Burley Market Closes Here

By MARK PERKINS
Staff Writer

Tobacco sales at the two local warehouses came to a close Wednesday with the Morehead market selling over 4.5 million pounds more than last season.

The burley belt as a whole was down this season and, as a result, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced a 7 1/2 percent increase in 1981 marketing quotas for burley tobacco.

"They simply want to build up the supply and try to increase the volume so there won't be such a big demand next season and the companies can be more selective," said Richard Whitaker, of Whitaker's Tobacco Warehouse.

Whitaker went on to say, "They also want to be able to build up the pool supply so—the companies will have something to fall back on if they need to purchase more tobacco."

Nelson Dykes, of the Morehead Warehouse said, "From a burley standpoint, there will be a need for the extra tobacco next fall."

When asked if he thought the increased quota would mean a lowering of the price tobacco brought this season ($166 per hundredweight), Dykes said, "It's anybody's guess. It really depends on the quality of the crop. If we come here with a thick crop and the burley belt comes up with eight or nine hundred million pounds, then the buyers will be selective, and the price might drop, but if we have a 500 million pound crop we will see a very spirited market, as all of the companies will want a good percentage of the crop. I really don't think the pool will be a factor with a five or six hundred million pound season."

Unusual Season

Due to the shortage of tobacco throughout the burley belt, the price remained virtually the same throughout the selling season at $166.

"It was an unusual season," Dykes admitted. "The season opened up at $166 and here at the Morehead Tobacco Warehouse we never had a day below that price. Our market increased over

MSU Admissions Official Is Asked To Resign Post

By JOE LAMB
© The Morehead News

Morehead State University's associate director of admissions, William A. Bradford, Tuesday resigned that post.

The resignation, which had been requested Tuesday morning by Philip W. Conn, vice president for university and regional services, came on the heels of a Morehead News report that state and federal authorities were investigating the possibility that personal funds of foreign students were being improperly obtained and diverted to a private, unauthorized bank account.

The Morehead News quoted a reliable source Tuesday as saying that the investigation stemmed from an alleged requirement that Iranian students enrolling at MSU put up funds in advance of registration to indicate financial responsibility.

The newspaper has since learned that the investigation involves funds belonging to students from other foreign countries as well. At least 11 students from four different countries including Iran have been interviewed by authorities since the investigation began last week.

According to Keith Kappes, director of public affairs at Morehead State, Conn requested the resignation for what he termed "Mr. Bradford's improper use of his official position with the university." The resignation became effective Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 4:30 p.m.

Bradford, who is in his 30s, is a graduate of MSU and has been employed there since 1970, when he was hired as acting director of admissions.

He later became director of the office of admissions and was given his present title of associate director of the division of admissions when that office was reorganized in July 1979. His supervisor was Dr. Rondal Hart.

Bradford could not be reached for comment about his resignation.

The university currently has 112 foreign students, 35 of them from Iran. As to the university's policy regarding deposits by foreign students as a means of showing financial responsibility, Kappes said, "MSU's procedure for the admission of international students does not require the deposit of personal funds by the applicant." Several foreign students interviewed by the newspaper, who had transferred from other colleges, said other schools did require either a bank

Students Tell How Payments To Bradford Were Handled

EDITOR'S NOTE: Information for this story was obtained by staff writers Rob Dollar and Joe Lamb.

The Morehead News has learned that many international students at Morehead State University were apparently required to put up a deposit of personal funds prior to enrolling at the university, despite the absence of such a requirement by the university administration.

Kentucky State Police and officials from the Federal Bureau of Investigation have interviewed at least 11 students from four different countries who were allegedly required to deposit personal funds with a MSU admissions official.

William A. Bradford, associate director of admissions at the university, was asked to resign Tuesday following a report about the investigation.

Although many of the students questioned were told by authorities not to comment on the probe, The Morehead News has found several who were not contacted by authorities. Their stories offer some insight into how the purported scheme worked.

The following are comments by some of the international students at MSU interviewed by the newspaper.

Prinya Jityangyong, Thanu Wong-jariyakul and Somwang Mukacsuvanich are all MSU students from Thailand who started during the 1980 fall semester. Prior to that they were all three enrolled at Bradford College in Boston.

The students learned about MSU from another friend from Thailand, Surasak Apichon, who had been going to the university for about two years. When the three decided to transfer to MSU, Apichon wrote them a letter detailing all the things they would have to do, including the posting of an "international deposit," required of all foreign students. The three students said that Apichon told them Bradford had requested the deposit.

The students said Bradford later called them in Boston and told them about the deposit. Jityangyong said Bradford asked for a large amount of money — he doesn't remember exactly how much — but that he settled for $300 when they told him that was all they had. All three said they sent a check for $300 to Bradford, made out to the "International Deposit."

The three said Bradford told them the deposit was necessary in order for them to enter the university. None of the students received a receipt from Bradford, although they would probably have their cancelled checks.

Wednesday, Feb. 4, the students said, Bradford came to their home and left three checks for $300 to each of them, all drawn on First Security Bank of Lexington. The memo on the checks said: "For return of deposit not needed during the semester."

None of the three students had talked with either the state police or the FBI.

Gustavo Caceres of Honduras said he corresponded with Bradford in his native country prior to coming to Morehead State. The student said Bradford told him he would have to fill out a form 120, required of international students, and to make a security deposit of $4,500 to show the university that he would be able to pay his fees and live in the United States for a year.

Caceres said he gave Bradford a money order for $4,500 when he came to Morehead last July for summer school.

The student said Bradford returned half of the money to him in cash in his office at the start of fall semester. Caceres said the other half, $2,250, was returned to him in cash during spring registration in Wetherby Gym.

Caceres said his brother, Gregorio, came to Morehead for the spring 1981 semester and was also told by Bradford that he would have to make a deposit. But the student said he told Bradford that his brother had only enough money for spring semester and that he planned to return to Honduras for the summer.

Because this was not for a full year, the student said, Bradford did not press him for the money but told him he would have to pay it when he came back after the summer.

Caceres said he has attended two other universities — Southern Illinois and Olney Central College — where no money deposits were required. He said these schools instead required "statements of support" from the bank of the student's country, indicating that he had proper funds for schooling abroad.

Caceres said he was not surprised by the request for money from Bradford since he said it amounted to the same thing as a statement of support.

Caceres said he has not been interviewed by authorities.

Hway Huang and Hweien Hwang are brothers from the Republic of China (Taiwan). Both have been interviewed by the FBI and Kentucky State Police.

The students' sister in North Carolina, they said, sent Bradford a personal check for $4,500 to cover the deposit last November for Hway Huang to come to Morehead.

Hweien attended school in North Carolina last semester and had filled out an I-20 form there. He transferred to Morehead for the 1981 spring semester but Bradford did not ask for a security deposit from him, he said, because of the I-20 form at the other school.

Huang assumed that the deposit he paid in November would cover his spring fees but discovered during the first week of classes that his name was not on class rolls. He said he went to Bradford who gave him a receipt for $2,042, indicating he had paid his fees and other charges. He said Bradford also gave him $208 in cash in his office at that time. Huang took the receipt showing he had paid to the proper officials, so that he could be put back on the class rolls as a paid student.

The students said Bradford came to their dorm Wednesday and gave Huang a check for $2,250. The check, Huang said, was for $2,250.

Court Gives Dog Warden 30 Days To Quit Job

As School Bus Driver

By ALICE AKIN
Staff Writer

Rowan Fiscal Court yesterday gave Brooks Karrick 30 days to decide if he wanted to keep his job as dog warden and courthouse custodian or continue to drive a school bus.

The motion, made by Magistrate Roy Plank and seconded by Calvin Ray Lytle, was approved unanimously by the other magistrates, Paul Ousley and Lemauel Black Jr.

The action came as a surprise ending to an otherwise smooth hour-and-a-half meeting.

Judge/executive W.C. Flannery was obviously caught off guard on the matter which was discussed several months ago in a closed session and taken under advisement.

"I haven't known about this (the court's motion to give Karrick 30 days to decide)," said Flannery.

"He's a county employee and I should have been notified. I think the action is premature," Flannery added.

Plank said he thought Karrick either ought to drive the school bus or work for the county but not both.

"He can't be on call all (the time) and drive a school bus too," Plank said.

"He's getting good pay from the county," Plank added, referring to Karrick's $275 weekly salary.

Ousley echoed Plank's sentiments adding that the county taxpayers were also paying for gas for two extra trips a day Karrick spends in getting to and from his job as bus driver.

"It's the principle of the thing," Ousley said, "we hired him on a full-time basis."

County Attorney John Cox voiced his agreement with Plank and Ousley.

"He is a full-time county employee and puts his status in jeopardy with another job. He should have properly come before the court and requested its permission before accepting the (school bus driver) job," Cox said.

Flannery agreed that Karrick should have informed the court of his intention to accept another job.

"But I think this should have been ironed out," Flannery said in objecting to the court's sudden notice to give Karrick 30 days to make a choice.

"I have never had one complaint about the dog warden in my office," Flannery stated.

"I'd also like to point out he works

41 File For Primary

Forty one persons, eight of them Republicans and 33 Democrats, have filed as candidates in the Rowan County May primary, eight of them doing so since the last Morehead News report Jan. 27.

Half of the eight joined the largest race, that of magistrate, bringing the total number seeking the four district offices to 24.

A. D. Coleman, Allen Ave. became the fourth Republican to file for the District 1 Magistrate seat, while Nadine Pennington Prater, Rt. 5, is the sixth Democrat seeking that position.

Betty Burns Dameron, Farmers, is the fifth Democratic candidate for District 3, while Bobby Hardin of Clearfield became the first Republican contender in that District.

