Car Equipment Stolen

Expensive equipment has been stolen from two cars during the past week, both occurrences happening after dark.

Tuesday night thieves entered a vehicle parked near Nunn Hall on the MSU campus and owned by Esve Parmley, 20, Christian Street. Taken were a 23-channel citizens band radio, and AM/FM stereo, carach and two tapes, estimated valued $150.

According to police records,

Parmley had lost the keys to his car and his door was unlocked at the time of the incident. Sgt. Audrey Staton investigated the theft.

Sunday between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. an FM radio-tape player worth $170 was taken from Margaret W. Boone, 23, West Main, while her car was parked on White Street.

Officer Mike Kash reported that thieves entered a locked door.

Taxes Being Collected

City and county tax bill collections are going smoothly, according to local authorities.

City Clerk Corene Castle said that about two-thirds of the total $178,154 in tax bills has already been collected.

According to the Rowan County Sheriff's Office, about half of the total tax bills amounting to $997,000 has been collected.

An eight percent penalty is applicable to city tax bills effective Jan. 1, 1979.

The county's penalty also goes into effect on Jan. 1, at a rate of two percent. After Jan. 31, the county's penalty goes up to 10 percent.

Fire Damages Home

Two rooms were all that remained of the Clayton Adams residence on the Rock Fork Road after a fire Tuesday at 9:30 p.m.

Believed to have been electrically originated, the blaze consumed all but the kitchen and a back room.

Firemen worked until 12:30

Wednesday morning, using all 500 gallons of water hauled in their truck and refilling at a nearby pond three times.

Fire Chief Glenn Terrell said the fire was well underway at the department's arrival. Reportedly, no one was home at the time of the incident.

Following Three Days Of Terror . . .

Arsonist's Rampage Ends

By JACK KELLY
Staff Writer

BLAZE, Ky. — The saga of a rambling arsonist came to an untimely close early Wednesday morning. Just a few miles down KY 519 from where his fiery flight through the small communities of western Morgan County began Monday.

Around nine o'clock members of one of the largest manhunt in local history over the last several years apprehended Zules Lewis, ending a 48-hour terror which sent tens of thousands in this small farming community packing sidearms and shotguns for two days.

The hunt, which began around 9:30

Capt. Owen, who had spearheaded the search, "he was just sitting writing down names of tombstones I asked him how he was and he said something like 'just fine' and that he'd been pretty busy the last few days."

Owen said Lewis offered no resistance when arrested and there was no weapon found on his possession.

Found in one of his coal packets were 22 books of matches that were wet while another was filled with baking powder. Lewis said he used the baking powder the names inscribed on the stone is more legible.

The 49-year-old resident of Rt. 2, West Liberty (KY 519), was arrested on a warrant charging him with arson in the second degree.

10 More Charges

According to a spokesman at least 10 additional charges are to be leveled against Lewis.

In his three-day plight through the communities of Zag, where he did the most damage, Pleasant Run and Blaze, he's suspected in the burning of a total of at least 11 structures that included nine barns and two houses.

One figure on estimated damage caused by the fires ranged from $75,000 to $80,000 but the spokesman said it may take a few days to get things settled down enough to do a better survey of the destruction.

He said there has been rumors of additional structures burned that may send the count upward.

According to residents of the area, Lewis is also thought to be linked to some 20 additional mysterious fires over the last couple of years.

Brothers Barn Burned

The first call came into the KSP Morehead post around 9:30 a.m. Monday and was a barn owned by George Wilburn Lewis, a brother of the suspect.

On an initial investigation it was learned George Lewis had discovered the fire in its early state but it quickly spread into unlightable proportions, leading investigators to believe it had been arson.

In addition, tracks had been found around the sight which led into the woods surrounding the George Lewis farm.

By then, however, a second alarm had been turned in alerting state police to another blaze close by.

By noon Monday, somewhere around five structures had been set afire, sending alarmed residents to packing sidearms and shotguns.

Seven Persons Indicted . . .

Ewers Case Discussed By Jury

Seven persons were indicted Wednesday by the Rowan County grand jury which also discussed Morehead State University faculty member William Ewers, 57, who resigned Nov. 14 by letter, admitting he had mishandled public funds.

University President Morris Norfleet in November had requested the matter be dropped, citing poor health by Ewers, assistant director of purchasing who reportedly had suffered a heart attack.

Commonwealth Attorney Truman

Denher said the grand jury discussed the Ewers case for approximately two hours and, even though there have been no formal charges brought against Ewers by the University, the grand jury decided to meet on Jan. 5 and begin hearing evidence in the case.

Denher said four persons have been subpoenaed for the Jan. 5 session of the grand jury in connection with the case. They are John Graham, Mike Walters, Lawrence "Butch" Crum and Buddy Salyer, attorney for the University.

Graham, Walters and Crum are in the University's Division of Fiscal Affairs.

CINCINNATI, Ohio,UPI — Cincinnati Reds' officials are considering whether to retire uniform No. 14 worn by Pete Rose. Rose himself "retired" from the Reds on Tuesday by signing with the Philadelphia Phillies. Should the Reds retire Rose's number, it would be only the second number retired by the club. The No. 1 worn by former manager Fred Hutchinson, who guided the Reds to the pennant in 1961, has been retired.

RICHMOND, Ky.,UPI — One of two men accused of the Oct. 29 murders of a man and woman who interrupted a burglary has pleaded innocent. Allen Todd Hume and Michael Gerald both face murder, burglary and assault charges in connection with the incident. Hume appeared before Madison County Judge James Chennault, who set his trial for March 5. Gerald is in Germantown, Ohio, and an extradition hearing is scheduled for Dec. 19 for him. The two are accused of killing Michael Richard, 21, and Sherri Brock, 18, when Richardson and Brock discovered them during a burglary.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.,UPI — The head of the FBI in Kentucky Benjamin H. Cooke, said Wednesday he would leave his job Jan. 1 to become special agent in charge of the FBI office in Atlanta. Cooke's successor hasn't been named.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill.,UPI — An elderly lady went to the Rock Island Bank to make a deposit Wednesday and nearly wound up being a bank robber. Rock Island police Detective Jim Goodmiller said she picked up a deposit slip, filled it out, completed her business and left. Later, a teller noticed a note written on the back of the lady's deposit slip, advising the teller of a holdup. Police were called. An investigation concluded a prankster had written the holdup note on the back of the deposit slip. The woman used the slip without realizing it.

GARDEN CITY, Kan.,UPI — A Christmas stamp showing a fully clothed Madonna and Child is too voluptuous for some residents. Postmaster Bob Winn said on three separate occasions when he has purchased the 15-cent stamps and later returned them, he said the sculpture on the stamps was by Andrea della Robbia, a Florentine sculptor whose work is displayed in the National Art Gallery.

Council Accepts Low Bid On Bonds

Meeting in special session Tuesday night, the Morehead City Council accepted the low bid from the Farmers Home Administration for $600,000 worth of 1977 Series "B" bonds to be used to finance Contract 17 of the Morehead sewer project.

The FHHA bid, the only one received, offered a 5 percent per annum interest rate.

The council also discussed the problems of people running red lights at intersections in town and persons blocking intersections during rush hours, and agreed to tell the police chief

Money From Coal Tax Will Be Used To Build Vault

The Rowan County Coal Severance Board met Tuesday to approve the minutes of its Nov. 28 meeting.

The approval was necessary as a requirement for making application to the Department of Local Government to use the county's $31,087 in coal tax severance money for construction of a vault for county records in the Martindale Building.

The board also voted to let the Department of Local Government retain the funds in order to eliminate bookkeeping, bill paying and auditing on the local level.

Attending the meeting were Rowan County Judge Executive Willford Finners, board chairman, Morehead Mayor Clayton Jackson, vice-chairman, and board members Mrs. Mae Caudill, Sherman Arnett and Calvin Ray Lytle.

to be stricter on enforcement of laws against these infractions.

After a report by City Administrator Don Evans, who said that some local contractors would have trouble meeting the Dec. 11 deadline for bids for the community building project on Divide Hill, the council unofficially decided to hold off bids until Jan. 8.

Evans also brought up that an auction is going to be held this weekend for a parcel of property at the corner of Wilson Ave. and Second St., and suggested the city bid on the property and use it as a parking lot. Mayor Clayton Jackson said he had learned that a church in the area was considering buying the property for the same purpose, and he suggested that perhaps something could be worked out where the city could use the lot during the week and the church on Sunday. No official action was taken.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The IRS wants to deny tax exemptions for schools that practice racial discrimination. Such a move would discourage private contributions, an important source of income for those schools.

But "the biggest reaction anyone here can remember" by conservatives, religious and educational groups is trying to block the effort.

The IRS spokesman who called the reaction the biggest ever said Sunday the agency has received more than 100,000 protest letters and expects a large number of critics to show up

Tuesday when the proposal comes up for public hearings. Schools with stated policies of racial discrimination are subject to taxes already, but the IRS now is aiming at schools that discriminate without advertising it.

Under the proposed regulations, the IRS would presume a private school is discriminatory if it opened — or expanded — during a period of local school desegregation. The provision is aimed at schools that were opened to avoid integration plans imposed on local public schools.

If 20 percent of the school's students were found to be from the local school-age minority population, the tax status would be safe.

But if the school failed to meet that test, it would have to pass through other ways — minority scholarships, recruitment programs, minority teachers — that it isn't purposely barring minority students.

