

District Judge, County Attorney Indicted By Morgan County Grand Jury

By JOE LAMB

WEST LIBERTY — A Morgan County Grand Jury Saturday returned separate indictments against the district judge, the county attorney and the sheriff. According to deputy circuit clerk, Langley Franklin, the charges stem from an investigation initiated by the Grand Jury during its February term. The Grand Jury asked for and received an extension until May to complete its investigation which last week involved a special prosecutor from the state attorney general's office.

The charges involve illegal bootlegging and alcohol charges in the county. District Judge Samuel C. Long was charged with malfeasance of office and willful neglect in the discharge of his official duties by dismissing and not trying numerous cases of local opinion laws.

Thomas M. Davis, Morgan County Attorney, was charged with malfeasance of office for failing to prosecute numerous cases of enforcement of local opinion alcohol beverage laws. Sheriff James Brooks was charged with destroying, concealing or removing 6,521 cans of beer and 614 bottles of whiskey with intent to hide or impair its availability in official proceedings in district court.

Charges in all three indictments involve actions during the period Jan. 1, 1978 to May 18, 1979.

The Grand Jury ordered the investigation by State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg on May 11 and after hearing a report on that investigation called in a special prosecutor from the attorney general's office.

Circuit Judge Ralph Walter, who received the indictments Saturday, but withheld their release until Monday morning, said Saturday that many witnesses had been subpoenaed by the Grand Jury but that some of them refused to testify, invoking the fifth amendment.

The actual Grand Jury session was conducted by Ray Larson of the state attorney general's office.

Judge Walter said that the Grand Jury had conducted this session in strict secrecy and that when he did not know what the results would be until the indictments were returned.

The Morgan County Circuit Court was in session Monday, but Franklin did not now when the trio would appear before the judge.

Sheriff Brooks told The Morehead News Monday morning that he would have no comment on the case. The other two officials could not be reached.

Among those called in to testify in the case was state chief Justice John S. Palmore.

Palmore told The Morehead News yesterday morning that he was "surprised" by the indictments. He said "I didn't know there was anything like that in the offing — I didn't have any idea there would be any indictments."

As to Judge Long's status for hearing cases in District Court until the matter is resolved, Palmore said that his office would have nothing to do with that. He said that the matter would have to be taken up by the Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission which meets later this month.

He said that he was not familiar with another case where the district judge had been indicted and that the only constitutional provision for dealing with such a matter was with the commission. He said that his office did not

Local Reaction To Atkins Move Mixed

By JOE LAMB

When State Auditor George Atkins withdrew from the race for the Democratic nomination for governor last week, he left his local supporters and campaign committee members with mixed reactions.

Circuit Court Clerk Watham Armstrong, a member of Atkins' Rowan County Campaign Committee, said that "in one sense of the word" he was a "die-hard" Atkins supporter.

Armstrong said that he was following Atkins' recommendation and throwing his support toward John Y. Brown, who entered the race for governor two months ago.

Armstrong says that he is supporting Brown because "I think John Y. is a winner." He adds that support is a little different than it was for Atkins because "when I was supporting him, I was supporting him as a man I knew."

Armstrong was not particularly surprised by the Wednesday night announcement of Atkins' withdrawal. "I had an idea something was going to happen, but I didn't know which candidate," he said. He says that he sees nothing wrong with the views of Brown and would have no trouble supporting him.

As to allegations by Gov. Julian Carroll and the candidate he supports, Terry McBrayer, that a deal has been made to pay off Atkins' campaign debts and offer him a post in his administration, if elected, Armstrong says, "I hope there has been — because frankly, I want George Atkins in Frankfort."

Armstrong admitted that Atkins' chances of winning were slim. "The polls of the last couple weeks" showed he didn't really have a chance. I think some of the others don't either, just to be honest."

Armstrong said he is not certain if most of Atkins' other Rowan County supporters would follow his recommendation and support Brown. "It's a case of where he opened the door and the others rushed in."

Another of Atkins' Rowan County members, Sheriff Jim Nickell, is a little less enthusiastic about the situation than Armstrong. "I'm out of it," he said, "I'm not throwing my support toward anyone." He said that he would just go to the polls and vote.

Nickell said that he was sure Atkins thought it out, saw so many in the race and decided he couldn't win.

Nickell is quick to add, however, "I know him well enough to know that no deals were made."

The treasurer of Atkins' local campaign committee, Jim Caudill, though not overwhelmingly enthusiastic about it, said that he would "probably" support Brown's campaign.

Caudill said that the announcement surprised him but added that "he (Atkins) did it just because he thought he was behind and wanted to throw his support to somebody else."

Caudill said "seriously doubt(s)" that a deal between Atkins and Brown was made.

He said that most of the people he had talked with had indicated that they would support Brown. "Basically all the strong Atkins' supporters will go ahead and support him," he said.

The president of Atkins' Rowan

County Committee, Otis Elam, could not be reached for comment on the action by Atkins.

Action across the county, among supporters, who wished to remain anonymous, was mixed. Some say they will support Brown; some have declared their support for other candidates while still others say they are not sure where they will turn now.

Moderate To Heavy Turnout Is Expected

County Court Clerk Jean Bailey predicts a moderate to heavy turnout of the nearly 8,700 registered voters in Rowan County for next Tuesday's Primary Election. Interest is most prevalent in the crowded race for the Democratic nomination for governor as well as for six City Council seats to be filled.

A total of nine names will be under the Democratic Party insignia but only eight of those are actively seeking the post after the sudden withdrawal of State Auditor George Atkins last week, who drew his support at late corner John Y. Brown Jr.

Depending upon which candidate's poll is consulted almost any of the five major candidate's could be the front runner. Those five include: Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall, Brown, U.S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard, former Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane and administration supported Terry McBrayer, former commerce commissioner.

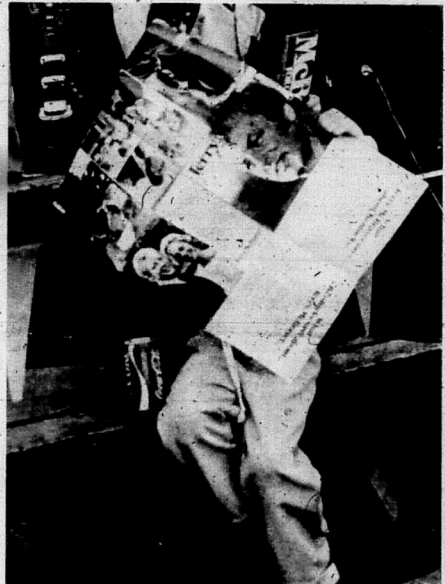

Sloane's position was strengthened last week with the endorsements by three major state newspapers. The Louisville Courier Journal, The Lexington Herald and The Kentucky Post. Other contenders for the Democratic nomination include: John J. Weikel of Louisville, Lyle E. Willis of Corbin, and Doris Shuja Binjeh of Lexington.

On the Republican ticket, former Gov. Louie B. Nunn is considered the front runner over his closest competitor Ray B. White of Bowling Green. Other candidates in the race are: Elmer Begley Jr. of Hyden and Thurman Jerome Hamlin of London.

The field for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor is almost as crowded as that for governor. A total of seven candidates are vying for the nomination for the office. They include: Jim Vernon, Martha Layne Collins, Bill Cox, Richard H. Lewis, Joe Prather, Charley T. Rowland and Todd Hollenbach, who unsuccessfully opposed Gov. Julian Carr for the Democratic nomination for governor. Carr defeated Hollenbach nearly three to one in that election in Rowan County.

INTERESTED IN POLITICS but hardly old enough to vote, an unidentified youngster seems to be absorbed in the campaign literature of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Terry McBrayer. The photo was taken in Mt. Sterling Thursday night at McBrayer rally attended by 1,200 supporters, including many from Rowan County. Former Gov. A.B. "Happy" Chandler was on the program to give his support to McBrayer. Chandler and McBrayer will be in Morehead Friday night for a fish fry at the Jaycee Farm. (Staff Photo)

Paper To Be Published Late Next Week

Due to the Memorial Day holiday, The Morehead News will be published one day later than usual next week. Mail subscribers will receive their papers one day later than usual and the newspaper will be on the stand, Wednesday morning.

In addition, Kentucky Publishing Company's main office will be closed Monday, May 28, in observance of the holiday. The office will reopen as usual on Tuesday morning.

Dames and Moore Awarded Maxey Contract

FLEMINGSBURG — A new contract for the maintenance of Maxey Flats nuclear disposal site has been awarded to Dames and Moore, a New York based firm with offices in Lexington.

State Rep. Pete Worthington (D-Ewing) said Monday that approval of the contract came Friday from Secretary of Natural Resources Eugene Mooney and Governor Julian Carr.

The contract is for three years beginning July 1 and calls for the ongoing maintenance, testing and monitoring of the site with reviews at various periods.

The state's present contract with Nuclear Engineering Co. (NECO), of Louisville, terminates June 30.

Worthington said the new contract with Dames and Moore is considerably less expensive than the previous one with NECO.

Cost of the contract is $667,700 for fiscal year 1980; $418,000 for fiscal year 1981 and $412,500 for fiscal year 1982.

"The new contract eliminates some awkward contractual agreements," said Worthington. "It also gives the state of Kentucky the ability to deal more effectively with the remedial work at the site," he added.

Worthington added that it was planned to reduce the water collection at the site eliminating some of the evaporation process.

"The remedial work calls for some kind of cover to stop water from going into the trenches," he said.

Former Rowan Judge, Bethel G. Hall, Dies

Bethel G. Hall, 84, of Clearfield, former Rowan County Judge, died Saturday at St. Claire Medical Center after an extended illness.

A native of Rowan County, he was the son of the late George and Nancy A. Quisenberry Hall.

Judge Hall attended school in Rowan County and later Morehead Normal School.

After graduation, he became one of the first teachers to serve at Bronson Ky., in 1912.

During his lifetime he was a cook for the Clearfield Lumber Co.; managed the Clearfield Supply Co., a company-owned store of the Lee Clay Products Co., and was parts manager for Curt's Auto Sales.

He also served as postmaster for Clearfield for 15 years.

In 1945, he was appointed as Rowan County Judge by Gov. Simon Willis. He served in that office until 1945.

He also served on the Rowan County Board of Education.

Hall was a member of the Morehead First Church of God for 62 years where he taught the same Bible class for 56 years, and served as a member of the church board of trustees.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Leatie Jane McClain Hall; a son, Paul V. Hall, Mercer, Pa.; two daughters, Mrs. Oleta J. Marshall, Clearfield, and Mrs. Billy Joe Hall, Mt. Sterling.

Four brothers, Oliver, Hall and Harlan Hall, both of Wabash, Ind.; Emmitt Hall, Morehead, and Howard Hall, Clearfield; four sisters, Mrs.

Mahalinda Wilson, and Mrs. Surena Hall, both of Morehead; Mrs. Florence Pettit, Brandenton, Fla.; and Mrs. Laura Lambert, Morehead.

Also, several grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted Monday at the Northcutt and Son Home for Funerals Chapel with the Rev. Frank Fultz and the Rev. James Hall officiating.

Burial was in Forest Lawn Memorial Gardens.

Palbearers were Harold Collins; Don Stone, Harold Ellington, David Wells, Aubrey Katus Jr., Eugene Mavin, Davis Ellis and Bill Richardson.

