Carroll Attacks Handling Of Past Program 'Excessives'

Former Gov. Julian Carroll arrived almost one-half hour late at the sixth annual Gateway Area Development District Dinner Friday night at the Morehead State University Adron Doran University Center.

But, to the delight of the crowd, he was very much "on time" with the remarks he made during a speech that was critical of both the John Y. Brown Administration and Ronald Reagan Administration for numerous programs at the state and federal levels that have been cut or are expected to be cut.

Neither Brown nor Reagan was ever mentioned by name, but Carroll assailed both administrations for what he termed "overreacting" to program excessives and abuses of the past.

The tone for the evening was set as soon as Carroll stepped up to the podium to begin his presentation.

"I'm sorry I was a little late tonight — my helicopter wouldn't start," he quipped.

From that beginning, he went into a story about his small daughter being puzzled as to why the family would be making a trip shortly after he left office by automobile, instead of by the usual state-aircraft as she had become accustomed to. Carroll said he tried to explain to her that he was no longer governor and that the new governor, John Y. Brown had sold the airplane and bought a helicopter instead. When she wanted him to call Brown and ask him to let them use the helicopter, Carroll said he thought for a minute and then told her, "Well, we have to call George Atkins."

Light-hearted conversation continued for a while as Carroll informed the crowd as to what he has been doing since he left office one and one-half years ago.

He said that he has been watching a lot of television and "enjoying my family."

Former Governor Julian Carroll addressed a receptive audience Friday night at the 6th annual Gateway Area Development District Dinner.

Then he added, "I'm extremely concerned about the problems of the commonwealth, but I don't have to solve them anymore." He admitted, however, calling Brown on a few occasions to offer his opinion on an issue or two.

Carroll said he has been working on "two projects" since he left office in December 1979.

He said he and his 24-year-old daughter finished renovating an old civil war house in Frankfort last June completely by themselves after starting the project during the latter part of 1979.

Shortly after that, he said his 25-year-old son informed him that he and his wife wanted to build a house, so he got in on that project also beginning last fall.

Carroll said his son and daughter-in-law recently moved into that house, but the job was just about finished at 4:05 that day — when he completed hanging the garage door.

"As soon as I finish the wiring in the garage tomorrow, I'll be out of a job," he told the crowd.

"If anyone needs a garage door hung — call me," he said, adding, "I'm a good garage door hanger just like I was a good governor."

After the laughs had subsided, Carroll said, "It's a pleasure to be back in Morehead."

He said that during his 20 years in public office, he had made many speeches and never had any difficulty in deciding what to speak on.

"But, he admitted to the audience that he had given much thought during the last couple of weeks on what to say to the members of the Gateway Area Development District.

He said he had decided to address them on "something that was very much on my mind."

Carroll claimed that Kentuckians had recently witnessed the "most productive and progressive" administration in modern times that had laid many great foundations toward problem solutions. He then said these foundations are currently "eroding" but through no fault of any one particular individual.

Americans are inclined to excessive "thinks," he said in explaining what he believed was responsible for the recent circumstances.

"This generation knows not reservation... knows not reservations... And we're starting to pay," he said.

Carroll said his 16-year-old son will be leaving to go to Belgium on a basketball tour in the immediate future.

"I used to play basketball too, but nobody ever invited me to Belgium," said the former governor, who then

Announces Candidacy

Larry Breeze has announced that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for election as Rowan County Judge/Executive. (See paid political announcement page two.)

The expression on the face of Lady Viking coach Claudia Hicks and forward Debbie Dehart toward the end of the Pulaski County game pretty much summed up the feelings of all Rowan County fans and players. Despite losing to the eventual state champions 59-55, the Rowan County girls did reach the final four by upsetting Western Hills, 59-56, one of the tournament favorites, and beating Owensboro by the same score. A special photo layout on pages four and five recaps some of the tournament action which brought to a climax the best Rowan County basketball season in the high school's history. (Staff photo by J. Police Continue Probe Into Shooting

Morehead City Police continue to investigate details surrounding a Thursday night shooting that has left one local man in serious condition at a Lexington hospital.

Carl Lewis, 31, Rt. 3, Morehead, was shot in the chin Thursday night at approximately 10:35 at a Branham Avenue residence.

According to Police Chief Fred Barnsdale, the department received a call about the shooting from Buster Gay, 121 Branham Ave., at approximately 10:36 p.m. and two officers reposed arriving at the residence at 10:37 p.m.

Upon their arrival, Barnsdale said the officers found Lewis lying just inside the front door in a front room of the Gay residence.

An ambulance shortly arrived and transported him to St. Claire Medical Center and then to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington. According to police, the bullet apparently lodged itself near the spine after the initial entry.

Lt. Bob Wright was summoned to the scene to investigate the shooting. His investigation is still continuing.

According to Wright, Gay told police that Lewis appeared at his residence in a "fury" shouting obscenities at him. Wright said Gay told police he asked Lewis to leave, but the man refused and started to come at him when Gay, fearing for his safety, shot Lewis.

Wright said the two men knew each other, but were not personal friends. He said he called police, Gay telephoned authorities about the shooting from a neighbor's house.

'Great Clean Up' Nets 750 Bags Of Litter

If something seems amiss in your neighborhood, chances are that area was among the victims of "The Great Clean Up" attack.

Garbage, some 750 bags worth, has disappeared from Rowan County roadsides after the efforts of nearly 200 persons Saturday in the campaign to beautify the countryside.

Members of a variety of clubs and organizations as well as individuals representing their distaste for litter, worked throughout the day in areas deemed particularly bad by the Department of Natural Resources.

Spots covered, or actually uncovered, included Poppin Rock Tunnel, Clack Mountain, Ky. 801 and 799 and Eagle Lake.

This year's effort went beyond last year's, with 229 additional bags of garbage being collected.

The bags were expected to be removed from the roadsides yesterday by county garbage service and, at Cave Run Lake, U.S. Forest Service.

Prize winners, based on the most garbage collected, will be announced in Friday's edition. Cash prizes are being provided by Morehead's downtown merchants.

Bill Worrell of the Appalachian

Development Center, which co-sponsored the event along with the Morehead State University Environmental Studies Club, said most of the litter was "home generated" by "people who for various reasons don't want to pay to have garbage hauled off," and instead, "take it to the beautiful natural forest."

Worrell noted that one campaign isn't enough to clean up all litter in the county. "It would take every person in the community on an every day basis to get this done."

He said another "Great Clean Up" would be held later this year.

State Manpower Official Challenges MSU Faculty To Help Appalachia

Dr. John Wells, the commissioner of Manpower Services in the state Department of Human Resources, was the special guest speaker Thursday at a Morehead State University luncheon and forum hosted by President Morris Norfleet at the Adron Doran University Center.

Wells addressed a crowd consisting basically of university faculty members on problems facing eastern Kentucky in regard to manpower services and the role MSU can play in finding answers to remedy present and future conditions. The commissioner is a former MSU student having attended the university in the mid-1960s. He holds a doctorate degree from Rutgers University and previously has served as an aid to Sen. Wendell Ford.

Manpower Services is the job agency of state government," he said, adding his office is charged with the responsibility of "matching people with jobs" throughout the state.

According to Wells, the state agency has offices across the state and is responsible for operating 15 different programs, including the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program. This particular program is the largest run by his office, he said, stating that it is a $60 million program.

Wells admitted to the audience a particular "bias" which is evident in how he carries out his job. That bias is eastern Kentucky.

Wells said he and Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department of Human Resources made the decision when he assumed the state post "to give special attention to eastern Kentucky." Wells said that in the past, individuals from this part of the state have not been that successful in obtaining positions of influence in state government, resulting in far less frequent changes for the better.

He stated that it was his boyhood experiences growing up in Floyd County that has been responsible for asked those in the crowd how old they were before they ever left the state of Kentucky on a trip to further illustrate his point.

Carroll Attacks

Carroll admitted that while he knew some federal and state programs had been abused in the past and were inclined to excessives, the answer was not to do away with the programs completely as the present administrations want to do or have done.

He analogized this viewpoint with a parent "whipping a child too hard" after minor cases of misbehavior and then the parent wondering why he did it.

Carroll said the explanation was simply that the incident was an "overreaction" because the parent was "fed up" at the particular time.

He said that this is the case with the federal and state governments. They want to "whip the child" by doing away with services, instead of trying to curb the abuses, said Carroll.

"Our problem is overreacting to our problems," said Carroll about the current budget cuts that are threatening the elimination of programs, as well as progress made in the past in such areas as education.

Carroll noted that as of this year, not one single structure has been authorized to be built on any college campus in the state. He said this does not surely mean that there is not a need for any new buildings that would further enhance the educational opportunities available for citizens of the state.

Just because welfare and other programs have been abused in the past does not mean they should be eliminated, said Carroll. There is a need for such programs and the services they provide, but past abuses have currently created the present climate of overreaction, he added.

Carroll said the concentration should be put on containing the excessives — not on abolishing programs that have been abused.

He said the federal and state administrations have both been ignoring the crucial element that enables us to survive on a daily basis, namely productivity.

Productivity comes from the gainful employment of individuals, said the former governor.

He said, unfortunately, economic development is an area where it is easy to overreact, since program services provided to society cannot be measured as to their possible effects if terminated. Carroll said it was not as simple as flipping a light switch to determine if there is light or darkness.

He accused the federal and state administrations of bringing economic development to "a screeching halt," adding, "I'm deeply concerned about it."