Critics of the IRS plan say they oppose discrimination, but feel the IRS is overstepping its authority.

Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., head of the American Conservative Union, said the IRS is casting itself "in the role of a social engineer, a role clearly not intended for it." "The potential consequences of this are frightening," said the Rev. Robert Billings, chairman of the National Christian Action Coalition. "If you can tax private religious schools, why not tax churches?"

Robert Lamborn of the Council for American Private Education said the IRS proposal "sets up an affirmative action and quota system for private schools."

The issue is of vital importance to the many private schools that depend on tax-free gifts or endowment incomes. For many schools, such income covers over one-fourth of their operating costs.

There have been signs the IRS is willing to re-draft the regulations to meet at least some of the objections.

For example, an IRS official said a proposal for Jewish students shouldn't have to change its curriculum to attract non-Jewish students. "Something will have to be done to accommodate these kind of schools," he said.

But IRS chief counsel Stuart Seigel defended the agency's overall objective. "Our role is to reflect, not to create, public policy," he said.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

TIPS ON DRIPS, LEAKS, ETC.

America's 46 million homeowners spend over a billion dollars a year on plumbing improvements and repair.

With plumbers' fees shooting up like a fountain, it pays more than ever to make repairs yourself. If you consider yourself "the all thumbs," you probably master many basic plumbing repairs. Here are a few elementary guidelines to make the task easier.

If you are working on a faucet, close the drain to keep screws and other small parts from falling in.

When you dismantle the parts of a fixture, line them up in the order you dismantle for ease of reassembly. A few drops of penetrating oil, wait a little while as long as overnight if necessary and try again.

Inspect parts for signs of wear or corrosion while you have everything disassembled. Replacing a worn part avoids future trouble and the necessity for taking apart the fixture or fitting again.

Keep on hand a supply of common replacement parts: faucet cartridges, washers, washer screws and O-rings. By doing that you avoid the bother of a special trip to the store and the expense of having to leave the water shut off while you're out trying to match the faulty part.

One of the most annoying aspects of plumbing repair is trying to find the right replacement parts. Check with a plumbing supply store first. Plumbing suppliers stock more fittings and employ more knowledgeable salespeople than most hardware or housewares stores. It's usually a good idea to buy parts made by a manufacturer of your fixture. In fact, sometimes this is essential for no other reason than to fit.

Use the right tools and methods, like those described and fully illustrated in the first volume of the series.

Besides saving the cost of a plumber, fixing simple plumbing problems yourself can help keep water bills down. A trickle of water from a drippy faucet can waste a bathtub of water, and a steady stream may amount to enough water to meet an entire family's needs for a day. Little things like inexpensive airtight caps can be fitted easily into sinks and lavatory upsets to eliminate splashing and pay for themselves many times over in water savings.

Doing a successful plumbing job may make your face flush with pride.

CHAPTER LXXXIX

LOVE

BIBLE READING PLAN FOR THIS CHAPTER
 PAGES IN THE POCKET BIBLE 427-434
 1 Corinthians 12:9; 2:31-37; 7:1-11; 8:1-3; 9:22-27; 13:1-13; 14:1-4, 27-31; 15: 1-4, 29-58.

When Paul wrote to Corinth, the church membership had split into factions. Immorality was rampant. A revolting crime of sex had been committed "immorality of a kind that even pagans condemn." In church everyone was trying to talk at one in a frenzied unedifying language. At the Lord's Supper some were getting drunk; others were stuffing themselves with food while those who could not grab as fast went hungry. Questions had arisen concerning marriage, the role of women in the church, and the eating of meat which had been offered to idols.

Paul met the problems head-on. Forgetting theology for a moment, he wrote the church a practical, down-to-earth letter. He begged them to avoid being split into parties. Loyalty should be to Christ, not to Paul, to Apollus, or to Peter. "What are you saying?" he asked "Is there more than one Christ?" Was it Paul who died on the cross for you?

He dealt with the sexual offenses and rebuked the church members for having arisen against each other. Next, he answered the questions which had arisen concerning marriage. He did not pretend that all of his views were "a divine command." Instead, he offered his "advice" and his "considered opinion" to guide the young congregation.

His letter closes with a memorable passage on the "resurrection of the body" and some interesting personal messages, which are not reprinted in the Pocket Bible. These are preceded, however, by some of the most meaningful words in the Bible.

If I speak in the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am a noisy gong or a clanging symbol. And if I have prophetic powers, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing. If I give away all I have, and if I deliver my body to be burned, but have not love, I gain nothing. Love is patient and kind. Love is not jealous or boastful, it is not arrogant or rude. Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at wrong, but rejoices in the right. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. As for prophecies, it will pass away; as for tongues, they will cease; as for knowledge, it will pass away. So faith, hope, and love abide, these three, but the greatest of these is love. All the laws in the world cannot make a parent a good mother or a husband a good father. Duties to feed, house, and educate can be enforced, but a child's happiness and security depend more upon thoughtful deeds and tender care. These come from love.

What is love? Hal Boyle explained it in a story that he wrote about a child.

"The Bible says you find your life by losing it and that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

"A baby doesn't say such things to you. But the blind trust one of these squirming bundles of helplessness places in you teaches you the Biblical truths more surely than would a thousand sermons.

"My wife and I, after nearly 10 years of childless marriage, recently were given for a time the care and feeding of an infant lady of five weeks.

"She is seriously known as 'Madam X' Little Jugghead; 'The Princess,' and 'The Fountain.'

FACTS & FIGURES

According to the United States Bureau of Economic Analysis, Americans spend about $60 billion on clothing every year. Back in the 1950's, we spent less than a third of that.

According to industry economists, a new cotton duck standard would require the cotton industry to purchase up to $2.6 billion in new equipment and would drive up consumer apparel and home furnishings prices. Industry spokesmen say the unneeded regulations are an example of regulatory overkill.

State Capitol Takes On Air Of Christmas

The state Capitol is beginning to look a lot like Christmas. Evergreen swags, poinsettias, wreaths and colored lights decorate every corner.

Gov. and Mrs. Carroll, along with daughter Elly, will officially open the season Sunday, Dec. 10, at the annual Christmas tree-lighting ceremony. White ornaments, made in the shape of Kentucky's 120 counties by area vocational schools, and feathered cardinals cover the tree in front of the Capitol Building. The first family will turn on the red and white lights of the state tree at 6 p.m.

This will be the family's last Christmas in the Mansion, since Kentucky governors cannot succeed themselves in office, and "Reflections" is the decorating theme this year. Mrs. Carroll's addition of shimmering crystal ornaments supports the theme, and ribbons, ornaments and flower peach, white and crystal accent the seasonal greenery throughout the home.

The central decoration in any home is the Christmas tree. Each year the Carrolls choose a living tree to be planted after the Christmas celebration in honor of one of their children. The tree this year belongs to the eldest son, Kenneth. It will be decorated Friday.

Committee Studies State Arson Laws

FRANKFORT — After hearing opinions from state officials, an interim legislative subcommittee has agreed to take action to strengthen Kentucky's arson laws.

Rep. Lewis Foster (D-Lewisburg), chairman of the subcommittee on insurance, directed that a bill proposal be drafted for consideration for the full Committee on Banking and Insurance. Deputy Insurance Commissioner Chuck Zeidler submitted to the committee a model arson law used in some other states. The model law raises the classification on arson from a misdemeanor to a felony.

State Police Lt. Col. Lewis Babb Jr. said arson is a "very serious criminal problem" which increased in Kentucky 78 percent over last year.

Babb said the Kentucky State Police are charged with the investigation of arson cases after the State Fire Marshal's Office has determined that a fire was set deliberately.

"The fire marshal no longer is concerned with arson investigations," said Assistant Fire Marshal Nick Castanis. But he said his office and the state police cooperate in such cases.

Some committee members expressed concern that there may be some overlapping responsibilities and that duties might not be clearly defined the law. "There is a vagueness in the statutes now," Castanis agreed.

with ornaments of hand-blown Kentucky crystal, white doves and peach flowers.

Mirrors in the state dining room reflect the nine-point crystal star, candle holders, and peach flowers and candles on the table.

Mantles in the Mason are decorated with peach-colored roping and small twinkle lights. Wreaths grace every room with ribbons and silk flowers. Hanging pots of white poinsettias are in many of the Mansion's rooms. The home will be open to the public on Tuesdays and Thursdays this month from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 10.

Christmas Decorations Can Become Hazardous

FRANKFORT — With Santa Claus coming soon, Kentuckians are busy "decking the halls." With proper precautions, the decorations can add beauty to the season. But when such decorations are improperly used, hazards can occur.

Christmas trees with electric lights are the most popular decorations and statistically the most hazardous, according to Edsel Moore, manager of the Department for Human Resources, consumer product safety branch.

Evergreens that have been cut and harvested are especially dangerous, said Moore. Most cut evergreen trees that can be bought at Christmas tree stands have been cut from one to two months.

Even though many such trees may have been sprayed with a flame retardant green dye to make them more appealing, they can be very vulnerable to fire, he said.

Aluminum trees may also be hazardous, said Moore. The trees' capacity to conduct electricity may cause serious shock if the aluminum "needles" are caught in Christmas tree light sockets.

Hazardous situations can occur, he said, when proper precautions are not taken. He listed some preventive measure rules to follow.

