Says Farmers Are Ignoring SS Regulations
Third of Workers Are Affected by Social Security
Regular farm workers—perhaps a hundred of them in this county came under the Federal social security law beginning January 1, 1951, according to Horace Godbey, manager of the Ashland social security office. Dairy farming will lead to old-age and survivors insurance protection for the largest number of farm people in this area, Mr. Godbey believes, with cattle farming next. He emphasizes that it is the regular farm worker who is paid cash wages who will come under the law—not the itinerant, seasonal, or part-time worker.
A new leaflet, "Notice to Farmers with Regular 'Hired Help'" explains now the farm operator can tell whether any of his employees are covered by the law. Issued by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the leaflet is available from the Collector of Internal Revenue at Louisville, the Social Security Administration at Ashland, or from offices of county agents or Production Marketing Administrations. Many banks also have copies of the notice.
In addition to explaining just what farm workers are covered, the leaflet contains a tear-off slip, Form SS-6a, which the farm operator should complete and mail if he has employees who will be covered by the law. Further information about making the quarterly tax reports, and copies of the reporting blanks, will be sent to farmers who mail this form to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

"Not all farm workers are covered by the new law," Mr. Godbey emphasizes. The farm operator himself does not receive the protection of old-age and survivors insurance, nor do farm workers who work less than five months for one employer. Before he can be covered by the law, a farm worker must work for an employer during a qualifying period of one full calendar quarter. This may be the last calendar quarter of 1950—October, November, and December.

After he has served the qualifying period, the employee will earn social security credit for each succeeding calendar quarter of employment by the same employer as long as he continues to work at least 60 days on a full-time basis in each calendar quarter, and earns at least $50 in each quarter. He will also be covered for the first quarter in which he works less than 60 days if he earns cash wages of at least $50. In this event, before he can be covered in any future quarter, he must again serve a qualifying quarter as long as he continues to work at least 60 days on a full-time basis in each calendar quarter, and earns at least $50 in each quarter. MOTHER'S BEST HELPER DAD'S BEST SALESMAN

A wise mother knows how much it pays to be kind to your eyes. More light means less eyestrain, easier reading, studying, or sewing. To add cheer to your home, to make you feel better, and to conserve precious eyesight, get enough lamps and big enough bulbs. Ample light adds to gracious living.

Dad knows how light stimulates sales at the store. One of our lighting specialists helped plan his lighting to fit his store. Planned lighting is a strong stimulus for profit-building sales. Planned lighting helps to increase volume, to bring in more traffic, to make it easier for the customer to see, to spotlight those "impulse" items.

Bring your lighting problems to us. We have a home lighting specialist to help mother, and a commercial lighting specialist who can help you plan your lighting for your office or store. Their services are free. Call or write today.

Boiling Ham Not The Ideal Way
Old tradition to the contrary, boiling is not the ideal way to cook the ham, says Lucy Alexander, who cooked hundreds of hams in her research on meat cookery for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Miss Alexander says boiling is too high a temperature for cooking ham, and she was a pioneer in showing the greater tenderness, finer flavor and juiciness of meat cooked at low to moderate rather than high heat. If ham is to be cooked in water, Miss Alexander stresses simmering just under the boiling point, then letting the ham cool in its broth to draw back moisture and become as juicy as possible. But slow baking has advantages over cooking in either water or steam, says Miss Alexander. Baking often is more convenient and in baking there is no water to dilute the flavor and force out too much juice. A point to consider in advance is that slow cooking a whole ham takes a long time—may be an all-day job, depending on the size of the ham. Find out from the butcher or the label on the ham whether it needs soaking before cooking. Many hams of mild cure on markets today need no soaking. In contrast, some families may have an old ham for a holiday treat, which needs soaking overnight or longer.

