Rambling Thru Williba

Things Are Peaceful With Fox Hunts, Women Fussing And The Usual Beer Drinking

By Clemmie Holtz

Certainly it's been nothing but a happy around Williba this week. Everybody's got their labors housed and the able ones have 'bout all gone to Michigan to pick apples. I aimed to go pick apples but Kelly Gross slipped off with his truck load of fellers and I have to stay here and teach school while everybody else picks apples and gets rich. Everybody one and there ain't much of nobody for nothing to happen to. Since it was so quiet, Mom Creech laid down on the couch and was snoring great big when one of the younguns came in and let her see the screen door slammed as it would as all younguns do. The noise waked Mom so suddenly that she fell from the couch and hurt her shoulder and hip pretty bad. She grunts a right smart as she walks along now. Two her little ducks were sleeping under Quentin Giamini's car and they got killed good whenever he started the car to leave. Can't understand how these ducks didn't wake up when Quentin started his car. It roars the biggest of any car around here.

Coursey Gabbard's cattle caught the pink eye and he is having a time getting them to see good again. He made him a quart an ou'n a river cane and he squirts medicine into his cattle's eyes. A ting won't hardly let you open her eye to squirt nothing in it. I had an old hen to die, she had been tolerable pure for a day or two. A car ran over the hen and she had little and injured it. Mrs. Red Fox visited Verna Kadak's duck yard and caught his big old drake. The fox couldn't eat all the drake and she couldn't jump the fence with what was left, so she just left it for the next night. But the next night Verna got mad and shot the steel trap. He caught Mrs. Fox and him and the dogs killed her. She never's killed poor Alonzo since the first dog yet and it was the first time he ever attacked a fox. The fox liked to have got the best of him before the other dogs woke up and came to the rescue. Ben Creech, Nick Houndsbill, G. L. Deaton and Jess Jewell were setting traps on the ridge above Rock, Holler enjoying a

Test Devised To Detect Some Heart Ailments

Possible development of a new and simple test for detecting certain borderline heart attacks was described this week by New York doctors.

The usual method is to employ an instrument known as electrocardiograph which detects electrical impulses from the heart.

Bad growing weather is cutting production of food crops and raising the prices of some fruits and vegetables.

Cooper Charges Democrats Neglected Kentucky's Natural Resources For 20 Years

Senator John Sherman Cooper charged the Democrats with 20 years of gross neglect of Kentucky's resources in his campaign opening address Monday evening at Lexington.

Representatives from this and other counties in this area heard Kentucky's junior senator attack the Democrats for contributing to the recession in the coal fields.

The Somerset Republican, who is opposing former Vice President Alben W. Barkley of Paducah, opened his bid for a full six-year term before a crowd that jammed the Fayette Circuit Court room.

On his development program, Sen. Cooper said: "Kentucky has the human and natural resources to make it one of the most prosperous states in the union, and many private and public organizations are making heroic efforts to make use of those resources."

"Why, then, is Kentucky near the bottom of the scale as far as its development is concerned?" "One reason is just this: "For the last 20 years, we have not had at Washington a plan carefully worked out by the state's Democratic representatives in Congress, nor have they fought to move Kentucky forward."

"The Congressional representatives of other states seized the chance to develop their resources. But what has been done for Kentucky for development of the coal industry, for example."

"You know the answer, I charge that representatives of the Democratic Party have not cared for the domestic needs of our state."

"Neglect of the coal industry, he said, was 'a tragic example, citing that the Truman administration had no plan to aid the industry in the slowdown that followed the end of the war.' "I initiated," he declared, "the formation of a committee to represent the soft-coal industry. At my request, the President appointed a governmental coal committee to work out with the industry committee methods to increase coal production by 100,000,000 tons."

"I initiated this program. I ask the people who live and work in the coal sections of Kentucky to give me the chance to continue my work to help you, by returning me to the Senate."

On waterways, Sen. Cooper stated that development was a slow and costly process—"great dams can not rise overnight, or even in a few years"—but that nothing can be accomplished unless a senator carries forward year after year.

"These plans can not be completed at once. But, in two years, we have made a substantial beginning on every river in Kentucky."