—Christmas tree lights should not be left on while the family is asleep or away from home.

—Stand cut trees in water and keep water replenished.

—Never use a string of Christmas tree lights as an extension cord. It is easy to overload a string of lights.

—Before placing lights on the tree, check wiring for frayed wires, loose connections and broken light sockets. Lights showing any of these characteristics should be discarded.

—Never set up a Christmas tree near a fireplace.

—Do not rely on the flame-retardant chemicals with which a Christmas tree might be treated. Flame retardant does not mean fireproof.

—Never light a Christmas tree with candles.

—Avoid smoking around flammable decorations.

—Keep a fire extinguisher handy and know how to use it.

—Always use a screen to enclose burning logs in a fireplace.

—Avoid wearing loose flowing clothes around lighted candles and open fireplaces.

—Never use indoor lights to decorate the exterior of a house or a tree that is outside; outdoor lights may be used indoors but indoor lights may not be used outdoors.

—Outdoor electrical decoration should not be installed in wet weather.

Menfee Man's Barn Destroyed By Fire

FRENCHBURG — A barn filled with market-ready tobacco burned to the ground Tuesday on Kendrick Ridge Road.

Carl Simpson said he was in the barn at the time the fire broke out at 4:30 p.m.

Simpson said he did not know the cause of the fire.

He estimated his tobacco at $5,000 and said his insurance would probably pay $3,700.

The barn was not insured and Simpson said he lost about $30,000 in equipment. "I don't know if I'll be able to build it back or not," Simpson said Wednesday, adding that a carpenter's estimate of a new structure would amount to $20,000.

Simpson said he did manage to drive his truck out of the barn shortly after the flames broke out.

He said he then ran to his nearby house and got a bucket of water but by the time he got back to the barn the blaze had "mushroomed."

He then ran to his nearby house for a bucket of water and back in the barn to carry out a chain saw, a tool box and a couple of old tires.

"That's all I could get out," he said, "the fire just mushroomed."

Lab Tests Prove Honey Is Safe Now

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Department for Human Resources announced today that extensive sampling and laboratory testing of honey packed by J. W. Parrish of Homerville, Ga., has revealed that the product is in compliance with Kentucky's Food, Drug & Cosmetic Act and does not contain corn syrup as was previously suspected.

In October, one small lot of the honey was found to contain extraneous matter. That lot was removed from the market and later disposed of.

Numerous samples were collected in November by the department's food control branch and the federal Food & Drug Administration and were sent to an out-of-state laboratory used by the FDA and other states for confirmatory testing.

John Draper, food control branch manager, said today that all J. W. Parrish honey being withheld from the markets in Kentucky is being released for sale. Letters authorizing the release will be sent today to Kentucky wholesalers holding the honey, he said.

EKC Semifinals Continue Tonight

Raiders, Fleming County Meet For Remaining Final Berth Sat.

FOLLOW THE LEADER — Rowan County's Tony McKinney (12) seems to be a popular subject as he heads down the hardwood on a fastbreak. As it turned out, McKinney stopped a little short (as noticeable around the foul line) for a layup attempt and that's what his shot was...

...too short. Interested in McKinney's next move are Menifee County's John Cobb (13), Vester Carter (41) and Roger Williams (21). The action took place in Tuesday night's first round of the Eastern Kentucky Conference basketball tournament. (Staff Photo)

Fleming County and East Carter will play tonight in the lower bracket semifinal game of the boys' Eastern Kentucky Conference Tournament at Wetherby Gym.

The two teams made it by virtue of victories Wednesday night. The Panthers squeaked by Elliott County, 53-52, and the Raiders, crunched Lewis County, 75-55.

The Elliott County-Fleming County game was a wire-to-wire thriller, with no more than three points separating the two teams at each stop. The Lions held a three-point advantage after one period, but Fleming County nosed to a 34-24 tie at intermission, and led by a pair after three quarters. The win kept the Panthers undefeated in three starts this year.

Among the statistics, Fleming County stayed with a somewhat tall Elliott County team on the boards, holding a slim 38-37 advantage. "We're not big, but we feel we have enough size and strength that when we play well, we'll do a good job on the boards," commented Panther coach Joe Dan Gold about the rebounding story. "That's been one of our concerns. Robert Connors, his team's top rebounder in its first two games, led the way again with 10. Billy Griffith and Jerry Lewis topped the Elliott County list with nine apiece.

Neither team was harmed by turnovers. The Lions gave the ball away only 18 times, and Fleming County was only 19. "I'm pretty happy with the way things are going now," he crowed. "I'm starting four freshmen, and I think they would mature as fast as they have."

"From all indications, West Carter has a pretty good team," he continued. "They beat Elliott County by 15, and Elliott County beat us by 15. Of course, sometimes it doesn't exactly work that way."

"The opposite may be true for Fleming County. Coach Billy Calvert reported that his second-leading scorer, Pam Mitchell, is out for the season, and he feels that made a big difference against Elliott County. "We probably wouldn't have had that much trouble (with Mitchell). Now, we're pretty small," he said.

Calvert feels her loss may have dropped the bottom out of the Lady Panthers' whole season. "Everybody's going to be hard to beat now, because we're small and young," he boasted. "We thought there were some teams on our schedule we could have played with. But with (Mitchell) out now, we're going to have trouble playing anyone on our schedule."

Tonight's Rowan County-East Carter game will start at 7 p.m. at Wetherby Gym, as will the championship game tomorrow night, as the opener of a girls-boys EKC doubleheader.

It was the Raiders' second lopsided win against Lewis County in as many games, but East Carter did not play as sharp a game as the score might indicate. Lions coach Gary Kidwell agreed "They beat us by 29 here (at Lewis County last week), and I thought we played terrible last (Wednesday) night. I didn't think East Carter played that well, either."

The telling numbers in the game were on the boards, where the Raiders pulled down a whopping 61 rebounds to 40 for the Lions. "We just had a hard time blocking out," commented Kidwell. "We've never played well (at Wetherby Gym). That's no excuse, though. We just played terrible." Randy Lambert of East Carter was his team's leading rebounder with 13. Joe Gilliam of the Lions ended with 14 caroms.

The rebounds made up for the turnovers, where both teams were hurting. East Carter lost the ball 37 times 60-21 for Lewis County. The Raiders shot more than 10 percent better than the Lions, and both teams had their problems on the free-throw line.

Wildcats Off To Good Start

Off to the most prolific scoring start in its fabled basketball history, the University of Kentucky's youthful but exciting Wildcats will seek to improve on their No. 10 national ranking when they meet No. 5 Kansas Saturday at Rupp Arena.

The Wildcats, after whipping La Salle, 109-77, and West Texas State, 121-67, are averaging 115 points a game, but have no one bettering sophomore forward Fred Cowan's 16.5 ppg.

Fact is eight Wildcats are averaging in double figures, including three freshmen — Chuck Verderber of Lincoln, Ill., 13.0, Dwight Anderson of Dayton, Ohio, 12.5 and Clarence Tillman of Philadelphia, 10.0. Others in double digits are forward Tim Stephens, 13.5, forward LaVon Williams, 13.0, guard Kyle Macy, 12.0 and center Chuck Aleksinas, 10.0.

The cats are hitting 50.6 per cent of their shots and a nifty 78.2 from the charity line, while a smothering defense has held opponents to a mere 35.9 per cent from the field.

Head coach Joe B. Hall told reporters following the West Texas game that, "Yes, this team is different than last year's. We have quickness and a youthful enthusiasm that reminds me of last year's Duke team. I am enjoying watching them as much as the spectators." Kentucky has ruled the series with Kansas, leading 9-1 since the first game between the two basketball powers took place in 1950. The Cats won 73-66 at Lawrence last year but the Jayhawks of coach Ted Owens are rolling this year and would like nothing better than to whip the Wildcats in their own lair. Kansas has played but once in Rupp Arena and absorbed a 90-63 loss in the dedication game in 1976.

Kansas, which has defeated Fairleigh Dickinson, 91-68, Murray State, 81-66 and Boise State, 82-68, hosted Oral Roberts before traveling to Lexington.

Deadlines Extended

Registration deadlines have been extended for basketball and volleyball leagues now being formed by the Morehead Recreation Department.

December 15 will be the final day that interested persons may call the department at 784-6550.

Coordinator Dan Stewart says that so far, eleven teams "have made" seven men's and four over age 30 men's. There has been no response as yet to the adult women's league, he added.

Lady Vikings Roll By Lewis County, Face East

By TED SLOAN
Sports Writer

A promising game between Rowan County and East Carter will cap the semifinals of the girls' Eastern Kentucky Conference Tournament tonight.

The Lady Vikings won for the third time in four tries Monday night, beating Lewis County 35-27 in the opening round. Rowan County bolted to a 19-10 first quarter lead, and consistently widened the margin throughout to breeze to victory.

Melanie Stinson led the way for Rowan County with 25 points, and also had 10 rebounds. Carla May came through with 18 points, and Debbie Dehart grabbed 12 of her team's 33 rebounds while adding 13 points.

Linda Bivens led the Lady Lions with 15 points, and Tammy Underwood followed with 13. Bivens also was team high with seven rebounds and eight assists.

The Lady Vikings are generally considered head and shoulders above every other team in the conference, but they could get a challenge from East Carter, which ripped fading Menifee County also on Monday, 69-25.

