Record Turnout Expected For Oct. 14-15 Celebration

Carol Vogelwohl
Morehead State University will hold its annual Homecoming Celebration on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 14-15. This is the first homecoming the school has held since gaining university status last June.

"Expanded Horizons" is the theme for this year's weekend of festivities. The two-day celebration will be highlighted by a Friday evening concert, a Saturday afternoon football game and a homecoming dance in the evening.

Other features will include a Friday evening candlelight dinner, academic division open houses on Saturday morning, a smorgasbord luncheon and post-game reception.

The Friday evening candlelight dinner will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Doran Student House. Students, parents, alumni and the general public are invited to attend. Mrs. Adron Doran, wife of the Morehead president, will be featured at the organ at the dinner.

A concert, featuring Lionel Hampton, will be given in the Fieldhouse at 8 p.m. following the dinner. Registration will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, at the Doran

Student House, followed by open houses in each of the academic divisions in the various classroom buildings. These receptions, which give parents an opportunity to meet with the faculty and see academic facilities of interest will be as follows: School of Applied Sciences and Technology weekend by performing in concert at 8 p.m., Friday, Oct. 14, in the Fieldhouse.

LIONEL HAMPTON, with his International Orchestra and Revue, will highlight MSU's Homecoming

Lionel Hampton To Perform Oct. 14 For Homecoming

Mary Sharrard

Lionel Hampton, drummer and originator of the famed two-finger piano style, will open the Morehead State University 1966 Homecoming with a concert by his International Orchestra on Friday, Oct. 14, in the Fieldhouse. The 8 p.m. performance will include various hits made famous by the Louisville-born entertainer, many of which he wrote.

The performer has appeared in dozens of films, recorded for just about every major label and is presently recording for his own Glad-Hamp label. He has consistently won awards since his first in 1936, when he was rated by Down Beat as the most exciting artist of the year. Having been honored with two college doctorates, Hampton has won virtually every music poll in existence. He was also honored in being given a stateshood award in Israel, made an ambassador of good will by the U.S. State Department, made an honorary member of Hadassah [the only male ever so honored] and made the Grand Bandmaster of the Elks.

Some of Hampton's other accomplishments include request performances at three presidential inaugurations, touring the world representing the United States Department of State and being chosen outstanding musical performer of 1959 by the men of music of New York.

Having guested on many major television programs, Hampton has made national appearances with such celebrities as Ed Sullivan, Perry Como, Steve Allen, Red Skelton, Jerry Lewis and Benny Goodman. His list of outstanding engagements include appearances at Carnegie Hall, Hollywood's Palladium, Las Vegas' Flamingo Hotel and many others. He has also toured 21 foreign countries and entertained at many leading colleges and universities.

Lionel Hampton has raised millions of dollars for charity. In a burst of vitality, it is said he will forget to eat while working on a new recording or a new way to raise money for still another charity.

Known as the "King of the Vibes" and "Master of the Drums," Hampton has written such hits as "Fly Home," "Central Avenue Breakdown," "Bop Boogie" and "Midnight Sun."

Tickets to the concert may be purchased at the Business Office in the Administration Building at $2 for students and $3 for others in advance. At the door, student tickets will be $2.50.

High-Flying Eagles Tackle Austin Peay

Morehead entertains Austin Peay State College this Saturday in the 1966 Homecoming game. Coach Guy Penny's Eagles hold a 3-1 series edge over Bill Dupes' Governors.

Morehead takes an unblemished 6VC record into the game against the "Scarlet and White" of Austin Peay. They have a 1-1 record against non-conference foes, losing only to Marshall in their season's opener.

Defensive line coach, Jerry Denton said, "I feel that the defensive line of the Eagles can hold John Ogles below his rushing average of 4.7 yard-per-carry."

Morehead will counter with the running of Tommy Gray and Leon Wesley, who are averaging over six and almost four yards-per-carry respectively.

The Eagles have repeated their last year's excellent showing in pass defense. They are allowing only 98 yards per game, which is three yards less than last season's league leading total of 102.5.

APSC quarterback Carl Williams set a Governor record in their 28-27 comeback victory over Southeast Missouri, passing for 238 yards through the air.

Austin Peay has allowed over 200

Whitesides To Perform In Celebrity Series, Oct. 13

William Whitesides, tenor, will be presented in concert Thursday, Oct. 13, at Morehead State University. The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Baird Music Hall.

A professor of voice at the University of Louisville, Whitesides has appeared with the Louisville Orchestra, the Kentucky Opera Association, the Santa Fe and San Francisco Opera Associations.

While studying on a Fulbright

Scholarship at Cologne, Germany, he was first tenor with opera companies in Bonn, Germany, and Bern, Switzerland. During the same period in 1960-64, he was a recitalist in Berlin, Paris and Brussels where he was a prize winner at the International Singing Contest of 1962.

Memberships in the Celebrity Series are $5 for adults; $2.50 for students, and family memberships a maximum of $15. Reservations may be made by calling Extension 363, Morehead State University, or by application at the door of the Whitesides concert.

AAUW Workshop Held On Morehead Campus

Sally Rigdon

The Kentucky State Division of the American Association of University Women met on the campus of Morehead State University for its fall workshop on Sept. 23 and 24.

Clarica Williams, associate professor of library science, presided at the board of directors' meeting on Friday.

The Saturday morning session began with a welcome by Dr. Warren C. Lappin, dean of the faculty of MSU. Mrs. Thorp L. Wolford of Louisville, first vice-president and program chairman, presented Mrs. J. Walter Harding, Louisville, Mrs.

Frank Gilbert, Barbourville and Mrs. John Ramey, Lexington, who reported on the functioning of their branch, law and the citizen.

The afternoon session featured the movie "To Become Informed" which told of the proposed revision of the Kentucky Constitution. It featured Bart Brown, senior vice-president of Citizens Fidelity Bank, Louisville, and Professor John Estill Reeves of the department of political science, University of Kentucky, who discussed the pros and cons of the proposed revision. Mrs. Robert Tomlinson, Lexington, was in charge of this section of the program.

yard per game through the air, indicating a very leaky pass defense. The Governors have given up almost 130 yards per game on the ground to rank low in the OVC in defense.

Rico King has continued his last season's excellent pass receiving. Going into the Murray game, he leads Morehead with nine receptions for 102 yards.

A very bright spot for MSU this season has been the punting of Bill Marston, who has averaged almost 40 yards-per-game this season. This attributes to the extra yardage Morehead has picked up on punting situations (10 yards per punt).

If Morehead can connect in the air and maintain their rushing game the Eagles should pick up their third OVC win.

NEW ASSOCIATE DEAN OF STUDENTS . . . Miss Anna M. Riggle

is, is now working at her desk in her new office.

Anna M. Riggle Named MSU's Dean Of Girls

Cathy Lynch
Walking down the newly completed top floor of the Administration Building and looking on the unmarked doors for the dean's office, I was pleasantly surprised when I mistook the new dean of women, Anna M. Riggle, to be a secretary! She asked me to come in and make myself at home.

[At home in the dean's office? Such is quite a feat to accomplish.] So I took out my pad and pencil and began the usual procedure of asking her about her background.

As she answered questions about her previous experience, I found our dean has accomplished much. Miss Riggle completed her undergraduate work at Indiana University receiving a B.S. and M.S. in social services and educational personnel. She was assistant dean of women at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio; freshman advisor at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio and assistant dean of women at Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio. Offering "no campaign promises," Dean Riggle is interested in advancing into the past history of Morehead to discover what has been done in the past before she discusses any future plans for the university.

Dean Riggle's first impression of Morehead was that of the beautiful country and campus, but she was amazed when confronted with the registration and eating situations. These are similar emotions felt and experienced by many MSU freshmen and transfer students.

Dean Riggle has a personality which gives you the feeling that, "Yes, this dean is real," instead of the image often connoted by the title of dean. She is obviously sincere and concerned with all phases of Morehead's student body and university area.

Miss Riggle said she is happy to be at Morehead and after talking with her I am very sure that Morehead will be even happier to have Miss Riggle as the new dean of women.

Homecoming Queen Needs Poise As Well As Looks

Homecoming weekend is almost upon us with its festivities and accompanying excitement. Perhaps the one event that the student body anticipates most is the selection of Morehead State University's homecoming queen.

In past elections, we feel the queen contest was based primarily on popularity. It didn't matter if a girl had poise or possessed the ability to think and express herself. Rather, the students considered only her "figure" and the number of people she knew who were with the "in" crowd.

This attitude is wrong and we want to put students on the right track before the final election Thursday.

Remember, the homecoming queen represents Morehead State University and is our ambassador wherever she travels on Morehead's behalf during the year. It is true that she will "cut a fine figure," but there is more to being queen than this. She should have the ability to speak intelligently and poised regardless of situations that may arise.

By this, we don't mean that the homecoming candidates should have to be honor students. However, they should have common sense and tact as well as the capability of acting like "young women" both on and off campus.

