Farmers Man Faces Charge of Rape After Rape Incident

Charles Brown, 30,
Accused Of Attacking
Well-Known Teacher

Having examined trial charges "Jake" Brown, 30, farmer was remanded to jail in Morehead yesterday on a charge of attempted rape. A victim, a veteran of World War II, was not represented by legal counsel.

The alleged incident was perpetrated against a well-known school teacher of Rowan County at Farmers, seven miles west of Morehead, Friday evening at dusk.

According to the Commonwealth, the teacher alighted from a Greyhound bus and spoke to Brown, one of her former students. It is claimed that Brown followed her and made the assault on the Licking River Road between the No. 11 voting house and the St. Alley farm.

Brown allegedly struck the girl several times and dragged her over an embankment. Sheriff Sam Green said that the ground about the area had been a terrific struggle.

A short time later Bedford Rowland, who was driving by the scene, stopped her car when they noticed a sack of groceries by the roadside. A Robinson heard the woman scream and Brown allegedly fled when Robinson intervened.

Robinson chased the assailant across a wide field, but he made his escape by swimming the Licking River.

Posses were formed in a short while and feeling ran high in the Farmers community. It was learned that Brown secured a pair of shoes from a farmer in that vicinity who did not recall that he was being sought for the attack. Brown surrendered last Friday turned him over to Highway Patrolman Ivan Reynolds. Sheriff Green's office issued a number of "traps" in the Farmers vicinity, and it was believed that escape for the accused man was virtually impossible. Sheriff Green said that Brown's mother told him that the youth had attempted to kill her the day before. County Judge Luther Bradley, before whom Brown was arraigned, said that the farmer man would also face a possible attempted murder indictment when the Grand Jury meets next Wednesday. Brown was unable to execute the $10,000 bond.

City May Go Into Sanitary Sewage Disposal Business; Speed Limits To Be Enforced

Discuss Plans For Constructing 4,800
Feet Of Sewers

The City of Morehead is about to go into the sewage disposal business.

The City Council has conducted a survey relative to the laying of sanitary sewers in the south-western part of town which will include Second Street, Lyons Avenue, Fleming Avenue and Flemington Road. This system will also serve the new graded and high school building upon its completion.

Mayor William H. Layne said that this will require the laying of 4,800 feet of sewer line and will cost, according to present prices, between $14,000 and $20,000.

Although definite plans have not been formulated, it is estimated that this would cost the property owners about $150 for "tap" connections. They are wanted in other towns, the property owners could pay this in a lump sum or prorate it with the bills. The water system is municipally owned.

It was brought out at Friday's meeting that it is probably the only fourth class city in Kentucky that does not own one foot of sewer. "The main sanitary sewer lines are owned by the Morehead State College, but property owners have been given permission to hook-on. As a consequence, there has grown up a haphazard system of sewage disposal and property owner looking on storm sewers, creating obnoxious odors and a health menace."

Mr. Layne said that if the sewerage lines are run in the north-western part of town, it is necessary for the city to borrow money. He declared that this sewage system for Morehead.

Under existing conditions, most of the sewer lines are overloaded and the city does not maintain any of them. In the event of the sewer being broken or stopped, it would be the duty of the property owner to make the repairs. Mr. Layne also mentioned that it is an inefficient and unorganized method of sewage disposal.

Kiwanis Say That Faster Traffic Endangering Safety

The City Council in session Friday voted unanimously to enact an ordinance requiring all property owners to construct and maintain sidewalks.

The ordinance was passed after the Kiwanis Club submitted a resolution requesting this to be done. The regulation declared that many property owners have been lax and that pedestrian traffic was very dangerous on some commercial streets.

The new ordinance requires that sidewalks be constructed on both sides of every street in Morehead.

The Kiwanis Club also pointed out that public safety is being endangered because of lack of sidewalks. The Council instructed the police force to enforce the ordinance, which limits automobiles and truck travel to 10 miles per hour in the business district and five miles per hour in residential areas. The city also plans to purchase a number of metal sign stands at the spots.

