Dummit Will Speak Here October 25

Candidate Charges That Clements Is Tool Of Organized Labor

Atty. Gen. Eldon S. Dummit will bring his campaign for governor to Morehead at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 25, when he speaks at the Rowan County courthouse.

When he arrives here, he will be in the fourth week of a speaking tour that will take him into practically every county in the state. The five-week round of speech-making by the Republican nominee began Sept. 29 at Springfield and will end on election eve with a radio broadcast from Covington.

The candidate will discuss in his appearance here the need for a much larger school appropriation and the spending of more money on rural roads.

Also, he will outline the importance of the Taft-Hartley law to every citizen of Kentucky.

The "Federalism backing Clements," the attorney general charges, has willingly accepted the support of union bosses, on the one hand, and tried to tell farmers, small businessmen and veterans on the other hand, they have nothing to fear.

A majority of the people of Kentucky, the attorney general contends, gave a mandate to Congress to pass labor-curling legislation. The Taft-Hartley bill was the result of that mandate, Dummit asserts.

The speaker will also outline the need for cheap electrical power in Kentucky.

Dr. Sparks was fired on from ambush by a youth fitting Spencer's description on May 31. He died a month later. The first trial of the case ended with a hung jury.

A change of venue was granted in the case of Jim Houston Stevens, 49, charged with the slaying of Sheriff Estill Adkins on August 23. The trial will be conducted later, at West Liberty.

White Elephant Sale Scheduled October 25

Preliminary Work Towards Securing Hospital in Morehead

Although their work has progressed little past the planning stage there is a group of progressive and civic-minded persons who have pooled their efforts toward a project to secure a hospital for Morehead.

The Rowan County News has repeatedly pointed out the great need for a hospital in our community. It has been editorially stated that there is not a place in Kentucky that needs a hospital more than that it is near shameful that the city where the home of the Morehead State Teachers College is located does not have one.

It is lamentably true that there are many people in this section of Kentucky who would be living instead of lying in their graves if this community had a properly staffed and equipped hospital. It is a fact that in Rowan and Adams counties there are many people who are dying because they are unable to secure a bed in a hospital where they might receive proper treatment.

The prospectus now being drawn by the group of Moreheadians shows that a hospital here would serve better than 180,000 people in Rowan and adjoining counties. It has been ascertained that there would be an over-supply of trainee nurses, and a hospital in Morehead could serve as a feeder in this respect for larger cities where there is a shortage. In addition the outside instruction given the trainees could be available at Morehead College (at Lexington this is given by the University of Kentucky).

Further, the prospectus properly shows that Morehead is the ideal location in Eastern Kentucky for a hospital. It is a progressive community situated in the very heart of the territory to be served—a cross-roads in northeastern Kentucky. Rowan County has already been granted top priority for Federal funds for hospital construction.

Although no survey has yet been made by an expert in these matters, it is logical that a 100 bed hospital in Morehead could be self-sustaining. More detailed information will be forthcoming from the group that is now working on the proposed hospital. It is probable that all Morehead citizens will be asked to join in a concentrated effort to secure this project.

Certainly there is nothing needed more than a hospital here, and Moreheadians should incorporate themselves into a solid group of workers to use every effort to secure it. It would be the greatest project for civic advancement since Morehead College was established here 25 years ago.

The Senatorial Race Is Vital To Rowan County

Following the primary election it appeared that Rowan County was to have the State Senator for the next four years since both nominees were from Morehead. However, due to illness, the GOP nominee, Mrs. Lydia Messer Caudill, withdrew, and in compliance with Kentucky law the public opinion county chairman of the 27th district met at Maysville and nominated Dr. D. C. Dotson of Owensville.

The News does not question the Republican party's right to place Dr. Dotson's name on the ballot, nor do we doubt that Dr. Dotson is a qualified and capable. However, it hardly seems fair that Dr. Ollie M. Lyon of Morehead should have to make an expensive and hard primary fight, while his opponent is eligible to run in a last minute maneuver. It is noted in this connection that Dr. Lyon's opponent in the primary and the final election both come from Bath County, which indicates that our neighboring county is surrendering the Senatorial post only after exhausting every legal means at hand.

