Enrollment Record Broken As 3,802 Students Register

Morehead State College has a record fall enrollment of 3,802 students -- an increase of 1 1/2% over the 1963 fall enrollment.

The new all time high enrollment figure tops the previous high of 3,238 students in the fall of 1963 by 564 students.

Morehead's enrollment total does not include the Breckinridge Training School enrollment of 351 or the persons who are enrolled in extension or correspondence courses.

Students are enrolled at Morehead from 94 Kentucky counties, 30 other states and 10 foreign countries.

Rowan County has the largest number of students at Morehead with 324 while Carter County has 174, Boyd 171, Greenup 148, Jefferson 135, Floyd 128 and Pike 112.

The Morehead State College enrollment has increased by more than 50% during the past 10 years, making Morehead one of the fastest growing institutions of higher learning in the South.

"Our great difficulty with such a huge increase in enrollment lies in the fact that our physical facilities are not keeping pace," said Dr. Adron Doran, President of Morehead State College. "We need additional housing, feeding and instructional space."

Let There Be Light Throughout America

Thomas Jefferson was quick to perceive that representative government couldn't endure in the absence of an informed electorate.

He wrote in 1832 that the press was "the best instrument for enlightening the mind of men."

In 1802 he had written:

"Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

His plain inference was that an enlightened electorate would know how to go about organizing an enlightened government.

Newspaper Week is observed nationally in mid-October. To note the occasion is to recall Jefferson's perceptive remark concerning the essential function of a free press in a representative government. The function is unchanged since his time.

James Concert Successful — Over 1,500 Attend Program

By Fietta Hubbs
Trail Blazer News Writer

"An evening well spent," is the general comment about the Harry James Concert, the first concert of a series to be held here at Morehead this season.

Over 1,500 people came to the concert at the Fieldhouse on Wednesday evening, September 30. A few of these people were disappointed when they learned that James' wife, Betty Grable, did not accompany him on this trip. They did not have to wait long, though, before they realized that this oversight was well compensated by the performance of James' and company.

Among the highlights of the evening, was the singing piano playing of Nina Simone. Along with her accompanying trio, Miss Simone sang and played four songs.

Probably the greatest highlight of the evening was the drum solo performed by the great Buddy Rich. For each of his three outstanding solos, he received a round of enthusiastic applause from the audience.

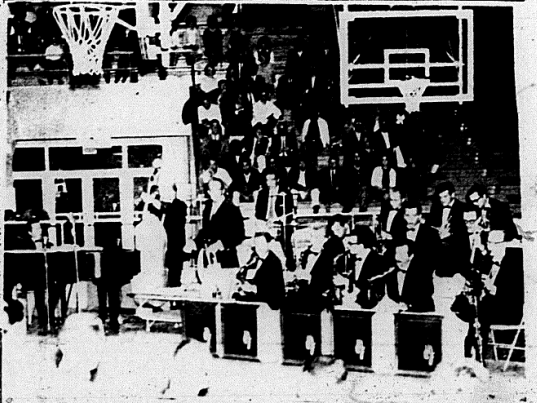

The James Band played selections of practically all varieties. There were jazz, blues and slow tunes, all done in the true James style.

New Addition To Education Carpets In The Classrooms

In homes and PTA meetings all over the country, people are talking about a new step many schools are taking—providing carpets for classrooms.

It has had various types of wear and stains such as mud, grit, chocolate, ink and even chewing gum, but it cleans up beautifully—looks grand all the time," Alfred H. Kitchner, principal of the multi-million dollar Berea High School, Greenville, S.C., said of the wall-to-wall carpeting installed as part of a five year experiment in cooperation with the Chemstrand Company division of Monsanto Company.

As in some one hundred other American schools, carpeting was laid at Berea to compare its initial costs and maintenance with that of more conventional hard surface flooring. Doubts of students and faculty of the practicality of carpeting in schools soon vanished when they saw that it retained its fresh appearance—even on rainy days!

At Shaker High School, Newtonville, N.Y., a recent survey, revealed that it cost $176.61 in labor, supplies and equipment to maintain 1,000 feet of carpeting—while care of the same amount of asphalt tile required $359.75. These costs were figured on a yearly basis.

Besides, hard floors require mops, wringers, detergents, floor finish removers and polishers, while carpets could be maintained in top condition with only a vacuum cleaner, sweeper and spot remover kit. And according to laboratory tests, carpets and rugs made of Acrylic acrylic fiber offer additional resistance to stains and soiling.

This fiber is highly resilient and recovers readily from the weight of heavy furniture. Chemstrand has found it especially suitable for areas of heavy traffic such as stairways and hallways and it has been selected for many commercial installations as in hotels and aboard airplanes.

