New York Baritone To Perform In Area

The Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council in cooperation with John Brock, superintendent of Rowan County schools will bring baritone Forrest Lorey of New York City to four area schools next week. He has traveled extensively through-out Kentucky instructing students and calling his appearances "Informances" because he feels it is more of an informal informing of the students as to what singing and opera are all about. All performances are free and open to the public.

School Schedule

The schedule for the schools is as follows:

Dec 3 - Farmers, 10 a.m., Elliottsville, 2 p.m.

Dec 5 - Clearfield, 10 a.m., Haldeman, 2 p.m.

Dec 6 - Tilton Hogge, 10 a.m.

Dec 7 - Morehead Grade, 10 a.m.

Lorey will also appear on a program for advent on Dec 3 at the First Christian Church's regular Sunday morning worship service through the cooperation of the Arts Council. He will also present a program of advent music at the regular Sunday night vespers on Dec. 3 at the United Methodist Church.

MSU Master Class

At 3 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, he will give a Master Class at Morehead State University's Baird Recital Hall.

The class will be on a college level and all students wanting more information should contact Mrs. Vassie Vencetoz of the music department.

Lorey is sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

He is the 1978-79 Affiliate Artist presented by the Kentucky Opera Association in Louisville.

36 Operatic Roles

Since his professional singing debut in 1972-73 he has performed more than 35 operatic roles with his country's leading regional audiences.

A native of Oklahoma, Lorey began his musical training on violin at age eight.

His interest turned to choral and vocal music and after winning the Southwest Young Artist Competition in 1983, he received a full scholarship to the Manhattan School of music.

While in New York, he became a member of the Metropolitan Opera Studio, performed with the Brno Opera and traveled south to appear with Asolo Opera in Sarasota, Fla.

The event will be held at Radar Hall 112.

Numerous Businesses Vandalized

City police say they expect to file criminal mischief charges on two suspects early this week in regard to acts of vandalism that occurred last weekend across town.

Friday night Carl's TV, University Cinema, Don McKenzie Ford, Inc., Kentucky Fried Chicken, Larry Fannin Chevrolet, a police cruiser and a car parked in Pasques parking lot had glass windows or doors shot out by what may have been a b-b gun.

Saturday, the Ornamental Iron (located at the former site of Jack Winter's grocery) and Morehead Furniture and Appliance reported the same type of vandalism.

Only two places reported estimates on property loss: University Cinema figured $200 for a plate glass door, while Don McKenzie Ford cited $50 for three small windows and one large plate glass.

Police told the News that other places may have been damaged with owners failing to report the acts.

Weather

The forecast for today calls for diminishing cloudiness and cooler with little rain expected. Highs will be in the upper 50s.

The extended outlook predicts fair weather with below normal temperatures Wednesday and cloudy with chance of showers Thursday.

Diminishing cloudiness and showers ending Friday.

Wednesday's temperatures will be highs in the low to mid 40s and lows in the low 30s.

City Will Begin Enforcement Of Dog Law; Rabies Reported

The city dog ordinance will be rigidly enforced beginning this week.

Police Chief Mike Hall said Monday that due to rabies alert in Rowan County, city police officers will aid the dog warden in picking up strays.

JFK Film Shows Two Suspects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At about 12:24 p.m. on Nov. 22, 1963, an amateur photographer casually shot eight seconds of film in Dallas to try out a new movie camera.

Now 15 years later Oklahoma Charles Bronson's film is complicating the closing weeks of the House Assassination Committee's investigation into the death of John F. Kennedy.

Film technician Robert J. Groden gave reporters a look at the movie Sunday afternoon and then took it to Capitol Hill to show the committee's experts.

Groden, an assassination buff who has testified before the committee, said the film unquestionably shows at least two persons at the generally accepted sniper site minutes before the fatal shooting.

But reporters who viewed the film — and blowups of key frames — saw only blurred, unconvincing images at the sixth floor windows of the Texas School Book Depository Building.

"The fact that there's movement in two windows that are separated by a good eight feet ... indicates beyond question that there was more than one person up there," Groden said.

The Hope Lawn, N.J., photo specialist, an avowed believer in a conspiracy to kill Kennedy, called on the House committee to arrange for computer enhancement to bring out more details of the film.

The panel, which is winding up a two-year, $5 million investigation, appeared headed — at least until now — toward endorsing the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald alone killed Kennedy.

Witnesses already have explained away an assortment of suspicious film images — including one pointed out by Groden — as shadows and tricks of light.

The newly uncovered film — shot with a wide-angle lens by Bron on an Ada, Okla., metallurgist six minutes before the assassination — shows what appears to be movement involving vague images at three sixth-floor windows.

"We have here photographic evidence. This is new, that there were indeed two people there," Groden said.

"If any dog is running loose," Hall said, "it will be picked up and the owners will be cited in District Court."

"For the safety of the community the ordinance will be rigidly enforced, Hall continued.

He added that anyone who is missing a dog for a couple of days can contact the dispatcher at city hall and will be directed to the proper channels in retrieving the dog.

The strict enforcement will continue until at least the first of the year and possibly after, depending on the rabies alert.

Two positive cases of rabies were identified in Rowan County last week both of which occurred in skunks.

The Rowan County Health Center has scheduled a Rabies Immunization Clinic from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday at the back parking lot of the center located at 552 West Sun Street.

Dr. Ralph Derricks, veterinarian, will administer the vaccinations.

All pet owners, whose pets have not received rabies vaccinations, are urged to take them to the clinic. The charge will be $3 for each animal.

The health department is advising people to avoid contact with skunks, foxes, raccoons and other wild animals.

The department also released the following symptoms of animals with rabies:

Extremely friendly, extremely aggressive and hostile, uncoordinated muscle spasms or staggering, foaming of the mouth, inability to swallow or drink water, any form of abnormal behavior and appearance of blindness.

ST. LOUIS, MO., UPI — One third of the nation's urban residents would move away from their cities if given the chance, according to a survey conducted from the National League of Cities.

Crime was given as the major reason for dissatisfaction with the cities. Overcrowding, unemployment, dirt, pollution, traffic congestion and poor schools were also mentioned as reasons.

PARIS, UPI — Richard Nixon held a private 90-minute discussion with his former White House Chief of Staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, here Sunday. Haig stopped in Paris to talk with Nixon who has agreed to tape a question and answer program today on the government-owned television network. Nixon says he plans to visit old friends in France where he still holds the image of an international figure.

MEXICO CITY, UPI — Rather than dog bites man, it was woman bites woman, Bertha Rojas, a worker of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, said she was walking down a street in a Mexico City suburb when seven women attacked her, hitting her, scratching her face and biting her arms. Three of the assailants arrested told authorities they were relatives of the woman and said she was spreading gossip about their personal lives.

Singles Buying Homes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Young, unmarried men and women increasingly are buying houses to prove to their employers they are stable and reliable, a mortgage insurance company president says.

Singles have moved so decidedly into the housing market, said Jackson W. Goss, president of Tiger Investors Mortgage Insurance Co. of Boston, that he predicts they will make up 20 percent of all home purchasers during the next two years.

"We predict that approximately one out of every five homes sold in 1979 and 1980 will be purchased by singles," Goss said.

"This is quite a development when one remembers that 10 years ago singles represented less than 4 percent of the market and that five years ago the same group counted for one of every 10 buyers."

A new survey of single persons in the 24 to 29 age bracket indicated that purchasing a home was the "No. 1 priority on their must-have list," Goss said.

Highlights of the survey:

- Young singles said owning a home indicated to their peers, employers and business associates a credible picture of stability. This was particularly important in convincing employers that singles are stable people.
- Young people are quite aware of the tax saving and equity investment involved in owning a home. The survey found this was particularly true of young women, who "showed a keen understanding of finances."
- Singles favor buying a townhouse over other structures because it provides privacy while allowing for "as much social contact as the owner desires." They feel a townhouse is more efficient, has more conveniences and is easier to maintain. A townhouse also represents the best buy.
- The survey indicated that by 1980 as many young unmarried women would be interested in buying a home as young unmarried men.

"JACK AND THE BEAN STALK" — This tense scene is from Vincent Anthony's Vagabond Marionettes production of the children's classic, "Jack and the Bean Stalk," to be performed at 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. Friday at Morehead State University's Botton Auditorium.

American Luxury Car Surviving In Market

DETROIT (UPI) — The American luxury car, a landcruising behemoth and symbol of middle class affluence, is surviving the stampede to smaller, more fuel efficient and austere cars and is gaining ground in the U.S. auto market.

Industry figures show since 1970, sales of domestic and foreign-built luxury cars in the United States have climbed 86 percent, compared with a 25 percent gain in the overall car market.

While small cars clearly dominate the industry with 44 percent of all U.S. car sales last year, luxury cars — Cadillacs, Lincolns, Mercedes Benz and others — raised their share from 3.4 percent eight years ago to 5.1 percent in the 1978 model year.

"People want luxury — it's as simple as that," one industry analyst said. "And if they can afford it, they'll buy it."

In 1970, four years before the Arab oil embargo and the onset of government-mandated fuel economy standards, U.S. motorists bought more than 212,000 luxury cars — both domestic and foreign makes. Total car sales that year amounted to slightly more than nine million.

By the end of the 1978 model year, luxury car sales had swelled to 579,000 units of more than 11 1/2 million cars of all types.

Cadillac, perpetual sales leader in luxury sedans, accounted for nearly 349,000 of the 1978 sales with its DeVille, Eldorado and Seville models — a 63 percent increase over 1970.

Ford Motor Co. sold 184,300 Lincolns — the Continental, Versailles and Mark V — a 226 percent gain since 1970.

Foreign carmakers sold about 48,000 units, with Mercedes raising its deliveries 57 percent.

"There's an encouraging growth in the luxury car market, with an ever-widening range and steadily increasing number of luxury car buyers," said Edward C. Kennard, general manager of General Motors' Cadillac division.

Ford Vice President Bennett E. Bidwell said the growth reflected a "long-term increase in family income and is very much the same pattern we see in other industries."

"There are more air-conditioned homes, vacation trips, two-oven kitchens and other comfort and convenience goods than ever before," Bidwell said.

While the volume of luxury car sales was growing larger, however, the cars themselves on the average were becoming smaller in deference to changing consumer tastes and federal requirements for better fuel economy.

Ford introduced a smaller Lincoln, the Versailles, in 1977 but retained the traditional size in its Continental and Mark V. Cadillac unveiled the compact-size Seville in 1975, reduced the size of the full-size Cadillac in 1977 and downsized the Eldorado for the 1979 model year.

Mercedes Benz and some other European luxury carmakers have produced relatively small cars for many years.

What's really happened is that the so-called luxury car now comes in several sizes and shapes, and this is where a big share of the growth has come, Ford's Bidwell said.

Peace Talks Drag

An Israeli report from Cairo said today that Egypt may offer to extend Israel's interim withdrawal from the Sinai from nine to 12 months if the Israelis agree to a timetable for settlement in the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

The Jerusalem Post said in a dispatch the proposal is part of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's reassessment of Cairo's position following Israel's rejection of a demand to include a timetable in the peace treaty.

The report followed a statement by Sadat that peace negotiations may drag beyond the Dec. 17 target date for an agreement but that "sooner or later" a treaty will be signed.

Quoting a source close to Sadat, the Jerusalem Post said Egypt was prepared to draw up a provision in the treaty ensuring against abolishment of the pact if the autonomy plan cannot be fulfilled within a year.

The source also pressed the idea of applying the autonomy plan first to the Gaza Strip — as a model for its subsequent application to the West Bank, the newspaper report said.

Under the terms of the draft treaty Israel is to pull out of the Sinai desert in two stages, the first to be completed nine months after the signing of the pact.

Israel agreed to this but rejected a proposal that autonomy be set up in the West Bank and Gaza in nine months. Israel argued linking the treaty to a timetable could mean Egypt would withhold other provisions of the pact until autonomy was achieved.