August 5th To 20th Is Best Time For Seeding Alfalfa

By Adrien Razor
Rowan County Agent

Many farmers are interested in seeding alfalfa since the dairy program has started. August 5 to 20 is the recommended date for seeding in this part of the state. The land should be prepared as long as possible before sowing. Much of the land is deficient in lime and it is necessary in most instances that the land be treated with two to four tons of lime before seeding. However, a quick soil test is the best method to determine the lime needs of the soil. The agent has the equipment to make these tests at an average cost of $1.00. Soil tests may be made at any time and we will be glad to contact the Extension Office.

I visited the new playground up Roeburn Hollow the 4th of July and was surprised to see the progress that had been made there. Ed Hall took me up and pointed out what he planned to do and it looks as if with a little help from the Rod and Gun Club and the community, Mr. Hall will furnish Morehead with a very nice recreation park. His plan was to center around the youth of the county but also there will be a chance for adults to enjoy themselves there. While it was the Arthur White was working with a bulldozer making a road and leveling off the grounds.

Several in town have helped in doing various jobs. Let's all get behind this worthwhile project.

RANGER'S COLUMN

By George E. Nietzold

Jack Hicks, past Ranger of this district gave his family a surprise on the 4th of July week end. He states that he is busy on his new district with timber sales and wildlife improvement amount of construction built by the Forest Service during the past several years now possible the harvesting of timber on mountain areas once considered inaccessible.

Timber operators in Rowan and adjacent counties are spreading increasing amounts of money in road construction to reach timber areas. Zora Trent of Elliottville is constructing about two miles of road on Minors Creek to reach timber which he recently purchased. J. D. Klaber of Mariba is also planning about the same amount of construction to tap timber on Little Indian Creek in Menifee County. The more accessible timber is getting scarce.

The Kentucky Fish and Game Commission recently released 3 cub bears on the North Fork of Red River. F. B. Harlow, in charge of the bridge construction work in that area, reports that the bears often share the men's lunches. They must be of the park variety. As you probably know, Garrett Childers, Conservation Officer in Wolfe County and other officials of that department had to finally use bird shot on the bear released last fall to get them into the woods where they belong. Looks like the same medicine will have to be prescribed to make wild bear out of these cubs.

Joe Meuk and I recently made reconnaissance of Buck Creek in Menifee County to determine the amount and location of timber. We estimate there are to be cut about 700,000 to 1,000,000 board feet when marked under the selective cutting system used on the National Forest. The area will be marked, this summer and should be cut next year.

Russell Hunt of Salt Lick informs me that he saw a ringneck pheasant in the woods on Caney Creek a few months ago. This bird prefers old brushy fields. Russel states that the bird "took-off" like the local pheasant (ruffed grouse) that is, in a

Same Old Paving Controversy

If the Morehead City Council heads the complaints of the minority this community will very likely make little real progress in anything. Any civic improvement will meet some opposition because they cannot be accomplished without expense. An example is the proposed paving of Second Street. It appears that some persons who own property facing Sun Street and also the unpaved part of Second Street are objecting to the paving because they contend their property is already accessible to a paved street. Following this line of reasoning, half of Morehead's streets would be unpaved. For example, owners of property running from Second Street to Third Street could claim that the paving of Third Street was a needless expenditure. The city is faced with a like problem with the only real ordinance requiring all property owners to construct sidewalks. The people on the east side of Wilson Avenue could claim that they should not build sidewalks because the property owners on the west side have already constructed them, and they are adequate for their use also. It is just the same old argument of "letting the other fellow off it."

Fortunately, the majority of thinking citizens realize that Morehead can continue to grow and be prosperous only if the maintenance and improvements keep pace with modern standards of living. In the Second Street paving controversy, it should be noted that Morehead is the only street running entirely through the town. If the balance of Second Street is paved, this will give Morehead another through east-west thoroughfare.

A Loss To This Community
 There is so much bad in the best of us. And so much good in the worst of us. That it ill behoves any of us to talk about the rest of us. This motto of good advice may be found over many a hearth mantle and on the desk of many a business executive. None will deny the worthy counsel given in the well-worn axiom; but very few can rightfully claim adherence to this wise phrase. At the funeral services of Dr. Harold Blair, the Christian Churchover, Rev. E. H. Ryte pointed out that he and the people of this county had lost a true friend through the untimely passing of this young man. "In all the time I knew Harold Blair I never heard him say one unfavorable thing against any other person or voice criticism against his fellow man," Rev. Ryte said.

