

Senate Approves Bill On Cave Run Appropriations

Senator Walter (Dee) Huddleston advised the Huddleston News today that Senate passage of legislation appropriating $5.4 million for construction of the Cave Run Lake flood control project assures final approval of the funds.

The House of Representatives had approved the funds earlier. The appropriations bill now goes to the President for his signature.

Huddleston, who is a member of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works, which drew up the original project appropriations, said funds for the Cave Run project are essential.

When completed, this project will control a drainage area of approximately 826 square miles and be part of a comprehensive flood control plan for the Ohio River Basin," Huddleston said.

The Kentucky senator said that in future years he would like to see additional recreational development at the Cave Run Reservoir.

UNITED WAY'S ANNUAL MEETING PLANNED JAN. 6

The annual meeting of the United Way of Morehead and Rowan County will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 6, in the Lone Chapman Room of the Rowan County Public Library.

Officers for 1976 will be nominated again at the public meeting. All interested citizens are encouraged to attend and support the United Way.

Social Problems In State Now Being Recognized

Citizens of Kentucky now have the chance to point out social problems that can be met by services offered under Title XX of the federal Social Security Act.

The Department for Human Resources (DHR) will be accepting until January 5, 1976, statements identifying such problems facing Kentuckians.

Each Area Development District (ADD) and each Bureau for Social Services district office will identify problems in the district, complete a narrative report, and summarize population characteristics.

ADDEs are required to include other individuals, agencies and organizations of their district in reports, but any person or group desiring to submit problem statements directly to the bureau are encouraged to do so.

The procedure represents the means by which Kentuckians may provide input into planning of statewide comprehensive social service programs which will become effective

July 1, 1976. Forms and technical assistance for completing the reports will be provided on request by bureau district managers. From February 5 until April 1, the bureau's central office staff will develop a proposed state plan. A summary of this plan will be displayed in newspapers April 1-3.

Written comments will be accepted and public hearings will be held in each of the state's 15 districts for 45 days (until May 16), following the plan's publication.

After revisions, the final plan will be published June 30.

Title XX includes a broad range of services to individuals and families. In Kentucky, DHR's Bureau for Social Services administers the program.

All problem statements should be sent to Commissioner Jerry B. Hissong, Bureau for Social Services, Department for Human Resources, 403 Wapping Street, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, on or before January 5, 1976.

City, County Will Work Together In Program

Rowan Fiscal Court, meeting in regular session, adopted a resolution Thursday that the City and County joined the City of Morehead in applying for federal funds through the Discretionary Block Grant section of the Housing and Community Development Act.

The County will cooperate with the City in applying for the funds available under the Community Development Act for establishment of facilities for the City of Morehead. The City will be the lead applicant and will be charged with all obligations and responsibilities involved in the program as required by the federal program.

Many projects qualify for the funds including acquisition of real estate which is blighted or deteriorated for conversion into scenic areas, recreational areas for public use, lines, flood prevention projects and drainage facilities, and renovation of existing housing.

The City has conducted public hearings on the Discretionary Block Grant program, as required by law in order to be eligible for funds.

In other action last Thursday, Fiscal Court authorized Rowan Judge Ott Caldwell to sign an agreement for services to be performed in Rowan County by the Kentucky Department of Highways. The project involves installation of guard rail 90 feet north of U.S. 50 on County Road 1227.

The court voted unanimously in favor of County Attorney Harvey Pennington being refunded $403.39 for excess fees for the year 1974 as per county audit made by the State Auditor's office.

At a special session of Fiscal Court on Tuesday, payment of $3,864 was authorized to be made on the pontoon boat which the County purchased for use at Cave Run Lake in connection with emergencies performed by the Rescue Squad or Civil Defense.

any time during the day in Room 78 of the Capitol.

Eight new state senators and 31 new representatives will be in the General Assembly, when it convenes in Frankfort, Tuesday, January 6, 1976.

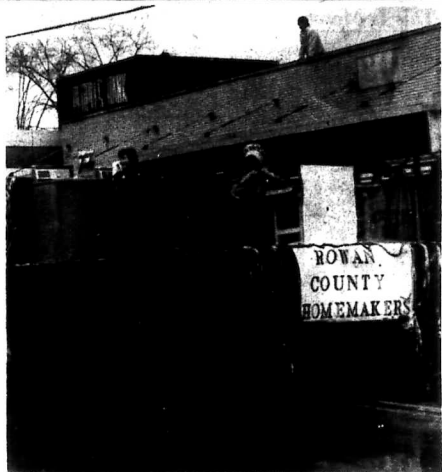

Seven of the first-time senators and 21 of the incoming representatives will be Democrats. There will be one new Republican senator and 10 new GOP representatives in the forthcoming session.

Representatives will have a 30-to-8 majority in the Senate and a 78-to-22 margin in the House.

The number of women representatives will increase from three in 1974 to seven in 1976, while the number of women senators will remain at two. Most of the newcomers in both houses will fill seats of legislators who did not seek re-election.

COAL'S SHARE DROPS WASHINGTON - Nearly half the electricity generated in the nation now comes from the burning of coal in steam-electric power plants. About 59 years ago coal was the fuel for more than two-thirds of U.S. electricity.

GERMANS BUY CALCULATORS BONN - West Germans bought about 1.4 million pocket calculators in 1974, double the number purchased in 1973. One out of 13 Germans now uses a hand-held calculator.

events leading up to the current strike against General Telephone Company of Kentucky by the Communications Workers of America, and what has happened since it began.

"It's always difficult to pinpoint exact reasons for a labor difficulty, however, I think it's worth noting that from the outset of negotiations it was obvious to us the Union membership would not accept a settlement package that included any Company proposals.

"In fact during contract talks December 3, and in the presence of Federal Mediators, the Union Committee stated their basic philosophy coming into negotiations remains, you don't give the Company anything.

"Our settlement offer, which was again rejected by Union Negotiators, amounted to an annualized 11.2 percent wage and benefit improvement, and included five Company proposals. None of these proposals would place undue strain on employees, cause them to work in unsafe conditions, or lose regular pay. All we are seeking are work rule modifications which would assist us in operating more efficiently, permit some flexibility in the management of our business and lead to productivity increases through a reduction of nonproductive time.

"I think you would agree that with the economic uncertainties and the ravages of inflation facing all businesses, responsible management must seek methods of gaining internal efficiencies. The Union has called these proposals "retrogressive."

"The economic portion of the offer included a two-step, 9.9 percent wage package (7.1 percent now and 2.8 percent six months later) - more than $1 million - and benefit improvements totaling an additional 1.3 percent.

"I assure you, we are working diligently to get the strike settled as soon as possible. During frequent contact with the Federal Mediator, we have repeatedly indicated our willingness to meet at any time. I'm concerned over the lack of progress that has been made, and hope the failure of the Union to at least offer constructive suggestions which might lead toward mutual agreement isn't an indication that we're in for a long strike.

"I feel that the Company and the Union share a joint responsibility to both the telephone user and our employees to seek solutions to our differences, but this can not be accomplished if meetings are not being been sworn in as a federal judge. Taylor has made no comment. Pryor pointed out that the state saved $4,000 in the re-awarding of the contract and asked, "What's wrong with that?"

Kentucky's two democratic U.S. senators - Walter "Dee" Huddleston, and Wendell Ford - offered no protest against Siler, a republican, being confirmed for the U.S. Judgeship. Federal judges are appointed by President Gerald Ford, but must be confirmed by the Senate. Siler said the case had been under investigation for over two years.

held it is incumbent on both sides to continue regular meetings until agreement can be reached. In the meantime, our management personnel and working craft employees are working long hours to see that service levels are maintained at acceptable levels.

"Since the strike began on November 10, ninety-six acts of vandalism to telephone user communications facilities through December 4 have disrupted service to nearly 11,300 Kentucky businesses and residences served by General Telephone. Thousands more have experienced the loss of long distance service. This has not been the type damage that might normally occur. To the contrary, it has involved malicious destruction of property.

"I'm concerned about this and the inconvenience it may have caused. Telephone service is essential and it's distressing when this link to vital health, safety and welfare assistance is disrupted for a segment of the community. It was this concern that caused us to increase our reward, offering up to $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the illegal acts.

"Fortunately, we have been able to restore the damaged facilities rapidly and service has not deteriorated. Service is a reflection of employee attitude and I've been extremely proud of the attitude of our management personnel and the 98 craft employees who are working, as well as their dedicated efforts during abnormal circumstances."

CWA representative Myers said that morale among the strikers is high and a union defense fund has been paying regular bills for the striking employees, such as house and utility payments. "Nobody's going hungry and nobody's going to lose anything," Myers stated.

Legislature Is Faced With Big Job Regarding Court System

By Philip W. Conn

One of the biggest jobs to face the legislature in years will confront members of the 1976 General Assembly.

Kentucky voters approved by a narrow margin last month an amendment to the state Constitution that will completely restructure Kentucky's court system. It will be up to the legislature to see that the amendment is implemented properly. The amendment creates a new 14-member Court of Appeals to review cases appealed from the lower courts. The present Court of Appeals will retain its seven members but will be renamed the Supreme Court. Its jurisdiction will be limited to certain criminal cases and such other matters as its rules may provide.

One of the biggest changes will be a complete state takeover of the present county, quarterly, police and magistrate courts. These so-called lower courts will be replaced by a statewide system of district courts.

The district courts aren't scheduled to be in operation until January 1978. The rest of the system, however, goes into effect next year, and the legislature must make some hard decisions regarding judges' salaries, court facilities and operational guidelines for the new system.

Not all of the work is expected to be completed during the General Assembly's regular 90-day session.

Governor Julian M. Carroll already has announced plans to call a special session later in the year to finish the work.

Meanwhile, two special advisory committees, one appointed by the governor and the other by the Legislative Research Commission, will make recommendations for implementing the amendment. The committees will include representatives from such groups as the Kentucky Bar Association, Kentucky Municipal League, Kentucky Association of County Officials, associations of various court officials and other groups which may be affected by the amendment.

For the first time the Public Bill Room at the basement of the Capitol is in operation to handle requests for prefilled bills as well as those which will be introduced after the 1976 session is underway.

Bills will be sold to the public at a cost of a penny per page. Copies will be mailed upon request for the same price, but with a minimum mailing charge of one dollar to cover postage and extra handling. Only requests which include a specific bill number or title will be honored.

Copies of the "Legislative Record" also will be sold during the session for a dollar each, or two dollars if sent through the mail.

"Records" and bills may be picked up

Figure It Out Four men, Adams, Bates, Clark, and Douglas were talking about their wives. They weren't good friends and the statements they made are not all accurate. The only sure thing is that each statement in which a man mentions his own wife's name is correct. Read the following statements and determine the given name of each man's wife: Adams: "Dorothy is Jean's mother. I have never met Patricia." Bates: "Clark's wife is neither Dorothy or Patricia." Clark: "Patricia is Adams' wife. Dorothy is Jean's older sister." Douglas: "Margaret is my daughter. Dorothy is older than my wife."

SENIOR CITIZEN'S CORNER HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT. Farmers and Social Security Self-employed farmers earn social security protection just as other self-employed people, but there are some special rules that apply to farmers. For social security purposes, a farm operator is a person who operates a farm for profit. He may be an owner-operator, partner, renter, or share farmer. A share farmer is a farm operator if he arranges to produce a crop or livestock on land owned by another person with whom the crop or livestock or proceeds is shared. Sometimes, one or more members of the farm family has his or her own business, which is completely separate from the rest of the operation. If this person keeps the income separate, keeps separate records, pays all expenses himself, and has enough net earnings, he earns social security credits. In general, net farm earnings are the profits a farmer has from farm operations. Net farm earnings are calculated by subtracting all allowable farm business expenses, including depreciation, from gross farm income. Gross earnings generally are the same as the gross farm profit farmers report on Form 1040 Schedule F (Farm Income and Expenses) for Federal income tax purposes. Income from the sale of equipment and livestock not held for sale (such as dairy, breeding, sporting, or work animals) should not be included in gross farm income for social security purposes. Farm operators and "materially participating" farm landlords must include Federal agricultural program payments in their gross income for social security purposes. For more information about monthly social security benefits, contact one of the 1,300 social security offices throughout the United States.

