One viewer of the previous Student Council talent presentations said, "This show was certainly the best of the series. It was very good and had the most of careful organization." Coming Student Council Elections Mark Turning Point In School Year

The Student Council elections are the turning point in a college year. They mark the beginning of a new regime that will govern the College's students and their actions for an entire school year.

The Council's actions and rulings will affect each of us at the college. If they do not do the job they should, they could turn a potential ideal school year into a mediocre one, filled with nothing but classes and little else.

What these people do and who is elected all depends on you. Yes, although it has been preached for seemingly-eons, each individual vote is a free election determines the future of a school year (or of a local, state or national election).

For a Student Council to be effective there are several prerequisites; however, leading the list is the fact that there should be qualified people elected to office.

A larger number of candidates are running for office this year than last. No individual has a "shoo-in" position as has been evident in the past. Tonight the candidates will all appear before the student body to talk to them on the eve of the primary election. Also, we have pictures of each candidate and a list of his college activities at Morehead in this issue of the paper so the students can better acquaint themselves with the nominees.

Tomorrow, we will vote in the primary elections. Next Tuesday, the final elections will be held.

Students should look at each candidate's qualifications. We should try to remember and consider the action of the candidates prior to election time. And, after each candidate has been examined as to his qualifications, we should determine who we want to see elected. Most important of all, we should show up at the polls and vote for the candidates of our choice — in both the primary and the final elections. (Remember, it does little good to plan to vote for a candidate in the finale if you don't help get him past the primary.)

The dye has now been cast and we are preparing to cross the Rubicon. No battle is won until the last shot is fired (or the last vote is cast) and no election was ever won without voters coming to the polls. The future of our next Student Council is in the hands of Morehead's students. Whether a great battle is to be won or a minor skirmish fought depends solely on us.

Fine Arts Week Presents Unique Opportunities

Morehead students have a unique chance to get the most out of college opportunities this week of May 5. This, of course, Fine Arts Festival Week.

Numerous outstanding programs and activities will be available which are well worth attending. The week is not an attempt to throw off culture upon the student body. It does afford them the opportunity to gain cultural knowledge, but at the same time it is the purpose of the week to provide entertaining programs. We believe the Festival has achieved this goal.

For instance, C. Kermis Dwing, professor of art at the University of Tennessee, spoke last Sunday. And, twenty-five of his paintings are on exhibit in the Morehead Art Gallery.

Last Night, the chamber orchestra, under the direction of James Penson, presented an evening of chamber music featuring works by Ludwig van Beethoven and Franz Schubert.

College Alumni Association Is Coming Of Age

The following editorial, we feel, should be of great interest to the graduating seniors of Morehead State College. The editorial will appear in the next issue of the Morehead Alumnus and it points out the great growth and advancement of the College Alumni Association, a group membership ranks the seniors will soon be joining.

The Alumni Association is coming of age.

Most of us are aware of the spectacular growth of Morehead State College; the enrollment has quadrupled, its faculty has doubled many fold and fifteen major structures have been added to its physical plant in one-third that number of years. The academic program has kept pace.

These are impressive gains . . . and our Alumni Association can point to some impressive gains, too.

Active and associate membership has doubled the number on our rolls at this same period last year.

Every single alumni activity in 1963 was more successful in terms of participating alumni than any previous year.

Keith Brooks, Associate Professor of Speech at Ohio State University, will present a "Roundtable Hour" tonight in the Baird Music Building. At this time, he will read some of the works of James Thurber as well as humorous readings on college life.

Friday and Saturday, the drama and opera departments will present "An Evening of Contemporary Opera." The productions, to be held in Baird Music Hall, will feature "Riders to the Sea" by Ralph Vaughan Williams and "Comedy on the Bridge" by Bohuslav Martinu.

The entire week is filled with programs of this high caliber. Each of us should make every effort to attend as many of the activities as possible. Just because the week does not feature a rock and roll artist, it does not mean the activities will not be entertaining.

We have reached the stage in life when we should all have come to realize a "cultivated ear" is not an ear of corn.

Our alumni publications have reached an all time high circulation. A Distinguished Faculty Award is being awarded by the Alumni Association for the first time this year.

New alumni scholarships are being created.

The Alumni Club program is expanding.

