

Questions Arise As To Disposition Of Dogs

The Morehead News has learned that reports to Rowan Fiscal Court by county Animal Control Warden Carl Mullen apparently have been falsified.

In a report submitted to Fiscal Court Tuesday Mullen claims to have had two dog pickups by a Cynthiana kennel amounting to a total of 72 dogs last month. M.E. Northcutt of the kennel says, however, that he has only made one pickup of dogs in Rowan County since last December and that only 46 dogs were taken then. That pickup came on May 25.

Northcutt, who runs an experimental kennel to test flea collars and other dog products, says that as many as 90 percent of the dogs he has picked up in Rowan County had to be put to sleep because they were in such poor shape.

Mullen is paid a salary by Fiscal Court but must pay all expenses including food, cleaning supplies and $50 each time the kennel picks up dogs out of that.

Mullen's explanation for the discrepancy in records has changed each time he is contacted by The Morehead News. His first statement was, "I'm sure he (Northcutt) is incorrect in that." He then said, "I have destroyed a hell of a number of dogs myself." He later recalled to say that a lot of dogs had been picked up by a man in Olive Hill, John Patton.

Patton said that he picked up a number of dogs from Mullen, but that he had no idea how many. "I couldn't even give a rough estimate," he said. Patton says that he trades the dogs to make money. He often keeps as many as 100 dogs at one time — some of them in the two kennels he has and the others tied up outside.

The Morehead News was unable to determine how many dogs had been delivered to Cynthiana or how many were given to the man in Olive Hill. Mullen refused to make his records available, saying he needed more time to get them in order.

For the period June 1, 1978 through June 6, 1979, a report to Fiscal Court by Mullen shows a total of 565 dogs picked up by him. Of this number, 10 were returned to their owners. That left 555 dogs to be destroyed in some manner. According to Mullen's own records no dogs were adopted.

John David Dyche, a volunteer who has worked with the Boyle County Humane Society, however, says that he was present last week when a dog was adopted. He said that a couple had asked Mullen about adopting a dog which appeared to be suffering from malnutrition but that Mullen refused, saying the dog had not been there long enough (Seven days must elapse before a dog can be legally adopted).

Dyche says that after he pointed out to Mullen that the same dog had been there a week earlier when he visited the kennel, Mullen handed the couple the dog. Dyche says, however, that Mullen did not sell the couple a license for the dog, nor did he charge them anything. Fiscal Court has set up a $15 adoption fee.

Dyche says that upon his first visit May 30, he found starving dogs, dogs with ticks all over their eyes, extremely filthy cages and pans with either dirty water or no water at all.

On his second trip June 6, he says he found a dead animal in one of the cages, but that the cages were even dirtier. He added, however, that Mullen did clean the cages after he demanded it. Dyche says that he offered to help Mullen on a volunteer basis but that his help was refused.

Mullen said that the dead animal was a cat which someone had thrown into the cages.

Former City Attorney Paul Blair, who drafted the original ordinance establishing the dog pound, said that he could see nothing wrong, according to law, with the warden killing dogs on his own as long as it was done in a humane manner. KRS 238.215 provides that "Any (such) dog which an officer seizes shall be impounded for seven days, and if not claimed by the owner or sold in accordance with other provisions of this chapter, then such dog may be destroyed in some humane manner."

The dog pound was originally established by the city but was later leased to the county as the county is legally responsible for providing one. Until last month, the city had been supporting the dog pound with a monthly contribution of $100.

That financial assistance was withdrawn last month. Councilman John Holbrook, author of the motion, said that since city residents had to pay county taxes, he saw no reason to force them to pay twice. Holbrook also said that the dog problem had not improved in Morehead since the dog warden had been hired.

The job that Mullen is doing has been the subject of repeated criticisms. Magistrates have said that the job is

Biggest Case Ever, Says Hall

Arrests Made In Handgun Burglary

Sirens, spotlights, "shoguns," and attack dogs; does this sound like an episode from a popular police drama? The scene was much like a page from one of these dramas as Morehead Police Chief Mike Hall and three other Morehead police officers led a daring pre-dawn raid on a small block house outside the Northern Kentucky city of Florence.

The police investigation into the burglary, June 5, of Perry's Hardware in Morehead came to a successful conclusion early Wednesday morning when Morehead Police along with Boone County and Florence City Police arrested two Florence, Ky. men and charged them with receiving stolen property.

Lodged in the Boone County Jail are Robert Dale Wigglesworth, 28, and Greg W. Beccraft, 21, both of 8501 Highway 42 in Florence.

The two men were arrested in a raid about 4 a.m. Wednesday at their house on Highway 42 just outside the Florence city limits. Taken in the raid was an estimated $25,000 worth of handguns with serial numbers matching those of guns taken from Perry's Hardware last week.

Morehead Police Chief Mike Hall said that he, along with Officers Gordon Lambert, Robert Wright, and Detective James Pelfrey, left Morehead late Tuesday night with information about the location of the suspects and the stolen weapons.

Chief Hall said the police had obtained much information from several informants, but the big break came Tuesday evening when police picked up a Rowan County juvenile in connection with the break-in. Police believe that this juvenile, along with another man chopped and sawed their way through the roof of Perry's and made off with the guns and $149 in cash. Police also believe the guns were later transferred to an awaiting car whose driver is still unidentified.

Chief Hall said that his information indicated the guns were then taken to a motel (The Wildwood) in Florence, Ky., where the guns were allegedly sold to two men for $500 and a promise of $3,000 four days later.

The juvenile told Chief Hall that when he and his accomplice returned to Florence in four days (Sunday June 10) to pick up the $3,000 promised for the guns, they were held at gun point, tied up, and stuffed in sleeping bags. After this they were thrown in the back of a van along with a shovel and told they were going to be killed and buried. Police felt this was an attempt by the two men arrested to scare off the juvenile and his accomplice, because the two were later released and told to "head west."

The juvenile then returned to Morehead where he was arrested by Morehead City Police Tuesday evening. By questioning him, the police learned the whereabouts of the stolen guns.

Chief Hall said he and his men left Morehead about 11 p.m. Tuesday and arrived in Florence about 1 a.m. Wednesday.

After arriving in Florence, Chief Hall contacted Sergeant Chester Snow of the Florence Police Department for his assistance in obtaining a search warrant for the house located at 8501 Highway 42.

The Boone County Police had to be called in because the house was located outside the Florence city limits.

The search warrant was obtained from the Boone County Attorney about 4 a.m., at which time units from all three police departments: Morehead, Florence, and Boone County, moved in and surrounded the house.

Morehead's Chief Hall, Boone County Detective Jay Riley, and Sgt. Snow of Florence approached the front door of the house and called to anyone inside to "open up." After receiving no answer, Snow kicked the door in. Upon entering the house police found two suspects, Beccraft and Wigglesworth who were then charged with receiving stolen property.

A search of the house turned up three loaded handguns and a shotgun in a ground floor bedroom, a single handgun in an attic crawl space, and over 100 handguns were found hidden behind sheet rock in the upstairs attic.

Morehead Police Chief Hall said that to say he was "tickled pink is an understatement." Hall added all but three or four of the guns stolen from Perry's were found in the house. Officer Bob Wright said that "it was hard to tell how many lives had been saved by recovering the guns."

Lt. Lou Wikson of the Boone County Police said it was a good combined operation and it was well pleased with the results.

Sgt. Snow said that it was a good haul and he was glad to assist Morehead Police in the investigation.

Chief Hall added it was a tremendous effort by all concerned and this was the biggest case ever solved by the Morehead Police Department.

Russell Perry, when told his guns had been recovered said, "I'm well pleased, that they made the recovery and I would like to thank them all from the bottom of my heart."

Police said an arrest of the second suspect in the break-in is forthcoming.

Rowan County Sheriff Jim Nickell said that Rocky Igo was arrested at about 7:45 Thursday morning at McKinney Bait Shop on KY 801 and charged with second degree burglary in connection with the June 5 break-in at Perry's Hardware.

Igo was released on $2,500 bond.

Council Accepts Low Bid For Proposed Flood Abatement Plan

By JOE LAMB

Morehead City Council Monday night tentatively accepted a low bid from a Mt. Sterling firm for the proposed flood abatement plan for Town Branch which runs behind First Street.

With a range of more than $124,000 between the highest and the lowest bid, the engineering firm of Maves, Suderth and Eiberger decided to look over the low bid to determine if all the specifications were met.

The bid of $128,748 from Mountain Landscaping of Mt. Sterling was slightly below the amount of money available to the city to do the work.

The city still must negotiate or obtain rights of way for the project.

The plan calls for clearing debris from the branch, constructing a smooth concrete wall behind Kentucky Publishing Company on First Street to divert the water, building a bridge over Norman Wells Lane in order to have a better opening for the water, and seeding the banks of the branch.

The city still must negotiate or obtain rights of way for the project.

A total of seven bids were received for the flood abatement plan, with three of them coming in under $200,000. The second lowest bid was from the Morehead firm of D.L. Braugher which placed the price at $155,750.

Much of the remainder of the council meeting was devoted to a variety of topics with the contract for sharing the capacity of the proposed water treatment plant taking up the greatest time (see separate story).

Among those other items was a review of the city budget presented last week to the council members. Councilman John Holbrook who took the lead, suggested several cuts from the budget. One of those was to abolish the position of lieutenant within the city police force. Police Chief Mike Hall had suggested that the position be created so that he could have a person who was directly responsible for the three shift sergeants.

Many of the other cuts suggested were routine matters such as moving $2,000 from a fund to set up a traffic light at the entrance to the police station because the money would not be enough and using it to purchase equipment at the station. The other items included cuts in the pay budgetted for the fire chief and the public works director. Those slots were filled at lower salaries after the budget was prepared.

said that he believes it would include them.

