Circle K, Kiwanis Recount Civic Activities In Morehead Area

The Morehead State College Circle K Club and Morehead's Kiwanis have recently completed sign projects in conjunction with the Morehead Beautification Program. Kiwanis is currently planning its annual radio auction which will be held on the campus of the college.

Three signs stating "Welcome to Morehead, Population 4,100, Home of Morehead State College, Kiwanis International" have been placed at strategic entrances to the city. Two are on U.S. 40 and one on Flemingburg Road.

The Circle K Club, an organization sponsored by the Morehead State College, has been active in civic leadership among college students, has erected circular signs with a large circle K in the center bordered by Kiwanis International.

Plans are underway to hold the Kiwanis radio auction within the month. Proceeds will be donated equally to the Little League and Crippled Children Funds. Kiwanis members will be in charge of the auction.

Among other projects completed by Kiwanis are: polio clinics during the fall and winter of 1962-63 in which 5,000 participated; a $1,000 pledge to the Hospital Fund paid in 25 months; and a second pledge on the Hospital Fund's Second Mile Drive.

Circle K projects have aided St. Clare Hospital, Fine Crest Children's Home, Morehead State College's Homecoming, Sabin's oral polio clinics and numerous other worthwhile projects.

Kiwanis members meet each Tuesday evening at 6 at Lili Ab-ners. There are 29 members of the organization. Circle K, with 35 student members meets weekly in the college cafeteria.

Trail Blazer Feature Writer

Over 29 schools representing 12 Kentucky counties will participate in the annual Kentucky State Music Festival, to be held on the Morehead State College campus.

The festival will begin Saturday, March 23, and will continue on March 30 and April 6.

Keith M. Huffman, Coordinator for the Music Festival said, "This is the largest festival to ever be held on campus and should prove to be the best in many years."

On March 23 students performing instrumental solos and ensembles will be judged.

The next Saturday, March 30, all vocal, piano, and chorus events will take place.

The bands will mark the end of the festival on April 6, as each band will be rated according to the quality of their performance.

There will be 25 bands, 430 instrumental solos and ensembles, 100 vocal solos and ensembles, 75 piano solos and ensembles and 40 choruses performing in the festival.

Rules Make Challenge

Some of the rules governing the festival are:

There is a prescribed selection of music that may be chosen from.

There is a time limit on the performance.

Memorization of music is compulsory for vocalists.

Solo instrumentalists are not required to have their music memorized but the judges will take it into consideration if it is.

Students performing solos and ensembles will receive medals for Superior ratings.

Participating Schools

MARCH 26 IN FIELDHOUSE

The Four Preps Will Perform At Morehead State Tuesday

The Four Preps, nationally famous singing group, will perform at the Morehead State College Fieldhouse at 8 p. m. Tuesday, March 26.

The group is being sponsored by the Student Council and the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

"All students should take advantage of the opportunity provided them to hear these singers perform," said Paul West, president of the Student Council. "If the student participation is good, we may be able to contact some other nationally known performers and have them come to Morehead in the future," said West.

Called "The Best"

The Preps, sometimes called "the best entertainment group in the country because of their versatility and exceptional abilities as vocalists and visual performers," were contacted in hopes of providing a greater variety of big-name entertainment for MSC students.

As a singing group, the Preps "cut" their first hit record, "Dreamy Eyes," in 1957 on the Capitol label. However, it was their million-selling "26 Miles" that made them national celebrities in 1958.

In the brief career of the Four Preps, they have appeared on Ed Sullivan's show four times, Ernie Ford show six times, the Ozzy and Harriet show six times, and Dick Clark's show 14 times. In addition, they have played almost every major state fair in the country and all of the top night clubs, including Los Angeles' Cocomat Grove, and Hollywood's Cirococo.

Their college appearances have taken them to every state of the union, and recently at the University of Illinois and University of South Dakota they broke all existing attendance records.

A talent show at Hollywood High School in 1955 marked the beginning of the Four Preps' career as singers. They were the only boys to be on the show, however they had plenty of company as 25 girls were also on the show.

