Perkins, Slonkosky lead; runoff set Thursday

Presidential candidates Casey Slonkosky and Evan G. Perkins will square off Thursday in the final election for Student Government executive committee positions.

Perkins, with 432 votes, and Slonkosky, with 254, handily defeated contenders John Lester, 189, William Thomas Jones, 136, and J. W. Clinger, 25.

The vice-presidential victors were Vince Cotton with 460 votes and Kevin P. Porter with 399 votes.

Vice-presidential candidates Chris Turley received 136 votes.

In the treasurer's race winners were Patti Smith with 534 votes and David Allen Platt with 291 votes.

Treasurer candidate John C. Merchant compiled 169 votes.

Primary elections were not required for the office of program director since only two candidates, Jenny Douglas and Kathy Hill signed up. They will meet in the final election tomorrow.

Running unopposed are Secretary Rosemary Belcher and Reporter Chris Lester, each for a second term.

The primary election saw 24.3 per cent of the student body voting for the candidates competing for the office of president, vice-president, and treasurer.

There were 1,117 students voting in the primary race, a four per cent increase in student voting over last year's election.

The winners of the primary ballot will compete in the final election held tomorrow, voting will be set up in ADUC from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Students must present a valid I.D. card before voting.

Due to space limitations in-depth interviews of only the presidential candidates will be published this week.

Security Director Russell Kirk dies

Russell L. Kirk, director of security, died Wednesday morning at the age of 62. Funeral services were held in Button Auditorium Friday afternoon, burial following Saturday in Paintsville.

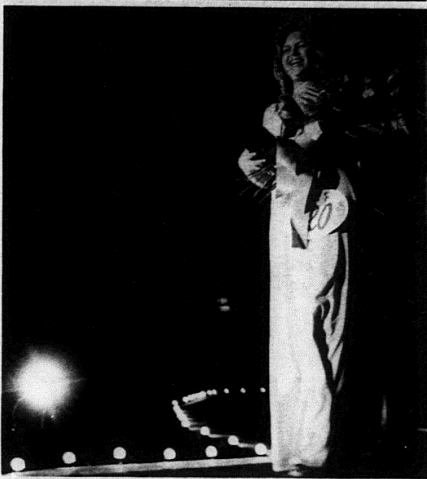

Kirk, who served that post for 13 years, died at St. Claire Medical Center in Morehead following an extended illness.

He previously served as police judge in Paintsville and also held various security and law enforcement positions in Louisville.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elaine Roberts Kirk. She is an assistant professor of education at MSU.

The family requested that contributions be made to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

Teen postmaster

MSU student serving at Olympia post office

By FRANK BROWN JR.

It's a peaceful country setting. A white building about the size of a tool shed. It's so old that the sawdust used as insulation between two layers composing each wall has settled down almost to ground level. You can tell it in the winter.

The paint is chipping off a picket fence in front of the building. Railroad tracks pass by the front of the building, across the gravel road. In the background, a radio plays top-forty songs.

This is where Regina Shultz works and has lived all her life.

At 19, the MSU student is the youngest acting postmaster in Bath County, and probably the state.

She's the officer in charge of a crackerbox post office in Olympia, about 20 miles west of here.

Shultz assumed the post earlier this year, when Mrs. Nevada Copher retired after 31 years there. Shultz had been assisting Mrs. Copher, but now is the post office's only employee.

Olympia is a fourth class post office, which means Shultz works from nine until 1, Monday through Saturday, sorting and routing mail for 240 Olympians.

"I'd like to work more, about eight or 10 hours a day, because the pay is real good for the number of hours I work now," she said.

The job's not that hard, she added, but "I keep records up to date real good, because I'm afraid they'll come and get me if I don't. I sent in my first report three weeks ago, and no one has come to see me, so I guess I did all right."

Her youth is no problem. "But I went to a postal convention in Lexington and felt like I was ten years old when I got there. Nobody else was under 30."

The slow pace and short office hours allow her time to attend school here part-time. She's only taking a nutrition class this semester, but carried 18 hours in the fall term. Shultz is trying to get into MSU's nursing program.

Alternative funding explored Norfleet tells SGA

By VICK BOWMAN

MSU President Morris Norfleet, in an address to the SGA Wednesday, confirmed there will be no Special Events Fee levied as it is now, next year. The mandatory $10 fee levied in the past has been termed illegal and the Special Events Fund will have to be obtained some other way.

