Jury Clears Tackett Of Murder Charge

Morehead Man Found Not Guilty; Self Defense Plea Upheld

A jury deliberated 40 minutes in Rowan Circuit Court today when it acquitted William Tackett, 31, Morehead restaurant owner of the New Year's Eve slaying of Heber A. Slater, 38, Charleston, W. Va. construction worker.

Tackett pled self-defense and introduced five witnesses, including his wife and two waitresses, who testified that Slater pulled a hawk-bill knife after an altercation in the restaurant on Railroad Street.

The defense witnesses said that Slater and two other employees of the power plant project (Robert Enyard and a man named Blevins) were intoxicated when they entered the restaurant and told Tackett to "mop up the place."

Tackett claimed the men moved out of her sight and she heard a shot.

Slater died in a few seconds, his body lying in front of the next-door Sias Bargain Store.

Morehead Chief of Police Callis Coyne said Tackett was sober when officers arrived and he and director, testified that when Slater's body was moved a hawk-bill knife, commonly used by electrical workers, was under-neath.

Tackett faces another murder charge in Morgan County next week. He is charged with slaying Pearl Fitch, 34, when she saw-saw mill worker of Handshoe, Ky.

Gunshot wounds killed Fitch and his body was found near a former vacation resort, Emick Springs in Morgan County, the morning of August 22 last year.

Strawberry Festival Scheduled Saturday

A strawberry festival, with many baskets of fresh strawberries that are now ripening in this area, on display, will be held Saturday at Salt Lick.

Sponsored by the Salt Lick Lions Club, cooperating with the Valley Strawberry Festival, the festival starts at 2:30. It is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Coop chairman Clifford Willis said prizes will be awarded the winners in the strawberry growing exhibit four quarts of berries, and 4-H Club exhibitors two quarts. Awards will be made in both classes.

The festival featured Saturday will be a beauty contest for the best strawberry of the year and under the theme of the Strawberry Festival. Entertainment is to be furnished by the Salt Lick High School band.

Rowan County Agent Adrian Rator said today that the coop started hauling berries to the Cincinnati market Monday. The present schedule calls for trips on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Any grower desiring to ship berries should have them at the courthouse in Morehead by 2 p. m. the previous day at 20. At Highway 10, the Salt Lick High School band.

Rator said strawberry growing in Rowan, Bath and some neighboring counties had made rapid strides in the last few years. The berries grow well here; have ready access to a market at Cincinnati, and can prove the money one cash crop for many farmers.

Opening Of Manufacturing Plant Seen

Factory Being Readied For 200 Workers Who Will Make Dungeare

Work was being stepped up this week and actual production will get underway in June at the Morehead Company, successor to Cowden Manufacturing Company, on West Main.

Conveying machinery has been moved into the new plant, all designed for top-speed production of dungeare.

The company said that women should not apply until there is a notice that applicants are being accepted. The company has a few employees on the plant in preparation for full scale production.

An official of the Morehead Company said Tackett was not called to work. With favorable conditions and orders it is possible this could be doubled by fall, he thought.

The Morehead Company has also rented the former Studebaker Stadium, opposite Jayne Stadium, for the coming season as the shipping headquarters.

Engineers have been in Morehead for several weeks installing the dungeare machinery required in dungeare manufacture.

Jamerson Looks Over Football Prospects

Wilbur (Shorty) Jamerson, new head football coach at Morehead State College, spent Friday on the campus looking over the boys who will come under his tutelage for the coming season.

Both coach and team expressed satisfaction at the meeting, their first since the recent announcement of Jamerson's appointment. Jamerson made it clear that no miracles were expected, but every man who expects to make the team will have to be out there hustling all the time.

Now stationed at Bowling Field, Washington, D. C., Jamerson expects to be released from the Air Force July 1 and to assume his duties at Morehead, July 15.

Jamerson, a former U. K. backfield star, will take over the position held for 17 years by Ellis Johnson. Ellis will confine his efforts to basketball and baseball.

Stacy Radjunas, Johnson's assistant, is resigning to enter private business. His position is yet to be filled.

The college athletic committee this week released the football schedule for the coming season. The team will play eight games, including the home and away, five are OVC games.

All Morehead business places, federal, state and county offices will be closed all day Saturday in observance of Memorial Day.

During a driving rain-storm the Havens' car collided with a head-on with a car driven by a M. L. Havens of Louisville.

The Havens' car turned over three times and one side of the vehicle was crushed. However, the Morehead couple escaped with only minor cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Havens did not permit the accident to mar their vacation plans, purchasing an automobile and continuing to Hot Springs.

$125 Realized From Morehead Poppy Sale

The American Legion Auxiliary at Morehead realized almost $125 from the sale of poppies.

Among those who helped were Phyllis Anne Bowman, Margaret, Karen Louise Clay, Wilma Pultz, Nancy Purvis, Clara Sue Lacey and Ginger Hyden.

Mrs. Tommy Caudill, Mrs. Roy Sparkman and Mrs. Ralph Woods worked at tables placed in front of the Belie and Ray's Super Market.

Part of the proceeds go for the relief of the war veterans, who made the poppies, while the balance remains in the fund to be used for child welfare work.

Memorial Day Service

There will be a special program at the City Hall, Lexington, Ky., at 10 a. m. Saturday (Memorial Day) morning at 10 a. m.

Due to the fact that the Red Cross to meet its campaign fund drive quota members of the Board say it may be necessary to curtail services and close the offices later in the year. Local operating expenses were cut as this chapter gave up its rented offices and moved to the City Hall. The city council voted to contribute the office space.

Eden Given 4 Years On Shooting Count

Defence Claims He Was Hit By 2 Police
Bullets Early In Affray

Convicted of shooting at eight peace officers, with intent to kill, as they attempted to arrest him, West Morehead Sunday, March 29, Frank Eden was sentenced to four years imprisonment Tuesday in Rowan Circuit Court.

Eden claimed the officers came to his mother's home and gave him while he was in the house. He contended that State Policeman Jack Cohen, among others, shot at him when Eden was hit by three bullets and was unconscious for 30 minutes. Morehead police officers caught fire and he dashed out to be met by a fusillade of bullets.

Eden claimed his gun was jammed and would not fire. Officers said the automatic pistol had one remaining cartridge when they picked up and this cartridge had jammed the gun.