Glen Larson, spokesman of the Preps, stated, "We were terrible, but we were the only boys in school the faculty could persuade to be on the show; so we were a smash."

Group Members

The members of the group are Bruce Belland, Glen Larson, Marvin Ingram, and Ed Cobb. Belland, shortest member of the group, is fond of paring out one competitor whom the Preps parody in a slightly different way. Ranging in height from Belland's 5' 6" to Cobb's 6' 5", the climax of the Preps' act is when Cobb leaps into Bruce's arms is carried off the stage.

"THE SIGN IS HERE"

Activities Calendar Lists Coming Events

By GINNY HUDGINS
Trail Blazer Feature Writer

"Cheer, cheer — the sign is here!" say the students of Morehead State College.

Yes, the Morehead State College Calendar of Events sign has been erected in the front of the Doran Student House. The sign, ordered by the Council of Presidents at a cost of better than $900, is intended to better inform the students of the coming activities at MSC.

It is divided into three panels. The left panel in the sign shows the events of the present month. In the center panel are the dates and activities of the present week, and in the panel at the right are the coming events of the coming month.

5,000 Letters Ordered

Over 5,000 white letters were ordered to go with the sign, and they are being placed on a dark blue, weather-proof background to enable them to stand out better.

A light comes on in the sign about the same time the street lights do, thus allowing students to be able to read the sign at night.

"It is the feeling of the Council of Presidents," said Paul West, originator of the idea for the sign, "that the sign will greatly aid students in planning for coming events."

It is in addition to the campus that has been needed for a long time, and it is finally here, commented West.

Regional Speech Festival Will Begin On Campus March 22

The School Services Department and Speech Department of Morehead State College will play host to over 229 participants in the Northeastern Kentucky Regional High School Speech Festival on March 22 and 23.

Friday's activities will begin at 9 a. m. with a day of debating in which seven high school students will gain speech experience by helping with the judging. Members from speech classes will act as timekeepers for the events.

On Saturday at 3 p. m. the winners of all events will be announced in Button Auditorium. These winners will represent their region of the state at the State High School Speech Festival in Lexington.

Those students interested in debating and listening to the speech activities may do so.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS—The students pictured above are looking at the new Morehead State College Calendar of Events sign, which was ordered by the Council of Presidents. All coming events of a two-month period will be posted on the sign.

SING ALONG WITH THE FOUR PREPS—The Four Preps, nationally famous singing group, will perform at Morehead State College on March 26 in the college Fieldhouse. The Preps were brought to Morehead through the joint efforts of the Student Council and the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

FOUR NEW DORMS ADDED

Student Housing Has Doubled At MSC During Last 3 Years

By John Hawn

Trail Blazer Feature Writer

As one of the nation's fastest growing colleges, the student housing facilities at Morehead State College have doubled since the opening of North Men's Hall in 1960.

Prior to that time, there were only four residence halls on the college campus. Thompson Hall and East Men's Halls were the men's dormitories and Allie Young and Field's Hall served as residences for the girls.

With the transportation, the opening of North Men's Hall, a 200-room resident hall, the housing problem for men was lightened and Thompson Hall was converted into a women's dormitory. However, in 1960 with the opening of North Men's Hall, a 200-room resident hall, the housing problem for men was lightened and Thompson Hall was converted into a women's dormitory. However, a large number of students were still facing the problem of crowded conditions as three students were still living in one room.

Housing for married students also increased in 1960, as the 100-unit Lakewood Terrace housing project was completed.

Building Sky-Rockets

The new construction of dormitories in 1960 was only a preview of what was to come, as by the end of the year, student housing facilities for students doubled in the next two years.

During this time, one of the most modern girls' residence halls in the nation, Mignon Hall, was completed and 300 junior and senior girls were moved from Field's Hall to the new building. Two men's dorms were also completed soon after North Men's opened. Butler Hall, a 200-man building, was the first of these, and more housing space was opened to make students with the completion of Wilson Hall, another 200-man hall.

This rapid building growth was in direct relation to the population of the past eight years at Morehead, which saw each new semester enrollment breaking all previous records.