He said money is not saved by putting things off, since whatever costs $1 today will cost $1.25 tomorrow.

He also ridiculed the so-called answer to the economic troubles being advocated as giving local governments more control over solving their own problems. Carroll said this would work in some areas such as metropolitan centers where more resources are available, but smaller communities are not equipped to tackle major problems.

without any outside aid.

He said this position was another reaction to the "excessives of the past."

Carroll noted the simplest advice he had for curing the economic illness of the nation was productivity fueled by employment.

He said for every one percent unemployment, it costs the federal government $1 billion.

Instead of paying out the $1 billion, why not put the one percent of unemployed people to work, asked Carroll.

Carroll expressed displeasure about the Reagan Administration's claim that nuclear power is the answer to the nation's energy problem, while scrapping synthetic fuel initiatives. He said America pays OPEC over $100 billion annually for crude oil and that the only way our country can respond is to take our coal and "squeeze all the crude we can get."

Carroll said the United States can compete against OPEC, but that the aid of the federal government is needed for development of the synthetic fuel program. He said while nuclear energy does have a place in the future, so does synthetic fuel and there was no reason why the two could not both be developed.

"The only thing we've got is coal," said Carroll, stressing his belief that it is the answer to the nation's problems.

All of the inflationary problems being faced in the United States today are the result of crude oil, Carroll claimed.

While Carroll professed not to know all the answers, he suggested that if there is an answer to the current economic problems, then it is moderation in programs and faith in what they have accomplished and can continue to accomplish.

He said he sincerely believed that many areas in Kentucky are better off today because of development districts and numerous other good governmental programs. He added that these areas will continue to become more better off with the survival of the programs, thus citizens have to retain faith in the programs for what they have done regardless of past abuses.

On the pessimistic state in Washington, D.C. and Frankfurt, Carroll promised, "We'll live through this one. Time to a great extent will cure some of the ills."

Carroll also said that despite how pessimistic it may seem, a great deal of progress has been made in eastern Kentucky and more should follow.

"I'm optimistic about our future," he said.

Shortly after the former governor's address, Sally Hamilton, deputy commissioner of the Department for Community and Regional Development, installed the new officers who will run the Gateway Area Development District for the 1981-82 fiscal year.

These new officers include Maxwell Henry, chairman; Gene Allen, first vice chairman; Harry Hoffman, second vice chairman; Larry Breeze, secretary; and David Clark, treasurer.

Other activities during the evening included the annual report presented by outgoing chairman State Senator Woodrow Stamper, D-West Liberty, as well as a short business meeting at the end of the dinner.

Stamper also served as the master of ceremonies for the evening quipping on one occasion, "I have been busy the past few days — you might have heard."

He, of course, was referring to the seven-week-old Hidden Valley trial being held in Lexington.

Stamper and Lexington real-estate broker Robert F. Link are on trial for extortion charges, as well as mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with the state's purchase of land at Hidden Valley in 1977.

Other highlights during the evening included entertainment by Morehead City Councilman Randy Wells. Wells sang a medley of Johnny Mathis songs, as well as several Elvis Presley songs and the hit by the Platters some years back "Only You." All songs were done with a country style.

Wells delighted the crowd by dedicating one song to Carroll and Dr. Morris Norfleet, before singing the Elvis Presley hit, "My Way."

Jim Templeton, the retiring executive director of the development district, was also honored during the evening with several gift presentations from the Gateway Area Development District staff.

Templeton also made the introduction of Carroll as the guest speaker at the dinner, calling him a former and "future" governor of the state of Kentucky.

After the dinner, Carroll said he did not "have a slightest idea" whether or not he will attempt to seek the governor's office or any other political offices in the immediate future. He said he has been very busy just spending time with his family.

Breeze Seeks Election As Rowan Judge/Executive

(Paid political announcement. Paid by candidate.)

Larry Breeze has announced that he is seeking the Democratic nomination for election to the office of Rowan County Judge/Executive.

A graduate of Morehead State University with a degree in business administration, Breeze has been a resident of Rowan County since 1964.

In addition to serving as magistrate on Rowan Fiscal Court, Breeze has also been president of the Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce.

He has been a member of the Gateway Area Development District board of directors and is currently serving as secretary to that board since 1984.

Breeze has been a real estate broker for the past nine years. He and his wife Peggy, sons, Mike, David and Jamie, and daughter, Lee Ann, reside at 505 Forest Hills Drive.

In making his announcement, Breeze said:

"While serving as president of the Chamber of Commerce, I helped estalish the industrial foundation that was responsible for attracting Browning Manufacturing, a division of Emerson Electric, and have continuously worked to bring in more industry and anything else that would benefit the citizens of the county.

"I feel that my previous business and government experiences will benefit me in dealing with other government agencies.

"I have been in the business since my graduation from MSU and I believe that with the trying times of the coming years, we are going to need someone in office with business experience as well as a person with the willingness to work with and for the people.

"I've never been one to believe in political promises, but one thing that I will pledge to do is to try my best.

"Your vote and support during the May primary election will be greatly appreciated."

Doing Their Litter Bit

Every year, Harold Ellington's seventh grade class takes to the outdoors to pick up litter along the road from the Haldeman School to U.S. 60. Above, this year's group of 20 students expected to fill 40 bags. Ellington noticed returnable bottles and recyclable cans are rare finds these days. Below, Bessie McGlothlin and Rosie Adkins, both of West Morehead, pitched in their effort during the Great Clean Up in Morehead and Rowan County Saturday. The two ladies worked along U.S. 60 west of Morehead. (Staff photos by Kathy Partin and Joe Lamb.)

Woman Robbed Of $5,700

State police are currently investigating the apparent robbery of a Powell County resident that netted two men approximately $5,700 in cash Saturday morning.

According to state police, two unknown suspects robbed Flossie Cambell at her residence in Campton across from the jail. The robbery report was received by state police at 7:31 a.m.

At the time of the robbery, Cambell reportedly had approximately $17,000 on her person.

State police currently have no description of either of the two suspects. However, authorities believe the two men are operating a black over red 1973 Ford Torino.

In other state police activity, detectives from the Morehead post are currently investigating several thefts and burglaries reported over the past few days. Ida Manley reported to state police on Sunday an apparent burglary of her residence approximately eight miles west of Owensville on KY 30 details as to what was taken are available.

Some tractor tires and wheels were reported stolen from a farm near the Manley for a residence also over the weekend.

Nancy Barker reported to state police Friday the theft of a lawn mower from her front porch. The Barker residence is located on KY 158 about two miles from KY 32 in Rowan County.

Also on Friday, Randy Atkins advised state police that someone had apparently broken into a house that he owns one-half mile from the post office at Stephens on KY 486.

A recent plate belonging to the vehicle of Kenneth Henderson was also stolen sometime prior to Friday in another Rowan County theft.

Menifee Wreck Injures Three

FRENCHBURG — Three persons were injured Saturday night in a two-vehicle accident four miles west of Frenchburg on US-460.

According to state police, a vehicle operated by Wayne D. Simpkins, 37, Manba, was attempting to pass another car driven by Robert Maloney, Mt. Sterling, when the Maloney automobile suddenly turned, striking the side of the Simpkins car.

Both vehicles were traveling east on US 460 at the time of the accident. Simpkins was admitted to St. Claire Medical Center for facial cuts suffered in the accident.

Two passengers in his car identified as Mary Jo Simpkins, 34, and Paul Simpkins, 7, were also treated at St. Claire for a broken arm and broken leg respectively.

All three are still patients at the hospital. Maloney was not injured in the mishap.

The 11:30 p.m. accident was investigated by Trooper Robert Faust.

Youth wrecks Car Into Home

A Saturday night one-vehicle accident 7.5 miles west of Morehead on KY 32 sent a Morehead youth to the hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the mishap.

According to the state police report, Sandy R. Gibbs, 17, Rt. 5, Morehead, received numerous facial cuts after his vehicle left the roadway at approximately 10 p.m. and struck the home of James Gilliam.

State police said considerable damage was done to the Gilliam home. However, the family was not home at the time of the accident.

Gibbs was admitted to St. Claire Medical Center after the accident, but was released on Sunday.

Woman Injured By Thrown Rock

A case of criminal mischief was apparently responsible early Sunday morning for sending a county woman to the hospital and causing a minor traffic accident.

Gary White reported to state police at 2:01 a.m. Sunday that two subjects through a rock through the windshield of his vehicle across from the Clearfield Church on KY 519.

The rock then apparently struck his wife, Carol, in the shoulder.

As the incident was evolving, White told state police he lost control of his vehicle and ran off the road coming to rest on the railroad tracks across from the church.

His wife was treated and released from St. Claire Medical Center for minor injuries received as a result of the incident.

Trooper Gene Moody investigated the complaint.

Police Report

Doris Daugherty, 56, Rt. 1 Flemingsburg, was arrested by Morehead City Police Sunday and charged with shoplifting. She allegedly shoplifted $21 worth of cosmetic items and candy from the Hecks Department Store on KY 32.

City police arrested two men on Main Street Thursday night for public intoxication. Arrested were Jeffrey McIntosh, 23, Clearfield, and Robin Wright, 22, Clearfield. McIntosh was also charged with carrying a concealed firearm after a search of his person allegedly revealed he was carrying a handgun.

Burn Index High Sunday

The area experienced its highest burn index rating in five or six years Sunday, according to Bruce Harris, district forester for the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

Harris explained the index as ranging from "one to infinity" and based on winds, humidity and temperature. For the past several years, the highest index rating has been 5 or 6. Sunday it was 8.