Specifically, the indictment charged Eden with trying to kill City Patrolman Allen Black. Eden was released from the state reformatory December 5 of last year after serving a two year sentence for slaying Benj. Gilliam. The day after he was released, Eden was shot by Gilliam. Apparently After Only Money Or Cigarettes

Eight Morehead business houses were broken into Monday and Tuesday nights, following about the same pattern as some 25 thefts in this vicinity in the past few weeks.

City, county and state police admitted they were going around in circles and said the break-ins are obviously the work of a gang that "apparently keeps a close check on every officer and every patrolman."

As in the past robberies, the thieves entered by either breaking in through the door pane or removing the entire pane. Then they reach their hand in the cash drawer and take the money. Broken into Monday night were:

ABC Grocery on Flemingsburg Road, where the thieves obtained $5 in money (all silver) and some groceries.

Johnson Motor Sales, Flemingsburg Road, $5 in money.

West Morehead, nothing taken. Based on the sequence of previous robberies, police said they expected the robbers to strike again Tuesday night, probably in the early morning hours. All right, but it was in the eastern part of town and vicinity. There were five other places, although their loot was practically nothing.

San. Allen Grocery, Railroad Street, nothing taken as the owner was not home leaving money in the store.

Drew Evans Tie Company, Railroad Street, where the thieves again failed to get anything. Although badly damaged a large case.

Tackett Drive-In, East Morehead, money from a cigarette machine.

Calvert Garage, Railroad Street, no money in cash drawer but some groceries were damaged as the thieves tried to get to the box of the vending device; and Kenneth Lewis (Packard) Gate on U. S. 60, few nickels taken.

As in past forays, the thieves did not bother with valuable merchandise, such as tires, accessories, etc., and were apparently after only money and cigarettes.

Chief of Police Callis Coyne and Patrolman Ed Hall said the robbers do not steal merchandise that can be traced.

Meanwhile the Police Force reported complaints of prowlers in residential sections and asked homeowners to lock their doors and immediately report anything suspicious.

Sherriff Chester Lewis said he believed the gang is composed of about five or six men, master-minded by an older person.

This was the second time that the Drew Evans Company, the Lewis Garage and the Dr. Pepper Store, among others, were broken into.

In each of this week's robberies the thieves gave the winners a "kick" in the back of the head, broke the pane, except at the Lewis Garage where they removed a glass pane by cutting out the molding.

Police said a passer-by saw two men in the Tackett Drive-In robbery.

Chief, Coyne expressed the opinion that the law of averages is running out for the gang and if police don't apprehend them they will be shot as they break into some home or business place.

He advised merchants not to leave money in their places of business, but to keep their cash in a safe.

Prisoner Is Able To Escape At Flemingsburg
 A 25-year-old alleged slayer escaped from the Fleming County Jail. Being another inmate after being diagnosed through a brick cell wall.

Jailer Bert Jones discovered the break Saturday morning. Other prisoners in the cell, including another accused slayer who refused to join in the break, said the pair got out about 3 a. m.

Jailer Jones identified the men as Rufus McClanahan, indicted by the grand jury on a murder charge for the fatal robbery-beating of Davis Pugh, 69, formerly of Aberdeen, at this Fleming County home, and Pete Taylor, 26, of North Carolina, being held in their charge.

Sheriff Noel Walton said his deputies and state police found no trace of the escape.

Pugh was beaten to death with a club March 6 in a robbery which yielded only $15.

Charged with murder along with McClanahan were Albert Pugh, nephew of the slain man, and Jimmie Yazzell. All the residents of Fleming County, Yazzell was among the prisoners in the cell with the two who fled. Pugh was in an upstairs cell.

Feminine Frock

By VERA WINSTON

BACK again with us and very welcome too is the soft, feminine, one-piece frock, a nice choice for dressy occasions during the months ahead. Gray sheer with white lace is used for this one, which would be nice in navy with pink as well. The low, round neck is slashed a little at one side where a string bow is perched. The skirt consists of tier upon tier of pleats edged in lace, crisscrossed braid towards the hem. This is a good wedding guest choice.

Once in a while, when you expect to have a good time, you have it.

Manufacturers Ask Cut In Federal Taxes

Southern Group Says The Government Should Cut Its Spending

Southern board members have concurred heartily in a unanimous resolution of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Manufacturers calling for the Administration and the Congress to take steps to provide for prompt and simultaneous reduction of expenditures and the cutting of both individual and corporate taxes.

This action was taken at a New York meeting of the Board last week. The resolution, in part reads: "The NAM Board of Directors expresses deep concern over reports that the national government budget will not be sufficiently reduced through government economies to permit a balanced budget and tax reductions in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1953."

"The Board is opposed to continued deficit financing, and furthermore believes that the present government debt limit should not be exceeded."

It is pointed out that in a recent meeting of NAM President Charles R. Sligh, Jr., with President Eisenhower, Sligh said: "As when I talked with him, the greatest need of the moment is economic progress and a return to sane economic principles depend on reduction of federal expenditures and a balanced budget. Without these we can look for no reduction in taxes, no increase of venture capital for expansion and more jobs, and no hope of economic liberty threatening big central government."

Southern directors agree that "Economic security at home and in the world depends primarily on a balanced Federal budget and reduction in taxes... a reduction in individual and corporate taxes would make available more investment capital for business and industry. This will provide jobs for our growing cities."

And so they are urging all Southerners to demand that Congress balance the budget and reduce taxes in line with the NAM Board resolution.

Practice Of Discount On Loans Curbed

As a result of the recent increase of one-half per cent in the permissible interest rate on G. I. loans, the Veterans Administration today announced it will sharply restrict "discount practices" in the financing of G. I. home loans by lenders and builders.

The discounting of G. I. home loans was practiced in the increasingly tight money market which revealed under the former four per cent maximum G. I. interest rate. Permanent holders of mortgages were purchasing them from builders at less than the face value of the loan.

For instance, a $10,000 mortgage purchased at a three-per cent discount (for $9,700) would in effect give the permanent investor a higher interest rate than the four per cent allowed. Builders, in most cases, were forced to absorb this discount.

The VA said that under the higher 4 1/2 per cent interest rate, which became effective May 3, 1953, there should be no need for a continuation of the discount practice. The elimination of discount charges would remove the pressure on builders to pass on discount costs to the veteran borrowers in the form of a higher price or lower quality construction. The VA pointed out that charges considered reasonable under the four per cent rate may be entirely unjustified on a 4 1/2 per cent loan.