Israel offered instead to begin negotiations on a timetable after the treaty is signed.

In Cairo today a high-level committee, headed by Vice President Husni Mubarak, met for two hours to complete a report on the latest Egyptian position in the deadlocked peace treaty negotiations with Israel.

The report will be submitted to Sadat Tuesday and then sent to President Carter through diplomatic channels.

Glorious Natural Beauty of Poinsettia Plants Creates Exotic and Colorful Yuletide Displays

The great celebration of Christmas inspires the most extravagant decorations, among them "brilliant and beautiful poinsettia displays." These large, exotic flowers, used to decorate homes and churches in Mexico at Christmas, were introduced to the United States by Joel Roberts Poinsett, our first Ambassador to Mexico. He brought the plants home to his greenhouses in South Carolina, more than 100 years ago.

Joel Poinsett propagated these vivid plants which he called "Painted Leaves," and sent cuttings to botanists and nurserymen all over the country. Although they were later named "Poinsettia" in his honor, his original name more accurately describes them with their flaming red petals surrounding small red, yellow and green flowers.

In their wild state in tropical Mexico and Central America, poinsettias are tall, rangy shrubs growing thirty feet tall and blooming irregularly. Horticulturists have, over the years, developed shorter bushy plants that bloom profusely in time for the holiday season. Cuttings for thousands of flats all over the world have come from commercial greenhouse growers in the United States, making poinsettia a true international Christmas symbol.

Glorious poinsettia displays are part of the holiday season. Elaborate exhibits are presented at the Planting Fields Arboretum in Oyster Bay, and the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, Brooklyn, both in New York.

Some two thousand poinsettia blossoms are featured in the hothouse at the Planting Fields Arboretum. Dramatic red varieties are set off by additional plants in white, pink, pink with white stripes and a dazzling newcomer "Jingle Bells," which is pink with red flecks. Some are grown as tall tree-like plants with a full circle of blooms atop a four foot stem. Others are trained with graceful branches that hang handsomely from baskets.

A free standing Christmas "tree," formed by over one thousand poinsettia plants, in assorted colors, stars at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden. Many of the varieties in the show have never been seen by the public before. Almost three thousand flowers in reds, pinks and white brighten the winter scene. The annual display is open to the public through the end of January.

Visitors from many places bring to these festive exhibits adding to the natural wonder of their holiday celebration.

Instant Photography Captures Holiday Memories To Cherish

STOCKING STUFFERS

Many people put off buying small stocking stuffers until the very last minute. Christmas stockings are as much a part of the holiday as decorating the tree, family dinners and gifts, and should be chosen with that in mind. How about some of the following?

- Mini-puzzles for children and adults.
- Finger puppets for the little kids. Imaginative ones available in stores or try crocheting them yourself.
- Key chains with appropriate hobby charms or nameplate.
- Small change purse or miniature bank.
- Toasty sleep-socks rolled into a colorful ball.
- Art supplies, box of crayons, safety scissors.
- Soft sculpture dolls.
- Pretty hair barretts.
- Multi-purpose Swiss knife.

When you take self-developing pictures at Christmas your whole family can see the magic of color images emerging on a blank print! Children love watching them develop and appreciative relatives treat them as something special when you send them as thank you notes.

If you already have an instant camera you can capture the complete holiday mood starting before the actual day. Shoot the family selecting your tree and decorating it with bright ornaments.

Or will this be the year you ask Santa for an instant camera? If so, let's hope he remembers to mark the package "open me first" so you can begin photographing when all the excitement starts.

Here are some suggestions from Kodak photo experts. They'll help you take good pictures with the least amount of work.

- Tell a complete beginning-to-end story by starting with shots of the youngsters in front of a pile of unopened presents and closing as they are tucked in bed.
- Check your background for distractions before pressing the shutter release. Undesirable clutter can often be eliminated by shooting from another direction or moving closer to your subject.
- Add variety and impact to your pictures by shooting from different angles and distances.
- For interesting pictures photograph when your subjects are doing something... opening gifts, enjoying dinner, playing with toys, arriving at your home.

QUICK'N EASY INDIVIDUAL FRUITCAKES

These tiny, individual fruitcakes can be made about a week in advance and put away in a covered container until you're ready to serve them. You'll need: one 1 pound fruit cake (dark), 1/2 cup confectioners sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 teaspoon cocoa, 6 to 8 teaspoons water. Place wire rack over waxed paper, extending paper a little beyond rack. Cut fruit cake into 1 inch cubes with sharp knife and stand on rack. In a bowl mix the sugar, cocoa, vanilla, and water until thick and smooth. Drizzle over fruit cake squares, covering top and sides as it runs down. Top each square with a piece of candied fruit or a pecan half. Let stand an hour to set before storing in a covered container. Approximately 24 pieces.

Sweet Treat . . . Rose Petal Jelly

"A rose is a rose is a rose" can be turned into Gertrude Stein, celebrated poetess. Not always so, when its rich red petals can be according to all that rare treat . . . rose petal jelly.

If you remember the delicate taste and fragrance of rose petal jelly from when you were a child, you'll welcome this almost forgotten recipe. If you have never tasted it, try this easy recipe for a new and delightful taste experience.

Put two quarts of fresh rose petals into a large bowl and cover with 1 quart boiling water. Cover the bowl and steep for 20 minutes. Strain into a wide, shallow pan. Add 3 teaspoons of lemon juice. 4 cups of sugar and cook over medium heat until the sugar is dissolved, stirring constantly. When mixture passes the jelly test (two drops flow together in a metal spoon) skim and pour into hot, sterile jars and cover with paraffin.

Enjoy this fragrant jelly on biscuits.

A Traditional Christmas Dinner Features Delicious Roast Goose

A savory, fat roast goose has long been the favorite choice for a traditional Christmas dinner. Filled with delectable fruit stuffing it becomes a sumptuous gourmet treat as well.

ROAST GOOSE WITH APPLE-PRUNE STUFFING

1 Goose—18-19 lbs.
Stuffing recipe below
Salt and pepper to taste
1 clove of garlic
1 cup coarsely chopped celery
1 cup coarsely chopped onions
1/2 cup coarsely chopped carrots
1 bay leaf
1 cup water

Preheat oven to 400 degrees—goose will take approximately 3 hours to cook. Fill goose with stuffing, truss and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place bird breast side up in shallow roasting pan and bake 1 hour. Baste occasionally. Pour excess fat off and add the garlic, celery, onions, carrots and bay leaf all around the goose. Cook one hour more, basting frequently. If goose looks like it's getting too brown, cover with aluminum foil. Continue roasting for one last hour, then remove goose to serving platter. Drain fat from roasting pan, add the cup of water and stir, scraping brown bits from sides and bottom of pan. Strain to serve as gravy. Remove trussing carve. Makes 10 generous servings.

APPLE-PRUNE STUFFING

1 goose liver, 1 heart and 1 gizzard
3 Tablespoons butter
1 clove of garlic, chopped finely
2 1/2 cups onions finely chopped
2 cups finely chopped celery
1 cup finely chopped parsnips
1 bay leaf
1 Tablespoon chopped sage
1 teaspoon chopped thyme
1 egg white, well beaten
1/2 oz. hot bottled prunes, chopped
6 cups apples, peeled, pitted and sliced into thin wedges
2 lightly beaten egg yolks
2 cups coarse bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste

Trim all outer coating of gizzard, remove veins from liver. Thoroughly blend pieces of heart, liver and gizzard in food processor or electric blender. Heat butter in large, heavy skillet, add onions and celery, cooking until glassy. Add liver mixture. Mix and add garlic, parsnips, bay leaf, sage, thyme and wine. Cook about 10 minutes, stirring all the while. Add remaining ingredients and using hands blend well. Cool, fill goose, then proceed with goose recipe.

Be inventive when planning the other dishes for your grand feast and make this a really memorable meal!

PIPE CLEANERS HELP TRIM-A-TREE

Pipe cleaners in colors are a boon when trimming a tree. They're great for attaching lights and cords to branches, can be bent to use as ornament hangers, remain reinforcing sticks to limp branches, and when curled in a spiral make an attractive trim themselves. Some enterprising folk shape them into little figures to hang as original ornaments!

Store your lovely Christmas ornaments in clean cartons from the liquor store. The dividers separate, and protect them when they're tucked away. A little tissue around each will keep it whole until next year.

Energy Plantings

UK researchers experiment with black locust as fuel source

By AVERY JENKINS

Concern over the diminishing supply of coal and natural gas has prompted a new look at wood fiber as a fuel source, says a University of Kentucky associate professor of forestry.

Dr. Stan Carpenter will use a recent grant of $317,656 from the U. S. Department of Energy to do research on production of wood fiber from trees on reclaimed land at strip mine sites.

Carpenter and his associates, Dr. Don Graves and Dr. Robert Wittwer, UK department of forestry, will be experimenting with "energy plantings" over the next five years. The project is divided into two parts studying the existing growth of trees on reclaimed land, and planting numerous kinds of test plants to learn the optimum conditions for growing black locust trees, hardy trees that do well under less than ideal conditions.

"Black locust has been used very little as a commercial product, other than for farm fence posts, and the metal post has taken over much of that market in recent years," Carpenter said. "As a source of heat, however, the black locust does well.

Dr. Stan Carpenter, left, and research associate Bob Eigel, are researching wood fiber as a fuel source.

It grows rapidly, reaching as high as 10 feet in two years, and its potential BTU output is high."

After the root system has been established, crops can be harvested every few years. When a tree is cut, the stump is left to produce secondary growth that can be harvested in a few years. The regenerative factor gives wood fiber a unique advantage in relation to other fuel sources, such as coal and natural gas.

Wood harvested from the energy plantings would be sold as chips rather than wood logs. Whole trees, seasoned or unseasoned, can be chipped into small particles by huge machines. The wood can be burned while still green if placed in especially adapted furnaces that remove the moisture content as a part of the burning process.

The green wood fiber is sometimes mixed with coal and burned as a fuel, Carpenter said. Experiments at coal-fired steam plants (for generating electricity) have shown that mixing wood fiber with coal helps to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions. (Under certain conditions, sulfur dioxide can seriously damage crops in fields near generating plants.)

Carpenter and Bob Eigel, a research associate, are supervising a team of graduate students in forestry who are taking test samples from 72 mining sites where black locust trees are now growing. They will determine the amount of dry weight in tons per acre that can be produced on strip mined land. Some sites will produce approximately 1.2 tons per acre annually, Carpenter said.

Samples of the tree trunk, leaves and branches are ground up and checked in a laboratory analysis for BTU potential. Soil samples will also be collected from each of the two sites, Mountain Drive Coal Co., near Middlesboro, and the Falcon Coal Co., near Jackson.

Two energy plantations will be established this fall at the mining sites.

Fleming Will Have Pepper Station

FLEMINGSBURG — The Ewing-Fleming County Fairgrounds will serve as a pepper receiving station come next August, according to Hubert Davis, field supervisor for Moody Dunbar, Inc., of Limestone, Tenn.

Davis made the announcement last Tuesday after touring several possible pepper receiving sites with County Agent for Agriculture Jim Mabry.

Bob Jones, treasurer and co-owner of the Fair Co., will serve as station manager (for the pepper company). Jones will be assisted by other owners J.L. Kachier and Russell Saunders.

The pepper program in Fleming County has been in effect for the last 10 years. A total of 260 acres of peppers were contracted last year through the extension office. The number of acres of peppers doubled from 1977 with 120 acres contracted to the 1978 figure of 260 acres.

"We estimate, with the pepper receiving station being in Fleming County that we will have about 400 acres contracted for the next season," Mabry said. "The receiving station at Owingsville wasn't convenient for many of the farmers here," he added.

He continued, "The fairgrounds is a made-to-order site. There are already scales there and plenty of parking space. They will only have to get a fork lift to unload and to load the peppers."