"The candidate pointed out that money was available for a reservoir of the Big Sandy, that three high-level dams were planned on the Ohio, that money was appropriated for the Green, and for planning of Barkhorn Reservoir on the Kentucky, and that he would insist that future dams on the Cumberland control locks.

Also, he said, he would insist on a feasible method to move freight past Wolf Creek Dam.

"This is the record of real progress on the development of our rivers," he said. "I shall continue to seek Kentucky's fair share of the great national development program which this administration is undertaking, but always within the framework of a reasonable national budget."

Urges Employing Physically Handicapped
Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby urged Kentuckians to co-operate with the Committee of Employment of the Physically Handicapped Oct. 3 to 9, which also has been designated as "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week."

"Many Kentuckians are conscious of their obligation to the handicapped and desire to afford them every opportunity to become self-sustaining and thus prosperous and happy as full-fledged, responsible citizens," the Governor declared in a proclamation.

According to a combined report of the Departments of Commerce and Labor, the boom in construction which started in June, continued through August. Expenditures in that month set a new record of $3,600,000,000.

SAFE ROBBERY THWARTED

Robbery of this safe in the business office at Morehead State College was stopped in the nick of time Thursday morning. Note that two thirds up the center the crackman had drilled a hole, inserted small funnel and filled the space down to the handkerchief, near bottom, with nitroglycerine. The cake of dynamite soap was used to seal the explosive inside the seam. The nitro was in the medicine bottle, lower front, while the rober had dynamite caps in the beer can. He was connecting the fuses for putting off the charge. Two previous charges had tipped front plates of the safe. The nitroglycerine had also seeped hammer, wrecking bar, electric drill and bits and flashlights. Note the safe combination at lower center, torn off by a previous thief. (See Story On Page One)

Ex-Moreheadian Is Honored By Railway Express

William H. Havens, former Moreheadian, and brother of Frank Havens, Morehead businessman, has been named of Indianapolis, Ind. by the American Railway Express Company for 50 years' obstinate and faithful service.

Mr. Havens started with Adams Express in Morehead on July 1, 1904 when the late A. E. Miller was company agent. Since that time the express' business has grown from a small operation to large haulers of merchandise and shipments.

Indianapolis Superintendent E. E. Marshall presented Mr. Havens with an engraved gold watch at an employees party in his honor. President A. L. Mammill, New York, sent a telegram of congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Havens reside at 929 North Rural Street, Indianapolis.

Optimism to be warranted, must be based on intelligent appraisal, and not on super-heated but air, as is often the case in sales departments.

150,000 Register At Carter Caves Park

Kentucky's state parks registered record-shattering attendance figures during the last fiscal period, bettering last year's attendance by almost 10 per cent.

In a report issued by Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward, an estimated 3,573,000 persons visited the state's 24 parks and shrines during the 1953-54 fiscal year. The figure for 1952-53 was 3,261,200. The current figure is almost ten times the estimated attendance at state parks in 1947-48, when an expanded park system was just being started by the state. The figure for that year was 373,569.

Kentucky Dam Village, Gilbertville, continued to be the most-visited park in the system with some 1,250,000 visitors. This figure includes visitors to Kentucky Dam, Kentucky Lake State Park, near Hardin, attracted 650,000 guests, and Cumberland Falls State Park, Corbin, ranked third in the system with approximately 325,000 visitors during the year.

Attendance at other parks was listed as follows: Audubon, 100,000; Blue Licks, 20,000; General Butler, 225,000; Carter Caves, 150,000; Columbus-Belmont, 15,000; Jefferson Davis, 6,000; Lev J. Jackson, 45,000; Lincoln Homestead, 10,000; Lake Cumberland, 50,000 and My Old Kentucky Home, 150,000.

Natural Bridge, 155,000; Penny-rile, 95,000; Pine Mountain, 25,000; Pioneer Memorial, 70,000; Dr. Thomas Walker, 12,000; Constitution Square, 5,000; William Whitley House, 10,000; Old Mulkey Meeting House, 5,000; Isaac Shelby, 3,000; Perrville, 8,000; and Cherokee, 25,000.

Farmers Eligible For 'Water' Loans

Loans for farmstead water supplies and irrigation systems will be available throughout the United States, and soil conservation loans will be available as soon as detailed instructions are ranked out, Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson announced today.