Up to 10 mile per hour winds created a real problem, Harris said. Fires jumped railroad right-of-ways and rural highways, he said.

Rowan County, three fires were reported by the Division as occurring on Saturday. One was located on the Rowan-Carter county line, the others on Christy Creek and Rt. 173. Additional information was not available.

While no fires were reported in the area Friday, reports started coming Saturday.

That day, Greenup had 5; Lewis, 4; Carter, 6; Rowan 2; Montgomery, 1; Elliott, 1; and Morgan 2. The total number of acres controlled for those counties was 340.

Sunday, there were 8 fires in Greenup; 2 in Lewis; 16 in Carter; 1 in Montgomery; Elliott and Fleming and 3 in Morgan. Harris said 2,390 acres were controlled.

John Ramey, U.S. Forest Service ranger, said there have been no fires in the Morehead district, unlike farther south in the Berea and Redbird districts.

Area Roads Will Get Resurfaced

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The state Transportation Department intends to resurface an additional 470 miles of state-maintained roads, including several in this area, this summer at an estimated cost of $16 million.

The department announcement follows an estimated $11 million resurfacing program announced last week that will affect 325 miles of state roads. Last year the department resurfaced about 584 miles of state roads at a cost of $21.3 million.

State Transportation Secretary Frank Metts said this year's effort is one of the state's largest in terms of dollars and miles.

The special bid-letting next month is possible only because the department has worked intensely over the last 15 months to cut administrative costs and get the most of road fund dollars, Metts said.

He said the additional money for road resurfacing will come from savings accumulated by the department by closing the merging maintenance and equipment garages, reducing planning activities, surplus equipment sales and disposing of unneeded right of way.

"We are saving approximately $55,000 each pay period just in personnel costs and we intend to return that to taxpayers in improved maintenance of state roads," Metts said.

Bids will be accepted in the department's Frankfort office on April 17.

Carter County - Willard-Dobbins (KY 486) Road from the Elliott County line to KY 1, a distance of 2.8 miles.

Fleming County - Flemingsburg-Carlisle (KY 32) Road from the Nicholas County line to KY 170, a distance of 6.6 miles.

Nicholas County - Flemingsburg-Carlisle (KY 32) Road from KY 145 to the Fleming County line, a distance of 8.3 miles.

CHE Recommends Tuition Increase

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Kentucky Council on Higher Education's Finance Committee Friday recommended that the eight state universities cut their budgets a total of $7.7 million and increase tuition more than 8.5 percent. The recommendation, which will be considered at an April 9 meeting of the full 17-member council, is intended to make up for most of the proposed spending cutbacks. The council staff has estimated that the proposed tuition increase would raise $8.5 million, all of which would be kept by the various institutions to make up for budget cuts.

Ann Landers

Field Enterprises, Inc. Field Newspaper Syndicate

Dear Ann Landers: I have seen you on the John Davidson, Gary Collins and Phil Donahue shows. You look lively, youthful and beautifully dressed.

When I commented to my husband that you seem to have some difficulty talking, he said, "She is probably wearing dentures and isn't used to them yet."

Is this true, Ann? If not, what is the problem? Mrs. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: My teeth are my own. I have a strong Midwestern accent. That is the "problem."

I seriously considered speech lessons years ago when someone asked me if I was born in this country. Several knowledgeable friends in communications advised against it. One well-known TV anchor said, "Your voice is very distinctive, and this can be a great asset. Let it alone."

So, I've been making do with my nasal Midwestern twang, hoping that in spite of it I may one day be a success. Thanks for your concern.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister and I (ages 37 and 42) are planning a trip to Europe soon. Our husbands have given their approval and told us to have a good time.

The trouble is with Mother. She is 67 years old, and you would think we were high school kids - the way she is acting up. Mom says we shouldn't go because we will surely be robbed, beaten, and murdered. The woman is so angry with us she is barely speaking. According to her, we have no right to cause her such anxiety at this time in her life.

Do you believe it is safe to travel in Europe? We will abide by your decision, Ann, so think it over carefully.

Half Packed But Heavy-Hearted.

Dear Half-But Heavy-Hearted: According to the statistics, you would be safer in Japan or England or many countries in Europe than if you went of New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit or Atlanta. The traveler with the strictest gun laws have the lowest homicide rate.

People cannot live in fear, or they would never leave their back yards. My advice is exercise caution and good judgment, wherever you are. Don't go alone into sleazy neighborhoods, especially at night. Leave off the fancy jewelry. Use travelers with the strictest gun laws have the lowest homicide rate.

Dear Ann: I've got a question that may be of interest to your many readers. So far, I have never seen it discussed in your column.

Some time ago my dentist removed a good-sized bridge from my mouth. It contained a lot of gold. He put it somewhere - never showed it to me and said I needed a new bridge.

Will you please find out if it is up to the dentist to return a bridge to the patient on his own or must the patient ask for it?

With gold prices such as this are, and dentistry bills out of this world, it seems to me the dentist should at least let the patient know that the old bridge might be worth something. An Ardent Reader

Dear Ann: The dentist should return the bridge and tell the patient, without prying, that the gold is worth plenty.

If the dentist fails to do this, the patients should ask for the bridge.

Bray Revising Apache Dictionary

Dorothy Adkins Bray, chairman of the Communications Department of Central Arizona College, has received a sabbatical leave for one year to join a team of linguists in revising and enlarging an Apache-English Dictionary.

Mrs. Bray will be cooperating with the Tribal Education Councils of the White Mountain and San Carlos Apache Tribes in expanding the general dictionary and compiling smaller editions of special dictionaries. The special dictionaries will be directed toward specific grade levels to aid the bilingual education program being incorporated in elementary schools through the White Mountain Apache Tribal Education Department.

Talent Judged At Club Contest

Several local persons placed in the eighth annual District Women's Club Contest held recently at Baird Music Hall on the Morehead State University campus.

In the only adult division, sewing, Lela Martindale received second place for construction of a suit and blouse.

In the student division, Hamilton and Leslie McBrayer won first places and will compete in the state contest next month in Owensboro. Hamilton was judged in piano and McBrayer in sewing. Both attend University Breckinridge.

Doug Riggsby, a Rowan County High senior, was awarded third place for his pen and ink drawing.

Miss Phyllis represented Rowan in vocal competition.

Bridge-Winners

Winners of the Morehead Duplicate Bridge Club game held March 27 were: first place, Susane Blair, Morehead, and Frances Edmundson, Mt. Sterling; second place, Bob Lindahl and Jack Whidden, Morehead; third place, Margaret E. Bill Davis, Morehead; and tie for fourth place, Dorothy Conley and Virginia Rice, Morehead, and Bob Kiser and Jerr Barber, Grayson.

This coming weekend (Saturday April 4) the Morehead Art Guild travels to Irvine to meet with artists, Russell and Delores McLanahan. The fee for the workshop is $10. Bring your painting materials and be ready for a good time. We will be carpooling from the Methodist Church parking lot. Please be there by 8 a.m. sharp - we don't want to miss you!

The current exhibit at the Claypool Young Art Building on the Morehead State University campus is an exhibit of drawings by Clifford Amyx, a retired University of Kentucky art professor and a printmaker, and ceramics by Les Miley, head of the art department at the University of Evansville at Evansville, Indiana. The exhibit is on display in the art gallery.

Christine Barker and Betty Gregory have been experimenting with a three-dimensional painting technique with modeling paste. We hope to have a demonstration of this technique at some future meeting.

Now that spring is here, and the weather is warm and pretty, many of us will be traveling more - either on short Sunday afternoon drives, long weekends, or vacations. Do you ever carry a sketchbook with you on trips? The next time you see a lovely view of hills and valleys that would make a beautiful painting, it is nice to have a sketchpad along with you, to record the idea for a later painting.

Many art supply houses sell field drawing boards. These are handy in doing outdoor drawings to provide a hard, even surface for your paper, and can be balanced on your hip or leaned against a fence or other resting place. If you have the appropriate tools, you may be able to make your own from a piece of plywood. Cut an opening for a handgrip to carry the board at one side. At the top of the board place two large spring clips of a type which can be purchased at office supply stores. These will hold your paper while you sketch.

One painter we know carries a watercolor pad, a set of watercolors and a black, waterproof felt tip pen on some of his field trips. He makes rapid sketches of landscapes, using the felt tip pen to indicate darker shadow areas, and then goes over the sketch with watercolor, painting in the appropriate colors he desires for the ground, trees, sky, etc. Back in the studio, he uses the rough sketch as the basis for an oil painting. Painting away from home need not be messy or awkward. Water for watercolor painting may be carried in a mason jar or a coffee or tea jar with a lid to prevent spills. Pre-moistened wet-erasers - such as those found in plastic containers in the baby supply sections of many local stores, stay moist and pop out quickly, making clean up an easier chore. A roll of paper towels is always handy, and aluminum foil can prevent brushes from spreading paint onto other objects until you are able to clean them. (Naturally, oil painting materials should be cleaned as soon as possible to prevent damage.)

Local Students Are Officers In Delta Gamma

Several local Morehead State University coeds have been elected officers of the Delta Omicron Chapter of Delta Gamma at MSU.

Linda Ousley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ousley, has been elected treasurer. She is a data processing major.

Ann Falls will serve as scholarship chairman. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Randy Falls, she is a nursing major.

Liz Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hamilton, is the foundation chairman for Delta Gamma. She is a government business major.