Under the tightened policy the VA is advising its regional offices of a nationwide maximum fee scale, applicable under the new 4 1/2 per cent rate, for charges made by lenders to builders or agencies responsible for limiting fees and charges which lenders may charge builders and home buyers in the financing of government guaranteed or insured loans.

On construction advances to builders, lenders may not, under VA's schedule of fees and charges, charge in excess of: (1) five per cent simple interest per annum on construction advances actually disbursed; (2) two and one-half per cent of the total sum actually disbursed for the inspection and supervision charge.

State Raises $815,500 For March Of Dimes

Near complete reports from most of Kentucky's 120 counties show that over $815,500 was raised in the state in the 1953 March of Dimes campaign last January. Judge John D. Darnell, announced this week.

Representing an increase of $21,902 over the 1952 March of Dimes, Judge Darnell pointed out that this year's contributions raised an all-time high for the campaign in Kentucky.

Broken down by population, Kentuckians gave a average of 27¢ to the drive, which is nearly 7¢ over the 1952 average of 20¢ per capita. Judge Darnell attributed the sizable increase to the impact of the 1952 polio epidemic in Kentucky and the widespread use of the Mothers March on Polio fund-raising activity which was used in about 90 of the county campaigns.

Even with the increased contributions realized in most of the counties, Judge Darnell pointed out that since January 1 over $200,775 has been sent to 26 county chapters in Kentucky by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Epidemic Aid, which has been established to exhaust their funds in paying continuing costs of the 1952 epidemic.

Clemency Might Be Granted If They Talk

Atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg have been told if they "talked" their chances of obtaining a commutation from their death sentences would be better, it was disclosed Saturday.

Justice Department sources said the husband-and-wife spy team have been informed "several times" that the confessions of a prisoner are "always a factor" in determining whether or not the President should use his clemency powers.

They said the information was relayed to the convicted couple by the unofficial offer of "more consideration for more talk."

He added, however, that so far the Rosenbergs have shown no indication of budging from their position that they are innocent.

The Rosenbergs were convicted last April on charges that they conspired to give U. S. atomic secrets to Soviet Russia. They were condemned to death and are now in Sing Sing, awaiting a pending a Supreme Court decision on their third appeal for a review.

Governor To Be Honorary Chairman of Group

Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby will be honorary chairman of the Kentucky Conference on Handicapped Children, to be conducted in Louisville October 22 and 23. The Governor's acceptance was announced today by Neil Dalton, permanent chairman of the new, five-member governing Council for the Study of Handicapped Children.

The Council, composed of representatives of more than a score of state-wide groups dealing with the care, treatment and education of handicapped children, will be the host organization for the conference, sponsored and financed by The Nemours Foundation, Wilmington, Del.

Originally announced dates for the conference were changed to assure the presence of Mrs. Alfred I. DuPont, whose late husband's will provided for establishing The Nemours Foundation, which has been closely associated with its work among handicapped children.

Dalton said the Governor accepted the honorary chairmanship on the basis that the conference "presents the first opportunity Kentucky ever has had to bring all groups, agencies and individuals, official and otherwise, into a friendly co-operative effort to find out just what we are doing and what we need to do for our handicapped children."

The chairman said the conference planning committee is trying to spread news of the meeting throughout Kentucky so that "everyone who has any information or constructive suggestions to offer may plan to attend and assist in this forward-looking drive."

Former Gov. Keen Johnson, president of the Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission, is program chairman. Other chairmen are, exhibits and publicity, Paul Langan, superintendent of the Kentucky School for the Blind; local arrangements, William G. Bode, chairman of the Jefferson County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Drivers Of Death Cars Are Indicted

True Bills Returned By Jury Against Fred Burton, Carl Gulley

Drivers of automobile recently wrecked in Rowan County, killing one or more passengers were indicted this week by the Rowan County grand jury.

Charged with involuntary manslaughter are Fred Burton, whose car was wrecked on Clark Mountain and Carl Gulley, whose automobile figured in a fatal accident on North Port.

In all the grand jury has returned 12 indictments. The jury's first report, signed by Judge Hall, foreman, reads:

"We, the grand jury, empaneled for the regular May, 1953 term of the Rowan Circuit Court, report that we have been in session for three days and have returned in open court 12 indictments. We have examined all witnesses before us in the homicide cases and have returned true bills in each of them except we did not find sufficient evidence to indict in the case of the Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Virgil Adkins and Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Milford Hicks, both accused of child desertion. We examined the county officers and officers and find their accounts and officers in satisfactory condition. We investigated the case of Commonwealth vs. Jack Smith and we recommend that the next grand jury investigate to find facts sufficient to cause indictment.

"Upon inspection of the jail we find it to be clean and in a satisfactory condition except we did not follow the recommendation of previous grand juries and feel that arrangements should be made to take better care of women prisoners in that they should be afforded more privacy. We have looked through the courthouse and find it to be in an excellent state of cleanliness and also we wish to especially commend the condition of the new decorations therein.

"We commend the state police officers, Jack Cole, Roy Lintville and M. C. Caudill, for the excellent manner they presented their cases before this grand jury."

Highway Death Rate Up Slightly

Ratio During First Quarter 9.8 Killed Each Million Miles

Deaths on Kentucky highways came at a slightly higher rate during the first quarter of 1953 than during a similar period in 1952, but at a lower rate than during all of 1952.

A report just released by the Department of State Police shows that highway deaths occurred at the rate of 8.9 for each million vehicle miles traveled during the first three months of this year, against a rate of 8.6 for the first quarter of 1952. The rate for all of last year was 9.4.

State Police officials do not see the increase over early 1952 as significant but believe it may be only the result of better accident reporting. Some deaths, however, take months to reach Frankfort but reporting is generally better than it was a year ago, they pointed out.

There were 173 traffic deaths during the first three months of this year and 166 for the same period of 1952. Vehicle miles traveled in Kentucky through March, 1953 totaled 1,940,000, against 1,891,000 in 1952.

The mileage figures are compiled with the use of a formula employed by the National Safety Council and taking into account the amount of gasoline sold within the state. The gasoline figures are determined by tax figures.

Through May 26, the police reported 277 deaths for 1953, compared to 289 for the same period last year.