Rowan Prisoners Attempt Suicide

Two Morehead prisoners at the Rowan County Jail reportedly attempted suicide over the weekend. Jailor Roger Thomas said Sunday night Larry Carter was treated and released at St. Claire Medical Center after he fashioned a knife from a soda can and cut his arms.

Thomas said the previous night Carter attempted suicide with pills and that he had "no idea" of their origin. Saturday night Larry Summers was jailed on a public drunkenness charge and after repeated checks by Thomas was found to be "getting higher." Thomas said he found two pills believed to be "red devils" (sleeping pills) in a bottle upon checking Summers. Summers was listed in satisfactory condition at St. Claire Monday.

Peaches are the only fruit that will grow reasonably well in almost any part of the U.S.

Car Wrecks Injure Four

James Spriggs, 18, Garrison, was listed in serious condition at UK Medical Center following a one car accident on Ky 68 Saturday.

State police said Spriggs and Billy Kamer, Garrison, were 12 miles south of Vanceburg when their vehicle left the road in a sharp curve and rolled over an embankment.

Kamer was treated and released at St. Claire for a hand injury.

The following day Danny Lee Walker, 31, Lawrenceburg and Michael B. Walker, 20, were treated and released at the Clark County Hospital after an accident Sunday evening on Ky 11.

Trooper Gene Mosey said driver Walker lost control in a curve near Slade.

Nunn Says Campaign Picking Up

Louie B. Nunn says that his campaign gained more momentum last week in his bid for a victory in next Tuesday's Primary election and a second term as governor of Kentucky.

Editorial endorsements, financial support and a growing list of volunteers were reported, as the former Governor officially opened his campaign headquarters Tuesday in Louisville.

"Nunn has received endorsements from the Courier-Journal and Times, Lexington Herald-Leader, Cincinnati Enquirer and Kentucky Post."

In its May 13 edition the Courier-Journal and Times stated, "Mr. Nunn deserves and doubtless will win the nomination. His performance as governor from 1967 to 1971 was one that commands respect."

Latest official reports filed with the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance show that over 2,000 individuals had contributed over $365,000 to the Nunn campaign as of May 15.

The Nunn organization has had hundreds of volunteers sign up to help in the campaign, according to Dottie Young, state headquarters director in Louisville. "The response has been overwhelming. Over 250 volunteers have already signed up here."

Approximately 50 county organizations have been set up with more expected to be announced, following the Primary.

A unique aspect of the Nunn campaign, the former governor says, is the organization of Democrats for Governor Nunn Committee, despite a large field of candidates running for the Democratic nomination.

"Our unity is one of the reasons many Democrats say we are going to win and why they are already joining our campaign," said Nunn.

Nunn has criticized both the Federal and State administrations for the decreasing amount of coal production coming out of Kentucky.

He says he sees the real energy crises being made in Washington where the Federal administration has consistently placed Kentucky coal at a disadvantage with other coal-producing states and with other forms of energy.

"It is Washington regulations that won't let Kentucky mine coal, haul coal or burn coal," said Nunn.

"He has proposed an eight point program to get Kentucky coal and Kentucky's economy moving again."

Nunn also contends that Washington's policies have made it harder for farmers to get labor and grow profitable crops. He wants to work for Kentucky's farm families by fighting against a Washington approach that would put them out of business and destroy their role as the backbone of Kentucky's economy.

His views on education stress the need for Kentucky's schools to establish "an atmosphere will be one of competence, discipline, and community involvement."

Although Nunn acknowledges that Washington sends millions of dollars to Kentucky each year for local schools he feels that the states educators and students are being shortchanged because the money comes with so many strings attached. "It's our money," he said, "and when it comes to investing those dollars in our children's futures, Kentucky knows best not Washington."

"If Kentucky is to achieve its fullest potential it will be Kentuckians, not Washington, who make it happen," said Nunn.

On Saturday of this week Nunn will be in Bell County attending the Mountain Laurel Festival. That same night, he will be in Metcalf County to attend a dinner for Rowe Harper, the Republican candidate for Secretary of State at 6:30 p.m. The dinner is to be held at the Metcalf County High School.

Primary election night, Tuesday, May 22, Nunn will be at his state headquarters which are located at 3901 Adkinson Square, in Louisville. Supporters are welcome to attend.

Committee Opposes Proposed Education Cabinet

The Republican Policy Committee went on record today overwhelmingly in opposition to President Carter's proposed Department of Education.

In a formal policy statement Committee Member's urged rejection of the Cabinet level department—because creation of a Department of Education would eliminate two great strengths of American education—the diversity of choice at the local level which has fostered the intellectual vitality of our system and permits parents and students the wide spectrum of choice in determining what type of schools are best for them, as well as the opportunity to affect those choices at the local level."

H.R. 2444 upgrades the Department of HEW's Office of Education to Cabinet level status and omits numerous education programs scattered throughout the Executive Branch. It would establish the 13th Cabinet Department with a budget of $14.5 billion and 24,300 employees, 14 executive level positions, 61 super grade positions and an additional 15 super grade positions for a 3 year transitional period.

Policy Chairman Bud Shuster (R-Pa.) commented that this legislation "is yet another example of the two faces of Jimmy Carter. On September 22, 1975," Shuster continued, "Carter told U.S. News and World Report, and I quote: 'There is a crying need to simplify federal education laws and regulations. Education must be substituted for paper shuffling grantmanship.' Unquote. Then on June 8, 1976, candidate Carter told the Cincinnati Enquirer, and again I quote: 'The local and state people ought to run the school system.' Unquote."

Shuster said "Passage of this bill is nothing more than a raw political expedient, catering and caving in to the powerful education lobbies in Washington. Doing so would be an injustice to a whole generation of Americans. It is bad education policy as well as bad government management policy. Republican policy calls for H.R. 2444's resounding defeat."

EQC Complains Of Subcommittee Deferment

Jackie Sgigart, chairperson of the state's Environmental Quality Commission (EQC), has expressed concern over the procedure used for approving environmental regulations.

Speaking at the EQC's regular monthly meeting May 16, Mrs. Swigart said a legislative subcommittee procedure for approval is "tying the hands" of the state's Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection in promulgating regulations.

Her remarks followed an EQC staff member's report on the status of the state's air pollution regulations. The staff member, Andrew Cammack, said the legislature's Administrative Regulations Review Subcommittee has delayed action on the regulations until June 6. He also said the regulations, along with an implementation plan, must be submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency by June 19 for approval or disapproval.

Mrs. Swigart termed the subcommittee's procedure of deferment a "laborious mechanism." The procedure, she said, "troubles me greatly" and "raises again" the role of the EQC. The commission, made up of citizens appointed by the governor, advises the department on environmental matters.

In his report, Cammack said the main area of concern is a group of regulations aimed at having the air quality standards in force for the entire state rather than for those areas of heavy pollution. The EPA does not require the regulations to be statewide. The subcommittee, he said, is following the dictates of the legislature to not have the state regulations any more stringent than the federal requirements.

Other subjects discussed at the meeting were: the state's proposed water quality standards; the state (water quality) 108 plan; the state solid waste plan and the state's litter program.

A public hearing on the water quality standards will be held June 4 according to Blanz, director of the state's Division of Water Quality. The standards, Blanz said, will be the driving force behind all his division's activities in the future.

The 208 plan is a management plan to be used to maintain and improve water quality in the state.

The solid waste plan is a statewide plan to manage the problem of solid waste. It is to be implemented by the counties.

The litter program, which is funded by a tax on cigarettes that might cause litter, is a cleanup and educational program aimed at reducing litter in the state.

Letters . . . to the editor

The Editor:

It is with pleasure that I have noted the steady improvement your paper has achieved in appearance and diversity of interest, especially in the more recent months. The location of such a journalistic effort in this area has undoubtedly contributed to Morehead's, being named an All-Kentucky City.

A letter-to-the-Editor, however, is not traditionally for laudatory purposes. Do not let me depart from tradition—here's what I think of your treatment of a certain news item that recurs with inordinant frequency, either in an editorial or as a reported event.

For as long as I have read the Morehead News, I have not encountered one article (and there have been quite a few) based on firsthand investigative reporting done by your staff on the Maxey Flats situation. The only news item which could have approached the realm of credibility was supported by the inadequacy of supporting reportorial facts and clarification—Based on the live coverage of a recent panel discussion of Maxey Flats by a local radio station and by conversations with those present at the meeting, there were some statements made inaccurately by some panelists which were corrected by others at the meeting, but somehow not in your article. There were also some "facts" reported as being so which are not, and could have easily been corrected by an on-the-spot in-the-know reporter. If some one had taken the time to properly sniff the balderdash and interesting story, words have resulted, complete with local color since some of the panelists and experts are Rowan Countians. I am, needless to say, sadly disappointed at your apparent lack of effort; I then question the other stories I read in your paper without having had firsthand knowledge of the situation. I hope the ratio of truth to hearsay is higher in general than is true of this particular story (a little heavy on the hearsay, to press the grains of salt, please), since I am sure that your ultimate goal is to print all the truth with no embellishments.

Sincerely,
E.D. Picazo

Annual Fire School At UK June 4-5

The 50th annual Kentucky Fire School, held in conjunction with the Kentucky State Fire Chiefs and the Kentucky Firemen's Association, will be conducted at the University of Kentucky June 4-5.

The fire school held at UK in 1929 was the first fire school of its kind in the nation.

Approximately 200 firemen attended the first school. More than 1,400 firemen are expected to attend the 1979 school whose purpose has remained unchanged—the improvement of firefighting methods and the instruction in fire safety and prevention.

Instruction and training subjects for firemen will include aerial ladder operation, aircraft crash fire fighting and rescue, arson investigation, automatic sprinkler systems, fire fighting strategy and tactics, fire prevention, hazardous materials and flammable gases, urban and rural and forest fire fighting and administration and leadership.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. Monday, June 4, in Memorial Hall on the UK campus.

Gun Wound Kills Clay City Man

State police reported two shooting accidents, one an apparent suicide, over the weekend, one resulting in death.

The apparent suicide victim, Robert Crowe, 78, was found dead Friday evening at his home near Clay City on the Frames Branch Road as the result of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Police attributed the death to a .38 caliber pistol wound.

Saturday, Jimmy Christian, Jr., Morehead, was treated and released at St. Claire for a bullet wound.

Christian told police he was cleaning a gun when it went off.

Randall Brandenburg, 25, Beatyville, was admitted to Central Baptist Hospital early Sunday morning for a 37 magnum wound to his lower left abdomen.

State police said the wound was apparently self-inflicted.

Morehead Native Is Columbia Gulf Area Superintendent

Kenneth R. Manning, Morehead native, has been named section superintendent at Columbia Gulf Transmission Company's Corinth, Miss., compressor station. He will report to Vernon W. Fullington, Northern Division manager, with headquarters at Brentwood, Tenn., near Nashville.

Manning transfers to Corinth from the position of superintendent of the pipeline maintenance section at Jennings, La. At Corinth, he succeeds E. Coy Wyatt, who has been transferred to Pecan Island, southern Louisiana, as superintendent of the compressor station and dehydration plant there.

Manning attended Morehead High School and joined Columbia Gulf's Morehead pipeline maintenance section. He held various positions at Morehead, Clementsville and Stanton, Ky., before becoming section superintendent at Jennings July 1, 1978. Manning and his wife Violet have four children, Mendora Lynne, 23, Teresa, 20, Rhoda, 18, and Alan, 17.

Columbia Gulf is a natural gas pipeline subsidiary of the Columbia Gas System. Its operations extend from the Gulf of Mexico through Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky to a final delivery point near Ashland, Ky.