All this resulted from a meeting with the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, which said the fee was illegal. Both MSU President Norfleet and SGA President Pam Cupp tried to defend the fee as it has been collected.

Dr. Norfleet said he is looking into several alternatives for funding the Special Events program and hopes to come up with a workable solution next week. Alternatives suggested included optional fees and university underwriting the fund, or a combination of the two.

The problem facing any solution

'Murder Case': a sophisticated political satire

(NOTE: Graduate students in a reviews and criticism class were assigned to review the current MSU Theater production and their comments follow. The play continues Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. nightly.)

GREG SCHABER:

"The White House Murder Case" opened Thursday in Kibbey Theater and for most of the first act it seemed affected by the script's fictional nerve gas. Luckily several old hands managed to hold it together until the second act when everyone settled down.

By cartoonist Jules Feiffer, the play is a political satire set just before an election. There are two crises. First, the US, at war with Brazil, uses an outlawed nerve gas which, when the wind shifts, kills 750 and paralyzes 90 of our own troops. President Hale (David Goetz) and his cabinet must cover up this blunder and contrive an explanation to give the American people.

Their plans are momentarily frustrated when the President's meddling pacifist wife (Jenny Maddox) intrudes. Hated by most of the cabinet, she is mysteriously murdered in the Oval Office, requiring another cover-up, and producing an ironic conclusion. Throughout the play, action alternates from White House to the battlefield, where Lt. Cutler (Chris Offutt) and Captain Weems (Brian Russell) are literally falling apart from exposure to the gas, and doing it hilariously. They, along with Goetz, who shows great understanding for the subtleties of effective satire, carry the play through the somewhat tedious first act and, with Tom Whalen as wounded General Prait, maintain a high degree of sophisticated humor throughout the play.

Jenny Maddox does one scene with David Williams, as the researcher who helped develop the nerve gas, that is best compared to a bad peanut-butter-comparison commercial. But she redeems herself almost immediately in a confrontation scene with Goetz.

The performance seemed flawed Thursday by first-night jitters. The second act was great, so I'm certain that subsequently the first act will be, also.

RICK COVINGTON:

The satire and comedy of the first act come mainly from the battlefield scenes with Offutt, Russell and Tom Carter. The second act finds wit and stronger performances on the whole.

Tom Whalen plays the difficult role of General Pratt, paralyzed on his left side by the nerve gas, twisting his body into unbelievable positions and speaking his lines in a manner that convinces his audience that his larynx is truly in a bad state.

The set was uniquely designed by Kevin Murphy to accommodate both battlefield and Oval Office. In his directing debut, Sam Butler has done a good job.

BOB NEWMAN:

The battlefield scenes are realistic, considering the limited space, and are effectively humorous, thanks to the talents of Chris Offutt as Lt. Cutler, and Brian Russell as Capt. Weems of the CIA. The intimacy of the small theater allowed both to act more naturally and to reveal more expression in their faces than is usual in larger theater.

Special commendation is due Kevin Murphy, who designed the attractive and functional set. In all, the play is entertaining, with basically good performances by all, keeping the audience interested until the end. Sam Butler was the director.

Slonkosky, Perkins express views on issues

CASEY SLONKOSKY

"It's kind of like when a person is about to die and then somebody gives him a pint of blood — it gives a person new life," said presidential candidate Casey Slonkosky.

Slonkosky, a junior marketing major from Minster, Ohio, feels that the SGA needs a fresh outlook with fresh faces to objectively evaluate the existing programs and correct deficiencies in the present system.

Having no previous experience with the SGA, Slonkosky feels that next year's SGA needs leadership "void of ties, with new ideas, and the time and energy to make needed reorganization." He said he would begin work in the summer and devote himself fully, only registering for a minimum course load during the fall and spring semesters in an effort to fulfill the duties as president.

In last week's Trail Blazer, Slonkosky mentioned that he would look into the possibility of increasing the use of the Laughlin Health Building, saying the facility offered one of the few places where a student could go without having to pay for an afternoon or evenings enjoyment. He said he would work towards increasing the operating hours of the facility on the weekends adding that the SGA and the administration would have to work together to finance the hours change.

Communication is, according to Slonkosky, one of the major problems that has hurt the SGA in past years. He contends that committees of the SGA are partly at fault for not making students fully aware of existing programs and activities. He said "If the SGA could come across to students in a more positive way by telling them why the SGA did something," then this gap could be lessened. "The committee chairman should also face up to students," he added.