Dr. Lyon's ability and integrity are unquestioned. He can and will make this district a capable Senator. He is mature in thought, sound in judgment, a capable speaker and presents a proper appearance.

Morehead has more at stake in the forthcoming sessions of the legislature than any other city in the district. The unfortunate circumstances that surrounded the removal of Morehead College from the accrediting lists, plus the fact that this institution needs greatly increased appropriations if it is to continue to serve eastern Kentucky, makes our stake at Frankfort the most important in our history.

We do not question that Dr. Dotson would be friendly toward Morehead College, but we do say that Dr. Lyon has first-hand knowledge of the problem and, by virtue of his residence and business in Morehead would be the more aggressive proponent of our cause. He rightfully deserves the support of every Rowan Countyman.

Along with Truman's food saving program, we might add as a slogan, "You'll be thinner after dinner."

The neighbor told us that his wife dreamt she was married to a millionaire. Shucks, our thinks that in the daytime.

Marriages, they say, is an institution which teaches a man that regularity, and other virtues he wouldn't expect to find in a "bad" stayed single.

Our Common Interests

Common suffering welds together people of different nationalities as though they were members of the same family. Common aims bind together people of different faiths. Common ambitions coordinate the actions of people of different backgrounds.

After all, what does common mean? According to the dictionary it is "usual, average, regular and pertaining to or participated in by all." There must be no division in democracy. A very great man once said: "The foundation of unity is the equality of status of the citizens." In short, if law is to be effective it must be applied always, everywhere and to all.

We have learned from bitter experience that to be truly free, men must have the assurance for all alike of an opportunity to work as free men in the company of free men. No man can be confident in perpetuity of his own safety unless and until every man, woman and child is equally safe.

Common ambition is working together toward the same goal—a prize which will be shared. Rival ambition is striving for a goal which must be seized for the benefit of the one and the detriment of the other. Will we let rival ambitions separate us?

If we are to fulfill our duty as Americans, we must, without setting aside any of our individual rights, work together in our community or communal life, to carry out the ideals of democracy, to see to it that there are opportunities for each man to advance according to his talents and abilities, to extend a friendly hand to those who need help, to keep the laws which we ourselves have made. Only faith behind democracy can foster the common virtues which are necessary for self government and for the preservation of our unity.

Centuries ago Euripides stated it thus:

Look to the things of God.

Know you are bound to help all who are wronged.

Bound to constrain all who destroy the law.

What else holds state to state save this alone.

That each one honors the great laws of right.

We did this in war. We must do it now, if this is to be an era of peace and not just an armistice between wars.

Democracy At Work In New Jersey

Kentuckians who fear a constitutional convention should be reassured by New Jersey's experience. Such a convention has been at work at New Brunswick since June 13 revising a 103-year old State Constitution. It completed its deliberations this week, and the vote by which the revised draft was adopted by the delegates was 77 to 1, with two absent.

Now, you don't have to know a single thing about New Jersey constitutional law to know what that practically unanimous vote means. It means that the conflicting political and economic interests of a State have been able to sit down at a table and by a series of compromises agree upon a set of basic rules reasonably acceptable to all. The revision they agreed upon was neither radical nor reactionary but middle-of-the-road.

The New Jersey delegates did not begin by throwing the old Constitution and its 32 amendments out the window. They made the only charter the basis of the new, attempting only to bring it up to date. They retained every right and privilege guaranteed under the old Bill of Rights. They clarified legislative powers. They struck out a clause limiting a legislator's salary to $500 a year. They strengthened the Governor's powers, increasing his responsibility and accountability. They struck out a provision limiting a Governor to one three-year term, extended the term to four years and made the Governor eligible for re-election for one term.