You may say that it is impossible to get to know these candidates well enough to judge honestly and accurately. In the past this has been the case.

But this year, WKMY-FM, the university radio station, in cooperation with the Trail Blazer, has consented to air a program tomorrow night so that the queen finalists may be better known by the student body. You will learn not only where the girls are from and what their majors are, but each contestant will be asked certain "thought questions" by a panel of faculty members. These will test her ability to speak and think in public.

The student body can therefore evaluate each girl and select her on the basis of beauty, poise and intelligence, rather than beauty or popularity alone.

Take advantage of this opportunity and tune in WKMY-FM Wednesday evening at 9:30 p.m. for interviews of Morehead's homecoming queen finalists.

...From the FAMILY ALBUM...

Morehead Campus Lacks Traditional Landmark

Fall is the time for harvest, the harvest of ripened crops by farmers and the harvest of memories by alumni returning to their Alma Mater on Homecoming.

The "Halls of Ivy" of many colleges and universities contain many traditional landmarks which are considered almost sacred by the student body.

The University of Kentucky has its Patterson Statue, Western's its Cherry Hall statue, Duke its Gardens, the Naval Academy its statue of Tecumseh, West Point its Filartion Walk and the University of Georgia its archway, under which its freshman may not walk.

These landmarks help contribute to school spirit, not so much in the athletic sense as in the overall feeling of being a part of a college or university.

Traditional landmarks like these are not always impressive buildings erected at the cost of millions of dollars. Many of them are weatherworn fences, walkways and arches that, for one reason or another, have endured themselves to the student body.

But, in walking around the Morehead State University campus and talking to the students, it is hard to find a landmark which the students associate immediately with MSU. The only place that seems to qualify is "Clack Mountain," which everyone thinks he must be acquainted with to be "in."

"Clack" will always be well-known and popular, but it is not the type of landmark which develops true pride in a school. Morehead needs something else.

One place that seems to have once been a landmark and focal point of the campus is the now-neglected fishpond and fountain in front of Fields Hall.

With a little work, the pond could be cleaned up, the fountain hooked up, a recirculation system put in and goldfish stocked in the pond. This would be a worthwhile and inexpensive project for some club on campus which wants to increase the spirit and pride for Morehead State University.

Homecoming Is Time For Memory Harvest

By Herb Sparrow

Well, it's time for another Homecoming to roll around, with old grads recalling such things as, "I had English 101 in that room," "That was my first dormitory room," or "I stood in line for three hours in Button during registration."

Many alumni may have trouble finding these spots at first, with all the construction and expansion that has taken place at Morehead. Just in the two years that have been here, the growth has been fantastic.

It seems like just yesterday that I entered Waterfield Hall for the first time and began life as a "green" freshman. But now the third homecoming that I will have participated in as a college student is approaching. Where has the time gone? This much used cliché question seems appropriate to me at this time. I hope the time doesn't go as fast when I get out of school.

If you are wondering what brought this reminiscing of my own on, this column is being written at 11:30 at night with mood music playing on the radio. This seems to call out my melancholy muse.

Now that this muse has had his say, I would like to welcome the alumni of Morehead State University, at this, the first Homecoming since the granting of University status to Morehead. This is a giant step forward in Morehead's history, and the Alumni should be as proud as we are.

Letters-To-The-Editor

In case any of you are itching to write a burning letter to the editor, I feel I should set down The Trail Blazer's policy on letters. We will accept any letter as long as it is not libelous, although due to space limitations, we may not be able to print every letter. So, if you want your letter to have a good chance of being published, you should make it short and to the point, without any rambling oratorics.

The letters must be typed and double spaced on standard typing paper. The letter must be signed by the writer. We will withhold a person's name from a letter if he so desires, but we must know who the writer is.

The letters may be brought by The Trail Blazer office on the ground floor of Allie Young Hall or sent to Herb Sparrow, Box 275, MSU.

Quiz Picture

Maybe some of you have noticed the strange looking picture on page 23.

When none of the staff [but me] could figure out what it was, I decided to see how many Trail Blazer readers could tell what it is. If you have a good guess at what this strange looking creature (or object or ???) is, bring your idea by the Trail Blazer office. I will reveal in the next issue what the picture is about and how many people correctly guessed it.

If you have what you think is a good guess, keep it to yourself. And, since a member of WKMY-FM took the picture, I am afraid I will have to disqualify the radio staff from participating in this exciting, thrilling, fascinating, out-of-this-world contest.

Biggest Issue

This issue of the Trail Blazer ties last year's Homecoming issue as the largest, in number of pages, that has ever been printed at Morehead. Thanks to a zealous business manager and a lot of late copy we have been able to go 24 pages.

Huntington Paper Saluted For Recognition Of MSU

As students at Morehead State University, we are aware of the growth and expansion that continually take place on the campus. We are proud to be members of this ever-increasing institution of higher learning and are eager to be associated with it.

This is especially true when MSU is recognized by a major city's Sunday newspaper. The Huntington, W.Va. Herald-Advertiser of Oct. 2, carried a front-page spread on the story of Morehead's phenomenal growth.

Complete with pictures, this article outlined the changes and construction that have already taken place as well as future plans. It also recognized the fact that Morehead State University under the hand of Dr. Adron Doran, president, emerged from a once-dormant campus" and is now booming.

"THE GREATEST STATE IS MOREHEAD STATE"

Official newspaper of Morehead State University, operated as a non-profit publication, entered second class mail at the Post Office at Morehead, Kentucky, under act of Congress of March 3, 1873.

Published by weekly throughout the school year except during vacations and examination periods and once each summer session.

Subscription rates, 50 cents per semester.

National Spotlight

How Democracies Die

By John H. Stambaugh
Former Vice-Chancellor
Vanderbilt University

The prominent historian, Channing Pollock, addressing a group of teachers, observed that most democracies last for about 200 years. They are conceived and developed by simple, vigorous, idealistic, hard-working people who, unfortunately, with success become rich and decadent, learn to live without labor, depend more on the largesse of big government and end by trading domestic tyrants for foreign tyrants.

With the end of the second century of our democracy only a few years away, it appears very much in order to examine its political, social, and economic structure, to ascertain whether it contains a unique character which makes it impervious to the lessons of history.

Are our people subject to the same frailties as the citizens of the democracies that died in the past? Can we overcome these weaknesses and remain the strongest and most blessed people on earth?

Are we willing to stand firmly with the basic American ideal that there can be no substitute for individual initiative and productivity? An indication of weakness became evident when the Soviet Sputnik I into orbit in October, 1957. A strange state of mind seized the United States. We seemed to question our own abilities. Some Senators and Congressmen began to spout snarls in their Christmas stockings and an ICBM in each garage. The rest of the world looked on in amazement and seriously questioned whether we would demonstrate the same toughness and dedication that we had demonstrated in past international crises.

Fortunately, some of our leaders, and in particular the President of the United States, refused to accept the premise that this great Nation could be overwhelmed by the Soviet's material contrivance. This faith was dramatically justified when, in short 4 months, under extreme pressure, Explorer I soared heavenward. Since that time, the scientific value of American achievement in space has vastly outstripped the Soviets'.

THE BASIC DANGERS FOR A DEMOCRACY

However, there are dangers other than the fantastic space weapons dangers much more persistent and insidious.

These dangers are two:

One from without - Communist ideological and economic penetration. The other from within - the loss of our individual freedoms by a willingness to let the central government be all things to all people.

If we use our resources positively and wisely, we have within the framework of free enterprise capitalism all the tools necessary to demonstrate to the world the fallacy of the Communist doctrine of absolute economic and social control by government.

Surely, the system which permits our 6 percent of the world's population to produce and consume 40 percent of the world's goods can win this struggle.

This system can win, if its exponents practice what they preach while investing our capital abroad and trading throughout the world.

It can win if we refuse Government subsidies and protection, welcome competition, and support the sovereignty of the market.

It can win the struggle with Communism if its people have the will.

THE DANGER FROM WITHIN

It is the second danger which is the more frightening, the danger from within. Among our citizens, an attitude of dependency on Washington has developed. This trend toward "Let Uncle Sam do it" argues in effect that only Federal bureaucrats and their influential associates are wise enough to tell us how we attain "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." We have come to depend on the Central Government to finance many of our responsibilities which we should assume in the home or at the city and State level. While doing so, the Federal Government inevitably lays down the rules of the game. This trend can lead only to the weakening of the American family and of our State and local governments and hence to destruction of the Federal system.

The liberal editor, John Fischer of Harper's magazine, has pointed out:

"Up till now, at least every nation of continental size has had to be governed in one of two ways: either as a federation or as an autocracy. The coming generation of politicians, therefore, will have to find some way to renovate the idea of federalism, and get it back into working order."

If we permit our system to be destroyed, not only will the lessons of history be reaffirmed but Communist Chief Krushchev will indeed have been a prophet when he said to five visiting U.S. Senators, "I prophesy that your grandchildren in America will live under socialism."