Marching Vikings Participate In Parade

The Rowan County Vikings Marching Band is pictured marching in the rain during last Saturday's annual Community Christmas Parade. The parade started at Rowan County High School and ended near the Laughlin Health Building on the Morehead State University campus. Sponsored by the Morehead-Rowan County

Chapter of Commerce and the Morehead Merchants Association, the parade marks the official opening of the Christmas shopping season in downtown Morehead. Hundreds of persons participated in the parade, despite the inclement weather and many persons lined Morehead's Main Street to view the parade units.

Orgolives, those grotesque seen on Notre Dame and other old buildings of Europe are named from the French word for throat, since they were often used as Gothic gutters and leaders.

Apparent Heart Attack Fatal To Clyde McCleese

Consumer Comments

This column is written by Ed W. Hancock, Attorney General of Kentucky. Any reader having questions (or complaints) should write to Mr. Hancock at Frankfort, Ky.

The wary of telephone magazine salespeople.

One elderly Kentucky resident was called and asked to buy magazines. The salesperson stated that the contract could be cancelled within three days. When the man received the contract, he discovered that the cancellation period was past and the magazines were not as represented. The total cost was much higher than he realized. He called the company to register his complaint and was told that he could not cancel the agreement. At that time, he brought his complaint to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection.

This is just one of several phone magazine complaints our office has received recently. The gimmicks vary but in each complaint the consumer naively agreed to unwanted magazines for a price much higher than he realized.

Protect yourself against these types of schemes by employing the following suggestions:

1. Ask magazine salespeople if they are registered with the county clerk's office. According to Kentucky's Consumer Protection Laws each county clerk's office when selling printed materials by phone or in person.
2. Do not make any agreement without seeing it in writing.
3. Be sure to read and understand the contract before signing. Are these the magazines that you want, at a price you can afford?

Remember, exercise caution when a magazine salesperson calls. If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol, 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call toll-free on the consumer hotline: 1-800-2960.

Confirmed? An ear of corn is like a question when you are popping it. Did you know you can add the letter A to the end of the month and have the name of a city? Augusta. Some athlete's feet. Astro-naut get mistle (missile) toes.

Research Shows Older Buy More Vitamin E

A recent survey of vitamin buying habits shows that 59 percent of vitamin E users are 45 years of age or older.

The study was conducted by Market Research Corporation of America for Hoffman-La Roche Inc., a leading manufacturer of bulk vitamins. Asked about the possible reasons for this high consumption rate among the elderly, Arthur J. Salerno, marketing manager for the Roche Chemical Division, said that "high vitamin E consumption among middle aged and elderly people may be the result of published research data which suggests the vitamin's ability to relieve pinhead leg cramps."

"There is clinical data that indicates vitamin E has been successful in reducing certain circulatory impiments which many elderly people experience upon walking," said Mr. Salerno.

"Taken over a six-month period in dosages of from 300 to 400 international Units, vitamin E has helped individuals walk longer distances without experiencing leg cramps." "Of course," concluded Mr. Salerno, "your physician should be consulted for specific information and advice before any such nutritional therapy is begun."

A mule is a cross-breed between a male donkey and a female horse. It can survive on poor food, and works equally well in cold or hot climates. Mules were probably first bred in western Asia. When tired, the mule simply stops working. More than 1,000 Union soldiers qualified for disability pay after the Civil War because they had been lamed by mules.

Population
It has taken at least a million years for the world's population to grow to the nearly four billion of today. At the present rate of increase it will double in the next 40 years, some experts predict. A possible food source, oceans cover 71 per cent of the earth's surface, and produce only one per cent of man's food at the present time.

Beautification Program In State Cited

The Beautification Program of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has won a Distinguished Service Citation in the 1975 Keep America Beautiful Awards Program.

The award — presented December 4 in Washington, D.C. — cites the program as one of the most outstanding in the nation.

Also selected as the nation's leading local environmental organization was the Twin Lakes Camping Club in Western Kentucky. Keep America Beautiful, Inc. recognized that organization for the work it has done in carrying out the conservation program of its parent group, the National Campers and Hikers Association. The camping club received help from the state environmental department in its litter control program.

Some of the activities which contributed to the award for the Beautification Program included the Commonwealth Clean-Up Campaign to remove an estimated 100,000 pounds of junk cars, litter and illegal dumps. Also, contributing were an information and education program and work with civic organizations.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection won a Distinguished Service Citation in the 1974 awards program.

LEGION RITES . . . Members of the Corble Ellington Post 126, Morehead, conducted graveside rites last Friday at the funeral of Jack Cecil of Morehead who died last Wednesday. The Morehead State University ROTC Firing Party, under the command of Major Fred E. Lord, participated in the rites. Members of the Firing Party fired the Six Gun Salute. They are Capt. Frank J. Flauto, Capt. William S. Stanley, Capt. Paul E. Cullinane Jr., Sgt. Major Jerome F. Sullivan, Master Sgt. Rodney D. Gordon and Sgt. First Class William H. Chapman. The flag used in the services was folded by Legionnaire Russell Barker and presented to the widow, Mrs. Jack Cecil.

For the State Capital Agree Or Not

I Say What I Think
by S.C. VanCuren

The seeds of dissension might well have been planted in the Kentucky House of Representatives when leadership members were chosen at the pre-Legislative Conference at Kentucky Dam Village the first of the month. First off, veteran legislator Norbert Blume, D-Louisville, who began his legislative career in 1964, was ousted as House speaker after serving two terms. Gov. Julian Carroll's forces replaced him with William Kenton, D-Leitchfield, who started in the House in 1970. Jefferson County has 22 members out of the 100 in the House and are not overly pleased that they didn't get even one of the five leadership posts the Democrats control in the House.

Next off, Bobby Richardson, a young attorney from Glasgow, has been chosen as majority floor leader over others who have spent more time in the legislative halls. Richardson first came to the House in 1972.

Lloyd Clapp, the veteran legislator from Wingo, who has been in the House since 1964, was named Speaker pro-tem, which satisfied him and there is no complaint about the posts of caucus chairman and Democrat whip. Bill Donnermeyer, D-Bellvue, is caucus chairman, and Dwight Wells, D-Richmond, is the whip. Donnermeyer came to the House in 1970 and Wells came in 1969.

Geographically, the positions are equitably distributed around the state, but relegating Blume to the floor as just a member after he held leadership posts might be just a little hard for the old-timers to swallow.

It didn't improve any on the Republican side in the House when veteran Art Schmidt, Cold Spring, who first served in 1964, was ousted from the leadership. There was a bitter word-battle in the Republican House caucus at the dam that might take some time to heal.

There was never any doubt that veteran Harold DeMarcus, who started in 1964 in the House, would be elected minority floor leader over Larry Hopkins of Lexington who served as caucus chairman last session. Hopkins is philosophical about his loss. He didn't want any other post than majority floor leader.

But when Raymond Overstreet, Liberty, defeated Schmidt for caucus chairman some eyebrows were raised. Overstreet started in the House in 1972. Herman Radloff, Campbellsville, was named party whip. He started in the House in 1968.

While Gov. Julian Carroll apparently kept his promise to keep his hands off in choosing the leadership, his lieutenants, headed by Demo Party Chairman Howard P. (Sonny) Hunt engineered the selection.

If Blume should become vexed during the session, and things don't go right for the Republicans, we might again see an organized revolt similar to that under Gov. A. B. Chandler's last term when

NEWS OF TRAVEL PACK A WIG

Do you spend hours packing for a trip, but end up doing it all wrong? You do, if you overlook your hair. There's no point selecting the perfect travel outfit, the latest bikini and the most daring evening dress if you forget about how important hair styling is to the total fashion look.

Here's where a wig comes in to give you instant freedom from hair care. Wigs by Venturion are fashioned in an Italian fiber that holds its curl, won't frizz or droop—so it's a practical travel companion. This man-made fiber can be teased and sprayed just like real hair. To pack, simply slip the wig into a small plastic bag. And for wear, simply soak the wig in cold water and mild soap. It dries quickly and restores back to its original look.

With just one wig, you can achieve many styles. Sweep it forward to frame the face with bangs and zigzags. Brush it back, away from the face, for a more dramatic and elegant look. Or wear your wig to the beach under a straw hat for a cool, care-free style.

When vacation is over, you can wig it for work or at home, for exercise hair beauty for all seasons.

But not when it comes to shoplifting. That's because extensive measures are being used to bring shoplifting to a screeching halt. Shoplifters are being watched with TV monitors, binoculars, and by plain-clothesmen. Electronic tags and other types of sophisticated equipment are being used to watch the merchandise. So, more and more shoplifters are being caught and prosecuted. The worn out excuses that shoplifters use when they're caught won't work any more. Maybe now people will stop and think before they steal. Maybe the fun, excitement, and joke of it all will wear thin once they've been booked, prosecuted, and have a police record that will stick with them for life. Shoplifting ... think about it. "Over 20,000 Readers"

Kentucky's sportsmen know that the ultimate reward of any outdoor trip should be the delicious meals provided by fish and game, although some are discouraged because their fish always taste strong or their birds or animals "gamey."

The experienced outdoorsman knows that unpleasant tastes in wild meat or fish are often caused by improper handling. With proper care, both game and fish can provide some excellent eating, but handled improperly, they can taste terrible.

The first rule for proper handling is to clean and dress both fish and game as soon as possible. If there is no time for a complete cleaning, game should be eviscerated and kept as cool as possible until it can be dressed out completely. Fish should be kept alive until they are cleaned, but any dead fish should have the intestines and gills removed at once. A fish with unclouded eyes, red gills and firm flesh is still suitable for the skillet.

Small pan fish, such as bluegill and crappie, are usually prepared by scaling and removing the head and intestines. Be sure to remove completely the kidneys - located along the backbone in the upper rib cage. If not removed, they can taint the flavor of the fish.

Larger fish, such as bass, are best if they are filleted since this process removes both the skin and bones, leaving only strips of fine white meat. The skin is often the source of strong flavors, and it should be removed from any large fish.

A good trick in dressing squirrels and rabbits is to soak the animals in cold water before skinning. This will keep loose hair from sticking to the meat. If any hairs get on the meat, they should be removed at once, since this is another source of objectionable flavor. Also the meat should be inspected carefully and any bloody areas removed.

After the fish, birds or animals are cleaned, they should be cooked as soon as possible. If they are to be stored for more than a day or so, they should be frozen. An excellent way to freeze both fish and small game is to cover the meat completely in a container of water and put the container in the freezer. This protects against both freezer burn and against the meat picking up objectionable tastes or odors during storage.

Larger cuts such as large filets or cuts of venison should be wrapped in strong plastic or freezer paper and sealed tightly. In freezing any meat, it is important that the wrap be airtight.

Players Return

Morehead State University's basketball experiment is over.

After playing their first two games without three key players, the Eagles welcome Ted Humbley, Craig Morris and Tyrone Campbell to the roster this week.

Coach Jack Schalow's young team dropped an 85-82 decision at Ball State Saturday. But freshman Herbie Stamper and sophomore Andre Jones proved they are candidates for the permanent starting lineup.

Stamper led MSU to scoring for the second straight game with 25 points. Jones was the top rebounder with 13 and added 20 points. Junior guard Mike Kelley added 10 points.

"Our young players gained a lot of experience in these two games," said Schalow. "But with the three other players becoming eligible this week, we need to start winning games."

Ball State opened a 16-point advantage in the first half but MSU closed in 49-44 at halftime. The Eagles took the lead 67-66 with nine minutes to play but the Cardinals pulled it out in the final minute.

MSU now 0-2, makes a two-game Southern swing this week, playing at Louisiana Tech on Saturday and Virginia Tech on Monday.

