Easy Does It

Apple Crisp, With Cream Or Hard Sauce Is Delicious

By Helen Hale

Use gay colorful dollops for mealtime whenever possible. If a drop spills, you'll have only one dollop to wash in place of a whole large tablecloth.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Apple Crisp
(Serves 6)
2 1/2 pounds (8 cups) sliced tart apples
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup butter
1 1/2 cup crushed cornflakes

Wash, peel and core apples. Slice 1/8-inch thick. Mix together sugar, spices, lemon rind and salt. Layer apples in greased casserole, and sprinkle each layer with sugar mixture, cornflakes and dot with butter. Repeat until all are used, leaving a larger portion of the cornflakes and butter for the very top layer. Cover and bake in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven for 15 minutes. Uncover and bake for about 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender and the top crisp. Serve with cream or hard sauce.

If you're thinking of saving time serving a first course of fruit or vegetable juice, don't give it up readily. A small glass of the juice can be placed on the table next to the water glass, and it can be sipped while you're serving the main dish.

Use little sauce or side dishes only when you're having such foods as really need them, like stewed tomatoes, vegetables in sauce, or cream-style corn.

A three-way platter saves dishes and space on the table. You can place meat in center or on one side, then potatoes to the other side, and vegetables next to them or to the meat. It's a pretty way of serving!

Plan to cook and serve in the same dishes whenever possible because of the time and dishes saved, as well as the fact that you can bring them to the table at the peak of perfection.

Every now and then, add variety to serving, by preparing the plates in the kitchen. Arrange the dishes whenever possible where you can serve them easily, set them on a tray and bring the dinner to be served, to the table at one time.

KENTUCKY'S FIRST CITIZEN. Gov. Earle C. Clements, is the first to sign one of the Freedom Scrolls in the Crusade for Freedom campaign which started Sept. 4. State Crusade Chairman Guthrie F. Crowe, LaGrange, under whose direction Crusade committees are being organized in all 120 Kentucky counties, looks on. Scrolls, containing 50 names each, will be deposited in the Freedom Shrine in Berlin. The campaign runs through October 16.

Child Must Learn For Self Danger Of Accidents

By Mrs. Catherine Conrad Edwards

In protecting a child from accidents, no matter how carefully you watch over him, you can't take the whole responsibility for his safety. The child must be taught to be careful of himself and his surroundings. He must learn to take care of himself and his belongings and places so he can exercise caution. Sharing this responsibility not only insures greater safety for him, but the child is less likely to grow up with unreasonable fears. He understands the real dangers and has more freedom of action within safe boundaries.

'Make Or Break' Period For Kentucky's Tobacco Growers Appears Here Now

Heavy Rain, Shortage Of Coke Held Real Menace To Farmers

The next few days may either "make or break" the 1950 burley tobacco crop in Kentucky. Tobacco men, very much alarmed over the continuous rains that soaked the first week of tobacco cutting, viewed the situation as "bad at the best," and felt that another week of wet, humid weather would further endanger the leaf crop.

One of Fayette county's biggest burley producers said the crop's state was critical. He related how burley was rotting in the fields and being lost to house burn in tobacco barns.

Such Hits Make It Easier On Taxpayers

Sen. Edward V. Laney, Jr., of San Diego, Calif., was credited by the Army with a remarkable double knockout of enemy tanks with a single bomb Sunday.

Flying low in a fighter, Laney spotted the two tanks close together and released his 500-pound bomb.

"Those tanks no longer exist," an Army ground controller reported.

"Farmers are burning all the crops they can get, but even at that their loss might be tremendous," he said.

The poor harvesting outlook has been complicated by at least three major factors—lack of coke for curing, shortage of farm labor and ceaseless rain.

Last week, it was revealed that farmers had run into a shortage of coke and that considerable loss would be suffered if an adequate supply could not be obtained. Normally, growers have enough of the product on hand for an average curing.

However, the wet, humid weather has forced numerous growers to burn up their supply in trying to cope with the bad weather. In order to cure the crop, growers have been burning coke night and day with the result that coke consumption has increased tremendously.