The city approved an equal opportunity employment ordinance which provides for consideration of minorities and women in city hiring. The council tabled another ordinance setting up a fair housing civil rights Commission. Members of the audience questioned the ordinance which sets a review committee to deal with charges of unfair housing practices. They said such organizations already existed on the state and federal levels.

Former City Attorney Paul Blair called the commission a "proliferation of bureaucracy." But City Administrator Dave Evans said that it might hinder chances of HUD funding on future projects.

Morehead Gas Bills To Go Up

Effective July 1, the Morehead Utility Plant Board will be paying more for their gas than their supplier, Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co.

Plant Board Superintendent Herman Brown said that the cost of natural gas will increase by 50-75 cents per thousand cubic feet (mcf).

Though the Plant Board has yet to officially act upon the increase, it is expected that the present charge of $2.85 per mcf of customers would likely increase by 51 cents to $2.86 per mcf.

Brown said that he doubted if any change other than the basic extra cost of the fuel would be passed. Brown does believe that the Plant Board will increase the minimum bill from the

Bus To Trademore

A question which surfaced about a week ago for permitting the Morehead Area Transit bus to go to Trademore "Bourseau Centre" was again put before City Council. A large group of senior citizens, during a public hearing on a grant for purchasing a new bus, expressed their desire that the bus go to the shopping center. Council had earlier turned down the request because Trademore is not in the city limits.

When the meeting room at Heritage Place was packed with senior citizens Monday night, the council members retented and agreed to purchase

In Flannery's Absence... Magistrates Adopt Administrative Code

By JOE LAMB

The action was swift and painless Tuesday morning as Rowan County Fiscal Court magistrates, in the absence of Judge Executive W.C. Flannery, adopted a controversial county administrative code.

The code, which sets forth policy procedures for officials and departments heads in county government, was the subject of much controversy earlier in the year when the magistrates instructed their county attorney to develop the code, after Judge Flannery had failed to present one.

That move added fuel to a conflict which had developed between Flannery and County Attorney John Cox. The conflict eventually led to a request by Flannery for a Grand Jury investigation of Cox for alleged malfeasance and misfeasance of office. The request was handsomely delivered to state Attorney General Robert F. Stephens last week.

Cox's contention was that the Fiscal Court is under an affirmative duty to adopt such an administrative code by January of 1979 and that the failure of the county judge to present a code should clear the way for the magistrates to take the matter into their own hands. Cox based that statement on an opinion from the attorney general's office.

Flannery, on the other hand, has argued that the magistrates cannot have the county attorney adopt the code. To support his argument, Flannery presented an attorney's opinion issued to William S. O'Daniel, commissioner of the Department for Local Government.

That opinion, written by Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyon, said that "the fiscal court has no authority on its own initiative to amend or change the code. The county judge/executive has the sole power to offer a code and suggest revisions thereof, subject to the approval or disapproval of fiscal court as a body in adopting a code or revisions thereof."

Board Hires Architect; Accepts State Money

By KATHY PARTIN Staff Writer

In an unanimous vote Monday night the Rowan County Board of Education accepted from the State School Board Authority $2,175 million for the construction of a 1,100 pupil high school.

Prodded to hold a special meeting at the end of the month to complete that and several other items of business.

With the funding and only $2 million potential, Rowan will have roughly $5 million, the architect's estimate for the cost of the new school is about $8 million.

School Board members have discussed leaving off the gymnasium until more monies become available, but the Citizens Advisory Committee in its first meeting last week was "advised about participating with it if at all possible," said Superintendent John Brock.

Worries that the School Board Authority would not allow temporary cutbacks in construction apparently were without cause, Proudfoot says the authority is encouraging schools to proceed and build a wait he can.

By accepting the funding, programming for the facility now must be reviewed by the Division of Building and Grounds.

Board members also unanimously approved the contract of agreement with architect Leon Browning of Lexington. The contract sets his fee at five percent of the construction costs.

Also in regard to architecture, the board agreed to participating with the National Endowment for the Arts and the Kentucky Arts Commission by providing a partial cash match of $2,000 for a four-month artist residency.

Rowan is the only school in the state that has been selected for an architect's residency for February through May of next year.

Working in the same capacity as artist in residence Adrain Swain, a potter, the architect will work with students, explaining his job.

As the architect begins the construction of the high school as a model, Proudfoot said students will "get an inside look to what's going on."

The architect may design the outdoor classroom (a nature study area) for a percentage of what it has been estimated to cost. In all, according to the superintendent, the school would be getting $10,000 of services for $2,000.

In his monthly report, the superintendent said that the CETA program has funded $12,000 for a full-time instructor for the first time. Total funding for the program is $66,000.

The state is providing two new units: one for a teacher to work with hospitalized students and a special education unit for a teacher to work with emotionally disturbed children.

During the two hour closed session, board members reportedly discussed problems with regard to handicapped children, two potential court cases and personnel problems.

Acting from discussion in that session, the board authorized the superintendent and Proudfoot to send a letter to Grace Ambergue listing the reasons on which her dismissal was based.

Ambergue was a 7th grade teacher at Elliottville and was not rehired in a special meeting of the board in April.

Adopt 1979-80 Calendar. Board members adopted next year's school calendar for 175 teaching days and 10 in service, holiday, opening and closing days.

Aug 13 will be the first day of school for teachers with students arriving for their first day Aug. 15. Aug 17 will be opening day for only teachers reporting to school.

The first holiday will be Labor Day, Sept. 3. Christmas break will be Dec. 20 starting at 1 p.m. until Jan. 2.

Spring break is scheduled for March 10-14. Classes will end May 14 for students and May 15 for faculty.

Options for inclement weather were included in the calendar. These state that any week in which one or more days is missed school will be taught on the following Saturday, providing Friday was a day taught.

If 10 days or more (minus Saturday taught) are missed by March 1, Spring break will be moved to April 11.

In Chamber Address...

Time For Industrial Development Is Now, Says President Norfleet

The estimated 70 persons attending the annual Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night were advised that if Rowan County doesn't make a move within the next year for development of an industrial park, it's going to be too late.

Dr. Morris Norfleet, president of Morehead State University, warned that economic and industrial development will bypass Rowan County if the city, county and university don't work together and make some positive moves immediately.

The potential is here, according to Norfleet, but "the main ingredient for development is people." He said, "If the people are not interested in the future of our community, you can't bring about economic development."

According to the MSU president, lack of organization has been a problem in Rowan County and he emphasized, "The Chamber is a group of people that can get things done." He referred to the Chamber as a small group of "movers and shakers."

An industrial park requires about 100 acres of land, along with utilities, highway and rail access, all of which Norfleet says is available. Pointing to the industrial growth in Mt. Sterling, Winchester, Maysville and Flemingsburg, Norfleet went on to explain that Morehead has been pegged as a possible industrial site.

Norfleet added that if the local people don't do something immediately, the industrial and economic development will take place in a neighboring counties such as Bath and Carter.

Must Have Site. He went on to explain that if Rowan County does not have a site to offer there is no hope of drawing new industry. "Towns are being courted all over 'n United States," according to Norfleet, "but without an industrial park there is no hope."

Morehead recently lost an industrial plant because the financial structure couldn't be worked out and, according to Norfleet, that plant now is located in another state with an estimated 200 employees. About $1 million was needed at the time that industry was considering Rowan County.

The university president views this area as being near perfect for economic and industrial growth because of the university, medical center, medical staff of more than 40 physicians, most of whom are specialists, and the Cave Run area where there are 40,000 acres of land below the dam that can be developed.

Norfleet predicts a strong growth period in Eastern Kentucky during the next 10 years. He attributes this to the positive aspects of the area, the good environment in which to live and raise a family, the friendliness of the people and the atmosphere in general which has been created in Eastern Kentucky.

Norfleet said, "We encourage new faculty members that Rowan County is the place to trade to, do business. Lexington could care less about us. We have to support our local merchants."

He spoke of the 17 million-a-year timber industry in Rowan County, with all of the timber being shipped out as a raw product, and the grain and livestock being shipped out of the county because there are no livestock and grain markets here.

Norfleet firmly believes that Rowan County has potential for growth in many areas, including vegetable production. He pointed to the fruit auction market in Cincinnati which is the largest in the United States.

Norfleet used Somerset as an example in explaining what can happen to a community if the people join hands and take an interest. Since the development of Cumberland Lake in 1952 the Somerset area has flourished.

Down town merchants in Somerset said the first shopping center would never make it and, according to Norfleet, the downtown merchants fought it. Now, there are two large shopping centers there and a third minimal center, as well as two more being developed. The eating establishments alone total 27 in one small area along the main highway.

"But what happened? The people got together. The downtown area is rebuilding and flourishing and small industries are moving in," Norfleet explained.

Somerset has become the center of hosiery manufacturing, this being attributed to a local man (Jim Sharp) who was interested in the growth of his hometown, according to Norfleet.

Speaks Of Coal Slump. Eastern Kentucky is on the verge of a break-through in development, Nor-fleet believes, despite the fact that there is a coal slump at present. He explained that the coal slump affects the Morehead area, even though there is no coal here, since about 60 percent of the students at Morehead State University come from the coal fields of Eastern Kentucky. This could mean fewer students from coal families attending the university, or those who do attend spending less money with local merchants.

Those hearing the university president's talk were made even more aware that Eastern Kentucky no longer can depend solely on coal and money generated from the product for a livelihood. Morehead, Rowan County and all of Eastern Kentucky need to push for new ways to bring about economic and industrial development, according to Norfleet.