Breck Defeated Twice In Week

The Eagles of Breckinridge traveled to Mt. Sterling last Tuesday night to take on the Indians of Montgomery County. Montgomery County jumped to a quick lead and looked like it might run the Eagles out of the gym as the score at the end of the first quarter was 27-5.

Breck came roaring back in the second period, scoring 21 points to Montgomery County's 13. This cut the Indians half-time lead to 11 points at 37-26.

After the intermission the Eagles continued to play well, outpacing Montgomery County 21-15 to cut the deficit to five points at the end of the third stanza.

Breck's comeback continued in the fourth quarter as several times the Eagles cut the Indians lead to two points. But Montgomery County outscored Breck 17-18 in the final period to hold on for the victory margin of 69-63.

Breck was lead in scoring by Steve Gilley with 20 points. He was followed by Tony Jones with 16 and Tom Queen with 11. Kevin Harris scored 6 and Mike Gillum added 6 and Nathan Huang rounded out the scoring with 2 points.

The Eagles out rebounded their taller opponents 52-41 with Tom Queen and Kevin Harris hauling in 16 and 13 respectively. Steve Gilley added 10 more rebounds. The loss dropped Breck's record to 3-4 on the season.

Friday night, the Eagles returned home to face the Elliott County Lions in a key EKC and Footfalls conference game. Breck started off quickly in the first quarter, jumping out to a 6-0 lead. Elliott County came back to take the lead at the first rest stop 16-14.

In the second period the Lions size advantage (6'7", 6'9", 6'4" front line) became evident as they outscored the Eagles 21-7 to take a 27-21 lead into the closing room at half-time.

Things didn't get much better for the Eagles in the third quarter as Elliott County outscored them 13-10 to take a 40-31 lead going into the final stanza.

Breck finally got a little better when they scored to outpace Elliott County 30-34, battling at 8:46 p.m.

Wesley's first game was West Carter against the winner of the Lewis County-Salyersville game and University Breckinridge against East Carter.

Semi-final play begins at 7 p.m. Thursday. The finals are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Admission is $1.50. Doors open one hour before the tipoff. Dienst Dennis is tournament manager.

Officials are Bob Kouns, Nelson Allen, Bob Daniels and Ed Radjman.

Dave Gladura won two events against Marshall and set a new mark in the 100-yard freestyle. The Junior from South Bend, Ind., won the 100 in 45.4 seconds to break his own record. He also captured the 60-yard freestyle. Steve Dunn won the 60-yard individual medley.

"Our team is very young," said Mack. "We have our usual problem with depth and too many people are swimming in multiple events."

The score was Elliott County 65 Breck 40.

The Eagles were led by Tom Queen's 18 points. Steve Gilley scored 11 points and Mike Gillum added 8 points. Danny Dalley came off the bench to score 7 points; Tony Jones and Nathan Huang had 2 apiece; and Tim Hughes rounded out the scoring with one point.

The battle of the boards was dead even, with both teams pulling down 40 rebounds. Tom Queen and Mike Gillum each pulled down 12 carsoms to lead the way. The loss dropped the Eagles to 3-5 on the season.

The Eagles are in action twice at home this week. On Tuesday, Dec. 9, the state's No. 1 team, Lexington Henry Clay, comes to town. Then on Friday night the Eagles entertain Jackson. Both games start at 8 p.m.

8 Considered For MSU Head Football Coach Job

President Adron Doran confirmed that the number of applicants was over 75.

These were reduced to eight by the Athletic Council, headed by Dean Reese Playforth.

Last week the Athletic Council interviewed at Morehead three of the eight. Personal appearances by the other five applicants remaining on the "short list" that will be held this week at the MSU campus.

The entire Athletic Council sits in on the personal interviews.

The Vikings tackled one of the EKC's finer teams tomorrow (Friday) night when they host the East Carter County Raiders in the RCHS gym. Coach because this would be unfair to seven who are not chosen, and also over 75 who applied."

Sports writers and Eagle followers claim that "Terry was not tough enough with the players."

The Morehead situation is unusual in that Terry will leave without an enemy. He made friends, almost automatically, in the Morehead community with his pleasant personality, frankness and integrity.

"The players look advantage of Terry's good treatment, seems to be the consensus of Eagle fans. Terry leaves Morehead after four years as head coach. His resignation endangers the status of his five or six assistant coaches."

Names Of 8 Not Released

The time element appears important in selecting Terry's successor, because the new football coach needs name his assistants and immediately starting recruiting from high school ranks. High schools have completed football for the year, and they will be at the recruiting bases "before high schools prospects" are sought by other universities and colleges.

Dr. Doran and the Athletic Council said the names of the "short list" candidates will not be released.

Holiday Driving Tips Should Be Observed

By Jane Hilliard

It seems a bit coldhearted to talk about death, especially at this time of the year, when everyone is looking forward to enjoying Christmas and New Year's at home with the family.

"But the sobering fact is that this is the time when our traffic accident rate takes an extra jump upward," says state Transportation Secretary Jim C. Roberts. "And, the increased volume of holiday, homebound traffic, bad weather and human error are the lethal combination that take the blame for it."

Last December, 83 motorists were killed in traffic accidents on Kentucky highways. "If our fears for this year (December, 1975) are realized, the death toll will be higher," said the secretary.

Both Roberts and Bennie Maffet, transportation safety coordinator for the transportation department, joined here recently in urging all Kentuckians to "take it easy" on the road during the coming month.

"While you can't change the weather, or do much about the amount of traffic on the highways with you, there are many precautions that you can take to improve the odds of making it home alive," said Maffet.

First of all, warns Maffet, "remember that snow and ice driving requires a lot of extra care behind the wheel."

"Be prepared to stop suddenly, but remember what can happen if you brake too hard and too quick on slippery pavement. And know what to do to control a skid."

Make certain that your car is ready mechanically for cold weather driving, as well, he says. "A balky car stalling suddenly in heavy traffic can also cause a bad accident."

Clear all frost or snow from all window glass. It's illegal in Kentucky to just scrape a small hole on your windshield to peer through. But more importantly, warns Maffet, "it prevents you from seeing a possibly dangerous situation coming up right behind you."

"A rear-end collision, even at slow speeds, could put you in the hospital and a neck brace for months," he says.

Maffet also suggests that motorists put a small carton of sand and a shovel in the trunk of their cars before starting out on a long trip, especially if they will be driving over rural roads.

"If you do get stuck, a few spadefuls of sand under the rear wheels may help you pull free in a hurry," he said. "A blanket in the car is also a good idea. Mom and the kids could get pretty cold while you are out there shoveling sand under the wheels."

And have that exhaust system checked, he adds. Carbon monoxide seeping through the floorboards into a tightly-sealed car is a sure killer.

Human error is another story. There will be a lot more partying this month, and Maffet says bluntly: "Don't drive if you've been drinking. And don't let your friend drive if he's had too many. Sometimes you're a better judge of that than he is."

If you're planning a long trip this winter, start early and stop frequently. It will break the tensions of driving and, says Maffet, "you'll return to your car fresher for having taken the break."

"And for peep's sake, observe the 55 mph speed limit," he says.

"Last year, we watched traffic accident statistics level off nationwide, thanks largely to the lower speed law, but this year those statistics have started to climb, as more and more motorists, lulled into complacency by last year's figures, have begun driving faster again," he said.

State police figures show they have already worked five per cent more fatal accidents thus far this year as compared with the same period a year ago.

"We don't want to broaden that percentage gap further in the few short weeks remaining in the year," Maffet said.

Ex-Moreheadian's Daughter Bank Executive In Ohio

Miss Sidney Jane McCartney, daughter of Gladys E. Vans McCartney of Flemingsburg, formerly of Morehead, and the late Howard McCartney, former prominent attorney of Flemingsburg, has been promoted to the position of Advertising Director in the Marketing Services Division of the Fifth Third Bank, Cincinnati, Ohio. Miss McCartney is the niece of Eldon T. Evans and Sidney Z. Lane of Morehead and the great niece of Miss Lynn Thompson, also of Morehead.

She has been with the Ohio bank since December, 1974, and until her promotion had been in the Management Training Program, working mainly in the Marketing Services and BankAmericard Divisions.

A graduate of Fleming County High and the University of Kentucky, Miss McCartney is now working with all department heads of the bank to develop and coordinate advertising within the framework of the department's marketing objectives, and then converting this into a creative strategy. She also works closely with the bank's advertising agency which does the creative work through her direction.

Miss McCartney's mother is District Program Director of Social Services, Department for Human Resources, Morehead.

Energy Costs For Schools At Record High Last Year

The cost of coal, gas, electricity and miscellaneous climbed almost $5 million last year for Kentucky schools, according to figures released by the Kentucky Department of Education.

Gov. Julian Carroll allocated $4 million from surplus funds to education earlier this year, the bulk of it to help pay the higher energy costs.

Electrical costs were responsible for $2.6 million of the increase while gas costs increased approximately $1.2 million. Coal prices were $900,000 more than costs for the previous year.

The increase is the largest annual increase since 1963. Total fuel costs for school year 1974-75 jumped approximately $1.6 million over those of the previous year, when schools experienced an increase in electrical costs of $1.1 million.

Cost increases that year were attributed to a threatened coal strike which caused a rush to stockpile coal in order to endure a potentially long strike, resulting in inflationary prices.

Officials of both the Department of Education and Kentucky's new Department of Energy were unable to pinpoint reasons for the dramatic upsurge in energy costs for the past year.

Jim Melton, director of the Bureau of Administration and Finance in the education department, did say, however, that on a percentage basis such a radical increase in energy costs is not expected in the future.

He said, "Utility companies have indicated there will be slight increases in cost, but I doubt seriously that an increase like the $5 million jump in energy costs will occur again."

The cost of energy is borne by the Foundation Program, through which all monies for school districts are allocated.

Restraining Order Issued Against Pike Coal Firm

A Pike County coal firm has been ordered to stop strip-mining without a permit.

Issuance of a temporary restraining order by Franklin Circuit Court Dec. 5 against Bill, Claude, Frank and Maxwell Maynard of Zebulon follows action against the company by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection (NREP).

NREP filed a complaint that said the coal firm engaged in strip-mining without first obtaining a permit from the division of reclamation. The site where the strip-mining activity occurred is located near KY 1441 off KY 119 near Pikeville (Pike County).

The complaint said that as a result of the violation, the company has created a hazardous condition, which will cause great, immediate and irreparable harm to the citizens of the state.

The environmental department seeks a penalty of $1,000 for the initial violation, plus $1,000 a day for each day the violation continued. The department also seeks a reclamation plan to be submitted to the division of reclamation to assure proper and adequate reclamation of the disturbed land and a $5,000 bond to be posted to guarantee the reclamation.

Can Your Can Take It?

Most people take the common outdoor garbage can for granted — until they get annoyed with it. Annoyed because the lid blows off and the can is half filled with murky rainwater and soaked garbage, or because some neighborhood critter has scattered its unattractive contents over the yard. The rusty bottom finally gives way on a new pair of shoes, or the can is bent and the lid won't fit. The list of trash can woes is endless, but with proper care and the right can selected to begin with, you can prevent a lot of problems.

Anne Elliot, manager of consumer services at the County-Ware division of Borden Chemical, offers these suggestions on trash can selection and care for added years of service:

- A covered trash can should be constructed to take the rough treatment it is in for. One indication of quality is the seal. Most plastic cans are also dent and crack resistant and retain their shape, so the lids can't fit well—particularly those displaying the NSF seal.

Always lift by both carrying handles which are attached to the can itself, not by just one handle or the handle on the cover. It's not only better for the can; it's better for your back.

- Don't overload it. A plastic can should carry a label stating its maximum capacity when purchased, so get one large lid on when not in use to prevent the lid from blowing away and to minimize animal pilferage.
- Make certain the can you purchase is guaranteed. A promise to replace if it doesn't live up to claims is about the strongest assurance of quality you can get.

Plastic cans are lighter weight, but empty cans are easily blown into the path of traffic unless secured against high winds.