Moody Dunbar furnished the crates for shipping. "After the farmer delivers the peppers, the peppers are weighed and readied for shipping," Mabry said. "The peppers leave the same day they are received or early the next day for the processing plant in Limestone."

"A good pepper producer can net more on an acre than on an acre of tobacco," Mabry said. "Mrs. Eula Skaggs had the largest pepper production in the area, as far as I know. She produced 24 tons of peppers per acre."

The average production for the southern district is 5 tons per acre while the average production for Fleming County was 10-12 tons per acre," he said.

Moody Dunbar Inc., will accept both kinds of peppers, the greens (ball, and the reds (pimento) at the fairgrounds receiving station between Ewing and Fairview.

"Pepper contracts will be available at the Extension Office in the Courthouse in two weeks," Mabry said. "Davis indicated that the price of peppers would increase in 1979."

"We are happy to see the company establish a station here as Fleming County produces approximately one third of the peppers grown in this part of the state," Mabry concluded.

Court Refuses Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today refused to consider an appeal by 73 railroads on an issue raised in the recent Norfolk & Western Railway strike which spread to other lines.

The 73 take part in "strike insurance" policies which provide financial aid to a participating member when its service is interrupted by a work stoppage.

After the Brotherhood of Railway Airline and Steamship Clerks struck Norfolk & Western last July 10, other lines participating in the mutual aid pact gave N&W financial assistance.

They went to court seeking an injunction to block the union from extending the strike to them for their part in aiding Norfolk & Western, but were unsuccessful in efforts which reached all the way to the Supreme Court.

The strike spread and closed down two-thirds of the nation's rail traffic for four days in late September before President Carter invoked emergency powers under the Railway Labor Act and ordered picketing rail employees back to work.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson, who originally turned down the railroads' request for an injunction to stop clerks from striking mutual aid participants, said a section of the Norris-LaGuardia Act deprives federal courts of jurisdiction to enjoin such action.

But in their appeal, the railroads argued that such a job action against participants in a strike insurance program is contrary to the purposes of the Railway Labor Act. They said the two laws should be "accommodated" by the courts.

Justice Lewis Powell took no part in the case.

Dear Readers: The following self-questionnaire appeared in the Harvard Medical School Health Letter of August 1978. It was printed with permission from Ayerst Laboratories and recommended as a means of self-testing for those who suspect they may have a drinking problem.

EARLY SYMPTOMS (the first stage of alcoholism):

Are you beginning to lie or feel guilty about your drinking?

Do you gulp drinks?

Do you try to have a few extra drinks before joining others in drinking?

Must you drink at certain times for example before lunch or a special event after a disappointment or quarrel?

Do you drink because you feel tired, depressed, or worried?

Are you annoyed when family or friends talk to you about your drinking?

Are you attempting to have memory blackouts and occasional passouts?

MIDDLE SYMPTOMS (an extension of early symptoms):

Are you making more promises and telling more lies about your drinking?

Are there more times when you need a drink?

When sober, do you regret what you have said or done while drinking?

Are you drinking more often alone, avoiding family or close friends?

Do you have been keeping drinking bouts and Monday hangovers?

Have you been going "on the wagon" to control your drinking?

Are memory blackouts and passouts becoming more frequent?

LATE SYMPTOMS (the advanced stage of alcoholism):

Do you drink to live and live to drink?

Do you noticeably drink on important occasions, for example, a special dinner or meeting?

Do your drinking bouts last for several days at a time?

Do you sometimes get the "shakes" in the morning and take "a quick one"?

Do blackouts and passouts now happen very often?

Have you lost concern for your family and others around you?

If you see yourself in the column today and want help, contact Alcoholics Anonymous. (Look in the phone book.)

For those who don't know: Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other in an effort to solve their common problem. The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees for AA membership. The primary purpose of an AA is to stay sober and help other alcoholics achieve sobriety.

AA does not "recruit" members. The person with the problem should call AA phones or ask for help. People who may be able to inform the caller when the next meeting in his or her neighborhood will be held and he (or she) will offer to send someone out to talk about the problem and make plans to bring the prospective member to the next

Mack Leads Creekers Past Vikings In Classic

Commodores' Lightning Quickness Too Much

By JACK KELLEY
Sports Editor

SUMMITT, Ky. — In the simplest of terms in describing Rowan County's Friday elimination from the Boyd County Holiday Classic — the Vikings (nor was anyone else for that matter) were not match for the speed of light quickness displayed by Lexington Tates Creek. And Coach Ted Trent will be the first to tell you so.

"We played poorly. Coach Trent assessed, "because I simply think they made us play poorly."

Poorly or not, the Commodores literally ran away with a 72-44 semifinal win over Rowan County and later went on to defeat host Boyd County for the tournament championship.

The lightning-fast backcourt combination of Tony Mack and Phillip Webb were just too much for anyone to handle.

Except for a stretch of just over seven minutes, spanning the end of the second quarter and the start of the third, the Vikings didn't play all that bad according to Trent. He felt like, overall, it was a good lesson for his club to learn if they have any ambitions of an extended post-season.

During those seven minutes the Commodores took a six-point first quarter margin, 17-11, and turned it into a 43-20 onslaught and the Vikings were never in sight of the leading again.

Though sheer intimidation by the quickness and leaping ability of Tates Creek would be a good out, Coach Trent points out there's no intimidation at the free throw line where the Vikings hit only eight of 12 tosses.

"And there's no intimidation there with nobody in front of you," he stated.

Yet he did admit his offensive backcourt was under heavy defensive pressure.

"We didn't handle the pressure like I thought we would," he says. "We didn't get anything accomplished thesecond half."

The most consistent play of the tournament came from junior Allen

Ravenscraft who added 12 points and seven rebounds — a team high — to his first appearance totals.

"I would say he's the guy who played with the most consistency," his coach said.

Another underclassman Trent showed praise for was Brian White who played a reserve role at forward. White came off the bench to net only four points "but I tell you that fellow played a real good ballgame and it won't show up in the statistics."

Trent said White checked Tates Creek's Bob Montgomery all night long, holding him to just 10 points on five field goals.

"He did a real good job on Montgomery and this boy from Greenup County, (Tim) Hiemenan," the coach added.

Trent was also pleased with the play Rowan County — 11 9 11 13-44 Tates Creek 17 28 12 17-72 of Jim Moore who led the Vikings in scoring with 13 points. Moore came in early for freshman Kevin Layne who started and established right off he wasn't going to be intimidated on the boards.

But the critical players list was heavy with veterans who just couldn't shake the pressure defense of the Commodores. One in particular was senior guard Joey May who, after scoring 18 points in a starring role against Greenup County in the first round, managed to net only one of seven field goal attempts and one of two charity tosses for three points.

"When Joey gets only three points," Trent said, "we can't win a ballgame."

The coach also added the name Bart Braugher to the critical playing list.

"Gee, I tell you, he's the one we're going to have to have to play against these bigger schools," Trent stated.

"His game is really suffering right now. He's not near ready to go."

Trent is well aware, however, Braugher needs several more games under his belt on the hardwood to shake the lingering football letdowns which is plaguing his play on the court.

Trent dealt high praise towards the Creekers and especially to Mack.

"I feel like he hurt us worse than anyone. He dominated the ballgame out front and he could score about anytime he wanted to," he explained.

On the night Mack was the Commodores second leading scorer with 18 points, hitting eight of 13 from the field for a phenomenal 62 percent.

The rest of the team was even better as Tates Creek hit 29 of 46 attempts for a burning 63.1 clip.

Phillip Webb lead all scorers with 20 points while Jim Cromwell had 11 and Montgomery had 10.

NOT MUCH TO CHEER ABOUT — Things were pretty quiet on the Rowan County bench Friday night as the Vikings fell victim to Lexington Tates Creek in the semi-finals of the Boyd County Holiday Classic. The Vikings reached the second round with a 60-31 win over Greenup County before falling to the Commodores 72-44. Tates Creek eventually won the tournament. (Staff Photo)

Mid-State Tourny Opens Tomorrow Night

Bath County won't have any time to waste in the Mid-State Tournament this week at Richmond.

The Wildcats go against Clark County, the team coach Gary Taylor picked as the favorite in Thursday's first game.

"Franklin County also has a good ballclub," he does Madison Central, Taylor said. "Right now I'd put them in that order — Clark County, Franklin County and Madison Central."

The tourney starts Wednesday, with Franklin County taking on Bourbon County at 7 p.m., and Montgomery County going against Scott County after that.

Following the Clark County-Bath County game Thursday at 7, Estill County will take on Madison Central.

Taylor has no doubt that Clark County will give his team a rough time. They don't have anyone that played football," he explained.

"We have two starters from football. They also are a couple of weeks of practice ahead of us."

Taylor had a chance to see the Cardinals play, recently, and described them as being "almost in mid-season form" in terms of timing.

Taylor then talked about his game plans. "Hopefully, we can play pressure defense. We'll try to pressure them a bit, keep them out on the perimeter, and keep them out of the inside. On offense, we need to work it, and get the good percentage shot."

"After the Mid-State Tournament, Bath County will travel to Paris Tuesday, then will again face Clark County the following Friday, December 8.

Breck Hosts Menifee County Tonight

A couple of Eastern Kentucky Conference and Footbills Conference rivals will meet at Wetherby Gym tonight, when two other teams in the area will open their basketball seasons.

Menifee County will take a 5-1 record into this evening against University Breckinridge, a young team that has lost its last three games against strong competition. The Eagles have won on high-scoring sophomore Joe Dawson to come up with most of the points, and he has come through well in the early going.

"He'll probably do most of the shooting for them," said Wildcat coach Terry Young, in previewing tonight's game. "We're going to have any success against them, he's the one we'll have to watch."

Young looks for a good rebounding game from Breck, and also praised the efforts of little point-guard Mike Campbell.

Menifee County is off to a better start than even Young anticipated. "It's better than I expected for this time of year," he admitted. "It has really helped playing with each other. It's given the boys confidence. It can't do anything but help."

Young feels that his team's shooting has been a primary factor in its fast start. "We've been shooting 37 percent and all of our first five are over 50 percent. However, our biggest disadvantage has been our free-throw shooting. We can hit 85-90 percent in practice, but not in a game. I guess it's a lack of experience; they seem to tighten up in a game. It should be 80-85 percent, but it's only 70 percent."

The Wildcats have been off since November 18, when they sustained their only loss of the young campaign. What have they been working on in the meantime?

"Mostly on offense, conditioning and rebounding," Young answered. "Our defense is head of our offense this time of year. I can find no great faults in it; our defense has really come along. We need to work on our offensive timing and rebounding, some little things."

Young will put a healthy team out on the Wetherby Gym hardwood tonight. "We gave them four days off for Thanksgiving, and that gave them time for the little aches and pains to heal up. Everybody's healthy. We should be ready to play."

Starting off the season tonight will be Fleming County and Lewis County. The Panthers will play host to Paris, and the Lions will entertain East Carter in a game that will be broadcast on WKMY (7:30 airtime). The Raiders are 2-1 on the year, beating Breck and Elliott County, but losing to Lexington Tates Creek last Wednesday in the Boyd County Invitational Tournament.

County's Junior High Cage Season Begins This Week

The Rowan County Jr. High basketball season gets into full swing this week with both boys and girls teams scheduled for action.

In preseason action already played, University Breck captured this year's Lions Club tourney title, defeating Tildon Hodge 43-35 in the finals. For the Eagles, Sam Holbrook led the way with 12 points while Bill Dawson added eight. For Tildon Hodge, Dale Mabry tossed in eight points while Tony Waltz and Pat Jones had seven apiece.

In earlier rounds, Breck defeated Salt Lick, Farmers defeated Elliottville, Tildon Hodge downed Clearfield and Haldeman eliminated Rowan County. In the second rounds, Breck beat Farmers and Tildon Hodge eased past Haldeman to set up the finals.

Below is a list of scheduled games. The date is not necessarily the day of the game but the week in which the game must be played.

