Fiscal Court Approves Budget, Makes Alterations In Three Areas

BY ALICE AKIN
Staff Writer

Rowan Fiscal Court whisked through its proposed budget for fiscal year 1981-82 Tuesday, making only three changes in the 40-page document as compiled by Judge/Executive W.C. Flannery's office.

Those changes, introduced by Magistrate Paul Ousley, included the county's allocation of $12,000 instead of $8,000 proposed to the City of Morehead for fire protection.

The Cranston Fire Department's allotment was increased from $3,000 to $4,000 and the City of Lakeview Heights, scheduled to receive $3,000, was granted nothing.

In cutting out funding for Lakeview Heights, Ousley noted that the city had not presented definite plans for its fire protection.

In another budget change, the court eliminated the position of secretary to County Treasurer Virginia Collier, a job that was scheduled for a salary of $8,800 annually.

Ousley said that if part-time help was needed in that office, funds could be transferred out of the general fund.

Mrs. Collier's salary, the magistrates said, the work load in her office was too heavy for one person to handle.

Judge Flannery suggested that his secretary, Martha Russell, be appointed assistant treasurer in Mrs. Collier's office.

However, Ousley said that move would be a conflict of interests since the judge's office and the treasurer's office kept two sets of books and were audited.

In the third change in the budget, the court agreed to give the Rowan County Air Board $5,000 cash in addition to the $2,000 that was budgeted for utilities.

All changes were made in the federal revenue sharing portion of the budget changing the amount in transfers from $5,444 to $7,253.

The proposed budget, with its alterations, received yes votes from Magistrates Ousley, Roy Plank and Calvin Ray Lytle.

Lemuel Black Jr. voted no. The budget now goes to Frankfort for review and approval of the State and Local Finance Officer and back to the magistrates for first and second readings on an ordinance adopting it.

The court will meet again at 11 a.m. Tuesday, June 30, for first reading of the ordinance and will give its second reading at its regular monthly session at 9 a.m. Thursday, July 2.

Bridge Emergency

As a result of the Pennington Flat Road Bridge being washed out, the court recognized the situation as an emergency and authorized the bridge to be rebuilt by Jackson Builders not to exceed a cost of $16,000.

Keith Packer, who had looked at the project with Ousley as did Jackson Builders and Hubbard Construction Co., was present at Tuesday's meeting and questioned the court as to why it was giving the job to Jackson instead of him.

Ousley said that the decision was based on a quote.

"If you're going to go by quotes then give me the opportunity — why ask my quote if you're not going to quote it?" Mrs. Packer, who had earlier estimated the cost of the job at approximately $15,000.

County Attorney John Cox said that the matter of quotes should not enter into what firm was going to get the job since the court was recognizing the situation as an emergency and had to move quickly to get someone on the job rather than going through the process of advertising and accepting bids and establishing specifications.

In other discussion on bridges, the court agreed to provide the Jaycees with bridge material to repair the bridge leading to the Jaycee Farm. It also told Tott Reynolds that an effort would be made to find 26-foot soils to repair the Cook Hollow Bridge which Reynolds said was about to fall through.

Custodian Job Discussed

The court voted unanimously to accept the resignation of Brooks Karrick as courthouse custodian and to advertise the position with applications to be considered at the next court meeting on July 2.

The resignation is effective as of June 15 — the date of last month's court meeting during which a controversy arose over Karrick's salary.

Karrick had asked for $1,200 per month to maintain the second floor of the new courthouse facility as well as the grounds at the old courthouse. His present salary was $383 per month.

At that meeting, the court agreed to take the matter under advisement, but Karrick later said he would not work until the salary matter was settled.

Karrick was not present at Tuesday's meeting. Cox said that Karrick had turned in his keys and that he (Cox) in the meantime had made arrangements himself to have the courthouse cleaned and secured.

Although Karrick has not submitted a formal resignation, Cox said that since

Rowan Water Adopts New Meter Policy

Responding to a situation that developed in the Moore's Flat area recently, the board of directors for Rowan Water Inc. voted Tuesday night not to install any more meters onto its system without prior approval of the board.

The new policy is designed to prevent future problems from arising such as the one over who controlled a water line at Moore's Flat and who could tap onto a meter.

Previously, office workers would accept a deposit from customers for water service, if it appeared that a line was available for the placement of a meter.

In the Moore's Flat situation, Rowan Water had accepted an application from Dr. Ronald Mersky for water service, thinking that it could use a line in the area that was constructed by Ollie Barker. Barker refused to permit that, however, claiming that since he built the line, he should control. Rowan Water has a policy that anyone who builds a line turns over control of it after one year to the utility.

Last Friday, the board voted to install a second water line in the area, alongside the one Barker had laid.

Mersky had bought his property with the understanding that he would be able to tap onto the water system, and he paid the required $200 deposit for the meter.

Barker contended that, since he built the line himself, he should control it and he had no intention of letting Mersky tap on because he did not share in the costs of building it.

Friday, the board agreed to go ahead and build the second line to avoid the expense of litigation.

In addition to Mersky, the directors assessed Harold and Carl Brewer Tuesday night that the line would also serve them. The Brewers, whose property is farther down from Mersky's and Barker's, were under the impression that the new line would just be constructed to serve Mersky.

To make its position clear Tuesday night, the board passed a resolution to extend the new two-inch line to the Brewer property.

Gene White, Rowan Water vice president, who chaired the meeting in the absence of Sherman Arnett, explained the new tap-on procedure.

"Applications for new hookups will be accepted at the office," he said, "but they won't be installed until the board has a chance to check them out. After the board approves an application, the tap will be put on and the fee will be charged."