A Drawing Card

The multi-million dollar fieldhouse under construction at Morehead State has been designed for use as a convention center, with a seating capacity of 7,500. It will be the only facility of its kind in Eastern Kentucky and will be a drawing card for the local community, according to Norfleet.

In commenting on the convention center, Norfleet noted that some persons had questioned why Morehead would need such a facility. He remarked, "Why shouldn't we have it? Louisville and Lexington have convention centers."

Norfleet predicts a strong growth period in Eastern Kentucky during the next 10 years. He attributes this to the positive aspects of the area, the good environment in which to live and raise a family, the friendliness of the people and the atmosphere in general which has been created in Eastern Kentucky.

Holiday Inn To Construct 40-Room Addition

If all goes as planned a groundbreaking ceremony marking the beginning of construction on a 40-room addition to the Morehead Holiday Inn should be held in about two weeks. Waverly Jones, manager of the Holiday Inn said that a contract for the estimated $500,000 construction project has already been signed.

Jones said he believed if construction on the new addition begins on time it should be completed in about six months. He explained that the two story addition will be constructed on the north side of the pool, making the motel U-shaped. Jones added that the increase in the number of rooms would create some additional jobs, in the form of additional maids, an added laundry worker, and a desk clerk.

Jones said the plans for the additional rooms include eight king-sized rooms, the type he feels most businessmen prefer. He said the new rooms would be most profitable for several reasons. Jones said they have quite a few turn-aways in the summer months and when special activities such as homecoming and graduation are held at the university.

Jones also said that the first major renovation to the Holiday Inn since it was built in 1968, a $75,000 remodeling of the restaurant, was just completed in January.

Council —

the bus to go there. Councilman Carl Sizemore was the lone dissenter in the affirmative vote.

The council also had what Mayor Crayton Jackson termed "good news" as the city set the tax rate for the coming year at the same level of last year. The amount (as advertised in today's paper) is set at 31 cents per hundred dollars of assessed value.

In other action during the lengthy meeting, the council:
Hired the firm of Kelley Galloway to complete the audit for the 1978-79 fiscal year. The same firm completed the audit last year almost 10 months late. It was rehired because it submitted the lowest bid and because it promised a detailed report delivery of the audit. Council members had voted last month when they accepted last year's audit, to take 10 months to pay it.

Refused to permit a resident, who said she doesn't use the service, not to pay for garbage pickup. Ella Helwig said she had not used the service for six years but had her water disconnected when she refused to pay for it. Council members contended that the garbage must either be picked up by the city or an approved collection agent. Mrs. Helwig did not use a private authorized collector.

Voted to advertise the position of city patrolmen following a resignation.
Listened to complaints about poor service in the Forest Hills area from the TV Cable Company. Council members agreed to have a representative of the company present at a future meeting.
Discussion was also made about the fact that in prior negotiations for a rate hike, Morehead-Olive Hill Cable TV, a division of Ohio Valley Communications, had promised an additional channel.

Jim Lewis, local director, told The Morehead News yesterday that the problems at Forest Hills, some of them power related, had been corrected. He added that a new channel probably would be added by the end of this year. He said that OVC was going to a satellite system which likely would give local viewers, Channel 17, out of Atlanta. He said, "We're coming up with a real good entertainment plan."

Discussed but took no action on the road problems in Forest Hills subdivision. The council said that the road, which has been torn up as a result of work on the sewer system expansion project, would be repaved once construction is complete in the area. Mention was made that the road problems were more extensive than the damage from construction and council agreed to have the public works director look at it.

NEW LOOK... New lighting fixtures and a more functional design are some of the more noticeable points of the newly renovated restaurant at the Holiday Inn. Manager Waverly Jones said although the number of people the restaurant can seat has remained about the same, it can now be used by three different groups at one time. See story page one. (Staff photo by Bob Crisswell)

Miss Ky. Pageant Is June 21-23

Marla Kay Kalb, Miss Morehead University will be participating in the Miss Kentucky Scholarship Pageant June 21-23 at the Macaulay Theatre in Louisville. She is the 22 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kalb of Maysville.

The 21 contestants will compete for scholarship awards totaling $2,750 and $2,500 in wardrobe awards. Winner of the pageant will represent Kentucky in the America Pageant in September. Slage show for the three nights will feature Gary Edwards, vocalist, and guest appearances by Marcia Malone Bell, Miss Kentucky 1978, Janet Hatfield Lowman, Miss Kentucky 1968 and The Terry Wayne Orchestra from Detroit. Mistress of ceremonies will be Rebecca Snyder Mobley, Miss Kentucky 1965. For ticket information, call the theatre box office at (502) 587-8627.

Magistrates

$8,005 clearly suggests the approval of something already formulated, clearly the county judge/executive the sole authority to 'prepare and submit' for fiscal court approval an administrative code. As attorney general opinions are only advisory in nature and do not carry the force of law, any real test of the Fiscal Court's action would have to be in court.

Judge Flannery was in a Lexington hospital undergoing tests and no attempt was made to reach him for comment. Secretaries in the judge's office said that they did not know what his illness was.

Unofficial comments before and after the meeting indicated that the code, which was not released until copies are distributed among county officials, would give the magistrates more control over, among other departments, the county road crew and a better check on where materials are going.

In presenting the resolution to adopt the administrative code, Magistrate Paul Ousley said that it was a law that should have been fulfilled some time ago.

A second action by the magistrates, which may have been a surprise to the judge, was an order to remove a recording device he has for answering the telephone when no one is in the office. Pointing to a 2500 phone bill last month in the judge's office, Ousley said it really wasn't necessary. He mentioned that the judge already had two lines into the office as well as an extension.

Other action by the magistrates included:
Allocating $249.33 from the now defunct Morehead-Rowan County Fiscal Improvement Corp. into the holding company for the Martindale Building. Cox explained that the money was just lying dormant in a bank account.

Authorizing Calvin Lytle, as presiding officer, to sign a pre-application for second-year funding of the Rowan County juvenile shelter.
Delaying payment on a request for third quarter payment of public defenders. Rick Oliver, one of two public defenders in the county, submitted a bill for $3,461.19. Starting July 1, 1979, the county will no longer be required to pay the salaries of the public defenders, however, it may still have to incur some of the incidental expenses.

The meeting was recessed until June 29, at which time the magistrates will clear all bills for the current fiscal year. The meeting Tuesday had been recessed from the regular court meeting last Thursday morning.

Some Of Bonds Words Are Becoming To Haunt Him

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some of Federal Aviation Administration chief Langhorne Borg's most recent words to Congress came back to haunt him today as he explained to Congress his actions following the nation's worst air crash. Borg told a House panel in March that he "wasn't worried about the machinery used in aviation — the turbine engines, the solid state electronics, the whole array of new technology." This whole sophisticated system is incredibly reliable," he said then, speaking in favor of his decision to end an immunity system for pilots who report mistakes. Two months later, on May 25, the engine fell off a DC-10 on takeoff and it crashed in Chicago, killing 275 people and raising questions about the government certification of the aircraft as safe. Borg now has grounded the nation's 138 DC-10s because of what he said might be a "design problem" in the plane's pylon, the structure that attaches the wing to the plane. The problem may have been overlooked by the government's certification process. Rep. John Burton, D-Calif., quoted Borg in his invitation to testify in the transportation subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee. Burton's committee last September held hearings on the FAA's certification process. Burton's letter reminded Borg that he had expressed confidence in the government process for determining safety of new planes. Asked Sunday what he would tell the committee, Borg said: "I'm going to tell it straight." Over the weekend and while the testing and examination of the DC-10s was still under way, Borg ordered an inspection of the pylons on the Boeing 747, Lockheed L-1011 and the A-300 jets in the nation's fleet. The new inspections were not expected to cause any further air traffic delays, industry officials said, because many have already been performed and the government has given the airlines 45 days to complete the rest. The nation has at least 134 B-747s in operation, 93 L-1011s and only seven A-300s, which are owned by Eastern Airlines. The FAA, however, will analyze the results of the inspection, spokesman Dennis Feldman said.

Mr. John Mark Stewart

Miss Brown, Mr. Stewart Exchange Vows

Miss Deborah Kay Brown became the bride of John Mark Cromwell Stewart during a candlelight ceremony Saturday, May 26, at the First Baptist Church, Morehead.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Brown of Morehead. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira F. Duval of Olive Hill. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. R.D. Baker before an altar decorated with an arch and candelabra entwined with greenery and baby's breath. Arrangements of ferns and palms completed the altar decoration.

A program of nuptial music was performed by Mrs. Palmer Hall, pianist; Mrs. Keith Huffman, organist; and Miss Susan Calhoun, soloist. The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, wore a gown of ivory satin and alenon lace with seed pearls. The gown was designed with a Victorian neckline and long tapered sleeves trimmed with the same lace and seed pearls.

Her chapel length train of satin was edged with the same alenon lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of ivory roses, miniature yellow roses and baby's breath.

Miss Amy Fryfian was maid of honor, wearing a floor length pastel yellow gown of selestia with a high, gathered neckline. She carried a single yellow long-stemmed rose with a matching rose in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Miss Kimberly Straton, cousin of the bride, Miss Robin Dawson, Miss Kimberly Watson, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Marsha Dameron, wore pastel green gowns of selestia. They too carried a single yellow long-stemmed rose.

Miss Ragen Watson, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She was attired in a gown matching that of the maid of honor and carried a basket of rose petals.

Virady Stewart served his brother as best man. Ushers were Kevin Nesbit, Tommie Williams, Jeff Saume, cousin of the bride, and Tony Jones.

The curtains will go up on the evening of June 29 at Cave Run Lake for an outdoor presentation of the Broadway musical, "South Pacific."