Credit for farm irrigation systems and farmstead water supplies has been available in the 17 Western States since 1937. Legislation recently passed by Congress extended the water facility loans to the entire United States, authorized the new soil conservation loans and provided government insurance for water facility and soil conservation loans advanced by private lenders.

The new soil and water conservation loan program, which included both water facilities and soil conservation work, was authorized by Public Law 597, 83rd Congress, and will be handled by the Farmers Home Administration.

This legislative measure is of extreme importance to American farmers, Secretary Benson said. "It will advance the conservation of our soil and water resources, help farmers and ranchers make good use of land diverted from the production of surplus crops, and enable many more farmers to develop irrigation, and thus provide themselves with insurance against the hazards of drought."

Soil and water conservation loans may be made from funds supplied by private lenders and insured by the Government or from funds appropriated by Congress. Loans from appropriated funds will be made only when insured funds are available. Loans, either direct or insured, will only be made when the applicant is unable to obtain the credit he needs at reasonable rates and terms from other sources. The Farmers Home Administration is authorized to insure loans up to a total of $25,000,000 each fiscal year. In addition, for fiscal 1955, the Congress appropriated $11,500,000 for this type of assistance. Private lenders will receive a return of 4 per cent on insured loans; in addition the borrower will pay one per cent for insurance. Loans from appropriated funds carry an interest rate of 5 per cent. Applications for all loans, insured or direct, will be made at the county offices of the Farmers Home Administration. The Farmers Home Administration will process and collect the payments on both insured and direct loans. The 3-member county committees of the Farmers Home Administration will certify the eligibility of applicants. Applications from veterans will receive preference.

Loan funds may be used to pay the cash costs for materials, equipment and services directly related to the application of measures for soil conservation, water development, conservation and use, and drainage. This will include the construction and repair of terraces, dikes, ditches, ponds and tanks, the establishment and improvement of permanent pasture, basic application of lime and fertilizer, tree planting, well drilling, and the purchase of pumps and other irrigation equipment. Loans will be made to carry out only the types of soil and water conservation projects that are recommended by the Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

Soil and water conservation loans will not be available for general applications of fertilizers in the production of corn, cotton and other crops or for any other recurring costs that are generally considered as farm operating expense.

To be eligible for a soil and water conservation loan, a farmer must have sufficient experience or training to be able to conduct reasonable prospects of conducting successful farming operations and be unable to obtain the necessary credit on reasonable terms and conditions from private and cooperative sources.

The new Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention act is designed to promote closer cooperation between federal, state and local interests. It provides for flood control programs on small watersheds and conservation of the cropland and soils along such watersheds.

Revenue Bonds

West Virginia is the state closest to Kentucky with a revenue bond issue in the mill. That state has sold $5,000,000 for new facilities. Virginia has had a number of vacation cottages several years ago through revenue bonds.

The Kentucky Commissioner said all the states are interested in securing their share of the U.S. $15,000,000,000 tourist industry and are developing their plans accordingly. Kentucky is considering issuing $3,500,000 in revenue bonds for facilities at General Butler, Carter Caves, Dewey Lake, Pine Mountain and several other parks. Other Kentuckians at the park's meeting were Tom Wallace, editor for emeritus of the Louisville Times who is chairman of the board of the Conference, and Clinton Johnson, superintendent of the Otter Creek area near Louisville.

Chain also contends that such a highway actually helps such businesses as existing mail routes through increased traffic, on the old route. 309 Attend Meeting Of Cooperative

String Band Wins First Place In Farm Talent Contest

Approximately 309 members of Southern States Cooperative and their families and friends in the Morehead area heard reports of their Cooperative's service to the 1953-54 fiscal year which ended June 30, at their local annual membership meeting held recently at Morehead.

In addition to the report given by District Manager Tommy Combs, members were elected to the Advisory Board and the Farm Home Advisory Committee.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the Farm Talent Round-Up Contest which was sponsored jointly by Rowan Farmers Supply and Southern States Cooperative with the Original Amateur Hour Television Show of Radio City, New York, cooperating. There were five acts entered in the contest.

According to Combs, the more than 283,000 members of the Cooperative, in its six-state operating territory, put through their organization $144,000,000 worth of purchasing and marketing volume during the 1953-54 fiscal year. The Cooperative's net worth was given as over $28,000,000.