GARLAND "GUY" WILLIAMS

As your State Senator, I will ATTACK and FIGHT Public Enemy No. 1... INFLATION. I will strive to find ways to offset the cost of living caused by rising inflation. I will recommend and work to:

1. CUT PROPERTY AND STATE INCOME TAXES BY 10% NOW!
2. OPPOSE REASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY UNTIL THE RATE OF INFLATION DROPS BELOW 5%.
3. FORCE ELECTRIC GENERATING PLANTS TO BURN COAL.
4. REPEAL THE FUEL ADJUSTMENT CLAUSE.

You, as a taxpayer and citizen of this state, owe it to your family to go to the polls on Tuesday, May 29, 1979, and vote for GARLAND "GUY" WILLIAMS, THE INFLATION FIGHTER.

Air Conditioner Purchase Requires Careful Thought

When temperatures soar and the humidity is high, many people rush out to purchase a room air conditioner to take the heat off. Such a hurried decision is often a poor and costly one, leading to the purchase of an inefficient unit of the wrong size, says Larry Turner, Extension energy specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Turner says consumers can save themselves money and trouble by thinking about air conditioners before the hottest day of the year, shopping around and watching for specials. Some factors to consider in deciding on a unit include size of area to be cooled, use of the area, electrical requirements, operating costs, important features needed, warranty and service and installation requirements.

"One of the most important things to do when buying a room air conditioner is to match the cooling capacity of the unit to specific cooling needs," says Turner. He explains that a unit that has too large a cooling capacity will cycle on and off too often and may not be able to dehumidify the air as it cools.

The cooling capacity of air conditioners is measured in British thermal units, BTUs, per hour. BTU per hour represents the amount of heat an air conditioner removes as it cools air and removes humidity. The higher the BTU rating, the more powerful the unit.

Function of the room also is important. Turner says to add 4,000 BTUs to the normal amount required if the room to be cooled is a kitchen.

"Good dealers should have representatives who can help you take your information and decide the air conditioner capacity you need," says the specialist.

The buyer also needs to be aware of the energy efficiency of a unit. The EER (energy efficiency ratio) is a measure of the amount of cooling a room air conditioner can do relative to the amount of electricity it uses.

"Two air conditioners with the same cooling capacity — BTU rating — may not operate with the same efficiency," notes Turner. The higher the EER, the more efficient the unit. Turner says high efficiency units often are more expensive, but the savings in operating costs may pay back the initial investment.

The EER is printed on the label attached to the unit or should be available from the dealer.

In addition to capacity and efficiency, installation of a room unit or a consideration. "Measure the window to be sure a unit will fit," advises Turner.

He also points out the importance of checking out electrical requirements. Units rated 7.5 AMP or less (this information is on the unit) are designed to be plugged into a 115-volt, three-pronged (grounded) 15 or 20 AMP household circuit. And models with a capacity of 14,000 BTU or more require a specially installed 208 or 230 volt circuit.

Turner suggests that if a homeowner plans to install more than one large unit for cooling more than two or three rooms, a central system might be less expensive if the house has a forced air heating system. Duct work for the forced air system can be used for central air, whereas, the cost of special wiring for several large units might be higher than central air.

He also notes that if two or more rooms are to be cooled, a couple of small units might be advisable, especially if one of the rooms is a kitchen.

A final word of caution from the specialist: "A room air conditioner is a high wattage appliance and should be grounded properly to prevent lightning damage and fires."

Dear Mr. McCollam: I recently purchased this chair from an antique dealer for $300. He told me that it was a genuine Hitchcock.

How can I be sure that it is a Hitchcock and what is its actual value? — L.S., Patterson, N.J.

Dear L.S.: All genuine Hitchcocks will bear the label reading, "L. Hitchcock, Hitchcockville, Conn." or "Hitchcock, Alford and Co." The price you paid for a "fancy" chair in such good condition seems reasonable. A prime, labeled Hitchcock frequently sells for more than that.

The first consideration, however, when it comes to these stenciled chairs is the condition of the finish. A well-preserved fancy chair is worth more than a badly worn Hitchcock.

Dear Mr. McCollam: This table was recently acquired at an estate auction for over $500. It was supposed to be over 150 years old. The top is marble. U.S. Child Health Said In Bad Shape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are 18 million American children under 17 who have never been to a dentist. And for 10 million children, their regular doctor is the physician on duty in a hospital emergency room.

To put it bluntly, "child health in this country is pretty bad," says Judith Weitz of the Children's Defense Fund. The above statistics come from the fund's research and frame part of the testimony prepared for a House health subcommittee today.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano also was to testify about the status of child health care in the United States. Subcommittee chairman Henry Waxman, D-Calif., was expected to ask Califano if the administration would be willing to include child health insurance as part of its first phase of national health insurance.

Ms. Weitz said the government spends $31 billion annually on child health, and for just $1 billion more it could improve the plight of many poor children. Primary care must be emphasized, but assistance could also come in the form of prenatal care, she said.

Seven out of 10 mothers under 15 received no prenatal care in the first three months of pregnancy. One-fourth get no care at all, or at least not until the very end of the pregnancy, Ms. Weitz said.

Children classified as "nonwhite" die from disease and birth defects at a rate about 25 percent higher than white children, she said.

"Poor kids have twice as many hospital stays and spend more days in bed and miss more school than children who are not poor," she added. "The solutions aren't mysterious nor are they expensive. For a modest amount of money you can make a tremendous difference in the life of a child."

Truck Spills Gas At Trademore

Kentucky State Police estimate that between 700-1,000 gallons of gasoline spilled into a drainage ditch at Trademore Shopping Center following an accident at the Center's gas station Thursday night.

Fire Chief Bill Hankinson said that a transport truck was filling tanks at the station when the overflow occurred at about 6 p.m.

Two fire trucks were called to the scene at 11 p.m. and firemen proceeded to flush the area with 1,500 gallons of water, as well as open a culvert to allow for the extra flow.

Hankinson said the men worked for about an hour.

Gas fumes were strong, he said, but on a check the next two days, no odor could be detected.

Due to the location of the station, gas did not spill into the parking area of the Center.

Truck Spills Gas At Trademore

Kentucky State Police estimate that between 700-1,000 gallons of gasoline spilled into a drainage ditch at Trademore Shopping Center following an accident at the Center's gas station Thursday night.

Fire Chief Bill Hankinson said that a transport truck was filling tanks at the station when the overflow occurred at about 6 p.m.

Two fire trucks were called to the scene at 11 p.m. and firemen proceeded to flush the area with 1,500 gallons of water as well as open a culvert to allow for the extra flow.

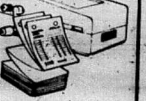

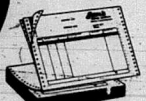

Hankinson said the men worked for about an hour. Gas fumes were strong, he said, but on a check the next two days, no odor could be detected.

Due to the location of the station, gas did not spill into the parking area of the Center.

about 25 percent higher than white children, she said. "Poor kids have twice as many hospital stays and spend more days in bed and miss more school than children who are not poor," she added. "The solutions aren't mysterious nor are they expensive. For a modest amount of money you can make a tremendous difference in the life of a child."

Auto Service Tips

Do-it-yourselfers should know that checking the transmission fluid in an automobile is a bit more complicated than checking the oil. Never check transmission fluid when the engine is cold; the car should run at least ten minutes or the reading will not be accurate. Park on level ground. With engine still running, set emergency brake and place foot firmly on brake pedal. Then run shift lever through each of the gears. Shift to park position and with engine running, check the dipstick. If fluid level is low, add transmission fluid slowly. Do not overfill to much pressure in the system could destroy the seals.

Benefits Available For Home Health Care

One of the least known benefits covered by Medicare, but one potentially valuable to many people, is home health care. David Bryan social security district manager in Ashland, Kentucky, said recently:

Home health care can be covered under either Medicare hospital insurance or Medicare medical insurance, depending on the circumstances of a particular case.

Home health care is for people who do not need full-time skilled care in institutions of a medical facility, but who do have an illness or injury that prevents them from leaving home to receive the health care they need.

People who need part-time skilled health services in their homes can receive home health care from a home health agency. Such an agency can be either a public or private organization that specializes in providing skilled nursing services and other health care services to patients in their own home.

Medicare can pay for such services as part-time skilled nursing services, physical therapy, and speech therapy.

For a person who needs one or more of these services, Medicare can also pay for part-time services of an occupational therapist, home health aide, or medical social worker, and medical supplies and the use of medical appliances furnished by the home health agency.

"Medicare cannot pay for full-time services, care at home, drugs and biologicals, personal comfort or convenience items, meals delivered to a person's home, or homemaker services.

A leaflet, "Home Health Care Under Medicare," gives more details about this protection and lists the conditions under which Medicare can pay for these services. Free copies can be obtained at the Ashland Social Security Office, located at 1816 Carter Avenue. The telephone number is 325-7666.

U.S. Blamed For Gas Hikes

KUWAIT (UPI) — Oil Minister Sheikh Ali Khalifa AS Sabah blamed the United States Monday night for the continued increase of oil prices and predicted fresh hikes if consumption is not checked.

"I expect a high increase in the price of oil this summer, unless the Americans reduce consumption drastically," Sheikh Ali said in a lecture.

He also predicted an increase in the price of refined oil products, particularly in the United States.

"If the United States increases its imports of refined products from Europe, the price of oil, the price of refined products and the price of liquefied gas will go up," Sheikh Ali said.

He said such a trend could touch off a new oil price increase by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, to 30¢. "We all worked hard. We won a victory. We are not going to let anybody steal it."

Bowser, 48, a black candidate making his second bid for mayor, said the machines were located primarily in black parts of the city and a projection of the current voting trend would result in a 25,000-vote victory for him.

At a victory speech three hours after the polls closed, Green, 40, made no reference to the machine problem, but said: "This is not a personal victory. It's a victory for all the people of Philadelphia." President Carter telephoned Green to congratulate him.

Both Green and Bowser had been defeated previously by Rizzo — Green in the 1971 Democratic primary and Bowser, who ran as an independent for mayor in 1975.

Rizzo was forbidden by the City Charter to seek a third four-year term. He sought unsuccessfully last year to amend the charter so he could run for an unlimited number of successive terms.

The usually flamboyant Rizzo, who captured national attention with his strong law and order stance, made no

Value Of Ky. Exported Products Released

The value of Kentucky's agricultural commodities exported during the year ending September 30, 1978 increased 7 percent from the previous fiscal year according to statistics released by the Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service of the USDA and the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The value of Kentucky agricultural commodities exported for the year ending September 30, 1978 total $485.9 million. This compares with $452.8 million exported during the same period a year earlier.

Kentucky ranks second, behind only North Carolina, in revenues from the export of tobacco. Kentucky garnered $140.2 million from the export of this product with most of it from barley. Tobacco did not, however, yield the largest export dollar value to the Kentucky agricultural community. Exports of Kentucky soy beans and soybean products accounted for $148.9 million, up 15 percent from the previous fiscal year. Tobacco increased 1.3 percent over the same period.

Feed grains and related products, ranked third among Kentucky's agricultural exports, accounting for $101.8 million in sales. Wheat and wheat products, meat and meat products, skins and hides, and lard and tallow are other leading exported commodities from Kentucky. Fruits, vegetables, and dairy products each accounted for less than one million dollars worth of the Commonwealth's agricultural exports.