Dr. William J. Foye of the Theater Department at Morehead State University, who will serve as producer, explained it as being a pioneering venture that, if met with success, could be the beginning of another outdoor Kentucky drama theater.

"South Pacific" will run two nights the first weekend. On following weekends (during July), "South Pacific" will be presented one night and another Broadway production, "Pippin" the next night.

The Twin Knobs beach area, with the lake forming the backdrop of the state, has been selected as the site for the productions. The temporary stage and seating facilities will be erected by volunteers within the next few days.

The production will be a joint effort of the Morehead-Rowan County Tourism and Recreation Commission, the local Chamber of Commerce and the local Industrial Foundation, with each contributing funds toward the project, which will not exceed $35,000. Morehead State University students will provide the talent for both shows and volunteers are being sought to help with construction of the stage and bleachers. Anyone desiring to help should contact Larry Breese, president of the Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce; Gary Bishop, of the local

Stark Davis Receives Appointment To Academy

An 18-year-old Morehead youth, Joseph S. Davis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Ford Davis received an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Davis said he began working to get a nomination to the academy "last summer by writing letters to congressmen and senators. Davis received his nomination from Rep. Walter D. Huddleston in March and his appointment to the academy in May. Davis added, "I was really kind of surprised to receive an appointment at such a late date." Davis said he has always been interested in the military, and at this point he plans to make it a career.

Davis said he looks forward to beginning school at the academy for two reasons. First, it is a great way to serve his country and second, it will develop him spiritually, academically, and physically "more than other schools."

Davis added that the academy will be a true test of his character, and he feels it will make him better suited for the every day world, if he ever leaves the Air Force.

Davis, a May graduate of the University Breckinridge, is due to report June 25 to begin basic training at the academy located near Colorado Springs, Colorado.

After his first two years of basic college work Davis said he plans to specialize in engineering.

Davis, who was classified in a non-flyer category because of poor non-corrected vision, said he was not disappointed in not flying, he is just hoping to be successful.

Water Sharing Contract Is Approved By Parties

After agreements were reached on three points of conflict and after much discussion of the need for the Morehead Utility Plant Board's water expansion, a contract was approved Monday night for the allocation of capacity of the proposed five million-gallon per day water treatment plant.

The office of Housing and Urban Development had given the Plant Board a deadline of Friday, June 15, to submit the contract for federal approval so that grants and applications for loans could be approved.

The contract, in essence, calls for a sharing of the plant's capacity between the water districts of Bath Water and Rowan Water Inc. As set forth, Bath would get 20 percent or up to one million gallons per day or 30 percent; and the Plant Board would retain the rights to the remaining 50 percent or up to 2.5 million gallons per day.

The new plant is needed because the present one, which also provides water to Bath and Rowan under contract, is running between 22 and 23 hours per day and is actually exceeding design capacity of 1.5 million gallons per day by about 17 percent.

The total cost of the project is estimated to be $5,233 million with a $1,841 million grant from Farmers Home. Much of that grant money, however, is allocable only to the amount of the project attributable to the districts of Bath and Rowan and not to the Plant Board.

The idea of sharing the water plant with Bath and Rowan Water Districts was criticized by some people in the audience who said that the Plant Board should take care of Morehead before "helping out the rest of the world."

One of those people, Bill Burns, said that if the Plant Board had not shared the "pie" as he said, "built in 1966 with Bath and Rowan, Morehead would be plenty of water for the people of Morehead."

City Attorney Buddy Salyer said, that it may be more water from the water from the last plant built in 1966 with Bath and Rowan, there would be plenty of water for the people of Morehead.

Others, such as local businessman Gary Bishop, said that Morehead could not ignore those other areas and that as Morehead was a retail trading center, it was to the city's advantage to make the water available.

Bishop added that even when the rates, which will be three times as high as they are now, go into effect he could still operate his business here — such and ironed out three points of exception.

Those points, described as minor, were how much the Plant Board would charge the other companies to read their meters; that all three parties could cut off service to other customers in case of a large fire; and how much of the administrative cost of operating the water plant was attributable to the other districts.

Those matters were quickly cleared up and the contract was presented to and approved by City Council.

After receipt of the contract, HUD will send the Plant Board a letter of conditions, stating what steps the utility must now take to fulfill the grant and loan requirements.

What Are The Odds?

The odds are that 3 out of every 4 people over 65 will develop cataract, but of those who undergo surgery to correct this leading cause of blindness, 95 percent will recover their sight.

Children don't usually complain about a vision problem because they don't know how well they should see. But the odds are one in 20 that a preschool child has some kind of eye disorder.

1979 TORCHBEARERS... The torchbearers for the 1979 Kentucky Special-Olympics show off plaques received during opening ceremonies of the 10th Anniversary Kentucky Games recently at Morehead State University. Torchbearers include, from left, Craig Raines, Morehead swimmer; Pam Thomas, Hodgenville frisbee thrower; and Jimmy Melvin, Bracken County distance runner. More than 1,600 athletes participated in the state games.

Katherine Hepburn is the only actress to have won the Academy Award for best actress three times: in 1933 for "Morning Glory," 1967 for "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," and 1968 for "Lion in Winter."

Post 126 Is 13-2 Going Into Shelbyville Tourney

JEFF DIXON is called out while trying to score the first run for Morehead Legion Post 126 Wednesday night against the Lexington Cards. Dixon had the only extra base hit of the contest, knocking an RBI double.

By TED SLOAN

Morehead effectively tuned up for this weekend's Shelbyville Invitational Tournament with three victories in two days Tuesday and Wednesday.

Post 126 whalloped Lexington Man-O-War, 13-2, in the Metro City Tuesday before taking both ends of a doubleheader with the Lexington Cards Wednesday, 4-1 and 10-4.

Morehead rapped out 13 hits and took advantage of 9 walks in crushing Man-O-War. The defending district champions combined four walks, two hits and a hit batsman for a four-run first, and plated nine runs on eight hits in the third. Jeff Dixon helped that inning along with a two-run single, and Tony McKinney brought two runs home with a double.

Randy Lambert, John Warner, Ronnie Cornett, and Randy Riddle each whacked two hits for Morehead. Joe Magrane struck out three in two innings and yielded only a hit to earn his third victory in as many tries.

The abbreviated first-game win against the Cards Wednesday went to Mike McCann, who fired three innings of no-hit baseball, walking two and striking out seven. Sam Holbrook and Ted Carter mopped up. Post 126 scored all four runs in the second inning, while going 2-for-2 at the plate with 2 RBIs, all in Wednesday's nightcap against the Lexington Cards.

knock, and RBI double.

In the nightcap, Wendell Bailey did it all in his first start on the Hardin field hill. The 5'7" southpaw held the Cards hitless in five innings of work, allowing a run in the second when Bill Lawson was hit by a pitch and stole his way around. Bailey struck out 11 in earning his first victory of the year. The 17-year-old Bailey helped himself at the plate. He went 2-for-2 with a run and two RBIs in his first appearances at the dish all year.

Morehead needed an eight-run fifth to blue the game open. Donnie Harper, Dave Gaunce, and May each had two-run hits in the big frame. Three walks with a wild pitch combined with seven hits resulted in the explosion.

Post 126 tied the game at 1-1 in the bottom of the second when Bailey walked with the bases loaded. Bailey brought home the tie-breaking run in the fourth with a two-out single.

Donnie Harper kept his bat hot with two singles, a double, and a walk. He came around three times, twice on Bailey's hits. Warner duplicated his first game with another two-hit outing.

The Morehead post entered the Shelbyville tourney with a 13-2 mark and a 5-game winning streak. Post 126 will come home to take on South Lexington in a 1:30 doubleheader Sunday, then will leave for Florida for a five-game set next week.

WENDELL BAILEY...Struck out 11 and allowed no hits in five innings while going 2-for-2 at the plate with 2 RBIs, all in Wednesday's nightcap against the Lexington Cards.

Tatman Holds Several Positions

By Mark Perkins Sports Editor

Harold Tatman is known as commissioner of Morehead's Babe Ruth Baseball League to area baseball players, president of the Optimist Club to those members, pastor of the United Methodist Church to church members and as Mickey Mouse to CB operators.

Tatman, who is beginning his fourth year as minister of the United Methodist Church in Morehead has always had an interest in baseball. He was a good pitcher at Lexington Lafayette High School, good enough to have thrown two perfect games and one that came within one batter of being perfect. Recalls Tatman, "the second baseman dropped the ball for an error on the next pitch the runner tried to steal second and was thrown out."

The St. Louis Cardinals apparently thought Tatman had a professional baseball future as they invited them to training camp right out of high school in 1949. "I think I would have made it, I'm not sure how far, I could hit, which is not a virtue pitchers usually do well in." Tatman racked up an impressive .416 batting average while in high school.

The reason why he didn't pursue a baseball career is ironic considering Tatman's present occupation. According to him, his mother didn't want him to play baseball because it would force him to work on Sunday.

Tatman knew John Y. Brown, winner of last month's Democratic primary for governor and professional golfer Gay Brewer, winner of the 1967 Masters while in high school. Tatman recalls that Brown and Brewer made up the entire Lafayette golf team.

Tatman worked for the southern railroad after high school. He got married in 1950. Two years after getting married Tatman felt a growing awareness that he should go into the ministry. He enrolled in Asbury College in 1952, after spending two years working for Kroger.

His first church was in Smithfield. He served there while still in school, not getting any money, not even expenses, but it was good experience. Tatman's first full-time job as a pastor was in Lawrenceburg, where he was honored as rural minister of the year. Since then he has worked in Middlesboro, Versailles, and Richmond before coming to Morehead in 1976.