Kentucky Has Unusual Xmas Shopping Places

By Helen Price Stacy

Things of nature make gifts for Christmas giving, but aside from pine cones, holly and pine, most of nature's bounty needs trimming, polishing, carving and decorating when used for gifts.

At the Comprehensive Care Center in West Liberty and similar centers elsewhere in Kentucky, willing hands and hearts are gluing, painting and pasting. They have cleaned earth to find small pebbles, pine cones, corn husks, even corn cobs and from the cleanings have created small creatures that could grace desks and tables as paperweights and novelties.

Hands, some of them a bit awkward and large for such delicate work, cut rings from corn cobs and pin and glue petals cut from corn blades around the rings to make flowers.

When these people are given such pleasant tasks, their eyes gleam and their mouths smile. They make a frog, using a rock for the body (painted green), small flat pebbles for feet and even smaller round pebbles for eyes. As work progresses, it seems that the handmade creatures and the visitors who call to watch the proceedings become part of the center family.

Have you a care center near you? Visit them soon and Christmas shop among their wares.

Christmas shopping at rehabilitation centers in the Commonwealth serves a dual purpose — even a triple one. You come away pleased; you have made those in the centers happy that you cared enough to visit, and you have helped them with funds for their own gift giving by making a purchase.

At the Frenchburg Boys Center in Menifee County, hands of youths keep busy all year handcrafting items for sale at festivals, county fairs and other gatherings. They make lovely wind chimes from native clay, also candle holders, bowls — but the gift of gifts from this center is their "Crawdaddies Holes."

This novel gift is indeed a crayfish hole but with a difference. Various glazes are applied to the clay and when baked the colors flow together to make beautiful blendings. These unusual gifts have golds and browns as dominant colorings or sometimes shades of purple and soft greens. They usually have a circle of felt glued on the bottom to make them useful on desks as pen and pencil holders. They also make candle holders. They are not expensive and make distinctive gifts for men.

At Woodsend Boys Camp in Morgan County, youths are being taught woodwork and refinishing. Their material is trees. Youths do not cut the trees, according to Jerald Amyx, who helps work with youths, "but when someone cuts trees on their farm or a tree blows over, they call us at the camp. The boys are then helped in making useful wood products from what otherwise would be allowed to rot."

What youths design and make are tables, stools, benches and cutting blocks. Benches are flattened on top and smoothed, leaving the underside round. Sometimes part of the bark is left on to give a rustic look and other times the entire half of a tree trunk is sanded and polished to a gleaming smoothness, then finished to make a piece of furniture that is both elegant and rustic.

These benches are heavy and durable. Some tables have a slab top. All pieces follow the natural shape of the tree trunk and have set-in legs that are sturdy and big and create a balanced look.

Make a phone call to the camp or center near you to find out about special Christmas projects and handicrafts. You most likely will be invited to visit on Sunday afternoon — that is, if it's a state-maintained youth rehabilitation center. Sunday afternoons usually are for visits from family and friends, but some youths do not have families who care enough to visit. You will be pleasantly surprised at how eager these young people are to talk with you and make you feel welcome to their temporary home.

If you are interested in benches and tables made by youths at Woodsend, you might want to drive to the camp and visit. If you decide on a purchase (you will be surprised at the small cost), you will be aiding youths with one of their annual Christmas projects. Each Christmas youths at this camp use their own spending money to buy toys and sponsor a party for young orphans at the Dora Lee Children's Home in nearby Magoffin County.

You can be sure of one thing. If you visit any center where the primary aim is to guide misdirected youth to a proper place in society, you will find all the boredom and most of the gripes and groans that usually accompany the holidays gone. It will be a time of joy and fellowship for all.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU TURN ON THE LIGHT

It's beginning to get dark outside and you decide to turn on a lamp in your living room. You flip the switch and, less than an eyeblink later, the light comes on.

What happened? To answer this, you first have to realize that electricity travels at about the same speed as light—186,000 miles per second! The electricity for your lamp, produced and sent to you, and used in the same fraction of a second.

oil, or gas. The electricity for your lamp could have been generated by the newest kind of power—nuclear power. Interestingly, by the year 2000 about half of our electricity will be coming from nuclear power plants. Nuclear plants work in much the same way as some of the other power plants. Water is turned to steam, and steam drives a turbine, which runs the generator.

The use of coal to create electricity is almost as old as the use of water power. The coal is ground into a fine powder, blown into a furnace and burned. The furnace heats hundreds of steel tubes, that contain water. The water turns to steam, and the steam is collected in a big drum at the top of the water power.

The difference between a nuclear power plant and other steam plants is in how the water is heated. In other steam plants, coal, oil, or gas is burned in furnaces to produce heat. In nuclear power plants, heat is released from uranium fuel, which is placed inside nuclear reactors. The control room is the heart of any power station. Engineers are on duty around the clock to make sure that every part of the system is working safely and that the right amount of electricity is being generated.

You cannot see electricity, but it flows along a wire the way water flows through a garden hose. If

Having the equipment there and ready, helps the electric companies maintain the kind of service you've grown used to, so that when you do flick a switch, it's less than an eyeblink later the light will come on.

SOLAR HOME: CLIMATE CONTROL UNDER A COPPER ROOF

Most home owners aren't aware of it yet, but man's oldest source of heat, the sun, is the best way to keep a house warm—and cool.

For sons before man discovered fire, he only had the sun to warm him. Now that the fossil fuels that have kept us comfortable are running low, man once again is beginning to look to the sun.

The first "practical" home to be fully climate controlled through solar energy has just been completed in Tucson, Arizona. Nearly 100% of its heating and about 75% of its cooling are supplied by the sun.

Called the "Decade 80 Solar Home," the home utilizes a copper roof to collect power from the sun. The copper roof is glass-skinned for the "greenhouse" effect—and integrated with copper tubing through which circulates water. This is the first totally integrated solar collector-roof system that is completely available to the building industry, and can be installed in the construction with the skills of today's tradesmen. Described as long-lasting, maintenance-free, easy-to-install and reasonably priced, this solar roofing and energy system can heat water more than 100 degrees F above the surrounding air temperature. Highly insulate, the combination copper roofing and energy system can be up to eight times better than any other material feasible for solar panels. Also, no such as a single room such as a small bedroom, family room, for example.

The "Decade 80 Solar Home" also will get energy from the sun through solar cells located on the copper roof, and these will run the family's various TV sets, sound system, stand-by security system, and small kitchen appliances such as the blender.

This kind of house doesn't have to be built in Arizona, either. It needs only a small fraction of the sun's energy, and by the sun on a given area to provide energy so it can be located almost anywhere.

With the "Decade 80 Solar Home" as the proving ground for a number of reasons. For one, copper conducts heat up to eight times better than

WHO'S HOME TONIGHT?

You can't tell who is home, but you sure know who isn't. A dark house is almost a sure sign no one is around. When you leave a light or two on, it's impossible to know whether or not your home is unoccupied. Most prowlers won't take the risk to find out.

For about 3¢, you can leave a 100 watt light burning all night. A little difference in your electric bill, but a big difference in your family's safety and security.

Night lighting protects you in other ways, too. A well lit stairway is easier to navigate. Forgotten bicycles aren't tripped over. And you no longer have to feel your way from the garage to the house.

We have a few good ideas on how to use outdoor light wisely. For recreation, safety and security. Stop in at any of our offices and we'll be glad to share them with you, at no charge.

Ann Landers

Copyright - Field Enterprises, Inc.

Dear Ann Landers: Many parents lack consideration when they name their newborn infants. Will you allow me to give your readers some guidelines? Their children will be grateful all the days of their lives.

1. Don't choose a name just because it is popular at the moment. In ten years from now "Tawny" or "Candy" will be one of seven or eight in her class with the same name.
2. Choose a first name that goes well with the last name. If your family names starts with "N", don't give your little girl a first name ending in "N" because a name like "Marilyn Nash" will come out sounding like "Marilyn Ash."
3. Don't name your child for a TV celebrity, movie star or sports figure. In five years the star may be forgotten and you'll be sorry.
4. Don't combine your husband's first name with a feminine ending and invent something "Cute" like "Markella" or "Johnette." In later years the poor kid will be asked, "Is that one name or two?" "What was that name again? John what?" "Would you please spell that name again?"
5. Don't let your husband talk you into naming the baby "Berkeley" or some such just because the name has been in the family for a long time. It's not worth it. — Made My Mistakes And I'm Sorry

Dear Sorry: Thanks for an interesting bit of advice. Too bad you didn't sign your name — or let us know what you did to your children that prompted you to write.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the teenager whose father called him belittling names brought back some heartbreaking memories of my youth. Now that I'm an adult maybe I can say a word to help other young people through some trying times.

I was a tall girl for my age. My dad took delight in calling me "The Big Ox" or "The Long Drink of Water." I also had a crooked tooth in front. He never lost a chance to call it to the attention of a new friend by asking, "How do you like our scangle-tooth witch?" Because of my father's merciless belittling (Mom called it "teasing a little") I grew up self-conscious and shy. It wasn't until I left home for college that I realized I was far from ugly and not much taller than most girls my age. Although I still have moments of insecurity (I'm now in my 40s) I've come to realize that my father did this to compensate for his own feelings of inadequacy.

Name-caller has their own private hang-ups. When young people understand this it can help them feel less bitter. — Receiving End

Dear Receiving: Your letter contained almost all the advice I was prepared to give. I'd like to add one more thought, however. Most parents who are unable to show affection to their children were denied affection by their own parents. Sometimes it takes therapy to break the chain. In the absence of professional help, just understanding can perform miracles.

Dear Ann Landers: For several years we have enjoyed entertaining our nieces and nephews before they married. In this way we were able to meet the new in-laws and families. Recently, we were told, "Forget the fancy dinner party. Just add the cost to the price of the gift."

We were shocked and hurt. What should we do? — PWL

Dear PWL: Forget the fancy dinner party and give exactly what you would have given prior to that tasteless suggestion.

Ornamental Christmas Lights Could Be Unsafe

Severe fires, injuries and tragedies caused by miniature tree and ornamental lights made Christmas a not-so-merry season for many Americans last year.

The Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR) joining the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission in a project to help eliminate the potential hazards caused by tree and ornamental lights.

"Consumer deputies or volunteers working in the interest of the consumer will work closely with local health departments to screen some 1,500 stores in the Commonwealth carrying Christmas lights," according to E. Edsel Moore, branch manager.

More says that around 50 housewives in Louisville have volunteered to help retail merchants in Jefferson County check for the following problems:

- + Cracked sockets. This potential hazard in light strings can be worsened by installation or changing bulbs.
+ Loose add-on connectors. Used for plugging in additional lights, these inserts can fall out, exposing bare wires. Check the end of the plug or connector for loose or missing add-on insulation.
+ Exposed bare wires. Check for exposed bare wires where insulation

THEN AND NOW!

DOUBLE ACTION WINE PRESS - invented by mechanic named Abbe Legros in the 18th century, it can be worked by one man, crushing grapes and siphoning juice into barrels.

Wine-making seems to have been one of man's earliest occupations, going back at least 12,000 years. European peasants used to jump into vats of grapes to press out the juice, but now most grapes are crushed in mechanical presses.

With this in mind, the Colony announces the introduction of a new line of varietal (named after grapes) wine - (Chenin Blanc, French Colombard, Cabernet Sauvignon) and the first popularly priced magnum of Cabernet Sauvignon wine offered to the American wine consumer.

Available in both fifths and magnums, the new wines will be bottled in the Colony's traditional screw cap containers in keeping with the Colony's tradition of an emphasis on quality.

"Our intent," says John A. Powers, president and chief executive officer, "is to make the best of California's new varietal plantings available at the most economical price possible. Our Cabernet Sauvignon, for instance, will sell for approximately $2.99 per fifth (a gallon) the equivalent of two standard fifths, a price far below any other Cabernet wine on the market. Fifths will sell for about $1.69."