Policeman Slow In Pulling Gun

Detective Sgt. Ed Hemmings of Winston-Salem, N. C., spent more than a quarter of a century on the force and never pulled his pistol from its holster. "Maybe it was luck," Hemmings explained as he retired recently. "But I've always made it a point to reason and let the other fellow tell his side."

Happy Denies He's After UK Presidency

Chandler Makes No Bones About His Political Aspirations

"He wasn't at Louisville, but there was a lot of talk about A. B. (Happy) Chandler's political plans."

The Louisville Times reported that the former senator, governor and baseball commissioner wanted to become the University of Kentucky's next president.

The Times quoted a high-ranking state official, who declined use of his name, as saying Chandler would not run for governor or for the U. S. Senate if he promised him the University job.

In Washington, Chandler asserted, he is no basis for that rumor. "I neither have sought nor am I seeking to become president of the University," Chandler said. "He was the only University graduate to become governor and that he strongly supports the school."

Governor Lawrence Wetherby meanwhile, told the Associated Press that as far as he knew Dr. Herman L. Donovan, the University's president, has never indicated he wanted to retire.

Wetherby stated further that he was not interested in the job, as he had one at Frankfort, "and there is no vacancy at Lexington."

Dr. Donovan was unavailable for comment on the report.

The same official who said Chandler would like the University job also said there was little chance he would get it during Governor Wetherby's administration.

A source close to the governor said that when Chandler was basketball commissioner he asked Sen. Earle C. Clements, then the governor, to appoint him to the UK Board of Trustees, but Clements refused.

Therefore, the newspaper quoted the state official as saying, "The Wetherby-Clements combine did not want Chandler as a trustee, they obviously would not want him as president."

As Kentucky Democrats assembled for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, more and more reports began to crop up.

High Democratic state officials said they planned no caucus to help the Second Congressional district pick a successor to the late Garrett L. Withers.

However, the names of Thomas L. Withers, Webster County attorney and son of the late Congressman; Commonwealth Attorney William Natcher of Bowling Green, and Allen County Attorney Frank Good of Scottsville were mentioned often. Most guesses were that the nomination, when it's made, would go to Withers.

Tax Cheaters May Find The Going Tough

Humphrey Says Law Being Stiffened To Apprehend Violators

Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews said this week Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey is considering proposals for "stiffening" the tax laws to make it "mighty unwise to cheat."

He made the disclosure in a Galesburg News radio interview in which he also said the Treasury has collected more than $150,000,000 in additional taxes and penalties in its two-year crackdown on racketeers.

Andrews said former President Truman's Internal Revenue Bureau reorganization plan was "structurally and functionally sound" but added that he will remove any officials who fail to live up to his standards.

Sen. John J. Williams (R-De.) and others in Congress on grounds that it "froze" Democratic holdovers into high-paying tax jobs through Civil Service procedure.

Andrews said the racket assessments were made against 14,404 individuals and that the total would be increased $40,000,000 by jeopardy assessments which still are pending against $325 others," he said.

He said 569 tax racket cases have been referred to the Justice Department for prosecution and 325 have resulted in convictions so far.

Turning to ordinary taxpayers, the chief said the vast majority make honest returns. He said the "small minority who try to cheat, little or much, is going to toe the line." But he said this is not enough.

"The secretary of the Treasury is giving... close study (to) possible recommendations to stiffening of the law. Well, we put it this way. Between us, it is going to be mighty unwise to cheat," he said.

Discussing the tax bureau reorganization proposed by Congress, Andrews said: "I am looking for the strong and the weak spots. When the strong spots are found, we will fasten on them. When we find the weak ones we will strengthen them."

Andrews said the duties of every major official are being examined and that each major office holder in the bureau is being thoroughly tested on the basis of his ability to perform according to these requirements and standards.

Reptile Expert Says Snake Is Worth $100

Any farmer who kills a snake is tearing up a $100 bill, a reptile expert declared today.

Dr. Doris M. Cochran of the National Museum said this statement applies to snakes generally because of their rodent catching abilities. Water snakes are an exception because they eat fish as well as harmful insects, she said.

Poisonous snakes such as the rattlesnake, coral snake, water moccasin and copperhead usually have to be exterminated in inhabited areas, Miss Cochran said, but should be permitted to live their useful lives in uninhabited areas.

She explained that most snakes primarily live on rodents—field rats and mice.

If one pair of field mice were allowed to breed and all of their offspring were allowed to breed without hindrance, that single pair would have been responsible for more than 1,000,000 field mice within one year, Dr. Cochran pointed out.

In the cities we're pretty much sunk about handling the problem of rats and mice because of the care that must be taken in putting out poison and traps, but in the country we can do something about it if we don't kill off snakes wantonly," Dr. Cochran said in an interview.

There are usually two sides to every strike—both of them wrong.

Spencer Potential Big Show Material

By Bob DeLonga

Morehead can well be proud of its baseball team this year even though it didn't fare too well in the won-lost column. Irvin Spencer, ace moundman of the team, has been approached by several major league clubs, including the New York Yankees, the New York Giants, and the Pittsburgh Pirates. He feels the best deal so far has come from Pittsburgh, a building ball team.

"Hogie," as we all know him, has worked hard and tirelessly to get this opportunity. Last year he was sent up to play in the Northern League, in New York, by the Pittsburgh Pirates. While there he compiled a season's record of 6 wins and 3 losses, which is a good average in any man's league. Right now some of his former team mates are playing major league ball.

This year Hogie started his conditioning work in the gym early in February. At the first break in the weather he proceeded of running at least a mile, fending bunts for half an hour, and a general balling practice for one hour. You can still find him going through this routine every day, even though the baseball season here is over.

Through the season he was the team's workhorse, pitching in 6 of the 8 games played. In these 6 games he pitched 43 innings, allowing 25 hits while striking out 39 and compiling a sparkling earned run average of 1.5.

Dollars and sense lay the foundation for big fortunes.

Air Force Needs More Young Men Immediately

An immediate need for more aircraft observers was revealed recently by Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner, commanding general, First Air Force. A nationwide goal of at least 2,500 aviation cadet applicants for observer training is set for each month beginning with April.

Qualified young men will at the present time begin Air Force training as aircraft observers within three or four weeks after applying. After one year of schooling graduates will receive Air Force Reserve commissions as second lieutenants.