New Buildings Planned

Entering into still another new era of growth, the college is planning even more dormitories for single and married students, as they have released a Master Plan of construction which is designed to set up student housing to accommodate over 6,000 students by 1970.

However, the rugged topography of the campus, while adding to the attractiveness of its setting, inhibits lateral growth. The cost of purchasing additional land contiguous to the campus has proven to be unduly prohibitive because of exorbitant values placed upon such land.

The only alternative is to build high-rise buildings of up to 10 or 12 stories to utilize to the fullest extent the existing and available land and to group these buildings in a more compact arrangement.

And, this is what the Master Plan proposes to do in the near future.

AND THE NEW—Since 1960, these four dormitories have been opened for use by Morehead State College students, along with the married housing unit, Lakewood Terrace. These new dormitories are (clockwise from bottom): Wilson Hall, North Men's Hall, Mignon Hall and Butler Hall (center).

THE FASHION SCENE ON CAMPUS

Good Grooming Is Judged By A 'Long' and A 'Short' View

What's good grooming? According to the National Institute of Drycleaning, good grooming is your overall appearance and is made of subtle, almost subconscious, impressions which people attach to your personality instead of your clothes.

What's this impression made of—and how is it usually achieved? Good grooming has a "long view"—the first impression people catch of you when you're still some distance away—and a "short view," or close-up.

Here are tips from the National Institute of Drycleaning—how member cleaners will be celebrating Good Grooming Week April 22-27.

The Long View

If you want to look your best coming down the corridor, or sidewalk, or aisle of a theatre, ask yourself these questions:

Do the shoulders of your suit or dress fit comfortably? Or in order for them to feel right must you assume an unnatural posture? If you're a woman, does the waist seem hit at your precise waistline (assuming the designer has placed your waistline there), or is it an inch too far up or down? If you're wearing a coat, does it feel baggy, or draggy, at the armholes? Does it hang unevenly?

If you have any of these noise-destrating symptoms, bundle the offending clothes off to your tailor and have him make alterations.

To look your best while talking to a friend, or in your office, or at a social function, ask yourself these questions:

If you're a man, does your coat collar hug the back of your neck—yet not hide your shirt? Are you sure no lines are exposed? Are lapels evenly rolled—not creased—not to the top button? Here are the close-up looks you should expect from a professional drycleaning job:

All the creases, of course, should be spotlessly clean and odor-free. Colors should be sharp, whites white.

There should be no impressions behind buttons, over seams, pockets, or flaps.

Cuffs should be smooth and even. Puckers at cuffs or seams should be eliminated. Trousers should be creased neatly—no double creases. In pleated trousers the crease should meet the pleat.

Sleeves should be rolled rather than creased—although a professional drycleaner will, of course, respect your wishes.

No wrinkles or shine or impressions should show on your clothes. For women's clothes, there should be no sharp creases except pleats, and pleats should hang straight. Rolled pleats should be finished softly, not creased. Gathers and tucks should also be finished softly. Hemlines should be straight and even. Linings shouldn't show.

Of course, you must not expect all this with clothes that are badly tailored or ill fitting.

Art Dept. Holds Exhibit In Allie Young

An art exhibit, consisting of 27 watercolors entitled "The City—Three Views" is to be shown the remainder of this month in the Morehead State College Art Department Art Gallery in Allie Young Hall.

These three views of the city were painted by John M. Angelini from Livingston, N. J.; Henry Gasser, Newark, N. J.; and Leslie Flegel of New Gardens, N. Y. "All three of these artists are outstanding in the field of painting and Gasser is particularly well known as a member of the National Artists Organization which is quite selective as it selects the top artists in the United States to belong to its organization," said Naomi Claypool, head of the art department at Morehead State College.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME—The intramural season was completed as the Animals, light jerseys, defeated the Dwarfs 73-60. The championship was the third in four years for the Animals, who have a 42-1 record for the last four years. They ended the season with an 119 record.