Elks Observe Veterans Remembrance Month. Following a tradition started several years ago, Willis C. McDonald, Executive Director and Ruler (national president) of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the U.S.A., proclaimed November as Elks Month.

McDonald, a New Orleans, La. attorney, called upon 2,201 Elks lodges throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Philippines and the Philippines to initiate special observances for a increased program for the benefit of all veterans, particularly those in veterans and military hospitals.

He emphasized the tradition of the Elks in cooperation with the government on behalf of the armed forces, war efforts, hospitalization and rehabilitation of men and women who have served our country.

Under the guidance of Past Grand Exalted Ruler William J. Jerick of Ruler, New Jersey, Chairman of the Elks National Service Commission, lodges have furnished millions of dollars in equipment, supplies and services to veterans and military hospitals and hundreds of thousands of man-hours by volunteer Elks and their families.

They have contributed Christmas and Thanksgiving parties, bingo, fishing trips, baseball and football trips, boxing specialists for the Army and Navy a job accomplished three months ahead of schedule, according to Adjutant General J. S. Ulo.

The Elks operated 155 hospital centers during World War Two and 25 during the Korean War. They donated and furnished more than 800,000 pints of blood for wounded men in Korea and more than 30,000 pints of blood for wounded men in Vietnam.

McDonald said it should be noted that the Elks presented to the government the first Veterans' Hospital in our nation's history in 1918. The first two field hospitals to arrive on the battlefields of France during the first World War and the first "GI Loan" program in the history of the United States was established by the Elks in 1918.

Commander Evangelina Booth of the Salvation Army said in 1919 that the Order of Elks "very largely furnished the funds" and helped to raise a major portion of the money for their funds for the Army's work in World War One.

During World War Two, Elks conducted refresher schools for young men about to enter flight training and they were the only civilian organization chosen to recruit construction

Promoters Of Oil, Gas Watched By Kentucky

Persons approached by out-of-state oil and gas promoters offering large returns on an initial small investment in single oil and gas wells should carefully look into that company's history before getting out their checkbook.

Jack Bunnell, state securities director for the Kentucky Department of Banking and Securities, said the energy crisis has spawned several questionable operations throughout the country, including Kentucky.

In analyzing a recent oil investment promotion, the state securities division discovered that investors were asked to contribute an initial fee of $1,852 for drilling and completion costs. However, officials determined the well would first have to strike oil and then produce as much as the largest well within that same territory if the investors were to break even. Furthermore, Bunnell said that if such an occurrence took place, it would require a time span of 41 and one-half years.

And, since 121 interests were sold for the operation, each investor would only receive a 121st profit from further production. The promoters would retain 39 shares of the 121 total.

Bunnell explained that such deals are possible since small operators may drill by merely filing for a "Schedule D" form, a document authorized by the U.S. Securities Exchange Commission. Drillers are not required to reveal detailed information concerning finances and previous history if the prospective well is to cost less than $250,000.

Although Schedule D has been operative for some 36 years, it did not make headlines until recently when an increased demand for energy resources stirred up interest in the novice investor eager to profit from the crisis.

Bunnell emphasized that some Schedule D drillers are legitimate operators who make a living "wildcating." However, investors should be cautious to avoid financial losses because many out-of-state Schedule D drillings are nothing more than "bujler room" operations. Bunnell explained that promoters may call potential customers with enticing information about a well from a phone booth or a small office. Names are often obtained from mailing lists.

Once hooked, the victim may be contacted for additional money and strung along with tales of drilling difficulties and bad weather hindering the operation. In many cases oil is not discovered and the promoters move on, leaving behind only a letter explaining that the well was dry. A year or two may pass before investors realize that they will not receive profits from their well.

Major targets of the promoters are often well-to-do professionals who can write off the loss on their taxes without suffering great hardship. Bunnell said the securities division is mainly concerned about the "little guy" who might not fare so well.

Several states have undertaken a crackdown on Schedule D operations as more and more complaints and inquiries have been received from unfortunate investors. A recent list of states with cease and desist orders on oil and gas companies reveals that Alabama has issued 17 orders, Georgia, 15; Minnesota, 16; Texas, 12; Florida, 15; and Wisconsin, 16. Additional states also have taken out cease and desist orders but Kentucky is the only state that cannot yet do so until legislation is enacted to bring the oil and gas promoters under a securities law. Presently, the companies are only susceptible to charges of fraud.

Bunnell explained that the 1968 General Assembly deleted the oil and gas provision from the securities law since the energy crisis was not foreseen and many lawmakers felt detailed registration was unnecessary and too costly for the small operator. The upcoming 1976 legislature will be asked to once again bring the fractional interests of oil and gas wells under the definition of securities, said Bunnell.

Bunnell's concern for potential investors in Kentucky is shared by George Warren president of the Owensboro-based Kentucky Oil and Gas Association. Warren and Bunnell have consulted together in recent weeks over potential legislation. "Hopefully, we can put a lid on questionable operations without hurting the reputable driller. I had no idea this was going on and I am in the oil and gas business," Warren noted.

Until some concrete legislation is passed, Bunnell is asking all consumers contacted about drilling operations to call his office so securities officials may check cease and desist lists of other states. That information may be obtained by dialing toll-free 1-800-372-2967 in the state Cabinet for Public Protection and Regulation.

TODAY'S TAP WATER may contain undesirable or potentially dangerous impurities.

If the quality of water drops try household water purifier

City waterworks strive to make water safe and palatable, but recent reports show that there may be new potential health hazards to consider. Private supplies are also suspect.

Does your home water supply have undesirable and disturbing tastes and odors? Are you concerned about drinking it?

Encouragingly, a new three-way household water purifier removes all or substantially all of many undesirable or potentially dangerous impurities from water supplies, and produces high quality water for drinking and cooking. Called the "Aqua-Cleer,"

It is actually three different water conditioning processes in one system. Manufactured by Culligan, the new purifier can be installed under the sink, in a crawl space, utility room, or basement. It will process 150 gallons of water a month—more than enough for the drinking and cooking needs of the average family—and at a fraction of the cost of bottled water.

Hundreds of similar systems have been operating for many years, both in homes and in kidney treatment centers, where they are utilized for the preparation of water used in the critical task of purifying the blood of patients suffering from kidney failure.

Aqua-Cleer units are also used to improve water for other health care needs, and for processing water for manufacturing pharmaceuticals, foods, cosmetics, and electronic components.

No method, using a single water purifier, can be as effective as the three-way Culligan Aqua-Cleer system. In this age of pollution, it is prudent to have the best possible water in your home, and it is reassuring to know that household water purifying equipment is available to provide it.

COMPLETES COURSE... Three Rowan County coeds display completion certificates presented by Mrs. Mignon Doran, left, founder and director of Morehead State University's Personal Development Institute.

Bicentennial Course Offered At University

As part of its Bicentennial celebration, Morehead State University will be offering a broadcast course for credit called "The Adams Chronicles," detailing the lives and contributions of four generations of the Adams family from 1750-1950.

The course will be coordinated with the 13-part series of the same title produced by WNET, New York, and premiering Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 9 p.m. (EST), 8 p.m. (CST) on Kentucky Educational Television.

Noteworthy among the Adams' professions were two United States presidents (the second and the sixth), a vice president, a delegate to two Continental Congresses, a secretary of state, several ambassadors, negotiators of major treaties, members of the U.S. House of Representatives, a member of the Massachusetts legislature, Civil War officers, historians, financiers, and numerous other selfless individuals.

Accompanying the course will be three reading supplements: an anthology of historic documents and papers collected and edited by history professor David S. Rothman of Columbia University; a comprehensive study guide produced by Regina Janes, instructor of history, for the Coast Community College District, Costa Mesa, California; and The Adams Chronicles by noted journalist Jack Shepherd. All reading material is published by Little, Brown and Co., Boston.

The series was financed through grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, and the Atlantic Richfield Company. "The Adams Chronicles" is illustrative of a recent, non-traditional form of postsecondary education. Entire courses are being developed

Two major items on the agenda for the board's approval are the state school budget for the next biennium and personnel recommendations. Other items on the agenda include a state plan for career education, a request by the McCreary County Board of Education to exempt Pine Knott High School from participating in girl's basketball in the 1975-76 school year, a report on tuition charges for non-resident or out-of-district pupils and a report on alternative programs for suspended or expelled children.

The board also will consider a regulation which would provide the state superintendent of public instruction with blanket authority to meet legislatively mandated report requirements.

What You Should Know About Schizophrenia

It can happen in any family. It can happen next door, and it does, for it is estimated that nearly 2 million Americans may suffer in one time their lives from schizophrenia.

There now are only 96,500 psychiatrists in the United States and 30,000 Ph.D. psychologists. That comes to about 50 patients for every working practitioner. If there were no other mental illnesses, schizophrenia alone would come close to dominating the professional time of these psychiatrists and psychologists.

What is schizophrenia? A formal definition has been adopted by the American Psychiatric Association. "A group of disorders manifested by characteristic disturbances of mood and behavior. Disturbances in thinking are marked by alterations of concept formation which may lead to misinterpretation of reality and sometimes to delusions and hallucinations which frequently appear psychologically self-protective. Corollary mood changes include ambivalent, constricted and inappropriate responsiveness and loss of empathy with others. Behavior may be withdrawn, regressive or bizarre.

At with most illnesses, there are early symptoms of schizophrenia that can warn a family member or friend. The Schizophrenia Foundation has published 12 danger signs with the strong warning that "single symptoms are not diagnostic; several of the signs must be present." They are:

1. Stereotyped or repetitive behavior.
2. Continued feelings of physical discomfort without cause.
3. Unnatural fears or unusual grandiosity.
4. Failure to make friends and unnatural ability to

There are almost two million newspapers published in America. To bring the latest news to you, editors work long hours selecting items that will both inform and interest their readers. A newspaper is more than an announcement of current events. It is a forum for opinion, for stories of human interest, for advertising — that core of American free enterprise.

There are more than two million members of the Teamsters Union, and many of them help to make the road safer for you. Before any trip, they check their tires, brakes, rear view mirrors, connections, windshield wipers and lights, review the road conditions and the weather, because they want to make the streets they drive as safe as possible. Often the cargo they haul is worth thousands of dollars, but human life they value much more.

Teachers offer guidance in the development of intellectual capacities, the attainment of social skills and the formulation of moral values. Three million of them teach America's nearly 60 million students.

On December 10, 1775, Gen. Nathaniel Greene reported to Gov. Samuel Ward of Rhode Island that the troops "seem to be so sick of this way of life, and so homesick, that I fear the greater part will go home." The diary of a Private Lunt recorded "Colonel Little's regiment accused from duty. Paraded in order to enlist men for the new establishment; a considerable number engaged."

Circuit Judges Participate In State Judicial Confab

Kentucky's 86 Circuit Judges made their way to Covington this past week to participate in the semi-annual Kentucky Judicial Conference. While the schedule for the conference, which the Judges to discuss such wide ranging matters as new criminal law developments and the efficiency of judicial retirement policies, most conversations, both public and private, eventually turned to the potential of Kentucky's new court system and the efforts underway to assure its implementation.

Last month Kentucky voters broke with tradition by approving the first amendment to the Judicial Article of the Constitution in 85 years.

But according to many of the Circuit Judges at the Conference, the surprising outcome of the amendment caught a great many of the state's lawmakers and judicial officers unprepared for a complete and smooth transition.

"Not so," allowed Judge Henry Pennington, acting director of the Office of Judicial Planning, "this organization, with the cooperation of Chief Justice Scott Reed, has been working for the past few months to insure a smooth and orderly transition."

"The Office of Judicial Planning had, as a contingency, been preparing for the possible implementation of the new court system. We have, in effect, laid a great deal of the necessary groundwork and now we need the suggestions and recommendations of those associated with the courts to determine how the new system will best meet the judicial needs of the Commonwealth," said Pennington.

Agreeing with Pennington was Diane Morris, deputy director of the Office of Judicial Planning.

"This is the purpose of our group participating in conferences such as this one. We are asking Circuit Judges, circuit clerks and other people in the court system for their ideas and suggestions. In this way we hope to develop a satisfactory legislative package," she said.