Miss Alexander advises following the cooking directions that come with the ham. Some recommend higher temperatures than others. Long slow baking at 250 degrees F. gave best results in Miss Alexander's research and her suggestions follow:
Place ham, rind side up on a rack in an open shallow pan. Do not add oil or water and do not cover. Allow 25 to 30 minutes a pound for a ham that is at room temperature when it goes into the oven. Allow about 10 minutes more a pound for a ham that is just out of the refrigerator. Test for doneness with metal skewer or cooking fork to be sure the meat is tender throughout. Old hams often are flattened out and so may need less cooking per pound than thick chunky hams. A meat thermometer is a help in baking ham. Bake until the thermometer registers 170 degrees F.
When the ham is done, remove the rind, score the fat by cutting crisscross fashion in diamonds, being careful not to cut all the way through the fat. Then sprinkle or spread brown sugar over the fat, stick in long-stemmed cloves, and put in a hot oven—450 degrees F.—for 10 minutes or long enough to brown and crisp the surface.

Cooper Says U. S. Must Send Troops

Kentuckian Declares That Soldiers Needed In Western Europe

John Sherman Cooper warned at Munich, Germany this week that "a decision by the United States against sending additional troops to Europe would be fatal to any program of mutual defense."
Cooper, former Republican U. S. senator from Kentucky and now special advisor to the secretary of state, gave this statement to the U. S. Army newspaper Stars and Stripes, while in Munich on a tour of Germany.

He said he had conferred with British and French officials about defense plans and came to Germany to sound out public opinion on the question of German participation in West European defense.

"I have discovered it is the unanimous opinion of every one with whom I have talked in Continental Europe that the defense effort on the continent will increase," Cooper said, "but that the magnitude and speed of this increase depends almost wholly upon a developing confidence that if the U. S. sends additional troops to Europe, their governments, including Great Britain, must at the same time provide a adequate additional forces."

"Any action, which casts doubt upon the American purpose to participate fully in the defense of Europe will discourage European nations in their defense efforts at the very time these efforts are beginning to develop."
Benjamin Click, 15, Is Claimed Monday

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday with burial in the Clinton cemetery on Buffalo Branch. The Lane Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Kenland is highly resistant to the common Anthracnose disease, which gives so much trouble with our common varieties. At the Experiment Station, it was found that Kenland out yields other varieties about 25 percent. As is the case with other clovers, Kenland should be sown on good land that has been well limed. If the land has not been in clover previously, the seed should be inoculated with a fertilizer is needed, the land should be treated with a good fertilizer as at 12-12-12 or one of the light nitrogen fertilizers, since this clover requires very little nitrogen. There will be a quantity of seed available for Kentucky farmers this year but since the supply is limited, those who give orders early will probably be the ones to get it.

Urges Farmers To Order Chickens At meetings in the county Monday, January 15, Mr. C. E. Harris, poultry specialist from the Experiment station in Lexington, urged all farmers to place their orders for chickens early this year in order that they may get good production during the months when egg prices were best. Chickens started in January and February, he said, can be turned on range when spring pasture comes on, thereby saving considerable feed costs, and housed around August 1. After housing the birds should be left inside and fed all they will eat to insure maximum production.

Price Freeze On Practically Everything Is Predicted By End Of This Week

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) is aiming at a simultaneous freeze of about eight million prices by the end of this week.

If they fail to issue the order by that time, OPS officials think it will be largely because of formalities and mechanical details—and not disagreements over policy.

Korean Casualties Reach 45,137

The Defense Department has reported 45,137 American casualties in Korea through last Friday midnight—an increase of 2,424 since a week ago.

The list included 5,509 killed in action, 29,591 wounded and 6,077 missing. The death list actually totaled 7,303, including those killed in action, 722 who later died of wounds, and 22 found dead after having been reported missing.

Non-Essential Construction May Be Halted

Ball Parks, Theatres, Bank Structures First To Feel Regulation

The government has taken action to cut down the construction of new recreational and commercial buildings, such as theatres, baseball parks, banks and retail stores.

This action is designed to save scarce materials and services needed for the defense program.