A shortage in cadet applications, General Turner explained, may make it necessary to lower the standards for applicants in this program. The increased need for aviation cadet observers has arisen because of the Air Force's build-up toward a 143-winged "Men who win their wings" the standards for applicants in this program. The increased need for aviation cadet observers has arisen because of the Air Force's build-up toward a 143-winged "Men who win their wings" the standards for applicants in this program.

Visual standards for aviation cadet observers are not as high as those for Air Force pilots. Within certain limits, men who wear eye glasses can qualify for and complete aviation cadet training.

The opportunity to earn commissions as second lieutenants with a minimum of delay is given young men between 19 and 24 years of age with two years of college. After a year's cadet training with a regular monthly allowance of $165 plus other benefits, including medical and dental care.

College Sends Four Students To NSA Meet

Four Morehead students will represent the college at the United States National Student Association in Columbus, Ohio State University, August 4 to September 2. President of the Student Council Boovers and vice president Robert DeLonga will be the official representatives of the college at the convention. Council reporter Clinton Hickman and Barbara Bright, senior representative, will attend the convention as press representatives.

"The Four Freedoms in Higher Education" will be the theme of this year's meeting. Some of the outstanding notables at the convention will be President Dwight D. Eisenhower, NSA Director Harold Stassen, Hunter College President George Shuster, and commentator Edward R. Murrow.

The association will sponsor the annual Student Body Presidential Conference, August 20-22 at the same site. The Rev. Vincent J. Flynn, president of the College of Saint Thomas, has been invited to keynote the meeting of the student presidents.

More than 500 official student representatives are expected to participate in the two conferences. In recognition of the association's importance of the educational community, it has been asked to have the Congress serve as the highlight for the youth activities of the Ohio sesquicentennial being celebrated in Columbus, home of Ohio State University.

McConkey Will Receive Doctorate in June

English professor, James McConkey will be awarded, in August, his Doctorate, the twelfth of June. Mr. McConkey received his A. B. from Western Reserve University, at Cleveland, Ohio in 1943. He earned his M. A. degree from the same institution in 1945. When Mr. McConkey came to Morehead in 1950, he had completed all of his Doctorate requirements. He is now completing a dissertation on E. M. Forster. Mr. McConkey completed his exams for his degree at The State University of Iowa, on May, the fourteenth, this year.

Covington Picked For Summer Part In Cherokee Play

One of the leading roles in the symbolic outdoor drama, "Unto These Hills," will be played by W. P. Covington, drama professor at Morehead College. The play will be presented through the months of July and August at the Mountaineer Theatre, Cherokee Indian Reservation, Cherokee, N. C.

The director of "Unto These Hills" is Harry Davis, the same director who is known to Moreheadians as the director of the Carolina Playmakers' production of "Spring For Sure" that played here last year.

The story of the play is that of the Cherokee nation from primitive times until after the administration of Andrew Jackson. The producer of the play is Cherokee Historical Association. The script was written by Kermit Hunter.

Mr. Covington was previously cast in the play's premiere performance in the summer of 1950.

Superintendents Meet Here Discuss Amendment to 186

School superintendents from several Eastern Kentucky schools met at MSC last week to discuss their plans for amendment to section 186 of the state constitution. The amendment deals with the granting of funds for educational purposes on the per capita or census basis.

Dr. Mills from the State Department of Education led the discussion to decide on a foundation program for Kentucky. The deal with ways to advance the work of the minimum foundation program.

"Schools of higher populated areas of Kentucky receive more money for educational purposes under the present system, while many of them in wealthier areas have many pupils who do not attend public schools. Eastern Kentucky superintendents with few pupils who attend private schools are in favor of a change in the system of granting funds.

Recite Precautions In Tobacco Setting

By Adrian Razor
(Rowan County Agent)

Many farmers in the county will be setting tobacco in the next week or so.

There are some precautions to be taken that will help insure a good stand of plants in the field. Since plants are so scarce this year it looks like we are going to give those that are set as good a chance as possible to live.

Plants will have a much better chance if the little black flea beetle is curbed. This little insect can be controlled easily by using one pound of fifty per cent wettable DDT powder in 50 gallons of water and spraying at the rate of five gallons per 100 square yards. If a dust is used, use one pound of ten per cent DDT dust per 100 square yards.

Make an application of this just before transplanting and after three clusters of the fruit have set.

Wire worms often cause a lot of damage in tobacco fields. There are three materials to prevent damage from this pest: they are Chlorodane, Aldrin, Lindane. Use four ounces of actual Lindane or Chlorodane in 50 gallons of water or one-half ounce actual Lindane in 50 gallons of water. These materials come in both wettable and dust form and concentrate emulsions. It is important that the materials be kept stirred as they are used.

Frank Moore Has His Plants Out
Some few farmers have already set some tobacco but I have heard Frank Moore of the Green Bend section was the first one I heard of to start setting.

Plants With Good Fertilizer
There are still many having trouble with tobacco plant-beds and some have lost beds entirely in the county. Anyone fortunate enough to have good plants should take care of them and help out neighbors who may not be so fortunate. These indications are that plants are going to be scarce.

I saw two beds last week with symptoms of Blue Mold. Therefore if it appears in your community it is advisable to take the canvas off and spray with Fomate.

Fomate is applied at the rate of one-half pound to 25 gallons of water. The spray should be used twice a week and after rains until setting is completed. It is highly important that every grower see his bed at least once a day so that the first sign of infection can be seen.

Farmers in the county are going to be awfully busy the next few weeks. Those who have alfalfa and who have not harvested it should do so as soon as possible. Many sets of orchard grass and red clover hay are ready for harvest.

Let's hope that rains will hold off until these tobacco plants are so important to our live stock industry can be harvested.

Fertilizer May Be Added To Sprays
Tests at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station indicate it may be possible to increase production by adding fertilizer to spray materials put on plant leaves. This system could be of value during droughts when fertilizers are no longer absorbed by plant roots.

In one experiment, six sprays of cane sugar applied at 10-day intervals after three clusters of the fruit had set increased the yield of the early maturity Valiant tomato by nearly a third, but had no effect on later-maturing varieties.

Three sprays of urea-corn sugar applied at 10-day intervals after three clusters of the fruit had set increased late-crop tomato yields 25 per cent.

Three sprays of urea-corn sugar applied to lima beans after the first pods had set resulted in a fourth more yield.