Robinham Make Student Poll; Views Expressed On Season

By Dick Robinson and Dick Hamm

In an attempt to answer the often asked question of what happened to the Eagles this year, Robinham recently conducted a poll of 11 Morehead students. Each of the 11 was asked to give a serious comment on the following question: "What do you think of the 1962-63 basketball season just completed by Morehead's Eagles?"

The answers given are in no way a reflection of the feelings of Robinham, but are the sincere feelings of those interviewed.

"Players got sick of basketball—lack of desire—too much guard play; when the guards didn't score, lost."

"Terrible! I know we could have won the last Tech game if we wanted to—especially if everyone had Don Martin's attitude."

"We started and ended with a good team, but the second OVC game started a mental letdown that cost us the OVC."

"I thought at first that we wouldn't go anywhere, but after the Bonaventure game, I thought we were unbeatable. But then I think that after the long lay off, the boys let down."

"They fared better than I expected—I didn't expect too much. SSC doesn't see their forward to their full ability."

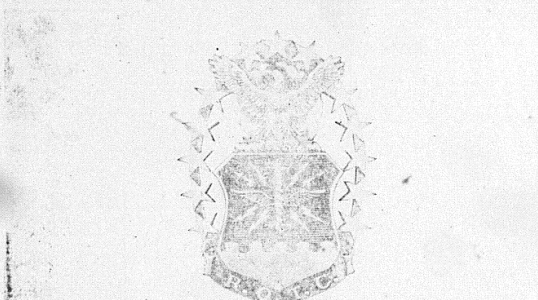

"After the home game we got a little too contented—then we lost desire and let up. I think that we should have given Thompson more of an opportunity to prove himself."

"I think they could have done much better—they folded—no desire, no goes the chair."

"Bunched peak too early, couldn't get up for the big ones after the home game, and without a Sergeant, the company was defeated."

"Team didn't seem to get up for the big one."

"I was disappointed in the ending. They had first place potential—but the ending—ugh—they lacked ambition—the only team I ever heard of who seemed like they didn't want to go to the NCAA."

ALLY'S ANGLES

By TOM ALMEIDA Intramural Editor

Hail to the conquering hero! The Animals, 1961-62 Intramural basketball champions, are back on the throne again this year. Dick Robinson's Animals, after dropping the Campus Club 55-45, eliminated the River Rats in a very close game. The championship game was with the "Dark Horse" Dwarfs, who came up through the semifinals only to be defeated by the Animals, 73-60.

In the first round games, the River Rats, Animals, Dwarfs, and the Bonaventure came out victorious. The River Rats, led by Joe Campbell's 20 points, defeated the Aquilas, 59-44. The Animals played the Campus Club basket for the combination of "little and snifter" because too much for them. Jim Little hit 15 points as Jr. Smittle poured through 13.

On the other side of the tournament, the Dwarfs pulled out a 2-1 record with 9 games with 8 team point victory over the Mets in 13 overtimes. At the end of the regular game, the score was tied 45-45, but a 22-point scoring binge by Lynan Stashyn pulled it out to the fire for the Dwarfs. The Bonaventure 55-51 upset of the Irish was attributed to Henry Lyons' 27-point output.

In the semifinals the Animals outscored the River Rats in their 37-30 victory. The Animals held the lead all through the game, but Joe Campbell's 15 points and Lester Stewart's 11 points kept the Rats dangerously close. The Dwarfs headed the Bonaventure to a close in the semifinals. Most of the heavy scoring was done by Bill Walner and Jim Mastrolaccia. The team has been a player-coach of the Animals in the finals.

The Animals have the longest and best reputation of any team in the history of intramural basketball at MSC. The name that Dick Robinson has built in the last 4 years is phenomenal. The team has been a player-coach of the Animals in their 4 years of existence.

Their record this year was 11-0, and their 2-year record is 25-0. This year, Robinson has coached the 2nd Basketball Championship. Robinson seems to have a "golden touch" as he has won 42 of his last 43 games. The Animals have been contenders for the intramural championship all four years, and the team this year has averaged 61.1 points a game to their opponent, only 37.5. The Animals' overall record for basketball.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I have a question I would like to ask the students of Morehead State College, and I would like to take this means of asking them. Do you like to dance, sing, or do comedy skits? Well, if so here is your chance to show your talent and have a great time. Yes, it is a talent show. The show is an annual event sponsored by the Student Council for the entertainment of the college and has always been something to look forward to here at MSC.