With some help from junior high coaches and school officials, the MOREHEAD NEWS hopes to keep track of all the scores of both the boys and girls games as well as list the most up to date standings and league's leading scorers with a weekly Junior High Scoreboard.

Lady Eagles Capture Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio — The Cincinnati Classic was the first big test for Morehead State women's basketball team, and the Lady Eagles passed it with flying colors.

The Lady Eagles swept past Illinois, 80-72, and Kent State, 79-57, to take the tournament championship. Not even Coach Mickey Wells expected his young squad, which starts three freshmen and two juniors, to do so well.

"If someone had told me a few weeks ago that we would be 3-0 right now, I wouldn't have believed them," Wells said. "I didn't think they would mature that fast."

"In starting off with three straight road games a team will either grow-up or fold. They really proved their skill."

Even without Donna Murphy set the pace with 24 points and 15 rebounds, while freshman guard Robin Harmon hit for 18 points.

Freshmen center Donna Stephens added 10 points.

The Lady Eagles grabbed an early lead, and led throughout the contest. MSU held a 43-47 halftime lead, an continued to build on its lead in the second half for the final 89-72 margin.

The victory allowed MSU to play in the championship game against Kent State, who defeated Cincinnati.

In the first half against Kent State, MSU could only trade baskets with the Lady Flashes but in the second half, the Lady Eagle defense came alive.

"Our offense has never been a problem. We've always been able to score," said Wells. "I don't think they realized until the Kent State game that they needed to play defense."

In the second half, MSU outscored Kent State, 45-25 for a 79-57 win.

Murphy once again led the way with 28 points and 16 rebounds.

Harmon added 17 points and seven assists, and freshman guard Irene Moore hit for 15 more.

"Illinois and Kent State both had good teams last year, and we were outsize by both of them," said Wells. "But our team this year doesn't let that intimidate them."

"We were playing schools with 25 and 35 thousand students who didn't even know where Morehead was — but they will not."

Donna Murphy was selected the tournament's most valuable player but no other MSU player was selected to the all-tournament team.

MSU's next game will be Saturday, Dec. 2 against Morris Harvey. Game time is 7 p.m. in Wetherby Gymnasium.

Lady Vikings Fall To Strong Rebounding Boyd County

CANNONSBURG, KY. — Rowan County's young, but experienced, Lady Vikings got a preview of what it's going to take to win... at least continue to remain at the top of the 16th region heap as one of the three favorites. The Lady Vikings met perennially strong Boyd County last Friday in the girls' half of the Boyd County Honey Classic held at Boyd County High School.

Rowan County lost, 57-45, in its first big clash of the season with one of its sister favored, Boyd County. Coach Pam Traylor will tell you right now, as she similarly advertising at the end of the regionals last year, it wasn't easy beating the Lady Vikings.

Coach Claudia Hicks reasoned her team lost the battle in two areas — rebounding and free throws.

"Actually, the difference in the game was the physical aspect," Coach Hicks explained. "That's something we'll have to contend with if we expect to go to state."

Rowan County was outrebounded by a whopping 57-38, margin by the Lady Lions with senior center Melanie May doing most of the damage. May pulled down a total of 19 rebounds for Boyd County, a dozen off the offensive boards. It was one of the main reasons she shared in team-high scoring honors at 14 points along with Mindy Boggs and Garnet Meeks.

Another crucial area for the Lady Vikings was in their free throw shooting where they made only half of their 18 tries.

"This is something we don't normally do," Coach Hicks stated.

The coach said the final score is actually misleading cause the Lady Vikings were within four points with three minutes to go before Boyd County went into a stall.

"We had to start fouling them to try and get the ball back," the coach explained, "and they didn't miss from the free throw line."

Hicks dealt high praise toward freshman Carla May who she said "was sensational."

"She came out and hit a very high free throw percentage and high field goal percentage," she stated.

May was seven of 12 from the field and five of 12 from the bonus stripe for 19 points to lead all scorers. She was the only Lady Viking reaching double figures as Melanie Stinson had eight and Jeannie Corlette and Tammy Collins both added seven points.

"We feel we're not real disappointed cause Boyd County is one of the best teams we'll play this season," Coach Hicks said. "And they won the tournament (beating Russell) so the way it looks we're not far behind."

She feels when it comes right down to it they had "basically a bad game against Boyd County."

Boyd County's Coach Traylor felt her team was also off.

"We didn't shoot well," she was quoted as saying. "We rebounded well but we didn't do some other things well."

Besides May, Coach Hicks also felt Corlette came around after a bad game against Menifee County on Monday. One of the areas she's found she must work on in practice is getting the girls, especially Stinson under the boards, to be more physical. She also wants to work Debbie Dehart, her tallest player on the roster, into the lineup more often where she can provide more height.

"We feel like we made a good showing," Hicks concluded.

INTIMIDATION, NOT IN MOORE'S VOCABULARY — Senior center Jim Moore seemed uneasily distracted from his appointed duty of scoring two points Friday night despite the efforts of the outstretched Phillip Webb of Lexington Tates Creek. Moore, who's only been in seven practices since the end of football season, scored 13 points against the C&M doormen, hitting six of 10 shots from the field but only one of five free throws. Menifee County—On the Way to the Top

Young Says His Wildcats Are Improving Faster Than Expected

By TED SLOAN
Sports Writer

The upgraded basketball program at Menifee County is improving faster than expected, according to second-year coach Terry Young.

Menifee County only recently tipped off a junior high basketball program, and Young feels that it will be another year or two before it begins to affect the varsity. In the past, the Wildcats have had players entering the high school ranks who had barely touched a roundball before.

Some progress was registered last season. The Wildcats won seven and lost 15 in Young's rookie year at the helm, but advanced as far as regional play, which Young described as a "big boost. Our team is coming along faster than I figured," Young added, "but it'll take time."

Young's hopes for the coming season show evidence of the improvement his team has made. "We hope to break even this year," said the tall pilot earlier this month.

The strengths and weaknesses on his club would pan out to about a 500 finish. The Wildcats have some experience, but lost both starting guards from a year ago. Anthony Wells and Todd Trimble. Replacing them will be Dennis Harper, a 6-1 senior who Young calls "our best shooter, and probably our best player," and junior Roger Williams, a "pure shooter."

Williams checks in at six feet tall, so the Wildcats figure to have good size at the guard positions, but hardly anywhere else. Center Ken Mullins and forward Steve Powell are both 6-1, and senior forward Vester Carly stands 5-11.

The biggest player on the Menifee County roster will see a lot of time on the bench—freshman Robert Wells, a 6-4, 210-pounder. Others among Young's most prominent subs are 5-10 sophomore Terry Stull, who Young describes as the quickest member of his team and a "real shooter;" six-foot sophomore Ricky Bottom; and 5-8 junior John Cobb.

Young believes his team's weakest points will be ball-handling, with the loss of Wells and Trimble; and rebounding, with no outstanding side-arm starters, although Harper is an excellent leaper. Among the strong points are quickness, defensive ability,

Menifee County Wildcats

Due to circumstances beyond our control there will not be a basketball tabloid published by The Morehead News. A heavy schedule of priority press runs has forced us to cancel the tab this season.

Instead, for the next several issues, area teams will be previewed in our regular sports section. Again, we sincerely regret the circumstances.

Menifee County Lady 'Cats

'Cats In Rebuilding Year Under New Coach

Rookie coach Kathy Coleman will be attempting to take some talented raw materials and construct a winning basketball team between now and March.

Her girls' basketball team won only twice in 11 games last season, and those wins both came against Riverside. However, the Ladycats lost only one player from a year ago, and they do have a little height to work with, along with girls that Coleman described as being in "very good shape. They're all good athletes. They ran cross-country, and did well.

A trio of juniors will lead the way. Center Brenda Walker, the tallest girl on the team at 5-7, figures to start at the pivot, even though she saw little action last season. Tina Brown will handle the playmaking chores, and Joy Harper completes the threesome.

The other two starting spots are up for grabs among four sophomores: Angie Brown (5-6), Monica Tadlock (5-4), Sheila Mullins (5-5), and Rhonda

Stiltner (5-3). "I don't know who will play from game to game," Coleman said of the four. "They all work real hard. They surprise me every game."

The inexperience of the Ladycats is the most glaring sore that Coleman hopes to cure during the season. "Some of our girls haven't played any basketball at all," she said, "for what they've done, they've done very well."

Even a polished team strives to work out its bugs during the regular season in time for post-season play, and this is especially true of the Lady cats. "We may be able by the end of the year," Coleman said. "That's what I'm counting on."

Coleman, a newcomer to this area, admitted to being somewhat in the dark about the level of competition in the region, but added that she expects a tough time for district rivals Elliott County, Breck, and West Carter.

Menifee County had a 1-3 record in the young season entering this week's action.

Elliott County Returns Veteran Cage Teams

Adkins Returns Three Starters From Last Year's Squad

By TED SLOAN
Sports Writer

Coach Jesse Adkins enters his second year as girls' basketball coach at Elliott County minus three starters who helped his team finish 11-8 last year.

The two coming back are both starters at the all-important guard positions. Joetta (5-5-1) and Rhonda Isen (5-6-1). The rest of the team is made up of several sophomores, averaging a little taller than the normal for this area. They include Dorothy Hubbard (5-8, G), Martha Litton (6-7, F), Bridgett Skaggs (5-5), Kim Harper (5-5), Sandra Isen (5-5, F), Penny Harper (5-4, G), Gail Griffith (5-4, F), Miss Stevens (5-3, G), Rhonda Lewis, and Millie Sloan.

Adkins believes defense will be his team's biggest strength, and that stands to reason, with height in the front and experience in the back. He is most concerned about his team's shooting ability.

For a pre-season forecast, Adkins believes East Carter will be the team to beat in district play, and picks Ashland by a nose over Boyd County in regional play. Rowan County gets the nod as Adkins' choice in the Eastern Kentucky

Conference. The veteran coach, who skipped Elliott County's boys' team for eight seasons, feels that his Lady Lions "will be able to play with most teams" on his schedule. They set out to prove him right, with three victories in four tries in the early going, including the championship of the Foothills Tournament. Elliott County's next meets Rowan County Monday.

Coach Mays' Biggest Project—Replace 54 Points In Offense With Adkins, Salyers Gone

by TED SLOAN
Sports Writer

Head coach Rick Mays of Elliott County describes the basketball situation in Sandy Hook best: his team has to make up 54 points from last season.

Those 54 points came from Rocky Adkins and Joe Salyers during the 1977-78 season. Both have since graduated, and Adkins has gone on to play college roundball at Morehead State University.

That missing scoring will have to be made up primarily by a large group of relatively inexperienced juniors and seniors. Juniors Billy Griffith and Jerry Lewis and senior Jerry Sturgill make up a somewhat sizeable front line. Lewis is listed at six feet, 3 1/2 inches, while Griffith checks in at 6-3, and Sturgill measures 6-2. Seniors David Adkins and David Gilliam will start in the backcourt. Senior Carl Simmons, and juniors Kyle Faulkner and Joe Adams will be the main men off the bench for Mays.

The fifth-year Lions coach believes inexperience will hurt his team most, caused by the loss of Adkins and Salyers. On the other hand, size will be a big plus for Elliott County. Along with the three starting front-liners, David Gilliam will take a 6-2 frame into a guard slot, while 6-3 sophomore Steve Gilliam will come off the bench.

Mays believes East Carter will be the top team in his district, and rates Greenup County the choice in the region, although he feels Ashland will play its way into contention by tourney time.

The Lions were 2-3 as they went into this week's action. They lost a squeaker to Menifee County in the Foothills and Tournament, then went on to defeat Riverside and Jackson before losing to Sheldon Clark and East Carter. Among the standouts were Faulkner, the team's leading scorer, against the Raiders; Griffith, Sturgill, and Lewis. The four shared pretty much equally in scoring through the Lion first five contests.