When he arrived in Morehead Tatman said he viewed all the service clubs, and decided to join the Optimist, "because they have the same principles and ideals that I do and they meet at the noon hour, which is the only time I felt I had the opportunity to give to a service organization."

In addition to the activities listed above, Tatman has served as vice-president of the men's club, president of the esley Kokodaton, and has also on the board of the comprehensive care, mental health and retardation here on creek and efficient, and K can skally vary it right beside the door."

According to Tatman the best part of the gas mileage. The Uzzkkc gets over 50 miles per gallon and the moved gets 50.

Of all his outside activities, which participate and the Optimist Club will be responsible for promotion, housing, hosting to a certain degree food, uniforms, etc.

"One of the advantages to the hosting community is that they automatically receive a bid to the tournament, so our top team will be exempt from district and regional play," Tatman explained. The state tournament will be a double-elimination affair. Morehead could in fact have two teams in the tournament if the team that goes to the district tournament in Greenuip is successful.

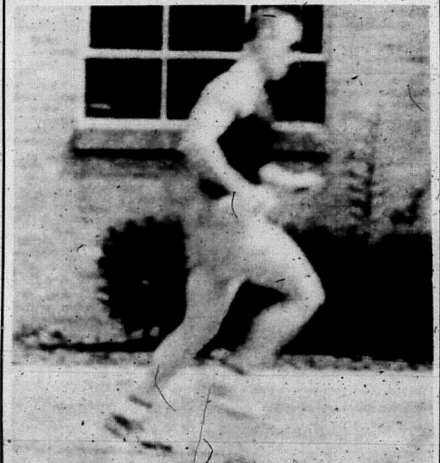

All of Tatman's vehicles are equipped with a CB radio and he got the handle Mickey Mouse because of a trip to Disney World.

include bowling, golf, fishing, boating, CB's, and music. baseball holds a special place. "When I moved to Morehead, I was delighted to find out that the club I'm associated with (Optimist) sponsors a fine program like Babe Ruth," Tatman said.

As president of the Optimist Club, Tatman decided to double as the commissioner himself instead of delegating it. Tatman is proud that under his direction the league is able to provide the best bats, balls, uniforms and other equipment necessary to operate a first-class baseball league.

In addition to his regular duties, Tatman is preparing for the state Babe Ruth tournament which will be held in Morehead July 20-25. Eight teams from across the commonwealth will participate.

Recreation Activities

Post 126 Is 13-2 Going Into Shelbyville Tourney

JEFF DIXON is called out while trying to score the first run for Morehead Legion Post 126 Wednesday night against the Lexington Cards. Dixon had the only extra base hit of the contest, knocking an RBI double.

By TED SLOAN

Morehead effectively tuned up for this weekend's Shelbyville Invitational Tournament with three victories in two days Tuesday and Wednesday.

Post 126 whalloped Lexington Man-O-War, 13-2, in the Metro City Tuesday before taking both ends of a doubleheader with the Lexington Cards Wednesday, 4-1 and 10-4.

Morehead rapped out 13 hits and took advantage of 9 walks in crushing Man-O-War. The defending district champions combined four walks, two hits and a hit batsman for a four-run first, and plated nine runs on eight hits in the third. Jeff Dixon helped that inning along with a two-run single, and Tony McKinney brought two runs home with a double.

Randy Lambert, John Warner, Ronnie Cornett, and Randy Riddle each whacked two hits for Morehead. Joe Magrane struck out three in two innings and yielded only a hit to earn his third victory in as many tries.

The abbreviated first-game win against the Cards Wednesday went to Mike McCann, who fired three innings of no-hit baseball, walking two and striking out seven. Sam Holbrook and Ted Carter mopped up. Post 126 scored all four runs in the second inning, while going 2-for-2 at the plate with 2 RBIs, all in Wednesday's nightcap against the Lexington Cards.

knock, and RBI double.

In the nightcap, Wendell Bailey did it all in his first start on the Hardin field hill. The 5'7" southpaw held the Cards hitless in five innings of work, allowing a run in the second when Bill Lawson was hit by a pitch and stole his way around. Bailey struck out 11 in earning his first victory of the year. The 17-year-old Bailey helped himself at the plate. He went 2-for-2 with a run and two RBIs in his first appearances at the dish all year.

Morehead needed an eight-run fifth to blue the game open. Donnie Harper, Dave Gaunce, and May each had two-run hits in the big frame. Three walks with a wild pitch combined with seven hits resulted in the explosion.

Post 126 tied the game at 1-1 in the bottom of the second when Bailey walked with the bases loaded. Bailey brought home the tie-breaking run in the fourth with a two-out single.

Donnie Harper kept his bat hot with two singles, a double, and a walk. He came around three times, twice on Bailey's hits. Warner duplicated his first game with another two-hit outing.

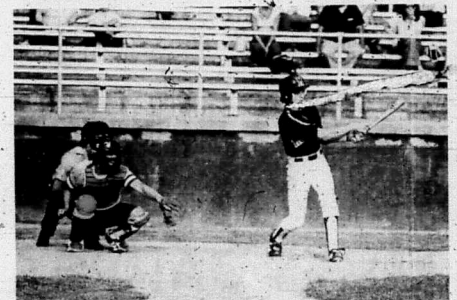

The Morehead post entered the Shelbyville tourney with a 13-2 mark and a 5-game winning streak. Post 126 will come home to take on South Lexington in a 1:30 doubleheader Sunday, then will leave for Florida for a five-game set next week.

Tatman Holds Several Positions

By Mark Perkins
Sports Editor

Harold Tatman is known as commissioner of Morehead's Babe Ruth Baseball League to area baseball players, president of the Optimist Club to those members, pastor of the United Methodist Church to church members and as Mickey Mouse to CB operators.

Tatman, who is beginning his fourth year as minister of the United Methodist Church in Morehead has always had an interest in baseball. He was a good pitcher at Lexington Lafayette High School, good enough to have thrown two perfect games and one that came within one batter of being perfect. Recalls Tatman, "the second baseman dropped the ball for an error on the next pitch the runner tried to steal second and was thrown out."

The St. Louis Cardinals apparently thought Tatman had a professional baseball future as they invited them to training camp right out of high school in 1949. "I think I would have made it, I'm not sure how far, I could hit, which is not a virtue pitchers usually do well in." Tatman racked up an impressive .416 batting average while in high school.

The reason why he didn't pursue a baseball career is ironic considering Tatman's present occupation. According to him, his mother didn't want him to play baseball because it would force him to work on Sunday.

Tatman knew John Y. Brown, winner of last month's Democratic primary for governor and professional golfer Gay Brewer, winner of the 1967 Masters while in high school. Tatman recalls that Brown and Brewer made up the entire Lafayette golf team.

Tatman worked for the southern railroad after high school. He got married in 1950. Two years after getting married Tatman felt a growing awareness that he should go into the ministry. He enrolled in Asbury College in 1952, after spending two years working for Kroger.

His first church was in Smithfield. He served there while still in school, not getting any money, not even expenses, but it was good experience. Tatman's first full-time job as a pastor was in Lawrenceburg, where he was honored as rural minister of the year. Since then he has worked in Middlesboro, Versailles, and Richmond before coming to Morehead in 1976.

When he arrived in Morehead Tatman said he viewed all the service clubs, and decided to join the Optimist, "because they have the same principles and ideals that I do and they meet at the noon hour, which is the only time I felt I had the opportunity to give to a service organization."

Tri-State Fair, Regatta Begins This Weekend

The second annual Tri-State Fair and Regatta is getting ready to set sail June 16th for a 73-year "cruise" which will include such activities as sternwheeler rides, Valvoline Cup Races or horse shows at the Tri-State Fair, Ft. Mifflin, Regattafest, antique car show, aircraft exhibitions and a hot air balloon race.

The Fair and Regatta attempts to unite the Tri-State area with events scheduled in Ashland and Russell, Ky., Ironton, Ohio, and Huntington, W. Va., according to Eunice Sears, executive director of the TFSR.

"With the gas situation the way it is today, people may not want to drive far for their vacations," Mrs. Sears said. "The Tri-State Fair and Regatta offers numerous activities right here close to home."

Events are scheduled from June 16 to July 4. Various organizations sponsor many of these events in conjunction with the Tri-State Fair and Regatta.

Each participating state has a chairman to coordinate activities in his state. Heading Ashland events is Glenn Easterling, James Head is in charge of Ironton events and Mike McDaniel, manages Huntington events.

Ron Coleman, Director of Personnel Services with Ashland Oil, Inc., is serving as President of the Board of Directors. Coleman conceived the idea of a regional festival centered on the river, thus creating the Tri-State Fair and Regatta.

Among the events in the area is a five-day Tri-State Fair at the Ashland Fair Site in Summitt, Ky. The June 20-24 fair will feature 20 carnival rides, games and concessions.

Events held at the site during the fair are a Youth Dance June 25, the June 23 Alpha Horse Show, a picnic and Governor's Political Speaking, featuring the winners from the Blue Grass State's May 29 gubernatorial primary, and a New Games Tournament June 24 which will involve participants from the public.

Valvoline Cup Races will be conducted June 30 and July 1 near the Ashland Boat Ramp on the Ohio River. The races will feature outboard, speed boats. The professional event is sanctioned by the National Outboard Association and offers $15,000 in prize money.

A Regattafest will highlight Ironton events. Boats, travel trailers, motorcycles, antique automobiles, art exhibits, Bavarian music and entertainment will fill the streets of Ironton June 22-24, and many merchants will conduct sidewalk sales.