The new court system, known as the Court of Justice, will include a Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, circuit courts, and district courts. It replaces a system composed of a Court of Appeals, circuit courts, and various lower courts.

Among the problems discussed at the conference were:

- The possibility of changing being made in jurisdiction and venue of trial courts.
- The means and methods of electing judges.
- The possible modification of the makeup of grand juries and petit juries.
- The route of appeals and the question of jurisdiction between the Circuit and District Courts.

During his introductory speech to the conference, Court of Appeals Chief Justice Scott Reed praised the Circuit Judges for their efforts to education the public on the grand question prior to the November 4 election, but cautioned that the proper implementation of the Court of Justice would require their continued support and cooperation.

The Washington Nobody Hears About... Legend and Lore of Bicentennial Era

The tourist attractions of the nation's capital have been spread around the globe ever since the city became a mecca for sightseers. And Washington has often been called over America's second hometown.

But under the legend and lore surrounding our own hometown, visitors to the capital seldom probe beyond the external beauty of its monuments and there is much to explore. The hard-to-believe but true stories of Washington ghosts and spies. The interesting behind-the-scenes accounts of its status. The odd habits of First Ladies.

As we approach the country's 200th birthday, let's examine some of the obscure facts that have molded the history of the capital.

One of the most disturbing of the Capital ghost stories is that of Major Pierre L'Enfant, the designer of the city. History reveals that this talented engineer was never adequately paid for services he rendered. And he died penniless. His ghost, looking disgruntled and hungry, resides in the Capitol and wanders about the basement. And every time someone starts making noise about changing the layout of the Capitol or beautifying it in some way, L'Enfant's ghost appears and begins strange and fitful noises.

Ghost stories abound in Washington. Probably the most famous of the Capital ghosts is the Demon Owl. Large cat that seems to grow and change in size. It is about to spring, the observer faints or the cat leaps over his head and out of sight. The Demon seems always to appear just before a national tragedy or a change of administration.

What about statues in the capital? Take the Marquis de Lafayette statue in Lafayette Square. He's the French fellow who helped us in our fight for independence. "The statue shows Lafayette holding out a cape-draped arm in tribute to America. At the base of the figure stands a spotted female, sword in hand, saluting Lafayette. Pulitzer prize-winning Washington author Constance Green contends that the semi-nude lady might be saying, "General, give me back my cape, and I'll give you your sword."

About First Ladies? There's a lot to say. How about President Polk's bride, for instance she frowned on dancing in the White House and for years after she left the station was not revived. Or Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes, who refused to accept alcoholic beverages in the White House Her state dinners were described by the press as events where the "water flowed like champagne." Silas, Coolidge's wife, Grace, was renowned for her education, gaiety and humor. At the very state inaugural parade, a constituent, believed "God Bless the Coolidges!" Grace turned around in the presidential box and shouted back: "He has!"

You've just had a glimpse of the Washington nobody hears about the Washington Area Convention and Visitors Bureau can tell you more. Write them at Box 1978, 129 20th Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036 and they will.

FRENCH COOKING MADE EASY FRENCH APPLE TART

Hearty fruit pies are a favorite American dessert. In France too, fruit and pastry are a popular combination, but in a slightly different way. The French Tart is thin and open-faced—a single pastry shell topped with fruit and pie glaze. This continental dessert has a delightful flavor to match its elegant appearance. Blue Bonnet Margarine gives the pastry and fruit glaze a rich flavor, so well with ducted in European cooking schools comparing Blue Bonnet and butter found no difference in flavor.

To achieve the free-standing appearance typical of a French Tart you must use a springform pan or a cake pan with a false bottom. A normal cake pan can be used, but the tart must then be served from the pan and will not look as pretty.

FRENCH APPLE TART

1 cup un sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup (1 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine
1/4 cup finely chopped pecans

2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dash salt
6 cups (about 3 large) thick sliced pared baking apples
1/2 cup orange marmalade

Combine 1 cup flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt in a bowl. (1) Cut in 1/2 cup margarine until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix in pecans. Add water and mix thoroughly. Form pastry into a ball. (2) Roll out on a lightly floured board to a 12-inch round. Place in a 9-inch spring form pan or a 9 x 2-inch round cake pan.

In a large bowl thoroughly combine sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, cinnamon and a dash of salt. Tom in apple slices until fairly well coated. Starting at outer edge of pan, (3) arrange apple slices in circles, overlapping each slice slightly. Cover pan loosely with aluminum foil. Bake at 400° F. for 45 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine marmalade and remaining margarine in a saucepan. Heat and stir over low heat until margarine is melted. Strain. Drizzle marmalade mixture over apples. Bake uncovered 15 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Cool in pan or wire rack. (4) Makes 10 servings.

Fido, man's best friend, gets his name from the Latin word for "faithful": fides.

Your week ahead

BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: December 14 to December 20

Just for the fun of it, try not complaining about your job, task or project... It won't be easy, this week!

ARIES Mar. 21-Apr. 19
Your opinion about a member of the opposite sex will change, drastically. See that you don't over react, emotionally.

TAURUS Apr. 20-May 20
It's a fact of life, some members of your sign will become involved, deeply, in a clandestine relationship.

GEMINI May 21-June 20
Dreams of home and far away places, too, should be some part of comfort to most members of your sign.

MOONCHILD June 21-July 22
You'll be over concerned about a minor incident. When the ship is on the rocks, it doesn't matter how nice the weather is.

LEO July 23-Aug. 22
Here's a warning! You must be so honest as a mirror. The smallest falsehood—will get you into big trouble.

VIRGO Aug. 23-Sept. 22
Beware of the company you keep! You'll start traffic with someone who is involved in, rather, shady activities. Avoid litigation.

LIBRA Sept. 23-Oct. 22
Something about your appearance is going to change, for the better or course—even your worst enemy will admit to that!

SCORPIO Oct. 23-Nov. 21
A broken promise, shows in your chart. Be wary for a moment disappointment to come from a source you least expect!

The POWER of PRINT in AMERICAN HISTORY PROPAGANDA FOR THE REVOLUTION

This article is adapted from a program of historical propaganda created by the St. Regis Paper Company in an effort to rededicate our pride in our country's achievements.

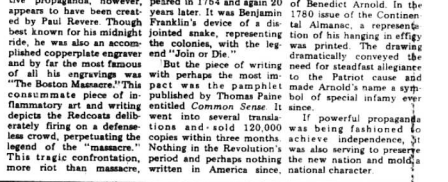

Political revolutions are neither spontaneous nor inevitable. They result from problems, forces and decisions working over long periods of time. In few periods of American history has the power of print been so effective in molding public opinion as in the era of the Revolution.

When Parliament enacted the Stamp Act in 1765, it touched off a rash of incendiary writing, so much so, Britain was forced to repeal the act. Other taxes, brought about by the Townshend Acts, were also written off the books—except the tax on tea.

Some of the most effective propaganda, however, appears to have been created by Paul Revere. Though best known for his midnight ride, he was also an accomplished copperplate engraver and by far the most famous of all his engravings was the "Boston Massacre." This consummate piece of inflammatory art and writing depicts the Redcoats delugedly firing on a defenseless crowd, perpetuating the legend of the "massacre." This tragic confrontation, more riot than massacre, written in America since, national character.

considered the first newspaper history occurred during the cartoon in America as Revolution: the "Treason" appeared in 1764 and again 20 of Benedict Arnold's years later. It was Benjamin Franklin's device of a distal Almonac, a representation of his hanging in effigy was printed. The drawing end "Join or Die."

But the piece of writing with perhaps the most impact was the pamphlet made Arnold's name a synonym for treason. It was published by Thomas Paine bold of special infamy ever went into several translations and sold 120,000 was being fashioned to copies within three months achieve independence, it was also serving to preserve Nothing in the Revolution's period and perhaps nothing the new nation and molda written in America since, national character.

FOR YOUTH

DOING THEIR THING-FOR OTHERS

America's young people, in a new way, are extending a helping hand to the disadvantaged poor of the developing countries overseas. They are "doing their thing," but they are making it meaningful through sponsoring one of the thousands of Catholic Relief local restaurants and bakeries they should contribute - would be served, bringing home to the participants that soup and bread constitute the only meal of the day for millions of people in the poor nations of the world. And the money the "donors" contribute would help support the American Catholic Overseas Aid Appeal which each year supplies the basic funding for the global assistance work of CRS.

Others ways for you and your group to do your thing and at the same time help poverty-stricken families abroad include a cake or cookie sale, a car wash, a film showing, an fashion show, a rummage sale, a card party, a sewing sale or an "antique" auction. Or maybe you'll think of your own.

Service (CRS) projects that include teaching better nutrition to mothers, helping to supply drinkable water to remote villages, expanding facilities for vocational training for the young and helping small farmers to produce better crops.

Other ways for you and your group to do your thing and at the same time help poverty-stricken families abroad include a cake or cookie sale, a car wash, a film showing, an fashion show, a rummage sale, a card party, a sewing sale or an "antique" auction. Or maybe you'll think of your own.

Perhaps your group would prefer to sponsor a bikathon or a cyclathon instead of a walk. If so, the distance can be greatly increased along with the amounts pledged by the sponsors.

If you're a young person who like to help the needs of the world but you don't have much cash yourself, there are many successful ways to raise money. That is, if you and your group are willing to expend some energy. And you'll have fun doing it. For example, your group can sponsor a "soup" at your church or school. Only soup and bread - which you may be able to convince some of your feeling energetic, why not stage a walk-a-thon? Each walker can be sponsored by an individual or business in the area that pledges to do-

Whatever amount your group raises will help some hungry child or under-nourished family somewhere in the Third World. Tax-deductible contributions can be made to the American Catholic Overseas Aid Appeal at your local Catholic Church or mail them to ACOAA, 1011 First Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022

Frymire Reappointed State Adjutant General

While most Kentuckians were well aware that the governor and lieutenant governor were sworn into office Tuesday, many did not know that a third person broke the oath of office on the same day.

Gov Julian Carroll administered that oath shortly after the inaugural ceremony Tuesday to Major General Richard L. Frymire. Frymire, of Madisonville, has been reappointed as the state's adjutant general.

Though other offices are established by the state constitution, the governor is required, by law, to swear in the adjutant general immediately after taking his own oath of office. The ceremony occurred immediately following Gov. Carroll's inaugural.

Frymire, 44, was first appointed adjutant general Dec. 7, 1971. The appointment brought with it the two-star rank of major general.

A native of Louisville, he graduated from Centre College in Danville in 1952 and earned his juris doctorate degree from the University of Kentucky in 1959.

The general's military career also began in 1952, when he enlisted as a navigation cadet. After pilot training, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. After a period of active duty and assignment to the Reserves, Frymire transferred to the Kentucky Air National Guard and began flying reconnaissance aircraft.

In private life, he served eight years in the state General Assembly, including four years in both the House and Senate. In 1962, he was selected as the "Most Valuable" Freshman Representative" and in 1968 was elected as majority floor leader.

His legislative career was interrupted in 1968 when his Air National Guard unit was activated to serve during the Pueblo crisis. When that activity ended, he returned to his Madisonville law practice. He also served as commander of the Kentucky Air Guard's 165th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron.

As adjutant general, Frymire heads the Department of Military Affairs, which includes the Kentucky Air Guard, Kentucky Army Guard and the Division of Disaster and Emergency Services.

He has earned many military honors, including the Legion of Merit. That award, recently presented by Gov. Carroll, is the highest normally given in peacetime and was authorized by President Ford for the general's service while adjutant general.

Frymire is married to the former Phyllis Taylor of Campbellsville and they have six children.

Gov. Carroll has also reappointed three other top National Guard officials: Brigadier General Wilbur R. Bunin Jr., commander of the Army Guard's senior command in Kentucky, the XXIII Corps Artillery, will continue in his post as deputy adjutant general. He has held that position since March, 1972.