This success has been achieved through a spirit of cooperation among many alumni and friends of the College. It is due to the interest and support of such individuals as Ray Hornback and Monroe Wicker, whose work at the College cannot be separated from that of Alumni Affairs. Perhaps no one at the College has done as much to advance the program of the Alumni Association as President Deane D. He well understands the problems and needs of an alumni association, for he has served as President of the Alumni Association of his alma mater.

As impressive as our gains are it remains that we can do so much more. We are doing more and we will continue to do more. But we will accomplish our goal only when you join our ranks.

OUR TOWN — Pictured above are some of the members of the "Our Town" cast. The production, put on by the Morehead State College Drama Department, was the last of the year. The group presented the play in the Little Theatre in the Combs Classroom Building.

Letters To The Editor

Raconteur Staff Pioneers

The 1964 edition of the RAconteur will be a fall delivered yearbook in that it will bring to the student body an enlarged and all-inclusive yearbook which will serve as a more permanent record of the entire school year.

After much consideration in regard to the benefits of a fall delivery and our study of the wide coverage obtained in other college yearbooks operated in this manner, such as Houston University, Texas A & M and others, we have decided to go to a fall delivery at Morehead State College.

The year's annual staff ask that the students bear with us in this experiment in the hopes of obtaining a bigger and better yearbook for the student body.

Fall delivery will allow us to bring to you a pictorial record of the following events which would not be included in a spring delivered yearbook:

1. Graduation
2. Baccalaureate
3. Election of Student Council Officers
4. Talent Show
5. Social Club Athletic Tournament
6. Baseball
7. Track
8. Tennis
9. Golf

Plus drama events
11. Music events
If our endeavor is successful and acceptable to the student body it is possible that this will become a permanent policy with Morehead State College.

John Hargett Is Winner In Contest

John Hargett, a Morehead State College student, has been named the local winner in TIME's 28th annual Current Affairs Contest. Other high-scoring local students include: John Reddick, Sheldon Makowsky, Larry Wilson, and Dorothy Goblin. TIME's Current Affairs Test, given this year to more than 750,000 college and high school students in the U.S. and Canada, consists of 105 questions on national and foreign affairs. Also included are such categories as business, sports, entertainment, science, religion, literature, journalism, education and the arts.

A social studies group, sponsored by Dr. Lilliput Akers, associate professor of sociology, will go on a seven-week tour to Columbia this summer.

The group will leave about June 1 and will study at three different universities in three different cities in Columbia.

Participants will receive seven hours of undergraduate credit or six hours of graduate credit in social sciences. They will do classwork in the mornings and take field trips in the afternoon.

Interested individuals should contact Dr. Akers in the SSE Building. The cost of the trip will be $500.

The expanded RAconteur will make a change in distribution policy which may be an inconvenience to some of you, but we believe the improvements in the yearbook will justify this inconvenience.

The 1964 RAconteur will be available to students at the beginning of the fall semester. Returning students may pick up their yearbooks following registration. Graduating seniors or other students who will not return to the campus in the fall may pick up their annuals any time during the first semester. Arrangements will be made for yearbooks to be picked up during Homecoming weekend or during return visits to the campus.

If any students prefer to have the 1964 RAconteur mailed, they may submit name, address and a nominal fee of thirty-five cents to cover postage to the policy to some of you, but we believe the improvements in the yearbook will justify this inconvenience.

The RAconteur office is located in the basement of Allie Young Hall and will be open according to a schedule posted on the door.

We sincerely feel that the change to a fall delivery will make it possible to present the entire year of many leading colleges and universities are doing. This progressive step, we realize, will not be received with welcomed arms by many, but we also hope that the majority of the student body will give this step forward a fair chance for appraisal.

Sincerely,
Steve Barnett

The Editor's Desk

As my old puppy says, "There's no use in riding a good horse to death." So, I'll try not to ride the newsworthy Student Council elections to death in print.

If you have even seen a Trail Blazer or have been playing like one of the blind men trying to describe an elephant, you know that the Student Council primary election is tomorrow (Wednesday) and the final election is next Tuesday. This is not a topic of debate or discussion — it is fact.

However, the conduct of the candidates is not fact yet, and a suggestion is in order. We would like to request that the candidates keep their electioneering "clean" and refrain from any mud throwing or name calling.