Tomcats Successfully Defend Regional Title

By TED SLOAN

Asland's Tomcats made an "Instant Replay" with a successful defense of its region crown last week.

There were some scares along the way, however, mostly from rivals Hold Family and Russell.

The Irish stayed even with their crosstown rivals through the middle innings of Friday night's championship game, before a nine-run sixth belted Paul Blazer ahead for good. Three errors by Holy Family second baseman Mike Tussy in the inning helped the Tomcats along the way. A bad-hop triple to right by Kevin Gothard scored two runs, and two walks later, Greg McCauley, road Art McCullough's first offering over the left-field fence at Hardin Field to close the Tomcats' scoring and chase the Irish ace.

The eventual runner-ups didn't just lay down and die, however. They raked Paul Blazer starter Joe Fiehlman and reliever Mark Moore to the tune of six runs on six hits before the third out was recorded in the bottom of the sixth, but could come no closer than three runs. A couple of Tomcater errors handed Holy Family a pair of runs. Mike Stewart, Tom Henderson, and John Baurer all had RBI hits, and Joe Bradley smacked a sacrifice fly.

As close as Holy Family stayed, probably the most exciting contest of the action-packed tournament was the nightcap of the evening before, when Paul Blazer needed 10 innings and 3 1/2 hours to judge Russell, 9-8. The game brought back visions of the 1975 World Series, as each team came within inches of victory on several occasions after Paul Blazer tied the game at 8. The Tomcats had the winning run at third in the bottom of the seventh, but couldn't put it home, then went down harmlessly the next two innings. The Red Devils left runners at first and second with two out in the eighth, had a runner put out at third on a popped-up squeeze bunt try in the ninth, had a Mark Meilinger triple start off the tenth, only for him to cut down trying to score on a ground ball two batters later, and in the same inning, left the bases loaded.

As had been the case throughout the tournament, an error finally made the decision. Asland's Dan Marsh opened the bottom of the tenth with a single and went to second on a sacrifice. After another out, Tim Sexton hit a routine grounder that crossed up Russell shortstop Stuart Hensley, and Keith Withrow followed with a solid single up the middle to bring Marsh home.

An RBI single by John Watkins and Paul Gilium's two-run homer put Russell on the scoreboard first in the first, but Asland bounced right back after an error — as Withrow launched a three-run shot and Greg McCauley added a solo blast in the bottom of the inning. The Red Devils tied it in the second, only to have Paul Blazer squeeze in front with a single marker in the fourth. Gilium's two-run single ignited a four-run fifth that put the Red Devils on top at three and closed the scoring for Russell. Asland got one run back in the bottom of the same inning, and established the 8-8 tie on Sexton's baschit in the sixth.

Asland's Drew Hall got the victory with a shaky six innings of relief. He spelled Moore with no outs in the fifth and went the rest of the way, allowing a run, four hits, and eight walks. Hall left nine Red Devils stranded on the bases.

Morehead's two representatives put on a good showing. The Rowan County Vikings were upended by Russell Wednesday night, while University Breckinridge blanked Greenup County Tuesday, but ran out of gas in a loss to Holy Family Thursday.

The Vikings lost a one-run lead as the Red Devils plated two runs in the seventh for a 4-3 triumph in the opening round. Randy Riddle's sixth-inning single gave Rowan County a short-lived 3-2 lead, but a wild pitch and an error allowed two Russell runners home in the next frame. Joey May took the tough loss, even though only one run off him was earned. Danny Feltrup relieved Gilium in the sixth, and after Riddle's single and a walk set down the next five batters he faced.

Joe Magrane fired a four-hitter and struck out 11 to lift the Eagles to a 7-0 victory over Greenup County in the tournament's lifeline. Magrane walked gone while his teammates took a permeged lead with three runs in the fifth, two on Don Battson's single and Mitch Bryant's three-run homer in the sixth broke the game open, and Cliff Bailey tripled and scored on an error in the final frame.

Holy Family proved too much for Sam Daugherty's team, however, as the Irish took advantage of 11 Eagle errors to notch a 5-0 pitch and an error allowed two hits off Holy Family pitchers John Hamm and Mike Tussy.

Paul Blazer, now 15-7 on the year, will move on to seminate competition at Somers.

Third In State High Jump

BRIAN HARRIS, a senior at University Breckinridge, placed third in the state class-A high jump event during the state-wide track meet held last weekend on the University of Kentucky campus in Lexington. Harris jumped 6'4".

DON BATTSON, University of Breckinridge's sophomore second baseman, hits a line shot during his teams final game of the season Thursday evening against Holy Family in the regional playoffs.

Cave Run Lake Offers Something To Everyone

Cave Run Lake near Morehead offers vacationers and outdoorsmen a variety of recreational uses including swimming, boating, water skiing, hiking, fishing and camping, plus an active and unspoiled area.

The 8.2-acre man-made lake is managed for water control, recreation, wildlife and timber and is easily accessible off I-64.

The lake was built and operated by the Corps of Engineers with the U.S. Forest Service being responsible for the development and administration of recreation facilities.

The area has numerous boat ramps for safety in entering, and leaving the water. A large population of largemouth bass, bluegill, crappie, catfish and muskie attract fishermen.

The lake is officially open April 1 to October 1.

Twin Knobs is the major recreational development at the lake offering 255 camping units, and a 2,000-foot long beach with a modern bath house containing hot and cold showers.

The camp site rates are $4 per night for a single unit (one tent or recreational vehicle) and $7 per night for a double unit (two tents or recreational vehicles).

Each site has a table, grill, lantern post and a 16 x 16 foot gravel area for tents.

Each camping "loop" has a shower area and flush toilets. Reservations cannot be made in advance and fees are paid at the entrance station at Twin Knobs which is planned 24 hours a day during the season.

A group picnic and camping area is also available at Twin Knobs complete with picnic shelter, grill and charcoal toilets.

Rates for groups are $10 for 50 persons or under, $20 for 51 to 100, and $30 for 101 to 150.

The beach at Twin Knobs opens Friday, May 25. Rates are $1 per car with up to three persons, and $2 per car for more than three.

Hours will be from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. A boat-in only camping area with 20 units is located at Claylick and is free of charge.

Also of interest at Cave Run Lake is the Minor E. Clark Fish Hatchery operated by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

It is just below the earthen dam and visitors can see the fish breeding operation for stocking the varieties of fish all over the state.

Menifee County's 'White Shadow' ... Coach Terry Young

BY ALICE AKIN
Staff Writer

Menifee County basketball fans call him the "White Shadow."

And tall, blonde Coach Terry Young does bear an incredible resemblance to Ken Howard, star of the "White Shadow" television series.

But whereas Ken Howard's life may be more glamorous, Coach Terry Young's record is real.

The only script Young sticks to is consistently coaching his Wildcats through an impressive season.

For the second year in a row, Young was named Coach of the Year in the Foothills Conference which is comprised of Elliott County, Breck, Riverside, Hazel Green and Menifee.

The Wildcats finished last season with a 13-11 record.

It was the first time the team had been co-champs in the regular season (sharing the honor with Elliott County) since 1968, the year they were co-champs with Salyersville.

Coach Young flashes a yard-long smile when he talks about next year's team.

"We've got three starters returning," he says, "Kenny Mullins, center, Roger Williams, guard, and Ricky Botton, forward."

"And we've got some real good boys coming up," he continued, "Robert Wells, center, is the first boy we've had over six-foot-two — he's six-four and then we have Marty Clark at forward, John Cobb at guard and Terry Stull at guard."

A native of Lawrence County, Young came to Menifee County in 1970 as an assistant coach to Joe Blankenship, now supervisor and head basketball coach.

"He was my coach at Lawrence County High School and recommended it here," Young said.

Young became head coach in 1974 and in addition to coaching basketball he also coaches the boys and girls track, and cross county teams and teaches geography.

A graduate of Austin Peay with a B.S. degree in physical education, Young says he likes Menifee County. "It's a good place for him to hunt squirrels and fish for bass."

"I haven't had much time to hunt or fish lately," Young said, "but I have a farm up Cobb Hollow and it's nice to go there to get away."

Young and his wife, Linda Sue, live on Tolan Road. Mrs. Young is a native of Menifee. The daughter of John and Minnie Gilley, also of Tolan Road.

The Youngs have two daughters, Tara, 4, and Cara, born May 4 at St. Claire Medical Center.

"Eight-pounds, six-ounces," the new puppa chirped.

Menifee County High School Basketball Coach Terry Young displays the plaque he received last month during ceremonies at West Liberty recognizing him as "Coach of the Year" in the Foothills Conference. It is the second year in a row Young has won the award. (Staff Photo)

 Other nearby camping sites include Clear Creek Furnace Recreational Area in Bath County with 24 units. Located on Forest Service Road 129, it offers scenic trails and picnicking. From the remains of the iron furnace there, visitors can get an idea of the thriving iron industry which made Kentucky the nation's third largest iron producer in the 1800s.
 Located within the city limits of Morehead, next to the District Forest Ranger's Office, is Rodburn Hollow camping and picnic ground.
 Eleven sites are open for tents and trailers up to 22 feet long. The picnic area has a shelter and horseshoe pit. A loop hiking trail is available and both camping and picnic areas have drinking fountains and flush toilets.
 The Morehead District Ranger has additional information on features near Cave Run Lake.
 Visitors are encouraged to contact the local Ranger's Office or the Forest Supervisor's Office in Winchester when making plans to travel in the Daniel Boone National Forest.
 Information covering camping and usage as well as brochures of other scenic and historic sites is available on request.

Rowan County Farm Bureau's Annual Fish Fry

for Members and Guests will be held Saturday June 2nd, 4 p.m.-8 p.m.

AT

University Farm, Cranston Road

Sponsored By: Rowan County Farm Bureau and its Service Program

Ever a bass fisherman dreams of catching a stringer (full of fat and sassy three- to four-pound largemouths, with a couple of lunkers—seven and eight pound fish—thrown in for good measure).
 Although this dream occasionally comes true, the actual situation is quite a bit different. On a national basis, according to figures compiled by the Sport Fishing Institute (SFI) and based on scientifically collected data from the various states, an average catch is one 'keeper' bass for every 20 to 30 hours of fishing.

 The SFI also calculates that on the average every square foot of potential bass habitat is fished at least three times each season. If all the waters in the nation which could harbor bass were divided among all the fishermen, each angler would have to depend upon the productivity of only 1/25 of an acre of water to satisfy his annual recreational fishing needs, the SFI says.

Rowan Co. High Will Host Wrestling

Big time wrestling will come to Rowan County High School Thursday night at 8 p.m. Proceeds will go to the Rowan County Athletic Fund.
 The four featured events include, Bill "Super Star" Dundee vs. Professor Tanaka; Tommy and Eddie Gilbert vs. Hans Schroeder and Sputnik Monroe, Jr.; Plooby Frazier (114 pounds) vs. The Black Inferno, and Tommy Gilbert vs. Hans Schroeder.
 Tickets to the event are $5.00 for ring side, which are reserved and $4.00 for general admission. Children five and under are free.

concludes, "none offers more potential for improving bass yields and angling quality than appropriate minimum size limits."
 Kentucky is entering its second season with what the SFI considers an "appropriate" minimum size limit—12 inches. Biologists who work closely with bass can already "see the difference, particularly in smaller lakes and ponds (always the first to respond to changes in management)."
 Bass fishermen should also be able to note a change, according to Kentucky's Fisheries Director Charlie Bowers. Bowers predicts that both the total number of bass caught and the total pounds of bass harvested will increase this year. Bowers says that anglers should notice an increase in the average size of the bass they catch this spring. Even the fish they must return to the water will be larger—10 and 11 inches instead of eight or nine, as was common under the 10-inch limit.