The delegates simplified the court structure and agreed upon a modern basis for taxation and finance. They made amendment easier. Formerly a proposed amendment had to be approved by the governor's veto in two consecutive legislatures and then submitted to the people at a special election. Entailing, of course, heavy extra election expense. Under the revised draft, a proposed amendment may be submitted at a general election, either after a three-fifths majority approval at a single legislative session or simple majority approval at two consecutive sessions.

This summary of the convention's work is sketchy, of course, but it is enough to indicate that moderation prevailed. One thing more: the convention's work, as it would be in Kentucky, is still subject to the criticism or rejection by the people. Presumably they will ratify it. But in 1944, misled by Mayor Frank Hague and his Jersey City machine, they rejected a proposed revision. The point is that in New Jersey, as in Kentucky, a constitutional convention does not have the last word. That is reserved for the voters themselves. As evidence of the character of the New Jersey convention, one of its delegates, Frank H. Sommer, a former dean of the New York University Law School, described its proceedings as like "the successful run of a play titled 'Democracy at Work.' We are hoping for a similarly successful run of the same drama in Kentucky." (Louisville Courier Journal.)

Take it easy on the highway, or your family may be seeing your ghost on Halloween night.

President Truman has called on the nation for a meatless Tuesday. If meat goes much higher in price, folks are going to run into two or three Tuesdays a week.

With longer skirts on the way back, higher heels too are on the way. The wife will have us looking up to her again.

The neighbor tells us that his wife no longer has that dreamy look in her eyes that she had before they married. One reason is that he doesn't keep her out so late anymore.

Met an old friend the other day who remarked that they were looking well. Maybe so, but it sure costed plenty.

Two may still be able to live as cheap as one, but who wants to live that cheap?

Supervisor Borden spent the last week in general inspection of the south end of the Red River District. When I was young and foolish (or should I say younger and more foolish), I used to consider the Red River District a waste of time. It was a waste of time because it was a waste of money. It was a waste of money because it was a waste of time.

JACK HICKS make you a better man, and the benefits gained therefrom will more than offset the inconvenience of catching upon a little back work.

Well, from this observer's view point, I'd say the big Row-

County Harvest Festival of this weekend was a decided success, one of the best shows I've seen since coming to Morehead. Certainly, Morehead was crowded with rural visitors all day Friday, and a good crowd is one indication of success. The displays looked better than ever, and showed off to good advantage in the school gym. From the looks of that "Live at Home" exhibit the Sam Littons entered, I'd say the Litton home would be a good place to be a "star boarder." Probably the most remarkable and commendable displays were those put on by the children of the county—the FFA, FHA and 4-H exhibits. Those future farmers and home makers of Rowan County are certainly getting the right kind of training in their youth. Of course, I'm somewhat partial to the subject of conservation anyhow, but Professor Haggan's conservation exhibit was blue-ribbon quality, too. Here's looking forward to many more Harvest Festivals all as good or better than this one. Far manager, Charles Hughes deserves a vote of thanks from Rowan residents.

While down in Estill County last week we passed the big gas well on the Garrett farm that is reported to have 8½ million cubic feet production. The South Central Petroleum Company is already drilling another well closely, and the community is undergoing a minor boom.

Fire weather that began last Monday was broken by a rain-fall more than an inch on Tuesday night, so the tension was eased for the rest of the week. Sun and wind this week are drying the forest out fast again, and we call on all of you to be careful as you travel through the woods. Let's have one fall when Rowan County gets by without a single forest fire.

Proceeds from this sale go toward buying art supplies for schools in the county. Among the items to be sold will be clothing, canned foods, vegetables and household articles.

this week. Mary Alice Jayne and Ted Croswait are the moving lights behind this successful tabloid. The lighting system at Jayne Stadium is one of the best in Kentucky. The lighting at Putnam Stadium in Ashland where Morehead opened was so poor that it is doubtful if another college team will ever be attracted to this field. Most prices in Morehead stores are cheaper than in the cities but groceries are considerably higher. Democrats and Republicans in Rowan County are both making hard drives for absentee votes. Saturday, Oct. 25 is the deadline that County Clerk B. P. Day can accept absentee applications. Nine absentee ballots were thrown out in the primary election because the notary public failed to specify the date his commission expired. Rowan County lost one of its best known citizens with the death of Andy McKenzie last week. Long range road construction proposals of a group of far-seeing Moreheadians is for a paved highway from here to Vanceburg and one from Clearfield to Wrigley connecting with the West Liberty and Morehead roads.