In other action, the board voted to purchase some public officials' and employees' liability insurance through C. Roger Lewis Agency at an annual premium of $20. Said White, "This is something we should have had all the time. It just gives the board and our employees some protection. Say if someone should get hurt — for instance if a child breaks into one of our pump stations and gets injured — we would be covered."

The board also voted to authorize Arnett and Henry Cline, the board secretary, to borrow enough money from Citizens Bank to pay a $15,274.16 invoice for partial payment of engineering fees on a water project to Kenney Engineers of Lexington. According to White, all of Rowan Water's available money presently is tied up in short term certificates of deposit.

In other matters, the board turned down a request to expand water service to nine families on Pond Lick Road. John Barnes, who lives in the area off KY 377, asked that the water system be extended one mile and a half to Ival Ison's property. He pointed out that Grassly Lick has water, and said, "We feel like we are part of the county and deserve water. Right now, we all have to use wells."

Board member James Wells told Barnes, "We just don't have the manpower and money to expand out that direction."

Finally, the board approved a policy establishing eight paid holidays for its employees. They are: New Year's Day, EMT's from the Morehead-Rowan Ambulance Service loaded Greg Perkins onto a stretcher Wednesday after the truck he was riding in overturned on I-64 in the eastbound lane, about seven miles west of Morehead. Perkins suffered a broken leg in the wreck.

Two Men Hurt; 1,500 Trout Die In Wreck

Two men were injured and 1,500 Rainbow Trout were killed in an unusual accident Wednesday afternoon on Interstate 64, about seven miles west of Morehead. State police said that Robert J. Distefano, 21, of Sharsburg, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of a state Department of Fish and Wildlife truck around noon in the eastbound lane of I-64, while enroute to stock a Rowan County stream with the 1,500 trout.

The truck flipped over a guardrail, landed on its side and spilled its contents all over the roadway.

Distefano was treated and released with minor injuries at St. Claire Medical Center. A passenger in the truck, 28-year-old Greg A. Perkins of Frankfort, was admitted to St. Claire with a broken leg.

The Morehead Volunteer Fire Department was called to the scene to hose down a gas leak and deal with two oxygen tanks that were on the truck.

Police blocked both eastbound lanes of the roadway for over an hour because, as assistant Fire Chief Lee Helwig said, "All it would take was a spark to really have a nice explosion."

All the trout died immediately after being exposed to the warm temperatures outside their tank.

An estimated 1,500 Rainbow Trout, destined for stocking in a Rowan County stream, were killed when the tanker truck overturned.

KSP Trooper John Lambert surveyed the scene of the accident that backed up traffic for a couple of miles on I-64.

Jennings Dies From Gunshot Wound

A 30-year-old Morehead man has died from injuries he sustained from a gunshot wound on Thursday, June 11.

James Jennings, of Pine Ridge Apartments, died Monday morning at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington. Jennings had been shot once in the left side of his face during an incident on Dry Creek Road.

Meanwhile, police say that murder charges are pending against the cast against Lonnie Jennings, 43, of Clearfield.

Lonnie Jennings, a distant cousin of the victim, has been lodged in the Rowan County Jail under 10 percent of a $5,000 cash bond since his arrest June 4 on charges of first degree assault.

Police said at the time Jennings was shot, he was in his pickup truck and had stopped to talk with Lonnie Jennings, who was standing in a yard.

Police said Lonnie Jennings allegedly fired one shot at the victim. The victim's wife, Betty Louise Horton Jennings, was said to be in the truck with him at the time of the shooting.

Last year, Lonnie Jennings was indicted by a Rowan grand jury on charges of first degree wanton endangerment. He was charged with firing a handgun in the direction of a house occupied by his ex-wife and her children.

In a plea bargain arrangement, Jennings pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of second degree wanton endangerment and was given a 12-month suspended jail sentence. He was also fined $250 and ordered to pay court costs of $50.

In addition to his wife, Jennings is survived by his mother, Nellie Roberts of Morehead. His father, Henry Jennings is deceased. Other survivors

Sewer Plant Officials Say Contractor Not Getting Job Done

Morehead Sewer Treatment Plant Chief Operator Bobby Williams points to the video display screens if the plant's $2.6 million computer system. The computer will allow the plant to be operated both automatically and manually once the system is completed. (Staff photo by Joe Adams)

The completion of the Morehead Sewer Treatment Plant at Bluestone is like a clear day in Texas.

In one case, the end of it. Plant Chief Operator Bob Williams said final construction of the $11 million plant continues at a snail's pace as various repairs and other needed additions remain neglected by contractor Shook Inc., of Dayton, Ohio.

"I have been expecting men from Shook to do some work here anytime. But, I have been expecting them for over a month," said Williams.

The Morehead Utility Plant Board voted to withhold payments last Thursday "at least for our July meetings" to both Shook and the firm of Bell Engineers from Lexington because of prolonged completion of the plant.

Morehead Utility Plant Board Superintendent Buster Alderman said neither Shook nor Bell had been notified of the withheld payments.

"Neither one has been notified. I guess they will call us when they start to wonder about their money," said Alderman.

Alderman said Shook had given various reasons for slow completion, including bad weather and manufacturer strikes.

"Nobody knows why they are going so slow. There have been delays but no reason for anyone not to do anything. Looks like the faster they would get it done the faster they would get their money," said Alderman.

"Shook would probably tell us it is completed so they could get out of it. But there are a lot of things that need to be done. Some things work, some things do not," said Alderman.

Alderman said liquidated damages of $250 are being withheld from Shook for each day past the original October completion date.