Three sprays of corn sugar alone applied to a late crop of Irish Cobbler and Kennebec potatoes produced an increase in the yield of 21 per cent and 23 per cent respectively.

Probably the outstanding advantage of leaf-feeding is that it can be applied in the same spray used to control insects and diseases.

The experimenters point out that foliage feeding can be used only to supplement soil applications of fertilizers.

Democrats Think Victory Will Come

Party Leaders Full Of Confidence At Swank Louisville Dinner

Sparked by an air of party unity, Kentucky Democrats Saturday knifed their, flaming political hopes with forecasts of new victories in the upcoming elections.

The ray outlook was voiced by top Democratic leaders who met in Louisville with other state Democrats to honor two party idols, Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson.

Predictions of a Democratic U. S. House of Representatives came from Sen. Earle C. Clements and former Vice President Albert W. Barkley.

Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby said the party has battles to fight this year, but foresaw a Democratic legislature this fall.

This day's activities, which included a meeting of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, was climaxed by a 500-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at which the party's favorite son, former Vice-President Barkley, was the main speaker, an assignment he has filled for the past several years.

At the committee meeting, which also was marked by predictions of victory, five persons were named for a Democratic post on the State Election Committee. Gov. Wetherby will appoint one of the five.

They are: William M. Hughes, Morganfield, the incumbent Democratic member; Henry Morgan, Columbia, Lyle Donaldson, Carrollton; Pat Sullivan, Frankfort and Sam Hughes, Anchorage. Senator Clements and the party's House delegation next year would be increased to seven, and declared a Democrat should be elected from the Third district (Jefferson county) which has been held by the Republicans since 1846.

Rep. Carl Perkins of Hindman voiced the opinion that Democrats next year will have "a lot more issues to run on" than in 1952.

Referring to charges against Louisville Postmaster Joseph D. Scholtz, a Democrat, and three assistants, Perkins said, "It looks like Civil Service might turn out to be an issue in Kentucky." The charges, which resulted from a recent inquiry by a postal inspector, have not been disclosed.

Rep. John Watts of Nicholasville said he'd never been proud of being a Democrat than he has been in the four months since the Republicans took over Congress.

Wetherby announced unofficially he will call a special election August 1 to name a successor to the late Rep. Garrett Withers, Dixon Democrat from the second district who died a few weeks ago. The governor said a Democratic would be chosen as Withers' successor.

As for the state legislature, Wetherby again stressed reports there had been a split between himself and Lt. Gov. Emerson (Doc) Beauchamp.

"Doc and I," he said, "are as much together now as we were when we were elected in 1951. We'll be for the same fellow when the time comes."

The executive committee referred the deadlock over the choice of a Kenton county Democratic chairman to the five executive committee members living in the Fifth Congressional district.

The committee also decreed: "The gamecock in the act of crowing shall be used as the device of the Democratic party on all ballots in November."

Democratic women also met, including a meeting of the Democratic Women's Clubs of Kentucky, of which Mrs. E. D. Coville is president.

ettes to mark packages. Above all, he asked, people should call 7-1111 if they see anything suspicious because "an innocent person has nothing to fear."

Wetherby said he'd never been proud of being a Democrat than he has been in the four months since the Republicans took over Congress.

Application Of R. E. A. Is Opposed

Three Major Power Companies Say They Will Fight Proposal

Three major Kentucky electric companies today asked the Kentucky Public Service Commission to turn down an application for an REA transmission system as "unnecessary," wasteful, inadequate and duplicating existing facilities.

In place of the separate REA transmission system, the electric companies propose a combined REA-private power system which they claim would save almost $9,000,000 in REA funds and give "infinitely superior" electric service to both co-op members and other customers.

They asked the commission to order the combined system into effect.

The latest development in the case was contained in a brief filed by Kentucky Utilities Company, Louisville Gas and Electric Company and Union Light, Heat and Power Company in opposition to East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation's transmission-line application. Testimony in the case was completed in March.

East Kentucky, a super-co-op of 18 local REA co-ops, seeks permission to build almost 1,000 miles of transmission lines in conjunction with the power plant it has under construction at Ford, Ky. The Court of Appeals last November directed the commission to see whether building these lines would amount to "wasteful duplication of facilities."

The companies, in their brief, restated their willingness to deliver co-op-generated electricity to co-op load centers for a charge of one-tenth of a cent a kilowatt hour. This is less than half what it would cost East Kentucky to run the power itself over its proposed system, according to the latest figures East Kentucky has made public.

'Cubbing' Is First Step In Scouting

(This is the second in a series of articles written by Lucien Rice on Scouting in Rowan County.)

When a boy reaches the age of seven, he is always wanting something to do. Well there's not a better thing to do than to join Cubbing. Cubbing teaches boys things they are interested in. The boys go to meetings and build things and play games, and do things they really want to do. Cubbing is just like a job. You start at the bottom and climb one step at a time. When you have reached the top, you have something; something which you won't forget as long as you live. Many of the boys who aren't in Cubbing run around on the streets smoking cigarettes and stealing, when really all they need is a chance to do something with themselves. I dare say that today if the early youth of the world could have a chance to make and do something for themselves, this world wouldn't be the place it is now. You can help, by giving the Cubbing movement in your community a push. You and you alone can do this vital thing. The boy you save may be your own.

Committee Of 1,000 To Right Repeal Plan

Are Against Changes In Constitution Of State Of Kentucky

Leaders of the Committee of the 1,000 drafted plans this week for their campaign against the proposed Kentucky constitutional amendments that will be voted upon Nov. 3.

Cassius M. Clay, Paris attorney, was re-elected chairman of the committee. Robert Hays, Lexington attorney, was chosen vice chairman, and A. Joe Asher, Jenkins, secretary-treasurer.

A board of directors was selected but only names of those who were present were made public. Clay said the others would be announced as acceptances were received.

Among the directors are Leon Preston, Glasgow, former state representative; James B. O'Rear, Frankfort, and John Breckinridge, Lexington.

Clay said the main criticism leveled at the "school" amendment was that it would remove a guarantee that each school district get a proportionate share of the state's common-school appropriation.

If approved by the voters, the amendment would leave to the legislature the decision on how to distribute the state school aid, which this year totals about 30 million dollars.

Clay pointed out in talks with reporters that the committee in 1949 supported the amendment that cut from 90 to 75 per cent the amount of state school money that must be distributed on a per capita basis—the number of children counted in a school district. It also supported the amendment that permitted raising the state salary limit above $5,000 for most officers, he said.