Coach Vicky Young of the Lady Raiders knows what kind of team she's going up against, but isn't sure what she plans to do. "When we start a game, we just go out hustling and scrapping, and go from there. They're a well-balanced ballclub," she added. "They don't rely on just one girl."

Young looks for size and experience to be on the side of Rowan County. "They have some tall girls," Young said. "They've played together more than our girls. They're just a good ballclub."

The lopsided win Monday looks good on East Carter's ledger, but Young wasn't all that proud of it. "I don't like doing a team like that," said a classy Young, who also stated that she played everybody she could dress (12 for the EKC Tournament) about equally. "I think she (Menifee County) coach Cathy Coleman had two girls out," Young continued. "She was at a disadvantage."

Last night Elliott County was scheduled to take on West Carter. Jesse Adkins Lady Lions defeated Fleming County Monday, 42-35, while the Comets beat University Breckinridge, 50-35.

Fleming County stayed with Elliott County throughout that game, but couldn't quite catch up. Joni Courts led the Lady Panthers with 15 points in a losing cause. Fleming County's fifth defeat against one win.

Two-game winner Breck gave strong West Carter one of its better games of the year, in the opinion of Lady Eaglet coach Dan Lindsey. "If we hadn't worn out so much in the second half, we could have given them a better game. They were deeper than us. They could go 10 or 11 deep, while we're only about five or six deep."

Lindsey believes that recent performances by his very young team indicate an improving trend. "I'm pretty happy with the way things are going now," he crowed. "I'm starting four freshmen, and I think they would mature as fast as they have."

"From all indications, West Carter has a pretty good team," he continued. "They beat Elliott County by 15, and Elliott County beat us by 15. Of course, sometimes it doesn't exactly work that way."

"The opposite may be true for Fleming County. Coach Billy Calvert reported that his second-leading scorer, Pam Mitchell, is out for the season, and he feels that made a big difference against Elliott County. "We probably wouldn't have had that much trouble (with Mitchell). Now, we're pretty small," he said.

Calvert feels her loss may have dropped the bottom out of the Lady Panthers' whole season. "Everybody's going to be hard to beat now, because we're small and young," he boasted. "We thought there were some teams on our schedule we could have played with. But with (Mitchell) out now, we're going to have trouble playing anyone on our schedule."

Tonight's Rowan County-East Carter game will start at 7 p.m. at Wetherby Gym, as will the championship game tomorrow night, as the opener of a girls-boys EKC doubleheader.

Martin Not Returning To Heights

Morehead State Evens Record With Hard — Fought Win At NKU

HIGHLAND HEIGHTS, Ky. — Nothing to gain but a lot to lose. Those were the odds Wednesday night when Morehead State became the first first round NCAA division one basketball team to venture into Regent's Hall and challenge NCAA division three Northern Kentucky on their own synthetic floor. And on their own officiating terms.

And as far as Coach Wayne Martin is concerned, the Norsemen got their first and last shot at knocking off a division one team at home at the expense of MSU.

"Cause as long as I'm basketball coach at Morehead State University, I'll not be back here (Regent's Hall)," proclaimed Coach Martin.

Going into Wednesday night's encounter with Northern Kentucky, the $64,000 question seemed to be "Why Morehead State here in the first place?" "That's the first thing Coach (Mote) has asked me before the game," Martin relates. "And it was the first question three sportswriters from Northern Kentucky papers asked me after the game. And actually, I was embarrassed to say cause I didn't know why."

As it turned out, the Eagles won their second of four outings and broke a 12 game homecourt win streak for Northern Kentucky. The loss was the first for the Norsemen at home since February, 1977, and third this year.

The win continued MSU's basketball dominance, making it four wins without a defeat over Northern.

"We came back with a win," Martin said, "and that was the main thing. But the new Eagle coach remained highly critical on the fact the trip was scheduled in the first place."

"We had everything to lose and nothing to gain," Martin explained. "Every division one school is now playing division three teams but only on their home court. Take Middle Tennessee as a good example. They're playing about eight home games with lower division schools but they're all at home. If we would have lost at Northern or Bellarmine, it would set out recruiting back in those areas for years."

Martin said in no way is his criticism degrading the respective cage programs at either school. "Matter of fact, it's a compliment Northern Kentucky and Bellarmine have got good teams," he stressed.

"If I'm going to agree to play a division two or three school as a favor for a friend to help build his program, I'm not going to play him away. I'll schedule him at home," Martin continued. "Because I'm the man that will be hired or fired on how successful we are so I will do it. I believe in helping friends but I don't intend to give my shirt off my back to the expense of my own basketball program."

The win evened Morehead State's record at 2-2 with the next game slated for tomorrow afternoon, 3 p.m. at Xavier.

To win, though, it took some "gutsy" play from veterans Herbie Stamper and Butch Kelley who, along with the other Eagle players, braved the officiating elements in the Northern Kentucky battle zone.

Stamper, trying to rebound after a bout with a still lingering kidney infection, opened fire in the second half, pouring in 24 points in all, 17 in the final 20 minutes. From the field the 6-4 senior hit a blazing eight of 11 tries from the field, mostly from long distance, and was eight of 10 from the charity stripe.

During one shooting spree midway in the last period, Stamper scored 15 points and was a one-man offensive stopper against Northern Kentucky's comeback. After the game was tied for the last time, 45-45, Stamper teamed up with freshman Greg Coldiron to outscore the Norsemen 8-2 over the next four minutes. Northern Kentucky failed to make another successful run for the lead.

Kelley teamed up with forward Charlie Clay to control the boards most of the night. The pair combined for 29 of Morehead State's 44 rebounds with Clay taking the edge at 15.

In the meantime, Kelley added 10 points. Coach Martin was highly complimentary of the play of both, particularly Clay who's yet to show offensively what he can do.

"When we recruited Charlie, a lot of people said he could play offense only and that when things weren't going right for him he hangs his head and gives up," Martin said. "But in the last two games the guy's had shots go clear down into the hole and come out on him,

DISCO BASKETBALL. — Lewis County's Linda Bivens appears to be doing some sort of disco dance as she and an unidentified Rowan County player battle for a rebound. The action took place in Monday night's first round of the Eastern Kentucky Conference girls' play. (Staff Photo)

In a clinic on how to shoot a basketball, West Carter, Ricky Callihan pushed a pair of free throws through with 17 seconds to go in overtime to lift his team over University Breckinridge, 56-48, in Tuesday's opening game of the Eastern Kentucky Conference Tournament.

Breck led through most of the way in the nail-biter at Webster by Cym, but fell behind at the third stop, and found itself having to force the overtime. Joe Dawson's follow-up rebound shot tied the game at 46 with 1:18-40 go in regulation, and West Carter, playing for the final shot, couldn't manage to score before turning the ball over in the waning seconds.

The Comet's David Kiser plugged a 16-footer with about a minute gone in the three-minute extra period, and the Eaglets came back to tie it for the last time on a Mitch Bryant bucket with 1:13 left. Callihan botched both ends of a two-shot foul at the 34-second mark, but redeemed himself 17 seconds later with the game-winning charities.

University Breckinridge maintained a short distance ahead of West Carter throughout the first half, and through much of the third quarter. The Eaglets led by a point after one frame, and went into the intermission ahead by five, but faded to a one-point deficit after three quarters, and led in the fourth period only once. Dawson took the opening tip of the fourth stanza in for two points, and Brian Harris added a freebie a few seconds later. West Carter tallied the next five points, the string being broken by another Dawson rebound layup to slice the margin to one point. James Jones of the Comets answered with a pair of free throws, and Harris came back with a basket to again make it a one-point game. West Carter tried to slow the ball down, as it had every time it had been ahead in game, but turned it over, and Joe Magrane canned a foul shot to tie the contest at 44. Dawson and Dale Rogers traded hoops in the next two minutes, and the fourth quarter ended with a tie score.

Even Breck's Dawson had a super shooting night, as the pets were fairly quiet throughout the game. Still, the super-sophomore took game honors in scoring with 21 points, hitting eight of 19 on floor shots and five even from the line. He went scoreless, though, in the crucial third quarter. As usual for Dawson, support was hard to find.

Harris came in second with 11 points, but hit only one out of 11 field-goal tries. The 6-3 senior benefitted from foul shooting, where he was nine of 10. Dwayne Allen checked in with eight points, six coming on charity, and only two other Eaglets even scored.

West Carter was a little better balanced, as three Comets finished in double figures. Kiser was tops with 15 points on the night, equaling his average, but swishing only five out of 14 shots. James Jones (four of 15 from the floor) and Darrell Brown (a more impressive four of eight) were next with 10 points apiece.

The team shooting stats should not be viewed by minors. West Carter (the winners) fired a breezy 52% on field goals, hitting 18 out of 37, while the Eaglets chilled the rim at a 30% clip (13 of 44).

Free-throw shooting was a little more realistic for both as Breck stayed in the game by sinking 22 charities in 32 tries (68%), while West Carter ended 14 out of 21 (67%), including Callihan's game-winners.

Breck was tops on the boards by a 41-34 count, with Dawson taking advantage of all the misses and chalking up 18 rebounds. Neither team hurt itself badly on floor play, with the Eaglets turning the ball over 18 times to 13 for the Comets.