Additional events in Ironton include a water ski show with skiers from French City Ski Club at Gallipolis, Ohio; an Historical House Tour June 30, and the 21st annual Sports Day June 27 and 28. Sports Day will this year honor former Ironton resident Ralph Waldo who was instrumental in establishing the Ohio State Sports Hall of Fame.

Heritage Village will play host to many of Huntington's events. Included in the June 23-July 4 Heritage Fest are an art auction, antique car show, fashion show, symphonic band concert, jazz concert, pet parade and registration for a free trip to Hawaii.

The River Cities Hot Air Balloon Race, featuring balloonists from around the country, will take off June 23 from the Chesapeake, Ohio, Airport. Parachute jumpers and aircraft exhibitions and flyovers will occur the same afternoon.

Complete information on events may be obtained at the C. H. Parson's Co., Inc., 1530 Winchester Ave., Ashland. A computer has been set up at the department store to handle questions from the public about any event in the Tri-State Fair and Regatta.

Event information may also be obtained by calling the office of the Tri-State Fair and Regatta, 606/329-8737.

Lady Eagles Basketball Schedule Announced

Morehead State University Director of Athletics G. E. Moran has announced the 1979-80 basketball schedule for MSU's Lady Eagles.

The Lady Eagles, coached by Mickey Wells, are the defending Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference and Ohio Valley Conference champions. The schedule includes 24 regular-season games and three tournaments.

The season opens Saturday, Nov. 17, at home against Bowling Green State University. Other home foes include Marshall, Dayton, Northern Kentucky, Tennessee Tech, Eastern Kentucky, Middle Tennessee, Murray State, Western Kentucky, Louisville, University of Charleston and Bellarmine.

The Lady Eagles will also defend championships in the Cincinnati Classic, the OVC and KWIC tournaments.

"With the addition of Valdosta State and Florida State, this schedule will be the toughest we have ever played," stated Moran. "We expect every team in the KWIC to be stronger, so it will be tough to repeat as champions."

The Lady Eagles sported a 28-4 mark last season, the best in MSU history.

Tomorrow Is Last Day For Camp Physicals

Dr. Earl Bentley, director of the 1979 NCAA Youth Sports Camp at Morehead State University, has announced that Saturday will be the final day for camp participants to take physical examinations.

Buses will run, beginning at 9:30 a.m., with the physicals beginning at 10 a.m. at Cave Run Clinic.

A physical exam is required for participation and persons who have not had physicals must take them on Saturday or be excluded from camp activities.

The camp, funded by a grant from the NCAA, is a summer program for students 10-18 years of age.

Additional information is available from Dr. Bentley at 606/783-3162.

Fleming Man Wants To Preserve Kentucky's Covered Bridges

FLEMINGSBURG — Once a covered bridge is gone, it's gone. The craftsmen are no longer around, and the structural timber isn't readily available any more, according to L.S. "Stock" Bower, a third generation covered bridge builder from Flemingsburg (Fleming County). Bower, who has worked with the state of Ohio to keep its 165 covered bridges intact and repaired, would like to see the Kentucky structures restored and maintained.

Eldred W. Melton, executive director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, said that preservationists across the state want Kentucky's covered bridges saved. "Covered bridges and the craft of building them will be lost soon if effort is not made to preserve the structures," she said. "The bridges are virtually neglected in Kentucky. Bower's grandfather, Jacob Bower, built bridges in Pennsylvania and West Virginia before settling in Ohio. Three of his sons, including Louis, Stock Bower's father, became bridge builders also. After Louis moved to Kentucky to build bridges in Fleming County, Stock was born. He is the last of the Bower bridge builders and is considered one of the few men in this country who can qualify as an expert in the reconstruction of wooden truss bridges.

Bower met with Mrs. Melton to estimate the costs for restoring Kentucky's 16 covered bridges. "There are two categories of covered bridges — those in use and those that aren't and never will be," said Bower. "The ones that aren't used would be restored for people to look at — most need roofing and some need siding. The ones that are in use need new floor systems and at least one needs an abutment."

The veteran bridge builder said the job of restoring the structures could be extended over a five-year period. "Three bridges could be done each year. All 16 of them could be put back in good condition for about a half million dollars — about $75,000 each."

Bower said some of the bridges are in critical need of repair. "There's one left in Robertson County that my grandfather built in 1874. It's just about to go in the drink — it will never carry traffic any more, but it can be saved. The bridge is less than 100 feet from a state highway — two-span, about 100 feet long and across Johnson Creek. Both spans are in deplorable condition."

He said the second one repaired should be Cabin Creek Bridge — about 17 miles east of Maysville on Cabin Creek in Mason County. "The bridge has just been repaired but it did a horrible job. There are two good bridges in Greenup County in use, but both are desperately in need of reconstruction. One is the Bennett Hill Bridge and the other is the Old Town Bridge, which they are planning to retire," he said.

"There are three other bridges in Fleming County that are not in use and never will be," said Bower. "The Buffalo Trace Tourist Council, which promotes the bridges as a local feature in its tourism program, may want to assume responsibility for the bridges in that area."

Mrs. Melton said, "If we can get some matching funds and find some county officials who will be responsible for restoring and maintaining them, we might have a chance to save them."

Pre-Conditioning Cattle Pays
Ten demonstrations conducted in Kentucky beef cattle herds indicate that beef cattle producers can expect good profits from pre-conditioning their calves before selling them this fall.

In the demonstration, feed cost averaged 33 cents per pound and the calves gained an average of 2.13 pounds per day. Feed conversion averaged 4.96 pounds feed per pound of gain.

On the basis of calves selling for around $6 per pound last fall when the demonstrations were conducted, short termed feeding profits averaged about $32.00 per 100 pounds of gain or $22.00 per calf. UK Beef specialists say that prospects for feeding gains will be larger this fall which should increase profits.

White Grubs and Sod Webworms
July and August are the months to apply chemicals to control white grubs. Late June, early July and mid-September are the times to treat lawns and sod webworms.

Pesticide controls for white grubs include Dylax, Dursban or Diazinon, for best results mow the lawn, rake out dead grass and thatch before treatment, and wash down the soil immediately after treatment.

Controls for sod webworm include:
1. Adequate watering to keep lawns growing vigorously and lessen the amount of damage resulting from webworm feeding. Watering may also hinder development of webworms.
2. Dethatching of lawns removes some larvae of webworm hidden in the thatch. The lack of thatch makes a lawn less desirable to webworms as a breeding place.
3. Chemical control should be applied when young larvae of the webworms are most abundant. This is 10 to 14 days after the moths are most abundant.

This timing varies throughout Kentucky, but late June, early July, and mid-September usually are the best times to treat webworm infested lawns. Recommended chemicals include carbaryl, chlorpyrifos, diazinon, propoxur and trichlorfon.

Rework Old Strawberry Beds
The key to a good strawberry crop is mid-summer care. Now is the time to renovate and reseed the strawberry patch for good production and large high quality berries. Renovation at this time includes mowing off old leaves, thinning plants, fertilizing and weeding.

Some of you who have the time and space should be thinking of putting out a patch of strawberries next spring for "pick your own" marketing. With good management and care you may be surprised at the returns you can make.

Conference Set For July 10
Dr. Morris Bitzer, State Extension Specialist in Grain Crops, tells us that UK will be host to the second annual Southeastern No-Tillage Systems Conference on July 10th. The conference is designed to present the latest research in no-tillage cultivation. The conference will be open to the Southeastern United States and will include sessions on non-point source pollution and energy use, pasture renovation methods and new weed control methods and use with no-tillage systems.

In the afternoon those participating in the conference will meet at the UK's Spindletop research farm located on the edge of Lexington for a grain tour, a pasture renovation tour, weed control tour and special tours in other crops.

Farmers and interested people from over the state are invited to attend.

Ashland Oil Buys NLT Stock

ASHLAND, Ky. (UPI) — Ashland Oil Inc. announced Wednesday it has acquired an option until Sept. 14 from American General Insurance Co., Houston, to purchase approximately three-million share of common stock of NLT Corp., Nashville, Tenn.

The stock held by American General would be bought at $30 a share. Ashland said if the stock is purchased, it would be paid for with 25 percent in cash and 75 percent in subordinated notes.

Ashland spokesmen also said if the option is exercised, American General would buy from Ashland $50 million subordinated notes convertible into one million shares of Ashland common stock; and Ashland would buy from American General a $30 million issue of newly created junior preferred stock.

will be afternoon presentations on UK's beef breeding program; branding beef cattle and a cow-horse working demonstration. Theme for the day will be "preception Beef Production - Research, Results and Recommendations to Reap Rewarding Returns. We will have copies of the programs in early July for this event.

All-Kentucky City Presentation Shown At Chamber Event

The award-winning, 12-minute color slide presentation that won Morehead All-Kentucky City honors was a part of the annual Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night.

Mrs. Tom (Barbara) Fossett, who served as chairman of Morehead's project, presented the program which was complete with musical background and narration.

The presentation was a comprehensive review of the industrial, recreational and business growth of Morehead during the past year.

Mrs. Fossett expressed appreciation to the Chamber of Commerce and the many volunteers who worked to put the winning program together.

She presented the All-Kentucky Award, an engraved brass plate on solid walnut, to the Chamber of Commerce, Larry Breeze, president, accepted the award in behalf of the Chamber.

Mrs. Fossett said the "bird signs" which all towns receiving All-Kentucky City honors display at entrances into their city, should arrive in the supplier in the immediate future.

Of the 60 towns entering the All-Kentucky City competition, Morehead was one of 18 or 20 receiving the coveted top honors, according to Mrs. Fossett.