Elliott County must progress quickly to match its 20-8 record of last season. For Mays, who enters this season with 29 wins and 39 losses in four years, this campaign promises to be his biggest challenge.

UK engineers are testing aircraft lightning protectors

By AVERY JENKINS

Research into ways that an aircraft's sensitive electronic equipment can be protected against lightning is being conducted at the University of Kentucky College of Engineering.

Dr. L. Wilson Pearson, assistant professor of electrical engineering, has received grants from the Office of Naval Research and the National Science Foundation to conduct the research.

Pearson's work is aimed at developing methods to study what is called "transient electromagnetic radiation"—a pulse of radio energy of very short duration caused, for example, by lightning or the detonation of a nuclear device.

Despite its short duration, the pulse can do severe damage to sensitive electronic equipment in airplanes, and even equipment in installations on the ground. The damage can "blind" navigation equipment or silence communications equipment.

A "ground plane" structure for Pearson's research has been attached to the outside wall of Anderson Hall, UK's College of Engineering building. The aluminum frame, which measures 18 feet by 20 feet, is bolted to the west wall at the sixth floor. It will be used for both instructional purposes and for the research in transient electromagnetic radiation. The structure provides a large, flat surface which is a good conductor of electricity and will act as a "mirror" for electromagnetic waves.

"Some people have gotten the wrong impression recently about the so-called harmful effects of radio waves," Pearson said. "I should point out that the work we are doing is harmless. We are emitting quite low level waves. No one will be injured or exposed to anything that would have an adverse affect on health."

Pearson explained that his work will be done on scale model aircraft which should produce valuable information to researchers in New Mexico who will conduct tests on a full size Boeing 747 aircraft at a later date.

Pearson's work is supported by the Office of Naval Research which provided a grant of $27,000 in 1977 - 78 and $69,700 in 1978 - 79. The National Science Foundation has provided additional support with a $23,000 permanent equipment grant.

"We believe that UK will have the best equipped ground plane facility in the country," Pearson concluded.

Workmen recently bolted a ground plane antenna on Anderson Hall at the 6th floor.

Morehead Men Attend SSC Meet

Randy Wilson of Morehead represented Southern States Cooperative's members at the association's 55th Annual Stockholders' meeting held recently in Richmond, Va. Also attending the session was Roger W. Conley representing SSC Morehead Service Local Southern States retail outlet.

They heard Executive vice president and general manager, John J. Feland, report that total dollar volume for the fiscal year ended last June 30 topped $379 million. This was an increase of about $7 million over the previous year.

Feland also told the business session at the Mosque Auditorium that net savings came to $7,800,000 after income taxes, down $2.8 million from a year ago.

Poor weather conditions in Southern States' operating territory throughout the past fiscal year, start-up problems at the two new Kentucky feed mills and the prolonged coal strike were several factors directly affecting earnings, Feland reported.

UK scientist is finding important clues to Huntington's disease

By BETTY TEVIS

A University of Kentucky chemist has found a clue in the membranes of red blood cells to Huntington's disease, a mysterious illness which strikes people at midlife, progressively destroys motor control and is nearly always fatal.

Biophysical and biochemical research by Dr. Allan Butterfield, working with a team which includes UK neurologist William Markesbery, suggests that Huntington's disease may be a disease of the body's cell membranes even though the main clinical symptoms arise from the brain.

Huntington's disease is an inherited disorder affecting the nervous system and characterized by progressive involuntary movements of the head, facial muscles and limbs, and often associated with dementia (loss of reasoning and cognitive power).

In Kentucky, and especially Eastern Kentucky, for reasons nobody knows, the disease is about 50 percent more prevalent (about nine per 100,000 in the population) than in the general population.

Hence, it's appropriate that the National Institute of Health (NIH) has granted $120,000 for Butterfield's research on Huntington's disease.

Butterfield and his team, which includes several doctoral students in chemistry, are working with sophisticated physical and chemical methods. By these methods, Butterfield discovered that red cell membranes of people with Huntington's disease contain proteins in an altered physical state.

In addition, the shapes and mechanical properties of these cells were observed to be different from normal cells.

Also, an enzyme located in red blood cell membranes of Huntington's disease victims was found to have an increased activity compared to normal controls.

Previous studies by others showed a decreased level of a chemical called GABA in brain cells of persons with the disease.

Butterfield at UK found that GABA can be added to red blood cells of persons with Huntington's disease, causing the cells to become "normal" as measured by methods used to study red blood cell membranes.

Before Butterfield began his experiments at UK with blood samples taken painlessly from the arms of persons with the disease, researchers' studies were largely confined to brain tissue taken at autopsy.

Kentuckians with the disease, or at risk of it, have cooperated by giving blood samples and data to UK researchers; some volunteers, hearing of the UK work from their doctors, have traveled 500 miles or more to Lexington to participate in the study.

"What we are hoping for," says Butterfield, "in addition to understanding the molecular basis of Huntington's disease, is a way to arrest it, or at least to test persons at risk with it."

Right now, he adds, there's no way of knowing in advance if a man or woman will get the disease. But children with a parent affected by Huntington's disease have a 50 percent chance of contracting the disease themselves usually at around age 35.

And the cruel, nightmarish irony of this, of course, is that by age 35 persons are likely to have already married and had children of their own also with a 50 percent likelihood of getting the disease.

Graduate students working with Butterfield say their efforts are particularly stimulating. "They know," he says,

Dr. Allan Butterfield uses sophisticated physical and chemical methods for his work at UK on Huntington's disease.

"there's a human being behind every blood sample." The work on the disease has also been supported by the UK chemistry department and the graduate school.

Butterfield's hypothesis that Huntington's disease is a disease of cell membranes, and detailed descriptions of his research, have been reported in such journals as "Annals of Neurology," "Nature" and "Journal of Supramolecular Structure."

The young chemist presented an invited paper last year at an international neurological gathering in The Netherlands and will present another paper next month at the International Symposium on Huntington's Disease in San Diego.

Huntington's disease is beginning to make its way into the public consciousness largely through the efforts of Marjorie Guthrie, whose famous folk singer husband Woody Guthrie died in 1967 after suffering with the disease for 13 years.

Mrs. Guthrie has established the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, which now represents about 7,000 families, and rallied the support of other people, such as scientists like Butterfield.

She is expected to visit UK in late November to talk with physicians, researchers and others, including families whose lives have been touched by Huntington's disease.

Persons interested in the research being done at UK are asked to contact Dr. Allan Butterfield, Department of Chemistry, University of Kentucky, Lexington (40506), telephone (606) 257-4741.

'New' is the word in Nursing

By BETTY TEVIS

More than the building is new at the University of Kentucky College of Nursing.

One hundred thirty licensed and experienced nurses—including both men and women from their 20s into their 50s—are enrolled in UK's new Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree program.

Another 70 nurses are students working for their master's degree.

All attend classes in the new College of Nursing/Health Sciences Learning Center, and are taught by a nursing faculty of 46 persons described by nursing Dean Marion McKenna as "dedicated and committed."

UK's new nursing curriculum is up to the minute, reflecting recommendations of the state Council on Higher Education and the National League for Nursing, as well as the changing nursing needs of the Commonwealth.

The new degree program, says Dean McKenna, is not chiefly preparation for acute care. UK nursing students already know about that, and much more, since they're already licensed as registered nurses and experienced in their profession.

Trained for many specialties

At UK, nurses are being trained to fit into the health care delivery system, to run clinics, to teach prevention, to plan health campaigns, to apply crisis theory and grief theory, to operate intensive care units, to offer primary care and care in industry.

At the UK College of Nursing, the baccalaureate graduate in nursing is seen as a professional practitioner who functions in collaboration with the physician.

Classes are taught in the evenings as well as the daytime and each class is offered every semester to accommodate students.

In addition to its teaching function, the College of Nursing is doing research, funded by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, by the National Institute of Mental Health and by the United States Public Health Service.

And the College is continually seeking ways for its department of continuing education to take more teaching to nurse practitioners in the field. Currently, it is devising programs to be aired via educational satellite.

Dr. Juanita Fleming, a former American Council on Education fellow and now assistant dean for graduate studies, believes graduates of UK's master's program in nursing will be prepared to assume leadership roles and "contribute to the changing health care system."

Four graduate specialties

Graduate students specialize in one of these areas: nurse-midwifery, adult nursing (medical-surgical), mental-child nursing or community mental health.

Susan Bobek is in the community mental health sequence. She's from the Student Elizabeth Holloway, right, with new nursing building in background, calls nursing program "extremely demanding." She's working on bachelor's degree.

Chicago area, chose UK for its curriculum and the opportunity for rural clinical experience (she spends two days a week in Frenchburg and Mt. Sterling) as well as for the compactness of the master's program (one calendar year).

The work is demanding, Ms. Bobek says, and the faculty helpful while "treating you as a mature adult."

She's pleased about the "ladders and lattices" within nursing education which allow a nurse to "branch out" into pharmacology, for example, or into psychiatric nursing.

Ms. Bobek, who already has a master's degree in education, hopes to teach.

So does graduate student Antonette Duvall, also enrolled in the community mental health sequence. She has a B.S. degree in nursing from UK and last semester was a part time teacher for the College of Nursing. She's 24 and from Louisville, and recently married a Lexington resident. She works at the Central Kentucky Blood Center one day a week while also attending UK.

Student quality and motivation have impressed Louise Stone, who directs the very active and thorough student services division in the College of Nursing.

This year every qualified Kentucky nurse who applied was accepted, she says. Students range in age from 22 to 54 and include 11 per cent blacks and 11 per cent males. "Our students are very, very motivated and self-directed," she adds.

Many UK undergraduates found their nursing vocations quite by accident; for some, a job as an aide awakened a desire to learn more and to serve better as a professional nurse.

Or a two-year nursing degree, after a few years of work, was found inadequate to the student's talents and interests. So she or he returned to school for a higher degree.

Laura Payton, of Lexington, was an aide for seven years, earned an associate degree in nursing at Lexington Technical Institute and now wants a bachelor's degree. "It'll be able to give a better quality of patient care," she says, "and there's more chance for advancement with the B.S. degree in nursing."

James E. Botkins first worked as an orderly in his hometown of Maysville and then earned an associate degree in nursing from Maysville Community College in 1974. Now employed by a home care unit in Ohio, Botkins commutes 122 miles several days a week to UK nursing classes, working toward his bachelor's degree.

"I need to be able to assess a patient's condition. I need to know more," he says. "I believe in keeping people out of the hospital, out of nursing homes."

The juggling of school and job, Botkins says, are "overwhelming, mind-boggling." But, he adds, "UK faculty and staff are willing to help you, to sit down and talk with you."

A job as surgical technician in a Lexington hospital introduced Elizabeth Holloway to the "fratification of helping people in the medical area."

She earned an associate degree in nursing, worked three years in critical care and now has returned to UK for the B.S. degree, which she calls "an extremely demanding program with high expectations for classwork, participation and self-teaching."

She finds the faculty and staff "tremendously helpful to us."

Beatrice Burton found herself a few years ago the divorced and relatively uneducated mother of six.

Piece Together More On Mystery Suicides

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (UPI)—In the end the Rev. Jim Jones was so beset by doubt, fear and despair that he was considering moving his entire Peoples Temple cult to Cuba or to the Soviet Union. Instead his paranoia overcame him and he ordered a mass suicide that killed 912 followers.

More answers to the mystery of Jones' last hours of decision were pieced together today from statements from the few survivors including one of his lieutenants who fled from Jonestown with a suitcase containing $500,000 in cash and a letter to the Soviet Embassy in Georgetown.

Tim Carter, 28, of Boise, Idaho, who was emerging as one key to the mystery, was a public relations specialist for the cult. He told reporters that he, his brother Mike and a third man were given guns and a suitcase containing $500,000 which they stashed in a chicken coop as they fled the temple.

Another key came from a note apparently written by Jones in a fit of despondency following the airport massacre of Rep. eo J. Ryan, D-Calif., and four other Americans and the growing fear that Ryan's investigation of reports that temple members were being held in near slavery would mean the end of the cult.