"There is no projection date now. No one knows when it will be completed. Their money will be withheld until they get it finished and I have no idea when that will be. They do not either," said Alderman.

Utility Plant Board Attorney Paul Blair said Bell had not been notified since the last meeting. However, Blair said both Shook and Bell "have been notified several times about various problems."

"I do not know what the hold up is," said Blair.

Blair said there are two major problems with the plant: a treated waste discharge line running from Bluestone to Farmers and needed completion of a $250,000 computer.

"The first major problem is a discharge line that takes sewage to the Licking river for discharge. A manhole in the line has been overflowing. Shook has raised elevation of the manhole but that did not eliminate the problem."

"The second major problem is completion of the computer. The computer should control the sewer system by itself. It is in the plant but it has not been fully operational," said Blair.

Blair said Bell had been contacted in May concerning the problems.

"My understanding is Bell did come after the letter was written to check the manhole and discharge line or both," said Blair.

Alderman said the line is currently discharging into Triplett Creek because of overflow from the manhole in Farmers.

"The state gives us permits to run it either place, but as soon as we get the manhole fixed we will start putting it back into the Licking River," said Alderman.

Alderman said Bell's engineers were working on new claims for the line and he thought the problem would be solved "within a month or two depending on how long it takes to get the clamps made for the 24-inch pipe."

"When the computer is totally installed and all instruments are calibrated, we could check the flow level for any minute of any day for all previous years of the system," said Williams.

The completed system would allow all plant facilities to be either automatically or manually controlled through the computer.

Williams said the computer also has

Sewer Plant Problems

(Continued from page one) an alarm monitor system but "we have not gotten to the point to where we can trust it yet because the system is not completed.

"We can meet all state and federal requirements now but it will be so much easier once we get the computer going," said Williams.

Williams said the computer will continue to operate at 10 percent of its capacity until Shook calibrates and installs the necessary instruments.

"The computer is not totally functional. Hopefully, the warranty will not start until after it is completely accepted," said Williams.

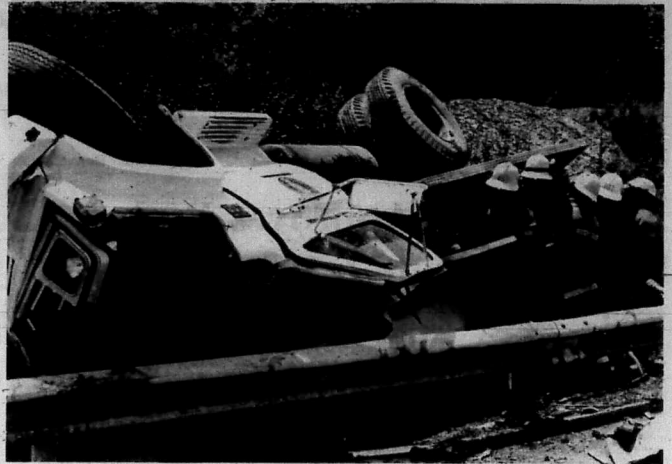

Williams said the computer had been in limited use at the plant since May. "I can get say it is ready to go because there is always something needing to be done to it," said Williams.

Williams said Bell will be the final inspector of the computer while Shook will be responsible for the warranty.

"After they have calibrated the instruments, Shook will be responsible for calling computer company Fisher-Porter who will then make adjustments. Hopefully, the computer will be under warranty after Bell's final

- inspection," said Williams.
- Williams said other needed Shook additions and repairs include:
 - Installation of fire extinguishers and four electric clocks.
 - An 18-inch floor buffer with attachments.
 - 10 gallons of new paint.
 - Various signs, such as "Fire Extinguisher" and "Exit."
 - Three plunger pump replacements for pumps that blow ruptured disks. The disks protect the pump from excessive pressure.
 - Repair a water leak that comes through concrete by one of the pumps.
 - Replacement of an elevator not meeting state approval.
 - Adjustment of computer and field instruments improperly designed.
 - Repair of a non-functional pump.
 - Thermal protectors for blowers and pumps.
 - Repair of leaking clarifiers.
 - Replacement of blown circuit breakers.
 - Completion of attached railing on the sludge thickener.
 - Installation of a thermal protection switch for electric heater in

- chlorine feed room.
 - Replacement of a large skylight not properly installed.
 - Repair of a roof leak in the boiler room.
 - Repair of a lab probe which checks oxygen water levels and calibrates computer instruments.
- "Basically, anyone can see these things are wrong but Bell has equipment to spot things I might not even know about.
- "The overriding problem is getting the computer ready for inspection. Shook can deal with the other installations without any problem. There are things they know they have to fix but have not done anything with.
- "I do not know if they are evaluating their information or what they are doing," said Williams.
- Vice-President for Shook Inc. Vince Corrado, and Resident Inspector Art Rodgers of Bell Engineers could not be reached for comment.
- The payment issue is expected to be decided upon at the next Morehead Utility Plant Board meeting Thursday, July 9 at 7:30 at the board's office, 109 Bishop Ave.

Members of the Morehead Volunteer Fire Department worked Wednesday afternoon to remove an oxygen tank from this Department of Fish and Wildlife truck, which overturned on I-64, spilling about 1,500 trout across the roadway. Police blocked both eastbound lanes of the interstate for over an hour while the firemen removed any danger of explosion. (Staff photo by Joe Lamb)

To The Voters Of The 71st District

I am deeply appreciative of the personal support I have received through the years of my service in the General Assembly. I extend best wishes to my successor, Dr. Walter Blevins, and assure all of you that I remain committed to the improvement of Eastern Kentucky. I thank you sincerely for the opportunity to serve.