THE WILLIAMSBURG IDEA

The President of the United States, speaking at the Governors' Conference in Williamsburg, Va., in June, 1957, gave evidence of his deep concern for the preservation of our way of life.

The President rang the alarm with the statement, "Those who would be and would stay free must stand eternal watch against excessive concentration of power in government."

He then challenged the conference of Governors to join with him in an effort to reverse the trend toward Washington.

The Joint Federal State Action Committee was thus created by the President of the United States and the Governors of the 48 States as a task force for action - a joint committee charged with three responsibilities:

"1. To designate functions which the States are ready and willing to assume and finance that are now performed or financed wholly or in part by the Federal Government.

"2. To recommend the Federal and State revenue adjustments required to enable the States to assume such functions; and

"3. To identify functions and responsibilities likely to require State or Federal attention in the future and to recommend the level of State effort, or Federal effort, or both, that will be needed to assure effective action."

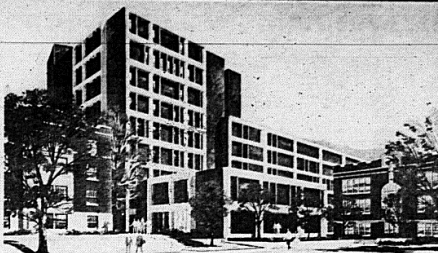

The conference of Governors readily accepted the President's proposal. For years it had concerned itself with problems of Federal State program responsibilities, the division of tax revenue sources between the Federal and State Governments, and with emerging problems calling for governmental action - Federal, State, and local. State governors were deeply troubled by the same trends which so concerned the President. The conference, accordingly, authorized its chairman to appoint a committee of Governors to serve with Federal representatives chosen by the President on the Joint Federal State Action Committee.

It is interesting to note that this is the first time in our history that a President suggested action taken to reverse the growing trend toward reliance on the central authority for services to our people far beyond the responsibilities originally intended for assumption by the Federal Government.

The initial phase of this mission was a limited one. It was to recommend that action be taken to shift a small number of governmental functions and revenue sources from the Federal Government to the States and to define more clearly certain responsibilities that might continue to be shared by Federal and State Governments. The purpose was not to accomplish the whole job, but merely to demonstrate that a long term drift to governmental responsibility toward Washington is not inevitable.

WM KY-FM Director Thanks Local Businesses

Don Holloway, director of WMKY-FM, said he is pleased with the response received by the station's sports staff from the local businessmen. Several businesses have made donations in an effort to bring citizens of Morehead, as well as MSU students, broadcasts of the football and basketball games held away from home.

Since there is a telephone line charge for service from studio to stadium, it is necessary that funds be raised for this service.

Members of the WMKY-FM staff said they would like to thank the following businesses for their donations:

Alpha M. Hutchinson Real Estate, C.E. Bishop Drug Company, Citizens Bank, Dixie Grill Restaurant, Elam's Food Market, Firestone Home and Auto Supply, Imperial Cleaners, Jim's Haberdash and People's Bank, Valley Canteen, Clayton's Men Shop, Western Auto Associate Store, Allen's IGA Foodliner, Kentucky Cabin Inn, Laynes Department Stores, Martin's Department Store, Norge Village, Ray's Saweway, Vi's Jewelry Company, Bill's Gulf Service, Rowan Farmers Supply, American Office Supply Co., Richard's Restaurant, Hobbs 5 & 10c and Battson's Walgreen Agency Drugs.

Educational TV Transmitter To Be Built At Morehead

Morehead State University will be the location of one of the programming centers for a system of six educational TV transmitters which will be located in Hazard, Morehead, Pikeville, Somerset, Madison County and Ashland. The other programming site will be Eastern Kentucky University.

Governor Breathitt announced that Kentucky will get $1.1 million from the Appalachian Regional Commission to start construction of its educational television network in Eastern Kentucky.

Broadcasting of job-training, skill-building and general educational information will begin in June, 1968. It is estimated that the cost of this part of the state-wide system will total $3 million, with $500,000 coming from the federal Educational TV Facilities Act grant. The $1.1 million from ARC and $1.1 million from state funds will come from the sale of revenue bonds.

A similar system will be set up in Western and Northern Kentucky, locating transmitters at Madisonville, Covington, Murray, Bowling Green, Elizabethtown and Owensboro.

The programming centers will be located at the University of Kentucky, Kentucky State College, Western Kentucky University, Murray State University and Jefferson College.

A total of $6.5 million in bonds will have to be sold to guarantee the construction of two systems slated to cost nearly $8 million.

BSU State Convention To Meet At Hopkinsville

The Baptist Student State Convention will be held Oct. 21-23, in Hopkinsville, at the First Baptist Church.

"Learn of Me" will be the theme for this year's convention that will be attended by more than 1,000 students.

Jim Vaus, former electronics expert and master wire tapper for one of the most notorious underworld movements and Dr. Cluett G. Rutenber, professor of philosophy of religion at Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Center, Mass., will be guest speakers.

Vaus, now the executive director of Youth Development Incorporated, Hell Gate Station, New York City, was converted in a Billy Graham revival and became an evangelist. Later he went to New York and worked with the rough delinquent gangs to turn their thinking and action in the right direction. He didn't tell these kids that everyone was against them, but said,

"This is why you are wrong. Let us help you and as long as you try we will stand in back of you."

Dr. Rutenber graduated from Kenyon College [summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa], received the B.D. degree from Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary and both the M.A. and Ph. D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

The author of The Doctrine of the Imitation of God in Plato, The Dagger and the Cross, The Price and the Prize and The Reconciling Gospel, Professor Rutenber has also studied at Columbia and University of Edinburgh.

Other speakers scheduled for this three-day meeting are Dr. Jesse C. Fletcher, secretary for missionary personnel of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board; Dr. E. F. Hallock, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Norman, Okla.; Jim Jones, from the First Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga. and Rev. Sidney Maddox, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Hopkinsville.

Registration fee is $1. Further information may be obtained from the BSU director or the list of representatives posted on the dormitory bulletin boards.

University Of Kentucky To Host Intergroup Relations Conference

The fifth annual College Conference on Intergroup Relations, co-sponsored by the State Commission on Human Rights, the Kentucky region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and the Lincoln Foundation, is scheduled for October 28-30 on the campus of the University of Kentucky. The College Conference is designed to enable students to share information about racial and religious discrimination on campuses and in communities in Kentucky, to contemplate and discuss possible programs and activities to combat the problems of discrimination and to make students more aware of intergroup relations organizations and the possibilities of working with them.

Principal speakers at last year's conference were John Lewis, former chairman of SNCC and Father John L. Grenough of the Louisville Catholic Archdiocese Newspaper, The Record.

Any students, either acting as individuals or representing campus organizations, interested in attending this conference and in being included on the pre-conference mailing list should contact John Fleming, Kentucky State Commission on Human Rights, 172 Capitol Annex Building, Frankfort.

Smarter Students Make Better Drivers Says Study

Barbara Dwelly

Better grades and a better driving record go hand in hand and the nation's largest auto insurer has figures to prove it.

State Farm Insurance Co., which over the past four years has given better than average young male students—and their families—a 20 percent discount on their auto insurance, presented statistics which show a dramatically better accident record by young men who attain better grades.

Some 68,000 young men compiled the records upon which the statistics are based. They are all full-time students in high schools, colleges or universities and have either a grade average of 3.0 or above [on a 4-point scale]; they rank in the upper 20 percent of their class or age on the dean's list, honor roll or similar scholastic achievement listing.

Following is a comparison of the "Good Student" driver and the other young men in that 16 to 25 age group who did not qualify.

—The "Good Student" driver averaged 348 car damage claims per year for every 1,000 policies in force; the rest of the under-25 age group averaged 498. "Good Student" drivers' claims had an average cost of $183; the rest of the group $196, a $13 difference.

—In accidents involving injuries, "Good Student" drivers were involved an average of 23.5 times annually for every 1,000 policies in force. Their counterparts had 29.7 such mishaps per 1,000. Average loss on the "Good Student" driver has a record that is clearly 25 to 30 percent better than the young men who do not qualify.

Four years ago, the study theorized that, in order to get good grades, a student had to spend more time behind the books and less time behind the wheel of a car. Less driving meant less exposure to chance of accidents and loss—and thus a lower insurance rate for the "Good Student" driver was suggested.

State Farm President Edward B. Rust said that the "Good Student Discount" program was innovated by his company in hopes that it would contribute to both education and highway safety.

"The powerful cash incentives for scholastic achievement give educators an additional tool with which to stimulate better study habits and arm parents with a compelling argument in the traditional debate over use of the family car," Rust said. "We hope that it will continue to promote both better grades and better driving records."

Drama Season To Open With "Absense Of A Cello"

Cathy Lynch

The Morehead Players, under the direction of Bill Watts, will open their season by presenting "The Absense of a Cello" on Oct. 21, 24, 25, 27, 28 and 29 in the Little Theater of the Combs Classroom Building.

Who would believe that the absence or presence of a cello in the living room would be the criteria for landing a position in a well-known corporation?