Breck will not see further action again until Tuesday, when the Eagles will visit another EKU foe, the victim, Menifee County. The Wildcats lost an overtime game to Rowan County after the Breck-West Carter game, and next week's contest with a 6-3 record. The Eaglets are now 4-8 on the year. Both teams have lost their last two games. West Carter was to advance to semi-final action yesterday against Rowan County. The Comets were 2-4 entering that game, winning their last two outings.

TWINS? — Though they don't match in physical features, Menifee County's Robert Wells (with the ball) and Kevin Layne of Rowan County have a lot in common. One is the 're both freshman playing varsity level 11-11 for their respective teams, and do... well. The other is their jersey numbers, both 11. What's what's certain... battles yet to come over the next few seasons, Wells wins this one Tuesday night. (Staff Photo)

END OF THE ROAD — Menifee County's Kevin Layne (41) had no place to go but up with a shot over Rowan County's Kevin Layne, seemingly ready for what ever Curry has in mind. As it turned out, Curry did choose to go for the basket and in the process was fouled by Layne. The action took place in the first round of the Eastern Kentucky Conference basketball tournament Tuesday night when Menifee County was eliminated by Rowan County in overtime. (Staff Photo)

Lady Eagles Continue Romping Through Schedule, Now 6-0

By BECKY BENNETT
Special To The Morehead News

HUNTINGTON, W. VA. — Apparently, the success of Morehead State University's young Lady Eagle Basketball team is more than just beginner's luck.

Seven freshmen, five sophomores and two juniors make up the year's squad but MSU's record stands at 6-0.

The Lady Eagles' most recent victories came against Eastern Kentucky, 115-77, and Marshall, 91-40.

Not only have the Lady Eagles been winning, they have been winning by large margins. In the closest game this year, MSU won by 17 points and this year's squad has already broken the school scoring record twice.

Coach Mickey Wells feels "getting off to a good start" in each game has helped his team notch several easy wins.

"I've really been pleased with our consistency in scoring," Wells said. "We're getting out early and that's something we've done all last year."

"We would always start slow and could never build up a big lead. This year we're getting off to a quick start so we can concentrate early in the game."

Against Eastern Kentucky, MSU got off on the right foot, jumping out to an 18-4 lead. EKV never threatened as the Lady Eagles steadily worked their way to a 115-77 win.

Junior forward Donna Murphy and freshman center Donna Stephens led the scoring barrage with 24 points each. The two also led in rebounding. Stephens grabbed 16 and Murphy 13.

Murphy, a 5-10 co-captain of the team, thinks quickness has helped this year's squad gain several of its "big wins."

"This year we have a team that can run," she said. "We can put five people on the court who can get up and down the floor quickly while last year we only had three or four."

Against Marshall, the story was much the same. MSU took an 8-0 lead and dominated for the rest of the game. The Lady Eagles won, 91-40 and the 51-point margin of victory broke another school record.

Murphy once again led in scoring with 25, while freshman guard Robin Harmon added 23.

Harmon, one of Wells' top freshman recruits, has been very consistent over the first six games. The 5-6, Lovely native was the leading scorer in Kentucky her senior year with a 33 points average, shooting 57 percent.

Harmon's move to the college ranks hasn't slowed her as she is averaging 15.6 points per game, shooting an impressive 63.7 percent. Harmon's instant success surprised even her.

"I didn't think I would do this well this soon," she said.

While winning is always nice, there may be some possibilities to how much the Lady Eagles are learning from their large-margin victories. But Coach Wells thinks his team is benefitting from the wins.

"Being able to play everyone will help us later in the season," he said. "Everyone is getting experience."

"I've found out that I have eight or nine kids I can put in on and that's something I worried about earlier."

The Lady Eagles will face Kentucky's Lady Hens in their next game. Game time is 7:30 at Memorial Coliseum in Lexington.

TWO FOR MAY — The afore mentioned trio of words are getting to be quite common these days whether one's talking about Rowan County's boys or girls varsity basketball teams. Here, freshman Karla May (42) cans two of her 18 points against Lewis County Monday night. Her brother, Joey, a senior, is also a starter at guard but for the Vikings under Coach Ted Trent. March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a procedure for partial or no payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court also stipulated Order that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. THE WORLD OF TOMORROW Needed

More Energy Needed

People concerned about America having enough fuel in the future may be pleased to learn that energy experts are well aware of our problems and our potential.

THE PROPER POLICIES to day can help ensure we have enough energy in the future. According to the people who know such as those at the Sun Company, imports of foreign oil are down, and U.S. production is up. However, they also know that even with Alaska's North Slope oil pushing U.S. production up, we will produce only 10 percent less oil this year than in 1970. By 1980, we are likely to be dependent upon foreign sources for more than one half of our oil supply.

That's why they urge energy policy for the future that addresses both conservation and the development of new supplies.

Conservation, these experts say, should mean focusing on wise use of the elimination of waste, not converting to an energy-limited economy that could weaken our industrial and agricultural productivity. To promote new supplies, they point out, we must permit energy prices to reflect true costs. It appears to be time to phase out price controls in an orderly manner. That could be the best way to limit the impact of future energy problems and the development of new supplies.

Many fascinating facts about the Amazon River and its animal inhabitants are contained in a new book called The Amazon. Here are some of those facts.

Sloths hang upside down on trees, thanks to long, hooklike claws, and it is easier for sloths to hang than walk. When these South American creatures take one of their rare walks on the ground, they can move only by heaving themselves along on their bellies.

The giant anacondas (snake) can reach up to 35 feet in length.

The Amazon River is seven miles wide in places and so deep that many ocean-going vessels can navigate it 2,300 miles inland.

The vicious man-eating fish, the piranha, will rarely attack people who keep merrily in the water. But if you insist on just floating, the dead man's float may be appropriate.

One of the islands in the 200-mile-wide mouth of the Amazon River is the size of Switzerland.

The Amazon River, stretching 4,000 miles across South America, is part of a massive system of 1,100 connected rivers, that contain two-thirds of all the earth's fresh water.

The Amazon River has more than 1,500 species of fish. In all of Europe's rivers, there are only slightly more than 150. This and other fascinating information about the Amazon's flora, fauna and people of

The Amazon is vividly described in a lavish, color photo-illustrated book called The Amazon, the first volume in a series of books called "The World's Wild Places" published by Time-Life Books, 541 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Persistent heavy rains in some areas of the Amazon wash away soils essential for making fertile land. The rain combined with tropical heat produces a soil of hard clay that requires a pickax if you want to break through its surface.

The leaves of the lily called the Victoria water lily are huge, and they have inspired the framework of Joseph Paxton's monumental glass hall, the Crystal Palace, built for London's Great Exhibition in 1851.

Stanton Girl Stabbed To Death, Mother Beaten; Youth Charged

STANTON — A 15-year-old juvenile has been charged in connection with the gruesome stabbing and beating to death of a seven-year-old girl and the brutal assault of the girl's mother.

According to Kentucky State Police the tragedy apparently occurred when Sheila Knox, 27, and her daughter, Donna Sheline, returned home from a local laundromat Tuesday night and surprised the juvenile assailant who police theorized was attempting to burglarize the trailer located at Bowen, a small community five miles east of Stanton.

Neighbors heard moans coming from the Knox trailer and summoned the police.

Authorities found the girl dead in the bathroom, her throat slashed.

Mrs. Knox was found tied to a bed suffering from multiple stab wounds and a slashed throat. She was reported in serious condition at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Kentucky State Detective Nelson Hatten said the trailer was in disarray but could not determine if the disorder was caused by the struggle or during the apparent burglary.

The juvenile was later arrested at his home and identified by Mrs. Knox.

police said.

The girl's father, Syl Knox, was not at home at the time. He was operating his service station in Stanton.

Powell County Coroner Carl Wells said that the tragedy had stunned the entire community.

"This is about the worst thing that has ever happened around here," Wells said.

Besides her parents, the girl is survived by her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Knox, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Humphrey, all of Stanton.

Her paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Sparks, of Bowen, also survives.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Wells Funeral Home.

Fleming Boy Dies In Fire, Mother Injured

FLEMINGSBURG — A three-year-old Flemingsburg boy died Tuesday as a result of smoke inhalation in a fire that destroyed his family's home on Ky. 11 and injured his mother.

According to Fleming County Deputy Coroner Conrad Nickell, Thomas Wayne Simms Jr. was apparently asleep in a bedroom when a gas stove exploded about 10:30 a.m.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Simms Jr., was the only other person in the house and escaped with burns on her hands and face. She was admitted to Fleming County Hospital.

The boy's father, an employee of Campbell's Home Furnishings, was not at home at the time.

Services will be 10-10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Boone-Nickell Funeral home with visitation after 9 a.m. Saturday.

Burial will be in the Olivet Cemetery in Mason County.

Carbon Monoxide Poison Ruled In Death Of Young Olive Hill Man

VANCEBURG — A 32-year-old Olive Hill truck driver was found dead in his car Wednesday morning on Trace Fork Road, 10 miles southeast of Vanceburg.

According to Lewis County Deputy coroner Billy Barbour, Martin Lewis Jr. of Rt. 2, Olive Hill, died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Barbour said the ignition was still on and the heater fan was blowing but that the car had run out of gas.

"It was an old car and had a faulty exhaust," Barbour added. According to authorities, Lewis had apparently pulled his car up at the residence of Sharon Cooper Tuesday night.

Mrs. Cooper was not at home but was spending the night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma Cooper. On Wednesday morning Mrs. Cooper

Lewis is the son of Mrs. Beatrice Smith Lewis, Olive Hill, and the late Martin Lewis Sr.