Sincerely,

Brown Seeks University Cost-Cutting Measures

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has asked the state-supported universities to submit to him costcutting plans by mid-November as part of his effort to cut down state spending.

Brown, in a meeting with the chairmen of the boards of regents and trustees of the eight schools, said he wants them to develop ways of better managing their funds and the elimination of duplicated programs.

Despite speculation to the contrary, Brown said there was no discussion at the meeting of the possible closing of Kentucky State University.

A controversial proposal is being considered by the state Council on Higher Education which calls for the merger of KSU with the University of Louisville in an effort to meet federally mandated desegregation.

Brown said he met with the trustees and regents — and not university presidents — because he thought he would get a less defensive view of problems from the chairmen than the presidents.

Brown told reporters after the meeting that he will make appointments to some of the university boards next month, and indicated he would probably not reappoint A.B. "Happy" Chandler to the UK Board of Trustees.

"I do like fresh blood when I can justify it," Brown said.

Chandler's appointment expires at the end of this month, but Chandler said he does not expect to be reappointed.

57 Counties Declared Areas With Labor Surplus

FRANKFORT, Ky. Fifty-seven Kentucky counties have been designated as labor surplus areas by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Department for Human Resources officials announced today. The classification, effect from June 1, 1981, through May 31, 1982, makes

Gas Tax Is Going Up

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Kentucky's gasoline tax will rise to 10.4 cents a gallon on July 1 because of wholesale gasoline price increases during April, the Department of Revenue has announced.

The increase, up from the current rate of 9.5 cents, will cost consumers an additional 9 cents for each 10 gallons of gas they buy. The new rate will be in effect from July through September.

Recent reported drops in gasoline prices are not reflected in the new quarterly rate because the law requires the July rate to be based on April prices.

In April, gasoline prices were rising due to President Reagan's decontrol of oil prices.

If the current leveling of wholesale prices remains in effect during July, this would be reflected in the state gasoline tax rate for the quarter beginning Oct. 1.

The increase is the second under a 1980 state law which changed the gasoline tax from a flat 9 cents a gallon to 9 percent of the average statewide wholesale gasoline price. Under that law, a new rate is set each quarter, based on surveys taken in January, April, July and October.

The first increase to 9.5 cents a gallon went into effect April 1.

According to reports of April prices filed by wholesale dealers, the average wholesale price was slightly more than $1.15, up from $1.05 in January.

These wholesale prices do not include the state excise tax and the 4-cent-a-gallon federal excise tax.

The state's surtax on fuels used in three-axle trucks will increase to 2.3

cents a gallon effective July 1, making the total tax on truck fuels 12.7 cents a gallon. The increases also apply to diesel fuels and liquefied petroleum gas used in motor vehicles.

Coal Hearings Set

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Citizen and coal industry comments on proposed Kentucky surface mining regulations will be heard during three public hearings this summer.

Hearings for discussion of the draft will be held July 30 in Frankfort, Aug. 6 in Harlan and Aug. 13 in Madisonville, announced Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart. Times and locations will be set later.

Swigart presented draft copies of the surface-mining primacy package to representatives of the Kentucky General Assembly and the coal industry on June 15.

She stressed that the draft is not a final document, but will be refined after the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department receives public comments and notification of any changes in federal regulations.

Secretary Swigart said the department hopes to submit its final draft to the U.S. Department of Interior this fall. The Natural Resources Department is currently restrained from submitting its primacy package by an order filed in Martin County Circuit Court.

employers located in the designated areas eligible for preference in bidding on federal procurement contracts according to Ed Blackwell of Human Resources' research and statistics branch.

"This designation simply means these areas are experiencing high rates of unemployment," Blackwell said. "The goal of making the classification is to place a portion of the federal government's procurement dollars into areas where people are in severe economic need, and where unemployment is highest."

The federal Labor Department makes the classifications annually, based on each area's averaged unemployment rate for the previous two calendar years. The 57 Kentucky counties qualified for the designation based on unemployment rates from January 1979 through December 1980.

"By using this reference period, it is possible to target federal procurement contracts into areas experiencing unemployment that is relatively long-term in nature and due primarily to workers lacking job skills rather than due to economic cycles," Blackwell noted.

To be included in the annual listing, an area must have had an unemployment rate during the two-year reference period that was 20 percent above the national average rate for the same period. The national average unemployment rate for the period was 6.6 percent. The Labor Department used 7.9 percent, or 6.6 percent multiplied by 1.20, to classify labor surplus areas for this year's listing," Blackwell explained.

To be considered for classification as a labor surplus area, a jurisdiction must have a population of at least 50,000.

Eligibility requirements for designation of an area as labor surplus may be waived if an increase in unemployment occurs that was not reflected in the reference period. "This can happen due to natural disasters, plant closings, contract cancellations and other instances that would adversely impact an area's employment," Blackwell said.

Among Kentucky counties designated as labor surplus areas are Bath, Carter, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Wolfe.

Members of the Rowan County Chapter of Future Farmers of America Advisor Bill Patrick attended the FFA State Convention at the Galt House in Louisville, June 16-17.

David Hook received the State Farmer Degree, based on a farming program and good participation in the FFA Program. David also had two proficiency entries in state competition, agriculture mechanics and beef production.

In addition to the above accomplishments, David received the DeKalb Agriculture Award, which goes to the most outstanding senior in the FFA, who has the best farming program and is the most active in FFA activities.

The FFA State Convention is held annually for all FFA members in the state. It provides competition in state FFA contests, recognition of all state winners and awards.

Downey Initiated

Roy J. Downey of Mt. Sterling is among 24 Morehead State University students who recently were initiated into MSU's chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, men's social fraternity.