We had not given a great amount of thought to this fine characteristic of Dr. Harold Blair. But Dr. Blair lives; this motto may be directed to you. He may have something nice to say about a person he just didn't say anything.

Perhaps this is one of the principal reasons why Dr. Blair could number as his friend every one with whom he came in contact. Dr. Blair was qualified professionally. He possessed the remarkable trait of giving unselfishly of his ability to civic enterprises that meant a better community. He was likable, personable and tactful.

Morehead can ill afford to lose qualified and energetic citizens like Harold Blair who contributed so much without thought of personal praise or gain. Usually after a fellow has slept like a log, he wakes up stiff as a board.

"Precise In Promise Keeping"

Far too much of the trouble in the world today is due to the fact that promise-keeping has gone out of fashion. Whether it be the international situation, national problems, labor-management relations or just our own particular personal difficulties, this truth applies to every crisis with which we are confronted.

We seem to have forgotten the old adage that debts of honor are debts that must be paid in full. As long as a promise is uncoupled in legal phrasing and made binding by the courts, we treat it far too lightly.

Seekers after votes and favors, even give promises too carelessly and too freely, thinking that when the time comes, they could get out of fulfilling their share of the bargain. We, equally guilty, have in turn accepted promises at their face value, that we had thought about it, we would have known the givers had no sense of keeping and that they were unenforceable.

It takes too much to make a contract-but it also needs too to keep it. No matter how trivial the matter with which it deals, we must keep faith with our pledged word-and see to it that the other side does the same. He who seeks equity must be equitable. He must come into court or before the bar of public opinion with clean hands.

Consumers To Pay
 There have been any number of wage increases granted in industrial leaders to labor unions in recent weeks. The process is termed the third increase in wages and the expectation is that there will follow a third increase in the price of manufactured goods. It begins to appear that labor and capital will not fight each other too hard for the single reason that when capital grants a wage increase and increases the price of its product, the laborer will lose more money for the laborer, and more profits for the manufacturer.

The possibility exists, of course, that the manufacturer will gradually raise himself out of the depression. In the meanwhile, the seller's market continues in this country and the consumers pay the increased price, thus providing the money for bigger profits. How long the process can continue, we are unable to say, but in the long run, it means economic disaster.

Man In The Street Might Know
 It is hardly fair to a politician to go back and quote what he says before a convention, especially when he is a candidate; he may be talking for the purpose of bolstering his wavering confidence, radio commentators and so-called political prognosticators. Like the sports writers, who never fail to make predictions on the probable outcome of athletic events, the clan has a habit of laying down very positive conclusions as to what is going to occur and also the reasons for the occurrence.

From a more or less serious study of the subject during the past 35 years, we have come to the conclusion that most of the stuff that is printed is buncum. In fact, if we wanted to get an opinion as to the probable outcome of the Democratic National Convention, for example, we would have just about as much chance to ascertain the probable course by talking with ten or twenty individuals on the street as by taking the composite conclusions of the so-called experts.

The department of agriculture seems to have much more than its affairs are conducted by those who have at least visited the farm and know Silas from a silo.

It will surprise a lot of fishermen to learn that sports anglers catch an estimated 260 million pounds of fish each year.

No Perfect Defense

The people of the United States should not overlook the tendency of defense experts, including some civilians as well as military men, to insist on perfection in much the same sense that there are some generals who would "fortify the moon."

There is no system of pre-war defense that will be absolutely perfect and it is too much to expect the people of the United States to spend billions of dollars to "defend" themselves against what some of the experts think might be a powerful weapon in the hands of the enemy.

It is generally assumed that the Arctic region is of vital importance to the defenses of the United States but the Foreign Policy Association, through a report by H. B. Swarth, thinks it is a question whether a bomb laden plane "could regularly attack the United States across the Pole and return to its base."

It is one thing to assert that the United States should be on alert to prevent an enemy power from occupying vital regions in the Arctic, but quite another to suggest that we need, in the year 1948, a series of defense against aerial attacks from far off countries which "might" send their planes via the North Pole.

There are certain times in life when one needs a double dose. Resort clothes depend on the kind of resort. Some of the swankier kind call for dinner dresses every evening, but most resorts have one dress up evening during the week. There are resorts, of course, that do not put on the glamour of the rougher kind—denims, shorts, skirts and cordigans.