It has been taken in two steps:

The first step was an order issued by the National Production Authority, called NPA order M-4, which took effect at midnight last October 24. It banned the starting of new recreational, amusement or entertainment construction projects that would cost more than $5,000 each in a year's time. Adjustments or exceptions were permitted in case of "unreasonable" hardship.

The second step was a revised order issued by the National Production Authority, called NPA's amended order M-4, which took effect at midnight January 13. It required NPA authorization to start specific kinds of new commercial buildings costing more than $5,000 each in a year. It also prohibited exceptions previously granted under the ban on new recreational building work by the act unless construction in such cases was started within 120 days after the exceptions were allowed.

Burley Drops During Week In Kentucky

Most State Farmers Have Already Marketed Their Entire Crop

Average prices for the majority of grades sold this week on the tobacco markets were lower than the previous week reports the Federal-State Market News Service. General quality was only slightly inferior in spite of a large number of farmers marketing the last of their crops. Volume of sales for the week as a whole was fairly heavy. Fourteen markets closed during the week.

The downward trend which began last week continued as most grades were off from $1 to $4 per hundred. Heavier-bodied tobacco suffered the greatest declines. Some green grades offered in small volume declined as much as $7. Most lugs, flyings and nondescript was steady to only $1 lower. Practically all grades, however, were selling above average established early in the season.

Gross sales for the week ending January 19 amounted to 60,000,055 pounds and averaged $45.26—down to $2.40 from last week. This was the lowest figure since the third week sales. Sales volume was off around 21 1/2 million pounds. Season gross sales through the same date were brought to 607,481 pounds for an average of $48.01.

More nondescript was marketed but there was also a slightly larger percentage of good and fine tobacco. Condition remained exceptionally good although there were a few more baskets in unsafe order. The offering graded principally low to good grades, with few flyings and tips and nondescript.

The Burley Associations reported an estimated 8 per cent of the baskets sold this week under the government loan program. Figures for the season through January 12 amounted to about 80 1/2 million pounds representing nearly 9 per cent of gross sales.

Final sales were held at Lebanon, London, Russellville, Scottsville and Springdale, Ky.

Mt. Sterling Man Kills Self With Gun

Rawleigh Price, Mt. Sterling carpenter and beamsmith, died almost instantly Friday of a self-inflicted bullet wound in his heart. Coroner Tom P. Douglas said Douglas said that Price, who had been dependent for some time and in ill health for the past year, went to a service station on East Main Street operated by a son, Tom Price, Friday morning, got a loaded .32 caliber pistol from a drawer in the office, and after telling an attendant who was present that he was going to kill himself, placed the pistol against his right temple and pulled the trigger. His son was not present at the time.

A native of Fleming County, he was a son of the late M. C. and Eliza Cooper Price.

Cold Wave Hits To Halt Rainy Kentucky Weather

A cold front, bringing with it fog, rain and snow, moved across the nation Saturday, putting an end to the spell of mild winter weather of the past week.

Snow fell from the upper Great Lakes to northern Missouri, and in parts of Iowa and Nebraska. Heavy snow came down in the vicinity of the Wisconsin-Illinois state line.

Unseasonable warm weather continued in the eastern states, but the cold front began moving into western New York and Pennsylvania Saturday night. Temperatures were expected to sink to the low 20's accompanied by wet snow.

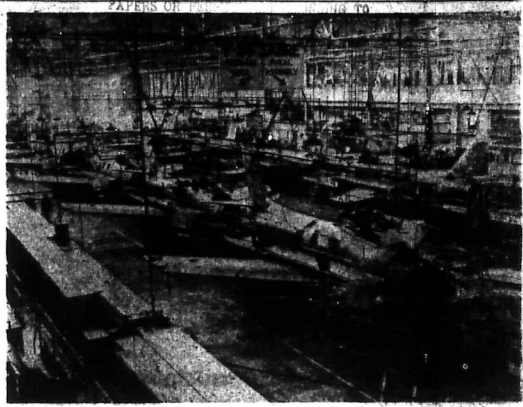

The front moved across the nation's midsection, stretching in a diagonal line from north Michigan to northern Texas. Wintry weather prevailed north and west of the line, with a low of 20 below zero at Bismarck, N. D. south and east of the line the weather was mild.