Church Members Attending Meeting

Most delegates of the local Jehovah's Witnesses will be attending a district convention in Huntington, W.Va. in June.

More than one million delegates are anticipated at these Kingdom Loyalty conventions that will be held in 67 cities across the country.

"Revolutions, coups, and insurrections have become common in our time," stated a spokesman for the local congregation, "showing that there is a lack of loyalty in the world. The greatest need of the human family right now is God's kingdom that Jesus taught his followers to pray for, that is, a government deserving the loyalty of all mankind."

All conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses are open to the public without fee or collection.

MSU Is Seeking Academic Head

Morehead State University is now accepting applications to the position of vice president for academic affairs.

The successful applicant will replace Dr. William F. White, who was reassigned to another university position earlier this year.

The vice president is the chief academic officer at the university and is responsible for the administration of its educational programs.

The deadline for applications is July 15.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl with a problem you have never heard of.

I'm sure you know lots of people who can crack their knuckles, but how many people do you know who can crack their toes, ankles, knees, elbows, wrists, neck, back and thighs?

My mother says: if I don't quit cracking all these bones I am going to wind up in a wheelchair. She claims it will give me arthritis.

Please check with your authorities and find out if my mother is right. - A Bit Worried In North Bay, Ont.

Dear North Bay: You must be the life of the party, girl - especially when you crack your thighs!

My consultants tell me you will not get arthritis from cracking all those joints, but you really should stop cracking your back. If you throw something out of whack while engaging in this crowd-pleaser, it could be very painful.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a college student, only 20 years old, but I feel as if I've been 100 years in the grave. Before I got in this shape I was as popular and happy as any of my friends. Now I am miserable.

These last two years I have been unable to communicate with anyone. Lately, I've been spending all my time with books. I go from being severely depressed to feeling as if I am on top of the world. I dread the combination of depression and loneliness. It seems I have lost all interest in those for whom I should care the most. I shun serious involvements and have recently ruined some long-time friendships. I go out of my way to avoid accepting responsibility and decision-making.

I am aware that there are some loons in my ancestry. They used to amuse me. Now I wonder if I am providing amusement for others. There have been no recent traumas in my life. I can't figure out why I am like this. Can you help me - or am I already crazy? - Monroe, La.

Dear Monroe: Your mood swings, inability to communicate and self-defeating behavior are symptoms that indicate the need for professional help. This does not mean you are crazy. It means you are having emotional problems.

Two years is a long time to suffer. Since you are a college student, the first step is to make an appointment with your student guidance counselor. If intensive therapy is suggested, I implore you to get it. A 20-year-old who feels as if he's been "100 years in the grave" can't hack it alone.

Local Army Reservists In Training

FT. KNOX, Ky. — Army Reservists in the Morehead unit of the 100th Army Reserve Division arrived at Ft. Knox Saturday (June 13) to undergo two weeks of annual training.

The unit, which is one of the Armor OSUT (One Station Unit Training) units in the 100th Division's Third Brigade, will be working on SQT (Skill Qualification Tests) in the different military specialties.

Most of the members will be working with armor equipment while others will be working in positions such as clerks and cooks.

In addition, the members of the Reserve unit will be conducting regular training such as first aid and safety and rifle/pistol marksmanship.

The unit is scheduled to return home June 27.

Mayors Divided Over Reagan's Plans

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Republican mayors said President Reagan's landslide was being ignored, but Democratic mayors stuck by their guns and went on record opposing Reagan's plan to merge almost 100 urban aid programs into "block grants."

Reagan has said the "block grants" — to be funneled through state governments — would have less strings attached and thus would offer mayors more influence on how the money is used.

But Democrats attending the U.S. Conference of Mayors annual meeting, which ended Wednesday, said they feared competition with suburban and rural interests for federal monies allocated at the state level.

Big-city Democrats traditionally dominate the conference and Wednesday's final session reflected their greater numbers as the mayors called for several changes in Reagan's "block grant" program: one seeking a required automatic pass-through of funds and one asking for a local role in allocating the money.

Democrats also managed to head off a GOP revolt as a group of mayors sought to elect fellow Republican Hernan Padilla of San Juan, P.R., as chairman of the conference advisory position, a post which would put him in line to head the group in two years as the 1984 presidential campaign begins.

"That's a pure partisan appeal," complained Democrat Lee Alexander of Syracuse, N.Y., who headed the committee which nominated Democrat Richard H. Fulton of Nashville, Tenn., to the advisory board chairmanship.

Reagan's chief defender at the conference — Republican Richard Carver of Peoria, Ill. — said the election of Democrats to the top three positions in the bipartisan group could endanger its effectiveness.

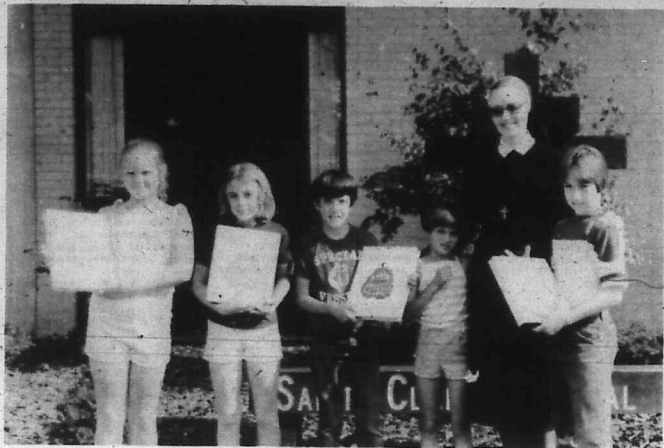

"We must speak with a full spectrum of voices," said Carver, himself a former president of the group.