Another advantage of having carpeting -- according to school officials -- is that it greatly reduces such annoying noises as the opening and closing of locker doors, dropping of books, and shuffling of feet. Acoustical tests over the past few years reveal that carpeting absorbs more than 50% of all airborne school noises -- so there's less need for expensive acoustical ceiling tiles.

Children particularly liked the fact that they did not slip as easily on a carpeted floor and that when they did, they did not hurt themselves. Smaller children especially liked its "soft" feel and often kicked off their shoes, while teachers claimed they were less fatigued after standing and teaching on a carpeted floor all day.

Children in some areas levels even learn better in carpeted rooms. This was revealed in a recent year-long research project conducted by the Bureau of Educational Research and Service Department of the Ohio State University with the cooperation of Chemstrand Company.

With all these facts, it's no wonder that this new idea in school decor has laid the groundwork for some stimulating discussions in educational and parental circles.

1964 Homecoming Will Be Biggest, Best Ever

From all appearances, this weekend will feature the most elaborate homecoming ever held at Morehead State College.

A Friday night concert before homecoming has been scheduled featuring Pat Fountain, the world's best clarinet player. And, candlelight dinner will be held prior to the Friday night concert.

The Eagles will play O.V.G. leaders Austin Peay, and the winner of the game could very well be the next conference champion. As of press time, the Eagles (8-0) and Austin Peay (0) are both undefeated, and the contest is shaping up to be the game of the year in the conference.

The new homecoming queen will be crowned, after being selected by her fellow students.

The homecoming dance will feature MSC's own Phi Mu Alpha band, one of the best in the state, as many students who have heard them play will testify.

And, there are only a few of the highlights of a single weekend that will feature more gala events than any other during the year at Morehead State College.

Never before have Morehead students had such a weekend of entertainment lined up for them. We strongly recommend that everyone participate in as many of the events as they are able to. This is a weekend not to be ignored or forgotten.

Human Relations Week Brings Responsibilities

The Seventh Annual International Relations Week will begin on Sunday, October 18. This event should serve as a reminder to all of us that there are many foreign students on the campus and that we have a responsibility to them.

According to Chong M. Pak, a native of Korea and an associate professor of political science at Carroll College, Waukegan, Wis., an intelligence that has foreign students enrolled has a twofold role to play. This role, as stated in the August 15 issue of Saturday Review, is: (1) to provide academic training for the students from abroad, and (2) to serve indirectly as an instrument of American foreign policy.

Pak stated that there are about 58,000 foreign students in the United States today, representing 150 nations and territories.

These students will be the future leaders of their respective countries. When they return, they can provide an opportunity to clarify the often fuzzy and distorted image of the United States in their countries.

For this reason, along with the simple fact that we all need friends, both in America and throughout the world, the editors suggest that we all observe international relations week. And, we should continue to follow the principles it sets forth throughout the year, and not for just one week.

Pak also listed some of the specific services which most foreign students need in America. Since we have several foreign students on campus this year, including sixteen new students representing five countries, we have decided to list Pak's suggestions in the hope that others will read them and be able to further assist our fellow students from other lands.

1. "Help the newly arrived students minimize the waste of time in getting settled and adjusted to the new environment."
- a. "The student should be met at the point of arrival by someone, either from the institution or one who is familiar with the community."
- b. "The student should be assisted in locating suitable housing."
- c. "The student should be given orientation on the available facilities on the campus: the library and book store; the student union, bookstores, administrative offices, and other facilities."
- d. "Special efforts should be made to give him an acceptable and satisfactory place in student and community life. The student should not be isolated (unless he so desires). He should be encouraged to take an active part in campus life."
2. "The student's needs must be analyzed in a realistic sense, and those services provided that are deemed necessary to help him work and pursue his academic program in the best environment with American students. Some of the services that come under this category include:
 - a. "English language training."
 - b. "Special tutoring or coaching on how to study, including how to take notes, how to do research and how to write a research paper."
 - c. "Constant and regular review of the student's progress in view of the fact that some foreign students, because of their cultural background, tend to be reserved and shy in approaching professors."

Many of these suggestions have already been carried out at Morehead, and we hope the foreign students have benefited.

Of course, what has been suggested is not to say that we should wait

"hand and foot" on the foreign students. We should recognize that they are in a strange country and need attention beyond what they receive in the classrooms.

The Editor's Desk

Are college students "cracking up"? We don't know, but in a recent release from Mademoiselle magazine to our office, it appears that some people think so.