The FBI in Washington was studying what it called a two-paragraph note of despair found on Jones' body. Its full contents were not disclosed and hand writing experts were checking to see whether Jones actually wrote the note but the FBI emphasized its tone of despair.

Jones in recent months had turned more and more toward Marxism and had looked toward Communist Cuba and the Soviet Union as a new haven for his flock, according to survivors. In the end he apparently settled for Russia but was unable to make the proper arrangements.

Carter said he, his brother and Michael Prokes, were told to take the suitcase to an unspecified embassy. The suitcase later was found to contain a letter to the Soviet Union.

Carter said as they walked away from the commune with the money and arms that the lethal doses of cyanide and Kool-Aid were already taking effect on the communicants of the suicide rite. After four to five minutes, convulsions racked bodies, foamed filled mouths and flowed down chin. Carter said he saw "mothers kneeling down holding their babies — people."

"I saw my wife holding my son who was dead."

The Carter brothers and Prokes opened the suitcase in the commune chicken coop. Tim Carter said. They found 32 to 40 pounds of money and the letter to the Soviet Embassy. The Carter brothers said they hid the money — later confiscated by Guyanese authorities — in the coop.

As Carter told his story to reporters on the veranda of a ramshackle hotel in the heart of Georgetown, Gerald Parks, 45, of Ukiah, Calif., who with his wife, two children and mother defected from the commune, overheard Carter's remarks. His wife Patricia was killed in the airport massacre.

Parks said Carter, brother Michael, 20, and Prokes, 32, of Modesto, Calif. were "part of the leadership clique, part of the elite crowd" surrounding Jones.

"It seems funny," Parks said, "that we had to escape with our lives at stake, and these three guys walked out with $500,000 and guns."

After shaking hands all around, Nixon drove to the Charles de Gaulle Institute, once a private office used by the late French president and now a museum. Nixon was escorted around the museum by Adm Philippe de Gaulle, son of the late French leader.

"It was very moving to be in the place where President de Gaulle wrote his memoirs," Nixon told a knot of reporters who had gathered outside.

Asked if he thought de Gaulle was the greatest leader of the contemporary world, Nixon said, "He was a great president. He remained my friend even when I was out of office."

Nixon is preparing for a Tuesday night appearance on a two-hour talkathon to be broadcast live over the government-owned French television network.

On Sunday Nixon held a private 90-minute discussion with his former White House Chief of Staff, Gen Alexander Haig, one of the advisers who persuaded the beleaguered president to resign.

Informed sources said Haig, now the Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe, wearing civilian clothes, slipped in through a back door of the Ritz Hotel. He was enroute from a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in Lisbon to his Brussels headquarters.

who died at Jonestown, three of them — including Jones — of gunshot wounds, and the rest apparently from cyanide poisoning.

Four others were Sharon Amos and her three children, killed at the Peoples Temple headquarters in Georgetown. The last was a would-be sect defector, Patricia Parks, killed in the massacre at Port Kaituma airstrip, 5 miles from Jonestown with Congressman Ryan.

Nixon Mixes With Crowds In France

PARIS (UPI)—Former U.S. president Richard Nixon waded into a hunchtime crowd of 200 people outside his Paris hotel today to shake hands, laugh and wave.

It was a change of pace for Nixon, who had kept out of the public eye during the first day and a half of his four-day Paris stay. It recalled his last handshaking visit here in 1974 when he was still president.

"How did you get hands all around, Nixon drove to the Charles de Gaulle Institute, once a private office used by the late French president and now a museum. Nixon was escorted around the museum by Adm Philippe de Gaulle, son of the late French leader.

"It was very moving to be in the place where President de Gaulle wrote his memoirs," Nixon told a knot of reporters who had gathered outside.

VA Compensation May Show Increase

The Veterans Administration today alerted disabled veterans in Kentucky to a provision of a new law that could mean an additional $175 a month in VA compensation payments to them.

The added payments are authorized by The Veterans Disability Compensation and Survivors Benefits Act of

they were far from clear — were at the window from which the Warren Commission said Lee Harvey Oswald gunned down Kennedy as the presidential motorcade crossed Dealey Plaza.

The vaguest images — some reporters failed to see them at all — were at a window eight feet away in the sprawling room that takes up the entire sixth floor of the book depository.

Groden said the film, which shows "with such clarity the probability of a conspiracy," pictures at least two persons — one in a magenta shirt and the other in olive drab or tan.

The movie, which was never used in an assassination investigation, was viewed by an FBI agent in 1963 but rejected as too blurred for identification purposes.

The film was mentioned in secret FBI documents made public under the Freedom of Information Act early this year. The Dallas News tracked the movie down two weeks ago and commissioned Groden to analyze it.

1978," which was signed on October 18 by President Carter.

In general, veterans eligible for the additional payment are those who suffered the service-connected loss, or loss of use, of one extremity, and who have subsequently lost the paired extremity from nonservice-connected causes.

The veteran must have been rated less than 100 per cent disabled by VA for his service-connected injuries to be eligible for the newly added compensation for nonservice-connected loss. Mrs. Mary G. Sanders, VA regional office director in Louisville, said.

Currently, the average monthly VA compensation payment for a veteran with service-connected loss of a leg, or its use, is $211.

The VA director said VA is issuing a special appeal for assistance from national veterans organizations in locating disabled veterans who may qualify for the new benefit.

"Our computers can identify veterans who have service-connected loss of extremities, but we have no way of knowing how many of them have subsequently lost a paired extremity from nonservice-connected causes," she explained.

Mrs. Sanders urged any disabled veteran who believes he might be eligible for the additional payment to contact the nearest VA regional office, or a member of one of the veterans organizations in the community.

PUBLISHERS PEN...

The contents in this column are those of the Publisher and not those of either the officers or members of the Board of Directors of Morehead News, Inc. Responses should be made directly to the Publisher.

Day-by-day jam-and-down, pick-ups and commensally by W. E. Crutcher, retired from active management Publisher of this newspaper.

Maybe drive-in banking was invented so the new cars could see their real owners.

The husband and wife were having a serious conversation for she was about to have major surgery. "Henry, if I don't get through this, I certainly wouldn't mind if you remarried the right woman... and whoever she is, she can have everything I own, even my clothes."

"That's OK, honey, but I don't think it would work... you're size 12 and she's a size 8."

ONE thing you discover by going to cocktail parties is that all alcoholics are not anonymous.

THE FOREMAN reported the jury was unable to settle upon a verdict. The Judge said the case was crystal clear and added: "If you do not reach an agreement before evening, I'll have 12 suppers sent in."

Why I please your Honor," spoke up the foreman, leaning at one of the jurors, "make it 11 suppers and a bale of hay."

JUDGE (to fat lady): "And why did you strike the doctor?" "Well, Judge, he examined me and said, 'Lady, this malady of yours is very serious. I don't know whether to blast or operate'."

SPORTSMEN tell us that the past two hard winters were hard on rabbit, quail and grouse.

Rowan is rated the number one county in Kentucky for grouse, probably the most difficult of all game birds to bring down with a shotgun. Grouse can outrun a tracking dog, and take off in a combination of a jet plane and/or helicopter.

SEVERAL weeks ago the Publisher predicted in this column that the average for burley this selling season would be around $1.31 a pound. Sales so far indicate this forecast won't be far off.

Metropolitan newspapers "played up" how happy farmers were to get an early day auction average price of $132.12 a hundredweight. We visited the Morehead auction, where the first day average was $133.34, and didn't find Rowan and area farmers overjoyed. Every one we talked with said that they wouldn't be as well off with a $1.31 average as they were last season at $1.22, because the extra labor machinery, fertilizer etc. had increased more than the selling price differential.

This is the day-by-day and everyday contention of 7th district Congressman Carl D. Perkins in his continuing battle for higher government support prices on tobacco.

THE EAGLE Foundation and athletic officials at Morehead State University might do well by starting the planning for the first basketball game a year from now.

It will mark 50 years since the first Eagle basketball game at what was then Morehead State Teachers College and Normal School.

The Eagles last in 1929) that opening game to Sue Bennett. We saw the first game in the old gym, since converted into a part of the ROTC program... and recall some of the players: Aunt Hiddle, George Queen, Edgar McNabb, Frank Laughlin, Hube Counts, Henry Lee Prichard... and we're not exactly sure whether Lawrence Fraley was a participant. Lawrence may have come along a year or so later.

Yes, a "50th Basketball Anniversary" would be appropriate, and good public relations for the opening game a year hence.

THE PUBLISHER has been writing recently with optimistic phraseology about this year's Eagles football varsity praising the new coaching staff. We suspected that this column conveyed the only in-print optimism since the Eagles didn't win a conference game last year.

But word gets around fast, and it is noted that a poll of OVC coaches picks Morehead to finish third this season in the Conference Eastern Kentucky and Western Kentucky are the first and second selections, respectively.

Morehead will improve as the season advances, and we're not counting our Eagles out of the OVC race since the championship will be decided in a post-season tournament.

The sports pages of the Morehead News will keep you entertained, and you'll see "action" this season whenever the MSU varsity performs. Wayne Martin has a bunch of "hungry" although green players, plus senior Herbie Triplett who's probably the best college basketball player in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

READERS of this column recognize that the Publisher "just loves" to make predictions... particularly when we've had advance inside information.

We can't get out of our mind why we didn't predict that Lt. Governor Thelma Stovall would call a special session of the General Assembly. Mrs. Stovall's advisor is our longtime friend, Attorney Joe Leary. In 1934, Happy Chandler, then Lt. Governor, called a special session when Gov. Rufus Laffoon left the state... and Leary and Chandler are very close and think alike.

The calling of this special session which hit the State Capitol like a neutron bomb, isn't surprising when you consider the conditions and the people involved. You can always expect Joe Leary, who engineered the coup, to always come up with something. Actually, it's like Edgar Allan Poe's "Purloined Letter" - so obvious that everybody overlooked it.

The issue today is consumerism - inflation and taxes.

Thelma included in her call of the special session the very six issues that the public is virtually demanding. They are: Removal of the five percent tax on utility bills; lowering the state income tax; freezing property taxes; eliminating increases in utility bills without a public hearing; giving the consumer the power to intervene through the attorney general in opposing any utility rate hikes; and modifying the unpopular state's district court setup in which the minimum fine is $2.50.

Senators and Representatives will have a hard time being reelected if they oppose these consumer proposals. And Gov. Carroll in the unenviable position of virtually having to sign the bills passed at this special session.

This special session is almost akin to California's Proposition 13, and will attract national publicity. There's no question but that the public has HAD all they are going to STAND for.

However, we doubt, seriously so, if Mrs. Stovall, one our close adult life friends, will be the democratic nominee. The oddsmakers would today make Terry McBrayer the favorite. It'll be an interesting, almost brutal, campaign for the democratic nomination for Governor next May... and then comes another hard battle with the democratic nominee probably opposing former republican Governor Louie Nunn.

The 1979 campaigns will be sort of like the one in 1935 when Chandler defeated Tom Rife... and that one started with the calling of a special session. The 1935 election became so bitter that life-long friends and neighbors quit speaking to each other.

OLD gardeners never die. They just spend away, then throw in the towel.

MOTHER to small son: "I don't care if the basement wall is cracking. Stop telling everyone that you come from a broken home."

CHANGES in the federal income tax statutes allows for a deduction on home insulation installed after April 1977. But the smart and prudent homeowner who wisely insulated his abode prior to that time receives no tax credit. It hardly seems fair.

ORCHIDS to city and state officials for changing the traffic signals at West Main and the I-64 connector... including the arrow markers. This will speed traffic and lessen costly fender-bender accidents.

A WELL-READ friend observes that the great depression hit in 1929 the nation was debted free for a while. If the debt had been reduced in 1929 or materialized, the U.S.A. will have an admitted debt of $500 billion, or if everything is counted like a C.P.A. he computes maybe it's more than a trillion.