Democrats Helen G. Boosalis of Lincoln, Neb., and Coleman A. Young of Detroit were elected president and vice president, respectively.

Young skipped the conference because of fiscal problems in his city. Other big-city mayors absent from the meeting included Ed Koch of New York, Kevin White of Boston, Jane M. Byrne of Chicago and Tom Bradley of Los Angeles.

Third through sixth graders in the "Special Vessels," a children's fellowship at the United Methodist Church, enjoy doing things for other people. Throughout the year they have money-raising activities to support mission and local projects. Recently they presented cassette tapes of the Old and New Testaments to St. Claire Medical Center. In accepting the gift, Sister Mary Joell, S.M.D., administrator, said just a few days before receiving the tapes, a patient who would have a longer than average stay at the hospital, had asked if any tapes were available. Area Native Has Aim On Country Music Career Carlotta Gail is better known locally as Carolina Hamilton. Born in Rowan and raised in Carter County, she will return home July 4 to sing at the Olive Hill Homecoming.

Carlotta Gail married Paul Tarkenton, also of Carter County. She is the daughter of Marcell Logan of Carter County and the granddaughter of Grace Yoder and Vina Hillierland, both of Morehead.

The following is reprinted from the Friday, June 12 edition of the Nashville Banner newspaper.

By MARK HOWARD
Banner Staff Writer

Carlotta Gail watched from the bottom rung of the country music ladder as fans lined up for the autograph of another singer who had climbed it to the top.

The distance between Miss Gail's Fan Fair booth to that of Barbara Mandrell could be measured in years and gold records instead of feet, but she eyed the swarm of Mandrell fans with more hope than envy.

"I feel like there's a place somewhere for me in the music business," she said, unconsciously parroting a song title. "I just love it."

A striking woman in appearance with engaging eyes, Miss Gail was dressed for the role she wants to play, clad in the requisite Western-style hat and husband, designer jeans and a leather vest that showed off her tan to good advantage.

A thin gold chain or two dangled from her neck.

She had begun singing only five years ago, she said.

"Same old story," she smiled. "A friend encouraged me to enter a talent contest."

She placed first out of 150 contestants, and a dream was born.

She became a regular on an imitation Grand Ole Opry near her home in Springfield, Ill. The experience as the lead act for a number of the big stars further fired the dream. She said she "got really determined" to make it big around a year ago.

Her husband and two children, ages 10 and 11, have been "very understanding."

Miss Gail's career is in what could be said "Coal Miner's Daughter" is the song I won the talent contest with, I'm a country singer. I feel like I come alive when I'm singing."

Fan Fair, she said, has provided her an opportunity to get her name before the public. She performed before 2,000 people at one of the Fan Fair shows, and said she has been "swamped" by autograph seekers at her booth.

She has given herself two years "while I'm still under the hill" — to make an impact on the music world. "I can't wait," she said.

Shade Kincer Father Of Year For Sr. Citizens

Shade Kincer is modest about his winning the father of the year title at the Rowan County Senior Citizen Center. "We've got some more good people here," he says.

The former owner of Big Ben's, a drive-in by the Rowan County High School, Kincer was elected by popular vote.

"I think it was fixed," said Wendell Doud, another regular at the center. Keeping a straight face, he added, "We're going to investigate this."

The good-natured kidding is part of the activity that goes on five days a week around the lunch hour at the center on Wilson Avenue.

"Used to, I'd sit here, drop my head, eat and leave," recalled Kincer. "But that's not like me. I've always been out front. When working in the church, I would sing in the choir — do everything but preach."

Kincer changed his ways, and now "everytime I see a senior citizen I invite them to come." He has been honored by his friends before, including his election as president of the group for three years.

One of his obvious pleasures is taking trips with the seniors. "We're going to Shertown tomorrow (Thursday)," he said. "We'll have a good time."

He explained, "We never pass up a rest stop; we sing songs over we make up song sheets." The travelers bring plenty of snacks on board the bus "like fried chicken" and a cold container of Kool-Aid is placed near the driver.

Morehead State University student, Pam Atkins is "taking care" of the seniors on their trips this summer, Kincer says. "You never know when one of us might go off on a tangent in the city."

The Father of the Year has one daughter, Mrs. Wayne (Hedy) Caldwell, and two grandchildren, David and Lisa.

With his title, he received $30 in gift certificates and a certificate of award.

A.D. Coleman was selected runner-up, and was given silver cufflinks and a tiptack, as well as a certificate.

Frank Cornette, 87, was proclaimed oldest father at the center. Herbert Baker was cited for having the most children and grandchildren, and Harold Belcher won the service award. They received certificates and ashtrays.

Social Security

Medicare hospital insurance can cover care in a skilled nursing facility for people when eligibility conditions are met.

Hospital insurance covers post-hospital care in a skilled nursing facility that takes part in Medicare when all of the following conditions are met:

- The patient was in a hospital for at least 3 days in a row, not counting day of discharge.
- The patient is transferred to the skilled nursing facility because he or she needs further care for a condition which was treated in the hospital.
- The patient is admitted to the facility within a short time, usually 14 days after leaving the hospital.
- A doctor certifies that skilled nursing or skilled rehabilitation services are needed and being received on a daily basis.
- The facility's utilization review committee or the professional standards review organization does not disapprove the stay.

When all of these conditions are met, hospital insurance can pay for care for up to a maximum of 100 days in each benefit period, but only if the care is needed for that length of time. Hospital insurance pays all of the costs of covered services for the first 20 days and all but $25.00 for up to 90 more days.