It seems that one common disease among students is known as "the flops." A person with this affliction can do nothing but flop -- on the bed, or the nearest available space. He doesn't want to sleep, can't study or concentrate on a book, smokes, nibbles food, resolves to study, and then moves on to a new flopping place.

We don't know for certain, but this description seems, in part, to fit almost all of the over 3,800 students at MSC. It certainly fits the editor of this paper, the staff, and our friends (and non-friends).

As with all college students, we have stages of abject frustration; which tend to cause the symptoms mentioned above however, we aren't insane... HA... HA... HA... HA... HA.

THE GREATEST

We aren't saying that Ray Hornback, assistant to the president, would exaggerate, but we sometimes wonder just a little.

Recently he was telling us that baseball coach Rex Chaney owed him 5,000 milk shakes due to losing to many pool games in the recreation room, to him. We decided to watch a few of these games and see a "master" at work.

Well, we watched for awhile. Then we decided we couldn't take the slaughter any more. Chaney easily won all the games.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Since we had several questions from students regarding letters to the editor, we would like to reiterate our policy now.

First, the Trail Blazer will run any letter written to the editor for publication, unless they are deliberate attempts to slander an individual.

Second, the editor must know the writer (NOTE: We'll "William Brooks" we must have your real name of all letters for publication, although we will withhold the writer's name upon request.

That's the essence of it.

CONGRATULATIONS

Some people impetred us with a great deal at the Tech game on October 3. Among these people were the cheerleaders and the band.

They cheerleaders, always attractive looking and brightly dressed, have come up with several new yells (although they are often the only ones doing any yelling at all). This move, long advocated by many students, is a sell-out one.

The girls and their sponsor put in many hours of practice each week. We think they are doing a good job, especially as they often have to try and get a "dead" crowd to cooperate and cheer with them.

Another group that deserves recognition is the Morehead State College band and the directors, Fred Marzan and William Svec.

The band looks and sounds good, and they have put in many hours under the direction of Marzan and Svec to be able to do so. We have gained the reputation of having one of the best bands in the state, and from all appearances this year, we don't stand much of a chance of losing that reputation.

PROFOUND COMMENT

"Pap" Adams, journalist in residence at Morehead, recently made this interesting observation:

"Walking along the sidewalk in front of the Art Building I met a mother and daughter loaded down to the gills with clothes, boxes and books. The mother was a weary step or two behind the daughter. The younger person stopped to wait for her mother, then she said, 'Mamma, everywhere you go here you must climb steps.'

"This could be symbolic! All achievement is the process of step climbing. Sometimes it takes the reaching out of a hand for a gentle tug or an affectionate push by a friend, relative, parent, or professor. Few people can carry out an image of themselves without assistance."

THE BIGGEST EVER

This issue of the Trail Blazer, regarding the number of printed pages, is the largest ever at Morehead State College.

As we are preparing copy, it looks as if we will have at least 40 pages and perhaps our advertising manager (come through) we will even have 20 pages. The largest paper ever printed previously was a ten pager.

WELCOME FOREIGN STUDENTS

We'd like to take this opportunity to welcome all of the foreign students to Morehead State College. There are several students who are here for the first time, and we hope they are finding MSC and Kentucky to their liking.

We met one of these students, Carlos Ruiz, a business administration major from Colombia the other day. And from this meeting, plus meetings with some of the other students to take their picture (See Page Two) in connection with International Relations Week, we have been convinced that they have some fascinating stories to tell (in future Trail Blazers).

Another thing that impressed us was the attractiveness of the girls. Many of them are extremely pretty. (I'd like to continue on this line of thought, but must end it here - jealous wife, you know.)

THOUGHT OF THE ISSUE

Sigmund Freud once said, "The voice of the intellect is a soft one, but it does not rest until it has gained a hearing... This is one of the few (I'd like to continue on this line of thought, but must end it here - jealous wife, you know.)

Education Board

Jokes about the magazine salesman working his way through college are almost old hat. But the growing number of college students who need and want to work to meet mounting school expenses is serious fact.

Today's student, especially from a low income family, needs a helping hand to meet current, four-figure college costs, as President Johnson has suggested in his war on Poverty program.

The Administration's proposal program would create legitimate employment for 130,000 undergraduates each year. They could earn up to $500, a big help towards staying in college.

Only those from low income families would qualify and institutions serving students from such families would receive the bulk of the $72.5 million annual appropriation.

A study four years ago revealed that more students were employed by institutions of higher learning than the number receiving scholarships; interesting not only to the lack of scholarships but to the growing need for more jobs. It is doubtful if the picture has changed.