Brigadier General Lawrence Quebbemann, a pilot and former commander of the Air Guard's 123d Tactical Reconnaissance Wing in Louisville, will continue to serve as assistant adjutant general for Air. He first accepted that position in February, 1975.

Brigadier General William E. Hall, who has served as assistant adjutant general for Army since March, 1972, will remain in that capacity. Gen. Hall joined the Army in 1949 and has been with the Kentucky National Guard since 1947.

Bicentennial deepens interest in authentic reproductions and period inspired pieces

The run on antique shops is stronger than ever as Americans near its two hundredth birthday. While traditionalists have always loved the classic lines of period furniture, modernists are now responding to the warmth these pieces can give to chrome and glass dominated rooms.

A period piece that looks great in the light of an auctioneer's gavel or win some in the dim atmosphere of a museum shop, may have difficulty in standing up to the current light of day.

Many virtues. Genuine antiques are costly and rare. The best investment for today's home is a carefully crafted reproduction with properly chosen materials and upholstery fabrics treated to withstand the most active household.

A virtual banquet of authentic reproductions is available at furniture and department stores that select classic items from manufacturers like Hickory Furniture Company who specializes in period inspired pieces.

Hickory's American Masterpiece Collection, for example, is based upon the designs of the 18th century collections and the style books of Chippendale, Hepplewhite and Sheraton.

Democratic influence. This furniture represents the beginnings of the great American Middle Class and the first middle class affluence expressed dramatically in purity of line, simplicity of form and comparison with European styles of the day.

Today's 18th Century renditions are accurate to such fine points as carved shell motifs in low and highboy chests, graceful cabriole legs on Queen

COLONIAL PARLORS were gracious rooms devoted to the amenities - receiving callers, doing needlepoint, and serving tea. This formal charm has been captured in this decorated room above with Queen Anne furniture from "The American Masterpiece Collection" by Hickory Furniture Company. Armchairs carved from solid Honduras mahogany contrast with the cushioned softness of the fire-side wing chair. The mahogany highboy, as well as other pieces in the room are derived from museum pieces by American craftsmen.

Anne tea tables and carved fretwork on Chippendale chair backs. The same dark mahogany woods are used, often with veneers or inlays of maple, burr, curly maple and new wood as accents to emphasize solid brass hardware.

Blending of old and new gives the mix most home owners want today. It exemplifies the spirit of 1976 appreciation for the treasures of the past in terms of the present. Today's reproduction will be tomorrow's heirloom.

TIPS FOR DIPS AND SEASONED SPREADS

Blue Bonnet is introducing a new product that fills today's consumers' need to economize, but still serve wholesome meats and party dishes. The product is Blue Bonnet Spread, which has the flavor and look of margarine, but has 25 percent less fat and calories. It comes in 2-pound bowls, selling at an average of $1.25-$1.30 a pound.

Ideal as a table spread or as a recipe ingredient, Blue Bonnet Spread is especially delicious in a dip or seasoned spread or bread and crackers. Essentially the same, dip and spreads differ mainly in consistency. Dips must be soft enough not to break the cracker or potato chips used as scoops, but not so soft they drip. Spreads must be soft enough to spread without breaking the crackers or tearing the bread, but not runny.

Suggested here are two dips and a cheese spread. Popular in the Southwest is Guacamole Dip, a seasoned avocado-whipped mixture flecked with chopped tomatoes. Tortilla chips are a perfect partner. Dilly Shrimp Dip combines cream cheese with chopped shrimp and lettuce. Fat and calories are well blended and smooth. Stir in tomato. Chill at least 1 hour before serving. Makes about 3 cups.

DILLY SHRIMP DIP
1 can (4-1/2-ounce) small shrimp
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
1/3 cup Blue Bonnet Spread
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
MILK
Drain shrimp, rinse and drain again. In a small mixer bowl, combine cream cheese and Blue Bonnet Spread; beat until well blended. Stir in shrimp, onion and dill weed. Chill until ready to use. If necessary, add milk by teaspoon until desired consistency is reached. Makes about 1 2/3 cups.

MUENSTER CHEESE SPREAD
8 ounces Muenster cheese, grated
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento
1/4 cup Blue Bonnet Spread
Combine cheese and pimiento. Blend in Blue Bonnet Spread until smooth. Chill until ready to serve. Spread on crackers or use as sandwich filling. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Kentucky's New Minimum Wage Going To $2.30

Employers in eight Southeastern states are reminded by James E. Patching, assistant regional director for employment standards, U.S. Department of Labor, Atlanta, that federal minimum wage increases go into effect Jan. 1, 1976.

Not all non-agricultural workers subject to the Fair Labor Standards

Act (FLSA), which sets out minimum wages, have the same status, according to Patching. Those who were covered by the FLSA prior to Feb. 1, 1967, must be paid at least $2.30 an hour as of Jan. 1, 1976.

Non-agricultural workers who became subject to the Act in 1967 or later must get at least $2.20 an hour beginning Jan. 1, 1976, and $2.30, Jan. 1, 1977.

The overtime pay requirement of one and one-half times the regular rate for hours worked in excess of 40 in a work week remains the same in most instances for both groups.

Persons employed in agriculture, by an employer who used more than 500 man-days of agricultural labor in any calendar quarter of the preceding calendar year, must be paid a minimum wage of at least $2 an hour beginning Jan. 1, 1976. There is no overtime pay requirement for agricultural employees.

The eight states in the Labor Department's Southeastern region are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Patching said additional information on the FLSA is available from the U.S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division office at Concord Square, Suite C, 1460 Newton Road, Lexington, Ky. 40505, telephone 606-252-2312, ext. 2575.

PLAN YOUR PROPERTY PROTECTION

Prepared by The Society of Chartered Property & Casualty Underwriters, the national professional society whose members have earned the CPCU designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q I may have saved my neighbor $124. His home was so badly damaged by fire that he and his family had to live at a nearby motel for three weeks while it was being repaired. Though he knew his home-owners policy covered the motel bill, he failed to put in a claim for the meals he and his family had to eat out in restaurants. I pointed this out, he tells me he and his family had to eat anyway and the insurance company wasn't responsible.

A Your friend is wrong. You have saved him the 124 dollars. One of the features of a home-owners policy is the coverage of additional living expenses. This coverage takes care of the increase in living expenses made necessary if your house cannot be occupied because of damage. It not only includes your hotel bill but the increase in your normal food bills due to the fact that you and your family had to eat out those three weeks.

THE NEW WORKING WOMAN

To work or not to work. That is the question being weighed by an increasing number of women looking for part time or full time jobs.

Regardless of the reasons, the question of whether or not to work is often based on what is available and what the job offer could best be qualified for.

According to Tupperware Home Parties, whose products are sold nationally by thousands of part time and full time independent dealers, there are five critical items for consideration.

First, don't overlook your work in the home when determining what hours can be devoted to work outside of it. The most important trait you can bring to a job is organization. It will prove its value both on the job and away from it.

Second, the job should coincide with your personal interests and talents. Even part time work should be challenging, rewarding and filled with opportunities for advancement.

Third, carefully weigh the expected income benefits to be gained from part time or full time work. Don't overlook the costs of working, for child care, transportation and laundry expenses. There are favorable income tax considerations for you in this area.

Fourth, set realistic financial goals, then set out to achieve them. Many housewives find their work more challenging and fulfilling when it is directed to something specific. Often it is more beneficial if the goal is extraordinary, such as a special vacation.

Fifth, fully discuss your job interests with your husband. If there is agreement on what you are working for, a job can help pull a family together, not apart.

Health Planning Council To Review Two Proposals

The Department for Human Resources has received two applications from facilities serving Eastern Kentucky which, because of their estimated costs, come under the jurisdiction of Section 1122 of the Social Security Act. This segment of the law applies to capital expenditures by health care facilities which, if not justified by increased services or efficiency, could result in unreasonable increases in costs to patients. The applications and their estimated costs are:

- Mountain Comprehensive Health Corporation, Hazard, $250,000 to construct Breathitt County Primary Care Center at Jackson and
- Luther P. Hicks, Hamilton, Ohio, $350,000 to construct Golden Years Nursing Home, Monticello, a facility with 30 personal care and 20 intermediate care beds.

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council will review these proposals at Sheraton Inn East, Louisville, Dec. 16-17. The reviews are open to the public.

Location of 'work centers' assures efficiency in kitchen

Most homemakers agree that the kitchen where they invariably spend a great deal of their time. And they want it to be as modern, pleasant and convenient as possible. Every kitchen should be divided into three major "work centers," located in relation to the sequence of work to be performed there, according to Hoppoint's Kitchen Planning Service. The major "work centers" are the refrigerator center, the "Clean-Up" center and the cooking center.

Ideally, the sequence of work in the kitchen moves from storage and mixing, on to preparing, then to cooking and serving and finally back to the sink for clean up.

Planning comments
Hotpoint kitchen planners have these comments on each of the centers:

Refrigeration: Obviously built around the refrigerator, this center should be located near the door where the supplies enter and should have sufficient drawer, shelf, and counter space to handle the numerous kitchen utensils, foodstuffs and small appliances common in today's kitchen.

There should be a minimum of 15 inches of work counter at the opening side of the refrigerator — more, if possible.

Move efficiency
Today's modern side-by-side refrigerator-freezer combinations can be used more efficiently with work space on both sides of the appliance, which also allows both its doors to open to their stops.

Clean-up
"Clean-Up": This center handles chores performed in the kitchen during preparation of daily meals and the subsequent clean-up. It is best when it is located between the range and refrigerator, and should have at least 24 inches of counter space means of handling solid non-extendable wastes such as milk containers, egg cartons, cereal boxes, bottles, and the like. Together, a waste disposer and compactor can help provide a neater, cleaner kitchen.

Cooking: The best location for this cooking center is near the dining room and breakfast areas. A counter on each side of the range is important for efficiency as well as safety.

There should be a minimum of 12 inches of counter at the side away from another major center, and 24 inches minimum between the range and another major appliance or the sink.

Storing essentials
A large amount of storage also is required in this area for pots, pans, trays, utensils, dry foods, and condiments.

Most kitchens will contain one or more minor work centers, according to Hoppoint, so plans should be well laid to make them work best.

Work centers
A desk or planning and message center, is an essential in today's modern kitchen. It can be as large as needed, or as small as an eight-inch shelf with telephone and recipe racks. If space permits, a bulletin board and intercom can be included.

These guidelines should help you plan the best arrangement of work centers in your new kitchen to fit your needs with the space available.

Kincaid Described As Ky.'s Financial Wizard

Garville Kincaid... success in business

By John Davidson

He was described as being a shrewd businessman, an outcast, an Horatio Alger, both heartless and a philanthropist, and a score of other things. People loved him, hated him, feared him and idolized him. But no one disputed his financial success.

He was Garville D. Kincaid — described in his obituaries as a Lexington financier. But he was much more.

Garville Kincaid died Friday, Nov. 21, of a heart attack at the age of 63, while on a business trip in Elizabethtown. He was buried in Lexington Monday, Nov. 24.

Kincaid was many things to many people. One thing he was, was one of the most successful businessmen in the nation. Estimates of his holdings and interests at the time of his death held his worth at over one-half billion dollars.

Gov. Julian Carroll described Kincaid as "a giant of a man in many ways."

business world.

Somewhat of An Outcast

But his constant business acquisitions made many people distrust him, which resulted in him becoming somewhat of an outcast. People remember a Lexington country club, which sat across the street from his home, rejecting his application for membership. "He could sit on his front porch and see everything going on at the country club; but he couldn't go over there," one of his former associates remembered.

Another of Kincaid's acquaintances believes that the saddest Kincaid encountered from some people's distrust of him, and a few people's contempt, is what compelled him to give away much of his money to charitable organizations. Others believe that this motive was to try and help others with the wealth he had amassed. Still others claim it was merely a tax break.

In 1960, Kincaid became the first Kentuckian to be awarded the Horatio Alger Award, for "those who rise from humble beginnings."