Margie Hall Elam, Rt. 1, filed Monday for the office of county clerk. She will run in opposition to Jean W. Bailey, Democrat, who is seeking reelection.

Nell B. Bland, Morehead Republican, is seeking the circuit court clerk office along with Delbert C. Kegley, Haldeman Democrat, and Don Stevens, Morehead Democrat.

Harvey T. Pennington, Rt. 4, Democrat, has joined Paul Stewart Caudill, Clearfield Democrat, in the county attorney race.

William C. "Bill" Porter, Rt. 1, Democrat, is the only person who has filed for property valuation administrator.

Other offices with a single filed contestant are, coroner, Jim Barker, Jailer, Roger Thomas; and constable District 2, Wilson Conn.

Roy Anderson and Marland Crawford have filed as Democratic contenders for sheriff. John B. "Pete" Hamm and Jim Nickell, both of Clearfield, are in the Democratic race for county judge/executor; and Ray Nickell and James Thomas Flora are opponents for constable of District 1.

In both the District 2 and 4 races, one Republican and three Democrats have filed.

Several other candidates have formally announced their intentions to seek county offices but have not filed at this point. Those names will be reported as they file.

Arson was suspected and charges were pending concerning this house fire on Ky. 32 Wednesday afternoon, Kentucky State Police Arson Investigator, Don McBrayer said at press time Thursday. The home of Bill

Meredith was gutted by the blaze, fought by both the Morehead and Cranston 377 Volunteer fire departments. (Staff photo by Alice Akin)

House Gutted; Arson Suspected

Arson is suspected in one of two blazes that destroyed Morehead homes during the past week.

Fireman Eddie Holbrook said the home of Bill Meredith, about one mile outside of Morehead on North Ky. 32, was gutted by flames at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Kentucky State Police Arson Investigator Don McBrayer was called to the scene. Holbrook said this is the second time in several years a home owned by Meredith has burned.

Fire fighters from both the Morehead and Cranston 377 Volunteer Fire Departments responded to the alarm.

Fireman Larry Whitt of the Cranston unit was treated and released at St. Claire for smoke inhalation.

Holbrook said flames were contained to the inside of the one and one-half story wood frame structure valued at $40,000. An out building about one foot away from the home "didn't even scorch," he said.

Last Friday night, a US 60 East home near Hays Crossing was a total loss after catching fire. Owner Moe Stamper believes flames originated in the flue.

Both the Morehead and Cranston departments were at the scene, but according to Holbrook, the "fire, got ahead" when water had to be pumped from a creek.

Some furniture was saved. Damage was estimated at about $800 at the site of a fire on the Cranston Road Monday at 7:50 p.m. Flames extended to the wall behind the chimney in the home of Ervin Hogge.

Morehead firemen were called out at midnight Feb. 1 and at 7:50 a.m. Feb. 2 to pump water out of the Methodist Church parsonage basement. Water extinguished the furnace pilot light and threatened to do so again later that morning while sump pumps were not working properly.

Dykes then offered advice to farmers for next year's crop. "Watch your plant beds carefully, get the ground in the best possible shape for transplanting, and by all means use Ridomil to fight against blue mold," he said. Joe McDaniel, president of the Burley Growers Association, welcomed the new 7 1/2 percent quota. He said that the co-op's board of directors has viewed the burley shortage with increasing concern, and added, "We have no present fears of over production."

"Pool stocks are now empty, and if production should exceed demand the association could easily handle up to 150 or 200 million pounds," McDaniel said. "The Association prefers having some tobacco on hand as a reserve supply. It is a healthy situation for the growers and the tobacco program."

Roberts Seeks Election As Rowan County Clerk

(Paid political announcement. Paid by candidate.)

I, Norman N. Roberts, of Sharkey-Farmers Road, wish to announce my candidacy on the Republican ticket for the office of County Clerk.

I am the son of the late John M. Roberts and Nancy Johnson Roberts, and the grandson of the late Jim Roberts and Ann Anderson Roberts, native Rowan Countians.

My wife is the former Margie Lee Stewart, daughter of the late Jason and Beulah Reeves Stewart. We have four sons: Norman Lee, a Louisville businessman; John (Jay) Stewart, a Morehead State University student; Paul Garred and William Warner, students in the Rowan County School System.

As a candidate I am obligated to no individual or groups of individuals, but if elected I will strive to serve all Rowan Countians in a personal, dignified and efficient manner to which they are entitled from this office.

My experience includes: Teaching in the public schools of Kentucky, a member of the Morehead State University Faculty for 26 years (retired); four years in the United States Army during World War II, including combat duty in Europe; sanitarian for the Rowan County Health Department; and am presently vice-president of Nana Foods Corporation. I am 38 years old, a Gideon and a member of the Church of God.

I solicit the support of each voter in Rowan County, and will seek to personally contact as many of you as possible.

Arnett Seeks Election As District 1 Magistrate

(Paid political announcement. Paid by candidate.)

Lawrence Arnett Jr. has announced that he is a candidate for Magistrate of District 1 on the Democrat ticket in the May 26 primary.

Arnett, a native of Magoffin County, has lived and owned property in this county since 1951. He and his wife, Lorena, have raised their family of five children - Elwanda, Marvin (deceased), Ladonna, Lynnaye and Marlin, a senior at Rowan High - in the Farmers-Sharkey community.

Arnett has a B.A. degree in education from Morehead State University and he has taught in Rowan and Magoffin County school systems. He directed an Adult Education Demonstration Center in Lewis County for three years. He also worked as counselor and teacher for seven-and-one-half years at the Breunberg Correctional Facility in Menifee County.

Arnett presently farms and is pastor at the Salt Lick Freewill Baptist Church.

In making his announcement, Arnett said:

"If I am elected, I promise the people of District 1 and Rowan County that I will strive to see that every dollar is spent wisely and justifiably for the people I represent. I believe that a program of road and bridge repair should be worked out so-as to accommodate those that are in the most need of repair, first, second and so on. This can only be accomplished by personal inspection and recommendation of those who are served by the respective road or bridge.

"I feel very strongly that a cooperative relation between magistrates and the county judge/executor must be accomplished during the coming four years. Without this, we are headed for chaos. Therefore, I pledge if elected I will strive to work with whoever is elected to the Fiscal Court, regardless of political party.

"The new county court facility is on the road toward completion. Whether or not this was the right decision, it has been made and we must live by it, which leaves many very important decisions that yet must be made for you and I who go in and out of its doors.

"I believe in an open court, where people can come and sit in on sessions and see it carried on in an honorable and parliamentary process, that they may go out of the courtroom feeling they are proud to be Rowan County citizens.

"If elected, I will give you the above promises and give you the chance to be heard and make decisions that affect your life and well being. Your support and vote will be sincerely appreciated."

Prater Announces For District 1 Magistrate

(Paid political announcement. Paid by candidate.)

I, Nadine Pennington Prater, would like to announce that I am a candidate in the Democratic primary for Magistrate in District 1. The voting precincts are Courthouse 1, Lower Farmers 2, Brushy 6, North Morehead 10, Fleming 16 and Pine Hills 17.

I am the daughter of the late Charlie Pennington and the wife of Chuck Prater, who has been a businessman for 33 years. For the past 12 years, we have owned and operated Chuck's Electric Service in Morehead. I am a graduate of Rowan County High School and attended Indian River College in Fort Pierce, Fla. I am a member of the First Free Will Baptist Church.

Let's keep our money at home. I am against thousands of dollars being spent outside the county for architect or other services when we have talented people in our own community. I think our courthouse is a good example of thousands of our dollars being wasted when we had an opportunity five years ago to have done this job without raising our taxes, but jealousy and selfishness stood in the way of the majority of our good people in this county.

Because of past spending, our big debt will be facing us for years to come. Only by close management will we be able to afford safe roads for our school buses, and proper solutions to drainage and water shed problems and dangerous bridges.

If elected, I promise to stay on top of our spending. I'll drive over county roads and put an eye view on our problems and communicate with the citizens to solve our needs together and deny the repair of private driveways or the private gain for any one individual.

To get elected, I will need your dedicated help and vote.

Police Investigating Murder Case

Kentucky State Police detectives from the Morehead Post are investigating a shooting death that occurred just outside the city limits of Bethany in Wolfe County apparently sometime between Wednesday night and early Thursday morning.

The body of Dwight D. Cable was found in an automobile at 3:30 a.m. yesterday about one and a half miles south of Bethany on the Cave Branch Road.

State police said the man had been shot several times in the back. No arrests have been made in the case and it is under active investigation by state police.

Detective John Brewer is heading the case.
No other details were available at press time.

State police are also investigating two cases of reported burglary received during the past week. On Tuesday, Rhonda Combs told authorities that someone broke into her residence on Levy Road in Montgomery County and took a stove, a washer, a dryer and several other items. Another burglary was reported to state police also on Tuesday as the Keith Mays household was broken into in Farmers. Thieves reportedly stole three guns.

Two injury accidents were worked by state police during the past week. A 1:30 p.m. accident Monday 12 miles north of Tolleboro on KY 984 in Lewis County sent William b. Hughes, 42, Rt. 5, Vanceburg, to Hayswood Hospital in Maysville.

He was later transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington where he is listed in critical condition. Hughes was the only passenger in his vehicle at the time of the wreck.

Jerry Cogan, 26, Rt. 5, Vanceburg, was the driver of the other vehicle in the accident, but was not injured.

State police say Hughes was east-bound on KY 984, when his vehicle and the Cogan car both sideswiped each other as they approached, causing the Hughes vehicle to leave the roadway and strike a tree. The accident was investigated by Trooper Stanley Ritter. A Feb. 3 accident between a car and tractor trailer rig sent a Lexington woman to St. Claire Medical Center for x-rays. The accident occurred at the junction of KY 32 and I-64 at approximately 9:25 a.m. Woney R. Tackett, 41, Lexington, was identified as the driver of the car by state police and Willie J. Hopson, 26, Memphis, was driving the tractor trailer rig. Hopson was uninjured in the mishap.

statement showing they were capable of meeting their obligations in the United States or a security deposit in advance of registration.