There's Money In Poultry But The Producer Must Operate On A Business-Like Program

By Adrian Razor
Farmers who plan to raise poultry this year should start placing chick orders if they have not done so, and getting brooder houses and equipment in shape. Some time taken now for planning and serious thinking may mean more profits from the poultry flocks in 1951.

Decide now how many pullets
you want to place in the laying house and get your order placed for chicks now for early delivery, the last of this month or sometime next month. You will then have time to clean your brooder houses, put in clean litter, make or buy feeders or waterers, and get the brooder in operating shape.

Some points to remember are:
Buy three chicks for each pullet you want to keep, provide at least one inch of feeder space per chick, more if possible, and place all waterers on slatted or wire platforms.

If you are raising pullets for eggs, be sure you get chicks from egg laying strains that have been developed for broiler production that will prove ungracious as egg producers, no matter how much care and feed is given them.

Buy only the number of chicks
you are willing to feed. Figure 10 pounds of feed for each chick up to frying size and 15 pounds for each pullet from frying size to laying age.

The birds will produce profits
if plenty of food is available at all times. In thinking of the feed question, plans should be made to have a good green range for the pullets since good pasture will cut feed costs as much as 20 per cent.

Dwarf Essex rape will provide good early range when sown as soon as freezing weather is past as will also Ladino Clover, and other pasture grasses.

Try to arrange everything so that less labor will be required.
A feed pin in the brooder house, set on legs 2 1/2 inches high, and an automatic waterer made from steel oil drums will cut the time and labor required to take care of the chicks to a minimum.
There is always money to be made in poultry for the flock owner who does a good job of care and management.

able this year from the price

Doctors Warned To Seek Reserve Commissions

The chairman of the Kentucky Auxiliary Committee on the Draft of Doctors for the Draft has advised the state's medical men to apply for reserve commissions if they don't want to be drafted.

Dr. A. Clayton McCarty, the committee chairman, made the statement following a meeting of his committee at Louisville.

He said Washington officials had told him that medical men in top-priority brackets who still have A classifications for their
I will be drafted.

The group takes in the 238 Kentucky doctors, dentists and veterinarians who registered for the draft last October. They are the men who were trained by the government or deferred for training in World War II and who served less than 11 months.

Men in two lower-priority groups—those who were not trained by the government and not deferred but had no service, and all other doctors under 50
registered a week ago.

Dr. McCarty said at least 50 per cent of the men who registered in October are classified as 1-A.
The status of many of these men may have changed, however, and the advisory committee will write to each one to bring his classification up to date.

Last Monday's registrants in Kentucky totaled 1,122. There were 847 doctors, 281 dentists and 54 veterinarians. None of these will be drafted until the first two priorities are exhausted.

Dr. McCarty said medical men who get reserve commissions will be able to follow their own specialties in service. They will not be called soon as draftees, and they get a bonus of $100 a month as long as they remain in service.

The advisory committee selects the medical men to be drafted.
It considers their importance in their communities or positions in making its selections.

Hope springs eternal in the hearts of those who have eternal hope.

Claim Come Still Using Fire To Farm

Many farmers are farming without the use of fire. H. L. Borden, Supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest, Winchester, claimed today. Instead of burning brush, it is being placed in piles to prevent erosion or piled and left to rot. Experiments show that sedge grass and woody materials plowed under or allowed to rot will increase soil fertility.

Kentucky Farm Market Report

Pig Crop Nearly 7 Per Cent Higher; Fewer Lambs Are Available For Market Now

The number of sows farrowing this fall was 7 per cent higher than last year. The number of pigs saved per litter at 6.95 pigs is the highest on record for the fall farrowing season. The fall pig crop at 40,557,000 is the third largest on record. An increase of 4 per cent over last spring is indicated in the number of sows to farrow in the spring of 1951. Assuming a little size of 6.4 (the 10-year average of 6.22 with allowance for trends), this number of sows would indicate a pig crop in the spring of 1951 of 63.5 million head. Such a crop would be 6 per cent larger than last son shift of lambs from Kansas wheat pastures. However, lamb in nearly all other important states is being raised. A few scattered states show increases in the number of lambs involved is relatively small.