For more information about the eligibility conditions and the services Medicare can cover, contact the Ashland Social Security Office. The people there will be glad to answer any questions. The office is located at 1816 Carter Avenue, and the telephone number is 325-7666.

Hoss Tradin' Days Planned

OWINGSVILLE — The Fourth of July weekend in Bath County will be a big one featuring the annual Arts, Crafts and Hoss Tradin' Days Festival plus the Owingville Lions Club Horse Show.

Festival hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4, and 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday, July 5.

Most of the arts and crafts will be housed inside.

There will be a booth charge of $5 per day for each exhibitor unless additional space is needed for which there will be a $5 added charge.

Exhibitors must make advance reservations and payments by June 27.

Checks should be made payable to Arts and Crafts, Owingville Chamber of Commerce, with an enclosed application to Ray Ellis, P.O. Box 161, Owingville, Ky. 40360.

Exhibitors will be responsible for their own tables, chairs and other supplies.

All quilts and afghans to be entered in contests must be at the Bath County Florist no later than Saturday, June 20.

Further information may be obtained by calling Ellis at (606)674-6754 or Mrs. Zana Lou Tout at (606)674-6365.

Morehead Wins Sixth Straight With Sweep

Morehead Post 126 used a pair of route-going performances and a 4-for-7 night by Danny Joslin to sweep a double-header from visiting Springfield of Ohio Wednesday. The 3-2 and 4-3 victories ran Morehead's winning streak to six.

Clutch scoring late was nearly as much of a key to the pitching performances. Post 126 won the opener with a single run in the last of the sixth, then took the nightcap with a three-run seventh.

Joe Magrane went all the way in game one, giving up just three singles and four walks while whiffing 10. Game two found Mike McCann collecting eight strikeouts while allowing four singles and four walks.

"These are the kinds of performances we expect out of these two boys," pitching coach Dave Magrane said. "We got two super-pitched ball games tonight. Both had excellent pitch selection, their curve balls were breaking well and they used their off-speed pitches well."

Magrane cast a thankful eye on the skies for at least a partial explanation of the sudden upturn from the hill corps. "With the continuity we're getting in our schedule, our pitchers are getting the work they need," he explained. "They're starting to pitch in a pattern now. They know when they're going to pitch." Morehead has not been rained out since June 6, when the Morehead Invitational Tournament was washed away in its second day. Since then, Post 126 has played 14 games.

On the other side of the diamond, coach Bob Pyle of Springfield sounded like an echo. "We didn't hit like we're used to," he said, "but I think we're seeing some pretty good pitching out there."

As for his own pitchers, Pyle was less than pleased with his first starter's performance but was happy with the results. "It wasn't one of (Larry) Seiright's best performances, yet he still wound up pitching a good game. That shows what he's made of." Seiright gave up six hits, including a double, and three runs — all earned — in his six innings. The left-hander struck out three and walked three.

Morehead scored first off Seiright in the second on walks to Magrane and Shawn Jonson and a single by Joslin. Springfield scored twice off Magrane in the fourth, parlaying a pair of passes, a steal and a base hit into a 2-1 edge, but Post 126 quickly tied it in the bottom of the inning. Joslin ignited the rally with a one-out single. After Randy Riddle forced Jonson at second, the Morehead catcher moved to third on a double by Joslin and scored on a single by Chopper Pollock.

Then, in the sixth, Morehead scratched out the winning run on a walk to Joe Dawson, a checked-swing line single to right by Magrane, a bunt sacrifice by Jonson and a sacrifice fly by Riddle.

Pyle used several pitchers by design in the nightcap, saying that games had been planned to use three. The first was Jackie Cantrell, who worked a pair of hitless innings and left with a 1-0 lead, forged in the first inning on a throwing error by the first baseman, a steal, a wild pitch and a throwing error by the catcher. Post 126 sent seven hitters up in the third in Roger Hart's first inning of work. But the lanky lefthander stranded three runners and only permitted Post 126 to tie the game. Troy Whitt led off with a walk, then beat a throw to second on a fielder's choice on a ball hit by Mike Ishmael. Dean Hardin bunted into a force of Whitt at third, but a single by Dawson filled the sacks for Magrane. The Morehead designated hitter walked on four pitches. The rally suffered an untimely death when, with two away, Tim Johnson's grounder to the left side hit Dawson, resulting in a gift base hit for Johnson but an inning-ending out as well.

The score remained 1-1 until the seventh, although the pitchers did not exactly dominate the game as each side pushed runners into scoring position.

The momentum shifted to the offense in the last frame, however. McCann suffered an especially bewildering turnabout. After striking out the side in order in the sixth, he gave up two runs — one earned — on two walks, a single, a pair of sacrifices and an error.

Suddenly down 3-1, Morehead rallied back in the last of the inning. With Tom Hopkins on the hill for his third inning of work, Hardin punched a single into left leading off. Dawson then popped one down the third base line. When the ball was dropped, the Springfield shortstop alertly recovered it and whipped it to second to force Hardin — the second time in the game a dropped pop resulted in a Morehead runner being forced out.

The break could not save the Springfield lead, though. Magrane followed with a clean single to left, and Hopkins walked Shawn Johnson to load the bases. Tim Johnson then hit a one-hop shot directly at the second baseman for what looked to be an easy double play to end the game. In his haste to turn the relay, however, the Springfield shortstop dropped the throw from the second baseman and the sure two outs became no outs. Dawson scored on the play to make it 3-2, leaving the bases filled and one down for first delivery.