Information about the questionable activity with the student funds apparently surfaced during spring registration at MSU. That information was said to have been supplied to both Rowan County Attorney John Cox and Commonwealth Attorney Truman Dehner.

Cox refused to comment on the matter, but Dehner confirmed Wednesday that an investigation is underway. Dehner said the probe is being conducted by Kentucky State Police and that officers of the Federal Bureau of Investigation have been contacted. Dehner said he expected it "would be quite some time" before the investigation is completed. He said the probe is "just getting started" and that he doesn't know at this point if more than one person may be involved in the possibly illegal activity. He said that he could not make further comment on the inquiry for fear that it might prejudice the prosecution's case.

Capt. L.T. Owen, commander of the Morehead post of the Kentucky State Police, said there is an "on-going" investigation being made at the request of the university. Owen said a comment attributed to him in Tuesday's Morehead News report was misinterpreted. He said the intent of his comment was not to say that the situation might be an administrative problem but that it could be a policy question, if it were not a criminal matter.

Capt. Owen said the investigation was "a coordinated effort" between state and federal authorities and that information obtained would be turned over to either a local or federal grand jury, depending on the nature of it.

Capt. Owen said there was "no problem with the university itself trying to cover anything up." Asked if Bradford was the target of the state police probe, Owen said, "I'd rather not say." He would also make no comment more than 40 hours a week and on Saturdays and Sundays. As long as he does the job I don't see why there should be any objection to his driving a school bus.

Flannery also noted that 90 percent of the complaints about Karrick's driving a school bus came from Plank's district and he termed the objections "political jealousies."

Flannery said that Karrick had indicated in the closed session several months ago that he would continue to drive the school bus.

"He said you could have the whole thing if you wanted it," Flannery said. He added that he thought Karrick would give up the dog warden's job when he learned of the court's action.

The judge further said that Karrick had expressed an interest in keeping the job as courthouse custodian regardless of what happened with the dog warden's position, but the magistrates indicated yesterday they preferred one person for both jobs.

"Get ready for dog problems and to be without a dog warden," Flannery said.

"We have a good dog warden and I'm going to turn this dog business over to you all (he quits)," Flannery said.

"Then you'll be neglecting your duty," Ouseley commented.

"That's how I'm going to handle this," Flannery said. "When the people call in, I'm going to refer them to their magistrates."

"Be sure and tell them why," Plank said.

Cox said that if Karrick chose to quit, then the county would just have to advertise for the position.

"I might be interested in it myself for $1,300 a month — I don't make that much as county attorney," Cox said.

After the meeting, Judge Flannery said it was his duty to hire or fire "not the Fiscal County's duty to put an order on the book."

Flannery said he was not informed prior to the motion of the situation.

"We discussed this in closed session and they accepted his working. Who doesn't have two jobs?" Flannery said.

He further noted that Karrick, if he so chose, was entitled to a hearing on the

as to whether more than one person might be the subject of the investigation.

He said all the state police officers handling the investigation are from the Morehead post.

matter.

Contacted by phone, Karrick said that he planned to "do nothing" about the court's mandate.

"If they have a complaint against me they'll have to present it to me personally," Karrick said.

"They'll have to fire me if they can prove I'm not doing my job," Karrick continued.

"This back-biting I don't appreciate," he added. "My job as a school bus driver does not interfere with my work."

In other action, Judge Flannery told the magistrates that the Rowan County Air Board now has three vacancies.

He said that Harry Hosack had resigned his job with General Telephone Company and had moved to Utah.

Flannery also said that Terry Anderson had mentioned that he planned to resign from the board in the near future.

A third vacancy exists for the unexpired term of John Paul Kegley who resigned in October.

The vacancies mean that the air board does not have a quorum and cannot conduct official business.

Other members of the board are Steve Watts, Jerry Collins and Paul Caudill.

Flannery said that he would submit a list of his recommendations to fill the vacancies at the court's next session on March 5.

In other discussion, the court heard a lengthy complaint by R.F. Elliott, of Ashland, speaking on behalf of his son-in-law and daughter, Bruce and Susan Budeshim, concerning an alley in Clearfield which backs up to the Budeshim property.

According to Elliott, other property owners have been hauling gravel onto the alley and dumping it without grading it, causing surface water to accumulate in the Budeshim's back yard.

The court was asked to come look at the situation and possibly consider building a culvert to take care of the water.

Elliott's main request, however, was that the court establish its jurisdiction over the county-owned alley and maintain it.

Judge Flannery and Lyle agreed to look into the situation and report back at the next court meeting.

Other business acted upon included:

➤ Payment of all bills with exception of $500 from the Morehead Utility Plant Board for converting its computers to handle the new county payroll tax and a $20 bill from the Morehead, Rowan County Ambulance Service for transporting a corpse to the morgue.

(Cox pointed out that since the ambulance service was a county agency, the bill was not necessary).

➤ Granting $2,000 budgeted for fire protection for the City of Lakeview Heights and vicinity.

Authorizing Cox to advertise for bids for health and major medical group insurance for all county employees.

Approving overtime pay for employees in County Clerk Jean Bayley's office during the license rush.

drawn on First Security Bank. John A. Attah, of Nigeria, first came to Morehead State last fall. He says that he was told that it was school policy to put up a security deposit of $2,500, which would be applied to spring semester.

Attah said he told Bradford that he had only $2,000 and he said Bradford told him to make out a check for that amount. Attah said he gave Bradford a $2,000 cashier's check from Peoples Bank of Morehead made out to MSU on Aug. 28. Bradford told Attah at this time, the money would be deposited for him, but did not specify where, claimed Attah.

When the 1980 fall semester ended, Attah said he planned to make a trip to Washington, D.C. and informed Bradford that he needed money for the trip.

Attah said Bradford told him on Dec. 11 that he would have to get approval from Elmer Anderson, director of financial aid, before he could get the money for him. The student said Bradford told him to return the next day for the money.

Attah said Bradford was out of town when he returned to see him on Dec. 12. He said Bradford's secretary told him that he had gone to Ashland but was supposed to call back. Attah said he asked the secretary to tell Bradford for him to return the next day for the money.

In the meantime, Attah decided to talk with Anderson himself about the money. Anderson was out, but Attah and Anderson's secretary went to the office.

determine whether Graham was aware of the check.

Keith Kappes, director of public affairs at MSU, said records show Attah's cashier's check was used to pay the fees of two other students from Iraq on Sept. 3, 1980 and yet through MSU's business office like any other normal transaction. The cashier's check, Kappes noted, would not have carried Attah's signature and there would have been no question when it was presented for the other two students. Kappes said there was no indication of who presented the check to MSU.

Other international students contacted by the newspaper were not cooperative with the interview.

Masoud Tehrani and Sossan Booshehri, two Iranian students, both refused to talk about the matter. A friend of theirs, Mehrdad Kamali, another Iranian student, said both of them had given Bradford $4,500 each.

One student who asked that his name not be used because he is a senior said he had been told that making a personal deposit was a requirement by the director of admissions. He said enough money to cover the next semester was to be paid as security. He said that he was able to avoid that by insisting that his money be put in an account where it would draw interest. He said he came to MSU from another school and that a monetary deposit was a requirement there for international students.

About 20 students, who were contacted by the newspaper, said they were not required to pay a deposit. Other students simply refused to talk about the matter.

Bradford himself could not be reached for comment.

Commonwealth Attorney Truman Dehner has said the investigation may involve a "substantial amount" of money. From students contacted by The Morehead News, it is apparent that is true. Including the two Iranian students who were said to have given Bradford $4,500 each, the total from students mentioned in this article is more than $20,000. And, several of those students, depositing at least $7,400, said they have not been contacted by authorities.

An automobile driven by Scott A. Flatt, 22, Box 4, Lyons's Trailer Park, Morehead, longed with a 1976 Ford driven by John S. Hall, 818 Alumni Tower MSU, Morehead, on Monday on the access road to Hecks Department store and Holiday Estates. Flatt told police he was leaving the store parking lot and locked his breaks while going around the curve in the road. His vehicle struck the on-coming Hall car, who was unable to stop also. At the time of the accident, the road was covered with ice and packed snow. Both cars were towed to Lee's Chevrolet Station.

Teen Center Report Given

Teen Center Director Charlie Stephens reported on the center's activities and plans to the Morehead Woman's Club Tuesday night. The meeting was held in the center so that the group, which donates thousands of dollars each year to the facility, could see the latest improvements. "I love all sorts of different things, so this is a beautiful world for me," said Stephens, who was introduced as being a recreation major at Morehead State University, as well as a minister, artist and disc jockey. Stephens has used his talents to decorate the center's interior, save the organization $50 disc jockey fees by entertaining as "Good Time Charlie" at dances, and design a logo that features the symbols of both Rowan County and University Breckinridge high schools. He announced plans to take "Teen Center Refugees" on canoe trips, camping and swimming, and said Bill Worrell, a university student, would be volunteering time to give youth guitar lessons. Since its opening in March, 1980, the facility has had free cable television service but no television. Recently a v.

was donated by Carol White, but it needs repair, Stephens said. Card and coffee tables are other needs of the center, which has been the site of such events as craft classes, a strong arm championship and Klaxie Kids night. Stephens' presentation included showing slides. He said he would give the same program to any other organization that would be interested. Club members briefly discussed financial problems of the center, and announced the Charity Ball would held March 28-29 last year's ball raised over $3,000 for the center. This year, the ball will be in the Carl Perkins Community Building from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Music featuring Jay Flippin and a surprise floor show will be highlights of the evening that will conclude with a ham, eggs and biscuit breakfast. Tickets are $25 for couples and $15 for singles. Also at Tuesday night's meeting, Reuben Deboard sang and played the guitar, and adults played various game machines "on the house" to see first hand the type of entertainment enjoyed by visitors to the Teen Center.