Slonkosky will work to improve communications next year by publishing committee reports, and possibly a Congressional corner column. He added that the SGA committees need to follow up on projects by publicizing what they have done so that "SGA would have a better image with the students."

It was reported last week that the SGA would not be assessing the Special Events fee next fall. President Morris Norfleet reported to the SGA that three alternative plans could be used next year.

Slonkosky favors the implementation of an approved budget from the University and subsidizing concerts by charging a fee between $1 and $3 at the door in order to offset the loss in revenue. He said he did not feel that an optional plan for the fee assessment would be successful because, "people feel they aren't getting $10 worth."

In the area of intervisitation Slonkosky maintains that the University, "has an image to maintain and this image helps get students to come here."

EVAN G. PERKINS

Evan G. Perkins is a political science and speech major from West Liberty. Following graduation from Morehead, Perkins plans to pursue a career in law hoping to establish a practice in the Commonwealth.

Perkins says that it is important for the SGA president to understand the wants and needs of the students. He feels that involvement in organizations serves as a strong foundation for determining these needs saying, "using your relationships as a barometer of people's attitudes is necessary when determining these needs."

If elected, Perkins said that he would favor two plans suggested by President Morris Norfleet concerning the SGA's budget next year. (It was announced last week that the Special Events Fee has been dropped.) He feels that next year he would work towards getting a budget approved through the university and the Board of Regents. Perkins indicated that he would be in favor of a plan that would allow the SGA to charge a fee at the door to subsidize concerts. The fee would be regulated according to purchase price of the attraction resulting in a fee ranging from $1 to $3. Interisitation, according to Perkins, is an area of concern to MSU students. Perkins feels that changes in the present interisitation system would mainly be a transitional change. "I'm not advocating any revolutionary change."

One of the first steps according to Perkins would be to, "open up some of the lobbies and the grill for later hours. I would like to see a place where students would be able to congregate after set hours, some place where they could meet anytime at night."

Perkins feels that abolishing the present closing hours of dormitory lobbies would be the easiest first step in liberalizing of the present system. He said that much discussion and observation of our present system would have to be made as another positive step in updating the present system.

Perkins proposes to look into re-establishment of the yearbook. Perkins said that he was interested in the yearbook situation because of sentiment expressed by students concerning bringing back the publication.

Perkins said he realized the enormous cost that made dropping the yearbook necessary but "for those students who would like to have a yearbook, I feel they should have that option."

He would like an optional plan similar to one that the SGA may use next year when assessing the Special Events Fee. That would be to ask students at registration whether they would like to pay an additional fee for the publication. Students who pay the fee during registration would then receive a yearbook.

Special events fee alternatives discussed presently considered is that none of them may provide as much money as the mandatory fee provided. Should the university try to fund or help to fund the program, there is the problem of budgeting the money over a two-year period, necessary because the legislature only meets each two years and it must approve school budgets. The legislature will not meet for another year — next year's budget is already set.

Dr. Norfleet also mentioned that there will be a tuition increase in the fall, and he gave several reasons for the increase and possible consequences of the increase. He said one probable effect will be to reduce the number of out-of-state students, although inflation, not the excess of out-of-staters was the reason for the tuition hike.

In other SGA action, Congress approved a proposal allotting $650 for the cost of the Executive Officers' Installation Banquet. Approval was also given a bill appropriating $175 from the Entertainment Fund so the cafeteria in Alumni Tower may be opened on Sunday, May 8, from 8 a.m. — 5 p.m. and Monday, May 9, through Thursday, May 12, from midnight to 5 a.m. The bill was submitted by Michael Chadwell.

The Entertainment Committee reported that a verbal agreement has been reached with the Atlanta Rhythm Section for a possible May 4 concert. The group with an opening act would cost about $10,250.

The concert, with England Dan and John Ford Coley, is scheduled for Monday, April 25, and is slated to begin at 9 p.m. Tickets will go on sale tomorrow at ADUC information desk. No tickets will be sold at the business office.

The 1977 Miss MSU pageant

Beauty, Poise surround spring contest

By RUEAL BASTON

After weeks filled with hours of practices, April 14, the final night of the Miss MSU Scholarship Pageant, dedicated to the memory of Vice President Roger L. Wilson, came to an end.

Tension and curiosity filled the air of Button Auditorium as M.C. Dave McCoy announced "The new Miss MSU of 1977 is number 20, Radean Wiley."