At one large midwestern university, half of the single men students and over two-thirds of the married ones are employed. The figures are probably as high in some Southern institutions, exploding the public's image of a Big Spending Joe College.

The working college student is by no means a rarity on today's campus. His earnings are low, roughly averaging $250 - $300 for the academic year, if he holds a campus job. He may work as much as 10 hours a week, on top of a full time academic work week. Grades drop with a longer work week, institutions report.

How far do these small legitimate go? A report of basic student charges (tuition, room and board) at Southern institutions pinpoints the problem: Auburn University, $1006; Florida State University, $966; University of Georgia, $966; University of Kentucky, $810; and University of Maryland, $976. These are state supported schools and the figures cover only a part of total expenditures.

A student could get by milking cows, posting books, running telephone lines, digging electric light poles - working through college for four cents an hour, a Clemson College official recently reminded - way back.

But costs have risen 50 percent in public colleges alone over 10 years.

Scholarships are increasing but not nearly aspace with the demand. Student loans are more accessible but, as U. S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel reminds, there is a "peril point" in borrowing large sums for education. A loan of several thousand dollars not only frightens many students and their parents but it may discourage them to the point of "temporary" withdrawal. This often becomes permanent.

Individual institutions are working on the student employment problem. Georgia Tech's cooperative education program, which allows students to alternate work periods in industrial jobs with sessions in school, is being expanded.

The state of Florida recently initiated a government internship program for seniors and graduate students in its colleges and universities.

Such programs give a double benefit of money and future job preparation.

Low cost community colleges are going to help many financially pressed students pursue their studies, but we need more imaginative work-study plans that benefit both the student and society.

Past Presidential Elections Make Fascinating History

Campaign slogans—like campaign promises—are sometimes forgotten by everybody. (For example, do you remember what American political campaigner used the slogan "Don't swap horses"—although Americans did?) Such slogans, the buttons on which they were displayed, the men for whom they stood—all are a fascinating part of America's rowdy and raucous, eccentric political past.

America's long history of campaigning is vividly recalled in a private collection (on public display this fall) owned by J. Doyle DeWitt, president of The Travelers Insurance Companies. In the course of 25 years, he has collected items recalling every U. S. presidential election. More than 1,000 pieces on Abraham Lincoln alone are part of this "America Goes to the Polls" exhibit at The Travelers' building in Hartford, Connecticut.

Did you know that there were no organized political parties running in the first American election? It's a fact! And there was a time when two opposing parties were represented in the chief executive posts—at the same time! Federalist John Adams was President after the 1796 election and Democratic-Republican Thomas Jefferson was Vice President—the first and only time such a "party game" was played.

Campaigning could get as wild and woolly then as it gets now. One time, after a day of hand-shaking, with admirers, Abraham Lincoln's hand was so swollen that he had to cut off and whittle a piece of broomstick to hold in his hand so it wouldn't tremble while he posed for a sculptor. There's a plaster cast of the hand—and the piece of broomhandle—in The Travelers' exhibit.

Campaign buttons are credited to President John Quincy Adams' opponents, who worked to get Andrew Jackson elected in the next campaign—the buttons worked, and "the old soldier" was elected.

In the campaign of 1932, Americans began to worry about traveling to political safety—they wanted a way out of the depression. The Republicans urged "Don't Swap Horses," while the Democrats promised aid to the "forgotten man."

DeWitt's collection illustrates how little difference there is between the politicians of today and yesterday. Their clothes may be different, but their determination's just about the same as Goldwater's or Johnson's—to try to win—and maybe lose...but to let the rascals know they've been in a fight!

Trail Blazer Reporter Looks At Presidential Candidates

By Marion E. Carter Jr.
If one is a follower of the recognized national polls, there is no doubt that President Lyndon B. Johnson is leading the race for the highest office in the land. However, the Republican Senator Goldwater and his staff place little faith in opinion polls, to popular with the democrats.

U.S. News and World Reports makes the point that the biggest polls do almost no opinion sampling in the South or other areas where AU-H2O is strong. Lyndon B. Johnson meanwhile is coasting along on the crest of a wave of prosperity, although in a number of areas there is said to be little enthusiasm for him as an individual.

In the East a growing crime rate, rioting by Negroes, and unrest because of Federal pressure to open neighborhood school patterns, all strong issues which would seem to favor Goldwater's election.

However, in the vote, populated state of New York, Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating has refused to have anything to do with Sen. Goldwater, top man on his party ticket.

President Johnson says, "You never had it so good," and it would be him, Democrats seem to have in the vote bag 20 million persons on Social Security, more than and more than 60 million others covered by those pensions in one form or another. They feel that Goldwater represents a hazard to their incomes.