For the past four years Morehead had received "Honorable Mention" in the program that is sponsored on the state level by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

THESE 4-H MEMBERS and leaders from Rowan County were among 800 young people participating in 4-H Week on the University of Kentucky campus this week. This year's conference had as its theme "4-H - What A Difference You've Made In My Life." Pictured here (front row, from left) are Mrs. Lucille Eam, leader, Darrell Brown, Margy Clouser and Angie Jent. In back row are Miss Martha Huntsman, County Extension Agent for Home Economics, Greg Ramey, Laura Totich, Johnny Skeens, Vonda Ramey and Paul Mills, County Extension Agent for 4-H.

Kentucky Crop Weather

AGRICULTURAL NEWS: Moderate to heavy rain late in the week stopped fieldwork, but not before farmers were able to get about 4 good days in the field. Statewide, soil moisture is mostly surplus following the weekend rain. Temperatures had averaged above normal, but fell well below normal on Sunday evening. Fuel supplies continue mostly adequate, but expensive. Warm, dry weather is needed to allow completion of planting, to promote growth and to get hay harvested.

CORN: Most corn for grain is planted and up. Some silage corn remains to be planted. On the remaining acres that were intended for corn, some growers are switching to a short season variety or planting soybeans. The average height of corn that has emerged is about 8 inches, well below the 5-year average of 16 inches. In spite of the late start, corn is making good progress with the abundant moisture. Cut worms any armyworms have caused enough damage to require replanting of a few fields.

SOYBEANS: Soybean planting continued very active and had reached the half-way point before being stopped by the rain. Planting is running behind the 5-year average of 60 percent and is slightly behind last year. Most of the early planted beans are up to a full stand.

TOBACCO: Tobacco has suffered some setbacks due to wet weather. Transplanting made rapid progress early in the week before the rains. About two-thirds of the burley and about half of the dark tobacco is not set. Last year 52 percent of the burley had been set and the 5-year average is 48 percent. The clouds and rain have lessened the stress on transplanted plants and will help get them off to a good start. There are a few reports of shortages of good quality plants, but needs are generally being met in the local areas. Delays in setting have caused some plants to be too large for optimum transplanting.

BARLEY harvest is running late this year but has started. Too little has been combined to get an idea of yields, but expectations are high. Wheat outlook is favorable with a few exceptions. There are some thin stands and some damage from excess moisture, but overall the crop is good. Small grains harvested for silage have made very good yields. Hay harvest has been slow and quality loss due to overmaturity and rain has been extensive. Pastures remain in good condition.

WEATHER WEEK ENDING P.M. SUNDAY, JUNE 10, 1979 There were only scattered showers early in the week, mostly over the Eastern sections of the State, but showers and thundershowers became general over Kentucky Thursday thru Sunday. A cold front passage ended the precipitation Sunday and put an end to a week-long warming trend. Precipitation averaged from 3/4 to 1-1/2 inches over the Commonwealth, but there were locally much greater amounts. Temperatures averaged several degrees above normals for the period.

IRS Sets Test Dates

The deadline for filing an application to take the IRS Special Enrollment Examination is Wednesday, August 15, 1979, the Internal Revenue Service said. The examination, split into four parts and scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, September 25 and 26, 1979, is given annually to qualify persons who are neither Certified Public Accountants nor attorneys to represent clients before the various IRS divisions and branches, such as appeals, collection or examination.

Persons interested in taking the exam must submit Form 2587, "Application for 1979 Special Enrollment Examination," to the Director, Examination Division, CP, E, E, S, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C. 20224. No extension of time to file applications will be granted beyond August 15, 1979, the IRS said. Form 2587 is available from local IRS offices.

The application must be accompanied by the application fee and a current photo of facial features used for identification purposes only. The application fee is $25 for those taking all four parts of the examination, and $15 for individuals taking fewer than four parts. All checks must be made payable to the "Internal Revenue Service."

The examination fee is not refundable, but a credit may be granted for the next year's examination fee under certain circumstances, as explained in the instructions on Form 2587.

IRS Publication 486, "Requirements for Internal Revenue Service Enrollment and Special Enrollment Examination," identifies sources for tax information that may be helpful in preparing for the examination. The examination will include true or false and multiple choice questions in all of the four parts of the examination.

IRS Publication 693, "1978 Special Enrollment Examination Questions and Answers," and IRS Publication 696 can be obtained by calling the Public Affairs Office at 202-537-6176 in the Louisville area or toll free 1-800-292-6570 elsewhere in the state.

Chamber Of Commerce Dues Structure Approved

A new membership dues structure has been formulated for the Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce and has received approval by the Board of Directors.

Chamber President Larry Breeze explained the reason for the necessity of having additional income. Speaking at the annual Chamber banquet Tuesday night, Breeze said, "We would like to have enough operating funds to employ a full-time paid executive director for the Chamber."

He pointed out that many other towns of comparable size have a paid Chamber executive and noted that those are the Chambers that seem to achieve high goals and accomplish a lot for their communities.

Breeze went on to explain that the

250 To Attend Yearbook Study

More than 250 high school students and yearbook advisors are expected to attend the 1979 Yearbook Workshop at Morehead State University June 24-29. The workshop, designed by high school publications experts, will focus on advertising, layout, photography and yearbook sales.

Participants will also discuss editing, design, writing, yearbook photography and darkroom procedures.

Instructors for the yearbook session will be provided by Taylor Publishing Co. of Dallas, Tex. and those for the photography session will be from Osborne Photographic Labs of Cincinnati.

Additional information is available from Paul Wright, workshop coordinator and instructor of journalism at MSU, UPO 594, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351 or by calling 606/783-3206.

majority of Chamber members are businessmen who find it difficult to get away from their busy schedules or to involve themselves in Chamber work.

With the Chamber currently involved in attempting to work with the local Tourism and Recreation Commission and the Industrial Foundation, Breeze feels a full-time Chamber executive director would be a great asset to the proposed projects in the community.

The formula, approved as an equitable basis for determining dues investment in the Chamber, is as follows:

- ✓ Kentucky Banks, $200.
  - ✓ Savings and Loans, $200.
  - ✓ Real Estate Agencies, $50 plus $10 per salesperson.
  - ✓ Broadcasting, T.V. Cable, Publishing, $100.
  - ✓ Medical Groups, $150.
  - ✓ Public Utilities, $200.
  - ✓ Municipalities and County, $250.
  - ✓ Individuals (Non-business connected), $25.
- Other — If the average number of employees is:
- Up to 15, $50.
  - 16 to 25, $75.
  - 26 to 50, $125.
  - 51 to 100, $175.
  - 2 part-time (30 hours or less) counts as one full-time.

UMW Supports Striking Workers

GLASGOW, W. Va. (UPI) — The president of the 500-member United Mine Workers Local 340 at nearby Ward has told striking electrical workers at Appalachian Power Co.'s Kanawha River plant at Glasgow that the UMW is seeking financial and moral support in their behalf.

"You and your membership... have the full support of our local which represents employees of the Valley Camp Coal Co. Local 340 is vitally concerned because APSCO has threatened mass firings of your membership." Local 340 president Benson Johnson said in telegrams to Jerry Adcock of Roanoke, Va., president of Local 978 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Marvin Dillard of Cross Lanes, local recording secretary.

Johnson told them they have established a strikereeief committee "please make public an address where donations can be sent."

"We are now in the process of calling on other union and public officials who are witnessing APSCO's corporate crime to denounce APSCO's anti-American and anti-union tactics and we are also urging them to pledge their full moral and financial support to Local 978's struggle."

Savings Bonds Sales Reach $35,000 In County

Alpha M. Hutchinson, chairman of the Rowan County Savings Bonds Volunteer Committee, announced that Kentuckians placed $21,166,841 in Savings Bonds through the first quarter of 1979 and during the same period, citizens of Rowan County placed $35,022 in Savings Bonds. This is 16 percent of the county's 1979 goal of $222,000.

The annual interest rate on Series E and H Bonds has been increased by one-half percent effective June 1, 1979. Bonds issued on and after June 1, will receive six and one-half percent if held to maturity, which will remain at five years for E Bonds and 10 years for H Bonds. The annual interest rate on outstanding E and H Bonds and U.S. Savings Notes (Freedom Shares) will also be increased by one-half percent.

The rate on the recently announced Series EE and HH Bonds, which will go on sale in January 1980, will also be increased to six-and-one-half percent.

Sore Sight For The Eyes

More and more sights such as the one above have been obliterated from the countryside as people become more conscious of the natural beauty of their surroundings.

It is a shame, however, that this one has been allowed to remain, especially so close to the city. These two automobiles are less than one mile outside the city limits and are visible daily, not only to area residents, but to those valued outsiders and tourists who use U.S. 60 West to get to Cave Run.

With the Morehead Tourism Commission pushing to attract visitors to the area to enjoy that natural beauty, such sights create a scar on their memory of the area which is hard to erase.

Needless to say, there are other collections of junk alongside the roads which are just as much an eyesore, but few are so close to the city and so visible to travelers.

It is very likely that both these old automobiles were quite valuable when they were pulled into their final resting place on what appears to be the right of way for a public road. It is just as likely that they might still have some value if the owner were to attempt to sell them.

Two things are certain: the cars will not get any more valuable sitting alongside the road in the weather and dust and they definitely will not get any prettier.

Investigation Needed

In light of recent problems uncovered at the County Dog Pound, we think that it is time that an immediate investigation is launched into the activities of Animal Control Warden Carl Mullen and that he be relieved of duties as a county police officer until it is complete.

It appears that reports to Fiscal Court and to the public have been falsified and that, at best, he has been negligent in the performance of his duties in dealing with the county dog situation. Although not all the blame for the situation at the dog pound can be attributed to Mullen, he must take the responsibility for it. One of the biggest problems facing Mullen is that he must pay for all supplies and the disposition of dogs from a monthly salary. Any time such an arrangement is made the temptation is great for cutting corners in order to have more money for one's self.