W. T. Garay, manager of Rowan Farmers Supply gave the report on local operations and service.

Elected to the local Advisory Board were: William M. Perkins and C. H. Stinson, both of Morehead.

Elected to the local Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Elmer Kinder, Morehead; and Mrs. James Kidd, Farmers.

Winners of the Farm Talent Round-Up Contest were: First prize—went to a string band composed of Lowell Markwell, Miss Naomi Lambert, Norman Wallace and William M. Fugate all of Clearfield; second prize—went to Miss Kathleen Kidd, Farmers, who presented singing with piano; third prize—went to Miss Judy Black, Elliottville, who presented singing on piano.

The top local act to receive an all-expense paid trip to a district elimination contest will compete with winning acts from other communities. The two winners at each of nine district elimination contests will be given an all-expense paid trip to the Southern States Cooperative's annual membership meeting in

Living Witness
 Lesson for September 26, 1954

AGAINST the Stream" is the title of a recent book by Karl Barth. The title means to suggest that Christian living has to be against the stream of a great deal of what the world thinks and admires. Many people think that Christian faith simply helps a man to do better what everybody in the world wants to do. Men want success, money, power, prestige; and "being a Christian" helps one to get these things faster. No, that is not it. What Christ came into a life, that life, Dr. Foreman will not have the same aims as before. The Christian does not swim with the world-stream, only faster. He has to swim upstream.

Redeeming the World
 What a Christian is and does, is determined both by the kind of world we see around us, and the kind of God we have above us and, at the world, we can see two facts about it which are pretty unpleasant, but true. Poets and policemen know these things are true, even if a lot of us try to dodge the facts. One is: the world is flat and tasteless, especially (strange as it may seem) to the very persons who try their hardest to "get a kick" out of life. The other is: the world is decadent, which is a polite word for rotten. (The Bible word is corrupt, which means the same thing.) In such a world Christians are called on to be different. Jesus' words about salt and light will always be remembered by Christians. They are expected to give taste and zest to a stale world; to keep a rotting world from decaying entirely. As light they are to bring to the world what sunlight does to dark cold places. Christians are to share in God's work of redeeming the world, just by being different from the world, not merely different, like sand in the soup, but savingly different, like salt.

'God's Attack on Man'
 A crank-sided philosopher once called Christianity God's attack on man. That is both a long way from the truth, and close to it, depending on how you take it. It is a long way from the truth that God so loved the world that he gave his only Son; a long way from the prophet's saying that God desires not the death of the wicked, but rather that he shall turn from his way and live (Ezekiel 33:11). Christianity is all that happens when God comes to the rescue of man. On the other hand, there is something in man that God does have to attack. When a swimmer starts to drown, and the life-saver goes in after him, one of the first things the life-saver may have to do is to knock the fellow out. A drowning man will fight his rescuer and sometimes only a knock-out will save him. Now the world, that is to say the world outside of God, is a hostile world. It carries on a kind of war against God. It does not ask for help, it is proud, self-satisfied. It always associates God with what is unpleasant or cruel, such as death or disaster. God does have to attack man's pride. His self-justification, his mental slandering of God himself. God does not need to be reconciled to man, but man does need to be reconciled to God. So the business of the Christian is to give testimony to this. As Paul puts it, the Christian is an ambassador for Christ, a messenger of reconciliation.

When Love Controls
 So the Christian is expected to be a living witness, both in what he is and in what he says. Could a real Christian be perfectly content with being "saved" himself, without worrying over other people in the least? If ever there had been a generation of such self-centered Christians, our religion would have died out. One thing is certain: as a witness, no one is convincing if his attitude to his lost contemporaries is one of scorn. The effective witness, in word or in life, comes from the heart moved by the same compassion that only Jesus fully had, and only he can inspire. The growing Christians, the contagious Christians, the witnessing Christians, have always been those who could say as Paul did: The love of Christ controls us.

The state's armories are not subject to be licensed by local authorities as a business when used for "social function," however, outside groups using such armories would be subject to city license fees. You get to and from the field FAST without blade wear...