Sunday School Lessons
 BEAZEL, THE CRAFTSMAN
 International Sunday School Lesson for July 11, 1948
 GOLDEN TEXT: "Whatever your hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." Ecclesiastes: 9: 10.
 Lesson Text: Exodus 31: 1-11; Chronicles 1: 5.
 Continuing our study of "unheralded and his assistants," we take for our study this week a consideration of the characteristics of Bezael, a master craftsman. It is in connection with the building of the Tabernacle that his name is mentioned.

After recording the giving of the Ten Commandments and various other laws to Moses by Jehovah to Mr. Sinai, the book of Exodus lists directions concerning the making of the ark and the tabernacle and its contents, including the garments of the priests. Then it tells of the appointment of a man, named Bezael, for wisdom in the Hebrew sense meant just that. He was not a visionary—he had the vision into action or being. He had knowledge of his craft and he had many men working under his direction to accomplish the many tasks which had been assigned to him. The text says he worked with "wise-hearted" men and what a joy that must have been to him, to work with men to whom their work was a pleasure and who took pride in its accomplishment. They worked together, wholeheartedly and willingly, for they were making the dwelling place of Jehovah and their handiwork would make that place a worthy place for the worship of their God.

Exodus 33: 3-8 describes the completion and dedication of the Tabernacle. Surely, this must have been a happy time for Bezael and his fellow craftsmen. Human plans, inspired by God, planned, human hands had wrought and the work had been done. Bezael's God honored his faithful toil of Bezael and his workmen. W. Palmer says: "What is the difference between being a real artist and just a person who has artistic temperament?" He answers: "Hard work! Yet there is another element, unselfish, evanescent, mystical, that is absolutely essential to the highest artistry. It is that touch of divine fire which we call 'inspiration.'"

Is your work important? Bezael and Odiahel seemed to believe their work was important—the most important in the world to them. Channing Pollock once declared that any job well done is important and that is just what we need. A few of us understand that a big job a little job can be. He said: "Take on in a great in your work. The fellow with a future isn't often the one who secures."

M. Wesley Franklin and Ruth Blair; Mr. and Mrs. Chesney Kiser; the Dwight Pierce family; Mr. and Mrs. Danzer; Marie and Jim of Flemingsburg; the Midway Bobbitts; Uncle Irve and Aunt Doris, Alice, Ed and Bernice of Flemingsburg; Ora Walt; Mitchell Estep and family; the Ockenboro family; Glen and Mae Gilliland; Mrs. James Butcher; Dr. John L. Thanks to you guys from the News that brought me town that tiger blood. That was very decent of you. Thanks to all of the preachers who did not send cards or stop in, I guess you are all too busy with the sinners here at home. We were kind of overstocked with preachers on our floor. We had a snake preacher, Methodist preacher, Christian preacher, and a downright old Baptist preacher.

Thanks to the undertakers who shopped up and checked me up. When the doctors told them I was getting along fine, they quit coming to see me. I can't say but appreciate business get letters like Jack West Lumber Co., sending me latest catalog on pine, and a follow-up in Kentucky do not come at Christmas time. Rather, June 29, marks the date when the most big business is written. There is a good financial reason for this. The state of Kentucky charges a one-cent-of-one-penny tax on all bank accounts as of June 30. This amounts to 10 cents on the $100. It is a tough one to pay. The heavy withdrawals are made by persons having large accounts and they are very clearly in a comparison of the June and December financial statements.

As in all things there's a fly in the ointment and those people who draw all their money

$200,000 Set Aside For C. & O. Yard Expansion
 It has been announced by officials of C.O. of the expansion of the Yards at Russell. It is estimated that will be $200,000. The plan calls for 20 tracks adding enough mileage to make the Russell Terminal the largest single freight yard in the world. This new work will be in addition to the $2,312,350 improvement announced recently which involved enlargement of the repair shops and related work. The Russell Terminal now covers 855 acres and serves five sub-divisions.

 Reports from Europe indicate some bewilderment over the move in Congress to reduce appropriations for the Marshall Plan.