This beloved musical instrument is the subject of much controversy in the Pilgram household: Perry Littlewood, a college student and boyfriend of Joanna Pilgram, injects the family with "the proper and corporate family image" so that Joanna's father will be accepted for a position at the corporation. According to Perry, the living room is definitely not the proper place for a cello!

The plot develops with Otis Clifton [Michael Junk] interviewing Mr. Pilgram [Bob Gibson] for a job at Baldwin-Nelson Corp. Perry Littlewood [Allen Tongret] enters the scene by revising the Pilgram household with his Ivy League education of the "proper family life," which is about 100 degrees off the Pilgram family's real image.

The other characters involved in this comedy are: Joanna Pilgram, the daughter, played by Cheryl Speeg; Marian Jellicoe, Andrea Pilgram's sister, played by Pat White and Emma Littlewood, Perry's eccentric grandmother, who steals from a dime store and is extremely boastful about it, by Carrie Wiley.

The audience will view the play setting in "semi-arena style," a centered stage with the audience on each side. A similar setting was used in "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Locked You In The Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad."

The climax occurs when Otis Clifton decides that the Pilgrams are not suitable to corporate family image.

Freddy's Fables

Fred Vanderslice

Hello. Yep I'm back to try my luck again. But before I get started I'd like to thank you for all those wonderful letters. It sure is great knowing you have friends on both sides of the tracks, stream, river, ocean and, oh yes, the bookstore. I'm sure things have calmed down over there by now. I've been, what you might call, keeping the area evacuated. To be truthful, I've been pretty scarce all around this year, mainly because I got married and have been eating so much that it's all I can do to make it to campus for special appearances and classes. I must admit I am a changed man ever since the wedding, but who wouldn't be with a 12 foot chain hooked to my squirrel gun.

I have two special announcements. One concerns the opinion that most people have about "Parkersburg, W.Va., where the largest man-made Lilly-pond is located, and don't anyone forget it. I searched all last summer for a bigger one and there's not one in any climate that can compare, so some of you better start making apologies. About 50 I think.

The other announcement is this, and it's for J.J. especially, as well as anyone that knew John Boll. The latter is married and might even be running for mayor of Lynchburg, Ohio, by now. Who knows better than John? He certainly isn't waiting for any frost to cover the pumpkins.

Now, what about those Eagles? Are they flapping or are you clapping? This week for homecoming is the big one. Let's really hear it for those birds. You know they tell me, you can tell by the gleam in all those Eagles Eyes.

Oh, yes, about this water shortage, it's really great to conserve water, as we all know. I saw one sign, reading "conserve water, shower with your steady." Now we know this is a little bit out of line with the social standards that we are going by at this time. But, I think it is only fitting and proper that you guys take at least one shower every ten days, whether you need it or not.

Once I thought the wind had shifted to the west and found instead that it was two passing freshmen wearing "conserve water" raincoats and their beanies. This sort of atmosphere could make a car stall or even worse have the trees die from loss of their bark. I realize this may sound ridiculous, but things could still get worse.

It won't be long now before the rains will descend upon us once again for another three-week stay. I hope you all have made the necessary preparations.

As it is getting later, I should like to give those of you who find yourselves late for class quite regularly some quick advice. Run! Sorry, I couldn't get the horse to water this time, we're conserving it. But he still can't surf on his back.

exchange program. Since 1946, approximately 15,000 grants have been awarded to American graduate students for study in countries throughout the world.

Application forms and information about this year's competition for students currently enrolled in Morehead State University may be obtained from the campus Fulbright Program Adviser, Dr. Jarvis Hill, Dean of Graduate Studies.

HE conducts competitions for U.S. Government scholarships, for students below the Ph.D. level, provided by the Fulbright-Hays Act as part of the educational and cultural exchange program of the Department of State. This program, which is intended to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and other countries, provides more than 850 grants for study in 54 countries.

Candidates who wish to apply for an award must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant and, in most cases, be proficient in the language of the host country. Selections will be made on the basis of academic and/or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan and personal qualifications. Preference is given to candidates who have not had prior opportunity for extended study or residence abroad and who are under the age of 35.

Creative and performing artists are not required to have a bachelor's degree but they must have four years of professional study or equivalent experience. Applicants in social work must have at least two years of professional experience after the Master of Social Work degree. Applicants in the field of medicine must have a M.D. at the time of application.

Two types of grants are available through HE under the Fulbright-Hays Act: U.S. Government Full Grants and U.S. Government Travel Grants. A full award provides a grantee with tuition, maintenance, round-trip transportation, health and accident insurance and incidental allowance. In Australia, Ceylon, India, Japan, Nepal, Norway, Poland, Portugal, the Republic of China and Turkey, a maintenance allowance will be provided for one or more accompanying dependents.

A limited number of travel grants is available to supplement maintenance and tuition scholarships granted to American students by universities, private donors and foreign governments.

Countries participating in the full grant program are: Afghanistan, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Luxembourg, Bolivia, Brazil, Ceylon, Chile, China [Republic of], Colombia, Costa Rica, Denmark, Ecuador, El

Homecoming Revisited

Past Homecoming Filled With Memorable Events

Morehead State University's 1966 Homecoming will be October 15, with "Expanding Horizons" as its theme. There have been many memorable homecomings in the past 15 years.

Do you remember any of them? Homecoming on Nov. 3, 1951, proved to be a bit disappointing when the Eagles lost to the Thoroughbreds of Murray 14-0. At halftime Mary Louie Elam of West Liberty, was crowned homecoming queen. The Junior class won the trophy for the best float. The 11 homecoming queen candidates rode on the blue and gold float appropriately named "Queens."

The following year Homecoming was held October 25, when the Eagles tied the Maroons of Eastern 20-20. Alberta Howell of Price, reigned as the 1952 homecoming queen. The Junior class again won the trophy for the best float.

October 17, 1953, the Eagles played host to the Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee State University and lost by a margin of 14-0. The Senior class broke tradition and won first prize for their float in Morehead's 26th annual homecoming parade. Thompson Hall received the Alumni Association award for the best decorated dormitory. Peggy Wood of Morehead, was homecoming queen. The theme was "Welcome Alumni" and "Beat Middle Tennessee."

Tradition was broken when Homecoming Queen Sarah Glenn Lane and King Harold Barker reigned at the 1954 homecoming. The Eastern Maroons downed the Eagles by a score of 12-8. First place honors were awarded to the "Vets Club." Their float portrayed the historic raising of the American Flag on Mount Surabachi, Iwo Jima, by the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II.

Jewel Dean Bowen of Carr Creek, Kentucky reigned at the 1955 Homecoming festivities. The first prize went to the WRA float which was a huge sock with the caption "Argyles will Sock 'Em, and that's no yarn." The final score of the game was Middle Tennessee 21 and Morehead 7. The best decorated dormitory was Fields Hall.

In 1956 the Eagles opposed the Cardinals of the University of Louisville at the annual Homecoming game. The Cards downed the Eagles 19-7. Morehead was the hometown of Queen Joyce Brown. The Veterans' tank float won first place with the caption "We Tank we'll crush 'Em."

Glenna Begley was crowned Homecoming Queen in 1957. The combined science clubs' float "You're the Tops" won first prize. The Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee State University topped the Eagles 18-6.

The Eagles played host to the Golden Bears of West Virginia Tech at the 1958 homecoming game. The final score was 14-14. The dedication of Lappin Hall was on the schedule of events for the day. "Swan Lake," the float presented by the Creeseendo Club, won first place. Betty Sizemore of East Point, reigned as queen.

The 1959 homecoming theme was "Then and . . . now." Wanda Peace of Louisville was crowned Homecoming Queen. The Sophomore float "Hatched at Last" won first prize. The prize for the best decorated dorm went to Men's Hall. The Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee State University downed the Eagles by a score of 27-0.

Homecoming of 1960 was another to be remembered. The Eagles downed West Virginia Tech 49-13. Helen Ison reigned as homecoming queen. First prize for the float went to the Warner Fellowship.

The following year homecoming was held October 7, with the Thoroughbreds of Murray winning by a margin of 7 points. Sandra Howell reigned as homecoming queen with the Warner Fellowship taking first prize in the float contest.

The Eagles downed the Governors of Austin Peay by a score of 36-7. Carole Porter of South Shore reigned as the 1962 Homecoming Queen. North Men's Hall won first prize for the best decorated dormitory.

Beren was the hometown of the 1963 Homecoming Queen Joyce Taubee. East Men's Hall won first prize. The Maroons of Eastern were defeated by the Eagles 24-10.

The "Old South" was the theme for the 1964 homecoming of MSU. The Eagles defeated the Governors of Austin Peay 14-13. Fields and Waterfield Halls took first prize for the dormitories. Judy Smith reigned as Homecoming Queen.

The last year Thompson and Waterfield Halls took first place for the best decorated dormitories. Jennifer Rossman reigned at the 1965 Homecoming game in which the Eagles lost to the Thoroughbreds of Murray 13-12.