We were talking last week with a Lexington executive who heads a company employing many people. He told us that graduates of Morehead and Eastern were better employees than from any other institution of higher learning... and rated University of Kentucky grads and students at the bottom. "Morehead graduates will work, and appreciate their job," he concluded.

That was sweet music to our ears! He asked us, though, to not use his name or company... but we are sorta steering some folks his way.

IT IS approvingly noted that Morehead's Christmas lights and outside Yule decorations were installed by Thanksgiving. Business is created and snowballs because of "image" and this is what retailing is all about.

ALL party telephone lines in Rowan County will be discontinued by 1983, probably much sooner. This will be a relief to rural patrons bothered with teen-agers and gossipers, but they'll have to pay considerably more for single party service. And, from what we read, the time is not far off when there'll be no telephone poles, all calls being transmitted through the air, same as long distance service is now relayed.

ONLY 27 more shopping days before Christmas that includes Sunday!

THE U.S. Postal Service is expecting that fewer Christmas cards will be handled this year. It is estimated that the cost of sending a Christmas card is, on the average, 50 cents, not including your labor in purchasing, addressing, affixing the stamp and deposition in the mail box.

A friend says he doesn't know many people who are worth 50 cents.

A PROBLEM is not really a problem unless you have the same problem a year later.

STENOGRAPHER: "Your little girl wants to kiss you over the phone." Busy Manager: "Take the message. I'll get it from you later."

A STATISTIC bound to be heard at the upcoming special session of the Legislature: Kentuckians now pay 1.9 percent of their income in property taxes. The national average is 4.2 percent.

BACK in the 1930's the Rowan County had 87 one-room schools.

YOU'RE an old-timer if you can remember when almost everybody had a charge account at their grocery store and when they paid their bill, the store owner gave them a treat, usually a sack of candy.

IF YOU wives want to have a little fun, the next time the husband asks you if you wish to attend the convention with him, you say: "I'd just be in the way. But please do not come home unexpectedly."

SAID MSU head basketball coach Wayne Martin at last Tuesday's Eagle Athletic Foundation banquet: "We have one goal and we intend to attain it in the next seven or eight years... that goal is to win the NCAA championship and bring the trophy to Morehead."

That's a big statement considering the likes of Kentucky, UCLA, Notre Dame, Michigan, North Carolina and all the big name universities. Wayne also emphasized, "we won't be able to please everybody"... and told this story about an old man, a small boy and a donkey -

They passed through a village with the old man riding the donkey. Some of the people muttered, "Look at that man riding the donkey and making that little boy walk."

So, in an effort to satisfy everybody, both the old man and the young boy walked, and the donkey didn't have to carry any load.

They came to a bridge. The donkey spotted a snake curled up on the bridge, and this scared the donkey so much that he reared up, jumped over the bridge and drowned.

The moral of the story, said Coach Martin, is: "If you try to please everybody you'll lose your donkey."

MARTY Brennan, radio voice of the Cincinnati Reds, was the principal speaker at the above mentioned basketball kick-off banquet. Brennan used to announce the Virginia Squires basketball games in the NBA. He said the two "greatest" persons he ever knew in sports are Pete Perez and Julius Ervin.

Marty remained after the program to answer questions. "Don't ask me where Pete Rose is going because I don't know and your guess is as good or better, than, mine," he requested at the outset.

P.S.: MSU's basketball Eagles play Indiana University at 2 p.m. this coming Saturday (Dec. 2) at Bloomington, but as this is written we don't know whether that game will be televised, and if so, on what network.

MOREHEAD motorists have convinced us they are contributing to the fitness program - they keep pedestrians in good running condition!

IN THESE days when a couple is as deeply in love as they are in debt, it's a happy marriage.

Airman Jantz In California

U.S. Air Force First Lt. Martin L. Jantz, who wife, Laura, is daughter of Mrs. Alma Ingot of 317 Heritage Place, Morehead has arrived for duty at George Air Force Base in Victorville, Calif.

Social Security

January 1 will mark the beginning of the 1979 general enrollment period for Medicare medical insurance. David Bryan, social security district manager in Ashland said recently.

During the first three months of 1979, people who are otherwise eligible but who do not have medical insurance protection under Medicare can enroll for it. Medical insurance protection will start July 1, 1979, for those who enroll during the general enrollment period.

Those eligible include people who chose not to enroll during their initial period and those who once had this protection, but who dropped out. People who enroll during a general enrollment period will pay a premium higher than the basic premium if there was a period of 12 months or more during which they could have had this protection but did not. The basic premium for the period ending June 1979 is $3.30 a month. The new premium will be announced before the general enrollment period.

Any increase in the premium is limited to the percentage increase in cash social security benefits, which amounted to 6.5 percent effective last June. Even so, Bryan said, the protection is still a bargain since the Federal Government pays more than 70 percent of the premium cost out of general revenues.

The Good Word from the Bible
a weekly inspirational message for today's life styles

When I consider my heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained: What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou dost care for him?

God chose mankind for special blessings, for special gifts. In the complicated order of the universe, mankind became the star beneficiary of the wonders of nature, the ripe abundance of the earth.

When man began to drift more and more away from the purpose of his creation, God sent His only Son to earth to walk to preach to teach, to show the way.

Since that time, the messengers of faith have labored about the world, teaching, spreading the word. Why, we must ask, do so many not yet comprehend the heavens and recognize both the kindness and the justice of God?

Holiday Decorations From Scraps

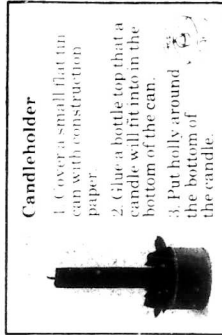

Reindeer

1. Make a construction paper cone and wrap it around a Styrofoam cup.
2. Cut out nose, eyes and ears and glue in place.
3. Put greenery in the cup for antlers.
4. Use a long thumbtack to hang.

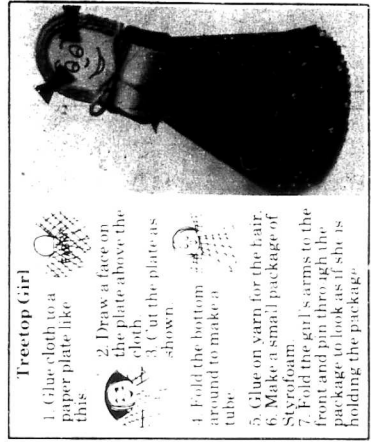

Shepherd

1. Use a cleaning powder container. The kind that has slanted sides below a flat top works well.
2. Draw a face on construction paper and paste on container.
3. Glue a piece of fabric around the container and tie yarn at the waist for belt.
4. Cut out arms from fabric and glue on.
5. Cut a fabric head-covering and tie in place.
6. Make a staff by bending a pipe cleaner.

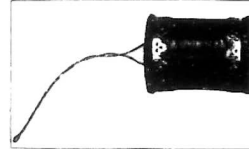

Candleholder

1. Cover a small flat tin can with construction paper.
2. Glue a bottle top that a candle will fit into in the bottom of the can.
3. Put holly around the bottom of the candle.

Treecrop Girl

1. Glue cloth to a paper plate like this.
2. Draw a face on the plate above the cloth.
3. Cut the plate as shown.
4. Fold the bottom around to make a tube.
5. Glue on yarn for the hair.
6. Make a small package of Styrofoam.
7. Fold the girl's arms to the front and pin through the package to look as if she is holding the package.

Christmas Spool

1. Paint a spool.
2. Hang with gold trim with rickrack.
3. Use gold thread.

December

Here is your Holiday Calendar. Why not mark off the days until Hanukkah and Christmas?

Christmas Cards

1. Cut faces, arms and legs from construction paper.
2. Cut clothes from cloth.
3. Glue in place on folded construction paper card.

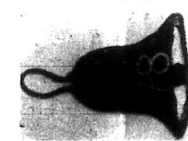

The Paper Box

Look through the rest of your newspaper. What signs of the holiday season do you see? Are you asking Santa for a bike for Christmas? Read about how to pick out just the right size. Learn what is new in baking.

Bell Decoration

Why not make one of these in a different design each year?

1. Draw a bell on wax paper.
2. Soak yarn in white liquid glue and trace the outline of the bell with the yarn.
3. Fill in the bell with the glue-soaked yarn.
4. Let dry overnight and do the same thing on the back side.
5. Soak a different color yarn in the glue to make the year.

TREE TRY 'N FIND

Words about Christmas trees are hidden in the block below. See if you can find: decorations, tree, holly, candles, balls, mistletoe, ribbon, tinsel, stars, candy canes, bow, snowflakes, bells, toys, packages, ornaments, tree skirt, lights, coconuts, stock, tines, spruce, pine, fir and cedar.

Jones Family Bodies Will Be Cremated

RICHMOND, Ind. UPI - The in-laws of the Rev. James Jones have abandoned plans for burial of Jones, his wife and the couple's children at Richmond.

The bodies will be cremated and the ashes cast into the sea, because that is what is "best for the community," a funeral director representing Mrs. Jones' parents said Sunday.

Funeral director Ernest Mills said the bodies of the cult leader who died in South America with more than 900 of his followers will be cremated at Dover, Del., when the government releases the bodies at Dover Air Force Base.

He released a statement on behalf of Walker and Charlotte Baldwin, whose daughter Marceline married Jones at Richmond when he was 18 years old.

Carter Says Budget Will Be 'Tight'

St. Louis UPI - President Carter Monday told the nation's top urban leaders the 1980 budget will put "severe limits" on federal programs for their cities and will "disappoint those who do not take inflation seriously."

Speaking to members of the National League of Cities, the president twice declared "the 1980 budget will be very, very tight" and he bluntly told his audience that meant more limits on federal aid "without starving useful programs."

"For the cities, the impact will be clear," said the president. "We will do as much as we can within the necessarily severe limits - there will be little money for new initiatives next year."

The president said his budget sets as a goal a reduction in the federal deficit to $30,000 billion and he warned his spending blueprint "will disappoint those who do not take inflation seriously."

It will disappoint those who expect constantly expanding federal aid and a constantly expanding number of new programs and agencies.

A FELLEED TREE that retains a beauty that warms the soul, this one will soon become fuel to warm the body. Although wood is our one restorable source of fuel, seeing the demise of such a magnificent specimen brings a momentary pang of remorse. REPORT TO HOMEMAKERS

Frozen foods have been melting the hearts of American homemakers for nearly half a century. The variety and quality of frozen foods are constantly being improved through continuing research and experimentation. Through the addition of special ingredients, the taste, texture and eye appeal of fresh foods can be maintained throughout freezing and defrosting. Many such ingredients are available to frozen food packagers. The good news for homemakers is that many of these food companies are using a whole some food substance developed from corn by scientists at National Starch and Chemical Corporation. This corn-based product, called ColFlo 67, a modified food starch, maintains the taste, color and clarity of frozen soups and sauces where eye appeal is particularly important. Many homemakers think of frozen foods primarily as an answer for busy meals, but, increasingly, smart cooks are using frozen soups and sauces to facilitate the preparation of more elaborate meals, as well as to provide variety, economy, and appetite appeal in using leftovers.

LOVE LETTERS: It was the love story of the century - King Edward VIII of England, abdicating to marry American divorcee Wallis Simpson. Never mind that it all happened 42 years ago - it's still a hot topic in Britain, and the former Mrs. Simpson says she'll publish her old love letters now in defense of her honor. The 32-year-old Dutchess of Windsor is upset over a London TV series her Paris lawyer says portrays her as "a cheap adventuress" who became the king's mistress before their marriage. Says attorney Suzanne Blum, "The king did not want a mistress and if he had, no doubt he would not have abdicated." Expect publication of letter purporting to prove that within a year.