Teen Center Director Charlie Stephens related past activities and future plans of the youth group to members of the Morehead Woman's Club meeting at the Center Tuesday night. Morehead Girl Wins Contest Laura Duncan of Morehead defeated three other speakers Sunday afternoon at the Montgomery County High School auditorium to advance to the Area C finals of the American Legion Oratorical Contest on the American constitution at Middlesboro High School at 12 p.m. Feb. 15.

If she wins the area contest, Miss Duncan will be one of three speakers in the state contest. Miss Duncan survived time penalty points in both the prepared and extemporaneous portions of the contest to be declared the winner by the three judges, Chip Letzgas, Bolinda Stambough and Sally Ray, all from Morehead State University.

To gain the area contest, Miss Duncan defeated Tim Pace, a Montgomery County High School senior, who was taking part in his third contest and had gone to the state finals both previous times.

Pace was the only speaker not to receive penalty points for time. His prepared speech was 9:22 minutes and his extemporaneous speech 3:22 minutes. Under the rules the prepared speeches are to be 8 to 10 minutes and the extemporaneous talks 3 to 5 minutes. Anthony Robinette of Ashland had no penalty points on his prepared speech, but did on the extemporaneous talk while both talks of Angela Wilson of Carlisle were under the required time limits.

Miss Duncan pointed out in her prepared speech that the United States has problems, but that the constitution guarantees fundamental freedoms. She opened her extemporaneous talk on the 12th amendment on the election of the president and vice president with a few bars of a song.

When she speaks at Middlesboro, Miss Duncan will receive a $50 bond and a medal, according to David Humphreys, commander of Montgomery Post 22, American Legion, in Mt. Sterling, who was contest chairman for the district and presided at the program Sunday.

Humphreys said the four contestants in the district was the most in several years. He also pointed out that the contest, being sponsored by the Legion for the 44th year, helps young people to learn about the constitution and to increase their self confidence in speaking before a group.

Robinette's prepared speech dealt with a dream for America. Miss Wilson discussed the 16th amendment that provided for taxes and Pace spoke of the constitution as a foundation on which the nation was built.

The state winner will go to the national competition where college scholarships totaling $30,000 are offered the four top speakers. Humphreys said.

Assertiveness Class Planned

The University of Kentucky community education division will offer a non-credit class titled "Assertiveness Training" from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays from Feb. 23 through April 6.

The class will be taught by UK doctoral candidates Steve Smith and John Watson. Limited to 20 persons, fee for the class is $35.

Further information may be obtained from Dawn Ramsey at (606) 257-2794. Registration is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday.

Now's The Time To Plant Trees

If you are looking for a chance to express your concern for the environment, planting trees on idle or non-productive areas can fulfill this need and provide a sense of accomplishment and pride.

There is a wide variety of trees available that can provide food and shelter for wildlife, protect soils from erosion, improve scenic qualities or provide the basis for future income.

Some tree planting is even eligible for financial assistance. Also, a forester is available; free of charge, to assist you in determining what, where and how many trees to plant.

For further details, contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry, (606) 784-7594, your county ASCS office, or Dennis Muse, Rowan County Ranger, 876-3782.

Clean And Dry Is Mildew Preventive

The molds that cause mildew are present in the air, and they will settle where ever it is warm, damp, dark, or dirty - in cellars, crawl spaces, closets, and on clothing, shoes, upholstery and books.

Keeping clean and dry all places and materials where mildew is likely to grow is the first line of defense, according to a bulletin recently published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Science and Education Administration (SEA).

Former Top NFL Referee Tommy Bell Will Address MSU Football Banquet

Tommy Bell, a Lexington attorney and former National Football League referee, will be the guest speaker Tuesday night at the annual MSU Quarterback Club banquet for the Eagle football team.

By MARK PERKINS, Sports Editor

In officiating, and the legal profession, the results of a person's performance takes place in the public eye. Unlike other occupations where a mistake would perhaps only be noticed by one's supervisor, a referee must make hundreds of decisions during the course of a contest in front of thousands of people, most of whom would second guess the man in the striped shirt if they disagreed with a particular call.

So most referees strive on not being noticed at all, by calling a game when they see it and not taking any nonsense from players or coaches.

During his 12 years as one of the premier referees in the National Football League, Tommy Bell distinguished himself in that occupation by bringing to it the same qualities which made him a successful lawyer: integrity, an excellent knowledge of the rules and their proper interpretation.

As The Saturday Evening Post headlined in December of 1974, SOME HONEST-MEN WEAR STRIPES. The six page feature on Bell went on to say, "Tommy Bell practices law five days a week and an Sunday is the law."

Bell has been quoted several times saying that anonymity is a virtue when it comes to officiating.

Bell told Sports Illustrated in the early

70's, "If we walk off the field and nobody notices us, then we've had a good game. But if somebody knows who Tommy Bell is, then chances are I did something wrong."

What makes Bell so unique is that he was able to earn respect among players and coaches throughout the NFL, and the general public as being a fair and just referee in an era when officials only became household names if they made a serious mistake that cost the hometown team a game.

Bell has retired from officiating and because of his notoriety as an NFL referee, he has since become an international speaker. He has spoken in the British Isles, France, Germany, Canada, Mexico, and most of the states in the United States.

Constant demands are being made on Bell's time for speaking engagements by firms and organizations such as, IBM, Western Electric, General Motors, General Telephone and Procter & Gamble.

When Schlitz Brewing Co. needed a prominent spokesman to monitor their live taste tests aired on national television during the recent NFL playoffs, what better selection than Tommy Bell, who received special permission from the NFL to wear his old uniform, complete with the number seven on his back.

The Road To Prominence

The procedure for becoming an NFL official is much the same as that for becoming a pro player. If a high school player is good enough, he goes on to college, and if he proves his worth in college, the pros will scout him and pick him in their player draft.

Bell did receive a letter luck in getting his officiating career underway. Only a year after starting out as a Kentucky high school official in 1955, he was working both football and basketball games in the Southeastern Conference. "I'd been your everyday, garden variety law student at the University of Kentucky until Bear Bryant took hold of me," Bell wrote in The Saturday Evening Post.

He went on to say, "Bryant was coaching at Kentucky then, in the late 40's and early 50's, and I was moonlighting to make a little extra money. I was working high school games mainly. Anyway, Bear asked me to come out and do some of his scrimmages."

"My second year in law school he asked me if I wanted to get into the Southeastern Conference. I thought he was kidding because I had only worked a couple of years of high school ball. Well after getting into the SEC, from that point it was a matter of being in the right place at the right time, and I ended up working several bowls," Bell said.

Bell's credits as a college official included a Liberty Bowl, an Orange Bowl, two North-South All-Star games, three Fiesta Bowls and two WCAA basketball championship games. (San Francisco-Iowa in 1965 and California-West Virginia in 1969.)

In a 1974 NFL offered Bell a job. As he told Sports Illustrated, "I almost didn't take it, but Dan Tolan, an old NFL official, talked me into it. He said, 'Working in the SEC is like practicing law before the Kentucky state court, but working in the NFL is like practicing before the Supreme Court.' What a shock it was, just about like a player going from college to the pros. There must be at least 30 major differences in the rules, and I made so many mistakes that first year that I thought I was going to get the NFL back to years."

Bell wrote about his first game as an NFL official in The Saturday Evening Post, "The first game I ever worked, I met George Halas. The Bears were playing the Steelers. One of my crew officials was George McAfee, who had played for Mr. Halas. He said, 'Tommy, I know Coach Halas and respect, but you really have to be firm and not let him run you over.'

"Early in the game I called the Bears' middle linebacker, Bill George, for roughing the passer. Coach Halas got me pretty good. Then at the start of the second half he came out of the locker room a little bit late and came past me. He said, 'Boy if you keep calling 'em that way, like you did on George, you're not going to stay in this league long.'"

"I said, Mr. Halas, sir, if I don't keep calling them that way I don't want to stay in this league long. Well, Mr. Halas walked about five steps and turned around and smiled, saying, 'Son, you're going to be all right.'"

"In the same magazine article he related another story, about an NFL coach. "We had an Oakland-Cincinnati cathedral in Cincinnati on Sunday morning. I looked up and there was John Madden, the Oakland coach, across the aisle. So he kind of winked and nodded hello."

"In the game that afternoon with about five seconds to go in the first half, Larry Lamonica hit Fred Bilezikoff on a down-and-out pass to the thirty-five yard line. That was perfect position for George Blanda to kick a field goal."

"As Bilezikoff went out of bounds, I looked up at the clock and saw that time had run out. Well, Madden came charging out onto the field and said there ought to be one second left, that the timekeeper was from Cincinnati and that I ought to give Oakland one more second."

"I said, 'Now, coach Madden, you and I both knelt before the Lord in church this morning. You don't think I'm going to lie about the time running out do you?'"

Madden said, 'Damn you Tommy,' and stalked off."

The NFL rules officials after each game, much the same way coaches examine their players performance.

On the basis of his performance Bell worked four league championship games and two Super Bowls during his NFL career.

The MSU Quarterback Club is fortunate to have a person the caliber of Bell as its guest speaker at the annual football banquet this Tuesday night.

The banquet is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 10 at 6:30 p.m. in the MSU student center cafeteria. Tickets cost $8.00 each or $15.00 at the door.