Farmers are unhappy about their low incomes, and advocate a change, but are frightened by the possibility that the Republican nominee would endanger federal farm-price supports.

President Johnson seems to have a way with farm folk. Goldwater gives the impression that he does not understand them.

The intriguing Bobby Baker scandal and the president's accumulation of wealth, estimated at 14 million dollars, has caught little attention among voters. Goldwater says of the President, "I want to clean up the government, I want to clean up the treasury."

Johnson is bus projecting the image of a man more interested in carrying out the duties of his office than running for president. One would think that the only political issue he has engaged in were through the White House's back fence.

Whenever President Johnson speaks on his own behalf he proclaims a love for everybody and pushes the old FDR theme, "I love peace."

Meanwhile, back at the Arizona ranch, Sen. Goldwater accused the Democrats of planning to discontinue U.S. defenses. He joked that the Air Force might need "Hertz rent-a-bombers", and repeatedly attacked LBJ for lacking "prospicity, justice and peace, but not freedom, as his goals for the U.S."

To the mountain of controversy and thinly-disguised insults, Dean Francis B. Sayre Jr. of the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., added this illuminating statement of the candidates. "This summer we beheld a pair of gatherings at the summit of power, each of which was completely dominated by a single man—the one, a man of dangerous ignorance and devastating uncertainty; the other, a man whose public house is splendid in its every appearance, but whose private lack of ethic must inevitably introduce termites at the very foundation."

He went on to say, "We stare fascinated at the force that has produced such a sterile choice for us. Frustration and a federation of hostilities in one party; and in the other, behind a goody facade, only a cynical manipulation of power."

Fortunately, he didn't call him names; or rather he didn't elect to designate which was which. The latter seems to apply better. In any case make your choice this fall, exercise your right, your privilege, your responsibility, and vote!

Notes... About The Alumni

Rex Macey, West Liberty, and John Plybon, Lexington, will be members of a six-man Kentucky Long Rifle team which will compete with a Pennsylvania team to determine which team has best marksmanship with the antique weapons. Both Macey and Plybon are Morehead graduates.

The first bout is set for September 18 at Reading, Pa., and the second at Barbourville, Ky., on October 10. This is the second year of the rivalry. The Kentucky team won over Pennsylvania in both matches last year.

Mrs. Richard Applegate and Mrs. Peter McNeill were among 241 summer graduates of Morehead State College who rather uneventfully received degrees at the commencement exercise.

But for these two residents of Flemingburg, the graduation exercises were far from uneventful as the two became one of the few mother-daughter combinations to graduate from Morehead at the same time.

The 58-year-old Mrs. Applegate received the AB degree in elementary education while her 34-year-old daughter was awarded the AB degree in public school music.

Another member of the summer graduating class, William M. Horsley has proved that it's never too late to earn your first college degree.

At 67, Horsley is one of the oldest persons to ever receive a degree at Morehead but he is far from the oldest in looking toward the future.

"I've shown some of the youngsters of 50 or so what they can do if they will just try," said the energetic father of nine who lives in Garrison in Lewis County.

Horsley taught in Lewis and Greenup counties between the ages of 29 to 39 and then went into farming, steel work and lumbering. At the age of 50, he went back into teaching.

In 1956, he enrolled at Morehead State College and has attended summer schools and evening classes since that time after a limited amount of formal training at the Grayson Normal School in 1918.

"You know," he said, "I came to Morehead for a regional meeting back in 1956 and enjoyed it so that I decided to enroll here. And I've enjoyed every minute of it although I'm certainly happy to have my diploma."

Horsley, who was born in 1897, was awarded the AB degree in elementary education.

Roger C. Meade, who received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Morehead State College in 1960 and 1961, respectively, has been appointed head resident for Mylen Hall, one of four dormitories for men at Wittenberg University at Springfield, Ohio.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Mead, Jr., Paintsville, Ky., and his wife is the former Diann Kay Barker, a Morehead graduate and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barker, Olive Hill.

Meade taught English in the high school at Van Lear, Ky., from 1961 to 1963 and last year was guidance counselor at Upper Tysart School, Olive Hill.

Major responsibilities of head residents, under a program inaugurated by Wittenberg last year, are to direct creative dormitory programs involving both cultural and social activities, provide personal and vocational counseling, promote good study habits, develop leadership qualities in students, teach democracy, tolerance, consideration and courtesy, and give supervision to students as needed.

The appointment of Julius Kayne Tackett, of Dorton, Ky., as assistant professor of English has been announced by Dr. B.H. Jernan, president of Pikeville College.