The Trail Blazer has already heard that some of this is going on. Personally, we feel that such actions only reflect the person who is guilty. And, it seems to us that a candidate for such a high office as the Student Council would be using extremely poor judgement and exemplifying poor conduct by doing so.

Little men can say a lot of nasty "little" things, but they can seldom do a big job.

SENIOR LUNCHEON SCHEDULED
The annual senior luncheon will be held in the Doran Student House on May 25.

Dr. Doran will preside at the luncheon, which will feature musical entertainment, the presentation of the A. Y. Lloyd Scholarship, and many other activities.

Seniors will receive a free ticket to the luncheon and guests who want to attend will go through the cafeteria line as usual.

SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL TONIGHT
"Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow, Creeps in this pretty pace from day to day."

To the last syllable of recorded time . . . These famous lines from Shakespeare's Macbeth (Act V, Scene V) mark the way many Morehead students feel about this time of year. Three more weeks of school and each day seems like a year, each minute like an hour until the magic moment of summer vacation really arrives.

To help break the usual routine, we understand the Shakespeare class, under the direction of Dr. George Sowell, Chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature, is going to put on a Shakespeare Festival tonight. The class will act out certain famous scenes and parts in several of Shakespeare's plays.

The festival will be held in the Combs Classroom Building in room 208 at 8:00 p.m. If you are looking for something to do that combines the cultural and the entertaining, you should attend. The festival is open to the public.

RAconteur STAFF PIONEERS NEW MOVIE
As you may have already noticed, by means of Raconteur Editor Steve Barnett's letter, the Raconteur staff has decided to initiate a new staff at MSC this year. They are going to include all of the spring sports, graduation, home day winners and other spring activities in this year's edition of the yearbook.

Other difference besides these added features is that the yearbook will be presented to the students on their return to school next fall. Seniors' yearbooks will be mailed to them.

Other schools have found this method of production very successful, and Editor Barnett and his staff have decided to try it this year.

We had planned to write a long article explaining the move, but since we received Barney's letter, we have decided not to. Instead, we recommend that you read his letter (on this page) to see the many advantages that will be gained through this new method.

The graduating seniors' art exhibit and tea will be held in the Art Gallery of the Art Department on May 7 from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.

Richard Detrick, Springfield, Ohio; Bill Fries, Lancaster; George Horstmann, Lexington; and Jack Lavender, Prentissburg, will have their pictures, ceramics, jewelry and craft work on display for this annual event.

Mrs. Naomi Claypool, Head of the Art Department, said, "Every year the graduating seniors must have an exhibit of their best work done during their four years in college, similar to the recitals performed by music students."

"This affords them the chance to leave and most surely they wouldn't ordinarily do, thereby making these works presentable for other exhibit purposes," Mrs. Claypool added.

Kappa Pi, the Honorary Art Fraternity and the Senior Arts Club will act as hosts on this occasion. The public is invited to attend.

FASHION SCENE — Jim Frichard and Lois Krumpalick have been selected as the Fashion Scene couple for this issue of The Trail Blazer. Both are shown wearing the casual spring attire so popular at MSC this time of year.

We'd like to say some nice things about America's young adult drivers

And we think we've got good reason! Last January, we selected twenty 18- and 19-year-old young men and women through the Junior Achievement program to drive our team of Chevrolets in the Mobil Economy Run, April 3-5. It was the first time an company had relied entirely on drivers with limited experience in this exciting competition.

We brought these young adults—most of them college students, some from the business world—to a racetrack in California, in late February. For six weeks, our expert teachers trained them in the skills of economy driving.

on drivers with such limited experience?

Chevrolet wanted to give the Chevy Teen a chance to prove in front of the nation that they and the 6.5 million licensed drivers in their age bracket are safe, sane people behind the wheel. We felt the Run offered a splendid chance.

The Corvair, Chevy II, Chevelles and Chevrolets driven by the Chevy Teen

Team in the Mobil Economy Run did remarkably well compared with the class winners in overall miles-per-gallon figures. The final results are a tribute to the high degree of driving skill displayed by the Chevy Teen Team representing the youth of America.

No wonder we're proud of America's young adult drivers. We couldn't have a better reason.