One source said the per-ton price of coke already has jumped from $30 to $27 per ton, and that he had heard reports of coke being "hoarded" locally from Ohio at $38 per ton. In numerous cases, it has been reported that coking has not been enough to arrest the ravages of house burn.

Added to the coke shortage is a lack of labor to cut and house the leaf. Farmers not only are encountering a difficulty in hiring harvest hands but are also having to pay higher wages, one grower said.

Last week, it was a common sight to see cut tobacco being soaked and washed on the ground in a heavy downpour before farmers had a chance to get it under cover.

Fayette County Agent Ben J. Butler said that the situation "is bound to be bad" but that the greatest loss probably would be to tobacco hanging in the rails.

"The situation is alarming to say the least, and the weather is going to have to improve a lot or the loss will increase," he stated.

"There hasn't been too much damage in the field as far as I can learn, but there will be damage in the barn unless farmers can fire," he added.

He advised farmers planning to cut burley to observe morning weather signs and reports carefully. "It looks in the morning like it'll rain in the afternoon, I don't believe I'd cut," Butler stated.

W. C. Johnstone, field agent in agronomy at the University of Kentucky, said briefly, "I'm not very optimistic about it."

The agronomist said he visited over the entire state last week and that there has been little progress made in housing the crop.

In many cases, damage in the field has cost the grower the high-price "trashy" lower leaves. The bad harvesting season is being felt more keenly in Southern Kentucky where the crop is more advanced.

In the western section, wild fire is rampant in the dark leaf, he added. He also pointed out that the coke and labor shortage added to the complications, and feared that continuing rain would further the damage.

"I don't like to be an alarmist, but it's very bad right now," he stated.

Employees Of Ford Motors Get Increase

Company Raises Pay 8 Cents An Hour As Living Costs Soar

The Ford Motor Company tore up an unexpired contract with the CIO United Auto Workers this week to grant an immediate eight cents an hour cost-of-living increase in wages.

The addition of Ford's 128,000 hourly-rated employees brings to almost 1,000,000 the number of auto workers riding a new wage spiral in the industry.

The new contract is for five years and in addition to the immediate eight-cent hike grants workers an annual four cents an hour raise, beginning next June 1.

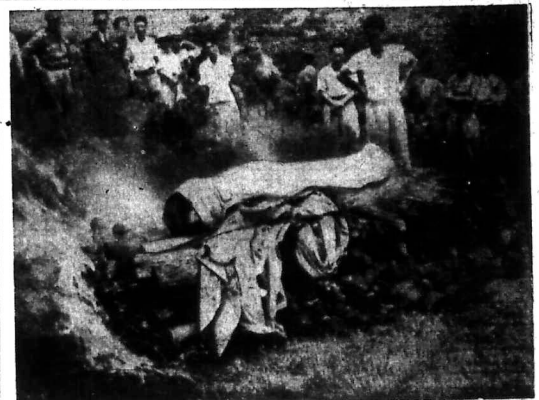

A cost-of-living escalator also was written in. It permits wages to go up or down one-cent an hour every three months for every 1.14 advance or drop reported by the bureau of labor statistics. They can keep on rising, but cannot drop more than eight cents an hour, and the four-cent annual increase will not be affected.

Announcement of the new agreement came dramatically after three days and nights of almost continuous company and union negotiations. Each side claimed credit for instituting the move, but both agreed it was the biggest labor news of this mid-century Labor Day.

In junking the old contract that had set January 1 to run Ford agreed to raise old pensions from $100 to $125 monthly, including federal social security, and added another five cents hourly for 16,000 skilled tradesmen.

The company said it soon would announce adjustments for its 30,000 salaried employees "in line with the new agreement with hourly-rated workers."

Ford said in a statement that the "impact" of the pay increases on car prices "cannot be clearly estimated now." Others granting recent wage boosts have expressed hope that prices would not have to be raised.