Smart merchandisers stock their shelves with spring goods right after Christmas, knowing that we're already tired of winter and are ready for warm weather.

That this "psychological spring" precedes the actual event, by several months shouldn't be a hardship. It's forced to stay indoors, where weekend fishing programs on TV only serve to further whet the appetite and increase the speed and frequency of our floor purchases.

Although some brave do manage to fish year-round, there are days when even the hardest anglers are forced to stay indoors, where weekend fishing programs on TV only serve to further whet the appetite and increase the speed and frequency of our floor purchases.

You can always reorganize your tackle box, sharpen all your hooks, put new line on your reels and go through all those well-thumbed fishing catalogs one more time. But these activities are seldom enough to fill all the long, cold windy days of the winter.

During the last couple of years, I've turned to making some of my own lures and have found it an interesting and worthwhile way to pass the time. Not only does it give me something to do, but it also saves money over buying the same baits ready made.

A hard-core lure maker will start with a piece of cedar or balsa and an assortment of whitening knives and end up with an almost perfect replica of the hottest new bass buster on the market. But this isn't the kind of lure making I'm talking about. For one thing, folks like me usually don't get along well with sharp implements and the only recognizable thing we can create by whittling is a pile of shavings.

But there are several kinds of lures you can make with only a modicum of skill and dexterity - the molded baits. These fall into basically two classes - the soft plastic lures and lead-headed jigs. Both are made by pouring hot material into a mold and allowing it to cool, so skill and dexterity come into play only when it's necessary to get out of the mold or spilled hot liquid.

Molds for plastic baits are available at larger tackle stores, along with the plastic material and coloring agents. Some people like to make their own molds, either out of plaster of paris or from the kind of fiberglass used in auto body repair.

The process is simple - heat the plastic material until it turns clear, then pour it into the mold. Let it cool for a few seconds and remove the finished bait. The only trick is getting the mold filled properly - not enough and you've got a poorly shaped worm and too much material and you've got to do a lot of trimming of excess plastic.

Making lead-headed jigs is equally simple. Heat the lead and pour it into the appropriate mold into which the hook has been placed ahead of time. Commercial molds usually make several different sizes, from 1/4 ounce jigs up to half-ounces. Or if you fish primarily with one size jig, you can find a mold that will make several of that size at one pouring.

Lady Viking Poise Comes Through In O' Win Over Ashland

In what perhaps was a preview of the girls 16th regional championship game which will be played next month, Rowan County defeated Ashland 67-65 in overtime.

Ashland entered the Lady Viking's gym rated the number two team in the region behind Rowan County.

Mostly on the shooting of Jeanne Cornett, Karla May and Jelana Haney, the Lady Vikings led by two at the end of the first quarter, 17-15.

During the second quarter Ashland outscored Rowan County 21-15. According to Lady Viking coach Claudia Hicks, her team felt behind by not keeping the ball out front while on offense. Instead they worked the ball into the corner and set traps.

Rowan County switched defenses in the second half and according to Hicks that was the difference in the game.

"Our 1-3 zone defense was much quicker and really put pressure on the Ashland guards. They became unsure of their passes, and their mistakes allowed us to catch up," Hicks said.

The Lady Vikings outscored Ashland 15-12 in the second half.

After 24 minutes of play the game was tied at 61.

Rowan County won the overtime tip off, but was called for three seconds just 11 seconds later. Haney stole a pass near the baseline on Ashland's next trip down court and Cornett connected on a 10 foot jump shot with 2:24 left to give the Lady Vikings a 63-61 lead.

Ashland missed their first overtime shot, and then Linda Haulst first shot. The senior calmly walked up to the charity stripe and sunk the fouled shot and missed her second attempt with 1:49 left.

Ashland's Sherri Withrow connected on a basket with 1:30 remaining to pull within one, 64-63.

Rowan County then worked the ball inside to Haney for an easy layup and the Lady Vikings led 66-63 with 1:17 left.

Ashland was called for traveling on the next trip down court.

Rowan County was then working time off the clock when the referee called a jump ball on Cornett.

Rowan County won the jump ball. Ashland's Sherri Griffith committed her fifth foul with sent Mary Beth Hamm to the line with 37 seconds left. The junior missed her first try and hit her second charity toss for a 67-63 Lady Viking lead.

Tammy Faught connected on a basket for Ashland with 24 seconds remaining, and Rowan led 67-65.

Hamm had a chance to tie the Lady Vikings a cushion as she was fouled with 16 seconds left, but the junior missed the front end of a bonus.

Ashland's Linda Haulst, called timeout, but was unable to sink a shot before time ran out.

Looking back on her most important victory of the season, Hicks attributed her team's bounce to one factor.

A glance at the scoring last Monday night indicates the Lady Viking coach was right. Four Rowan County players

Last season Trent went all out and played all four of Lexington's public schools. This year two were on the schedule and last Tuesday night Lafayette came to town.

The Generals left Morehead with a 35-35 victory.

"With three seconds to go in the first half the score was tied at 21. It was by far the best half of basketball we have played all season," Trent said.

Trent went on to say, "Our defense was great and we controlled the ball well. We only made four turnovers in the first half and one of those was a traveling call after diving for a loose ball."

Breck Girls Iced Out

The University Breckinridge Lady Eagles are having about as much trouble playing games lately as they have had winning them all season.

The Eagles' 2-13 on the season, had a scheduled game postponed Monday for the second straight time when Foothills Conference foe Magoffin County, because of icy roads, decided not to play. The option was Magoffin County's as the host team.

Breck coach Jim Austin said Magoffin County officials told him they would reschedule the game at a later date.

The Lady Eagles have not played since January 19.

Lady Eagles Outplay Marshall

By KURT PICKERING Sports Staff Writer

The Morehead State Lady Eagles out-shot, out-rebounded, out-passed and generally outplayed Marshall Monday night on the way to a 95-70 road win over the Green Gals.

It was the fourth straight win for Morehead, moving the Lady Eagles to within a game of 500 at 10-11. Marshall's record slipped to 1-18.

The Lady Eagles hit 67.6 percent of their first-half field goal attempts, then cooled down a bit in the second period.

Fraternity To Sponsor Basketball Tournament

Delta Tau Delta will sponsor an open-basketball tournament Saturday in Wetherby Gym.

According to the Morehead State University fraternity, the tournament will take place both Feb. 7 and 8, starting at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place. For more information contact Rocky Blanton, 784-8609 or Dave Butts 784-6206.

but still outshot the Green Gals 53.8 percent to 44.8 percent. Morehead's shooting advantage at the free throw line was even wider at 78.1 percent to 41.7 percent. The Lady Eagles were 35 of 65 from the floor and 25 of 32 at the line, compared with 39 of 67 and 10 of 24, respectively, for MU.

MSU had a 20-carom advantage on the boards, 46-26. The Lady Eagles had 10 more assists, 25-15, despite playing on the road where assists almost invariably fall in favor of the host team. Another indicator of floor game, turnovers, went in favor of Morehead with the Lady Eagles committing 16 and the Green Gals 18.

Individually, Morehead had plenty of stars. Irene Moore challenged Susann Brown's single-game assist record for the second time in three games, collecting a season-high 10 to miss by just one. Moore had nine assists in a game against Bellarmine last week.

Harmon duplicated two days later by Robin Harmon against Western Kentucky. Moore also came up with a pair of steals, as did Harmon and Priscilla Blackford.

Donna Stephens was the only player on the floor to top the 20-point barrier. The 6'1" junior collected 25 points, including a perfect performance in seven tries at the charity stripe. Harmon posted 16 points, five assists and two steals, while Blackford added 16 markers, two blocked shots and another steal to go with her game-high 13 rebounds.

Karen Henry topped Marshall by scoring 18 points and Debbie Solomon added 16. Susanna Carter, the Green Gals' top scorer during the game with an 11.8 average, was held to eight points, but that was enough to boost her career total over the 700 barrier to 707.

She also pulled down two rebounds, exactly what she needed to reach the 500 career plateau. MU's leading rebounder was Diane Thompson, who collected 10.

The Lady Eagles decided the issue early, moving to a 53-29 advantage at the half.

Morehead visited Murray State last night in a game played after The Morehead News deadlines. The Lady Eagles, who are 7-0 at home, return to Wetherby Gym tomorrow to open a four-game home stand against Campbellsville in a 7:30 start. MSU plays six of its last seven games at home.

The Lady Eagles will host Marshall Thursday Feb. 12.

Mason Co. Rolls Over Breck By 22 Points

By KURT PICKERING
Sports Staff Writer

University Breckinridge shut down Mason County star Allen Feldhaus with just four points and a foulout Tuesday at Wetherby Gym, but Kelly Middleton poured in 38 points to lead the Royals to a 77-55 victory over the Eagles.

The Royals doubled the score on Breck in the first eight minutes, leading 24-12 at the first quarter horn. Mason County maintained its lead in the eight-point range through most of the middle two periods, then turned the game into a blowout by cranking up a 24-14 fourth-frame edge.

Poor shooting plagued the losers, who hit just 38 percent from the floor on 19 of 50. Mason County hit a whopping 65.4 percent in the first half, tapered off but still hit slightly better than half in the last two periods, and ended up with 31 of 53 for 58.5 percent.

The Eagles, usually a good free throw shooting club, outdid their rivals easily at the line, but it was not nearly enough to overcome the Royals' 24-point floor advantage. Breck hit 12 of 15 in the first half on the way to a respectable 17 of 25 for 68 percent. Mason County scored on only 15 of 31 shots, a poor 48.4 percent.

The fouling situation was a sore point with coach Diemel Dennis. "How can a team play a sticky man-to-man press like they did the whole game and make only 19 fouls?" he asked. "And then, we spent most of the game back in a zone, on our own floor, and we make more fouls than they do." Breck was called for 22 personals.