After being crowned by former Miss MSU, Mary Combs, and presented a bouquet of roses by Dorothy Benham, Miss America 1976, Wiley tearfully walked the runway as her subjects gave her a standing ovation.

Wiley was chosen Miss MSU from 29 women, each judged on talent, swimsuit, evening gown, and private interview.

As a talent, she sang, "Mr. Melody," which was slightly interrupted by applause. She was sponsored by Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

This year, due to a tie, there were 11 semi-finalists and finalists rather than 10.

The first runner-up was Linda Rardin, a vocalist sponsored by Alumni Tower, who will assume the title should Wiley be unable to fulfill her reign. Second runner-up was Lynn Tussey sponsored by Delta Gamma, who performed a monologue. Rhonda Greenfield, sponsored by Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was third runner-up while Teresa Ball, a vocalist sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha, was fourth runner-up.

The semi-finalists included: Jenny Douglas, vocalist; Jennifer Blanton, vocalist; Marilyn Thompson, vocalist; Leslie Johnston, vocalist; Susan Ziebold, monologist; and Patricia Grigson, guitarist.

Victoria Harned, Miss Kentucky 1976, has a guest performer at "Moods in Pastiche" (the pageant theme), performing both nights, while Benham, also performed Thursday night.

Through the two-night presentation, recognitions and the various guest performers appeared while the MSU Jazz Ensemble and the MSU Jazz Vocal Ensemble painted the final touches to "Moods in Pastiche."

considered during the selection processes, therefore the quality of entertainment here at MSU is of low quality and mostly white oriented.

Gordy Singer, of Variety Artists International personally told me that Black groups are available. If requested. The elements are here, the attitudes are those of non-flexible, prejudiced idiots. The SGA once again has failed the students' need to be socially gratified through entertainment — most notably the black students at MSU have been deprived of the need to identify with prestigious blacks.

EDITORS NOTE — After checking with SGA, we found that since 1976, nineteen big name black acts or single performers have appeared on campus. These included: Dionne Warwick, Martha Reeves and the Vandellas, Ray Charles, Delmonico, Little Anthony and the Imperials, Bill Cosby, Fifth Dimension, Stevie Wonder, Chi Lites, B.B. King, Rufus Thomas, Cornelius Bros. and Sister Rose, War, Hues Corp., Rufus, John Bassette, The Spinners, and the Ohio Players.

Pageants are a way of life for the new Miss MSU

By ANITA WEBB

Pageants are a way of life for winner Radean Wiley who was crowned the new Miss MSU last Thursday night in Button auditorium.

"I enjoy the atmosphere of a pageant and it is an honor to win the Miss MSU contest because it is such an excellent production," said Wiley who is a senior. Her pageant accomplishments are many. She was Miss Central Kentucky in 1975 and first runner-up in the Miss Kentucky State Pageant the same year, fourth runner-up to Miss MSU when she was a freshman, and first runner-up in the Miss MSU pageant the following year and was Miss Franklin County High

Wiley was not enrolled in school last spring because she was singing professionally throughout Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia, New York and Canada with two different bands.

When asked if she felt confident about the pageant, Wiley said she "really wanted to win, but they are so uncertain that you can never predict how you will come out."

For someone who doesn't read music well, Wiley has a tremendous amount of natural singing ability.

"I am learning to read music and I'm taking piano and guitar lessons to aid me in communicating my music," said Wiley.

Wiley, who will graduate in December, wants to be a professional singer. "The pageant has given me a lot of exposure and singing experience."

She said that her boyfriend, who is a professional musician (and a recent Morehead graduate) selected her talent entry in which she sang "Mr. Melody."

Wiley said that weeks before the pageant were spent worrying, rehearsing and dieting.

She says she received a lot of understanding from her three roommates who were also in the pageant (all of them placed in the ten semi-finalists).

"We all encouraged and helped each other and it was double the excitement when all of us were in the top ten!" said Wiley.

Netters lose two of three matches

By DAN TROUT

The MSU tennis team lost two of three tough-luck matches last week. Playing all three matches at home, the netmen defeated Henry Ford College while losing to Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee Tech.

The Eagles easily defeated Henry Ford College, 8-1. Rob Vigar, Charlie Batt, Chris Godwin, Dahn Shapurji, Kevin Randolph and Stan Eaton won singles victories.

The teams of Vigar-Batt and Shapurji-Godwin defeated their opponents in doubles.

Eastern Kentucky defeated the Eagles 6-3. Freshman Godwin recorded the only victory in singles.