While Kincaid was still a youth, his father put aside $5,000 to send him to Harvard Law School. But Kincaid never made it to Harvard. He attended Eastern State Teachers College (now Eastern Kentucky University) and received his law degree from the University of Kentucky.

People in those schools at the same time as Kincaid remember, "Academics never concerned Garville too much. He had a pre-occupation with real estate — buying and selling, with making money even while he was in school. He dabbled in politics quite a bit, too."

Had Law Firm

Even though he never made it to Harvard, Kincaid did become a lawyer and set up a firm in Lexington. But one of his former acquaintances said, "I really don't think Garville could have cared less about his law practice. He was always too busy building an empire and observing political races."

Kincaid's will called for the Central Bank & Trust Co. of Lexington to act as executor and trustee of his estate under a three-man advisory committee.

His many holdings included the Kentucky Finance Co., Central Bank & Trust Co., Kentucky Group Bank, Kentucky Central Life Insurance Co., WKYT-TV and WVLK radio in Lexington and WINN radio in Louisville. The buying trip he was on in Elizabethtown at the time of his death was to acquire another bank.

Former employees at WKYT-TV remember that station employees were "always on their toes" because they knew Kincaid watched his station frequently and always expected the best. They say that Kincaid traveled to other cities across the nation and would watch the television stations in those towns, and then return demanding to know why his station was not doing something that he saw on another station.

Disliked High Weeds

They remember that one of Kincaid's pet peeves was the high weeds on many vacant lots in Lexington. About once a year, they say, Kincaid would choose the shortest reporter on the staff, put him in the middle of one such field of weeds and photograph him. The weeds would actually look much taller than they really were because of the diminutive size of the reporter, they say.

These people also tell a story about a former news director at the station who had a private telephone line that only Kincaid called on. They say that whenever the line rang, the news director would automatically stand up while picking up the phone.

Employees of WVLK radio in Lexington echo the respect for Kincaid that was felt by the television station's former news director. The radio station employees state that Kincaid had instructed the switchboard girls on his ideas of telephone courtesy. They remember that the girls always followed Kincaid's rules of phone courtesy especially because "he was always calling in and disguising his voice just to check and see that everyone was doing their job just right."

Received Many Honors

Garville Kincaid was the recipient of a great many honors. Among mountains of other awards, he was named "Outstanding Kentuckian of the Year" in 1965 by the Kentucky Press Association, and was inducted into the National Newspaper Hall of Fame the same year. The Newspaper Hall of Fame is comprised of former newspaper carriers who have gone on to achieve outstanding success in their adult lives. One of Kincaid's associates said he was especially proud of that award.

Kincaid was a benefactor of charities, YMCA's, Boys Clubs and contributed funds for a central Kentucky juvenile center, now known as the Kincaid Home.

Some of his acquaintances have remarked that his vast business holdings have helped make him "a legend in his own time," and have helped him gain much recognition while he was alive.

One of his former associates said that he believed that Kincaid's financial success put him on a level with the center piece of the Kentucky State Fair. He said that he had seen Kincaid on any day with Joe Kennedy. "I don't think anybody could have out-smoked Garville Kincaid," the former associate stated.

Your Social Security

By David Bryan - Ashland District Mgr. For Social Security Information write District Social Security Offices 1816 Carter Avenue Ashland, Ky. Phone 325-7666

People must be told why they are asked to give information to the Social Security Administration and other Federal agencies under a law that became effective in September.

The intent of the law — the Federal Privacy Act — is to safeguard information about individuals kept in Government records and to inform people of their rights when they are asked to give information, according to David Bryan, social security district manager in Ashland.

Social security routinely gets information from people in administering retirement, survivors and disability insurance, Medicare, the supplemental security income program, and black lung benefits.

"Under the Privacy Act," Bryan said, "people asked for information must be told the statutory authority for the request, whether giving the information is voluntary or mandatory, why the information is needed, how it will be used, and the effects of not providing it."

A fact sheet explaining the law generally is given to people before starting an interview in social security offices, he said.

The Privacy Act restricts Government use of social security numbers. Any Federal, State, or local agency that asks for an individual's social security number must cite its authority for the request, say whether giving the number is voluntary or mandatory, and tell how the number will be used, according to Bryan.

The law also assures people of greater access to Government records of information about themselves, he said.

The Ashland social security office is located at 1816 Carter Avenue. The phone number is 325-7666.

Old Governor's Mansion Will Be Stovall's Home

When L.F. Gov. Thelma Stovall makes the Old Governor's Mansion her official residence, the historic house will have its first full-time resident in almost a year.

But the brick mansion on the corner of High Street and Governor's Alley in Frankfort has not been empty in the months since the family of Gov. Julian Carroll moved into the newer mansion across the river. At the request of Mrs. Carroll, the old Kentucky Georgian-style mansion has been open for tours and has been used as a meeting place by various organizations. The mansion has also served in an official capacity as a guest house for visiting dignitaries.

The building has welcomed seven presidents and has survived a period of disrepair, when its demolition was seriously considered. It has been the home of 33 governors and four lieutenant governors.

The governor's "Palace" was authorized by the General Assembly in 1798, when $12,000 was appropriated for its construction. Two of the workmen who helped in its construction stonemason Thomas Metcalfe and bricklayer Robert Letcher - were later to return as governors to live in the home which they had helped build. The house was not completed when the Commonwealth's first governor, Isaac Shelby, served his first term of office. Instead, Shelby occupied a log cabin on the banks of the Kentucky River and finally lived in the mansion when he was elected Kentucky's sixth executive officer.

The mansion's first tenant, Gov. James Garrard brought the first piano to Frankfort by his daughter, and historians report that crowds lined the street to see the strange unwieldy instrument as it was moved inside.

Governor Thomas Metcalfe, who was nicknamed "Old Stonemason" in tribute to his earlier occupation, was barred from the official residence for several days after his term of office began. His predecessor, Joseph Desha, was outraged that a "common" tradesman should succeed his own elegant tenancy and only the entreaties of his friends convinced Gov. Desha to yield to the newly elected chief executive.

Eleanor Beckham, daughter of Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, was the only child born in the mansion. His grandfather, himself the daughter of Gov. Charles Wickliffe, served briefly as bachelor Gov. Beckham's hostess, until he married Jean Raphael Fuqua, a 21-year-old Owenboro belle.

Gov. William Taylor's inauguration came after a bitterly contested election between Republican Taylor and Democrat William Goebel. Political unrest was rampant during the two months of the Taylor presidency, the mansion was riddled by its high iron fence and by a guard of the militia. On Jan. 30, Goebel, who had contested the election, was shot on the Old Capital grounds. He was moved to the Capital Hotel and the next day took the oath of office from his deathbed. His term lasted only three days and he became the only governor who never lived in his official residence.

By 1906, the mansion, like the state's Old Capital, was deemed too outdated and small, and a new mansion, in elegant French style, was erected across the river in 1914. Gov. McCree, who was the last chief executive to live in the old mansion, apparently found its room not large enough for gracious entertaining, for he specified that the new mansion should have a ballroom.

For awhile after the new mansion became the residence of the state's first family, the house on High Street became the home of the state's highway patrol. It was used briefly for various other state offices, but it was not well maintained and was eventually abandoned to the rigors of weather and the damage of vandals. When the once-elegant mansion became Frankfort's best-known eyesore, many voices called for its demolition. Once critic complained that the decaying home would detract from the beauty of the new State Office Building, constructed across the street in the 1930's.

In 1946, the house was saved when the Kentucky Historical Society agreed to maintain it as a shrine and the legislature agreed to finance its renovation. It was restored to the dignity of its 1800's elegance, but its diverse collection of furnishings, reflect no specific period in Kentucky's history. Remnants of its resident governors and unusual Kentucky antiques span the years of its early use, while modern improvements make it today a comfortable home.

In 1956, it was designated the official residence of the lieutenant governor, and since that time, four men - Harry Lee Waterfield, Wilson Wyatt, Wendell Ford and Julian Carroll - have brought their families to live there.

Five Coal Companies Are Sued

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has charged five coal companies with strip mining without a permit.

The five are accused of violating statutory law and regulations by engaging in strip mining without first obtaining a permit from the division of reclamation. The charges state that by committing the violation, each coal firm has created a hazardous condition that will cause great, immediate and irreparable harm to the state.

Charged with strip mining without a permit were:

- + Bill Hurley and Donnie Daniels, near East Bernstadt in Laurel County, off Ky. 1269 near Mount Vernon in Rockcastle County
- + Bobby Taylor and Ernest Baldwin, off Ky. 1749 near Shanty Hollow and Edmonson County line in Warren County.

HONG KONG HARBOR VESSEL HONG KONG - At any given time, more than 100 oceangoing vessels and about 5,000 local craft are busy in Hong Kong harbor.

A Human Solution For Families and Patients...

Home Care for the Retarded

Today's liberated woman is often pictured as a briefcase-carrying commuter, making "big decisions" somewhere in what was once known as a "man's world." Though more women are now involved in business management, their roles today include many other functions no less important.

Take Maryanne Wagner, for example. She lives in a small town in upstate New York, working part-time so she can be home when her children return from school.

Maryanne does not work in an office or a factory, or even a hospital - the place you might expect to find someone with her training in nursing and social work. She works at 1221 Elm Street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Sawyer and their daughter Grace.

Here she spends five hours a day with Grace Sawyer, who is five years old, blind and mentally retarded. For Maryanne Wagner is part of a joint government and private enterprise effort to help the mentally retarded reach their full potential. The basic idea behind the innovative program is that no retarded person can accomplish more in a home environment than in an institution.

Though home health care for the physically ill is becoming a more familiar concept, the idea of keeping the mentally retarded child who may have other physical handicaps as well.

like the ones in New York. "Giving the parents some respite from the constant care they must give their children, many mentally retarded children need can be the most important thing they do. When ment in keeping a family together," says Nolan Fisher of Homemakers Uplift, a private home health agency which provides personnel to programs

then telling them what to do." "That's where people like Maryanne Wagner step in. "When I first met Grace, she couldn't feed herself or sit up," reports Maryanne. "Thanks to my training, it only took a couple of days to teach her to feed herself. Then she started moving around more, and now she's able to do quite a lot. It's been a joy just watching her grow."

Home care for the retarded is presently getting a close look from health planners around the country. Hugs G. Lafave, M.D., a pioneer in the field, says plainly, "Parents of a retarded child are often faced with an all-or-nothing choice. They must either handle the problem totally on their own, or place their child in an institution and do nothing at all for him. I believe it is a middle road, where government programs, voluntary services, and private agencies like Homemakers Uplift combine their resources to meet the total needs of the child and the family."

Maryanne and her many colleagues agree with Dr. Lafave. A young medical student summed it up this way: "I used to work part-time for a department store before I got this job. To put it mildly, selling coats and pants didn't turn me on. Here I'm always learning things which will help me to better doctoring. I'm seeing the human side of patients and families."

The most important people are the retarded themselves, of course. Most can't easily communicate their response to home health care. But the smile on Grace Sawyer's face, as she makes a new task with Maryanne's help, seems proof enough of the significance of what is taking place.

Unemployment Rates High In Eastern Kentucky

Eastern Kentucky has the highest unemployment rate, 8.3 per cent, in the state, according to Department for Human Resources' (DHR) statistics. While the Eastern Kentucky region's rate dropped 0.6 per cent from the September rate, it remains 0.9 per cent higher than the state rate of 7.4 per cent, according to Robert MacDonald, chief statistician for DHR.

There are 13 counties in Eastern Kentucky with unemployment rates of 10 per cent or above and 20 counties remain above 6.5 per cent figure.

The entire list of county-by-county rates in Eastern Kentucky for October is as follows:

- Bath 9.3, Bell 10.6, Boyd 5.7, Breathitt 11.9, Carter 11.4, Clay 11.2, Elliott 6.5, Floyd 10.0, Greenup 6.8, Harlan 7.0, Jackson 11.9, Johnson 7.1, Knott 8.6, Knox 9.0, Laurel 5.6, Lawrence 7.0.