Prime Farmland, Soils, Described

LEXINGTON — Grenada, Kickapoo, Monongahela. mention these words and one naturally thinks of a car, or a fruit juice, or a river.

Not so, say U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) soil scientist who would tell landowners or strip miner operators that these three are part of a list of 185 different prime farmland soils in Kentucky.

The Prime Farmland List, released to local SCS offices this week, provide the very first complete statewide listing of prime farmland and soils ever made public.

The Commonwealth has an estimated six million plus acres which fall into this category called prime farmland, according to SCS State Soil Scientist Glen E. Kelley.

"Prime farmland is the land best suited for producing food, feed, forage, fiber and oilseed crops," Kelley pointed out. "These soils are becoming more and more important each day throughout the country because of their food and fiber producing value."

Prime farmland gives the highest yields with the lowest inputs of energy or money and with the least damage to the environment. It can also be farmed indefinitely with good management.

This list will find the greatest use in the 67 counties which have a published soil survey or a soil survey which is awaiting publication, soil scientists believe.

It will also be of particular interest to coal mine operators who are attempting to comply with the federal strip mining act. Regulations require a soil survey where prime farmland and soils are expected to be affected by mining activities.

Kelley said, "The release of this information is only part of a large scale effort to obtain useful data that will aid local and state officials in making land use decisions based on natural resource characteristics."

"The basic tool in determining prime farmland soils is a modern soil survey," he cautioned. "The lists that are now available in every Kentucky county will have to be coordinated with the county's soil survey publication. Otherwise an on-site investigation will be needed before the proper identification of the prime farmland can be made."

As of May 1, 1979, Kentucky had 40 counties with published soil surveys, 27 counties awaiting publication and 21 counties where mapping is underway.

Jazz Group To Begin Concert Series

Count Basie leads off the University of Kentucky Summer Sounds '79 concert series.

Known as "the most explosive force in jazz," Basie and his 17-member orchestra will perform at 8 p. m. June 6 in UK's Memorial Coliseum.

All other concerts in the series will be held at 8 p. m. in Memorial Hall.

The well-known Guarneri String Quartet, jazz pianist Bill Dobbins, soprano Janice Harsanyi, pianist Ruth Siencynska, and trumpeter Armando Chitalia are among the outstanding artists scheduled to appear in the series.

HONORED — Deborah L. Miller, Morehead graduate student at Morehead State University, receives the ROTC Distinguished Service Award from Lt. Col. William H. McLee during the recent awards ceremony.

Secretary Candidate Proposes Lottery For Voters

A Democrat candidate for the office of Secretary of State has proposed a "voter incentive plan" that could reward those registered voters who voted in the primary and general elections with as much as $500.00 for voting, at absolutely no cost to the taxpayer.

Ray "I Am A Democrat" Adkins of Whitesburg said that if he is elected Secretary of State, he will immediately propose legislation to the 1980 General Assembly that would allow taxpayers to check off on their tax returns $1.00 of their present taxes to go into the "Kentucky Voter Education Election Incentive Plan." This would be similar to the present political party donation. Fifty percent of this fund would be set aside as an incentive to those eligible voters who actually voted — those who voted only in the primary would have one chance of winning a "voters incentive" cash prize; those who voted in both the primary and the general election would have two chances to win a "voter incentive" cash prize.

Mr. Adkins suggested that there could be one grand prize of $100,000 to $250,000, and several lesser prizes of $10,000 to $50,000, depending on the check off dollars to the Plan.

The other 50 percent would be used to upgrade voter education and the Kentucky electoral process. Mr. Adkins stated, "If that isn't enough incentive to get out the vote, I don't know what is." He said he could see the prizes growing every year.

At present, $40,000 is budgeted for voter education in Kentucky, for the salary for one man and his expenses for traveling across the state speaking at schools, universities, interested civic clubs, and other groups.

Adkins stated that sentiment in the Kentucky Legislature historically has been against lotteries, including one on the Kentucky Derby. "But this is different," he said. "Lotteries encourage people to gamble. This will encourage people to vote."

Courtesy Patrol To Aid Motorists During Holidays

FRANKFORT — Holiday travelers on Kentucky parkways will have the benefit of a courtesy patrol from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. on Friday and Monday, May 25 and 28, according to the Transportation Department's toll facilities division. C.E. Brown, division director, said stranded motorists should look for state pickup trucks, which will be carrying emergency assistance equipment.

The employees on patrol are all trained in first aid. For hours when the courtesy patrol is not on duty, assistance is available by contacting the nearest toll plaza.

Brown also said three service areas will provide free coffee from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. Friday and Monday: the Shepherdsville service area on Interstate 65, the Lebanon Junction service area on I-65 and the Beaver Dam service area on the Western Kentucky Parkway.

The department's division of highway enforcement reports it will have about 85 officers patrolling the interstates and primary roads.

Officers will also be assisting stranded motorists.

Elliott School Has Bomb Threat

An Elliott County school received a bomb threat Thursday morning. Sheriff Wick Harper contacted State Police at 11:50 a.m. concerning the scare at Lakeside School.

Officers Elected At Hospital Convention

Richard M. Abell has been elected Chairman of the Kentucky Hospital Association for 1979-80. The election was part of the 50th Annual Convention of the Kentucky Association being held at the Galt House in Louisville.

Mr. Abell is currently the administrator at St. Anthony Hospital in Louisville, Kentucky. He has been at the hospital since 1972, and he been the administrator since July 1, 1976.

Mr. Abell succeeds Mr. R. Morris Stafford, administrator at the King's Daughter's Hospital in Ashland, Kentucky as Chairman of the Association. Mr. Stafford will continue serving on the Board of Trustees in the capacity of Immediate Past Chairman.

In addition to Mr. Abell and Mr. Stafford the following administrators were elected to the Board of Trustees:

CHAIRMAN — R. H. Earl Feazar, Executive Vice President, Western Baptist Hospital, Paducah, Kentucky.

TREASURER — Merrill H. Rayburn, Administrator, Southeastern Kentucky Baptist Hospital, Corbin, Kentucky.

DISTRICT VICE CHAIRMAN — BLUE GRASS — Dennis H. Executive Vice President, Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, Kentucky.

CUMBERLAND — Aaron T. Davis, Administrator, Adair Memorial Hospital, Columbia, Kentucky.

OHIO VALLEY — Henry C. Wagner, Executive Vice President, Jewish Hospital, Louisville, Kentucky.

TWIN LAKES — John J. Morris, Administrator, Crittenden County Hospital, Marion, Kentucky.

DISTRICT TRUSTEES — OHIO VALLEY — James R. Petersdorf, Executive Vice President, Norton-Children's Hospitals, Louisville, Kentucky.

CUMBERLAND — David E. Burgo, Administrator, Berea Hospital, Berea, Kentucky.

TRUSTEE-AT-LARGE — James H. Stephens, Executive Director, Hardin Memorial Hospital, Elizabethtown, Kentucky.

Presently serving on the Board and will be continuing their terms are:

DISTRICT TRUSTEES — BLUE GRASS — Sr. Michael Leo Mullaney, President, St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, Kentucky.

TWIN LAKES — William H. Kimbel, Administrator, Union County Hospital, Morganfield, Kentucky.

TRUSTEES-AT-LARGE — James P. Franklin, Administrator, Caldwell County War Memorial Hospital, Princeton, Kentucky; William R. Zuercher, Administrator, Harlan Appalachian Regional Hospital, Harlan, Kentucky.

By action of the General Assembly a corporate structure was approved thereby changing titles. The title of the chief executive officer, William S. Corin, Jr., was changed from Executive Director to President.

Square Dancing Offered At MCC

MAYSVILLE — A class in Modern Square Dance will be taught at the Lewisburg School in Maysville beginning with an open house for anyone interested on Friday, May 25, at 8:00 p.m.

The class instructor will be Dr. George Cheatham, Jr., Lexington. Dr. Cheatham is an accredited member of the International Callers Associations (CALLERIA B) and says Dr. Cheatham, "You will be square dancing by the end of the first teaching period. Not everything there is to learn, but enough to start having fun."

Since its inception in the mid-forties the Modern Western Square Dance program has grown steadily and today is one of the fastest growing recreational activities in the U.S. The national convention in Louisville, in 1970, attracted more than 20,000 dancers.

The uniqueness of the MWSD movement is that there are no memorized routines. Basic figures, standardized by CALLERLAB and taught to all beginner classes, are worked into patterns by a "caller" by whom directives are given to dancers in interesting, but varied, routines.

MWSD offers an excellent program of physically and mentally stimulating exercises, and promotes good fellowship.

Motorists Will Face Long, Dry Summer

One inescapable fact surfaces in a UPI survey Wednesday of all 50 states: Gas stations just don't have as much gasoline to sell this year as they did last year.

The reasons are complicated, but the one fact remains: American motorists are facing a long, dry summer.

Each month, oil companies are allowing their stations anywhere from 5 percent to 20 percent less gasoline. And, every month, many stations are drained early, and they start closing more and more in the last week of the month.

This month, the last week includes the first major holiday of the season — the Memorial Day weekend — and most experts are predicting serious trouble.

In Maryland, where most of the state's service stations had used up half their monthly allotment by May 12, retail spokesman John Banks called the situation "sticky," with possible holiday shortages.

In Nevada, where the economy depends on the tourist trade, station operators staggered operating hours in an effort to assure an adequate supply for Memorial Day visitors. The supply situation in Las Vegas, however, was critical, with most major stations open only three to four hours a day.

West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller warned of gasless days at the end of every month from now and said very tight fuel supplies are likely to hobble holiday travel in Kansas. Gov. John Carlin urged residents to spend Memorial Day inside the state.

Other states hard-hit by growing shortages included Texas and Missouri, and for diesel fuel, Iowa, Wyoming and Montana.

There was one bright note for would-be Memorial Day travelers. The nationwide service station shutdown threatened as a protest to federal price ceilings also appeared to be running out of gas.

The UPI gasoline supply survey showed little support for the four-day closing, with dealers associations in 17 states rejecting it outright. The threatened demonstration apparently was defused by federal indications a price increase of 2 to 2.5 cents a gallon may be allowed.

Federal officials also were reported considering a plan to require motorists to pay at least $5 when buying gasoline, whether they take $5 worth or not, to discourage the practice of "topping off" tanks with small amounts.

The situation in California remained critical. Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. announced agreements in Washington with President Carter designed to increase gasoline supplies in his state and Lt. Gov. Mike Curb — acting as chief executive in Brown's absence — signed an executive order permitting oil companies to sell gasoline with higher lead content. Brown's office said the order will be rescinded.

Rep. S.H. Hayakawa, R-Calif., was in Washington with Brown and he recommended unrestrained prices at the pump as a means of solving the supply situation.

"The important thing is that a lot of the poor don't need gas because they're not working," he told reporters. "We poor people are driving around in their private jets and Cadillacs and they're going to do that whether they have to pay 95 cents for gas or $3 for gas."

As shortages grew, gasoline became a precious commodity, and it was being treated as such.

In Chesapeake, Va., police said thieves made off with 742 gallons of unleaded fuel, siphoned from a service station's underground tank.

Federal Study Says Suicides High In South

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has determined suicides are more prevalent in the South and on Mondays throughout the country. Far more men than women are doing themselves in.