This disc is carried by the Ford Tractor instead of merely dragged along behind. You can get to the field fast. To raise and lower the disc or adjust its cutting depth simply touch the Ford Tractor Hydraulic Control lever. Quick and easy!

Quick Adjusting—You can change the angle of the disc gangs quickly and easily from the tractor seat. Rear gangs can be adjusted to cut deeper or shallower than the front gangs—to get just the discing action you want.

Deep Cutting—The flexible frame is built exceptionally strong and heavy. This puts more weight on the discs so they will cut deeper—pulverize better—break up clods—prepare better seed beds.

Flexible Frame—permits gangs to follow ground contours for smoother discing. Wide range of adjustments of angle of gangs permits level discing in all soil conditions. You can prepare smoother seed beds with the Dearborn Adjusto-Flex Harrow.

Come in and look over this new harrow. Try it out at your convenience.

Tax Collections In State Are Up 1 Percent

Collections totaling $29,562,392 for July and August into the State Treasury—an increase of 4 per cent over the same period of 1933—were reported by the Department of Revenue and Finance. Both general and road funds showed substantial increases, while earmarked funds, such as federal grants, showed a substantial decline.

General revenue from all sources totaled $13,531,075 of which the fund accounted for $5,600,478—an increase of approximately 40 per cent over August, 1933—and attributable primarily to higher levies on beer and wine. Individual income tax receipts rose 44 per cent over last year, which was attributed to payment of second installments in 1933 income tax by more persons than last year. Road fund receipts for the month were $3,978,445—an increase of 43 per cent.

SHORT STORY

First Fish

By Patricia Marsh

"FISHING is an art, boy," Benjie had heard Uncle Bill say that at least a million times, he guessed. But he still hadn't learned the art. As any rate, he still hadn't caught his first fish. Benjie had been up at day-break that first day. He was going to catch a fish for breakfast. It was four hours later, long after breakfast that his small figure, looking even smaller came into the house dragging one foot after the other with great effort. They didn't have to ask it. It was written plainly on his dust streaked face.

"Well, shucks," Uncle Bill said. "It takes time, Benjie, boy, can't learn the first day." He bought dozens of magazines on the art of angling, the proper type of equipment, and all the finer points of becoming a successful fisherman. He had boasted to the boys at school that he would send them pictures of his strings of fish.

"Strings!" Benjie kicked at a rock by the river. "I'd give anything for just one fish."

"Here, Benjie, take this pole of mine and try your luck," Uncle Bill brought out his own special outfit. Benjie felt a lump crawl up into his throat. He knew how much Uncle Bill valued his fishing.

"No thanks, Uncle Bill," Benjie said. "I guess I'll give up fishing for a while." He shoved his hands into the pockets of his blue jeans and dragged his feet ever to look at the horses.

The next morning Benjie again shouldered the fishing pole and with but little spring to his step, he stepped out toward the river. "Benjie," Uncle Bill called. "You try that little pool by the old mill. The one under the willows where it's nice and quiet. That may be just the spot."

It was nearly dinner time when Benjie came running up the line to the white house. He was trying to be calm, but his face was shining and his eyes sparkled. He held up a good size fish and grinned all over.

Aunt Peg took the fish and said Benjie she would fix it for his dinner. But not until after Uncle Bill had taken a picture of a proud boy and his first fish. While Benjie was washing up, Uncle Bill whispered to Aunt Peg, "Now don't you ever let on that you know I put some fish in that pond. It would break the boy's heart to know I kinda tricked him."

After dinner, the most delicious dinner Benjie could ever remember, he helped Aunt Peg clean up the kitchen. He came close to her and said in a loud whisper, "Aunt Peg, don't tell Uncle Bill, but I didn't fish in the pool he told me to. Heck, I've tried it a million times. There's no fish there. But I wouldn't want him to think I didn't take his advice. You know what a good fisherman he is."

Aunt Peg dried her hands on her apron, gave Benjie a warm hug. "I promise, honey," she said. "Everyone has secrets sometimes."

Mama's working man has been saved by having a sense of humor, when the strain otherwise would have become unbearable.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

It would be too tragic, but it is true that the average citizen who stays up late at night in private fields, comes under the influence of the law. The only remedy is to go to bed. When President Eisenhower recently signed the Johnson Compromise bill as passed by the recent Congress.