Musical Greats Praised At Kennedy Performance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five of America's greatest musical artists — Marian Anderson, Fred Astaire, George Balanchine, Richard Rodgers, and Arthur Rubinstein — sat in the spotlight in the Kennedy Center's presidential box.

Their lives and contributions to American culture were flashed on a screen and they were heaped with praise by their colleagues Sunday night as President Carter and the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts named their recipients of the first annual Kennedy Center honors.

Of all the famed participants in the program, taped for a later telecast, it was 83-year-old Alberta Hunter, a blues singer, who brought the blue-blood, black-tie audience to its feet, stopping the show to demand an encore. And she did sing again, but not before leaving the stage with an elaborate wink at Carter.

Perhaps the most moving moment came during the showing of the film of Marian Anderson singing to a crowd of 75,000 at the Lincoln Memorial in the 1930s. She had been denied a concert at Constitution Hall. Ballet dancers JJK Suzanne Farrell and Peter Martins performed in honor of Balanchine, and violinists Isaac Stern and Itzhak Perlman played a duet for the 91-year-old Rubinstein in performances that brought standing ovations.

The five honorees, wearing garlands of ribbons representing the seven arts, sat with the Carters and heard tributes from Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Charles H. Percy, columnist J. Art Buchwald, and from their fellow entertainers. Soul singer Aretha Franklin, introduced by Harry Belafonte, sang in tribute to Marian Anderson. Florence Henderson introduced by Mary Martin, sang several of Rodgers' compositions. And on it went.

Earlier, to a packed reception in the White House East Room preceding the Kennedy Center gala, Carter said of the five honorees:

"Their work speaks for itself. Collectively they represent what Americans have come to honor, respect and enjoy."

Carter paid brief tributes to each. He said Miss Anderson, who is black, had symbolized the "tension, anguish, struggle and courage of her own people."

He spoke of Astaire's "style and class" and "effortless grace," and said

Balanchine was recognized as "the greatest choreographer of the 20th century — maybe of all time."

Carter said the quantity of Rodgers' music can be compared only to his sustained unmatched quality and called him "the most popular composer our country has ever known." And Rubinstein he said is "the world's most beloved concert pianist" whose brilliance is coupled with simplicity and passion.

"I feel somewhat out of place here with these great people, but I'm not going to apologize," Carter smiled. "They say politics is the second oldest profession, closely allied to the first," he said to laughter, and added that "politics is closely related to the performing arts."

Carter said America's two most significant contributions to the world are its commitment to political freedom and the vitality of its contribution to the arts.

FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 8, 1978

Credit Well Deserved

There are times when we take the efforts of the local and state law enforcement agencies for granted and allow their good deeds go by without even mention. But in this particular case, we feel it's one that should not be forgotten or passed over without tangible comment.

We should like to be one of the many more who should graciously bestow our thanks, and highly commend those who worked so diligently in efforts to apprehend the arsonist who terrorized western Morgan County earlier this week. Particularly, Capt. L.T. (Sonny) Owens who not only spearheaded the manhunt but refused to take a soft backseat while his troops did the footwork through the dense wooded terrain of the Daniel Boone Forest in search of the arsonist.

We feel it's also gratifying to know Capt. Owens and his superiors considered the incident, and further threat, of such importance and priority they did not linger too long in dispatching additional manpower and air search assistance.

If it had not been for the total effort of many, both individuals and agencies, the arsonist's damage in tangible and intangible forms would have no doubt been much greater.

Thanks goes to the Kentucky State Police, the Department of Transportation, the U.S. Forestry Service, the Morgan County Sheriff and his deputies, and the many others who spent some sleepless hours Monday and Tuesday night so that the residents of western Morgan County could sleep better tonight.

Organizing The Confusion

Approaches now the time of turmoil known as The Christmas Shopping Season, a time of year best entered with a little advance preparation.

To begin with, a revolutionary suggestion: Decide in advance what a friend or relative would like and draw up a gift list. You would be surprised how few people think of that.

The fact is the Christmas gift list began generations ago when kids started filing orders with Santa Claus. Preparing the list is no great problem, once all hands have been asked what they want and in what sizes and colors.

Filling the specifications is where the going gets tough. And, when all is wrapped and ribboned, the weary shopper can never be sure they all really wanted what they said they did.

If the plans of the automation people are fulfilled, Christmas shopping in future years should be simple. Already in the works are automated food supermarkets. Applying automation to Christmas shopping may take a bit longer, but it can present no real difficulties to planners of mechanized merchandising.

One final reference to Christmas programming. Efficiency and foresight in gift shopping could leave the shopper with a whole final week with nothing to do. What to do with all that free time? Make Christmas cookies, of course.

Teaching Santa

A red nose, a white beard and a red suit are necessary, but a person needs more to be a good Santa Claus. He must have good intentions and be must like children.

There are schools for Santa Clauses which stress these traits. They emphasize that no graduate should make idle promises to kiddies who ask for expensive gifts.

Santas who attend school are taught to be courteous and pleasant, are told to keep their uniforms clean and their whiskers straight and to avoid garlic and onions.

And, while the schools don't admit it, presumably all Santas are told that if they are loaded, it better not be anything stronger than good intentions. One school has gone so far as to caution Santas to go easy on the ho-ho-hos. Too much of the jolly business scares the kiddies.

Challenge Of Age

Old age must be recognized as both a challenge and a problem, if for no other reason than because more and more people are living on past the middle years.

Advances of medical science have presented the great majority with this opportunity. It is a challenge to be preferred to the prospect of an early demise, which other generations had to face, but longer life poses some troublesome questions. Can even those who look forward to a reasonable degree of economic security be healthy and happy during the latter years?

No one can provide the answer for any particular individual because the future holds too many unknowns. But it is becoming clear to more and more people that old age is something to be planned for.

Is it possible to plan a healthy old age? It is certainly feasible and sensible to lay plans that will be likely to result in the maximum possible degree of physical well being. There is a certain know-how to be acquired, and it is within the capacity of everyone to acquire it if he is prepared to listen - and to act on what he learns.

Old age can be healthy for many who will live past three score and 10. The individual can do much to achieve that happy end by making plans toward good health earlier in life.

Dynamic Force

Advertising's dynamic force in the growth of American business would be difficult to underestimate. Without it the nation's cherished freedom of the press might be an empty phrase. Advertising makes it possible for the press to serve the public on its present scale.

In early Roman days the customer was guided by the Latin phrase, "caveat emptor" - let the buyer beware. Now the public knows it can depend upon advertising.

This faith is reflected in the ever-growing extent to which big business, small businesses, and people of all walks of life depend upon it. Those who abuse advertising know that they invite not only the wrath of the public but also action at the hands of such bodies as the Federal Trade Commission, the Food and Drug Administration and others. "Caveat emptor" has given way to "advertising emptor."

BOYD & WOOD

the SOVEREIGN STATE OF AFFAIRS

S. C. Van Curen

Agree Or Not . . .

FRANKFORT - There's an unflattering bit of legal mumbo-jumbo in a proposed $31 million Kentucky Housing Corporation bond issue that seems to give the impression that State of Kentucky stands steadfastly behind these tax-free bonds.

This information is contained on page five of the bond prospectus for $32 million to be sold.

In essence the mumbo-jumbo seems to say that if the reserve for retiring the bonds falls below the annual payment the legislature must approve in its next budget the required amount. In the event a legislative session is more than six months away, the money must come from the governor's contingency fund.

In my reading, that encompasses the commonwealth's full faith and credit. In other words the state is responsible.

Other states have proved this to be true. New York, for example, has spent several million dollars in coming to the rescue of its public housing corporation twice in the past two years.

And yet, Kentucky Housing Corporation has maintained steadfastly that these bonds is no way obligate Kentucky's taxpayers.

Let's hope they're right, because in the past three years, Kentucky Housing Corporation has issued bonds totaling almost $500 million and has the authority to issue another $300 million.

During the same period of time, bonds issued for all other state purposes, excluding highways, have totaled only one-eighth of the amount issued by the housing corporation.

New highway construction has increased Kentucky's debt by about the same amount as the housing corporation.

A growing number of people are becoming alarmed that Kentucky's bonded debt is too high.

A recent state study reports that our debt tripled in a 10-year period ended in 1975. At that point, Kentucky's state and local long-term debt totaled $1,170 for every man woman and child in Kentucky, although our per capita income is near the lowest in the nation.

The national average debt was $1,030. None of the surrounding states was within 20 percent of Kentucky, and debt in Indiana and Missouri is less than half ours.

It makes sense to go into debt for parks, schools, public buildings, highways and other projects that benefit all Kentuckians and cannot be financed through other sources.

But Kentucky Housing Corporation debt is primarily to provide low-interest mortgages for families in certain income levels.

That made sense when the corporation originally was formed five years ago (1973), with a debt ceiling of $200 million to help families with annual incomes of $12,000 or less.

But the legislature has increased that debt limit to $700 million and the housing corporation has arbitrarily determined (evidently by rubber dollar reasoning) that families with incomes up to $20,500 a year could qualify for low interest mortgages.

Does it really make sense to finance low interest mortgages for most Kentuckians through state revenue bonds, when mortgages have traditionally been available through banks and savings and loans?