West Liberty Has Opening Of Small Hospital

West Liberty's newest improvement towards a modern small city is the new West Liberty Hospital opened last week by Dr. H. B. Murray in the former Commercial Inn brick building at the corner of Main and Court streets, which has been completely remodeled into an approved small city hospital. Work of remodeling the building, which has been in progress the past three months, will be completed this week, and Dr. Murray has announced that an open house to the public will be held Sunday, Oct. 12 when the public is invited to visit and inspect the new hospital.

The building is a three story brick structure with an 18x24-foot basement. It has 28 rooms. Modern copper plumbing has been installed throughout the building, walls refinished, new lighting fixtures installed and several new rooms added, and old ones modernized.

The hospital now has 14 beds. It has 8 private rooms, two 2-bed wards, one semi-private room, a quiet room, and an isolation ward. The wards and private rooms are as nice as will be found in any large city hospital, and the furnishings are modern.

Jury Unable To Agree In Rape Case

The jury in the case of Floyd McVey, 26, charged with rape, in Montgomery Circuit Court reported to Judge John J. Winn Tuesday afternoon that it was hopelessly deadlocked and was dismissed. McVey, who had been in the county jail for 106 days, was released under $5,000 bond and the case was continued until the next term of court.

McVey, who is charged with criminally assaulting Miss Opal Craycraft, 22, on a country road near Mt. Sterling the night of June 17, testified that he picked the girl up in town and was taking her home when they parted on the side of the road. McVey said the girl did not resist his advances and that he did not threaten her, used no force and did not beat her. He testified that she ran away when she saw the lights of another car approaching.

Miss Craycraft testified that McVey got her into his car on the pretext of talking to her and then drove rapidly down the Winchester road and turned down a side road where he parked the car. She said that she got out of the car and was walking away but was grabbed from behind by the half-breed under the chin and twice choked and strangled in a ditch along the road where he raped her.

Radar Installed On Ohio River Gasoline Boats

Having proved the efficiency of radar in river navigation with its pioneering trials begun a year ago, the Ashland Oil & Refining Company completed the installation of radar equipment aboard the bow of its four larger towboats, the Ashland, at the company's marine repair terminal at Catlettsburg, Ky. this week.

Nation-wide attention was attracted to the trials conducted with the Ashland Oil & Refining Company's towboat Tri-State following the installation of a Sperry Gyroscope Company radar set late last year, and it was recently announced by M. C. Dupree, Ashland Oil's transportation manager, and Robert L. Gray, Marine superintendent, that in the first nine months of this year the Tri-State operated 120 1/2 hours in dense fog while all other major river traffic was stopped. Actually, the time saved amounted to considerably more than 120 1/2 hours, for many fog were stopped in the fog area long after the Tri-State had passed into the clear. Such a time saving was forecast by Ashland Oil officials after the Tri-State had made a few trips with radar, and orders for equipment for the three larger boats of the Ashland fleet were placed with Sperry early this year.

PUBLIC WORKS
New construction projects, started by State and Federal Governments, exclusive of residential buildings, were valued at $959,000,000 for the first six months of 1947, according to the Federal Works Agency. This represented a 43 per cent increase over the same period last year.

A GOOD FARMER IS BOUND TO MAKE A GOOD GOVERNOR

FEET ON THE GROUND—Earle Clements is a real farmer. He was born on a Union County farm, the son of a farmer, and is actively engaged in farming. He knows the farmers' problems from wrestling with the soil—not just the theories.