Tackett earned his A.B. degree from Morehead State College in 1961, with major work in English and speech. He served last year on teaching fellowship in the Division of Languages and Literature at Morehead State College. The Master of Arts degree was conferred by Morehead State College in August.

"Cinderella" Team Leader

Morehead Student Is Quiz Champion

By Delores Callahan Trail Blazer News Editor

From a small "holter" in the foothills of Kentucky to International honor at Winona Lake, Indiana, was the path of a young Morehead State College co-ed, Blanche Watts.

Before coming to Morehead as a freshman this fall, she was tagged captain of a "Cinderella" team which won the 1964 North American Bible-quiz championship at Winona Lake.

Officials of the contest have long been accustomed to facing winners from such cities as Minneapolis, San Diego, and St. Louis. Many of them said this was a surprising switch to be confronted by a team from Southeastern Kentucky and a captain from Lost Creek a small rural area in Breathitt County.

In accepting the trophy, the team's 18-year-old captain said: "We're going to take this trophy back to Southeastern Kentucky and use it to the glory of the Lord. And to celebrate this victory, I'm going to tie a blue ribbon around my cow's neck!"

In her four years of Bible-quizzing, Watts the same as memorized 111 chapters, nearly 4,000 verses. Once during the quiz at Winona Lake, the quiz master started a verse with the word, "I...". She correctly finished it: "... have planted Apollos watered; but God gave the increase." And she had only 700 verses to choose from!

Rev. Bill Lewis of the Kentucky Mountain Mission, Inc. and coach of the team jokingly told the group if they won the International championship he would "... take them to the World's Fair." The team held him to his word. From personal donations, Rev. Lewis raised the necessary funds to finance a week's stay for the group.

Watts is a freshman majoring in English and plans to return to her home high school in Breathitt County to teach after getting her degree from Morehead State College.

Eagles Defeat Murray 17-14

Reprint from The Courier Journal
Unbeaten Morehead State College drove 56 yards for a fourth-period touchdown to come from behind and nip Murray State 17-14 here last night for its fourth straight victory.

Murray outplayed its cross-state rival, but the Eagles stiffened in defense when it counted most. The victory jumped Morehead into possession of first place in the Ohio Valley Conference with a 2-1 record.

The loss, Murray's second in O. V. C. play, virtually sent the Racers to the sidelines along with defending champion Western Kentucky, which tied Austin Peay 6-6 yesterday.

Morehead scored first, driving 32 yards in seven first-period plays. End Richard Pate pounced on a Wayne Wilson fumble at the 32 to set the march in motion. Mike Gottfried, outshone in his duel with Forest, heaved a 16-yard pass to Jack Smith at the one.

Russ Campbell, Morehead's speedy fullback, scooted from the one and Tally Johnson converted for a 7-0 Eagle spread.

Smith intercepted a Forest pass minutes later at the 44 and Morehead unleashed in a drive at the 50. Gottfried hurled eight yards to Smith at the 11, but he was thrown for a third-down loss at the 15. Tally Johnson booted a 35-yard field goal.

Murray got going in the second period, moving 50 yards in six plays. Forrest passed 12 yards to Jerry Grantham, but it was the quarterback's 20-yard scamper in the Eagle clutch that put the pressure on Morehead.

Terry Groom darted five yards in the three and Vic Kubs skirted end. (Continued on page 10)

Berea College is next on the list. They will be here on October 31 at 2:00 p.m.

Brown, Johnson Named Athletes Of The Issue

By B. Pat O'Rourke
Tally Johnson and Dennis Brown have been selected as the athletes of the issue for this edition of the Trail Blazer.

Versatility and experience are synonymous with the name Johnson. He is a 5-11, 190-pound junior left halfback from Claristown, Ga.

Last season he was the leading scorer for the Eagles with a total of 28 points and gained 223 yards in 65 carries for an average of 3.6 yards.

This season Tally has gained 159 yards in 34 carries for second on the squad in rushing. He has also punted 9 times for 300 yards and has grabbed 4 aerials for 25 yards.

The coaching staff highly regards his talents and feel that he is destined to become one of the real great backs in the conference this year.

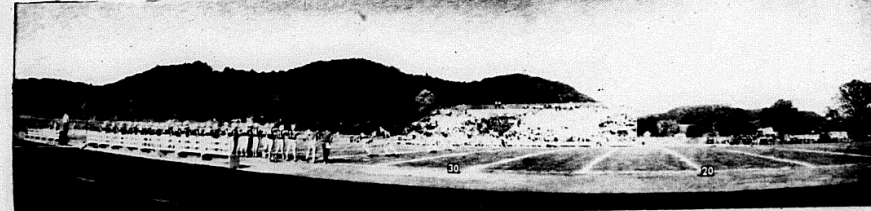

Tally is a member of the M Club and is a physical education major.