Advance State Fair Tickets Are Half Price

For the first time in the history of the State Fair, all the people of the state will have an equal opportunity to purchase advance-state fair tickets at half-price. J. O. Matlock, State Fair manager, said today. This is made possible by the agreement of the Kentucky Farm Bureau

Federation to distribute admission tickets through their county Farm Bureau presidents. J. E. Stanford, executive secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, has announced the appointment of Paul Grubbs, a member of the Federation's staff, as chairman of advance ticket sales. Tickets will go on sale July 10 and will remain on sale at half price until Sept. 1, Grubbs said. Grubbs stated that he has arranged with county presidents to order tickets in blocks and distribute them to retail stores in their county, peddlers will be furnished dealers so every person in the county will know where they can purchase admission tickets at half price. A series of advertisements will be run in local papers to help promote the sale of these tickets, Grubbs further stated.

Rush. In something of a last minute rush, the House recently passed 163 bills and sidetracked 56 others in three hours.

"Thirty-five hundred Madison county school children have been given the eye-screening test," writes Maurice D. Remont, executive director of the Committee on Kentucky, who recently visited that county in company with James W. Armstrong, head of the committee's community service department.

"This number has been estimated at a total cost of $31.50. Here is how it has been done. The women volunteer workers come into Richmond, where they are put through a course on how to screen the children, under the supervision of local doctors. After finishing this course, these women go directly to all schools in the county and give the test to all students. If a child is found to have an eye deficiency and needs glasses, the Lions Club of Madison County furnishes glasses to the children if the parents are unable to purchase them. In the event a child is found to have some deficiency that cannot be corrected by glasses, but needs an operation, the child, with the parents' consent, is brought into the hospital in Richmond. A surgeon is secured and the operation and hospital expenses are furnished without charge if the child's parents are unable to finance it. "Another item of the program is in relation to dental care. This group purchases tooth brushes in wholesale quantities and furnishes them to the children through the schools at a cost of 5 cents each. This is not a cheap toothbrush, but a first-rate nylon bristle brush. In the event the students are unable to pay 5 cents for the purchase, the churches of the county furnish brushes without charge. Rather than have the students buy toothpaste, which they know many would not and could not afford to do, they are demonstrating to the children in the schools, through the teachers, how to mix a good toothpaste. "The new health program is sponsored primarily by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Madison County Health Society. This club headed by Mrs. Shelby Carr, got the cooperation of service clubs in the county, churches, women's clubs, veterans organizations, the school authorities, and the county medical society. Hearty press support came from the Daily Register and the weekly Madison County Post.

This child health report is only one chapter in the story of civic awakening in Madison County. You will get more in the near future. "If you have never enjoyed the sensation of being close to heaven, look no further. You can't have the family car turned up and make for the mountains of Eastern Kentucky. Our own wooded peaks and narrow green valleys may not equal the Rockies or the Coast Range in grandeur, but they excel them in intimate beauty and charm. And you won't have to travel thousands of miles to reach them. On our second tour in a five-year plan to see practically all the state and visit most of the towns and cities, we drove via Frankfort and Paris to Maysville, thence along the river road to Greenup and Ashland and on to Charleston, W. Va., and got back into Kentucky at the border town of Williamson, taking US 119 into a scenic paradise.

Much of the time we were driving in clouds that enveloped the crests of the mountains, but good roads made traveling safe, free from fatiguing nervous tension. Even night driving had no terrors for us. Route 119 took us through Pikeville, Kentucky's easternmost town of considerable size, and to Jenkins on the border. At Cumberland the scenery was even more enthralling than Cumberland Gap. And no less a wonderland was Pine Mountain State Park.

At Corbin we found a motel with lovely rooms and meals nobody could find fault with. In the most remote towns hotel accommodations could be good. Jeal better, but this need not discourage anybody touring the region. Reservations can be made in advance by telephone. Like the rest of Kentucky, the eastern mountain regions need more publicity. Their glories are sung in a whisper. We have seen them, and we know they don't possess the beauty of the mountains in a dozen east Kentucky counties. The Smokies have the advantage of nationwide publicity, and the public flocks to them. Also Great Smoky National Park is a name that carries weight.

With Henry Ward, an experienced newspaperman, as Conservation Commissioner, Kentucky's tourist attractions should be publicized better than ever before. To recommend that Commissioner Ward take a 4-day trip over main roads through the region is to recommend that if he has not done it already. He would do well to take along State Highway Commissioner Garrett Withers. And to reach higher up in authority, Governor Clements.