SOIL CONSERVATION—Clements has always helped the Soil Conservation program. He knows its great value to Kentucky farmers.

R.E.A. AND T.V.A.—In the State Senate he voted for the Kentucky T.V.A. enabling Act, and since his election to Congress he has always fought for both T.V.A. and R.E.A.

TOBACCO PRICE HELP—Clements sponsored the law which added 6 to 8 cents to the price of dark tobacco.

MARKETING—As a member of the House Agriculture Committee, Clements helped write and enact the Federal Marketing and Research Act, and he pledged the creation of a vigorous State Division of Marketing and Research in the Agricultural Department at Frankfort.

GOOD ROADS—Clements stands for more and better rural roads.

KNOWS ECONOMY—As a County Judge of Union County, Clements cut the debt in half by shrewd management.

EXPERIENCED—Clements is a Democrat of the progressive school. His motto is progress. His able service in County, State and Congressional posts qualifies him to do a real job as Governor.

do YOU want HIGHER TAXES?

"Nobody wants higher taxes. That's why thinking citizens of Kentucky are grateful that one industry alone pays more than 25% of the state's annual tax bill.

"Yes, Kentucky's Alcoholic Beverage Industry, foots the lion's share of the bill for old age pensions, schools and other services which are maintained by the state and counties.

Sunday School Lesson

FAITH
International Sunday School Lesson for October 19, 1947

GOLDEN TEXT: "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen." (RSV) Hebrews 11:1.

Lesson Text: Hebrews 11: 1-10; 39, 40; 12: 1, 2.

This is the last in a series of three lessons from the epistle to the Hebrews, the first which taught that Jesus is the complete revelation of God and that Christ is adequate as our Saviour. The lesson for this week reveals that it is faith that makes it possible for Jesus to be our personal Saviour.

The eleventh chapter opens with a definition of faith. Faith is defined as the belief that our hopes will be realized and our personal conviction that there is a reality in the unseen world. To the writer of Hebrews, this meant two things: The full assurance that the Christian hope in the promises of God will be fulfilled, and the belief that the unseen, or spiritual world, is one of supreme reality. Faith is that which makes these hoped-for things real.

Christians believe that the world was created by God. Just how God created the world, we do not know, but apart from God there is no adequate explanation of the world's origin. The existence of the world is a reality, but it is faith that causes us to believe that God created it. This is the meaning of Hebrews 11:3. God is the source of everything.

Chapter eleven of Hebrews has been called the "roll call of faith," and surely that is what it is. Beginning with the beginning with Cain and Abel, the author calls hero after hero whose faith was outstanding. Of course, the best example of personal faith in the Old Testament is that of Abraham, recorded in Genesis 12:4. His faith was illustrated in three ways: first, by his obedience to the call of God to journey forth to a strange place, giving up all the things he had known and to place his whole reliance on something he had never seen. This is the kind of faith which Jesus referred to when he said that his followers must be willing to give up parents, homes, everything, if need be, to follow him.

The second illustration of Abraham's faith was his confidence that God would be true to his promise to give him heirs. God had promised Abraham that he would be the father of a great family, but, up to the time he and his wife, Sarah, became old, they had had no children. But their faith in God's promise was rewarded, in the birth of Isaac even after they were old.

life, the hampering effect of sin must be cast aside and one must keep one's eyes on Jesus Christ as the goal. So, the person who looks to Jesus in faith for salvation must also look to him as the goal toward which he is striving.

Letters To The Editor

Crippled Children Clinic Editor, The News:
I wish to express my thanks for the publicity you gave the Crippled Children Clinic which was held in Morehead, Thursday of last week. However, I wish to call your attention to an omission in the story as it appeared. Credit was given to the women of the Legion Auxiliary for their splendid cooperation but no mention was made of the fine work done by the women of the Morehead Homemakers Club in preparing lunches for the children and their parents and of the cooperation rendered by the Save the Children Committee in purchasing the food for the lunches.