However, he and other committee spokesmen criticized the 1949 change as not having been fully put into effect yet, pointing out that only 17 1/2 per cent, rather than 25 per cent, of the money now is distributed through the equalization fund, which is designed to bring poorer districts up toward the state-wide level.

What Next?—YMCA Admitting Women

It's not even a man's world any more at the YMCA.

The redoubtable organization, once the warm and friendly haven for weary males, now admits women. In fact, about 15 per cent of the total YMCA membership today consists of the fair sex, according to officials.

The whole thing has worked out very well, they say. "We've found that letting in women and girls has had a happy influence on male members, causing them to dress better, behave better and be more tractable."

Homemakers' Plan Year's Program Activity

At the Rowan County Homemakers council meeting held last Thursday, the year's program of work was planned. The major subject for the new year which will start in September will be the construction of slip covers and reconditioning of springs in furniture. Other lessons will include picnic foods, safe milk and handcraft with leather tooling.

Mrs. Roberta Hunt, county president, presided at the meeting with presidents of each of the homemakers clubs of the county present. The members of each of the clubs had planned the program they want to study for the year.

Mrs. Lorraine Dulan, home agent of Bath County, taught a training school for the Rowan County homemakers on table service at a meeting held last week. This lesson will be taught at the community meetings in June.

Six Rowan

FHA Members To Attend Meeting

Six members of the Morehead chapter of Future Homemakers of America will attend the organization's eighth annual convention at Murray, June 1-3.

Local girls who plan to attend the three-day meeting on the Murray State College campus include Betty Sue Hibbard, chapter president; Jean Blouir, historian; Judy Black, state recreation committee; Shirley Burns; Kay Frances Owens.

They will be accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Rice, FHA chapter adviser and home economics teacher at the two high schools in Morehead.

Scheduled to appear on the program at the state meeting is Judy Black, member of state recreation committee. She will speak at the meeting for group recreation.

Future Homemakers in the Paducah district will serve as hostesses to the 600 girls and chapter advisers who plan to attend the meeting.

Speakers at the meeting will include President Ralph H. Woods, Murray State College; James L. Patton, director of the State Bureau of Vocational Education; Johnnie Christian, U. S. Office of Education, and Harry M. Sparks, Murray State College. Highlighting the convention will be the annual formal dinner where 87 girls will be awarded FFA's State Homemaker degree. Honorary members and winners of five college scholarships also will be presented at the banquet. Fun games, led by G. L. Carter, youth editor of the Farm and Ranch, Maconville, will be another convention feature.

Membership in the FHA organization is limited to girls who are taking, or have taken, home economics in high school. The state FFA Association now has 209 high school chapters and 8,952 members. Miss Mary Bell Vaughn, assistant director of the Division of Home Economics Education, Department of Education, is the state adviser of the group.

HONORED WITH TEA—Henry Glover, Jr., left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glover, Sr., Sun Street, Morehead and Hugh Stumbo were honored Wednesday when the art department at Morehead State College gave a tea in their honor. Featured in the exhibit were oil paintings, metal work, puppets, pencil drawings and a variety of crafts such as wood carving and jewelry. The receiving line was headed by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Spain, Art Director Mrs. Naomi Claypool, Tom Young and Mr. Glover and Mr. Stumbo.

Cooper Lists Four Point Peace Plan

U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) Saturday listed a four-point program which he said this country should follow in its quest for peace.

Sen. Cooper, speaking at the convention of the Ohio State Bar Association, listed the four points as continued preparation for defense, holding to the principle of collective security, finding the basis for negotiation with our Allies and avoidance of an inflexible position in peace negotiations.

The Kentucky senator paid tribute to U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, declaring Taft has shown he places his country above his personal ambition.

Malathon Held Sure Death To House Fly

Flies that have become resistant to D. D. T. and other well-known insecticides can be killed economically by a new insecticide, malathon. This was announced today by American Cyanamid Company following recent acceptance by the U. S. Department of Agriculture of data supporting the use of malathon for fly control.

The data was established by extensive studies conducted by State and University experiment stations. Described by the Department of Agriculture as "one of the safest insecticides to handle," malathon is a new, broad-spectrum insecticide introduced earlier this season as a killer of a wide range of farm and garden pests, including aphids, mites, scales and numerous others.

Its recently established effectiveness in controlling flies brings relief in sight for many of the nation plagued by growing numbers of disease-bearing flies which are becoming resistant to other insecticides. Experiments now in progress indicate less likelihood of flies becoming resistant to malathon, even after prolonged use.

Malathon may be used for the reduction of flies around buildings which house domestic animals, around yards, and around houses. According to directions accepted by the Department of Agriculture, flies may be controlled effectively by spraying a mixture of 2 gallons of malathon (in emulsifiable liquid form) and 100 gallons of water. The spray should be applied to thoroughly wet surfaces where flies often congregated, such as walls, fences, manure piles, around garbage cans, etc.

To attract flies, malathon may be mixed with molasses, corn syrup or sugar. (Two gallons of malathon and 2 gallons of molasses or corn syrup, or 20 pounds of sugar.) Indications are that this may prolong malathon's effectiveness.

Experimental work now under way is expected to broaden the use of malathon. But until enough evidence is available to secure acceptance for other uses, Cyanamid's agricultural experts advise against the use of malathon where milk is processed and stored, directly on animals, or in dairy barns, or where feed and food products may become contaminated.

Cyanamid is marketing malathon to many well-known manufacturers who, in turn, are marketing it under their own brand names. Labels on all brands clearly indicate whether they contain malathon.

Introduced earlier this season of malathon as a broad spectrum insecticide armed home gardeners for the first time with a single killer of a wide range of garden pests safe enough for home use when used according to directions. It controls common pests which attack such popular food crops as beans, potatoes, tomatoes, broccoli, and cabbage, pears and apples, and such ornamentals as roses, chrysanthemums, gladioli, azaleas, rhododendrons, spruces, junipers, yew, vitae, spirae, euonymus, and ivy.

Tales Of Brooklyn Bridge Not All True

The Brooklyn Bridge was 70 years old Sunday, and maybe it's time to kill a few ugly rumors which have plagued the old lady since her days as the glamor queen of suspension bridges.