Questions and Answers
Q. Have I any recourse to civil courts if I do not like VA's decision on my claim for disability compensation?
A. No, the law specifically provides that the decision of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs in such matters is final and conclusive.
Q. I am a World War II veteran and receive disability compensation. If I take a three-hour a day job, will my compensation be discontinued?
A. So long as your disability is not aggravated, it will be continued. The fact that you are employed does not bar payment of compensation if you are disabled as a result of a service-connected condition.

TO BE SEEN AND NOT HEARD

Someone people try to read a prescription to their pharmacist over the phone, or in his store. This can be both dangerous and unwise. A prescription is a precise, technical document, whose terms and symbols can easily be misinterpreted by the general public.

Many drugs that sound alike are as different as night and day. Barium sulfate and barium sulfide, for example, sound very much alike. But one is relatively harmless, while the other is a poison.

Latin terms and abbreviations, as well as technical symbols, often appear in prescriptions because they are established unchanging. To your pharmacist their meanings are clear and specific, but they're not to you.

So if you try to read a prescription to your pharmacist, you are taking an unnecessary chance. But when you give your doctor's written prescription to your pharmacist, you can rest assured that you have handed him the information necessary to dispense the medicine prescribed.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 12, Michigan.

Veterans' News

VA today reminded World War II veterans that the deadline for liberal reinstatement of lapsed G. I. insurance is July 31.

Until the deadline, veterans may reinstate lapsed insurance without necessarily taking a physical examination. Under the liberal provisions now in effect, a veteran generally needs only to certify that his health is as good as it was on the date of lapse and pay two monthly premiums to reinstate term insurance, or all back premiums with interest on permanent types of insurance.

Eligible veterans now have un-

On the Move
America has been on the move since 1940. Statistics reveal that one-half of the entire population of the U.S. or 70,000,000 persons, have moved at least once since

April, 1940. Twelve millions moved to new states, 2,000,000 to the West Coast; 13,000,000 moved to a new county within the same state, and about 50,000,000 moved from one location to another in the same municipality. We read this somewhere: Bad politicians are put into power by good citizens who failed to vote.

True in 1920! Truer Now! You Can Beat High Prices By Buying Advertised Values

HERE'S one way you can make your dollars go farther! Here's one way to be able to afford better shoes, housewares or furniture.

Lick 1947 high prices the way your mother beat 1920 high prices—by spending your money only for advertised values! Your mother found she could buy for less by checking the ads in this newspaper first. You, too, if you read the ads, can compare prices and values before you buy.

When you buy from a merchant who advertises in this newspaper, you buy from a reputable, dependable store. You are buying from a store that expects to be in business a long time, that wants to keep you as a customer, a satisfied customer. Hence you are far surer to get greater value for what you spend.

You can help bring prices down, too, by buying through newspaper advertising. A merchant won't waste money advertising an item priced above competition unless the item is worth what he asks, because he knows wise shoppers will check and compare. If you buy only advertised items you force the non-advertiser to meet the advertising merchant's price. You help keep prices down. You make your household money go farther.

You can fight inflation by reading the ads and by buying only advertised goods.

Says General Eisenhower Can't Refuse

Elliott Roosevelt Says Columbia Pres. Would Accept Nomination

Elliott Roosevelt said tonight Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower could not refuse a true draft movement at the Democratic National Convention next month.

The American people will be sorely disappointed if the best men that our political system can produce will be a choice between Dewey, Truman and Wallace.

Roosevelt said it was his impression that the American people are completely dissatisfied with the record of the Truman administration. He also said the American voters would like to reject the Dewey-Warren ticket.

"I say that if the progressive Democrats of the North and the conservative Democrats of the South unite and declare their intention of nominating this man, Eisenhower prior to the convention, and they demonstrate that this is a true draft movement, representing the desire of the vast majority of the Republicans as well, then he cannot refuse such a mandate from the people."

Albert W. Noonan, Chicago tax expert, speaking before the tax commissioners observed that some Kentucky counties were too poor to support a good assessment system and offered the suggestion that sparsely populated counties in Kentucky should voluntarily merge for property assessment purposes.

H. Clyde Reeves, Commissioner of Revenue, pointed out that the Commonwealth receives little revenue from local property taxes. The interest of