In other sorority matters, Susan Dobler, daughter of Ron and Jeanne Dobler, and Tamy Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dieneal Dennis, are both pledging to the chapter. Susan is a senior majoring in medical assistance and Tamy is a freshman nursing major. Shirley Brown, who has been initiated as an active member of the chapter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Brown, she is a sophomore nursing major.

In addition, Carol Boody, daughter of Glen and Pat Boody, Julie Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dieneal Dennis, and Liz Hamilton, were named to the fall dean's list at MSU with 3.6 grade averages. All are members of the sorority.

A raisin dropped in a glass of fresh champagne will bounce up and down continually from the bottom of the glass to the top.

Dinner Marks 92nd Birthday

The family of Roscoe Hutchinson honored him with a dinner Wednesday, March 25 at the Holiday Inn.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Curt Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cales, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Neff and Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Banks and Mrs. Dora Williams, the Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Fox, all of Morehead, and the Rev. Clifford Hutchinson of Middletown, Ohio.

U.S. Shoe To Re-Open

WEST LIBERTY — United States Shoe Corporation officials confirmed early last week that the company's West Liberty plant, closed in February, is to soon reopen.

The West Liberty plant was one of four company plants shut down in recent months due to a nationwide decline in shoe sales attributed to the troubled economy.

Two hundred and fifty-five workers at the plant were laid off at the time of its shut-down.

Bob Stix, vice president of U.S. Shoe Corporation, stated some of the plant's cutting room personnel went back to work last Thursday and more were called back yesterday.

Dale Perry, the plant manager at West Liberty, said workers in other departments will be recalled as their jobs open up.

"Our goal is for a startup production of 1,000 pairs a day," said Perry. Stix noted that production is expected to reach 3,000 pairs a day as more workers are called back to their jobs. This anticipated volume would put the plant at almost full production, as it is presently equipped to produce approximately 3,200 pairs of shoes per day, according to Stix.

The announcement by U.S. Shoe

Corporation officials verified rumors that began circulating the immediate area almost two weeks ago in regard to a possible reopening of the plant.

It was greeted with enthusiasm from both workers and the business community. Business leaders have estimated that the plant is responsible for pumping $2.5 million into the local economy each year.

The opening of the plant is expected to help U.S. Shoe Corporation meet new orders for women's cold weather and fashion boots.

Manpower Official

the philosophy under which he carries out his job responsibilities.

During his youth, unemployment in the immediate area was running from 30 to 50 percent, Wells said.

He added, he saw what "it did" to his fellow mountaineers who could not find employment and subsequently lost their self-esteem.

It was this "personal background" that made Wells very interested in the manpower position when it was offered to him by Stumbo and Gov. John Y. Brown, he said.

Wells told the audience that work has a great deal of meaning in everyone's life since individuals often define themselves on the basis of employment. It is for this reason that unemployment must be confronted by governments in trying to better the lives of its constituency, he indicated.

In terms of manpower opportunities in eastern Kentucky, Wells sketched out his ideas on what government monies should be spent on to create employment for the people of that region of the state.

First, the state should "stabilize the coal industry," he said, noting the enormous job potentials of Kentucky's so-called ace in the hole.

"It's what we have," he told his audience, adding, "Without coal, we have nothing."

Secondly, he called for investing money in the area "into coal-related industries."

Thirdly, Wells said the state must try and develop industries based on the natural resources available in eastern Kentucky.

Singled out individually by Wells were the vast forests of eastern Kentucky.

"I wonder why the white oak of Kentucky is cut and shipped to Japan," he asked the audience.

Instead of having the Japanese make goods in their country from the timber and then sell those goods to us, Wells questioned those at the luncheon as to why those goods can't be made in Kentucky.

"I don't know why that has never been done," he added.

He made known his belief that the state should take advantage of its vast timber resources and try to develop an industry that will provide jobs for its citizens.

Agriculture is another avenue in eastern Kentucky where monies should be directed towards creating more job opportunities, Wells said. He said despite most people believing that farming in eastern Kentucky cannot be lucrative because of the landscape, modern farming methods and technology proves quite the contrary to even his surprise.

Finally, Wells advocated that it is time for the state and people of eastern Kentucky to take command of their own destinies.

He said the rugged mountaineers of the past known for their individualism have become too dependent on others for help. First there was the heavy reliance on the coal industry for a way of life and then in more recent times various federal social programs, noted Wells.

"I think we may have become over-dependent on some of these programs," he stated, adding that the months ahead in which many of these programs will be cut will make us realize "we have to do for ourselves."

"Looking about our own," an old mountain saying, will have to make a return to the eastern Kentucky way of life in order to stimulate the opportunities that might be available there, according to Wells.

Wells said he is confident that the people of eastern Kentucky have within them "the ability to succeed," pointing out the many individuals from this region of the country who have gone on to greatness including Congressman Carl Perkins, Senator John Sherman Cooper, Harry Caudill Jr. and Jessie Stuart.

"We have within us — we have among our ranks — brilliance," he said.

However, he noted that just as eastern Kentucky has exported many of its resources in the past, the same has been true for the "brains" of the region.

Wells said far too often, the university professors in the region have become caught up in problems and research which will benefit other areas or states.

"It seems to me, there's a great deal to learn about Appalachia," he stated.

He said to the faculty members present that every "action you do or do not do" will affect the lives of eastern Kentuckians.

He closed his address by challenging them to pursue topics of research "close to home" which will contribute to science, as well as the area.

Nearly four million veterans who have kept their GI life insurance policies in force will share in a record $19.7 million dividend during 1981. Each veteran's share will be paid automatically on the anniversary date of his or her policy.

Teacher Training Conference Topic

Two University of Kentucky educators will speak during the annual conference of the Kentucky Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and the Kentucky Association of Teacher Educators on April 3 at the University of Louisville's Shelby campus.

They are Dr. George W. Denemark, dean of the UK College of Education and Dr. Harry V. Barnard, UK associate dean for teacher education and certification.

This year's conference program will consider competency assessments for entry into and exit from teacher education programs. Denemark will address the "Context for Competency Assessment Overview" and Barnard will discuss the entry assessment plan which was approved in January by the Kentucky Council of Teacher Education and Certification.

"The implementation of competency assessments represents both a challenge and opportunity for teacher educators and teacher education institutions," according to Tom Jeffries of Louisville, president of KACTE.

Defense Expected To Begin In Stamper Trial

ignored by the prosecutors from U.S. Justice Department Public Integrity Section. Stamper's attorneys are expected to file a similar motion for dismissal, but it's highly unlikely Moynahan would allow those charges to be dismissed. Nevertheless, now that the prosecution has all but rested its case, there is doubt whether they have sufficiently demonstrated Stamper is guilty of the most serious charges against him, extortion, to the five-man, seven-woman jury. Arguments on a prosecutor's motion last week may have revealed the prosecution has not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that Stamper extorted money from Investors Trust Inc. to ensure that firm's sale of Hidden Valley property to the state. "I think he (federal prosecutor Joseph Lawless) said they realize now they haven't proved their case on two (extortion) points," Stamper's defense attorney William E. Johnson said. "I think he has that sinking feeling and deservedly so." Moynahan pointed out during the arguments, which were out of hearing from the jury; that Investors Trust President Wayne E. Ahart had only concluded that he thought the deal would not go through without the payment to Stamper. "Don't you have to have something to base it (the extortion charge) on," Moynahan said. "Doesn't a threat have to be communicated?" And Moynahan went further, pointing to testimony that when the state purchased the property, the options on the property had expired. Moynahan recalled testimony that an Investors Trust official called Stamper or Link to remind them to make payment on the expired option. "Is that something a man does because he's in fear," Moynahan asked. Those arguments centered around a prosecution attempt to recall Ahart to the stand say why he felt he couldn't have sold the property without paying off Stamper. The attempt failed, but the effort demonstrates the prosecution is not so sure that it has proved the extortion charges.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — The defense in the trial of State Sen. Woodrow Stamper and Lexington realtor Robert F. Link is expected to begin this week, but there is some question whether there will be a Link to defend. Link's lawyers are expected to file a motion to dismiss Link from the extortion, conspiracy and mail fraud charges facing him. While the defense is tightlipped about any of its courtroom tactics, John Morgan said it was "reasonable" to expect the motion to be filed. But most observers think U.S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynahan will probably let the jury decide Link's guilt or innocence. The question now is whether the prosecution has proved enough of a case against Link for his trial to continue. As the prosecution has revealed its case in the now 30-day old trial, it has continually focused on Stamper. Link's involvement in the alleged scheme to coerce the state to purchase the former Hidden Valley resort has been virtually

Prosecution's Summary Witness Called Friday

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — The prosecution in the federal trial of State Sen. Woodrow Stamper and Lexington realtor Robert F. Link Friday called their "summary" witness and probably their last, witness to the stand. Federal prosecutor Joseph Lawless told UPI after Friday's court proceedings Internal Revenue Service agent Keith R. Duffield was the prosecutions' "summary" witness, or the witness who goes over the government's case for the benefit of the jury. "Usually when you call your summary witness, that's the last one," Lawless said. "But I may change my mind."

Duffield was still undergoing cross-examination by defense attorneys when U.S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynahan Jr. recessed the trial until 9:30 a.m. Monday. Defense attorneys are expected to begin presenting their case next week.

Duffield generally outlined the prosecution's case in the extortion, conspiracy and mail fraud trial of Stamper and Link. Duffield gave his testimony in the context of two charges of signing false federal income tax returns for the same year in August 1979, he failed to report $38,314, Duffield said.