Winter Truck Crop Production Of Production of commercial truck crops for fresh market during the 1951 winter season is expected to total about 12 per cent less than last year but above the preceding ten year average, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics has reported. The combined acreage of winter truck crops is nearly as large as last year, but yield prospects are lower for many crops.

Markets Decline As Demand Slacks Feed markets turned weaker during the week ended January 19 influenced by a slackened demand following the active inquiry of recent weeks when feeders and distributors replenished stocks, reports to the Department of Agriculture indicate. Production of wheat, mill feeds, linseed meal, and soybean meal continued large and offerings were plentiful. Market supplies of most other feeds were also adequate for trade needs.

Barley sharp declines occurred in prices of hominy feed and soybean meal while wheat middlings were mostly unchanged to slightly higher. The index of feedstuffs prices dropped nearly 4 points to 237.7. The feed grain index was down 6 1/2 points to 237.7. A year ago the feedstuff index stood at 203.8 and feed grains at 184.1.

Wheat markets ranged from steady to higher during the week ended January 11 but feed grains turned weaker and a part of the recent gains was lost. Imports to the Department of Agriculture indicate. Reduced consumption and remaining on-hand stocks together with increased marketings were weakening market factors in feed grains. Prices with the exception of barley, declined 3 to 4c per bushel. Barley declined about 3c per bushel during the week as crush or inquiry slackened but finished advanced 2c per 100 lb.

Burley Demand Decreased Last Week Demand for Burley tobacco decreased slightly during the week ending January 12. Average prices for most grades were steady to 43 per hundred below the high levels made last week. Volume of offerings was heavy. Declines ranged generally from $1 to $3 and were mostly for low to good leaf and tips. A few lower quality grades, lugs and flyings were off around $1 with better grades holding about steady. There were also a small number of grades slightly higher.

Weekly gross sales in the Burley belt amounted to $1,266,171 pounds at an average of $50.80 per hundred. This was 86c below that for the three-day period last week but still the second best of the season. Through January 12, season gross sales reached 421,162,377 pounds averaging $49.11. Sales in Kentucky through January 13 totaled 283,063,668 pounds, averaging $49.09.

Louisville Livestock Mostly Higher Top legs started the week 25-75c higher but by Thursday were 25-75c lower. Top 20.50 21. Louisville top lambs brought around $35 on Tuesday and were $2.50-30 on Thursday. Chicago lambs were at an all-time high Wednesday at $35. Louisville cattle have been steady to strong for the week, with some grades up 50c. Vealers have risen $1-2 on lower grades. Good and choice veals $38-40. St. Louis vealers $1 higher, good and choice $33-40.

Natural Gas Seen Soon For Owingsville

A spokesman for the Delta Natural Gas Company, Stanton, has announced completion of the transmission line to Owingsville, and reported good progress on the distribution system. The Delta official said that weather conditions had considerably slowed up the company's construction schedule, but despite these conditions, "the line is completed with exception of some ditch covering which will be completed when the equipment can get back into the fields without causing undue damage to property."

The Central Kentucky Natural Gas Company has informed the Stanton company that, at any moment, they will have the equipment necessary to complete the hook-up at the metering and regulation station at the Josh Owings farm on U. S. Highway 60.