The first auditioning session will take place on Thursday, March 28, at 7 p.m. in Butson Auditorium.

If there are any questions about the type of acts or any other questions about the show, ask any Student Council member and he will be glad to answer your questions.

So, you all come and enjoy the fun of putting the show together. Who knows, it may be a start of a new career.

There will be a meeting of the Talent Show committee in the upstairs lounge of the Student House Thursday, March 28, at 4 p.m.

Thank you,

$745,700 Is Bid On Dorm At Morehead

Sullivan and Cozart's bid of $745,700 was $125,000 below the next lowest bid of $760,000, submitted by the Southeastern Construction Co., Charleston, W. Va.

The dormitory will be the fourth residence hall for men at Morehead State. Plans are prepared by head. Plans, architects and engineers, of Louisville.

After dinner she lapsed into a torpor from which I could not rouse her, matter how I tried. I langed my glass with a fork, I punched her great pendulous nose, I rubbed the legs of my cordoned pants together. But nothing worked. Finally I lashed her over my shoulder and carried her to the girls dorm, slipping several discs in the process.

Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the school. I had to pay for her a few extra, like X-rays, anesthesia, forceps, leucostats, scalp, instill, linen, towels, amortization, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurse.

AMONG MY KINFOLK

My favorite cousin, Mandolin Gleise, a sweet, unsuspicious country boy, has just started college. Today I got a letter from him which I will reprint here because I know Mandolin's problems are so much like your own. Mandolin writes:

Dear Mandolin (the thinks my name is Mandolin too), I use by the college paper that you are writing a column for Marlboro Cigarettes. I think Marlboro are jumpy-dandy cigarettes with real nice tobacco and a ginger-peach filter, and I want to tell you why I don't smoke them.

It all started the very first day I arrived at college. I was walking across the campus, swinging my paper valve and singing traditional airs like Rise Till Fit and Dead and Trembling, when all of a sudden I ran into this here collegiate-looking fellow with a megaphone on his breast pocket. He asked me was I a freshman. I said yes. He asked me did I want to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd. I said yes. He said the only way to make these here things happen was to join in fraternity. Fortunately he happened to have a piece card with him, so he picked my thumb and I signed. He didn't tell me the name of the fraternity or where it is located, but I suppose I'll find out when I go active.

She carried me to a blue hotel restaurant

Meanwhile this fellow comes around every week to collect dues, and I don't know how much, but I was looking for a meeting place as $5 assessment to buy a headstone for Spot, the late, beloved beagle who was the fraternity mascot.

I have never regretted being in the fraternity, because it is my dearest wish to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd, but you can see that it is not cheap. It wouldn't be so bad if I spent at this first house, but you must agree that I can't sleep at the house if I don't know where the house is.

I have rented a room which is not only grotesquely expensive, but it is not at all pleasant. I found was a bedroom in the home of a local costumer which is dingy, expensive, and uncomfortable—and I don't even get to use the bed till 11:00 when my landlady comes out to change the sheets.

Well anyhow, I got settled and the next thing I did, naturally, was to look for a girl. And I found her. Harriet, her name is, a beautiful creature standing just over five feet high and weighing 285 pounds. I first eyed her leaning against the statue of the Founder, doing lightly. I talked to her for several hours without effect. Only when I invited dinner did she stir. Her milky little eyes opened, she raised a heavily arm, and my nose, and carried me to a fine French restaurant called Le Chateau where she consumed, according to my calculations, her own weight in chateaufort.

After dinner she lapsed into a torpor from which I could not rouse her, matter how I tried. I langed my glass with a fork, I punched her great pendulous nose, I rubbed the legs of my cordoned pants together. But nothing worked. Finally I lashed her over my shoulder and carried her to the girls dorm, slipping several discs in the process.

Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the school. I had to pay for her a few extra, like X-rays, anesthesia, forceps, leucostats, scalp, instill, linen, towels, amortization, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurse.