And does it really make sense for buyers of those bonds to pay no taxes on their income from those bonds? Are mortgages for families with average incomes a legitimate tax-free purpose?

A growing number of Kentuckians are asking that question. Their clash with the brokers and bond attorneys who stand to gain from those bonds should prove interesting in the months ahead.

The cost of the $31 million issue is 90 to one per cent or $294,000 for the lawyers and bond brokers.

Preparing the legal papers for the bond issue is a "cut-and-paste" job that a good official legal secretary can do. Merely take the last one and put in the new figure and update it.

Investors are withdrawing funds from savings and loans and from banks to buy these tax-free mortgages. The interest income is tax free. This will cost the state of Kentucky its general fund, for interest on savings and loans and banks is taxable.

F. Lynn Lintell, executive director of Kentucky Housing Corporation, proposes to funnel the money through banks and savings and loans through tough economic times.

Charles Murphy, president of the Kentucky Savings and Loan League, says the Kentucky Housing board has sole authority to say what constitutes a low-income family. "If they say low income is $40,000 a year, that's what it is," he said. "That's too much power."

Jack Rhorer, vice president of Capital Federal Savings and Loan in Frankfort, and former president of the Kentucky Savings and Loan League, is a member of the Kentucky Housing Corporation board and says he is going to vote "no" on the issue at the Dec 14 meeting.

The Editor: This letter is in reference to Dr. Biel's editorial response concerning the "His vehicle, whatever it is" picture in your paper. First of all, the vehicle is called an Amigo. I should know. I am its owner.

In the second place, I really don't feel that it is Dr. Biel's place to judge whether the picture should be in the paper or not. It's not his vehicle. It's mine and I personally don't think it's any of his business to comment on something that doesn't affect him.

Furthermore, unlike Dr. Biel, I realized that the picture was an attempt at humor and, myself, thought it was worth a chuckle.

I can take care of myself without having anyone else worry unnecessarily about me. I wish Dr. Biel would be satisfied with his own damn business without getting into mine.

Atkins Responds To Stovall Request

State Auditor George Atkins responded Tuesday to Lieutenant

Governor Thelma Stovall's request that the auditor's office conduct a special audit of the state's capital construction fund.

"The Auditor of Public Accounts has the statutory duty to respond to a request for an audit by the governor, and our office will begin immediately to do the work Mrs. Stovall requested," Atkins said.

The auditor said the scope of his work must necessarily be narrow since the request is for findings to be made available for the special session which will convene Dec. 11.

"We will comply with Lieutenant Governor Stovall's request that this audit should include, but not be limited to, the amount of funds that have been allocated for specific projects and the remaining allocated balance of all projects whether completed or not."

"We will also look at the overall budgetary and expenditure process for capital construction. By looking first at selected high-cost projects and, second, at the procedures for project funding, we will attempt to identify any funds that might be available at the governor's discretion."

Atkins said he personally feels the issues Lieutenant Governor Stovall addressed for the special session are "the issues that are on the minds of the people."

The auditor said that in an effort to identify available funds, excessive spending and political waste, the capital construction fund is an excellent place to start.

It appears that the governor has millions of dollars in the capital construction fund to use for whatever purposes he desires. Unauthorized projects are funded, and authorized projects are cancelled with no controls, no system of checks and balances," he said.

Atkins pointed out that the auditor's office has documented over the past three years abuse of capital construction funds in reports on the Pepper Warehouse lease, the library lease, the use of the state aircraft, personal service contracts, and others.

"Even though Thelma Stovall and I are both candidates for governor, gubernatorial politics are not at issue here."

"At issue is excessive, unauthorized spending of the taxpayers' money," Atkins concluded.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

Some people say . . .

Americans are becoming increasingly less sympathetic to the needs of national defense and believe that the nation's safety could be insured with less costly equipment and curtailed expenditures.

The above viewpoint does not necessarily represent the opinion of this newspaper or its staff. It does represent one side of a current topic of American conversation. The editor invites your comments.

Letters Welcome

Our "Letters to the Editor" column has, in the past, occasionally carried letters of a "thank you" nature. This type letter no longer will be used in the column inasmuch as we are of the opinion that "thank you" notes do not have general reader interest and only provide an easy way out for what should be a more personalized, sincere note of appreciation by organizations to those who help in their projects.

The Morehead News "Letters to the Editor" column will be reserved for those wishing to express opinions on subjects that interest them strongly and have no other means of disseminating their thoughts.

We welcome your letters for publication in the column. They should be addressed to The Editor, The Morehead News, 722-30 West First Street, Morehead, Ky. 40351. They should be typewritten, if possible, and signed. Include your address and telephone number for verification.

Safer Speaks Freely On Variety Of Topics

A near capacity crowd was on hand Monday night in Bolton Auditorium on the MSU campus to hear Morley Safer of CBS's 60 Minutes.

Safer, who for the past eight years has been co-editor of 60 Minutes, freely expressed his opinion on numerous topics, ranging from the federal government to Charlie's Angels.

Safer, who accepts only four to 10 speaking engagements a year, explained that when he talks to groups he speaks as Morley Safer, not as Morley Safer CBS.

"I usually speak to machinery, not people," Safer said, when commenting on reporters and today's journalism. He added, "Reporters should keep their virginity. We run a great risk of being misquoted by other reporters. We should not stand before a crowd that includes reporters."

Safer highly praised the three television networks, saying "All three networks are excellent."

The journalist spoke of the bureaucracy in this country and the misunderstanding of journalism. He said there is a belief by political institutions that journalism is a medium upon which messages are to be placed.

At one point in his remarks, Safer said, "There are times in my bleakest moments when I feel the only estate left with any integrity in our country is the fourth estate."

Since the Woodward and Bernstein fame in Watergate, Safer said many editors are cautioning their reporters that they must not become over zealous. It is Safer's opinion that "We are not on an investigative bing."

The Charlie's Angels program was compared to junk food by Safer who said there also is junk tv. But, he explained that "A little is good; a lot won't kill you, but too much will turn you into a zombie."

Safer, when he has time to watch television, tunes in to the old movies and 60 Minutes. Other than that, his only television interest is the "Muppets."

The newsmen said that more and more people are turning to broadcasts like 60 Minutes, possibly because other programs are running out of ideas. He said it took 60 Minutes eight years to build an audience. "We have a loyal audience," he also clarified his comments about Charlie's Angels by saying, "There is nothing wrong with junk on tv as long as you have a balance."

Safer said the CBS brass are not saintly, but that there is a heritage here. He explained that the CBS newsmen have been left alone - are not controlled by the brass. He continued, "You want your news people snapping at the heels of government, industry and whatever."

He spoke briefly on the firing of Daniel Schoor by CBS. Safer said "Schoor was an extremely difficult man who made a terrible error near the end of his reporting days for tv in that he stopped being a reporter and became an advocate."

Safer continued his comments about the Schoor firing by saying, "He lied, not only on the air but inside the firm. I think it was a parting of the ways to everyone's advantage. He's still a friend of mine, but not as good a friend as he was."

Safer said, "When you work for a firm, you have certain responsibilities to your employer, including ethical responsibilities to your employer."

During a question and answer session, Safer responded to a question regarding his "Safer's truthfulness. He said, "There is a difference in speaking to a couple of hundred people than a couple million CBS knows what I think, but if someone hears it on radio and television, it becomes Safer CBS news and not just Morley Safer as I am speaking here."

He said CBS newsmen often are threatened with legal suits and occasionally with physical threats. Safer added, "You can't let your life be ruled by bad guys. You're scared, but you carry on; you've also got to be right."

Safer assured his audience that the network does not try to control 60 Minutes. In fact, he said he knew of no sponsor pressure even.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Words Of Wisdom

If you're a homeowner and think KWHR is a West Coast radio station, it's time to learn otherwise.
KWHR, or Kilowatt hours, is a term to know if you're serious about trying to hold the line on rising energy costs.
To help raise your energy-consciousness, and lower your fuel bills, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, a leading manufacturer of home insulation, has compiled this glossary of frequently used energy "buzz words."

AIR INFILTRATION

This is the leakage into your home, through cracks and crevices, of hot or cold air. It causes winter heat loss or summer heat gain, and is a drain on your energy dollars.

CAULK

To make an area water- or air-tight by filling in cracks and crevices around windows and doors.

WEATHERSTRIPPING

Strips of metal, plastic, rubber or felt applied around the perimeter of all exterior doors and windows to stop air leaks. Like caulking, weatherstripping is easily applied and normally not too expensive.

DOUBLE-GLAZING

A specially made window consisting of two panes of glass with an airspace between them to serve as an insulating medium. It can also be a storm sash installed over existing windows. Tinted or reflective glass may aid in reducing heat gain during warm weather.

INSULATION

A material that resists the transfer of heat. The more effective insulating materials are those with the higher resistance or "R-value." (See definition of R-value.) Insulation is commonly available in either blanket or

When using loose insulation, it is best to have a qualified insulation contractor who has been trained to install the material correctly.

Shields that resist the flow of water vapor through the structure. Most blanket-type insulations are available with a vapor barrier, such as foil-faced fiberglass or polyethylene sheathing, to prevent water vapor from moving into the structure.

Small Morgan Community Terrorized By Fires

By BETTY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday - Dec. 4 through 6 - was a period of terror for the community of Zag in northwest Morgan County. The suspicious burning of numerous barns and other farm structures as well as two homes resulted in the virtual cessation of everyday activities within the community.

