises from his dirt bed.

Up and ready for the next pitch, He gives his bat a determined hitch; As the pitch is made he counts every stitch, Before he unleashes his tremendous swish.

Like a shot, out of a cannon traveling in space, The deminishing sphere sailed over the leftfield fence; Tears filled his eyes as he touched each base, And the crowd cheered wildly as he crossed home plate.

The rain came down in his face, And someone scooted him off his place; His stream of thought was way off base, For a day dream of the comatose place.

Young Ray Gallion, child of scorn, Hit the ball despite his forlorn; Won the game and kept the bench warm.

205's Win Intramural Softball Playoff

The curtain closed on a tense and exciting softball season with the 205's being crowned 1962 intramural softball champions.

They won a four team playoff to determine the championship. The playoff was a cross-league affair with the winner of one league meeting the runner-up of the opposite league in the best of three series. The final met also in a best of three series.

The National League champions, the Islanders, met the American League runner-ups, the 205's, with the latter winning by scores of 4-2 and 6-1.

Dennis Landsberg was the hitting hero of the double victory by collecting four hits in four trips to the plate. He had seven runs batted in, and scored three runs himself to account for the 10 run total for his team in both games.

The Mets moved into the final series with the 205's via two forfeits against the Slaughter House Nine, National League runner-up.

In the first game, the 205's edged the Mets 6-5.

With two outs in the bottom of the fourth, Pete Verhoven doubled and then Mike Witt singled sharply to right-center to score Verhoven with the deciding run of the contest.

Joe Marzullo, with a double and single in two trips was the only Met with any offensive punch.

With the 205's leading 2-1 in the bottom of the fifth, the Mets attempted to start an uprising.

After the first two men flied out, Portera singled to center. Hank Rogers doubled to right with Portera taking third. Coach Bocoen sent to his bench for pinch hitter Mike Fletcher.

Fletcher took the first pitch for a strike and on the second pinch hit a liner between third and short. But third baseman Pete Verhoven speared it on a beautiful catch for the third out and the championship for the 205's.

This play, and bad base runner proved to be the deciding factor against the Mets in the second and final game.

PRESSMAN AT WORK—Tom Erwin, Morehead State College Pressman, is shown here working with the multilith machine in the Public Relations Office. Erwin, a former resident of Huntington, West Virginia, has been working for the college with this machine and others since June, 1961.

AN ACTIVE STUDENT

Pressman Combines Hard Work, Fun

For everyone who has ever had a chance in the past to see the marvelous world of TV, perhaps they will remember the daytime series about the Erwin Family. It now appears as if we have one of these hard working members right here on campus, or at least he likes to occasionally tell people that he really is related to the famous Stu Erwin.

Then, when they start asking if he can get them an autograph or a screen test, he jokingly lets them in on the truth that though the name's the same, the relationship is nonexistent.

This happy individual on the Morehead State College campus is none other than William "Tom" Erwin, the pressman for the Public Relations Office. A six-foot, four-inch sandy haired giant from Huntington, W. Va., Erwin is an avid sports fan and rarely misses an Eagle game even though his many duties in the Public Relations Office keep him continually busy.

Working long hours doesn't affect the nature of the lovable pressman, which can be seen in the statement he gives when people ask him why he works so hard and long. "I am very fond of Morehead State College and I intend to put forth all I can to better the college. This includes working hard to make our publications the state's best."

And, although his job takes up a great deal of his time, Erwin is well known over the campus and is extremely active in student affairs. He is a member of the Mystic Club and the BSU, and is carrying an English course to help him in his future work.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Sebert Erwin of Huntington, Erwin has prepared all his relatively short life for a job as a printer. Besides his academic subjects in Huntington East High, he also attended trade school where he carried such courses as blueprint reading, drafting, vocational math, photography, and subjects in the field of the graphic arts.

Since I came here in June, 1961," said Erwin, "I have learned to love this campus and my work, and though I have had several other tempting offers to work elsewhere I intend to stay in Morehead for I have many friends here and enjoy the friendly atmosphere which prevails over the campus."

Trail Blazer —

staff he has assembled we feel will do an excellent job next year," said Ray Hornbeck, Director of Public Relations and chairman of the Board of Student Publications.

Dixon follows another Paintsville native, Harry Mayhew, who was editor of the Trail Blazer this year.

Through the years Cherry has completed many projects, each year, for instance, last year she completed projects in clothing, foods, room improvement, freezing, canning, junior leadership and automotive. She was ranked third in the state for her excellent work in the room improvement project.

One of her greatest roles in 4-H Club work is serving as a junior leader. In this capacity she has helped other 4-H Club members to complete their projects.

Cherry has also helped with county 4-H rallies, county fairs, junior and senior county 4-H programs. Last year she was selected as county 4-H State champion and represented the county in state competition at 4-H Week in Lexington.

For the last two years, Cherry has been chosen as the county's outstanding 4-H Club member and county 4-H president. She is serving on the county 4-H Council.

Prompted by the statement asking what would keep the proposed junior college from getting out of land, Combs answered, "Every Kentucky youth should have the opportunity to be exposed to a college education."

"We have five junior colleges now and the legislature has approved four more," he continued.

The state cannot establish any other junior colleges as the law now stands.

A balance between the present and future colleges will be maintained," Combs concluded.