The National Center for Health Statistics report also shows a longer life expectancy for Americans — it's up to 73 now — lower infant mortality, and heart disease is the nation's No. 1 killer. The findings were compiled for 1977.

The statistics about suicide held few surprises for sociologists who have been studying the phenomenon. It's an acknowledged fact that three men kill themselves for every female suicide.

But University of California sociologist David Phillips told UPI in an interview women are beginning to close the gap.

"At least until women started going out to work, they were part of a family group which was supportive. Men were not in that situation because they work," Phillips said. They are not, he said, part of a cohesive group that tends to protect its members.

That finding has spanned centuries. Phillips said, just as the role of women in society has spanned centuries. But as women get more and more involved in industrial America, their suicide rates will rise. Indeed, he said, they already are increasing.

Phillips said it is too difficult to get a precise reading on the day of the week when more persons commit suicide. He said there are conflicting studies and findings that breach the preserve of the psychologist.

But the report showed Monday as the most popular day for suicide, followed in order by the rest of the week. Tuesday, Wednesday, etc.

As for the locale, the government report found that of the 28,681 suicides recorded, 9,652 were in the South. The North Central states ranked second, ahead of the West and the Northeast.

The report made no attempt to explain the findings.

"Suicide rates," said Phillips, "are particularly high among very high and very low social status: the very rich and the very poor."

Phillips also has done studies that showed people emulate suicides by celebrities of whom they were fond. In addition, Phillips said new research shows a distinct similarity in notorious suicides and those who imitate their deaths.

Phillips said that in California, for example, auto accidents jump 30 percent in the three days following the suicide of a famous person. Most of those auto accidents are single-car crashes.

Clinics To Close For Memorial Day

C. Wayne Franz, M.D., Director of the FIVCO District Health Department, has announced the following two closings for the FIVCO District Health Department and health centers in Boyd, Carter, Elliott and Lawrence counties:

Monday, May 28, in observance of the Memorial Day Holiday; and Noon Tuesday, May 29 - Thursday, May 31, in order that employees may attend semi-annual regional conferences in Lexington.

Industry Might Have Stockpiled Oil

Industry may have aggravated the nation's gasoline shortage by stockpiling oil as early as January on advance information of widespread scarcity at the pump this spring, authoritative sources said Saturday.

"At least one state energy office warned heavy and light industry in January to top off their storage tanks because that state expected oil shortages in April or May when the heavy driving season usually begins," a petroleum expert told UPI.

"Long before the public became aware of any gasoline scarcity, industry had made the prudent decision to fill its tanks as a hedge against unemployment," he said.

"Industry has immeasurable storage capacity and its drawdown on the oil companies' already tight inventories meant motorists had less gasoline than other users." As Americans braced for a gas-short Memorial Day weekend, officials said thousands of New England homes could be without heating oil next winter unless the nation curbed its passion for summer driving.

Illinois, Massachusetts and Utah enforced the 55 mph speed limit to conserve dwindling gasoline supplies, the Nevada legislature debated purchasing gasoline on foreign markets to reverse a 40 percent slump in the Las Vegas tourist business, and New Jersey said it would require a minimum gas purchase of $10 per car if all else failed to stem motorist demand.

The so-called "California Syndrome" moved into high gear this weekend. Many California stations said they had no gas left to pump and would be forced to ignore Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s executive order requiring larger dealers to stay open either Saturday or Sunday to sustain the state's odd-even day rationing plan.

The public, fearful that California's mile-long gas lines and frantic buying would spread to other states, harbored suspicions that the oil companies were withholding gasoline in the hopes of getting steeper prices.

President Carter, who is predicting a 5 percent shortage in gasoline supplies this summer, ordered the Energy Department to audit the oil industry.

The Federal Trade Commission, in turn, was taking a sharp look at Energy Department rules governing the oil companies that might be partly to blame for the fuel crisis in California. "For an oil company to hold back product is economically absurd," said a New York spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute, the oil industry trade association.

"A company could never recover the costs of storing oil while continuing to pay its employees."

As pressure mounted on President Carter to find an instant solution to the gasoline question, the fact that a shortage existed was abundantly clear in widespread service station closings, diesel fuel outages and an upsurge in mass transit riders.

The reasons behind the motorist's hardships were far more difficult to pinpoint.

Commission Begins On Site Nuclear Investigation

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (UPI) — The special commission President Carter pledged would make a thorough investigation of Three Mile Island began its on-site probe today into the causes of the nation's worst nuclear accident and the response of those in charge.

Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh and three other high-ranking state officials were scheduled to tell the President's Commission on the Accident at Three Mile Island about the difficulties they faced in coping with the threat of disaster.

It was the commission's first visit to Middletown, where on April 12 — after touring the stricken facility — Carter promised he would be "personally responsible" for investigating and informing the American people about Three Mile Island.

The commission, chaired by former Albert Einstein assistant John Kemeny, president of Dartmouth College, was sworn in April 25 and held two days of public hearings on succeeding days.

Carter has said the "eyes of the world" will be watching the Kemeny commission in its six-month investigation.

Among the 12 members of the commission was Ann Trunk, a Middletown homemaker who must find a babysitter for her six children while she serves as a citizens' representative on the panel.

Later today, the commissioners take a five-hour tour, similar to that given the president, of the facility operated by Metropolitan Edison Co.

Gary Is Big in Laugh Stuff

Gary Coleman stars as 8-year-old Arnold Jackson. In the show, he and his brother are adopted by a wealthy widower. Although Gary is 14, he is the size of a 5-year-old. He had a kidney transplant when he was younger.

"I just might be in this laugh stuff for years," Gary Coleman told The Mini Page.

An 11-year-old who acts and talks much older and looks much younger than he is, Gary is a smash hit as Arnold Jackson on NBC's TV show "Diff'rent Strokes."

"They didn't plan for me to steal the show," says Gary. But steal it he does.

"Gary is one of the hottest little properties in TV," an expert told us.

"I got my start when I was 5, modeling clothes at a local department store. The manager discovered me. He helped us sign with an agent," he says.

Modeling led to TV commercials and later the show.

We got his autograph for you!

Family

Gary is an only child. The family lives in Zion, Illinois, near Chicago.

His father works in a medical lab as an inspector.

"My mother was a nurse, but she had to drop it for a while since I needed a guardian," says Gary.

He and his mom live in an apartment in Hollywood when they are filming.

"It's hard to treat him like a child," says his mom.

Schooling

Gary has three hours of school a day. He is taught by a tutor. Sometimes he is able to "bank" hours or be with the tutor longer so he doesn't have school every day.

Gary is a good reader. He has always read above the reading level for his age.

His mother does not help him with his lines.

"He has a system of his own. I don't know how he does it," she added.

Hobbies

"The money doesn't matter," says Gary.

But it has helped him pay for one hobby: collecting model electric trains.

He is also interested in space, aircraft and reading.

He likes to write and illustrate his stories.

His best friend is a 112-pound German shepherd named Champion.

He is also very close to the other stars of the show, Conrad Bain and Todd Bridges.

Meet the country's most adorable pig

Who is the beautiful, talented blonde who dresses in satin and is one of the most popular TV stars in the country?

It's Miss Piggy Lee of "The Muppet Show."

Although she started in the show with a small part, she is now a main character. Miss Piggy is just that kind of pig.

Miss Piggy is a hog about the two loves in her life. One is show business.

Miss Piggy is quite a woman. She can be sweet. But when she is angry, she can be tough.

The other is Kermit the Frog.

A muppet is a kind of puppet that was first created by Jim Henson.

The man who performs as Miss Piggy is Frank Oz. He has been with Jim Henson for 14 years.

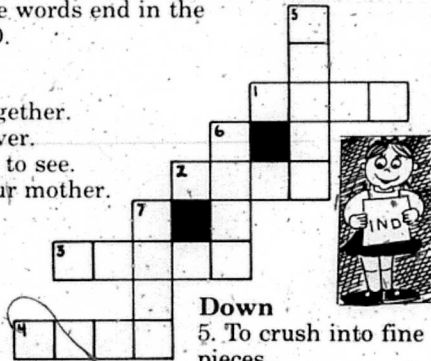

On "The Muppet Show" he also performs as Fozzie Bear, Animal and Sam the Eagle. On "Sesame Street," he performs as Grover, Bert and Cookie Monster.

Monday, May 28 is Memorial Day

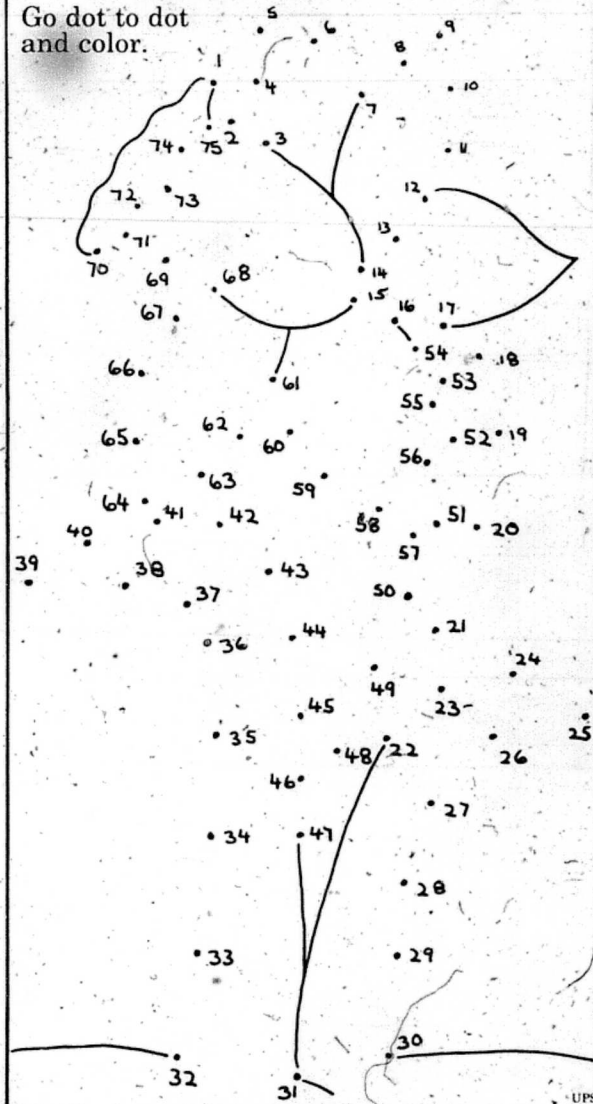

President Carter lays a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

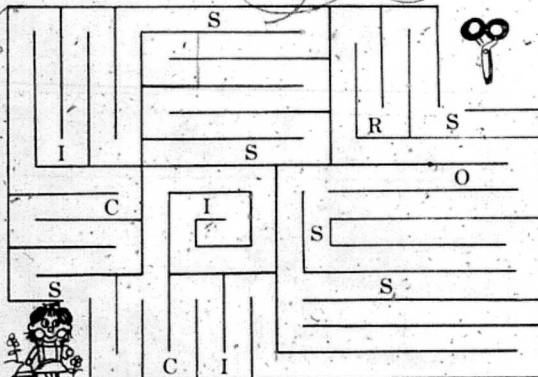

Memorial Day is a special day set aside to honor men and women of our armed forces who gave their lives for their country. Families and friends often put flowers and flags on the graves.

Sometimes, the president visits the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery near Washington, D.C. This grave honors all the unknown soldiers who were killed in action.