Mason County outplayed Breck in both the rebounding and turnover categories. The Royals hauled in 31 boards, led by eight each from Middleton and Feldhaus, while Breck collected 26 caroms, 11 from Joe Magrane. In the floor game, Mason County committed 13 turnovers, compared to 19 by Breck.

"They were quicker than us," Dennis said, adding, "plus Middleton was over the back quite a bit. They just weren't calling that."

At the floor game, Dennis admitted, "We stood around a lot. They were quicker and more aggressive. And you got to remember, they're a tremendous ball club.

Dennis said the turning point in the game came in the fourth period. "We were down by about eight points," Dennis recalled, "and they stole the ball three times and got three layups and we hadn't even got it over the time line."

Grade School All-Stars Begin Play Tonight

Now that the grade school basketball season and tournaments are over, 20 eighth graders from around the county have formed two teams and plan to challenge other county eighth grade squads.

The first such encounter will take place tonight at the Rowan County High School gym when the two teams will play two Montgomery County teams.

The first contest starts at 6 p.m. and the second will follow twenty minutes later.

Players are grouped into two teams. The green team consists of Cameron, Kenny, Morehead Grade; Larry Early, Morehead Grade; Jimmy Livingood, Morehead Grade; Lesley Caskey, Clearfield; Ricky Kemp, Clearfield; Ricky Joe Williams, Elliottville; Joe Taylor, Farmers; Dan DeHart, Farmers; Jessie Puckett, Haldeman; Donnie Blevins, Tilden Hogge; and Tony Buttry also from Tilden Hogge.

Members of the white team are: Steve Back, Morehead Grade; Bruce Cecil, Morehead Grade; Andy Thompson, Morehead Grade; Rodney Fouch, Morehead Grade; Ronnie Crisp, Elliottville; Michael Hardin, Elliottville; Gip Bowman, Farmers; Mark Lewis, Farmers; and Jackie Smith, Haldeman.

Both the grade school coaches tried to do is to select the top players from the county and divide them equally into two teams which will allow them to have some playing experience together before reaching high school next year.

"I'm not sure that All-Stars would be the proper term here," said high school coach Ted Trent. "There are a lot of kids that didn't make this team who will develop over the summer, attend camps and come out of the freshman level next year and might make it," Trent said.

Before this year, the boys who made up the freshman team would come to amount of rivalry between them due to the fact that they had been competing against one another at the grade school level.

"At some point we have to have a funnel approach, with the opening wide at the top, and getting more selective as the kids get older," Trent said.

The high school coach also added that he's looking down the road when the present high school will be converted into a middle school. "Hopefully that school will have two or three teams and play other county schools," Trent said.

"In team sports, 50% of the game is teamwork, and that means knowing what to expect from your teammate. What his program will do is allow the kids to play together five years instead of just four," Trent said.

The coaches for the green team will be Gary Gartin, W.C. Bagley, and Jack Roberts.

Gary Ferguson, Rodger Eldridge and Cui' Cunduff will combine to coach the white team.

New Ski Club Gets Special Rates

The Morehead group will receive a day or night lift ticket, a complete set of rental equipment and one hour of instruction providing the

Lady Eagles Defeat Western, 60-58

By KURT PICKERING
Sports Staff Writer

The Morehead State Lady Eagles capitalized on a pair of technical fouls against Western Kentucky Saturday night to edge the Lady Toppers for the second time in a week. MSU converted one point from each technical and won the game by that margin of two points, 60-58.

The first tech came midway through the first half, charged against the WKU bench after an argument following an offensive foul called on Jane Lockin. Robin Harmon hit the resulting free throw and cut the MSU deficit at that point to 19-16.

The second came at the game's climax. The Lady Eagles, who trailed by 11 at one point in the second half, had put together a 16-point swing to take a 57-52 edge with just over a minute to play when Donna Stephens earned a baseline jumper. But Western closed the gap to 59-58 on Laurie Heltsey's 15-footer with four seconds left.

It was then that Lady Topper coach Eileen Canty took a chance, taking a timeout after having already used all of them.

The move nearly paid off. Irene Moore made it 60-58 by hitting the resulting free throw, but Connie Ryan was unable to get the ball inbound against the Lady Topper press and Morehead State wound up with its 28th turnover. Western took the ball out of bounds at midcourt with three seconds on the clock. Before time expired, Heltsey launched an 18-footer but missed.

Donna Stephens led the floor with 20 points and 12 rebounds. Priscilla Blackford added 17, and Moore was involved in another 25, scoring nine points and assisting on another eight buckets.

For Western, Lockin topped the rebounders by matching Stephens' total of 12. Dianne Depp added 11 caroms and 14 points, but Kim Harrison was the leading Lady Topper scorer with 19.

Both clubs shot poorly from the field. MSU hit just 38.1 percent from the floor on 24 of 63. WKU, however, fared even worse on 21 of 59 for 35.6 percent. Shooting from the charity stripe was better for both, but still mediocre for Morehead at 63.2 percent on 12 of 19. Western connected on a fine 76.2 percent on 16 of 21. Rebounding and turnovers were fairly even, with WKU taking a 45-43 carom edge but committing three more floor errors.

Western Kentucky is, now 10-11 overall. The Lady Toppers have dropped three straight Ohio Valley Conference games and have fallen from contention to 4-4.

Lakeview Learns It Will Have To Form A New Government

The Lakeview Heights Board of Trustees met Tuesday night in regular session and, among other things, learned that its young system of government will have to be totally revamped to conform to guidelines set forth by the legislature for sixth class cities.

Joe Swafford, from Gateway, met with the Board along with several other Lakeview citizens and explained to them that they will have to convert to a commission form of government by the end of the year.

According to Gary Van Meter, chairman of the board, all of the current board of trustees terms expire next year, so there would have been an election anyway. One difference is, under the present system, the trustees voted among themselves for a chairman, and under the commission form of government a mayor is elected, along with four other commissioners.

"We also learned that we will have to have a partisan primary election. I had thought we would be able to get by with a non-partisan ticket, but it doesn't look like we'll be able to do that," Van Meter said.

Under the new form of government, the mayor would serve a four year term, while the commissioners would be elected for two year terms.

Swafford also informed the board about all the changes the legislature made that will affect the manner in which small cities handle their accounting procedures. "For example, we are going to have to hire a public accounting firm to perform an annual audit. We are also now required to advertise anytime we have a public use hearing or pass an ordinance," Van Meter said.

Swafford also explained to the board how to handle property revenue sharing dollars, which Lakeview just recently qualified to receive. Lakeview will get about $3,000 and, according to Van Meter, part of the money will go toward hire hydrants and the rest of the way to spend the money will be established at a future public use hearing.

All trustees, except Bobby Tucker who was ill, were present during the three hour meeting held at Van Meter's house.

Great Classics Displayed at UK

Some first editions of the great classics of English literature are now on exhibit in the gallery of the University of Kentucky library.

Perhaps of widest interest is a first edition of Dr. Samuel Johnson's great English Dictionary, published in 1755. It took Johnson seven years to complete the work, which went through five editions in his lifetime. Also shown is a prospective for the dictionary and an original specimen of his handwriting. Boswell's "Life of Johnson," 1791, also is shown.

The free exhibit is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays, 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. The exhibit continues through January.

Consumer Comments

Christmas bills are coming in, inflation has hit your wallet and loans are more difficult to obtain. Many Kentuckians will have difficulty facing financial responsibilities this month. But no matter how much a consumer owes or how hard it is for a merchant to collect, certain debt collection procedures are illegal and should be reported to the attorney general's consumer protection division, says Attorney General Steven Beshear.

The federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act covers personal, family and household debts such as money owed for a car, expenses, furniture and cosmetics. A debt collector is anyone, other than the creditor or an attorney, who regularly collects debts for others.

"Under federal law, a debt collector may contact you in person, by mail, by telephone or by telegram but it cannot be at an inconvenient time unless you agree. They may not contact you at work if they know your employer does not allow them to call," said Beshear. "You may stop a debt collector from contacting you by telling the collector to cease communications. This should be done in writing, and I suggest you send the letter by certified or registered mail so you can be sure they receive it. However, you may be subject to legal action by the creditor if you refuse to pay a legitimate debt."

Beshear says consumers should contact his office for a free copy of the pamphlet "You have a Right to Stop Unfair Debt Collection Practices in Kentucky." If you would like a copy write: Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, KY 40601.

In Memory of Mark A. Lewis, 18 Who died Dec. 13, 1980 "To All Parents"

Edgar A. Guest
"I'll lend you for a little time. A child of Mine," He said.
"For you to love the while he lives. And mourn for when he's dead. It may be six or seven years, Or twenty-two or three."

But will you, till I call him back, Take care of him for me?
He'll bring his charms to gladden you.
And shall his stay be brief, You've had his lovely memories, As solace for your grief.

I cannot promise he will stay, Since all from earth return,
But there are Jessons taught down there.

I want this child to learn. I've looked the wide world over. In my search for teachers true.

And from the throngs that crowd life's land I have selected you. Now will you give him all your love. Nor think the labor vain. Nor hate me when I come to call. To take him back again?"

I fancied that I heard them say: "Dear Lord, Thy will be done. For all the joy Thy child shall bring: The risk of grief we'll run. We'll shelter him with tenderness. We'll love him while we may. And for the happiness we've known, Forever grateful stay. But shall the angels call for him. Much sooner than we've planned. We'll brave the bitter grief that comes. And try to understand."

Gaye Osbourne, Assistant Professor of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation will answer questions pertaining to diet, exercise, and physical fitness. She will also demonstrate "armchair exercises" to do while watching television or sitting at an office desk.