WMKY-MF To Present Series On Water Problem

"Water: The Problem and What is Being Done About It" is the title of the first in a series of programs on WMKY-FM this year. This series will present the story of the construction in progress on the canal.

The documentary will be heard at 9:35 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, on WMKY-FM, 91.1 on the FM dial.

Radio production-direction students are producing the first program on water in the documentary format familiar to radio and television listeners.

The listener will be taken to Trip-Lett Creek, the pumping station, the filtration system and the new storage reservoir on the hill overlooking Morehead. Students will be heard speaking from inside the storage tank. The entire construction operation will be explained by the men who are doing the actual work.

Throughout the semester similar programs will focus on the many campus construction projects underway.

Breckinridge "Hall Of Fame" Includes Kennedy, Roosevelt

On the second floor of University Breckinridge School is an unusual room which George Young, Supervisor of Special Studies calls "The Hall of Fame." The room is filled with pictures of great men and women, most of whom have autographed their pictures.

The "Hall of Fame" began in 1941 when Mrs. Robert Day and the freshman Civics class, nominated several great people and voted for one. After one was selected, the class wrote to him for his picture and his autobiography.

There are 48 photographs in the room, the latest addition being U.S. Senator Everett Dirksen. With the exception of Albert Einstein and Madame Chiang Kai-shek, all the people selected are native Americans. Of the 48 people selected, approximately one half are now dead. Former President John F. Kennedy was the only one who was not living when selected.

Some of the people in the "Hall of Fame" include Bob Hope, John Glenn, Babe Ruth, Father Flanagan, Spencer Trask, Connie Mack, Henry Ford, Carl Sandburg, Lowell Thomas, Norman Rockwell, Billy Graham and others less known. The government is well represented by John F. Kennedy, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover, John Sheman Cooper and all the Kentucky governors from 1935 to 1959.

The freshman Civics class no longer selects the people to be honored in the room. Now the job is done by the seniors in the American Government class, who during the second semester, will add another great person to the "Hall of Fame."

Scientists at Yellowstone National Park are using radio transmitters to uncover some of the mysteries surrounding the hibernating habits of grizzly bears. After being trapped and anesthetized, the bears are fitted with collars carrying the tiny transmitters. Signals picked up from the transmitters have revealed such information as how far the bears travel for the winter-long naps, what types of sleeping quarters they favor, and how they know when it's time to go to bed.

Eagles Soar To Victory With Second-Half Splurge

SPRINTING FOR TD is MSU tail-back Tom Gray on his 65 yard run against Tennessee Tech.

MURRAY. Ky.—Morehead's speedy backs, Tommy Gray and Leon Wesley, broke open the Murray defense the second half to carry the Eagles to a resounding 30-9 football victory here last night.

The first half was strictly defensive and Murray even took the lead on a 23-yard field goal by Curtis Keen.

After that it was all Morehead. Gray reeled off two long touchdown runs of 40 and 42 yards in the third period and Wesley added one of 33 in the fourth to put the Eagles well on the victory road.

The first half was such a tight defensive battle that there was only one sustained drive. That was a 71-yard march by Murray midway of the first period. Keen scored on an end at the 13 but it was close enough that Keen got over a field goal.

Murray gained 62 yards rushing and 58 passing the first two periods but could never seriously threaten after the field goal.

Morehead, facing the aggressive Murray tacklers, made only 26 yards total offense in the first half, and never got out of its own territory.

The alert Murray defense picked off two Morehead passes and one fumble. Then the Morehead defense became unpromising and Murray could transfer none of its breaks to the scoreboard. Keen punted three times for 42.3 average and Morehead's Bill Marston wasn't far behind with four punts for a 40.2 mean as the two teams engaged in a first-half punting duel.

'Sonny' Allen Named To Basketball Hall Of Fame

John E. "Sonny" Allen of Morehead was among Kentucky's greatest prep players inducted into the High School Basketball Hall of Fame in Louisville.

Allen, who has had a long and distinguished basketball record, started at University Breckinridge School. At Breckinridge he played on Bobby Laughtlin's State Championship Team and won himself All-State honors. During his high school days at Breckinridge, he led the Eagles to the state tournament on two occasions, with Breckinridge winning the State Championship in 1946. In that same year he participated in the Kentucky-Indiana High School All-Star game, where he was chosen the outstanding player.

He played the next four years at MSU, always pacing the Eagle squads. He was rewarded in his senior year, when he was honored with a "Sonny Allen Day." One of Morehead's all-time scoring greats, Allen was an All-KIAC choice while playing for the Eagles from 1947 to 1950.

Allen coached eleven years at Breckinridge and led them to the 16th Regional Championship and a berth in the State Tournament during the 1963 season. Later in 1963 he was named to the MSU coaching staff as freshman coach. He is serving as assistant professor in the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Since graduation, Allen has distinguished himself in other fields beside the high school and college world. He played basketball and baseball while stationed at Sampson Air Force Base, N.Y., and participated in the service play-offs. He then played basketball for the now defunct Indianapolis Olympians and was in the Brooklyn Dodgers basketball organization.

"Sonny" is now married to the former Merl Fair, and has four children.

Inducted into The Hall of Fame along with Allen were nine other Kentuckians: Stanley Mileard, Lexington High, UK; Buzz Borries, Kavanaugh High, UK; Bernard Hickman, Central City, Western Ky.; Ralph Carlisle, Kavanaugh, UK; Ralph Beard, Male High, UK; Billy Ray Lickert, Lafayette, UK; Jeff Mullins, Lafayette, UK; Wallace Jones, Harlan, UK; Gene Rhodes, Male High, Western; Bob Carpenter, Louisville Central, no college; Cliff Hagan, Owensboro, UK; Frank Ramsey, Madisonville, UK; and Dave Lawrence, Corinth, UK.

This Year's Homecoming Has Much Significance

By Taskel Ross
Assistant Sports Editor

The 1966 Homecoming has a lot more significance than the usual Homecoming with its dances, dinners and banquets. The game Saturday which pits the Eagles against the Governors of Austin Peay State College is important because:

✓ This is the first Homecoming held after becoming a University.

✓ A victory over the Governors could shift the Eagles conference championship drive into high gear.

✓ It will provide a chance for MSU to gain revenge after their '65 loss for the first time to an APSC team.

The Morehead football team has shown shades of past OVC champions when a clutch play or tackle was needed. In fact it can be said that the following quote, for which many a person has been credited with, "When the going gets rough, the rough get going!" is the most able quote available for the '66 Eagles.

For, though the play of the Eagles may seem uninspired in the middle of the field, the opponents have found that yardage inside the Morehead 20 yard-line harder to get than a week without rain at Morehead.

For instance, the MSU defense smashing down four consecutive Youngstown runners on the one yard-line in the Eagles' 21-12 victory over the Penguins was comparable to the erection of the lights for the first home game. It seemed impossible, but it was done.

It has seemed at times that the disease of mediocrity has stealthily been creeping up on the Eagles. But then a fumble picked out of mid-air and returned for a touchdown, or a runner making a second effort and picking up that extra yardage needed for a first down or a touchdown has provided the stimulus required for another victory.

It has appeared that when that extra ounce of energy is needed to make a great pass reception or to fill a hole in the defense Eagle juice has come through.

MSU Beat Tech As Gray Sparkles In Shrine Game

Jim Ed Miller

The Morehead State University Eagles launched their assault on the O.V.C. grid championship by downing Tennessee-Tech in the Shrine Bowl 14-7 at Ashland.

Early in the fourth quarter, Eagle speedster Tommy Gray intercepted a loose Tech fumble and put on some "razzle dazzle" antics as he ripped off 65 yards for the final and winning tally. Gray, who runs the 100 in 9.3 seconds, looked back over his shoulder, laughed and made a gesture as if he were daring the nearest Tech pursuer to catch him.

Morehead scored its first touchdown after marching 75 yards in 16 plays late in the first quarter. Tommy Gray swept left end for six yards and the score. Larry Chinn added the P.A.T. and the Eagles led 7-0 as the first quarter ended.

Midway in the second period, Tech penetrated to the Morehead 20. Sorrells tried a field goal which was wide and the Eagles had the ball on their own 20 yard line.

The Eagles could not get out of the hole and were forced to punt. Bill Marston punted and Tech had the ball at midfield.

Tenn. Tech, with quarterback Tommy Van Tone mixing up the plays, moved 48 yards in eight plays to the Morehead six yard line. An offside penalty gave Tech a first down on the Eagle three. With 12 seconds remaining in the half, Van Tone sprinted around his right end for the score. Swords kicked the extra point and it was Tenn. Tech 7, Morehead 7 at the end of the first half.

Morehead started a drive in the third period with Chinn, Otto Gsell, Leon Wesley and Mike Mincey picking up rushing yardage. With third and three on Morehead's 34, Chinn fired a pass to end, Marvin Hicks, which was good for 17 yards. With second and seven on the Tech 33, Morehead fumbled and Tech recovered the football.