The Louisville IRS agent, who has sat beside the prosecutor's table throughout the now 30-day-old trial, testified a $67,988 check paid to Link's realty company should have been reported as "general income" on Stamper's tax returns. The check was from Investors Trust Inc., the Indianapolis firm which sold the former Hidden Valley resort to the state in 1977.

Federal prosecutors accuse Stamper and Link of coercing the state to purchase the property for an inflated price. The charges the pair face are in connection with the land deal. The $67,988 payment was allegedly extorted from Investors Trust to ensure the state's purchase of the Powell County property.

Duffield said the check should have been reported on Stamper's, and not Link's, tax return because Link was only acting as an agent for the senator.

Duffield said Stamper put up the money for options held on Hidden Valley listed under Link's name, directed the terms of the option agreement, paid men in cash to maintain the property before it was sold to the state, and agreed to pay back Link's expenses on the transactions.

But upon cross-examination of Duffield by defense attorney James Shuffett, Duffield admitted the conclusion that the check should have been reported as Stamper's tax returns was based on the fact the option agreement with Investors Trust had expired before the check was paid.

Shuffett asked if the option had been extended orally, wouldn't the payment then fall under a different category requiring Stamper to only report the profit he made off the land deal? Shuffield agreed.

Shuffield testified Stamper reported $31,041 on the amended 1977 return. Shuffett was apparently trying to demonstrate this was the profit Stamper had made from the land deal, and Stamper had legally reported it on his amended return.

Earlier Friday prosecutors lost a procedural round when the judge refused to allow a state ethics law covering elected officials to be read into the record. The defense objected, saying the pair are on trial for federal, not state, offenses. Stamper's lawyers said the reading of parts of the ethics law would be prejudicial.

Prosecutor Robert Andary said the jury should be instructed that the state statute should not be considered as evidence in the trial but Moynahan did not like that argument. "I think it is a real booby trap," said Moynahan. "You can't read it to the jury at this time."

However, the judge said if the prosecution needed the statute during cross-examination of Stamper and Link, if they are called to testify, he may reconsider his decision.

Powerful Pulaski Ends Lady Viking Season, 59-35

Rowan Reaches Final Four; Year Ends With 27-6 Mark

By J. MARK PERKINS
Sports Editor

Rowan County's girls basketball team had its season end Saturday morning by a squad that simply had more experience and talent than the Lady Vikings could present.

When it was all over, the Lady Vikings and their followers had nothing to be ashamed of. Having become one of the top four teams in the state tournament was quite an accomplishment for the AA school.

Pulaski County went on and used their poise and experience to capture the state crown later in the evening. "We knew coming in that eventually we would run into a team that was a little more solid than the way through, with more quality ball handlers, shooters and passers, and remember Pulaski County has a bench," Rowan County coach Claudia Hicks said.

Hicks, the only women coach in the 16 team state tournament was very straight forward in the interview room after the game. "We were beaten by a superior team. I'm not going to make excuses. They've been here before and have the tournament experience."

Hicks said the 59-35 victory over Rowan County in the state tournament was the second time this season that Pulaski had easily defeated the Lady Vikings.

Earlier in January Pulaski had defeated Rowan County 51-31 in the Lady Kat Invitational.

"They had the confidence of beating us before, and they were cautious because they knew we were on an up-swing. They knew they had to be careful against us and I don't think they came into the game over confident like I think the other teams did," Hicks said.

"I don't know if we thought about playing them the first time or not," said Karla May, who led Rowan County with 14 points. "I felt pretty good. But I don't know if we were tired or not. It seemed like we were out there just running around," May said.

Hicks was more specific. "We ran out of distance. We didn't run our offense well.

The kids looked tired to me, and that was causing them to lose their concentration. We found Jelana Haney coming out too wide and taking shots that a forward would take instead of going inside, and Mary Beth Hamm was forcing some shots and the other players were hesitating when they had their shots."

The Rowan coach went on to say, "Our big people were standing around too much, and everyone kept looking for Karla. I think they were depending on her too much, you can't win in that kind of situation. You have to have more of a team effort out there to win, and we just didn't have it. What we did have was a bunch of kids with a tremendous amount of desire. What happened is Pulaski's tournament experience and composure finally caught up with us."

Pulaski used a balanced inside and outside attack to down Rowan County. Pulaski's leader, Lori Hines, connected on eight out of 15 shots from everywhere on the court.

"Hines killed us again. She also killed us in the Lady Kat tournament," Hicks said.

The game was close in the early going. The Lady Vikings biggest lead was just four points, 6-2 after just two minutes of play. After Pulaski took the lead at 8-6 with 3:13 left in the first period, they never fell behind again.

Pulaski scored six of the last eight points in the quarter for a 14-12 lead.

Debbie Dehart gave the Lady Vikings a lead at 14 with the first basket of the second quarter. Rowan County then hit a serious drought, going 4-23 without scoring.

Pulaski scored 10 points during that time for a 24-14 lead with 3:13 left before halftime.

Karla May hit two baskets to open the second quarter and split her team to within six, 20-24, but after that, the Lady Vikings really weren't in the game.

For awhile it looked like Owensboro would either win the game, or it would go into overtime. Owensboro started working the clock down at 1:54. After a timeout at 1:23, Owensboro went back to its delay tactics only to have a pass picked off by May, for the winning basket.

May led all scorers with 21 points, sixteen coming in the second half. She tossed in eight out of 15 shots from the field and seven out of eight free throws. The junior also dished out six assists.

Hamm contributed 15 points on the evening, 12 of which came in the first half. She hit seven out of nine shots from the field and one out of two from the free throw line, and led both teams with 14 rebounds.

Debbie Dehart scored 10 points, six in the first half, by hitting five out of seven field goals. She also grabbed nine rebounds.

Jelanne Cornett added seven points and Jelana Haney had six points.

The Lady Vikings hit a much better percentage than did Owensboro. Rowan County sunk 61 percent of its shots, compared with just 36.4 for Owensboro.

Not wanting to disrupt the flow of the game Hicks never substituted for her starters.

Debbie Dehart scored 10 points, six in the first half, by hitting five out of seven field goals. She also grabbed nine rebounds.

Jelanne Cornett added seven points and Jelana Haney had six points.

All Starters Go The Distance We Didn't May's Steal Enables Rowan To Defeat Owensboro, 59-56

The Lady Vikings reached the Final Four of the girls state tournament by defeating Owensboro 59-56 Friday night.

The game was close throughout and toward the end in appeared that which ever team had the ball during the final minutes would determine the outcome.

With the score tied at 56 in the 12th tie of the game, the lead switched hands on 18 occasions and just 38 seconds showing on the clock, Karla May stepped in front of a pass from Owensboro's Stacy Humphrey to Wendy Morrison, and raced down the floor and made a left handed layup to put the Lady Vikings on top for good 58-56 with 34 seconds left.

Owensboro had a couple of chances to tie the game but came up short.

In order to get the ball back they fouled Jeanne Cornett and the senior sunk one of two free throws with just a second left to tie the victory for Rowan County.

"I noticed something in Owensboro's stall game in the second quarter, and I made a note of it and talked it over with the team at halftime," Rowan County coach Claudia Hicks said after the game.

"What I saw was that Owensboro had a tendency to go to its right, a lot, two or three passes in a row, and then make a left hand pass to the left. I knew Karla could get out there and get one. We just kept sneaking her there a little more every time. I told Karla that she could get one to race it down the middle. I thought she could beat them in a footrace. I figured a situation like that would occur in the fourth quarter," Hicks said.

Each team managed to get five points in the first half. Owensboro's game with 3:04 left in the first quarter at 13-8, and Rowan County's happened with 5:10 left in the second quarter, 24-19.

The teams were tied at the end of two quarters of play at 29.

Owensboro had the biggest lead of the third quarter, 42-38 with just a minute left, but Rowan tied the game with a layup by Debbie Dehart and a breakaway layup by May.

The largest lead for either team in the second half came in at the final buzzer.

Owensboro tried to shake up the Lady Vikings by pressing up court on several occasions. "It was Karla May who broke up their press by coming up and helping bring the ball up court," Hicks explained.

her team a 57-54 lead. Goins pulled Western Hills to within one at 57-56 with 10 seconds to go, but Cornett was knocked to the floor on the end bounds play and she calmly sunk both free throws to put the contest away.

After the game and much celebration in the middle of the court, Cornett admitted that she was nervous at the end, "but I knew I had to make them. I've been playing with Karla now for a long time and we know how to play together and we just worked great together tonight. Everybody did a super job. It was a team win," the senior said.

"We came out all fired up and just tried to play good team basketball," said May, who hit on 13 out of 21 shots from the field and nine of 12 in the second half.

May went on to say, "We felt good right from the start. I knew we had a chance to beat them if we played real good and that's what we did. I was looking inside early in the game because Haney was open. Then later in the game I started to look for my shot more. I think we surprised some people because we are here for the first time."

Haney was the second leading scorer for the Lady Vikings with 15 points. The junior center connected on six out of nine shots from the field and three out of four free throws. She also had 10 rebounds.

Cornett totaled 13 points against Western Hills, all from the 20-25 foot line.

Rowan County Baseball Team Splits With Russell In Opener

Rowan County baseball team will be trying to improve on last season's 8-12 record this spring.

Larry Hardin's club began the 1981 campaign Saturday afternoon with a split with Russell.