A bizarre manhunt for the suspected arsonist culminated in the capture of the suspect late Wednesday. During the three day period, men stayed home from work, children from school and women and young children behind closed doors.

The atmosphere was one of fear and high tension. Men toured a stretch of state and county roads, armed with guns, attempting to help state and local police apprehend the suspect, Zules Lewis, 49, who had taken refuge in the rough terrain of the Daniel Boone National Forest.

Bloodhounds Used

Reports of sightings of the suspect, followed by the outbreak of new fires were the rule of the three day period. More than 50 state policemen, along with local police, assisted in the manhunt. Airplanes, helicopters and bloodhounds were called into use.

Residents of the area talked freely of the situation but in most cases requested that their names be withheld - each fearing to become the target of the suspect's vendetta.

Local opinion holds that the suspect has a 10-year history as an arsonist, who had never been apprehended and who has resorted to the burning of other people's property in retaliation against denial of fire insurance on his own property because of the number of suspicious fires that occurred. In recent years, many residents in the Zag area have had their fire insurance canceled because of the number of fires occurring. As a result, the losses have been economically devastating and have resulted in extreme anger and fear.

Opinions Differ

What kind of person is Lewis? Members of the Zag community have a variety of opinions. Some feel he is mentally deranged and in need of help... others that his actions are coolly and logically calculated to achieve his own ends. On the first day of the manhunt, residents openly armed themselves. Young men were seen wearing guns and holsters and trucks in the area were seen equipped with rifles and shotguns.

Remarks like "A man has to protect his property," and "You can't tell what a man like that will do," could be frequently heard. The death of Ray Cox, a resident of Zag, resulting from a heart attack occurring while fighting fire in a burning barn, intensified reaction to the situation.

Patrick's Grocery, located on Ky 519, in the center of the area hardest hit by the fires, became a focal point for communication among the citizens. Men and boys stood around on the store's front porch and in the parking lot making comments about Lewis and what appeared to be a vain effort on the part of the police to take him into custody.

One man remarked, "These state policemen can't take Lewis until he wants to be taken. He knows this country and they don't. He can hide in them pine and laurel thickets and go anywhere he wants without being seen."

Smartest Man Around
Another one who identified himself as the great nephew to the suspect said, "They can't catch Zules Lewis. He's too smart for them. People think he's crazy but he's not. He's about the smartest man around here."

A young boy, about 12 years old remarked, "The best place for him is in his grave. If I had my way about it, that's where he'd be."

One resident, willing to be identified and quoted, was a woman by the name of Louise Gambill. She and her husband, Offa Gambill, had a close relationship with Lewis. Last year they rented tobacco from him. At the end of the season, with $10,000 worth of tobacco stripped and in the barn, half of which was theirs, the barn burned.

Feel Sorry For Him

"We couldn't prove Lewis burned the barn," Mrs. Gambill said, "but, we think he did. It cost us $5,000, but I still feel sorry for the man. I think he's sick and needs help. I feel real sorry for his wife, too. She's a real nice woman."

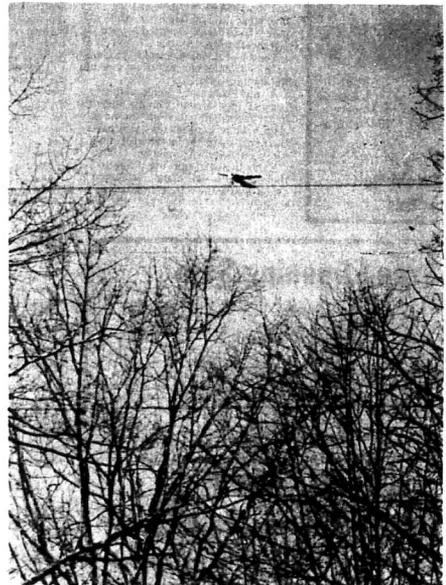

On Wednesday, when Lewis was taken into custody, he offered no resistance. He was discovered sitting in a graveyard, recording information from a headstone.

Capt. L.T. Owen, one of the three officers assisting the Lewis arrest reported the interplay of communication that occurred when Lewis was apprehended.

Walking up to Lewis, Owen asked, "How're you doing, Zules?"

Zules Lewis answered, "Oh, I've been pretty busy for the last three days."

His capture marked the end of a bizarre experience for the community of Zag. His remark may be viewed as the understatement of the year.

Authorities enlisted the services of a KSP Eye in the Sky Tuesday afternoon in the hunt for the suspected arsonist. Among others in the plane was Lt. Col. Douglas Sword out of the Frankfort headquarters of the KSP who is in charge of field command.

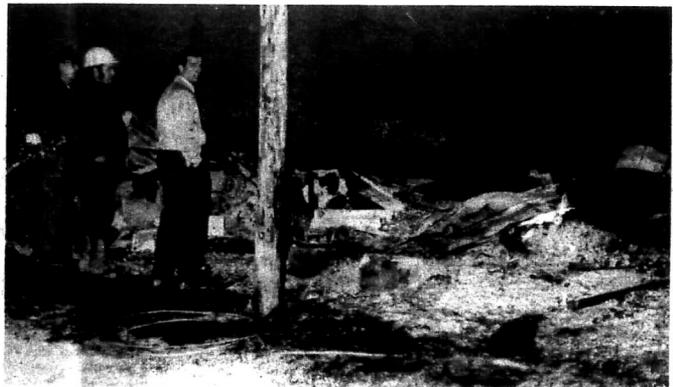

Treat, a bloodhound out of Lexington Metro's K-9 detachment, was called into action Tuesday. Here, Treat attempts to pick up the trail of the arsonist in the community of Pleasant Run, one of the last places he was spotted that afternoon.

Residents gathered in several areas over the three day ordeal, mostly to trade small talk on what was, or wasn't happening in the search.

A sight too familiar - A sight such as this one became all too familiar to the West Liberty firemen Monday and Tuesday as they dutifully and admirably attempted to keep up with the arsonist. This was the last of a string of some nine barns which were set ablaze by the arsonist in his flight through western Morgan County and the community of Zag. (Staff Photo)

Little remains of the huge barn that once stood where ashes now lie. Local residents survey the remains of the barn which belonged to George Wilburn Lewis on KY 519 - the first of several victimized by suspected arsonist Zules Lewis. Zules and George are brothers. Lewis said the barn contained about 2,000 lbs of hay and some tobacco ready for market. When ignited, the hay went up in flames too rapidly to be extinguished. (Staff Photo) said to be a fitting CB handle. Lewis had, over the last few years, built a reputation as a firebug.

Yet, while they had his identity, authorities also knew he would be a hard man to catch because of his expert woodsmanship.

By nightfall the count had risen to five barns and two houses, one each belonging to Sgt. Hensley while the other house was reported owned by Hershel Rigby.

The suspect had widened his burning path, reaching some four miles and into the community of Zag.

At nightfall, state police and members of the Morgan County Sheriff's department had called off the intense search while local citizens also parted their bands with the intention of staging a vigil on their own property.

Early the next morning police found the suspect's overnight residence, a shack deep in the woods, and it was also burned.
While state police and sheriff deputies got an early start Tuesday morning, the suspect got an even earlier one.

Additional Manpower

By nine he'd set three more structures ablaze, causing Capt. Owen to send for additional manpower from the Ashland, Pikeville and Frankfort posts. He also requested a fixed-wing airplane from Frankfort and later in the day a helicopter.

While authorities continued to search the woods near Zag, state police cars were out in numbers patrolling KY 519 and 772.

Later that afternoon, a pair of bloodhounds arrived from Lexington in hopes of picking up a fresh trail into the woods but that effort also failed to catch the suspect.

And again a second nightfall arrived without success.

Around nine o'clock Wednesday morning, after Capt. Owen had spent most of the morning setting a perimeter around the area where the suspect was last sighted Tuesday, a call came in from a woman who reported she had seen a man fitting the suspect's description near Blaine.

Capt. Owen said luckily he was still in his vehicle when the call came in and was even luckier he was just a couple minutes from the sight.

The area was immediately surrounded as Capt. Owen, Lt. Burgin and Sgt. Hensley moved in, finding the suspect sitting calmly in a graveyard amidst the tombstones writing down names.

Lewis was then taken to the Morehead post for processing and questioning before spending the night in an undisclosed hideaway.

"The people over there (Morgan County) are pretty riled up right now," Owen said, explaining why Lewis wasn't taken to West Liberty for processing.

He said Lewis would be transported to Morgan County Thursday morning for a preliminary hearing before District Judge Sam Long where additional counts are expected to be listed and bond set.

Another tragedy surrounding the events was the death of Ray Cox, 42, of Rt. 2, West Liberty, who died of a heart attack after helping save the barn of Rosa Howard at Zag.

Cox managed to tear burning boards off the barn. He then lay down nearby and died. Morgan County Coroner Marling Potter attributed the death to a heart attack.

Two Injured In Auto Mishap

Two persons were slightly injured in a head-on collision Tuesday on US 60, 2.5 miles west of Morehead.

Kentucky State Police said the collision occurred when a car driven by Terry King, 17, of Rt. 5, was going west and attempted to pass another vehicle.

The King vehicle collided with an eastbound car driven by Cathy Coleman, 25, of 527 Whitaker Street, Morehead.

Both drivers were treated and released at St. Claire Medical Center