The UAW-General Motors contract, long containing a cost-of-living escalator, set off the new spiral. A gain registered in three months ending July 15 shod the wages of GM workers up five cents an hour, effective Sept 1.

Chrysler shortly announced a 10-cent cost-of-living increase outside its existing contract Packard, Hudson and the Briggs Manufacturing Co. followed with raises ranging from five to seven cents.

Current hourly pay of the average auto worker is estimated by persons within the industry to approximately $1 75. Rates for skilled tradesmen, such as tool and die makers, run around $2 50 an hour.

Thinking of the Long Pull?

Better Buy Buick!

If that car of yours has put its best days behind it, there's no time like right now to think about starting out afresh with a fast, new, up-to-the-minute motorcar with all its mileage still in it.

And there's no better place in the world to start than with the beauty picture here, for a variety of reasons.

For one thing, this Buick SPECIAL is a quick-stepping Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight that's priced lower than some sixes.

For another, it's built with typical Buick ruggedness through and through — a husky that can take a lot of years without crying "Uncle!"

Then, too — this high-styled beauty is proving to be one of the most economical Buicks ever built — easy on gas, easy on upkeep, easy on you in its soft, floating, light-handling comfort.

It even comes with Dynaflow Drive* if you like — and Dynaflow means that you will never have to service or replace a friction clutch, and that rear-end or transmission servicing — even engine upkeep — are cut to a minimum.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Of course, you can't see all of this in the brief span of a trial drive.

But you can experience the good, solid feel of Buick's straight-eight beneath you. You can satisfy yourself on the lightness of the controls, the utter smoothness of Dynaflow, the quick surge of Buick's Fireball power.

All such things will tell you that this is a car you'll be glad to live with for a long time to come — and you need only to ask your Buick dealer for a demonstration to see precisely what we mean.

Why not call on him soon to talk about signing up?

News Short Story Of Week

"Last Duty"

A Short story by Richard Hill Wilkinson

When Aaron Howard and Jill Damon were married they went to live on a ranch on Grand Place that Aaron had inherited from his father. Both loved the place, for the West was their native land. They were supremely happy. Two years after their marriage a son, Phil, was born, and 16 months later a second son came. They named him Roger.

The children, as is so often the case, did not detract from the affection between Aaron and Jill. They were a love that went deeper. If anything, they came to depend more on each other for comfort and understanding. Aaron's only request of life, and Jill's too, was that they could live together, that one would not be left behind to carry on without the help of the other.

Age May Be Lifted To 35 Believes Draft

Armed Force Chairman Says Matter Will Be Considered In January
A move to raise the top draft age from 25 to 35—and possibly draft World War II veterans—was forecast this week by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee.

When Phil was 24 he fell in love with a neighboring rancher's daughter named Janice. Roger, yet he withheld the advice which perhaps should have been given. He thought of his own courtship of Jill. He like Phil, would never have let a rival discourage him in his endeavor to win her affection.

"All right, boy," he said quietly. "I understand. We'd go together." And Aaron went and got his own gun and followed his son down to the corral. They were up and off at dawn. Toward late afternoon they crossed a trail and followed it. They entered a ravine and presently Aaron pointed to a swirl of smoke above the trees. Roger's mouth set grimly. He swung to the ground. Aaron did likewise. They crept up a rise and parted some bushes and saw Jed Potter hovering over a fire. Side by side they crept down the slope and suddenly stopped through Jed Potter 15 feet away. Roger was in the lead. Aaron behind and to the right.

United States today has many more—and larger—air tankers than at the outset of World War II, according to the Department of Interior. On September 3, 1948, the latest figures show that there were 470 tankers in the Western hemisphere—339 more than ten years earlier. Of these, 378 were under the U. S. flag—195 more than in 1939. There have been additional tankers in the last twelve months.