"We lost the first game 6-1 with Russell pulling three double plays on us, but we came back to win the second game 11-7," Hardin said.

The Vikings scored four runs in the second inning, the nightcap on doubles from Ronnie Porter and Terry White.

"We unloaded everything in the seventh inning," Hardin said. Back to back hits by Allen and Doug Bradley and Jeff Patrick enabled the Vikings to post seven runs in the last inning.

"Compared to the first game where we put out five hits, we really went to bat in the second game with 11 hits," Hardin said.

Allen Bradley got the pitching win in the second game, going the last three and a third inning. Rocky Stacy started the contest on the mound for the Vikings.

Here is a look at each of the baseball Vikings and their roll in the 1981 season.

Allen Bradley, a junior, will play second base and probably be in the starting pitching rotation.

His brother, Doug, is a senior who will play centerfield. "Doug is our quickest runner on the team, but bats third because of his power. We will look to him for key hits this season," Hardin said.

Senior catcher Randy Riddle is back for his final season of high school ball. Riddle hit 540 last season and Hardin will be looking to him for leadership.

Rocky Stacy was the most valuable player on the Viking team last season. The senior will play third base and also be in the starting pitching rotation, and may also play in the outfield. He led the team in homers, and RBI's last season.

Wade Littleton, another senior will pitch and play first base. "He has all the junk you need to pitch and control," Hardin said about the 6'4" player.

Jeff Patrick, a junior, will play third base, the outfield and maybe catch a little this season. Patrick will be used for a pinch hitter again this season. "He likes to hit for his pitch and I expect him to hit .360 this year," Hardin said.

At 6'3", Dajrell Littleton is what Hardin calls "One of our gusey players. He will get down in front of the ball, knock it down and throw you out."

Littleton will play shortstop for the Vikings.

Scotty Stevens, a junior, will be getting off to a slow start this season because of a broken foot. He suffered while trying to dunk a basketball. "He has a good arm and hits well. He will probably play first base and see some relief work on the mound," Hardin said.

Matt Sparks, a senior, will play outfield, shortstop and see a little relief work on the mound. "Matt has decent speed which we will take advantage of on the base paths," Hardin said.

Two players Hardin mentioned at the same time due to their impressive speed are Ronnie Porter and Jeff Glover. "Ronnie is the second fastest runner on the team and will play second base or the outfield. Jeff has a slight knee injury but will probably play leftfield most of the time. He has a real good bat," Hardin said.

"Todd Pratt has developed a lot and we expect him to really be tough this spring," Hardin said about his junior lefthanded pitcher.

Another lefthanded junior, Jack Lewis, will be used mostly as a relief pitcher.

Terry White, a junior lefthander, will also be seen in the outfield this spring. "Terry is a hard worker and his bat is developing and he will be able to play some," Hardin said.

New players to the Rowan County baseball team this season include:

Jeff Johnson, a lefthanded junior who is also a good outfielder according to Hardin. "He needs to work on his hitting," the coach said.

Brian Riddle, a freshman. "He is a

Breck Wins Baseball Opener 9-7 Over Bath

Dave Magrane used Thursday's University Breckinridge baseball opener to take a checkerboard glance at his pitching staff. Almost as a by-product, the Eaglets picked up a victory as five pitchers worked in a 9-7 victory at Bath County.

Joe Magrane, one of three hurlers to post one inning each, started and struck out his three batters. Bobby Hamilton worked the second, allowing two runs on three hits. Sam Holbrook gave up three runs on as many hits in the third.

Donnie Battson then came on to get the last two outs on the fourth. Battson held off the Wildcats through the fifth and sixth, and the game was called due to darkness before the start of the seventh.

to darkness before the start of the seventh. Although the Bath County diamond has lights, the game was not before April 1 as a cost-cutting measure.

Breck missed a chance to score in the first. Battson was caught off third base after a lineup, and the play cost the Eaglets a run when Magrane followed with a double.

In the second, however, the Breck batting order was not to be stopped. Hamilton ripped a one-out home run to left to make it 1-0. Fannin then doubled. VanHoose singled, Jeff Bryant reached on an error by shortstop David Razor.

Bath County used two doubles, a single and a third-strike wild pitch to cut it to 5-2 in the last of the inning, but Breck brought home three more in the third inning to collect all the runs they would need to win.

The 'Cats made a game of it, scoring five runs over the next two innings to slice it to 8-7. John Lyons keyed the three-run third inning with a double, and Fannin's wildness led to the pair in the fourth.

Breck's final run came on a walk, a single and an error in the outfield. Bath County slipped to 0-2, with Swartz taking his first loss in his first decision.

Kentucky High School Athletic Association, rules require a starting pitcher to go four innings to receive credit for a victory. Pitcher-of-record Magrane was therefore not eligible, and Battson was given the win as the relief pitcher judged most effective.

Sports Briefs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Robert Morris has landed a 6-foot-5 power forward from one of the nation's perennial scholastic basketball powerhouses.

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Wake Forest University will name Assistant Coach Al Groh to succeed John Mackovic as head football coach. The News and Observer of Raleigh reported Friday.

Phil Coles, who averaged 14 rebounds and 12 points a game this season as a senior at DeMatha Catholic High School in Hyattsville, Md., has signed a letter of intent to attend Robert Morris on a basketball scholarship, a spokesman for the school said today. DeMatha won the Washington Metropolitan scholastic championship this season and went 80-9 while Coles was there.

Mackovic resigned Tuesday to become an assistant coach for the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL. The News and Observer said it was told by a source in the Wake Forest athletic department that Groh, who joined the Deacon staff as defensive coordinator little more than a month ago, will be the new head coach.

Indian Rally Prevents Breck From A Split

A four-run seventh inning by Montgomery County spoiled University Breckinridge's bid for a split Saturday as the Eaglets and the Indians finished at a 16-14 tie in the second game of a doubleheader.

The game was called after the seventh inning because of darkness. Montgomery County won the first game, 10-4.

Joe Magrane lashed five hits in the nightcap and Sam Holbrook cracked two home runs to lead Breck's 17-hit attack. Holbrook and Bobby Hamilton drove in three runs apiece, and Holbrook scored five times. The Indians used 24 players in the second game, and only one, Jeff McVey, had more than one hit. Johnny Warner had three runs batted in on a fourth-inning home run, his second of the day, and Robbie Williams also homered.

The Eaglets had a 16-12 lead entering the bottom of the seventh when Montgomery County plated four runs, two on Williams' homer, one on a double steal when Kevin Lee escaped a rundown and Tom Bottomley scored, and one on an error. Magrane struck out Jeff Davis with the potential winning run at second to end the game.

Breck crossed the plate 10 times in the third inning to take a big lead. Two-run singles by Tom Servey and Hamilton were the key blows in the rally. The Eaglets scored three more times in the fourth, two on Magrane's double, to take a 13-5 lead, but the host team scored seven times in the fourth to get back in the game. Warner's three-run shot sparked the Indians, and Jimmy Latimer brought two runs home with a single.

The Eaglets scored twice more, on a bases-loaded walk in the sixth and Holbrook's second bases empty homer, a line shot to center field, in the seventh.

Montgomery County staged a four-run eruption in the first inning, two coming on McVey's single, to offset Holbrook's first homer in the top of the game. Consecutive errors on Breck shortstop Mike Tyree allowed an Indian run in the third.

County in check in relief after Warner's fourth-inning homer, but weakened in the seventh when Williams hit his long ball, and gave way to Magrane. The start and loss in the opener, Magrane was touched for two runs on one hit, two walks and an error before retiring the side.

The Indians collared Breck on three hits and Warner drove in four runs in Game One. A four-run third for Montgomery County broke up a pitcher's duel between Magrane and winning pitcher Kevin Lee. Jeff Davis rapped a two-run single to cap the explosion.

Montgomery added three runs in the fourth, two on a Warner homer and one on an error. Two more MCHS runs crossed the plate in the sixth, one on Kyle Lee's first home run. Breck's bats weren't making quite so much noise. The Eaglets took their only lead with a single run in the first, but couldn't reach Kevin Lee again until the fourth when a passed ball allowed a run. The Eaglets got two runs off Davis in the fifth on John Vanhose's single, but the hard-throwing righty bounced back and ended his four-inning relief stint with nine strikeouts.

Montgomery County remained undefeated at 3-0-1. The Eaglets dropped to 1-1-1 on the young season.

The Eaglets continue their season-opening road trip today with a visit to East Carter. Breck opens his home season Thursday with a 4:30 game against West Carter.

"Randy Hone has a real quick wrist and will be a good infielder," Hardin said.

Art Warren, a sophomore shortstop and Randy Eldridge, a pitcher, shortstop and first baseman are also newcomers to the baseball team.

The Rowan County team has been conditioning for three weeks but because of the weather, was only able to get in four days of outside practice before their season opener against Russell.

Caudill, Hough Buy Tire Store

Major Brands, a tire and motor vehicle accessory sales and service business, located on Wilmot and Levee roads, Mt. Sterling, has changed ownership.

A new corporation, Major Brands Inc., of which James T. Caudill Jr. and William Hough of Morehead and Michael W. May, of Mt. Sterling, are the incorporators, purchased the business from Lonnie Combs and Kelly G. Combs on March 23.

Lonnie Combs had been operating the business. Caudill owns the Caudill Tire Co. in Morehead and Hough is the manager of that business.

May formerly worked for Caudill Tire Co. while he was attending Morehead State University and for two years after that. For the past seven years, May has worked at Warren Builders. His firm from Bath County and has lived in this area all his life.