The netmen took two out of three doubles matches. Shapurji-Godwin won in two sets, while it took Vigar-Batt three sets to win.

The Eagles lost a hard luck 5-4, decision to Tennessee Tech on Saturday. Three of the matches went three sets and the Eagles were able to win only one of them.

Shapurji Vigar, and John Dickinson won their singles matches. Shapurji-Godwin was the only team to win in doubles.

Coach Sadler feels confident that the Eagles will defeat Tennessee Tech in the OVC tournament.

The win, along with the two losses, left the Eagles 7-5 overall, and 0-3 in the OVC.

The Eagles meet the Cardinals of Louisville at home on Monday. Play will begin at 2 p.m.

Track team second in Ohio meet

By DON SERGENT

The men's track team lost its first meet of the outdoor season last Tuesday, finishing second to Ohio University in a triangular meet at Athens.

Ohio University, last year's MSU Relays champions, scored 100 points to MSU's 70 and the University of Cincinnati's 27.

Freshman Jeff Washington won both the short sprints for the second straight meet. He won the 100-meter dash in 10.5 seconds and took the 200-meters in 21 seconds flat.

Another freshman, Kerry Whitman, threw the javelin 211 feet to win that event. Bobby Jones won the long jump for the Eagles, leaping 22 feet-11 inches.

Mike Marksbury's 53-foot toss won the shot put and Kelvin Kelley's 1:54.0 time took 800-meter run honors. David Bowman won the 1500-meter run in 3:56.0.

Eagle coach A. L. Dawson didn't seem concerned about the loss, saying, "We'll be all right."

The international-class competition at the 11th annual Dogwood Relays in Knoxville, Tenn. brought out the best in some of MSU's track athletes last weekend.

Pole-vaulter Mark Richards, whose best previous vault was 16-foot-one-inch, met the NCAA qualifying standard of 16 feet-6 inches at the Relays for second place.

Washington took second place in the 200-meter dash with a time of 21.36 seconds (electronically timed). He was also fifth in the 100-meter dash.

Marksbury threw the shot 56 feet-6 inches to get third place in the event.

Senior Glen Oskin was eighth in the javelin with a 212-foot throw. Whitman threw the spear 209 feet to reach the finals in that event.

Steve Schertzer leaped 6 feet-8 inches in the high jump to make the finals. Kelley's 800-meter time of 1:50.9 only netted him sixth place in that event.

Dawson estimated that there were about 700 athletes at the meet. "Our kids did excellent," he said. "That caliber competition really helps."

The track team will host Rio Grande College and Georgetown College tomorrow at Jayne Stadium with events starting at 4 p.m. The Eagles travel to Huntington, W. Va. Saturday.

Baseball team wins five straight, then drops one

By FLOYD JERNIGAN

The MSU baseball scoring machine ran off the track in the second half of a twin bill with Tennessee Tech, dropping a tough 3-2 decision.

MSU had won five straight — a Monday sweep of Cincinnati 4-2 and 10-4, an OVC East division — clinching sweep of Eastern Kentucky 29-6 and 10-4, and the first game of the doubleheader with Tech 9-2.

Walt Terrell started the game and, despite having some early trouble, was getting stronger as the game wore on. Having set down seven straight Tech batters, Terrell apparently strained or pulled a back muscle.

Unable to continue, Terrell departed with the score tied 2-2. Ed Olive came on in relief and pitched well but was the victim of Eagle miscues. He was credited with the loss despite giving up only one hit in two and one-third innings.

The sixth was the big inning for Tech. Bobby Wells, playing left field in place of the ill David Means, made a running, diving catch of a hard-hit ball that would have been an extra-base hit. Tech first baseman Mike Tipton got things started for Tech with a single and reached second on a throwing error by Eagle shortstop Jim Brockman.

A wild pitch by Olive proved costly as Tipton advanced to third and later scored on a sacrifice fly.

MSU couldn't come back despite mounting a threat in the bottom of the sixth. No Eagle runner could make it past second, Wells was caught in a rundown between second and third. MSU went down in order in the seventh. Rick Gorman provided most of MSU's firepower. He had a run-scoring single in the first with Harry Hall on base and added a fourth-inning home run.

Women tracksters fourth at Topper Invitational

With freshman Deanna Patrick winning the Most Valuable field events performer award, MSU's women's track team finished fourth in the 10-team Lady Topper Invitational at Bowling Green last Saturday.