Dennis Brown, Drive, desire, determination are the things that come to mind when you think of Brown, the hard running

Last season, Dennis gained 225 yards in 61 carries, including a 90 yard jaunt in the Butler University game. This season "Indian" has gained 74 yards in 14 carries and leads the Ohio Valley Conference in scoring with 18 points. He also made a key interception in the Marshall game and returned 16 yards.

Dennis is regarded by his coaches as one of the most consistent halfbacks in the conference and is destined to be one of the best backs this season.

Intramurals In Action

By Dave Shire
Intramural Editor

The intramural football program officially opened Oct. 5 with the B.S.U. blanking the Gremmies and the Unbelievables holding the CK's scoreless.

B.S.U. 12 - Gremmies 0
The B.S.U. captured the first victory of the '64 intramural football league by scoring two TD's and holding their opponents scoreless.

Scoring the TD's for the B.S.U. were Coffee and Phillips.

Unbelievables 18 - CK's 0
The Unbelievables showed they could be tough by giving a single point to the CK's. Bob Johnson was the only point getter for the victors as he scored three TD's.

Southern Patriots 28-Booleggers 0
The Patriots went on a scoring rampage last week making up four TD's. Buter Burns hauled in numerous passes and scored with three TD's.

Bill Van Meter pulled in a six-point pass for the fourth TD.

Skip Smith and Jack Delorenzo split the passing chores and gained fine protection from Bob Slater and Bill Morgan.

If this score was any indication of the Patriots strength, they will be hard to beat.

Campus Club 4 - Spartics 0
A good show of defense by both teams kept the C.C. and the Spartics from scoring on each other.

Nick Dann and Tom Cooper scored one touch-back each to give the C.C. their slim score. Adams and Pondish turned in a fine line game for the Spartics.

Unbelievables 6 - Spartics 0
Oct. 7 brought more joy to the members of the Unbelievables as they won their second straight game.

Again Bob Johnson was the bright spot for the victors as he grabbed the lone TD of the game.

Gremmies 0 - 187's 0
The first tie of the season, and a scoreless one at that, was played last Wednesday.

Another real defensive battle was at hand when neither team could get their offense rolling.

Jack Willis (187's), Roger Montano and Don Brusk (Gremmies) were the standouts defensively for their respective teams.

I regret that I could not supply all of the first names of the various players and single out more players for outstanding playing, but the information and statistics has been limited thus far.

A 13-yard punt by Johnson set Murray in business again early in the fourth period. Two plays later, Forrest dashed 28 yards on the option keep for a touchdown to put Murray in front 14-10 with 12:45 left in the game.

Morehead marched its troops for one last threat. It was a 66-yard drive in seven plays with the ensuing kickoff. Gottfried hit Tommy Gray on a 45-yard pass to the 17. Campbell smashed 13 yards to the four, then hurried to the one.

The Racers threw Campbell for no gain, but on third down Gottfried got the final yard for the go-ahead touchdown with 10:11 remaining.

National Teacher Examination Scheduled For School Year

College graduate students and senior may take the National Teacher Examinations at Morehead State College on four different test dates during 1964-1965 instead of one, Dr. Adron Doran announced today.

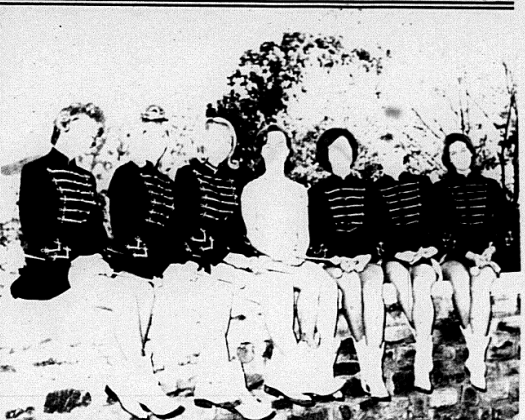

New dates set for the testing are December 12, 1964; March 20, July 17, and October 2, 1965. Morehead State College is one of 550 locations in the fifty states, Dr. Doran said.

Scores on the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts for employment of new teachers and by several states for certification of teachers. Some colleges require all students preparing to teach to take the examinations.

Prospective applicants should contact Mrs. Hazel Whitaker, Director of the Testing Bureau at Morehead State College, for a bulletin of information containing registration forms and a list of the Common Examinations designed to measure the professional and general preparation of teachers.