May said the new owners plan to continue the same products, services, prices and personnel as offered under the founders of the business. Michelin will continue to be the main line of tires at Major Brands, but the firm also will handle many other major brands of tires and equipment, as the name indicates, May explained.

Through the association with Caudill Tire Co., Major Brands may be able to obtain specific tires or equipment faster for customers when the local business is out of that item, May said.

Bill Hough, left, and Jim Tom Caudill, two of the new owners of Major Brands Tire Center in Mt. Sterling, prepare to place a large bulk order for tires. Michael W. May is the third partner of Major Brands. (Photo by J. Mark Perkins)

Caudill said he expects to broaden immediately the line of tires carried by Major Brands, but other than that, he doesn't anticipate any major changes for at least six months.

According to the incorporation papers filed in the office of Judy Long, county clerk, Major Brands Inc. is authorized 500 shares of stock with no par value. The board shall include three directors. May is the registered agent. Major Brands Tire Co. began operation about three-and-one-half years ago in the 8,400-square-foot building that was included in the sale transaction.

The store will be staffed with five full-time employees and one part-time worker. Hough pointed out that along with May, Darold Kendrick will be one of the key staffers.

Grayson Attorney Named...

Commission Makes Choices For U.S. District Judge

FRANKFORT—Kentucky's Federal Judicial Selection Commission has announced its list of five candidates to fill a federal judgeship in eastern Kentucky.

The vacancy was created by the retirement of H. David Hermandorfer in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky at Catlettsburg.

The list by the commission is similar to one released last week by Kentucky's three Republican representatives.

A conflict has been developing between the representatives and the state's two Democratic senators—Walter "Dee" Huddleston and Wendell Ford—over the nomination of a new judge.

The senators say it is their responsibility to select candidates for the judgeship, but the Republicans—Reps. Gene Snyder, Hal Rogers and Larry Hopkins—say the party in control of the White House should have a voice in the selection.

The list by the Judicial Selection Commission should help to ease the conflict as all but one of the four candidates offered by the Republicans showed up on his list.

The Reagan administration has said it will listen to Republican congressmen when choosing judges in states such as Kentucky where both senators are Democrats.

Although the president makes the selection for the judgeship, it must be approved by the Senate and a senator has usually been able to block a home state appointee he didn't want.

The five names on the commission's list include:

- Henry R. Wilhoit Jr., a Grayson attorney and president-elect of the Kentucky Bar Association.
- Arthur L. Brooks Jr. of Lexington, a private attorney.
- James F. Cook of Lexington, U.S. magistrate for the Eastern District of Kentucky.
- F. Byrd Hogg of Whitesburg, circuit judge for Letcher County.
- Henry V. Pennington II of Danville, circuit judge for Boyle and Mercer counties.

Wilhoit, Hogg and Pennington were among those recommended by Republicans, along with Robin Griffin, a Lexington attorney.

Those four names were submitted to the Reagan administration Wednesday. The Judicial Selection Commission considered more than 20 nominees during its month-long work.

After the Bible, Cervantes' "Don Quixote" has been widely translated than any other book in the world.

School Health Nurse Barbara Thigomson said there will be displays and demonstrations geared for both adults and children.

Film strips on cancer, seat belts, bus safety and careers in veterinary medicine will be shown, and a puppet show and health functions game, are planned for children.

A blood pressure screening is to be conducted.

There is no admission fee for the health fair.

Oil Shale Meetings Set

Two meetings are planned in Mt. Sterling, Wednesday April 1, by the Phillips Petroleum Co. regarding the leasing of Montgomery County land for oil shale extraction.

A public meeting for all interested persons will be held at 7 p.m. April 1 at Montgomery County High School auditorium. A spokesman for the company said officials of Phillips and those handling the leasing program will speak and there will be an opportunity for questions and answers.

A luncheon meeting, hosted by Phillips, is scheduled at noon April 1 at the Mt. Sterling Country Club for a group of business and community leaders.

Southern Montgomery County is included in the Knobs region of Kentucky, a horseshoe-shaped belt running south from Central Indiana, enclosing the Bluegrass region of Kentucky and northward into central Ohio, that contains most of the economically minable oil shale in the East.

News Report From

Rowan County Extension Office

Paul W. Mills Martha Huntsman Timothy Ramsey

By TIMOTHY A. RAMSEY

Some Common Questions Being Asked On Ridomil
 1. Can Ridomil be used after freezing? According to some recent information from Ciba-Geigy, Ridomil can be used after freezing without significant reduction in effectiveness if the active ingredient (Metalaxyl) is still in solution. You should have no trouble determining whether Metalaxyl is or is not in solution because there are two pounds of active ingredient (Metalaxyl) crystals per gallon of Ridomil. If it has solidified, there should be plenty of crystals. In other words, approximately 1/2 to 3/4 of the container. It would look similar to sugar precipitating out of a syrup solution.

The Metalaxyl crystals can be dissolved with time by placing the chemical in a warm building and shaking the container several times daily until the material has redissolved. Be sure all visible crystals are in solution otherwise, uniform distribution will not occur and erratic results could be anticipated.

2. What are the supply aspects of Ridomil? We have been told that there is 2 1/2 times the allocation for this year that we received in 1980. We never received actual figures on what the allocation was but basically dealers can anticipate that if they had 100 gallons last year they should get 250 this year. In addition to that, I was told recently that there was a 20% increase in the Ridomil allocation to Kentucky since those figures arrived. Again, we know little more than you do about what those actual numbers mean. Ridomil has been used on about 50% of the plant beds in Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina. They are transplanting now. All areas report excellent results with Ridomil to date. Generally, growers are very satisfied with the improved stand density and cleaner, more uniform plants. However, they have noticed that the Ridomil application at seeding last only 60-80 days. Under heavy rain pressure or heavy irrigation they have been going back in with Ridomil 70 days after seeding with an over-the-top application. However, they are using Ridomil alone, instead Ridomil is being combined with Carbamate type fungicides such as Maneb to avoid resistance. We have applied for an emergency label in Kentucky for the use of Ridomil plus a carbamate fungicide to be used starting roughly 70 days after seeding. Should this label be cleared it is necessary to add a protectant fungicide such as Maneb, Polyram, Ferbam, Zineb or Mancozeb to the foliar applied Ridomil to reduce the chances of resistant strains, plus to stop other fungal diseases which occur later in the plant bed season such as Anthracnose. These foliar applications are needed weekly, once they are started because Ridomil is not absorbed readily through the leaves. Plus you need to add the additional fungicide here to protect against other diseases. We will advise you on the status of this labeling as it becomes available.

3. Is it necessary to irrigate Ridomil into the bed? We have information from Kentucky tests as to the value of watering in Ridomil. However, more southern states have found this is an essential step to reduce burning or dry, sandier soils. That is, why it appears on the national label and thus we must legally follow it.

4. Should Ridomil be raked in? In our tests last year we saw no advantage to raking in Ridomil. Likewise, we saw no major disadvantages to this practice. However, for Pythium control we need the chemical as close to the seed as possible to stop early attacks by this soilborne fungus. Keep in mind that Pythium is already there in the soil ready to attack the seed immediately. So we do not want the Ridomil removed too far from the seed itself. Most of the increased stand density observed in plant bed tests last year was observed early as well as late indicating more seed in Ridomil treated beds germinated rather than being eaten by fungi.

5. What are the detrimental effects of Ridomil? The only detrimental effects have been observed in plant beds from Ridomil applications have related to applications of higher than recommended rates and applications later than at seeding. Rates as high as 4 tablespoons (2 times the recommended rate) reduced germination and caused stunting in plant beds plus Sore shin (caused by Rhizoctonia) was encouraged. When applications were made after seeds had begun to soften (24-72 hours after seeding) germination was reduced markedly. This is why the label clearly states, apply Ridomil before or at seeding. I'm sure that some people will find that they can get by with it later than that, however we saw enough examples of this last year to raise a clear warning concerning this aspect of application of Ridomil.

6. Are there any safety problems with Ridomil? We have heard and followed up on a couple of incidences in which applicators have developed strong, allergic reactions to Ridomil. We have been told by medical authorities and Ciba-Geigy personnel that such occurrences are usually noticed with all new chemicals and is not a major or widespread concern. In other words, a very small percentage of the population is allergic to a plant chemical being used. However, we might see more of this with Ridomil than some other chemicals because so many people are using it for the first time on such a wide scale, thus increasing the total number of cases observed. Medical personnel advise that these allergic reactions to any chemical which applicators have developed serious swelling or even death. The degree of reaction depends on how sensitive the person is to the chemical. The person should be encouraged to follow all directions on the label, especially those related to safety and consult physicians immediately, should any signs of allergic reactions persist.

7. As of now today, there is no known blue mold in the United States. As a matter of fact, there is much less blue mold in the Caribbean Islands and Central America than there was at this time last year.

Soil Insects In Home Gardens

Gardeners planning to locate their garden lots on sod ground need to watch out for insects that live in the soil. Lee Townsend, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, said that wireworms and white grubs occur naturally in grass sod, where they feed on roots and organic matter.
 "Plowing the sod disrupts their habitat and food source, forcing the insects to feed on garden crops," said Townsend.

Townsend said that problems with white grubs are associated with large amounts of compost or manure that have been applied to gardens. "The high amount of organic matter in the soil is attractive to insects that lay their eggs in the soil," said the entomologist.
 The developing larvae, wireworms or grubs, can become garden pests.