Tech marched to the Morehead 39 yard line as the third period ended. On the initial play of the fourth quarter, Gray picked a Tech fumble out of the air and galloped 65 yards for Morehead's final and winning touchdown. Chinn booted the P.A.T. and Morehead took a 14-7 lead.

A final Tech drive was halted as George Adams recovered a Tennessee fumble on the Morehead 31. Morehead simply ran out the clock from there and the Eagles won their first O.V.C. game 14-7.

An outstanding pass defense was shown by the Eagle defensive unit as Tech was held to 42 yards passing.

Forty-eight thousand, five hundred persons were killed in 1965 on the nation's highways, according to a report by one of the nation's largest insurance companies. In addition, 4,100,000 others were injured in traffic accidents last year.

The high cost of dying is not the funeral. The legal and administrative costs of getting the dead man's estate -- his lifetime earnings -- through probate or surrogate courts may cost from two to five times as much.

Football Coaching Staff Adds Three New Members

With the addition of three new assistants, head football coach Guy Penny hopes to reverse the Eagles' '65 record of 3-6. Added to the coaching staff for this year are Ron Durby, Mike Brown and Tom Kingery.

Jerry Denstorf, who has served for two years as offensive backfield coach, moved to the defensive line coaching position. Durby will assume the duties of offensive line coach. After graduating in 1964 from the University of Alabama, he acquired a 7-2-1 record last year at Walker County High School in Jasper, Ala.

The small [for a tackle] Durby brings with him two honors from his playing days at Alabama. One is his selection to the All-Southeastern Conference academic team, and the other is his third-team All-American selection.

Bill Bowers will assume the offensive backfield coaching chores this year after guiding the defensive backfield last year. This is Bowers' second year at Morehead. He also coaches the MSU wrestling team, which last year won the mythical OVC championship with an 11-1 record.

Bowers played football for Miami University of Ohio. He was coach at Talawanda High School, Oxford Ohio, for two years before accepting a position on the Morehead coaching staff.

Brown, who was a 1963 Morehead graduate, will take over the defensive backfield from Bowers. Brown was captain of the 1962 Eagle team which tied for the OVC conference championship.

He was defensive back of the year, All-OVC selection and received the Sigma Delta award as the outstanding physical education student his senior year.

Harold Barker, a 1955 graduate from Morehead, is resuming his duties as trainer for the '66 Eagles.

Kingery is attending Morehead this year as a graduate assistant. The 1960 graduate of Marshall is handling the bulk of the scouting for Penny. Kingery came to Morehead after coaching at Paul Blazer High School in Ashland. He is also working with the centers and the ends in addition to his scouting duties.

Intramural Scoreboard

By Richard Hunter
Tom Ulrich Wins Golf

Eighteen golfers turned out at Sunnybrook Golf Course Tuesday, Oct. 4, to compete in a nine-hole medalist Intramural Golf Tournament.

Though playing under rainy and overcast skies, the weather didn't seem to affect the play of Tom Ulrich. With excellent iron shots and a hot putter, Ulrich dominated the play and swept the championship for 1966.

Ulrich's score was 39. Tom Waterbury and Carlos Flannery tied for second place with 41's. Rick Collis took fourth with a 43 while Dave Packard and Mickey Wells tied for fifth with scores of 47.

Jim Lemaster Wins Archery

Tournament
Jim Lemaster defended his intramural archery title by shooting a total score of 142. Lemaster, in his second year in intramural archery competition, was almost flawless, shooting his score out of a possible 162.

Perry Day was runner-up with a score of 100 and David Cassidy placed third with 94.

Other high-finishers were Cecil

Wayman with 83 and John Vaccaro with 59.

Trojans, RCH, Rinky Dinks Win

Led by a 70-yard kickoff return by Mike Puncio and a 60-yard interception run by Jack Herliey, the Trojans beat the 69ers in Intramural Flag Football, 27-6.

In other action, the RCH's defeated the Campus Club 20-0 and the Rinky Dinks shutout the Paper Tygers 25-0.

Soccer Team Bounces Back With 7-1 Win Over Southern

Tom Harris

The MSU soccer team defeated Kentucky Southern 7-1 in a rain marred tussle at Louisville. The Eagles bounced back to even their record at one win and one loss after being upset by the University of Kentucky in the season opener.

Four of the Eagle's goals were scored by Jim Jewell, Mike Drah, Irag Afsar and Ahmad Sabie on penalty kicks. Tom Creaman, Jewell and Abas Salamar added the three remaining goals from the field.

Coach Mohammed Sabie said, "the team played more as a unit showing much enthusiasm."

MSU allowed only one goal by Ky. Southern which was scored on a penalty kick.

Seven Girls Chosen As M'head Cheerleaders

The Morehead State University Student Council has selected seven girls as cheerleaders to help maintain the "Eagle" spirit.

The girls are:

Janet Deskins, a sophomore, sociology major from Belfry, who cheered three years in high school and represented last year's freshman class as cheerleader.

Linda Haltz, a junior physical education major from Ripley, Ohio, who has three years cheering experience.

Maysville's Vicki Halfhill, a junior, elementary education major who has cheered seven years.

Sophomore Mary Lynn Martin from Winchester, with an area of concentration in business education.

Alexandria's Iris Reinhard, previously a freshman cheerleader, who majors in home economics and linguistics.

Pat Stahl, a sophomore from Beaver Creek, Ohio, who maintains an area in vocational home economics plus a major in biology.

Last year's varsity cheerleader, Phyllis Ann Thompson, a junior from Lancaster, majoring in English.

Today's Wife Serves As Domestic Economic Asset

By EUGENE MILLER

Copyright, 1966, Newsday

How much is your wife worth? A million dollars a year? $20,000, $10,000, $5,000, $2,000? Nothing?

If you're the man of the household, take a minute to see what sort of practical economist you are. Estimate what you would have to pay at the going rate to have someone do all the jobs your wife does.

If you're the woman of the household, start scaling your worth down from the million-dollar level, and figure out what you are worth to someone in dollars per week.

How do you go about doing it? Just list the various jobs the missus does. For example, she is a nurse, baby-sitter, cook, dishwasher, food buyer, laundress, and dietitian, etc. Estimate how many hours are spent on each job, and then multiply by the going rate.

To give you a helping hand, here are the figures the economists at New York's Chase Manhattan Bank came up with.

Job	Hours Per Week	Rate Per Hour
Nursemaid-----	44.5	$1.25
Dietitian-----	1.2	1.50
Food Buyer-----	3.3	1.50
Cook-----	13.1	2.50
Dishwasher-----	6.2	1.50
Housekeeper-----	17.5	1.50
Laundress-----	5.9	1.90
Seamstress-----	1.3	2.50

Practical Nurse--	6.0	2.00
Maintenance Man--	1.7	2.25
Gardener-----	2.3	1.55
Chauffeur-----	2.0	2.20

The Chase estimate is that the average wife works 99.6 hours a week and her services are worth $159.34 a week, or $8,285.68 a year.

Keep in mind that this is what the economists figure for the average wife.

If you want to be real precise, you can adjust the figures for hours or rate up or down as you see fit.

If you have to feed yourself breakfast every morning, you can reduce the number of hours she spends as a cook. On the other hand, if she spends the afternoon slaving in the kitchen to whip up a special gourmet dinner for you, boost the number of cooking hours, and increase the rate to $4 an hour.

If she has a truly green thumb around the garden, boost her wage as a gardener from $1.55 to $3. On the other hand, if she doesn't know a geranium from a gardenia and hasn't walked out in the back yard since you've moved into your house, eliminate the 2.3 hours credited to her as a gardener.

If she drives you to the station and barely misses three cars along the way, or if you find the gasoline tank on empty when it's your turn to drive the car, mark down her hourly rate as chauffeur from $2.20 to $1.

MSU Thinclads Impressive But Still Lack Victory

Tom Harris

Coach Marshall Banks' thinclads take a rest this week after running in four matches in two weeks. The Eagles were impressive, though still lacking a win.

In the first match of the season, Morehead placed second in a triangular meet with Cumberland winning, and Marshall finishing last. The Eagles were defeated at the University of Cincinnati 18-45. Art Stengen was the first MSU runner across the line, finishing fifth. Morehead placed two runners in the top 20 and finished fourth in the ten-team Taylor University Invitational. Art Stengen and Phil Hardin once again led the harriers crossing the finish ninth and eleventh respectively.

Coach Banks said, "I am real pleased with the performances of Stengen and Hardin. The rest of the boys should soon show great improvement with the experience gained in the first four meet."

Candidates To Be Chosen For Wilson Fellowships

Competition for Woodrow Wilson Fellowships for 1967-68 is now open. Every candidate must be nominated by a faculty member no later than October 31 of this year. Faculty members should send nominations to Professor Raymond P. Poggenburg, Department of French, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. 37203. The candidate's name, current mailing address, his college and proposed field of graduate study should be sent to Professor Poggenburg.