Baptist Church At Frenchburg

Menifee Becomes Last Kentucky County In Which Organization Has Regular Worship

Frenchburg, the last county seat in Kentucky without a Baptist church, got one Sunday. Kentucky Baptists have been working toward the goal of a church in every county seat for several years. They have been established in every county seat except Frenchburg. But Sunday the Rev. A. B. Cech, field secretary of the Baptist Mountain Mission, announced that an organized Baptist church was constituted in this Menifee county seat with a full day's program. The group constituting the new church has been meeting in temporary quarters for several weeks, having taken a lease on an abandoned "corkum-house" until a church could be built.

Plans for a new building are already under way, according to the Rev. Carl Benson of Frenchburg who has been leading efforts to get the church established. The afternoon program Sunday opened at 2 o'clock and consisted of adoption of the articles of faith and other Baptist doctrines as well as organization of a pastor and members. Among the speakers were Dr. W. C. Boone, Baptist mission secretary, Louisville; Dr. S. N. Wilkinson, Lexington; the Rev. Harry Jacobs, Mt. Sterling; Rev. Benson, Rev. E. C. Tuttle, Hartwood, and Rev. A. B. Cech, Lexington.

Build-up Of Forces Urged By MacArthur

More Ground Troops
Needed By U. S.,
General Tells UN

Gen. Douglas MacArthur pleaded this week for a quick build-up of United Nations ground forces in Korea.

He said in a report to the United Nations that naval and air power have grown in strength and effectiveness, but added: "My gravest concern is for a prompt buildup of the now outnumbered ground forces of this command."

MacArthur is the commander of all UN forces trying to push North Korean invaders back to the 38th parallel, across which they invaded South Korea June 25.

"The information I have received on the size and type of units offered by member nations," he said, "shows a united and determined spirit in the nations of the United Nations to repel the invader of the Republic of Korea that is gratifying. I still feel it my duty to report to you that contributions must be forthcoming without delay if this threat to international security is to be resolved promptly."

He added: "I am glad to report that during the period of this report (Aug. 1-15) the cohesion displayed by the United Nations forces of this command has grown the validity of the United Nations concept of peace."

The report is his third. It gives a general description of military operations in the Pusan bridgehead between Aug. 17 and 18. MacArthur said that strategic withdrawals were required because the ground forces were still outnumbered.

MacArthur's second report, on operations for the latter part of July, was submitted to the UN through the U. S. mission to the United Nations Aug. 17. Russia's Jakob A. Malik was president of the Security Council in August and refused to read the report into the records.

The second report said that, although eight nations were represented in naval and air operations, no countries other than the United States and the Republic of Korea had contributed ground fighting forces up to him. It asked for more troops without delay. Between the two reports, the British sent one unit of 1,600 men from the Hong Kong garrison. Other nations have reiterated pledges of ground forces and a figure of around 30,000 has been talked of. The third report does not cover the period of the British unit's arrival.

Greece is the latest to offer ground forces, a brigade of about 5,000 men. The Philippines, Britain, Australia, Turkey, Thailand and Nicaragua have proposed to send forces of similar strength. MacArthur's report hinted at reinforcements for the invaders from Red China, but said they may be Koreans.

Electric Power
While the cost of living for the average household has risen nearly sixty-seven per cent in the last ten years, the cost of electricity has dropped five to ten per cent in the same period, according to the Federal Power Commission.

Russia brands the United States as the aggressor in Korea but it says nothing about North Korean attacks upon South Korea.

with a test!

Test your home now for ample study lighting. Providing a comfortable, well lighted place for study is one of the most important ways a parent can assist with homework.

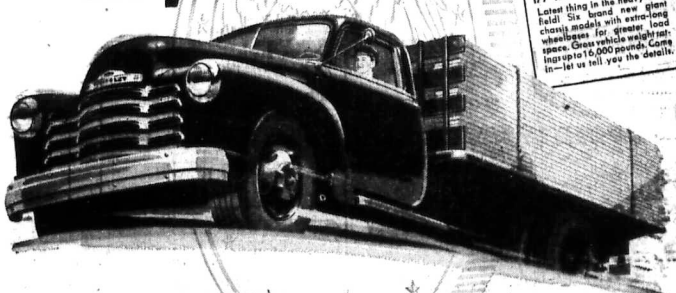

Remember, when you provide your children with a properly lighted place to study, you not only help them to learn, but you help protect precious eyesight as well.