First off, there is no evidence to support the notion that the Brooklyn Bridge ever was party to a confidence game. Old-timers in the city Department of Public Works, in the Police Department and district attorney's office can't recall a single instance of record where anybody actually tried to sell the bridge to a sucker. Nobody seems to know how the rumor got started in the first place.

It took $15,500,000 and more than 13 years to build the bridge. At today's prices, according to J. Frank Johnson, director of the Division of Bridges, its replacement would cost $75,000,000. When it was opened with fireworks and oratory in 1883, the bridge was the longest suspension span in the world, stretching 1,594 feet across the East River. It held that title for 20 years. Today it ranks ninth among suspension bridges, but for beauty of line and proportion many experts claim that its granite and steel grace still is second to none. Also, it still is said to rank first in personal publicity. No bridge ever had more written about it or more pictures painted of it.

Even so, the bridge today would be a poor buy at any price. The cruel truth about the Brooklyn Bridge is that it earns no money. It has been many years since it did.

In the old days, it cost pedestrians a penny to walk across. Sheep and hogs were charged two cents each and a one-horse wagon paid 10 cents. (A second horse raised the tariff to 20 cents.) But tolls were cut out a long time ago. Today, no animals or trucks or trains cross the bridge. Only cars and pedestrians, for free.

Now about Steve Brodie, that Fourth Ward newsboy who was supposed to have jumped on July 23, 1886. Early that afternoon a man—or something—was seen to plunge off the bridge. A few seconds later, Brodie was hauled out of the river by friends in a rowboat. It has always remained a moot question whether Brodie actually jumped or simply dropped into the river from a boat and waited for a dummy to fall in.

Right now, Brooklyn Bridge is a one-way affair because of extensive reconstruction.

By late this year or early next, the work will be completed, and it will be able to handle twice as much traffic. Even so, it still won't make money.

But you take the George Washington Bridge or the Lincoln Tunnel. Now there's a buy.

Mrs. Rufus Dean and children, Lois Ann and Vaughn, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Messer of Route 2 are welcoming a daughter who was born to them Saturday, May 23.

Tallest Man In Rowan Sought

Who is the tallest Kentuckian in Rowan County? Louisville's Founding Festival is looking for him.

The Festival, in connection with the coming Amphitheatrician, wants the name of the tallest man in each Kentucky county and the five tallest men in the state.

"The Tall Kentuckian," a drama with music based on Abraham Lincoln's years in Kentucky, is part of Louisville's 175th birthday celebration. It will be performed June 15 to July 5.

The tallest Kentuckian in each county will receive tickets to the opening performance of the production (or to another performance if he prefers). The five tallest Kentuckians in the State will receive all-expense-paid trips to Louisville for the opening performance of "The Tall Kentuckian" and will be guests of honor at a picnic in Iroquois Park on Sunday, June 14. The tallest Kentuckian will receive an engraved trophy from the festival.

Historians disagree on Lincoln's height, but most say it was around 6 feet, 4 inches. Many entries already received by the Founding Festival top "Honest Abe's" height by several inches.

Entrance requirements for the contest are: entrant must be over 6 feet, 1 inch; he must be a native Kentuckian living in the state; he must be 21 years old or over.

To enter the contest, write your name, address, age, birth date and height on a sheet of paper or postcard and send it to: The Tall Kentuckian Contest, Louisville's Founding Festival, 200 South Brook Street, Louisville 2, Ky. Deadline for the contest entries is midnight, Sunday, June 7.

Ammunition Shortage Cost Is
Needless Loss Of Lives, Reports
Committee Investigating Korea

Four of five senators who investigated ammunition supplies in Korea reported this week that there was a needless loss of American lives because of shortages there.

While asserting "it is difficult to pinpoint the responsibility," they blamed policy-makers of the recent administration, from former President Truman on down, for miscalculating the "aggressive designs of international communism."

Congress was absolved of any share in the blame.

"This is a tragic episode which has been extremely costly to the American people," the report concluded. "A repetition of this type of miscalculation and inability to plan for the defense and security of the United States could result in catastrophe for this nation."

The fifth member of the investigating subcommittee, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), took sharp exception to the finding that lives were lost because of ammunition shortages.

Declaring this was based, "as the committee acknowledges, on conflicting testimony between various Army generals," Kefauver said:

"American families which have suffered losses in Korea have sustained the grief enough, without sustaining the added grief which this type of statement brings."

The majority report was signed by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.), chairman of the armed services subcommittee, and Senators Byrd (D-Va.), Hendrickson (R-N.J.), and Cooper (R-Ky.).

Some papers "traveled more than 10,000 miles to some 34 units and over 154 desks before a contract for supplies was let, it said.

The 8,000 word preliminary report grew out of an investigation of statements by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, retired Korean battlefield commander, that serious and critical ammunition shortages existed during all the 22 months he was in Korea.

At a news conference prior to releasing the report, Chairman Smith said the subcommittee majority found:

"Shortages of ammunition of different types have existed in varying degrees of seriousness during the entire Korean War."

"These shortages had an adverse military effect, and resulted in the needless loss of American lives."

"The Korean War was fed from existing stocks of ammunition for two years before any appreciable amount of ammunition was produced."

Mrs. Smith said failure to produce ammunition was caused by tional policy was "peace-at-home and war-in-Korea."

The majority report noted that the subcommittee still must complete an investigation into ammunition stocks of the Air Force and Navy as well as supplies in other areas other than Korea, and limited its recommendations to these:

1. That the Defense and Army Departments develop programs to correct conditions disclosed in the report and hearings.

2. That a monthly report on ammunition supplies be made by the secretary of defense until they are deemed adequate by the committee.

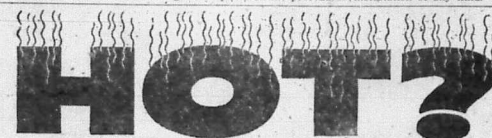

3. That the full Senate Armed Services Committee study budget and procurement procedures to see why existing laws and agencies are not functioning properly.

4. That the Defense Department survey all plants and production capacity to determine the time required for conversion in case of a bigger war.

Kefauver, in his minority report, said the Senate committee also should ask the Air Force "as to adequacy of the number of planes available to it."

The Tennesseean protested that many of the generalities and conclusions in the report "constitute a distortion of history."

Subscribers who pay up before June are entitled to enjoy the summer months without molestation of any kind.