Again, we repeat that an investigation should be launched immediately and that Mullen should be suspended from performing the duties of a county police officer.

To Be Commended

Morehead Police Chief Mike Hall and the members of his police force are to be commended for their swift action this week and for working as a team with Boone and Florence County Police Departments.

What has been deemed by Police Chief Mike Hall as Rowan County's biggest case ever solved, the return of $25,000 worth of handguns taken from a Morehead Store June 5, has been completed one week after the burglary.

Many times the potential of powerful organizations is retarded due to internal conflicts or the desire for self, not communal glory.

Acting as a selfless unit, the three police departments nipped an illegal operation dealing with deadly weapons before innocent people could be harmed.

One Democrat was observed the other day "Louie B. Nunn was the big loser in the primary election."

Of course, he was referring to the fact that John Young Brown Jr. beat Perry McBrayer, the candidate supported by Gov. Julian Carroll.

Fact of the matter is McBrayer came in a poor third behind former Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane. It goes without saying that Sloane would have been a very formidable candidate against the Republicans in November.

It was no secret that the Republicans, given their choice, would have chosen McBrayer as Nunn's opponent in the fall election. It's a lot easier to beat a candidate supported by a discredited administration than it is to defeat a new face on the scene and that is what John Young Brown Jr. brings to the voters in November.

However, the Republicans may gain some courage from the fact that Brown garnered only slightly more than 30 percent of the Democrat votes in the primary, the remainder divided among four other candidates who staged strong campaigns. That's just how mixed-up the Democrat primary was. Most experienced observers agree that Brown won't the race in the last two weeks of the primary campaign, and the undecided voters picked Brown as the potential winner.

Now, Brown's problem is to gather the party back together to present a united front against the Republicans. Just how hard a task that is going to remain to be seen. There are still plenty of dissidents out there.

Add to this unknown factor is the large number of voters who are registered independent and did not have the opportunity to register their preference in the primary. Then, there are a lot of people who are registered Democrats so they can vote in the local primaries, but prefer to vote Republican in the November election.

Most observers agree that the electorate has had about all of the political campaigning it wants for a while, and it might be judicious for Nunn to spend some weeks in building a stronger organization for the November race instead of continuing the campaign through these two hot summer months, or three months of June, July and August.

Nunn's objectives is very clear. He must persuade a lot of registered Democrats to vote for him, along with a lot of Independents and the Republicans if he is to win. Democrats outnumber Republicans about 2 to 1 in Kentucky.

Of course party-line voting went out of years ago. But there is still enough party-line strength to put the Democrats at a decided advantage over Republicans in November.

Another question: can Brown carry his whirlwind media-type campaign, with glamour and certain show-business touches to it to a sustaining drive through the November or will it falter along the way?

He does have a lot of due bills laid up with the National Democratic Party, for he is the one who a few years ago, dreamed up the idea of a raising the telephone to raise funds to erase its deficit. The Party didn't approve of the idea of having to guarantee cost of the television time, so Brown underwrote it himself. The telephone proved a success.

It's still too early to make any assessment of how successful Brown and his running mates are going to be in drawing the Democrats together. First off, the other candidates were not linked on slates with Brown or any of the other four major Democrat candidates for governor.

They were out there fighting their own battles. As was expected those in other constitutional offices who play the musical chairs game were successful. These are Frances Jones Mill, Drexell Davis, and James Graham in this category on the ballot.

They had to fend for themselves in the primary, but they probably will welcome any help they can get from the head of their ticket in November.

Bloodmobile To Visit High School

The Rowan County Red Cross Blood Program is having an emergency visit of the Bloodmobile, Monday, June 18, 1979 from 10 to 4.

This visit is scheduled to be at the Rowan County High School musical chairs game were successful. Cafeteria. The Tri-State Region is in very bad need of whole blood so this visit has been arranged to help alleviate that need.

Rowan Counties and Morehead State University students have always responded to the special needs of people and this is another opportunity officials say.

Carolyn Howard, Secretary of the Rowan County Red Cross, suggests, "Be a Friend To Someone In Need Of Something Very Special That We Can Give - A Unit Of Whole Blood."

Letters . . . to the editor

The Editor:
Thanks to the people of Morehead and Mr. Mayhew for having the Special Olympics. I have been to the last six and this was the best. All of the volunteers were very nice. The people of Carrollton thank Morehead for a job well done.

Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Judge Flannery by local attorney Buddy Salyer. We were sent a copy and are printing it in its entirety.

Hon. W. C. Flannery
County Judge/Executive
Rowan County Courthouse
Main Street
Morehead, Kentucky 40351

Dear Judge Flannery:
I was relieved to read that the Fiscal Court voted to denounce your request for an investigation of County Attorney John Cox's office. The Magistrates deserve praise for standing up to you.

I was amused when I heard that you had requested an investigation. But, then, I became concerned that someone (however unlikely), might take you seriously. You insinuate that Mr. Cox has acted illegally while in office; otherwise you would not request the help of the Grand Jury. However, I submit that you do not have information concerning one illegal act committed by him during his term of office.

If my conclusion is correct, then it seems to follow that your only motive could be, as you stated to, "the Fiscal Court and the press, a personal matter. You are not so uneducated politically to realize that a mere request for a criminal inquiry, even without any further action being taken, is sufficient to seriously damage a person's reputation, however innocent he may be.

But if you do have evidence of a criminal act, I fail to understand how you can conclude that it does not concern anyone except yourself. Any illegal act on the part of any public official concerns every citizen in this county.

From the facts that I have been able to gather, it appears that your actions were calculated to simply libel and slander Mr. Cox for your own political advantage. And that Mr. Flannery, is one of the most reprehensible and irresponsible acts I have ever seen from a public official.

If Mr. Cox has hampered you in the administration of county affairs, as you say, I am personally satisfied that he was not acting wrongfully in doing so. But if he were, I believe we have a right to know about it.

You and Mr. Cox have had a conflict brewing for several months. I assume that it is primarily a personal conflict. I have noticed, though, that he has had the good taste to keep the matter private without making any public accusations of wrong doing on your part.

Personally, I wouldn't compare a dog with Nixon, Hitler and Rev. Jim Jones. But, I suppose if a man is both rattled and vicious enough, he will make even the most irrational accusations in order to achieve his own ends.

I have known Mr. Cox since he came to Morehead six years ago. During that time, I have never known him to act other than honestly and ethically in his professional life. Your conclusion that as an "outsider," he has no right to comment on how things are run in this county is an example of the insular attitude that has kept Eastern Kentucky in such a depressed condition for so long. It would also mean that I, and hundreds of other property-owning, tax-paying, income-paying, voting citizens of Rowan County, have no right to an opinion about local government and conditions. Many of us, like Mr. Cox, were born in other cities or states, but we have chosen to make Rowan County our home, and I am sure that they, like myself, deeply resent such a comment.

Quite frankly, I felt that Mr. Dehner could have handled the matter with more finesse. If I had been the Commonwealth Attorney, and you had submitted the same proposal to me, I would have kicked you clear out into the street without further discussion.

I believe you have approximately two and one-half years remaining in your term of office. UNLESS you can get your administration off it's butt and begin to show some creative activity toward improvement of this county, then I will pledge myself to use whatever influence I might have to see that we get a different administration at the next election. It seems to me that the county government could show more initiative in obtaining additional industry, schools, business, improved transportation, better court facilities, and similar items, than occupying its full time worrying about who gets the next load of gravel on their road and who gets hired as a CETA worker.

Sincerely,
BUDDY R. SALYER, P.S.C.

Air Board Discusses Financial Concerns

By BOB CRISWELL
Staff Writer

The Rowan County Air Board is still in search of additional funding to offset its financial woes and provide needed improvements to the airstrip at Farmers.

In the absence of Board Chairman Terry Anderson and County Judge Executive W.C. Flannery, John Barnes presided over the meeting Monday night in which the main topic of discussion centered around ways to obtain additional funding for the airstrip.

Steve Watts, board treasurer, said at the present time the Board has about $2,000 in the bank. He said the Board has a monthly income of about $75 obtained from the five dollar tie-down fee charge to each plant kept at the airstrip. He added the expenses to operate the airstrip average about $400 a month, making it easy to see why the Board must generate more money.

Several of the board members expressed dissatisfaction with the "lack of progress" the board has made in the past year.

The board members also discussed a much talked-about merger with Bath and Menifee counties, so that the airstrip at Farmers would serve all three counties. Some board members feel this would help the airstrip qualify for state and federal funds needed for improvements to the airstrip. Board member John Barnes said he understood Mason and Fleming counties had done this and it worked well for them.

The improvements mentioned include work on the hanger, installing fuel tanks and pumps, the construction of an administration office to be used as a waiting area with bathrooms and a telephone, the hiring of a full-time maintenance man to maintain the airstrip, work on planes, and teach flying lessons. Board member Paul Cooper roughly estimated the cost for improvements to be $100,000. John

Barnes said he felt "the only way to get the money is from the Federal government, or go to the bank and borrow it."

Barnes then moved that the board instruct board member Clifford Rigby to try and make an appointment with FAA officials from Frankfort to show them the master plan for the improvements, and discuss obtaining funds for the improvements.

In other business the board authorized Watts to pay monthly utility and upkeep bills.

The next Air Board meeting is slated for Wednesday June 27 at the Holiday Inn in Morehead.

Picking Apples
When picking apples from the grocery bin, keep in mind that the skins should be smooth and unbruised - bruises turn easily to decay. As long as rust dots are light, they don't affect flavor or quality. Always keep firm, crisp apples at room temperature.