A SIMPLE STUDY TABLE for a school child's room or study corner

Place the desk against a light tinted wall; a light wall can reflect 20 per cent more light on the work surface than a dark wall. No need to repaint—a simple tackboard, made at home and mounted above the desk will do the trick. It will also serve as a spot for mementoes, and as a handy bulletin board. Mount on the tackboard two inexpensive pin-up lamps with diffusing bowls and opaque shades. Install 100-watt bulbs. Keep the lamps 30 inches apart.

Be sure to measure their height from the desk carefully to make certain no direct light will fall in the child's eyes. Finally, put a light colored desk blotter on the desk to avoid harsh reflections from its surface.

Greatest Danger Of Third World War Lies Ahead, Most Diplomatic Officials Agree

Formosa Controversy Brings Differences Into Public Focus

Top American diplomatic and military officials are convinced that the greatest dangers of a potential World War III still lie ahead.

The United States already has made historic changes in its foreign and military policies in grappling with the threat of global conflict which springs from Russia's communistic imperialism.

Still more fundamental changes may have to be made in the months and years ahead, regardless of the outcome of the fighting in Korea.

There have been conflicting views and sharp clashes of personalities among government foreign policy makers.

The current controversy over Formosa pinpoints long standing differences. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, cool and meticulous top draftsman of diplomatic policy, has fought and won one major engagement with the military.

He received, in his submerged but bitter contest with such military officials as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, the full support of President Truman.

The showdown came, partly by coincidence, in the middle of the war in Korea. It came too in the midst of a congressional election campaign.

Some there have become prime issues. And it came in a time when anxious peoples and governments in Europe and in Asia were watching the United States more intently than ever before.

Some of the dangers that top leaders say they are concerned over are present in the Korean war—the possibility that it might spread and become a full-scale conflict.

Other threats remain from situations and tensions long antedating the bloodletting in Korea. Even before Moscow pushed the button that sent her North Korean satellite into aggressive warfare against the Republic of South Korea on June 25, there were accumulating factors of danger. Among them:

1. The swift build-up of Soviet military strength, reduced only moderately at the end of World War II.

2. Russia's success in producing an atomic explosion, realized two or three years ahead of the earliest guesses by the United States.

3. The Kremlin's frustrated efforts at coquest-by-subversion in Greece, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Italy. Out-manuevered in each of these places by the firm will of the people and by the help—economically, militarily and politically—of the United States, Russia made the next and so far most drastic step: War in Korea.

What have been America's foreign policies since World War II, why were they changed, why may there be more changes? When President Truman moved into the White House in the closing months of the last conflict he inherited the wartime policy of getting along with Russia—policy that he had to view that if concessions could be made on both sides political tensions could be avoided.

Many Farmers Using Fescue And Ladino Clover

Fescue and ladino clover has proven to be such a valuable pasture mixture that many farmers are seeding all their pasture fields to this combination of grass and legume.

Earl McBrayer and Sam Litton saved enough fescue seed off plots seeded last fall to furnish seeding their pasture fields.

Earl plans to use a bush and hog harrow to re-establish old stands of grass. He says he can prepare a good seedbed for fescue by the bush and hog harrow and still not destroy the present stand of timothy.

Glenn Frayley seeded fescue by this method last fall and received excellent results. Burtrum Holtbrook has four acres of fescue and ladino clover and likes it so well he seeded eighteen acres this fall.

Others that are seeding fescue this fall are: Ernest Clevenger, Gordon Lewis, Clyde Chadwell, Bill Stewart, Luther Joyce, George Ellington and R. C. Pennington.

There has become of the old-fashioned man who put honor above profits—has he gone out of business?

When President Truman moved into the White House in the closing months of the last conflict he inherited the wartime policy of getting along with Russia—policy that he had to view that if concessions could be made on both sides political tensions could be avoided.