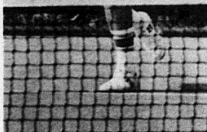

Host Western Kentucky won seven of the 19 events and amassed 138 points for first place. Eastern Kentucky was second, followed by the University of Kentucky.

For the Eagles, Patrick's throw of 135 feet-8 inches won the discus by almost 19 feet over the second-place finisher. Patrick also won the shot put with a 46-foot-10-inch toss.

Another freshman, Keri Camarigg, won the javelin with a 156-foot throw, nearly 40 feet farther than the second-best throw. She was third in the shot put.

MSU distance runner Diane Long was beaten twice by track MVP Jenny Utz of Eastern, taking second in the two-mile

Freshman Charlie Batt slams a forehand shot over the net. The native of England has been MSU's number two player this season. (Photo by Doc Gibson)

In the opening game, Eagle hurler Marc Griesinger allowed seven hits in going the distance to notch his second win in three decisions.

Jody Hamilton extended his hitting streak to 20 games in the opener to the teammate Jeff Stamper's OVC record. Hamilton was hitless in the second game, grounding out to the pitcher in his final try.

MSU finished its OVC play tops in the eastern division with a 9-3 slate. Now 21-11 as of games played through Sunday, MSU can look forward to May 6 and 7 when it will play the winner of the OVC West series.

Injuries may hurt MSU in its final games. Third baseman John McVane will be out indefinitely due to a cracked or bruised rib suffered in the opening game with Tech. The Eagles' other third baseman, Roy Wright, should be back in action soon, having a bout with a viral infection.

run in 11:38.1 and second in the three-mile run with a 17:45.5 time.

The Eagles placed two runners in both the mile run and the 440-yard dash. Hough Caudeil and Tonya Dallas were fourth and fifth, respectively, in the mile. Karen Ross and Teri Walker finished third and fifth, respectively, in the 440.

Julie Rice took third in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:25. Caryl Martin's 1:11.2 clocking in the 400-meter hurdles was good enough for sixth place.

The women Eagles will travel to Lexington Saturday for the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference meet.

Rifle team defeats Ohio U.

The University Varsity — ROTC Rifle Team defeated Ohio University recently to run the season record to 3-1.

Leading the MSU shooters, who won the match 2128 to 1728, were Myron K. Hill, Paris freshman, who placed first; John M. French, Mayville sophomore, who finished second; and Mark J. Brunelle, Loveland, Ohio, freshman who placed third.

The MSU rifle team is coached by Sgt. 1.C. Joe Donaldson, a member of MSU's ROTC staff.

Volunteers needed for Special Olympics

By DALE MEENACH

Plans are presently being made for the Special Olympics, scheduled April 22, and members of the committee are asking for help during the event.

Volunteers are needed for the approximately 500 mentally handicapped children that will be participating in the annual event. Anyone interested in helping can contact Mike Mayhew in Allie Young, Rm. 212, or call extension 3210.

The event begins in the morning at 9:30, and will end at approximately 2 p.m. Volunteers can help throughout the day, or give one or two hours.

Children from 15 counties will participate in field and track, bowling, and the newest event, frisbee throwing. Counties participating are Bracken, Cabotson, Mason, Lewis, Fleming, Bath, Montgomery, Menifee, Rowan, Morgan, Elliott, Greenup, Boyd, and Lawrence.

The Special Olympics, sponsored by the Kennedy Foundation, will take place at the Breathitt Sports Center.

Bell to speak here

Tommy Bell, Lexington attorney and a retired referee in the National Football League, will be the guest speaker Thursday, April 21, at a banquet here.

Tickets for the 6 p.m. program, sponsored by MSU's chapter of Sigma Delta health, physical education and recreation fraternity, are $5 per person at the Alumni Tower Cafeteria.

Additional information is available from Donna Clark, 201 Laughlin Building.

Concert set Monday

England Dan & John Ford Coley will perform here Monday, April 25 at 9 p.m. with the Mark-Almond Band backing them up as the second major concert of this semester.

After two decades in the pop music scene, England Dan & John Ford Coley finally hit the singles charts in 1976 with, "I'd Really Love to See You Tonight," and later, "Nights Are Forever Without You."

Their latest single, "I Just Can't Say No to You," was released last January.

They have appeared on stage with Neil Sedaka and performed in major music festivals.

Tickets will be available at the ADUC information desk from 8 a.m.

Wednesday and ending 4:30 p.m. the day of the concert at $4.00 each. Students will be admitted free with a valid ID stamped SGA Special.