News Short Story of the Week

"No Warning"

By WHITTAKER CHAMBERS
He had a relaxed and placid air as the passenger after he was sure the car had lost its skidless habit at high speed. The girl's warm blue eyes and half-amused expression met his placid, sending a wave of contentment through his lanky frame.
"Merrilee, he thought, smiling to himself, is all right—but not for Bob. If a married man's wife saw him sailing down the highway in a shiny convertible with a gorgeous creature like this beside him, all the roses in town wouldn't get him out of the doghouse."
"Seems all right now," he said, slowing down for a crossroad, "but maybe we should try it out on a gravel road. That is, if you're not in a hurry."
The girl brushed a lock of silky copper-tinted hair out of her eyes while she gave him a glance of appraisal which lasted only a second. "You're the mechanic," she said, "I'm in no big hurry."
Sometimes the half-amused expression lurked only in her eyes. At other times it crept across her forehead. It was when she was asleep. Bob frowned as he turned off on a side road. Something about this girl put him at ease. It was as if he had known her for years.
"Something wrong?" the girl asked.
Bob gave her a sheepish grin, nodding his head. "With me, not the car." He slowed the car, giving her a long, puzzled look.
"This is ridiculous," he said seriously. "I don't even know your name, yet it wouldn't embarrass me if you were to see the holes in my socks."
The girl started at him for a moment, then burst out laughing. "I don't happen to have my morning at home, but the name is Diana."
Bob frowned and turned the car around. Until now he'd managed to stay in the safety zone when a pretty girl was concerned. But Diana was in less than two hours, he'd managed to stick his neck out a mile. He shuddered to think what some girls he knew would have done with the prospect that he had just given Diana.
Diana placed a hand on his arm. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings," she said. "But I just couldn't keep from laughing even though it was the nicest compliment I've ever had."
Bob glanced at her while he was trying to think of something to say. She was serious, eyes like that didn't lie. They couldn't. He gripped the steering wheel to keep from pulling her into his arms. Alarms in his head kept trying to get back to the highway before things got completely beyond his control.
A copper-tinted cloud shut off his vision and two soft lips were pressed against his. "I usually don't apologize like this," Diana said, sliding back into her own corner.
The car skidded to a halt. "I'm stopping you fair warning," Bob said roughly. "My plans don't include marrying for at least another 10 years."
He pulled Diana into his arms, kissed her, then placed defiantly into the blue eyes. But he wasn't even fooling himself. "I'm sorry," he murmured.
Diana lifted her lips, kissing him so thoroughly that he could only stare at her in awe after her hand released its pressure on the back of his neck.
"Want to bet on those plans?" she said softly, giving him an impish glance.
"But things just don't happen this fast," he said soundlessly.
"I don't even know your last name."
She grimaced at him. "You should be ashamed of yourself, Bob Murphy, we've been engaged for some time now and—" "We've been what?" "Engaged," Diana said, her eyes twinkling at the startled expression on his face. "And I think it's high time for you to do right by little Diana Westberry."
Bob stared at her in amazement. "You're that frickle-faced, skinny baw, who was always in my way when I tried to work on that old jalopy?" "Yes," Diana nodded. "And don't try to crawl out of your promise. The day we moved away, I told you that I would haunt you if you married anyone before I grew up, and you said that you would wait for me."
"But you were just a kid."
"I was nine," Diana said, "old enough to know what I wanted, and you were 17, old enough to know better than make rash promises to girls."
"I must have been standing in a patch of four-leaf clover," Bob said softly.

Claim Some Still Using Fire-T6 Furnace
Many farmers are farming without the use of fire. H. L. Borden, Supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest, Winchester, claimed today, instead of burning brush, it is being placed in piles to prevent erosion or piled and left to rot. Experiments show that such grass and woody materials allowed under or allowed to rot will increase soil fertility. If burning cannot be avoided, Borden recommended that it be done on a calm day in January or February after 4:30 p.m. A new State law requires that all material must be piled or cleared around before being burned. It is also unlawful to burn anything in March, April, May, October, November or December within 200 feet of woodland except between 4:30 p.m. and 10:00 a.m. when the ground is covered with snow. Farmers should become familiar with this new State law—Section 149.300.

The Civil Service reported that civilians working in the executive branch of the government numbered 2,100,000 on December 1, an increase of 21,000 over Nov. 1, mostly in the Defense Department.