All tobacco farmers, their wives and any other interested persons are urged to attend. For more information, contact Tim Ramsey or Martha Huntsman at the County Extension Office.

UK Is Offering Shakespeare Trip

The University of Kentucky community education division is offering a week for Shakespeare lovers - in England at Stratford and London.

The week will begin on June 3 when the group, limited to 30 persons, departs for London where the members will attend several carefully selected Shakespearean plays by England's leading repertory companies.

The group will stay in the Bayswater area of London, which is convenient to shopping and sightseeing.

For a rare look behind the plays to be seen, private talks with actors, directors and designers will be scheduled. Native Londoners will guide the group on walking tours of London as Shakespeare knew it, as well as landmarks of later theater history.

Kenneth W. Davis, UK assistant professor of English, will conduct the tour. Davis has experience as an actor and director and is devoted to Shakespeare. For the past three years, he and his wife, Bette, have conducted tours to the Stratford, Ontario Shakespeare Festival.

Students wishing UK credit will be enrolled in English 368, "Studies in Drama." The class will meet from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, May 12-June 1.

Those not wishing to earn credit may attend the Monday and Wednesday

James V. Mauk took advantage of the warm weather before recent snow falls to cut a little extra wood for his stove. Mauk has been a carpenter nearly all his life, and even made items for officers when he served in World War II. (Staff photo by Kathy Partin)

Wood Choppin' Is James Mauk's Life

By KATHY PARTIN
Staff Writer

"I've cut enough wood to make a mountain," says James V. Mauk of Cranston, soon to be 68 years old. An Elliott County native who trained to be a blacksmith at age 17, Mauk said he saw that business was rapidly "going out" and picked up on the carpentry trade.

He had already made some money in that profession. At age 15, he built a neighbor's porch for $3, and after learning the art of laying cobblestone, built cellars, barns and houses in Elliott County for $1 a day. The best carpentry job of his life, he says, brought in $1.50 a day.

"I was just born that way, I reckon," Mauk says, when asked who taught him the trade.

Some of his talent may have come from his great-great grandfather, who built the first log cabin in Elliott, he says. According to Mauk, the house is still standing, but not recognizable due to additions. The carpenter left his home on Mauk Ridge to fight in World War II for "four years four months and five days."

"I'd like to go back there to see if there's been any changes," said Mauk of Hawaii, the Philippine Islands and the Panama Canal.

He paused as he sawed one of the pieces of scrap lumber that fill his yard. "It was kind of a miracle to me; all over those islands you didn't see no saw mills or nothing, and they had some of the finest timber I ever seen."

In Mauk's yard are bird houses atop tall poles and miniature windmills spinning busily. All are made of wood and apparently by him.

"Pert near everything I got, I made," explains Mauk. "I bought one chair in my lifetime, a glider swing."

Other chairs in his home have been either made by him or "patched up." "People pay too much attention to the looks of a thing," he criticized. "With prices like they are, it's more important if something's serviceable."

Mauk has one daughter, a General Telephone employee in Lexington, and raising her he says was one of the most important tasks of his life. A reason he moved to his Rowan farm was because of the proximity of the Tilden Hogge School; living on Mauk Ridge meant a walk of several miles.

Now what keeps him in Cranston? "I've got a good well of water that keeps me here," he says, nodding to the front yard well house.

Mauk smartly took advantage of a recent warm spell to cut wood for his tin stove that heats his home. A heavy snow fell only days later.

The hard work didn't bother him. "It takes your mind off your aches and pains," he explained.

Target Shooting At Lights Stirs Anger Of Authorities

An unknown person taking "target practice" at street lights on Fifth Street has stirred the city police and Kentucky Utility officials.

According to Morehead Police Chief Fred Barnsdale someone has been shooting out a few of the street lights on Fifth Street between Tippet Avenue and Wilson Street apparently with a BB gun or air rifle.

Barnsdale said the "lights out" vendetta has been occurring routinely since Christmas. One particular light has been shot out five or six times, while another one has been destroyed two or three times, he said.

The activity which amounts to criminal mischief in the third degree, has resulted in a warning to area parents with children owning BB guns or air rifles.

Barnsdale said it is against Kentucky law for children to shoot BB guns or air rifles without the direct supervision of an adult on the scene.

Evidently, this supervision has been lacking in the Fifth Street area.

Barnsdale said police come across children with BB guns or air rifles who are not being supervised by an adult, the gun will be confiscated.

It's becoming a severe problem money-wise," noted Barnsdale. The cost of replacing the lights has KU officials upset about the recent trend.

Don Perkins, KU manager, said the absolute minimum cost to replace one street light runs about $13.70. That price does not include gas and other expenses associated with the call.

Somewhere between $200 and $300 is the estimated expense that KU has suffered due to the Fifth Street problem, according to Perkins.

Besides the cost, the activity is creating a danger to area residents, said Barnsdale. When the lights are shot out, the area is missing the security lighting which is one of the biggest assets citizens have for the prevention of crime, noted Barnsdale.

"We would like to get it stopped," said Barnsdale, stating it definitely needed to be curtailed before any other problems are created.

Tourism Group Has Slide Show Of Rowan County

The Morehead Tourism Commission has prepared a fifty 35-mm slide presentation of tourist attractions and activities which is available for use by civic, professional, and other groups.

These slides, according to Tourism Director Reuel Buchanan, include Cave Run Lake - with scenes of fishing, camping, and limestone palisades - but also historical sites in the county.

Not only is Rowan County shown, but surrounding areas are shown to enable tourists to spend more than one day in our area in order to visit and view many points of interest not available in their locale.

This slide presentation may be borrowed by your organization through contacting Reuel Buchanan, Morehead Tourism Commission, Telephone No. 606-784-6221, or by writing him at P.O. Box 66, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

Vocational Education Week

Every year about this time we take a look at a segment of our educational system that is becoming more important and necessary all the time: Vocational and technical education.

The week of Feb. 8-14 has been officially proclaimed National Vocational Education Week.

It seems to us that everyone should know how to do something with their hands, even if they enter the professions where such knowledge may not be required. There is so much satisfaction in fixing something, in making repairs, in building, sewing, whatever.

The theme for the week is "Vocational Education: Know How For The '80s" and that seems rather appropriate. If you have tried to find a person with the right "know how" lately, you may just agree.

Anyway, during this special week we thought you might take the opportunity to visit a vocational program or school near you, or just make an effort to learn more about what vocational education is all about.

Education isn't like it used to be, and we think you'll like the way things are being done today. Join us in saluting our vocational programs.

President's Rights

Some right-wing Republicans are turning on their own man, Ronald Reagan, because of his alleged failure to appoint enough conservatives.

The whole thing is silly in the first place, because Reagan, whose conservative credentials are unquestioned, would hardly appoint men and women who would be likely to sabotage his efforts.

Second, it is one thing to be outside the White House, waging an ideological war. It is another to be inside, trying to run the country.

From the perspective of the insider, no matter how conservative, it may be more important to put a competent man in the job than a loyal conservative.

This is not to say there are not competent conservatives; there are a great many, and Reagan has hired them by the bushel load. It just so happens that the best person for the job may not always be so right-of-center as Sen. Jesse Helms, a man who apparently believes he has the right to dictate the President's choice of assistants.

S. C. Van Curen

Agree Or Not...

FRANKFORT — Gov. John Young Brown Jr. has a good start on setting a record for being the most-traveled chief executive the state has ever had, but that's what he promised the electorate when he ran for office in 1979.

The young business wizard who spread the fast food franchise of Kentucky Fried Chicken world-wide in a few short years promised he would run Kentucky like a business and merchandise its products and its capabilities.

Since he took office in December 1979, he has been one of the state the equivalent of 53 full 24-hour days, records in the Secretary of State's office revealed last week. The record runs from Dec. 15, 1979 to Jan. 22, 1981.

There is only one full calendar month during that time that he wasn't out of the state and that was last June when the Brown's baby was born by state. When the governor is out of the state, the lieutenant governor becomes acting governor and draws the equivalent of the governor's salary plus the salary of being lieutenant governor. The governor's pay is calculated at $5.13 per hour on the basis of a 24-hour day which amounts to $45,000 per year. The lieutenant governor's salary is $38,640 per year and is adjusted annually under recent legislation to provide for inflation and cost of living increases.

For special adjustment commission for this is scheduled to meet February 2. The governor's salary will remain at $45,000 until Dec. 11 this year when it moves to $50,000 by state.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has filed two vouchers with the Finance Department for pay while acting governor. She files a voucher about every six months, the records show. She filed her first claim to cover the period beginning Dec. 15, 1979 to May 21, 1980 for 867 hours at $5.35 per hour or a total of $4,647.71. The governor was not out of the state in June 1980. The next claim was filed to cover the period of July 1, 1980 to Sept. 17, 1980 for 396.5 hours or $2,028.58.

The governor's office files a report with the Secretary of State giving the time he expects to leave the state on a trip, and he files another report when he returns to the state. The time is calculated at the state's borders and not when he leaves or arrives in Frankfort.

If the lieutenant governor and governor are both out of the state, then the secretary of state serves as governor and then the present problem of the Senate is next and then down to the speaker of the House.

Secretary of State Frances Jones Mills has served as governor for short stints during this time.

Gov. Brown has set one record already. He is the first to live outside Frankfort permanently while governor since the early days of statehood. He and his wife bought a home in Fayette County and live there since the governor's mansion here was declared hazardous by the State Fire Marshall's office. Phyllis George Brown is now heading a citizens' committee, Save the Mansion, to raise funds privately to refurbish the place.

Brown spends a lot of time at his home in Fayette County and keeps in contact with the governor's office by telephone. He also commutes from his home to the Capitol by state-owned helicopter a portion of the time. He maintains his time outwages the cost of the plane for his purpose.