The purpose of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship is to attract men and women to the profession of college teaching. The Foundation primarily supports candidates in the humanities and social sciences.

Science and mathematics majors with a clear interest in a teaching career may be nominated, but, if they are U.S. citizens, they must apply simultaneously for a National Science Foundation Fellowship and must accept that award if it is offered.

Students seeking professional training [such as law, theology, medicine, clinical psychology, engineering, education, home economics, journalism, business administration and the practicing arts] are not eligible for nomination.

A single fellow or a married fellow without children receives a living stipend of $2000 for one academic year. Married male fellows with children receive an additional allowance of $1000 for the first child and $250 for each additional child. Tuition and fees are paid directly to the fellow's graduate school.

Any member of the academic profession in any college or university in the United States or Canada may nominate any man or woman of outstanding intellectual promise who is either a graduate of or senior in the colleges and universities of the United States or Canada and is not registered in a graduate school.

A nominator should weigh the student's qualifications: native ability, solid undergraduate preparation for graduate study leading to the Ph.D. degree and competence in foreign languages or other required subjects such as mathematics, ability in writing essays and reports on independent work accomplished.

Dr. F.M. Mangrum, MSU Campus Representative for the Fellowships, has asked faculty members to send their list of nominees to him this week. His list will not receive another notice of the last day of nominations. His address is MSU, Box 892.

Much Work, Little Sleep Go Into Dorm Decorations

Diane Gilbert

"O.K. Watch it now. A little to the left." "Thump! Bang!"

Sound like Mignon Tower is progressing? Well, the building program under way is not a 16-story structure. Neither is it the new Health and Physical Education Building being constructed on campus.

In fact, one doubts whether the dormitory decorations for homecoming will even hold up under the stress of that fatal hour of judging.

Much work is put into the task of decorating a dormitory for homecoming. But the work involved is outweighed by the fun and excitement of that week.

First, a campus-wide theme is selected and released to the dorms. Homecomings in the past have concerned themselves with varied themes. Last year's, "Our Kentucky Heritage," gave many out-of-state students and visitors a look into the past and present of Kentucky. "Our Expanding Horizon," this year's theme, leaves the field wide open for new and different ideas.

Imagination and practicality work hand in hand in these early preparations. Plans and drawings, within the confines of a proposed budget, have to be made. In the process, arguments and disagreements may arise, but soon a final decision is agreed upon and appointed committees begin to function.

Art, construction, costuming and painting committees set up schedules. Deadlines must be met, for no one would want to spend the entire night outside working.

However, one committee, "The Team from S.P.V.," is at work at all hours guarding the plans and ideas so no one from enemy territory will learn of the "prize-winning" project.

Construction crews armed with hammers, nails and band-aids work through the night sawing and banging. Others design and sew the costumes. Painting and designing is worked out by the art team.

After a harrowing week of working behind closed doors, the night comes to assemble and unveil the efforts of the dorm dwellers. The excitement in the dormitory continually grows until the final day when everyone looks with pride on the finished product and exclaims, "We won!"

"Auditions Of The Air" On WGN Closes Oct. 15

The Ninth Annual WGN-Illinois Opera Guild "Auditions of the Air" closes on Oct. 15.

The purpose of the "Auditions of the Air" and the related competition is to present outstanding operatic talent in broadcast recitals and to provide them an opportunity to be judged by national and international music authorities.

Cash awards totaling $2,500, with first prize $1,500 and second prize $1,000, will aid the two winners in furthering their careers.

Those eligible to enter the contest must be between the ages of 20 and 35, and citizens of the United States. Applicants must submit a tape recording of his or her voice, together with an official application blank to the Auditions Committee on or before Oct. 15.

Boys Evaluate Girls When Choosing Dates

Fleeta Hubbs

Why do some girls start out by having little boys carry their books to school and end up by having men pushing their wheelchairs—while other girls never seem to learn the secrets of attracting men at any age? Male opinion is the best answer for a question like this. Exactly why is a boy attracted to a particular girl?

One boy explained that a girl's smile was one of the things that attracted his attention. "That sort of look" was attributed to her friendly and natural smile. And perfectly straight and gleaming white teeth was not the reason for his liking he sparkling smile. The fact was that the girl had a small gap between her front teeth. To him, this added that certain "something" that was very appealing.

Another guy said that the girl he was dating was sensitive to his moods. It doesn't help at all when a fellow is brooding over his up-coming chemistry test and his girl sits there with a morbid look on her face and says, "Yeah, you might flunk." Such attitudes deflate a guy's ego when something is bothering him.

Instead, a girl should encourage her doubtful boyfriend to try and do his best. Maybe she can help him study. Helping over one hurdle may make it easier to overcome other obstacles and convince him that you're a pretty practical gal to have around—provided of course that you don't prove to be too smart on the subject yourself. That kind of play is hazardous.

More than one young man said that the girl he takes out must know how to talk. Knowing what to talk about comes when you've been together for a little while. The comment on how to talk, on the other hand, starts when the boy and girl meet each other. The fellows said that they like a soft, low-pitched diction that is clear and void of any phony accents and nasal tones.

Now these fellows have taken a positive approach to what they like in a girl, but maybe opinions can best be expressed by the "negative" approach: what boys don't like about a particular girl.

Well, there have been more opinions voiced on this topic than those with a positive attitude. The boys who said what they liked in a woman already had steady girlfriends or girls they were dating frequently. They had "evidence" to base their opinions on and it made comments easier. But the boys who expressed their "should not" and "don't like" were still looking for a right girl.

Now, actually, what don't they like? They don't like conceited girls who put themselves on a pedestal so high that they're completely out of reach.

There's no room in their hearts for a gigly, gab-blam girl or one who talks with the voluminous knob turned all the way up.

Slovenly, sloppy dressed girls don't even get a second look. One boy said that he couldn't believe the number of girls who had stringy, greasy-looking hair and wore their clothes like they were blown on.

Girls with makeup on so thick scare some boys because they aren't sure of the contour of a girl's face. The opinion on girls' figures varied, just so they looked "sexy" enough. But all agreed that those girls who just don't care and let themselves go are strictly "out."

The aggressive girl, one who takes the initiative at all times, injures a boy's masculinity and is not at all feminine—and asset that is a must for every girl.

A girl who made a date one long soul-searching conversation made one fellow wonder why he ever took her out in the first place. She had lost that certain mysteriousness that is so vital in her attraction to a boy.

A girl with a serious blemish problem is another example of a gal who just doesn't care about herself. This definitely attracts the thought of help rather than romance.

Well, there you have a few opinions of yourselves as brought forth by the expert critics—the male species of the human race. Of course all assets and liabilities can't be expressed because everybody has his own tastes about likes and dislikes. You may say to yourself that you have a few of the assets and none of the liabilities. But then ask yourself another question. Have you had a date lately?

The Art Of Kissing

A Kiss Is A Kiss But . . .

Kissing is a word that is actually hard to define. To your kid brother or sister it's "cuddly." To a girl, it's bliss. To the cold-blooded scientist, it's "the juxtaposition of two orbicularis oris muscles in a state of contraction." No matter what the definition, though, kissing is here to stay—at Morehead State University at least.

To those of you who are new to Morehead, particularly the freshmen, the idea of kissing goodnight at the brightly lit doors of the girls' dorm might have stunned you. Accustomed to the privacy of your car or the den at home after the folks had gone to bed, the idea of kissing goodnight in front of "everybody" probably made you feel somewhat embarrassed. Alas, think nothing of it, guys and gals, it's all a part of campus life.

Those of you who know about kissing (and everybody should) can expect to receive this type of kiss during college life. A kiss can mean, "goodnight, glad to have met you." "I'd like to see you again," the heart-breaking "good-bye" and the one that goes something like, "Darling, will you write my term paper?"

Kisses have also started a few romances that otherwise might not have been. A couple, that might not have had too much in common on their date, approach the girls' dorm with the full intent that they will never go out together again. They see that all the other couples are kissing goodnight so the boy starts to kiss the girl feeling he is expected to. And the girl starts to kiss him because he is expecting it. They kiss, and THAT they have in common.

Kissing on the campus park benches is also allowed. This keeps amorous young couples from tying up traffic on the sidewalks and in front of classrooms. That's what the benches are there for—unless they are already occupied by girl-watching males. And sometimes they'll scoot over, provided, of course, that you're alone.

Some people may look upon kissing in public as somewhat indecent, but we remind them that kissing is nothing to be ashamed of. It's a part of American life and has been hopelessly standardized. The people who condone the attitude of kissing as indecent are probably envious of two happy people or downright jealous.

So, fellows, when you take your date to the door, don't be bashful. Don't be concerned about what that other guy will think or that he's watching you. The truth is he could care less; he's busy.

Talent Hunt Being Held By Dept. Of Personnel

A statewide talent hunt by the State Department of Personnel is now underway on Kentucky college and university campuses, Personnel Commissioner Walter Gattis said.

"We specifically need social workers, librarians, engineers, business administration majors, accountants and auditors," the commissioner said.