So, their cousin, it is lack of funds, not lack of enthusiasm, that is keeping me from Marlboro Cigarettes—dead, godly Marlboro, with their fine blend of choice tobacco and their pure white seductive filter and their soft pack and their flip top and their... I must close now. My pencil is worn out and I can't afford another. Keep 'em flying.

J. D. Salinger, Glass Family Are Still On Literary Scene

By Clara Calhoun
Trail Blazer Society Editor

For those of you who wonder occasionally whatever became of J. D. Salinger, here is some information on his latest book, Raise High the Roof Beam, Salinger says he is currently working on further chronicles of the remarkable Glass family; meanwhile we now have two more of his magazine pieces on this subject.

As is the case of "Franny and Zooey", these reports appeared first in The New Yorker. Both the first in this volume are about Seymour, eldest of the Glass clan. The first came out in 1955 and the other in 1959.

For readers coming upon this family for the first time, it should be explained that Les Glass, who was Jewish, and his wife, Bessie, nee Gallagher, who was Irish, were a retired vaudeville team who produced seven precocious children. One after another the seven had been stars of a children's quiz program in the old days of radio, but these stories are about their later years.

In order of their appearance in the world, the children were Seymour, Buddy, Ros Boo (female), the male twins Walt and Waker, Zooey (male), and Franny (female). Seymour and Buddy had several things in common, such as teaching English in college and an interest in Oriental philosophy. Seymour committed suicide in 1948 at the age of 31, for reasons which Salinger will presumably clear up later on.

"Raise High" is a narrative by Buddy of a day in 1942 when he came up to Manhattan from a military camp to attend a fancy wedding at which Seymour was cast as the groom. Seymour failed to show up at the formal ceremony, but a few hours later eloped with his bride in more private circumstances.

It is written in that modern American, deadpan, droll style which has come to be a mark of much New Yorker fiction. Salinger fans — and no doubt a good many others — will find it amusing and smart.

The second piece is entirely different in tone and in style. Buddy, now a 40-year-old English instructor, is devoting his night hours to writing an introduction for the posthumous publication of Seymour's poems. He is self-consciously glib and rambling as he tosses off narcissistic asides to himself and the reader about his manuscript.

For everyone who read and enjoyed Catcher in the Rye and Franny and Zooey, this is the same Salinger.

Home Economic Students Are On WSAZ-TV

By Phyllis Maze
Trail Blazer Feature Writer

The Home Economics Club was recognized on the WSAZ-TV "Good Morning Show" Thursday, Feb. 28. The program consisted of movies, taken in the new Home Economics Building, emphasizing the different areas in the home economics program.

Barbara Allen gave a short talk, explaining the club's goals, and ways in which these goals are met.

In addition to Allen, Ann Sandifer, Pearl Lucas, Patty McKinney, Phyllis Maze, and club co-sponsor, Miss Patricia Gross, were on the program.

Each girl was asked a question concerning the work of a home economics major of the department. These questions were un-rehearsed, and required thought in addition to the proper background for answering.

The main purpose of the program was to broaden views of the home economics profession, and to promote better public relations.

FASHION WISE—Phil Vogelphol and Loretta Tackett have been selected as this issue's Fashion Shot. They are pictured here in front of the newly opened girl's dormitory, Mignon Hall.

English Dept. Affirms Rights; Circulates Petition

Freedom of speech is stipulated in the Constitution of the United States of America, and the English Department at Morehead State College has decided to stand by their constitutional rights and start a petition.

A petition, says Webster in his New World Dictionary, is a formal written or document embodying such a request, addressed to a specific person often signed by a number of petitioners.

The English Department, while deciding to stand by their constitutional rights by starting the petition, did not advocate any radical reforms, but wished to commend their office workers.

In fact, the petition was one of appreciation to the secretaries in the English department and stated that the English faculty felt that they had the "best and most efficient secretarial staff at Morehead State College."

Workers who were commended by the petition were: Sherry Wetzel, dictation secretary; Jackie Padlock, general secretary; and Vaughn Carter and Carolyn Dixon, workshop students.