Applicants may also apply for one of 13 Teaching Area Examinations, formerly called Optional Examinations. Such tests measure mastery of the subject prospective teachers expect to teach.

According to Dr. Doran, all registration forms are sent by the applicants to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, and Mrs. Whitaker is notified that a designated number will appear at the campus center here to take the examinations on the scheduled date. The penalty date for applying for the December 12, 1964 National Teacher Examinations administration is November 13.

BEAUTY AT MOREHEAD — These Morehead State College majorettes will perform at homecoming on Oct. 17. The Morehead majorettes are: (l to r) Sandra Wirtz, Tuter Key; Jane Truitt, Bellbrook, Ohio; Susan Nalle, Ashland; Carol Davidson, Whitesburg; Carole Porter, Ashland; Carolin Covan, Bellbrook, Ohio; and Candi Williams, Morehead. Undeclared Morehead will play Austin Peay in the new 10,000 seat stadium in the Breathitt Sports Center.

Trail Blazer News Editor Needs Information Of Alumni

To (Who, Whom) It May Concern: among the senior citizens at Being the "true blue" Morehead Morehead.

I am, I am constantly striving to uncover as much information as possible about my Alma Mater-to-be.

Last week I commenced to find out who the very first last was to bear the title of Morehead State College homecoming queen.

In the process I uncovered some very wholesome personalities, rugged seven worn Ragamuffins about, suffered an acute case of eyestrain, powdered several outfits with a milky-white coat of dust from thirty-year old Trail Blazers, and made a general nuisance of myself.

Not after all my trials and tribulations I must concede that I still do NOT know who the first homecoming queen was. Surely someone there in newspaperland must have the answer to my quest. Was she your sister? Mother? Daughter? Cousin? Girl friend? (We even promise to withhold the year she was queen if any age problem should arise!) We only want the name. How about it you all? Please help.

Desperately Yours,
Dolores Callahan

Robert Gally, MSC Freshman, Was Member Of Peace Corps

Robert Gally, a freshman from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, spent two years in the Peace Corps from July 1962 to July 1964. Gally volunteered to serve because he believes that "the most rewarding things in life are what you can give to others and the gratitude you receive."

His Peace Corps training lasted for three months with extensive instruction in many fields including: a four-hour course in Portuguese six days a week, physical education: a history of Brazil, a study of Communism, first aid, and a concentration in individual fields.

Gally, who was sent to Brazil, built a two room medical center in three months with the help of the citizens of Sao Desiderio. Before this clinic was built, the nearest hospital was 160 miles away in Barreiras.

From this clinic in Sao De-siderio, he traveled on horseback every two or three days to visit neighboring villages.

"One of my greatest difficulties was in gaining the confidence of the people," he said.

He lived in the same type of house as the villagers and observed local customs in an attempt to become fully successful.

Prior to joining the Peace Corps, Gally served in the Navy for four years.

Radio Station Is Admitted To College Broadcasting System

By David Littleton

Morehead State College has been officially admitted to the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System and was listed in the September 15 issue of College Radio.

Call letters have not been established, but the F.C.C. forms are being processed to apply for licenses, call letters and frequency assignments. Bids for the equipment were opened in Frankfort on Tuesday, October 6.

"The audio equipment will arrive by Thanksgiving, and we hope complete installation by the first of the year," said Don Holloway, Station Manager. "The transmitter and antenna will be installed later as permitted by the F.C.C.," Holloway added.

The next issue of the Trail Blazer will contain a questionnaire for students to complete and return to the Speech Department.

Holloway said, "It is necessary for the Speech Department to know the number of students who have F.M. receiving sets and to identify those who are interested in working with the radio station."

Mystic Club Accepts Forty Students As New Members

By Ken Strafer
Trail Blazer News Editor

School spirit is the job of every student on the Morehead campus, and the overture of this spirit is the Mystic Club.

The Mystic Club on Thursday, October 8, accepted forty new members to the organization.

The forty new members went through a week of initiation which ended on October 8.

The main idea of this week was not to ridicule any one individual or place any group on display, but was to tie the group together as a unit instead of separate cells.

The pledges held a pep rally on Friday, October 9.

Ken Dippel, president, worked with the pledge master, Ken Strafer, in setting up various tasks for the pledges and the club itself.

At the Tennessee Tech game the group had a section reserved so they could cheer together.

During the coming year, Dippel plans to hold bon fire rallies, basketball pep rallies and hopes to try to provoke every student into cheering for the "Gold and Blue" of Morehead.