ANOTHER KING ABDICATES: At 23, she's considered the "Queen" of pro tennis, and Billie Jean King finally is buying the title. She says after this season, she's through. Ms. King told LPI after a weekend match in Sydney, Australia, she's quitting because, "I am sick and tired of all the surgery I have been through." That includes major operations on both knees, with another coming up on her left foot, which was heavily taped for Australian action.

DOLLY NOT PARTIN': It's a long way from Tennessee to the City of Lights and Dolly Parton wanted to look her best for the visit. So she boarded an Air France flight for Paris last week in Amsterdam with a garment bag full of her big city duds - only to be told she'd have to stow it in the baggage compartment. Unlabeled, the country music queen bought another ticket and the precious bag became her traveling companion - strapped into the seat beside her. First class, of course. She still has a six-concert tour of Britain on the calendar, but don't head for London. There isn't a seat left there.

TINSELTOWN PARADE: More than 300,000 people lined Hollywood Boulevard Sunday to cheer grand marshal Bob Hope as he led the 47th Annual Hollywood Christmas Parade with a casting echo of his left foot, shows just behind him rode his favorite leading lady, Dorothy Lamour. Among star clusters in and around the 28 floats - Connie Stevens, Ernest Borgnine, Sugar Ray Robinson, Danny Thomas, Dan Haggarty, Charo, Aretha Franklin, Angie Dickinson, Don DeFore, Jackie Cooper, Margaret O'Brien, Steve Allen, Jayne Meadows, Jack Klugman, Lindsay Wagner, Earl Holliman, Ben Vereen, Cindy Williams, Ida Lupino, Janet Leigh, Patty Duke Astin and dozens more - including, of course, Santa Claus.

GLIMPSES: Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis threw a joint birthday party for daughter Caroline, 21, and son John, 18, Sunday night at New York's Le Club, with invitations for family members only. Mary Frances Crosby, 19-year-old daughter of the late Bing Crosby, married 27-year-old music publisher Bob Lottimer Friday in front of their new beachfront home in Malibu, Calif. The rock group Grateful Dead was forced to cancel a New Haven, Conn. concert Saturday after lead singer Jerry Garcia came down with pneumonia. Richard Harris says in Johannesburg, South Africa, he'll file a multi-million dollar countersuit against film director Andre Pieterse who is suing him for $1.6 million, accusing him

CABINETS

Antique Furniture File

The furniture made in the South in the early 19th century was a somewhat primitive interpretation of the sophisticated designs being produced in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, et al. The piece shown above was probably made in the deep south during the early 1800s by a skilled cabinetmaker who was limited by the available tools and materials. It follows closely the lines delineated by George Heppelwhite in "The Cabinetmakers and Upholsterers Guide." However it lacks the elaborate inlay of satinwood, holly, and rosewood. There are no swags, urns and bellflowers of the urban sideboards made in the North. One like this would sell in the low thousands depending on condition and workmanship.

Marble top makes dresser desirable

By James G. McCollam
Compt. Syndicate

Dear Mr. McCollam: Can you give me your opinion of this old dresser? It has a hidden drawer in the base. The two small drawers originally opened only with a key; the keyholes are still under the pulls. It is mahogany with maple hurl trim. — J.C.H., Long Beach, CA

Dear J.C.H.: This is a Victorian Renaissance Revival dresser and was made in the third quarter of the 19th century. It is particularly desirable because of the marble top and the two small handkerchief drawers. The value would range from the middle to high hundreds.

Dear Mr. McCollam: Any information you could give me on this "pot belly" stove would be appreciated. On the door plate above "Sunshine Oak" are the numbers, 183. It is also marked "Reading Slave Works, Ore." and "Painter and Co., Reading, Pa." Except for four windows in the door and a little rust, the stove is in very good condition. How can I clean off the rust? Is this an antique? — E.H. Warrington, PA

Dear E.H.: Your stove was probably made in the fourth quarter of the 19th century and barely qualifies as an antique. However, it is collectible and would probably sell in the middle hundreds in good condition. The rust can be cleaned off with naval jelly which is available in most large hardware or paint stores.

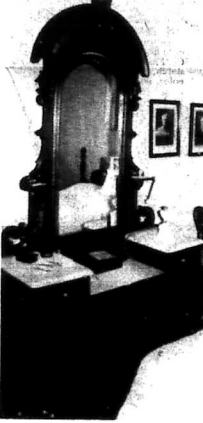

Dear Mr. McCollam: This table has been in my family for at least 200 years; it came from England, is a drawing room table. It is made of mahogany with an almost white marble top. A yardstick on the top shows the size. I would appreciate your professional evaluation. — J.B. Fullerton, CA

Dear J.B.: The vintage of this table would be more like 150 years rather than 200, which would take us back to 1778, when Chippendale furniture was in vogue. This is definitely an Empire center table (as opposed to a table that must be used against the wall) and was made in the 2nd quarter of the 19th century. It may have come from England, but it is very similar to designs shown in John Hall's "The Cabinetmaker's Assistant," published in Baltimore in 1840. The value would range from the middle to high hundreds.

If you have any questions concerning the identification and evaluation of antique furniture, send a detailed description and one or more pictures of a single item with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 687, Dunedin, Fla. 33528. (Published pictures cannot be returned.) Since the opinions stated here are based on superficial information, no responsibility is assumed. Questions of universal interest will be answered, but all letters will be answered.

Pope Speaks Out On Religious Oppression

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II has openly challenged the forces of religious oppression in a landmark speech that church observers said was aimed at the rulers of his native Poland and other Soviet-bloc countries.

The 58-year-old former Archbishop of Krakow, his voice loud and sometimes trembling with emotion, issued a powerful world-wide appeal Sunday for freedom of religion and human dignity.

John Paul only 42 days into his historic papacy, told a crowd of more than 60,000 in St. Peter's Square, many Roman Catholics were "condemned to death for their faith."

"I think of all our brothers condemned to death, if not physically, usually because they profess their faith," the pontiff said in his traditional Sunday noon address.

"I think of those persecuted because they are faithful to the real truth and the real justice," he said to thunderous applause.

Vatican observers said the strong-willed speech was the kind the Eastern bloc feared most from the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, who openly resisted Communist interference in Polish church affairs.

Although the pope made no direct reference to nations or governments, the observers said his pointed reference to "civil" persecution was aimed at religious harassment in Soviet controlled countries.

"Let those who make the laws govern the state and guard the peace reflect on the undaunted fortitude of Jesus on the cross," the pope said.

John Paul II, the first pontiff to lead the world's 260 million Catholics in 45 years, spoke only Italian during the 20-minute speech.

"We must never forget our brothers who pay for their faith with condemnation, discrimination, suffering, even death," he said.

John Paul's strong statements came on the heels of equally sharp comments by his mentor, Polish Primate Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński, who lashed out at Eastern European governments for blocking religious radio broadcasts.

"In Vatican radio, Poland has its only Catholic broadcaster," said the 77-year-old primate, insisting local churches have the right to air religious programs.

"This right becomes a duty when it is a question of carrying the word of God where pulpits have been silenced where there are no longer priests, where churches are closed and there is no free Catholic press," Wyszyński said.

Pope John Paul and Wyszyński worked together for religious freedom in Poland, which is 90 percent Catholic.

Kentucky—Land Of Superlatives

by Helen Price Stacy

Kentucky is truly a land of superlatives. Prettiest, friendliest, greatest and on and on. Just ask any of us who live here. We continued to find out things about our state that add to "the most interesting," such as the man the Indians said could fly, and the New Madrid earthquake.

Indians knew about Burning Spring in eastern Kentucky, and older citizens of Magoffin County and early Floyd County have heard about, and some have seen families in more recent years cook outside on the ground. What would you think if you go into your yard, strike a match to the earth and get a flame on which to place your pot of soup to cook. An early-day Methodist circuit rider, the Rev. W. B. Landrum, told about his first sight of Burning Spring in a book published in 1878.

He was writing about starting his circuit work in the fall of 1837. He headed for Floyd County after spending the night with the Donelson Craigs in Montgomery County and from a distance saw a brilliant fire. As he got closer he saw that the fire was coming from the ground, water and mud boiling in a hissing mass as from a well of fire, the flames he described as "constantly issuing forth and threatening destruction beneath."

Among the deep holes and pits in the country has to be the deepest located in Hopkins County. A man once told about standing on the bank of Tradewater River and watching a stranger dive to the bottom. He—the stranger—did not come up. Youngsters for decades had tried to reach bottom while swimming at the spot and none could. One day a man named Waddie or Wadley told townspeople that he would dive to the bottom. A crowd gathered to watch the daredevil. The man went into the depths. The crowd waited. After some time, men used weighted lines to try to reach bottom and find the stranger, but no line was long enough and no trace of Wadley was ever found.

The largest mound? The will of Andrew Kitchen Sr. in Carter County in 1871 mentions Indian graves on the land. An old Kitchen home on a perfectly shaped mound at Grayson once was visible from the highway. A new home graces the knoll that today can be seen from Interstate-64. Is this large hill an Indian mound?

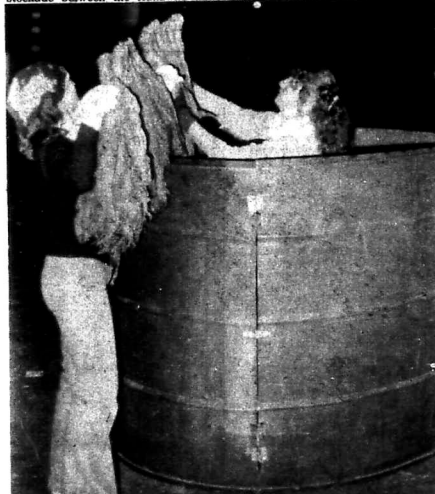

Diamond mines in Kentucky? Elliott County boasts such a mine. Some claim that diamonds have been found at the site. Geologists from Africa said kimberlite found on the hillsides around the site has the same makeup as kimberlite at the famed South Africa Kimberly diamond mines. Many people have found garnets at the Kentucky mine and some have found opals and sapphires.

Back in 1811-12 the earthquake known as New Madrid quake caused the great Mississippi to flow backwards, river courses to change, lakes to form on what had been dry land and other happenings over a one-million square mile section of the U.S. The Fulton area was near the center of the shock. Not too far distant in Missouri geologists are drilling to reach the major fault in efforts to determine causes and directions of possible future tremors.

The Greenup County man the Indians thought could fly was Benjamin Ulin who in the spring of 1792 was in a stockade between the Kanawha and Ohio rivers. Ulin left the stockade one spring day to search for a stray horse and was surprised by Indians. He had no gun, and since capture by redmen meant sure death, he started running. He reached a point high above the Ohio River, the Indians close behind. He spread his arms and jumped. He was injured in the leap but lived and by the time he was 65 was living in Greenup County in perfect health. Dr. William Talley of Vanceburg, noted in his book, "Northeastern Kentucky Papers," that Ulin's first jump was 65½ feet, followed by smaller leaps. The measuring was done by Col. Lewis of Virginia and Col. Boone of Missouri. After the 1793 treaty, Indians often gathered in Point Pleasant (now West Virginia) and frequently told the story about a white man they chased to the precipice above the Ohio, "where he took wings and flew off."

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

Turkey Quiche
This is a "dressed up" way to use left-over turkey, Turkey quiche and a salad. It is all you need for a very satisfying meal.

Have ready one 8-inch pie shell, baked and cooled. Chop 1 cup cooked turkey rather fine.

¼ cup shredded process American cheese
4 slightly beaten eggs
¼ 3 ounces can sliced mushrooms
¼ cup milk
1 can cream of shrimp soup

Turkey and mushrooms should be arranged in the baked pastry shell, then sprinkle with cheese. Combine soup and milk in a small saucepan and heat to boiling while stirring constantly. Now stir in the eggs gradually. Pour the soup and egg mixture over cheese and turkey. Bake in a 325° oven for 40 to 45 minutes or whenever a knife inserted comes out clean. This should serve six — but why not double the recipe and make two, we usually have that much turkey left over. It's good.