Soil insects do the most damage to root crops such as potatoes, carrots, turnips, beets or radishes. Their feeding damage will be directly on the edible part of the plant," said Townsend.

Chances of damage can be reduced by not planting root crops in plowed sod ground. If this cannot be avoided, Townsend recommends using diazinon, soil insecticide, to control vegetable root crops. As is always the case, follow the application instructions carefully, using the recommended rate.

Crop rotation is an effective way to control insect populations. Avoid growing root crops continuously in the same area, if you can. This will help to prevent establishment of a stable soil insect population," said Townsend.

Some Liquid Fertilizer Claims Termed "Illegal"

Responding to complaints received by the Division of Regulatory Services in Kentucky, an official said certain clear liquid fertilizer companies are making erroneous, misleading and illegal claims about the value of their products.

Dr. D.L. Terry, coordinator of the regulatory program in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, reported seven examples of claims being made illegally. He warned, "Don't be misled by any of these claims."

One gallon of liquid fertilizer is equivalent to 100 pounds of dry fertilizer.

Liquid fertilizer is more available to plants than dry fertilizer.

Liquid fertilizer is 100% available; dry fertilizer is only 10% available.

Plants take up liquid N (nitrogen), P (phosphorus) and K (potassium) in one molecule while in dry fertilizer the N, P and K are taken up individually.

The plant nutrients in dry fertilizer have to be "converted" to plant food after application to the soil while liquid plant food is available immediately.

The phosphorus in liquid fertilizers is not "fixed" in the soil like phosphorus in dry fertilizers.

Liquid fertilizers have no "filler" in them while dry fertilizers have as much as 70% filler.

"All the claims are erroneous, misleading and illegal," Terry said. "If you encounter a fertilizer dealer or salesperson that tries to sell you liquid fertilizer under one or more of the misleading claims, contact your county Extension agent for agriculture or phone Regulatory Services," he advised. The phone number is 606-258-2668 or 258-2870.

"There is nothing wrong with liquid fertilizers, except the misleading claims," Terry said.

He reported that research at the University of Kentucky aid many other universities has shown there is no significant difference in plant response between liquid and dry fertilizers when valid comparisons are made on the basis of plant nutrient content.

Animal Production Symposium To Be Held In Lexington
 Animal scientists, entomologists, veterinary scientists and other researchers from across the country will meet in Lexington March 31, April 2 for a national symposium, "Systems Approach to Animal Health and Production Under One Roof."
 The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture will sponsor the conference, to be held on the UK campus.

The symposium is believed to be the first to use a systems approach to livestock integrated pest management. Participants will integrate research performed in various disciplines concerned with animal health and production, such as animal sciences, veterinary medicine, genetics, agronomy, entomology, parasitology, agricultural engineering and economics.

The conference will attempt to make researchers in all fields aware of how to work together to solve farmers' problems, said Dr. Otto Loewer, crop and animal production specialist in the UK ag engineering department.

Insurance Assurance Senator Walter Deen Huddleston has received assurances from Agriculture Secretary John Block that the expanded federal crop insurance program authorized by Huddleston and passed by Congress will be fully implemented, even though action in the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC)'s supplemental budget request was not completed before Congress adjourned last December.

Block's assurances came in response to an amendment Huddleston offered in the Agriculture Committee to require the transfer of $4.2 million from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to the FCIC to cover administrative and operating expenses of the expanded "all risk" crop insurance program.

The Kentucky senator offered the amendment to legislation that would eliminate the scheduled April 1 adjustment in dairy price supports.

The crop assistance program should, over the next several years, offer farmers the opportunity to obtain insurance on all major crops to cover losses from natural disasters.

Under the expanded program this year, farmers in 12 Kentucky counties will be able to insure an expanded list of crops during the 1981 and 1982 crop years, and eight more Kentucky counties will be eligible for insurance for the first time.

Give Block's assurances that implementation of the program will remain on schedule, the Committee decided against attaching Huddleston's amendment to the dairy price support bill, which is the first of Reagan's proposed spending reductions to come up for a vote.

The Committee voted 14-2 to report the bill to forego the mid-year price support adjustment. Huddleston, the ranking Democrat on the Committee, called the bill "a litmus test for the President's program."

"We recognize the need for reducing the cost of the program," the senator said. "But we will review the sacrifices that have been made by the dairy industry after more of the President's proposals go through Congress to make sure they do not suffer unduly."

April — Month Of The Largemouth Bass

This week, April breaks across northeastern Kentucky, and already bass fishermen by the hundreds have been trying their luck at farm ponds and shallow lakes around the region.

Some success has been reported, most of it coming in the form of lunker-size bass being taken from traditional, early bass lakes and farm ponds.

So far, success has come to those anglers who are skilled enough to know where deep water bass hang out in March, or those lucky enough to have tossed a bait or lure right on top of a growling bucketmouth that couldn't do anything else but take a smack at it.

Bass anglers, depending once again on their degree of skill, will discover April to be the best month of the year for largemouth that come out way in this end of the state.

For those planning to attend the Bass Fishing Institute this weekend at Morehead State University, much of the following will be discussed by the top pros in the bass-fishing business.

For those of you who won't be attending the two-day session, we've contacted two of the area's top bass anglers and asked them to pass on to you some of the dos and don'ts of bass fishing locally during the fourth month of the year.

JIM TOM CAUDILL, who when he isn't fishing, is putting tires on cars and trucks at Caudill Tire Co. in Morehead, is considered a top-notch basser in the Cave Run area and probably knows as much about bass fishing in the big lakes as anyone. Jim Tom will be fishing Cave Run throughout the month and he'll also venture out to Dale Hollow, Lake Cumberland, Woods Creek Lake and to local farm ponds. All of these areas are proven bass producers during April for the experienced angler.

Jim Tom says he'll be casting the jig-n-eel and flipping a jig-n-worm throughout the spring bassin' period. He'll also be tossing spinner baits and crankbaits a great deal of the time.

Where will Jim Tom be fishing Cave Run during April? He answers that question by saying he'll be found in or near any running water that's entering the lake. Reason: warmer water, plus more oxygen, and finally, lots of food fish can be found in these areas that, in turn, attract larger predatory fish, such as bass.

It's difficult to get a pattern on April bass, says the Cave Run bass expert, but one of the most consistent patterns he's seen on the big lake, occurs in standing timber. "For ever 50 standing trees in the coves of Cave Run, there'll be one down in the water. This is the one place I search for, outside the running water areas. On the shady side of a downed log, throw a spinner bait on the length of the log and reel it back to the middle of the tree, then kill it!"

"That means letting it flutter down. About the time it falls below the log, a bass will hit the lure in many cases," explained Jim Tom.

He also reported catching 30 bass with this method in a tournament during early spring while his partner managed to catch only two fish. Before the day was over, he explained what he was doing to the other angler who has successfully used the method ever since.

Another trick that has worked for Jim Tom is, when casting a jig-n-eel into fallen trees, allow the lure to fall straight down rather than tight lining it down. When tight-lining, the lure falls on an angle and the bass often pass it up. A straight drop, however, is a different story. "Bass seem to prefer this method in April, but a close eye must be kept on the line to detect a strike," he explained.

Jim Tom's final words of advice to April bass fishermen are to fish and think. "When you catch a bass, Stop! Think about every detail that caused you to catch the fish. If you catch another bass, Stop! Was it under the same conditions as the first bass? If it was, you may be in for a great day of bassin'. Because you are probably on one of these rare spring patterns that really pays off," he concluded.

PHILLIP COOPER of Grayson is a well-known bass angler in Kentucky. He has won enough bass fishing tournaments to prove he knows what he's doing.

Phil lives at Grayson and works the waters of nearby Grayson Reservoir frequently in spring. His advice to local bassers who want to be successful in April is one word: change.

"During April, weather and water conditions are changing all the time and these changes have a direct effect on bass fishing. If I could give only one piece of advice on April bassin', it would be to keep changing," Phil says.

Phil goes on to explain that in April there are no absolutes in bass fishing. Generally, water temperature is still in the 50s and bass have moved out of deep water and have spread all over the lake. At this time of year, bass are found on points, in hollows, rock banks, mud banks and just about anywhere else.

With the fish spread over such large areas, Phil advises April bass fishermen to cover a lot of water using spinner baits and crank baits.

"Select the lure size based on water color," he said, adding that if the water is milky to muddy, select a larger lure than if it's clear. That's when a smaller lure is most effective.

"If it's one of those rare Aprils when the water is very clear, try working a Rapala or Helicat for some hot action," he said.

Phil says that later in April, when water temperatures reach the 60s, bass start looking for spawning areas. This is the time to fish shallow banks that have stumps, snags and other cover. When basic hardware is still effective, Phil believes the plastic worm will be the number one bass getter.

He prefers curly tail worms—Flitail's live-and-one-quarter inch Flirt and a six-inch Fisty are his favorite for this period of the season.

Phil suggests that bass anglers trying their luck at Grayson would be wise to try for Kentucky bass since the lake holds a very good population of this species. "Unlike largemouths, Kentuckies like rock cliffs all the time, even when they are nesting. Look for slides, dead trees, snags, cracks in the cliff, or any other feature that makes one section of the rock different than the rest," he added.

Finally, both Phil and Jim Tom agree that once a productive pattern has been discovered for April, bass anglers should fish that pattern hard because chances are good that it won't last long. In early April, these patterns may only last an hour or so. Later in the month, the same pattern may stay for as long as two days.