The Indy 500 has new rules this year!

Meet Al Unser

Al Unser will be trying to become the second driver in racing history to win the Indy 500 for the fourth time.

At the age of 18, he began his racing career driving stock cars around his hometown of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Al is from a racing family. One brother, Jerry, raced in the Indy 500. Another brother, Bobby, won the Indy two times. His father and two uncles were also race-car drivers:

Winning car — Indy cars are low to the ground. The engines are usually behind the driver.

Winning racer — Al Unser (right) will be trying for his fourth victory. Only A.J. Foyt Jr. has won as many Indy victories.

Indianapolis, Ind. — The biggest car race in the U.S.A. will be Saturday, May 25.

The 500-mile race will be held at Indianapolis, Indiana.

The drivers will race around an oval speedway. They must go 200 laps to finish the race.

This year, the rules have been changed to allow more competition and a closer race.

All of the engines must be built so they are equal as to horsepower. (The measure of the power of an engine is called horsepower.)

Janet Guthrie: One of the best drivers on the tracks

At the age of 40, Janet Guthrie has proven herself to be one of the best drivers on the tracks.

Janet has the honor of being the first woman to compete in the Indy 500.

All drivers have to qualify before they can be in the race. In the 1978 Indy 500, she qualified at a speed of over 190 miles per hour.

She drove well throughout the race and finished ninth.

Janet grew up in Miami, Florida, where her father was an airline captain. She Janet Guthrie is quite different from what you would expect a racing driver to be. She is soft-spoken and poised.

earned her pilot's license when she was 18. Later, she graduated from the University of Michigan. She has a degree in physics. At one time she was an engineer in the space program.

The Kentucky Academy of Family Practices has bestowed its highest award, "Citizens Award of the Year" to Dr. Louise Caudill.

Rowan County was one of the first to receive disaster relief from the state as the result of tornadoes. Judge Otis Caldwell accepted $26,062 from Governor Wendell Ford.

Four Girl Scouts have achieved the rank of First Class Girl Scout: Carol Bondry, Sherri Tucker, Jana Ousley and Mariana Davis.

Parenting Show Aires On KET

"What we're pushing is positive attitudes," says Jerrold Sandler, project director for "Footsteps." "We want parents to know that they're not alone in dealing with the pleasures and problems they face in raising children; that it's not impossible to be a parent, and that there is no one particular answer to a particular problem."

"Footsteps" begins a new broadcast cycle Sunday, May 27 at 5 p.m. (ET), 4 p.m. (CT), on KET. The 20-part series is also broadcast on Saturdays at 7 p.m. (ET), 6 p.m. (CT), beginning June 2. Solutions and "how-to-cope" strategies are liberally laid throughout the programs, hosted by two celebrity couples. The alternatives and options open to parents in dealing with their children are presented in dramatic form using five fictional families of different socio-economic backgrounds. Following each 20-minute drama, a brief documentary seeks to summarize and focus its theme.

The programs are not sequential and can be watched in any order. To obtain a guide which outlines the problems addressed in the programs and gives additional sources of information, write: "Footsteps," 600 Cooper Drive, Lexington, KY 40502. The guide is available to individuals or groups.

Arts And Crafts Display At Slade June 2-3

By HELEN PRICE STACY

The weekend of June 2-3 at Natural Bridge State Resort Park at Slade. Just off Mountain Parkway, will find artists and craftspeople displaying their work in booths in the multi-purpose facilities building.

The site is easily accessible by a walk path from Hemlock Lodge or by the driveway that crosses the bridge spanning Middle Fork of Red River, near the picnic area. The road then turns left and winds up the hill to the handsome building of stone and wood beams.

Not only will the weekend be a time for buying art work, it is the only time of year when many gift shop items are on sale at great savings.

As it is with most resort parks maintained by the state, there are many activities plus planned recreation to provide entertainment for all the family. Within the 1,899 acres at Natural Bridge are nature paths and wildflower plantings to explore; four picnic areas; pedal boats for the lake below Hemlock Lodge; rainbow trout, broom, crappie, largemouth and smallmouth bass to fish for in park lakes and streams; horseback riding; hiking to Lover's Leap, Devil's Gulch; Lookout Point and many other sites; swimming; and playgrounds for the youngsters.

Camping areas are located in scenic settings. There are concession stands, souvenir shops, a gift shop, and the dining room in Hemlock Lodge, noted for its good food. Square dancing is featured at Tussock Island and a Nature Center on the ground floor of the multi-purpose building is open.

You can take a skylift to the gorge below and then hike through some of the country's most beautiful areas to Natural Bridge itself.

Hours for the sale on Saturday, June 2, are 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The park is within easy driving distance of a wide area. Those who wish to stay overnight or longer may call the park at Slade 1-606-663-2214 or central reservations service toll free in Kentucky by dialing 1-800-372-2961. Toll free service for many states is 1-800-626-2911. There are at least 95 camp sites, and no advance reservation is needed.

Artists and craftspeople expected for the big annual Spring Arts and Crafts Sale are Gary Akers, Tom Armstrong; Boonesboro State Park gifts, Al Corbett, Iva Daniels, Don Ersoy, Howard Fain, Georgia Gifts, Ruby O'Donnell Haflück, Hazel Green Academy Pottery, Brett Johnson, Nellie Meadows, Robert Powell, Red River Crafts, Charles Spaulding, Helen Price Stacy, Triangle Gifts, Ann Tye and Glenn Wilson.

Registration Set For Kindergarten

Children who are planning to attend kindergarten in the Rowan County Schools this fall will need to be preregistered Friday, May 25.

Registration will be held at the Kindergarten Building on U.S. 32 from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Please bring a copy of the child's birth certificate or a verification of birth.

All children who will be five years old on or before September 1 are eligible for enrollment. Children who were tested will be enrolled after they receive notification from the State Department.

If you do have a child planning to attend kindergarten this fall, he must be enrolled on May 25. Any parent who can't be present on the 25th should contact the Superintendent's office, phone number 784-8928.

At Kroger We Offer You a Full Selection of National Brands Plus a Complete Selection of Kroger Brand Items all backed with a Kroger Unconditional Guarantee—

Certain news coverage and advertising might lead you to believe that so-called "generic labels" (that is, items packaged in plain labels without brand names) may be the best solution to rising food costs. These un-branded products are now appearing in some supermarkets. At first glance, it seems to make sense that lower quality products with cheap-looking labels could be made and sold at very low cost. The fact is that there is almost no difference between the costs of plain labels and brand labels. And that small difference is much less than the economies of higher volume enjoyed by many brand labels. For years Kroger has been offering many items with brand names such as Kroger, Avondale and Embassy...all unconditionally guaranteed to satisfy. We have no intention of cutting the quality of these products. But we urge you to check prices of the new un-branded products against the prices on brand name products at Kroger.

Count on Kroger for Quality and Low Prices

- 1. SAVE ON NATIONAL BRANDS AT KROGER. We invite you to compare Kroger prices on leading brands with those at any store in town.
- 2. SAVE MORE ON KROGER BRANDS. Kroger Brand quality is consistently equal to that of national brands, yet prices are lower.
- 3. SAVE MOST ON KROGER'S OWN "ECONOMY" BRANDS. Embassy, Avondale, Missy and other brands offer excellent value at lower prices.

Fontana, N.C. - Fun Spot Of The Smokies

By SOC CLAY

The pint cream bottle I found resting in tact amid the rocks alongside Hazle Creek reminds me that this wilderness where I am standing once was a thriving town of some 3,500 loggers and their families. There was a high school and milk deliveries, theater, restaurants - everything a small, self-contained mountain town might need in the way of services.

Down the stream a piece, where the first campground is located, was at one time the baseball field here at Proctor, N.C. But that was a long time ago. An old photograph I saw at a spring wild-flower meeting here a night or so ago, showed the town when there were 13 ban saws flipping up millions of board feet of virgin timber from the huge tract of land that is now encompassed inside the boundaries of the Great Smokey Mountains National Park.

The stream that once heard the roar of the sawmills now hears only the sound of its own chatter as it foams its way out of the heart of the Smokies and empties its clear, cold waters into sprawling Fontana Lake.

Its own sounds, plus those of a multitude of song birds, deer and other forest animals that roam this vast and wild land, can be heard instantly.

This is the land of black bear and the wild boar. Signs everywhere show the hog population is getting out of hand. Evidence of roosting is all along the roadways and in every cleared area. A trap by an old bridge indicates the park rangers are attempting to trap the wild hogs and transfer them elsewhere for restocking.

The stream itself is one of the most famous trout streams in the southeast U.S. For more than 20 miles, it tumbles out of the deep crevasses of the Smokies on its way to what was once the Little Tennessee River. Today, it empties into the big impoundment of Fontana Lake.

Fontana Dam, N.C., and the immediate area surrounding the resort community, is the recreation fun place of the Great Smokey National Park. Farther to the north, throngs of tourists mill about the commercial establishments of Gatlinburg and Cherokee. But here in the quiet shadow of towering mountains, life is relaxed. There is time for a trip deep into the mountains for wild rainbows or even native brook trout. Fishing trips on the big lake is in-mountain resorts in the country.

More than 400 rooms are available here. Cabins, the size to fit any family's needs, set along towering poplar and a multitude of flowering trees and shrubs. A luxurious lodge sits high on the side of a mountain offering views of the national park in the near distance. There is a grocery store, laundromat, cafeteria, gift shop, post office, two churches and service station. A huge recreation hall and theater provide much entertainment for every member of the family, nightly.

Fontana is a community. Many live here year 'round and the resort is open all year, also.

Built in the 40's, most of the 300 cabins that remain at the resort today were built for workers and their families when towering Fontana Dam was constructed. The federal government constructed much of the facility simply because there was no other housing available in the remote mountain region. The resort is still owned by the government but is leased by a private firm and operated as a non-profit agency.

While much of the original construction has been a great deal one been added in recent years. Renovation is constantly being carried out to keep the resort current to today's tourism demands. Swimming pools, a three-par golf course, marina, riding stables and a host of other facilities adorn the original construction community project.

Fontana is truly a family type resort. Children are welcome and add much to the natural cheeriness to the village. Programs are planned for every day of the week to provide entertainment for the youngsters. Many anglers travel to Fontana to discover there is so much to do and see here, that they can't find time for fishing.

But the serious ones do find time and there's plenty to choose from. Fontana Lake offers visiting anglers 240 miles of fish-filled shoreline. The lake is known for smallmouth bass but also provides excellent largemouth, walleye, panfish and trout fishing. Both Hazle Creek and Eagle Creek offer wild, unstocked trout in natural settings. Both streams are reached by boat only. The farther you hike up the streams, better trout fishing is found.

Fontana is also home of the serious hiker. Trails are abundant, reaching into many of the remote nooks and across vinging. So are horseback rides, flower walks, nature programs and a hundred and one other things that go together to make this one of the most exciting towering mountains, the 2,000-mile Appalachian Trail crosses the dam at Fontana and the resort is frequently visited by backpackers who stop by for a few days rest and some of the delicious food the resort is famed for. Too, mail is picked up and additional food is taken on for the next stretch of trail which takes up to two weeks to reach another inhabited spot.

Visiting anglers who wish to fish, for several days are advised to bring boat and motor. They can be rented at the marina, but cost can be expensive if several days are involved. There is a public launch at the marina, but a charge is made for overnight docking.