Gattis said personnel recruiters will speak about job opportunities in State Government to faculty groups and student assemblies during the next three month period. They also plan to work through job placement offices provided on most of the campuses around the state.

Job interviews will be held at Morehead on Nov. 9. The schedule for the rest of the state is: Western Kentucky University, Oct. 17; Brescia and Kentucky Wesleyan, Oct. 18; Murray State University, Oct. 20; Kentucky State College, Oct. 25; Villa Madonna, Oct. 28; University of Kentucky, Oct. 31; University of Louisville, Nov. 3; Eastern Kentucky University, Nov. 9; Berea College, Nov. 10; Georgetown College, Nov. 10; Bellarmine College, Nov. 17 and University of Kentucky, Nov. 29.

Gattis explained that students being interviewed now will graduate within the next six months. Also, the commissioner said, "Interviewers will be able to furnish information about financial assistance for graduate study in the areas of library science and social work."

Veterans Administration Acquaints Veteran- Students With GI Bill

The Veterans Administration has started an all-out campaign to acquaint every veteran-student with all details of the new G.I. Bill payment procedures of the education program.

The VA cautions the veteran going to school to be prepared to pay his expenses for at least two months.

The law requires that monthly certificates of attendance signed by veterans be sent to the VA attesting the veteran has attended classes. Necessarily these certificates can be sent only after a month's schooling is completed. On the twentieth of the following month, VA mails the payment checks. Proper and prompt sending of these certificates will eliminate delays.

Allowances are: Monthly Payments Available To Veterans:

Type of Program	Dependents One	Two	Three or More
Full Time	$100	$125	$150
Three Quarter
Time	75	95	115
Half Time	50	65	75
Less Than Half Time:
Less than one-half time, rate of established charges for tuition and fee, not to exceed $50 if more than one-quarter time and not to exceed $25 if one-quarter time or less.
While on Active Duty:
Rate of established charges for tuition and fees of $100 per month for a full time course, whichever is less. No allowance for dependents.
Cooperative Training	$ 80	$100	$120
Correspondence Cost Only

Full-time training courses are 14 semester hours, or the equivalent. Three-quarter time equals 10 to 13 hours. Half-time is 7 to 9 semester hours.

A cooperative program is a full-time program consisting of classroom and alternate training in an industrial establishment, with the training supplemental to the educational institutional portion.

When the course is of less than a regular semester, such as summer school, the 14-hour standard is used or the equivalent in class plus laboratory, fieldwork, research or other types of prescribed activity.

Correspondence course allowances will be computed on what non-veterans pay for the same courses. These allowances will be paid quarterly based on the established charges for lessons completed and serviced by the school.

Outside work is not the interest of VA. Money or wages from such work is entirely the veteran-student's business.

Exams Will Be Given For Civil Service Jobs

The Civil Service Commission has announced a nationwide competitive office and science-assistant examination for many of the temporary jobs in the federal departments and agencies that will be filled in the summer of 1967. The examination includes a written test for jobs at grades GS-1 through 4, with salaries ranging from $69 to $92 per week.

For similar jobs during the summer of 1966 -- the first year a competitive test was given -- more than 105,000 applicants competed.

The test for jobs in the summer of 1967 will be given on three different test dates at more than 1,000 cities and towns across the country.

Candidates wishing to take the test on November 26 of this year must file applications by October 21; those wishing to compete on January 7, 1967, must file by December 9, 1966; and candidates for the February 4, 1967, examination must file by January 9, 1967.

All interested citizens will be given equal opportunity to compete.

Those interested in federal summer employment in 1967 should obtain a copy of Civil Service Commission announcement No. 401 entitled "Office and Science Assistant Examination for 1967." A pamphlet, "Summer Jobs in Federal Agencies," providing detailed information on the kinds of jobs that will be available and further guidance for applicants, will be distributed during the month of November. The announcement and the pamphlet will be available at college placement offices, boards of Civil service examiners, offices of the Civil Service Commission and civil service information points in some post offices.

Applicants may ask for Civil Service form 500-AB to make application to the U.S. Civil Service Commission, 1900 E. Street N.W., Washington, D.C., 20415.

Candidates may select any one of the three test dates and may choose a city where the test is being given. The Commission will notify each applicant of the exact time and place. The test measures clerical skills, vocabulary, reading comprehension, abstract reasoning and table and chart interpretation. The time required to take the written test is about 2 hours.

Applicants who pass the written test will be instructed that they may file job applications with interagency boards of civil service examiners in areas where they wish to work, and with the Washington, D.C., Interagency Board if they also wish to be considered for jobs in the Washington metropolitan area. The procedure followed last year, under which eligibles applied directly to the federal agencies of their choice, will not be followed in 1967.

The names of qualified candidates will be placed on rosters according to scores earned on the test.

The office- and science-assistant examination does not cover employment under the President's Youth Opportunity Campaign for disadvantaged youths, and it will not be used to fill the following positions:

The so-called blue-collar jobs, specialized positions above grade GS-4, and certain other positions in the Departments of the Interior and Agriculture. Temporary summer jobs in post offices are also excluded. A separate nationwide examination, also including a written test, will be announced in January, 1967 for summer postal jobs as Seasonal Assistants.

HOMECOMING REGISTRATION will be held in front of the Doran

Student House from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Bridge Classes Available For Faculty And Students

A class in duplicate bridge will be held every Thursday from 6:15-6:45 p.m. in room 305 of the Home Economics-Industrial Arts Building. From 7-10 p.m., the same night, bridge games are scheduled.

The class is open to any interested students and faculty members. It is assumed that participants have no previous knowledge of the game. Simple Goren rules will be followed presently, progressing to more advanced rules next semester.

The bridge class is taught by John McCabe, a MSU faculty member. He hopes that Morehead will enter intercollegiate bridge competition next semester.

Selective Service Tests Scheduled Nov. 18-19

Applications for the November 18-19 administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test may apply to the nearest Selective Service local board for an Application Card and a Bulletin of Information for the test.

Following instructions in the Bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to Selective Service Examining Section, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 988, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Applications for the test must be postmarked no later than midnight, Oct. 21, 1966.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. By registering early, he stands the best chance of being assigned to the test center he has chosen.

Federal responsibility... reacted strongly against this move by the President.

They protested that the complexity of our society requires the Central Government to concern itself more and more with the welfare of the individual citizen.

In turn they argue that State and local governments are poorly organized and unable to finance adequate public services. Yet, rather than join in a realistic examination of ways to revitalize State and local governments, these opponents fall back on a familiar plea that the Central Government solve all problems on a crash basis.

What these so generous people fail to acknowledge is that each time the government assumes responsibility for our personal economic and social welfare, we take another long stride away from those principles which have permitted us, through individual initiative, to become the most privileged of the earth's people.

Unfortunately, even the President of the United States, joined by the committee of the governors of the sovereign states, was unable to do much more than slow down the trend toward more dependence on the central government. Governors from various states resisted the effort. In spite of the protest of some of the more moderate governors, the centralist view prevailed.

The simple fact is that for every dollar of Federal aid, the citizen who believes in State sovereignty forfeits a dollar's worth of States rights. It is entirely logical that Federal control follow Federal funds. This has to be so because when a congressman from New York votes to support a project for Tennessee, he has a right to say something about how the money is spent. His constituents, after all, are paying their share of the bill.

OTHER PROBLEMS

There are other evidences of this voluntary weakness on the part of our people.

The great moderate masses of our society have withdrawn from the political scene as a consequence of the very abundance which our free system has provided, the blessings of education and the advances of technology.

The professional and businessman, the technician, the white collar worker, the highly trained and productive operator of our massive machines, all enjoy a way of life which leads them to prefer to be left alone.

The businessman is restrained from political participation for fear of public criticism or the loss of a customer, not understanding that it is much better to lose a customer than to lose the climate which permits him to make a profit.

In the meanwhile, highly militant and well organized minority groups control the body politic.

Overwhelming desire for security rather than for opportunity on the part of our young people has encouraged even by our great corporations. Recruiters visiting the campuses of our universities no longer challenge the young American male with opportunity, but instead with what is going to happen to him 45 years hence. This young American, with a mind like a sponge and muscles of steel, then is tempted to enter the competitive world looking for a pension rather than a risk, little realizing that his forefathers who developed this great country were risk-takers above all else.

CONCLUSION

The historical cycle of the body politic indicates that man progresses from bondage to spiritual faith--from spiritual faith to courage, from courage to freedom, from freedom to abundance, and then comes the warning, from abundance to selfishness, from selfishness to apathy, from apathy to dependency, and from dependency right back into bondage again.

It does not require the talents of the highly trained political scientist to show us where we are in this cycle. It only requires a little serious thinking on the part of any reasonably intelligent citizen.

Certainly all thoughtful people must agree that if the system we cherish is to survive we must learn to understand that democracy is more difficult to maintain than to attain. Only by our individual efforts can be sure that the lessons of history do not catch up with our Republic.