The Clinic was a complete success because of the fine spirit of cooperation shown by all groups contacted and I hope that we can make this an annual affair for Morehead.
Ted L. Crosswalk, Chairman
Local Committee on Arrangements

Praises Editorial Editor, The News:
Your article and editorial on the proposed raise in rates for our telephone system hit the spot. It was really good and was both timely and logical.

Critizes Telephone Company Editor, The News:
Your editorial about the telephone rates was the best I have ever read. You presented this matter exactly as it is. I am one of the oldest subscribers to the telephone company has, but I am of the opinion that we would be better off if we didn't have any telephone at all. I wonder if Morehead will have delegations at the Public Service Commission hearings to make a strong protest?
A Morehead Telephone User.

Editor, The News:
Permit me to express my personal appreciation and that of Mr. Clements and the Democrat party for the most hospitable reception accorded us at our opening in Morehead. Our organization is highly pleased with the opening, and we realize that the people of Morehead worked hard to make it a success.
You might be interested to know that I have heard many persons from all over the state commend your city for its beautiful appearance and for the hospitality shown them.

Double Tragedy Strikes Elliott County Family

Double tragedy struck an Elliott county family last week. Mrs. Jeff Rose, 75, died at her home at Bruin Thursday and her son-in-law, Fred Creech, 50, of Dayton, Ohio, started with his family to attend the funeral at Bruin but he was knocked in the head and fatally wounded in a roadside restaurant near Hillsboro, Ohio, when he stepped his automobile to get some sandwiches.

Details of the tragedy at Hillsboro have not been learned here fully, but early reports said that Creech stopped his auto near a small restaurant in or near Hillsboro Friday night to get sandwiches for himself and his wife and son, who were enroute to Elliott county to attend the funeral of Mrs. Creech's mother. When Creech did not return to the car in a reasonable time, Mrs. Creech sent her son into the restaurant to investigate. The son said that he found no one in the restaurant, and that he investigated further and found his father in a small basement, knocked in the head. He died later that night without regaining consciousness. Three hundred dollars in cash was missing from his person, reports received here said.

Creech was a native of the Little Fork section of Elliott county.

Mrs. Rose was the former Miss Laura Plannery of Bruin.

PROPINQUITY*

*This word means . . . Nearness in place or time. And that's Dr. D. C. Dotson, whether relieving physical anguish or helping with the making of a good strong government in Kentucky.

Dr. D. C. Dotson was born in Phelps, Pike County, Kentucky, on June 7, 1905. He graduated from the University of Louisville Medical School in 1932 and has been practicing in Owingsville, Kentucky for the past fifteen years. Dr. Dotson helped organize the Lions Club of Owingsville and was their first president. He belongs to the American Medical Association, Sportsmen's Club and has always helped promote civic improvements in the state. Dr. Dotson served as examiner for the local draft board without pay during World War II. He was highly complimented by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Harry Truman for his free services to our country in time of need.

Being a country doctor, Dr. Dotson has travelled the country roads to help the farmer. He has his hand on the pulse of the people and their troubles are his troubles, he knows all country problems. Dr. Dotson has pledged his time for the betterment of all country roads and improving farm conditions.

Dr. Dotson, the country doctor, and his friends now make an earnest appeal to you as a voter to help keep the government in Kentucky clean and honest. You will find that you have helped pick an efficient, honest and reliable Senator for our District when we send Dr. Dotson to Frankfort to fight for us.

We realize that time is limited and all of us will not be able to meet Dr. Dotson personally but that is of no consequence, because we are all happy to establish Dr. Dotson as our symbol of honest, clean and efficient government in Kentucky.

Your help is not only asked for and appreciated but will be paid for with help which Dr. Dotson will see that our District will get.

If you want to see and talk to our next Senator be at the Courthouse in Morehead, Saturday, October 25th, at a gathering of the people who believe there is still a candidate who will do what he promises.

Put your DOT for DOTSON November 4th for Senator in our District (Rowan, Bath, Fleming, Mason, Menifee, and Wolfe).