Trout fishermen who aren't concerned about getting wet, will discover that wading in cut-off shorts and sneakers is the most comfortable route to take during summer months. Remote campsites are available on the two trout streams but a permit is required for overnight stays. These may be obtained at any ranger station in the park at no charge.

During spring, fall and winter months, local anglers prefer live bait above all others. Minnows, spring lizards, soft craws and nightcrawlers are favorites.

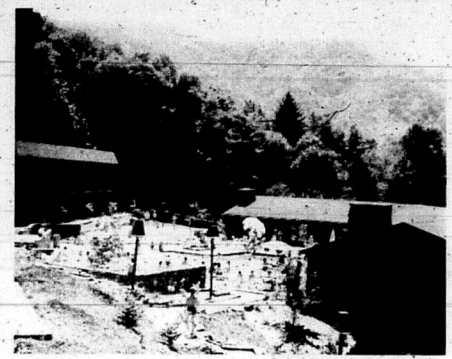

As the water warms during the summer, crank baits such as Rebel Deep Wee-Its are much in demand. The shallow water at the head of coves allow use for top water lures such as flyrod Hula Poppers, A.C. Spinner and floating Rebels. These are also excellent areas to cast small poppers and flies for hand-size bluegill.

Night-fishing for walleye and white bass can also be productive during summer months.

Scheduled activities at Fontana abound during the park vacation months of June, July and August. Throughout the summer, live bands play for directed square dances three time weekly. There are also concerts and folk sessions held frequently.

The most beautiful seasons at Fontana are spring and autumn. In spring the mountains are alive with new life, flowering shrubs and trees. Autumn brings the splendor of hardwoods in full color. The two seasons are best for angling and strenuous outdoor activities. Nights are cool enough for heavy blankets; sun-filled days are crisp and invite a hike or horseback ride.

If you would like to know more about this exciting mountain resort and what it has to offer you and your family, write Bob Stone, Fontana Village Resort, Fontana Dam, N.C. 28737.

FUN IN THE MOUNTAINS - Guest frolic in the pool at Fontana Inn. With more than 20 scheduled activities daily, little time is left for fishing.

HKERS - Backpackers abound in the Fontana area. The Village is a major stopping place for hikers on the Appalachian Trail and many choose to hike in to the better trout fishing of Hazle Creek as these three college students did.

BIG BASS - Rosey McGuire of Dayton smiles at this big largemouth which came from the depths of Fontana Lake. Fontana is noted for smallmouth bass, but it also produces big catches of husky largemouth as well.

LONG-TIME TROUT FISHERMAN, Jimmy Turpin brings in small but heavy rainbow from a pool in Hazle Creek. These trout are reproduced here. There hasn't been any stocking done for several years.

WILD HOGS have become so numerous within the confines of the Great Smokey Mt. National Park that they are being trapped and removed to other areas. This is a typical wild hog trap.

Because large windows increase the possibility of heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer, some experts suggest future homes be built with slitlike windows similar to those in medieval castles.

EPA Investigates Arkansas Landfill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal environmental officials are investigating an industrial landfill in a residential area of Jacksonville, Ark. it was reported today.

The Washington Post said Environmental Protection Agency officials were looking into the site, which has reportedly been a dumping ground for deadly chemicals for 30 years.

EPA officials said the landfill contains some of the highest measures of dioxin they have ever measured.

Dioxin, called by some experts one of the deadliest chemical compounds, is a waste product made during the manufacture of a widely-used pesticide which was used in Vietnam during the Vietnam War. The pesticide, 2,4,5-T, became known as "Agent Orange."

The landfill in question is part of a pesticide plant complex owned by the Vertec Corp., a Memphis, Tenn. company that bought it last November from the previous owner, Transvaal Co., which went broke.

Federal health officials claim dioxin can cause severe reproductive defects and cancer in laboratory animals.

EPA officials said an inspection team this week found drums containing the pesticide waste popping up out of the landfill where they had been buried.

The EPA official, asked what it would cost for the firm to remedy the problem, said, "we are not talking about small dollars if our suspicions are correct."

Sea Pollution Show Begins Sunday Night

"Like an underwater dust storm," says Capt. Jacques Cousteau, "the silt from the advancing shore line coats every living thing in a smothering cloud, an impartial catastrophe which makes no distinction among the species."

The object of Cousteau's concern is the Mediterranean Sea, which is examined in the latest edition in public television's "The Cousteau Odyssey" series. Entitled "Mediterranean: Cradle or Coffin," the program airs on KET Sunday, May 27 at 8 p.m. (CT), 7 p.m. (ET).

Commissioned by international committees as well as individual Mediterranean countries, Capt. Cousteau and the Calypso team conducted a broad variety of research in the Black Sea and the Mediterranean — a virtually landlocked body of water, into which flow the urban and industrial wastes of nations with a total population of more than 300 million people.

The broadcast shows film taken a year after World War II, in which Capt. Cousteau is seen with officers of the French Navy testing the waters of Veyron near Marseilles, and finding the sea teeming with marine life.

Three decades later, Cousteau and his Calypso crew returned to the Veyron and discovered the sea floor a desert: the rich abundance gone, the sea virtually empty of fish.

The major role played by industry in pollution damage is illustrated by Venice, where the emissions of surrounding plants and complexes are eating into the city's historic structures. Dr. Valentine Fossato, of Venice's Institute of Marine Biology, discusses the threat to the city's ancient buildings with Capt. Cousteau.

The program also covers the 1973 cholera outbreak in Naples, which was traced to polluted shellfish beds.

"Mediterranean: Coffin or Cradle" repeats on KET Thursday, May 31 at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT).

News Report From Rowan County Extension Office

Peppers
In visiting pepper growers it seems that this year's newly-set crop is getting off to a good start.

UK Soils Lab
Information we get from Lexington tells us that the University of Kentucky soil testing Laboratory is set up to handle soil samples from throughout the state. John Harrison who heads up this laboratory tells us that they run about 50,000 samples per year and can run up to 800 samples per day. In general this will let us get a report back to the county in 4-5 days after they receive it.

New Renovator Will Be Seen Field Day
I was talking to Tom Oldfield, Jr., who farms in Bath County, and he is going to bring his pasture renovator to put on a demonstration of seeding clover in grass at our Field Day in August. This machine also can spray a chemical on the grass to hold it back while the clover seedlings are getting started in grass pastures and hay fields. Plan to be with us August 19th.

Garden Contest
Garden Contest entries is open. Call the Extension Office and tell Jan you want to enter. Top prizes are $50, $30 and $40. Other prizes ranging through 19th place. Some nice prizes are being donated by local merchants and financial institutions.

Tobacco Plant Beds
Tobacco plant beds that I have seen are looking good. Watch for insect and disease damage. Call us if you find anything that you don't recognize or can't handle.

Hay Harvest Time
Hay harvest time is here. One bale of hay cut at the right time and taken care of properly is worth 2 or 3 bales of poor quality hay. Let's make up our mind this year to do a better job of cutting at proper time, doing a good job of curing and taking care of hay in getting it in.

Protect Against Liability Claims
Your responsibility for the well-being of persons coming onto your farm is changing as more states adopt a "reasonable care" standard. Traditionally and in many cases still today, the courts made fine distinctions among categories of people entering your property and the duty you owed to them. However, with many states adopting a single standard of "reasonable care" owed to all persons entering your property, these distinctions have been eliminated.

A New York court recently ruled, "If a property owner knows or has reason to know of a dangerous situation on his land, then the property owner must exercise reasonable care to remove the risk of injury to anyone coming on his land, whether they be trespasser, licensee or invitee, child or adult."

Make periodic inspections of your farm. When you find a dangerous situation, immediately stop and repair it. For some reason, you are unable to correct the problem right then, make it in such a way that people will clearly be aware of a dangerous situation. Pay particular attention to dangerous livestock, machinery, buildings, materials, storage areas, equipment, electrical wiring, doorways, overhead and underfoot obstructions, and holes.

Review your liability policy and coverage with your insurance agent. Take him on a tour of your farm and make any necessary changes in coverage and amounts of insurance to reasonably fit your situation.

Also discuss with your attorney where you stand legally as to possible liability on injuries to others that might be sustained on your property. Perhaps incorporation of your farm business would help to reduce your exposure to liability claims.

Highway Safety
This is the time of year farmers are moving equipment and machinery out, considerably on the highway. Let's all of us as motorists be real careful when we see a slow moving vehicle on the highway and if we have to move machinery on the highway, let's be sure that we have our slow moving vehicle emblem on the rear of the vehicle or some other warning to up-coming motorists.

Fruit Trees
Many of you have begun fruit sprays on your trees. Be sure to keep spraying on schedule for good control. If you need timely information on spraying call Jan and she will send you a copy.

Wages Aren't Keeping Up With Prices Official Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Barry P. Bosworth, who administers President Carter's wage-price guidelines, has a "cruel message" for the average American.

Wages, Bosworth said in an interview, are lagging behind prices and in the present economic situation they can't catch up.

For an indefinite time, he said, the average income of Americans is not going to grow — and may even decline — in relation to inflation.

Bosworth said inflation will not be solved until the American public absorbs this message and accepts a period of austerity in its standard of living.

At 36 — he looks even younger — Bosworth is executive director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which supervises the guidelines program launched last October.

Under it, businesses are asked to voluntarily hold their average price increases this year one-half percent below the amount they increased in 1978-79. Labor is asked to hold average wage increases to 7 percent.

During the year ending in March, the average weekly earnings of Americans, adjusted for inflation, declined 1.7 percent.

The average worker's hourly pay rose 9 percent, but he worked fewer hours and consumer prices rose 10 percent during the 12 months ending in March.

The reason "real" incomes are not likely to increase, Bosworth said, is that American productivity — output per hour of work — increased only 0.3 percent in the last year.

Only by producing more efficiently, he said, can Americans increase their standard of living and keep wages up with cost increases in food, fuel and housing.

Otherwise, he said, the following happens:

"The individual says, 'I want a pay increase to compensate myself for these higher food prices.' But not everybody can get a pay increase to compensate for higher food."

"It does not increase the supply of food available. It doesn't increase the amount of energy. All that will happen is that industrial wages will go up more rapidly. Employers can't pay it. So they'll pass it through in the form of higher industrial prices."

"Our problem as a country — the rather cruel message," Bosworth said, "is that because we don't have productivity growth there is no room for gains in real income for the average American," he said.

There is nothing the government can do to quickly increase productivity, he said. Congress can create tax incentives for business to build more efficient plants, but these take years to have an effect.

Therefore, he said, Americans have no solution but to accept "a period of austerity."

Community Center Receives $100,000

MT. STERLING, Ky. — Gov. Julian Carroll today presented a check for $100,000 to Montgomery County Judge-Executive Harry Hoffman to go toward construction of the community center portion of a civic and health center here.

Carroll said the check to the Montgomery County Fiscal Court represents the initial payment on a $238,300 grant from the state's local convention and community centers fund.

The grant will go toward the estimated $863,610 cost of the Montgomery County Civic and Health Center, which is being built on county-owned land in downtown Mount Sterling.

William Short, secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet, said the remaining cost will be paid from state and local health funds, funds from the Gateway Area Development District and local sources.

The 21,000-square foot facility will include a civic center with a multi-use auditorium, a health center to serve Montgomery County and neighboring communities and a community services complex to house extension services, the Gateway Community Services Organization and other groups.

The center, which will adjoin the proposed Railroad Cultural Arts Center, will also be used for community education classes.

The Local Convention and Community Center Fund is administered by the Development Cabinet.