Here is Brown's record for being out of the state as filed in the Secretary of State's office:

Letter To The Editor

The Editor:
Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm. Hats off to the SAE, Frat and student body of MSU who boosted the team and finally the crowd and fans to a super win over Middle Tennessee last Thursday. Support from the crowd staff and team, the MSU team and coaches need more of when playing at home — winning or losing.

It was a pleasant surprise to see the crowd and school get behind the team and fire them up. These young men and coaches have devoted a lot of hard work in preparation and deserve this support shown — every, every game. Did not the team show you what they enjoyed playing with — the enthusiasm from the fans? Yes, they sure did, with a one point win.

It is so easy to back a winner but a true fan supports his team, win or lose. Come on out and get behind Coach Martin and his coaching staff and team and back them. Now! They certainly need your enthusiasm and support.

Tax Tips

Each year taxpayers receive money from many different sources. The question we are always asked is whether the money is taxable. This article will deal with various items that are taxable and will also include some that are not taxable.

All prizes and awards given to an employee by an employer or won by a taxpayer in a luck drawing, drawing, television or radio quiz game, or any other event is taxable and must be included as income on your tax return.

Any money received for jury duty or received from being a notary public or an election precinct official is also taxable.

Any hobby income is taxable. However, any loss from a hobby is not deductible.

Workers' Compensation received due to injury or illness on the job is not taxable. However, any amounts received from your employer while you are sick or injured are taxable. This amount will be taxable whether you were paid directly from the company, welfare fund, or an insurance company.

While sick pay is taxable, any money received as damages for personal injury, such as an auto car or truck and make a profit, then that profit is taxable. If you lose money on the sale of a personal item, the loss can not be deducted.

To Those Who Know Her The Best 'Miss Mae' Is 'Mom'

Mrs. Mae Goodpaster pets her playful dog, "Rusty," at her home in Owingsville. Mrs. Goodpaster, affectionately known as "Mom" throughout the region, has been blind since 1951. Her determination to be able to manage life independently has served as an inspiration to many and her 80th birthday on Jan. 22 was proclaimed "Miss Mae Day" in Owingsville to honor the occasion. OWINGSVILLE — Nearly 30 years of darkness hasn't blackened the illumine spirit of Bath County's Mae Goodpaster.

At age 80, the incredible Mrs. Goodpaster glows with the spiritual strength and courage that has carried her stoically through almost three decades of total blindness.

"It's nice to be 80," said a cheerful Mae Goodpaster from her easy chair in her tiny living room on Bath Avenue. And her 80th birthday was indeed a nice day celebrated before and after her actual birthday on Jan. 22 with a series of parties.

"The day itself was proclaimed 'Miss Mae Day' in Owingsville by Mayor Robert Gilmore.

And the night before there was a party at the Church of God at which she received a push-button radio.

"I had six cakes in all," chirped Miss Mae, "and on the Monday following, thirty-two friends, including some from Maryland, came in and had supper with me."

"Miss Mae," as she is affectionately known or "Mom" as she says those who know her best call her, enjoys cooking and managing for her herself in her two-bedroom home where she lives alone with her little black dog, "Rusty."

Widowed nine years ago, she doesn't feel alone, however, and is comfortable with the fact that the neighbors keep a constant watch on her and that her multitude of friends as well as her brother and three sisters phone frequently to see that all is well.

Even "Rusty" doesn't quieten her shrill bark when someone enters the house until she is confident no harm will come to her mistress.

Miss Mae's journey through blindness carries an inspirational message to those who have been fortunate enough to come in contact with her.

She relates her story of self-sufficiency and amazing independence in a matter-of-fact manner but there is a sponky strength that seeps through her conversation.

Blind Since 1951

It was during a three-day period of October 1951 that Miss Mae became blind, almost overnight as a result of acute glaucoma.

"I didn't even know I had it," she said, of her horrifying experience. "It was an awful blow," she continued. "I cried until there were no more tears."

When her tears were spent, Miss Mae set out with solid determination to face her sudden affliction in the way she knew best.

She turned to the Lord.

"I prayed a lot for the Lord to help," she said. "I asked Him to help me through this and then I set out to learn to do things for myself."

And she did. "I had to learn a new sense of direction," she said. "People couldn't point me, I had to find my own way."

Miss Mae found her own way into performing the little things in life that those with eyesight take for granted.

"It took me a year to learn to fry an egg and make a cup of coffee," Miss Mae said.

"But now I can cook almost anything and I've never made a dish I couldn't eat," she said. "I enjoy entertaining and people say it's good what I cook," she added.

Miss Mae says she has a busy schedule to fill her days.

Having been reared on a farm, she's an early riser usually getting up by 5 a.m.

"By six, I've already had breakfast," she said. "I'm just an old Kentucky farm girl and I like to get up early."

Miss Mae also likes to care for some 50 potted plants.

"I know by touch what's in every pot. In the summer I put them out on the porch and people tell me what colors are in bloom," she said.

"I really grow my flowers for other people to see. It's my way of telling people to never give up if way of telling people to see their way. I hope they get the message," she interjected.

"I also have my housework to do and my clothes to wash and I help people with their problems," she said.

"I always tell them to be as cheerful as possible and be a good listener. I say, 'everything God asks me to do with the help of Christ who gives me the strength and power.'"

"Some people are nervous," she continued, "I try to listen quietly and calm them down and I tell them to treat others like they would like to be treated and try to make it work."

Call From Charles Colson

Miss Mae has referred to scripture for countless callers, but there is one phone call last April that she will never forget.

That was when she picked up the phone and a voice on the other end said "Good morning, Mae, this is Chuck Colson."

The call from the prominent Watergate figure and now author of two religious books came about in this way:

Lucille Rawlings had read to me Colson's book, Born Again, said Miss Mae.

"I was so impressed with the book that I dictated a letter to Lucille to him and then he called."

Miss Mae says her 35-minute conversation with Colson from his Washington, D.C., office was a thrilling experience.

"He talked to me as if we had grown up together and he said he was going to bring his wife and come see me," she smiled.

"I can do everything God asks me to do with the help of Christ who gives me the strength and power."

"I quoted some scripture to him," she continued. "Imagine me quoting scripture to someone who had all those degrees and was known all over the world. He's a awfully nice person."

The phone conversation was followed with a gift from Colson to Miss Mae through the mail.

It was an autographed copy of his second book, Life Sentence.

On the inside flap Colson has written a message to his Kentucky friend:

"To Mae, God Bless, You and thank you for your help and inspiration to me — Chuck C. Phil 4-11-81."

The Biblical reference from the Book of Philippians seems appropriate for Miss Mae. Paraphrased from The Living Bible, it reads:

"Not that I was ever in need, for I have learned how to get along happily whether I have much or little."

"I know how to live on almost nothing with everything. I have learned the secret of contentment in every situation, whether it be a full stomach or hunger, plenty or want, for I can do everything God asks me to do with the help of Christ who gives me the strength and power."

Morehead Auto Parts May Be In New Site As Early As March 1

Morehead Auto Parts will be operating out of a brand-new location as soon as its new warehouse facility is completed and the inventory from the old store is moved.

Thomas Moore, owner of the company, will move his business to a new location three miles north of I-64, just off of KY 32 behind the Lyons Sawmill & Equipment Co.

Moore said the move should be completed within the next 30 days, as a

March 1 opening day is tentatively scheduled.

Morehead Auto Parts employees have been working on the scheduled move for the past two months, said Moore. He added construction of the new facility and the actual inventory movement have been hampered by the weather, thus putting the opening date behind schedule somewhat.

Morehead Auto Parts is presently located in a 1,200 square foot building and 19-acre lot three miles east of Morehead on US 60.

Moore said the new warehouse facility will contain 5,000 square feet of space. Ten acres of surrounding land has also been purchased to accommodate wrecked cars.

The primary reasons for the move are space and a better location, according to Moore.

The new warehouse facility will almost be five times as large as the old building and will consist of a huge warehouse and a sales area. Moore said the warehouse will make it possible for 90 percent of the auto salvage parts to actually be racked and inventoried in the new facility. Presently, due to space, 90 percent of parts are still on the wrecked cars outside the old location. Moore said he also has plans to use some of the huge warehouse space as a tripping location, thus eliminating weather as a factor in his business.

Moore said he expects the business to grow more because of the move. He noted the population growth outward on KY 32 is a factor in this expectation.

"We're looking for a lot more business," he said. The relocation and further expansion of Morehead Auto Parts will also mean a few jobs.

Presently, Morehead Auto Parts employs four full-time people.

"We'll be adding at least two more men," said Moore.

Moore said once the relocation is complete, Morehead Auto Parts will rival any late model auto parts dealer in eastern Kentucky.

"It will be one of the most modern in eastern Kentucky," said Moore about the new warehouse facility.

Morehead Auto Parts went in to business in April of 1974. Besides Moore, who owns the company, it is run by Thomas Shafer, who serves as the general manager. The business specializes in late model automobile parts.

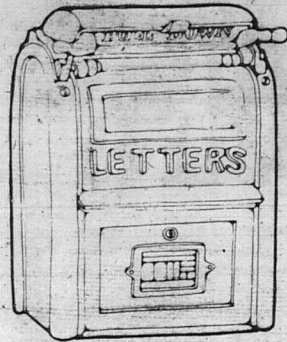

This is the new warehouse facility of Morehead Auto Parts located three miles north of I-64 on KY 32 and behind the Lyon Sawmill and Equipment Co. The new 5,000 square foot facility will be one of the most modern in eastern Kentucky when it opens for business sometime near March 1. Morehead Auto Parts owner Thomas Moore is moving his business from its present location on US 60 east to the new place for space and location purposes.