Joslin ripped the first delivery into left field. As Magrane was scoring the tying run, the ball skipped through the left-fielder's legs for another costly error, allowing Shawn Johnson to score the winning run uncontested.

"The play at second (the missed double play) hurt us," Pyle said. "We tried to turn it a little too soon." "We're very disappointed," he continued. "We're not the kind of team that's going to lose many so we are always disappointed when we do lose. I don't know how the roof caved in on us in that last inning. But this was our first trip down here and we enjoyed it, even though we don't like to lose."

"Maybe next year we can come back and return the favor," he added with a grin. The twin defeats doubled Springfield's loss total, dropping the club to 4-4. Morehead carried a 15-5 mark to Cincinnati last night for a single game with C-H. A club Hardin expected to be tough, C-H is made up almost entirely of players from Western Hills and Elder high schools, the two teams that fought it out for the city championship during the high school season. This weekend, Hardin and Company return to Hardin Field for a five-game set with Blainfield, Mich. The series opens with an 8 p.m. single game tonight, followed by a 6 p.m. double-header tomorrow and a 1:30 p.m. twinbill Sunday.

Morehead Defeats Harrison Co., 14-5

If you're the type of baseball fan that enjoys seeing runs scored — and you're not especially concerned with how they're scored — then Morehead City Park's Hardin Field was the place to be Tuesday night.

American Legion Post 126 hosted Harrison County, the same Thorobred team that blanked Morehead 1-0 during the recent Morehead Invitational Tournament. Morehead was looking to score some runs and get some revenge; they succeeded, taking a 14-5 victory in a game that was stopped in the middle of the eighth inning by the 11 p.m. curfew.

Actually, the Morehead bats did not really overpower the four Thorobred pitchers. Post 126 collected only a little more than half as many hits as runs. But as coach Don Hardin said, "You can't do any hitting when they won't give you anything to hit." The Harrison County hill quartet walked a total of 14 Morehead batters.

Post 126, on the other hand, got some fine control from its starter, Kelly Caudill. In seven innings of work, Caudill did not walk a batter. He struck out eight and gave up six hits, all singles. All three runs Harrison County scored off Caudill were unearned.

"We got just a super performance from Kelly Caudill," Hardin said. "He had good control, showed great composure and he changed speeds well. Let me tell you, when he gets a couple of more starts in, he is going to be tough."

Two of Morehead's most prolific offensive players were Shawn Johnson and Danny Joslin, even though they had only one hit between them, a single by Johnson. Johnson and Joslin reached base seven times between them as each drew three walks.

Three players who did lay the bat on the ball were Chopper Pollock, Mike Ishmael and Joe Dawson. Pollock had two singles in four trips to drive in two, while Isaac collected a single, a double, a walk and two runs batted in, and Dawson hit the game's only home run, a solo shot that hit the top of the fence in right field and bounced over. Randy Riddle was the Morehead's top run producer, driving in three with a first-inning double. Riddle's two-bagger accounted for all the scoring in the first

Examinations On June 27 MSU Will Host NCAA Camp Again

Morehead State University will once again host the National Youth Sports Program Camp beginning July 6. The program will run through August 7, and will be free of charge to selected participants.

MSU is one of 140 sites or programs in the United States, and according to Dr. Earl Bentley, director of the camp, "Morehead State University has been greatly honored to be recommended as one of the very few."

Medical examinations will be given June 27, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Laughlin Health Building on the MSU campus.

The program is a day camp that gives young people from 10 through 18 years of age the opportunities to get involved in sports activities, receive expert instruction, and engage in competition. Swimming is a mandatory part of the program.

There will be instruction, practice, and competition in a great many activities ranging from tennis through basketball, volleyball, baseball-softball, including outdoor skills such as canoeing, backpacking, camping, and survival skills. An important feature of the program is that there must be instruction and programs in the lifetime sports such as volleyball and physical fitness. Each child will be tested with the physiological testing apparatus by using the treadmill and other devices.

Features of the day camp will include enrichment programs that offer information from experts on drugs, nutrition, career-job opportunities, and education. Initially, each participant will be given a physical examination with the proper follow-up and referral regarding his physical problems and will have provided a free insurance program while involved in the camp program. There will be a free lunch provided with mid-afternoon snacks.

Participation in this program will be the same for all children, without regard to race, color, or national origin. MSU will begin accepting applications for 16 program aid positions for the camp starting Tuesday, June 26. second baseman's third error of the night.

Morehead unloaded on Muntz and reliever William Durbin in the sixth, scoring five runs. Ten batters came to the plate that inning as Dean Hardin started and ended the inning with flyouts.

Johnson followed the first out with his home run to make it 9-3. One out later, Johnson became the first of six straight batters to reach when he beat out a single to the right side hole. Johnson struck out second while Riddle was walking and both moved up when Muntz walked Joslin. Another single by Pollock drove in two more runs. When Muntz re-loaded the bases by walking Riddle, Whittaker brought Durbin to the mound.

Durbin retired Hardin to end the inning, but not before allowing Morehead to clear the bases at Muntz's expense. Durbin hurled a wild pitch to score one run and then surrendered a looping double down the left field line by Ishmael to score two more.

The Post 126 skipper pulled Caudill in favor of Todd Pratt starting the eighth inning. Harrison County made some noise, scoring twice, but Pratt struck out the side to leave the bases loaded. With the curfew just 11 minutes away and the chances of Harrison County getting another run at bat slim at best, the game was called at that point. The loss dropped Harrison County to 2-3 on the season, while Morehead advanced to 12-5.

Harrison County 5 7 6

The Thorobreds hurt themselves on the benches early in the game. Both the first and third frames ended with Harrison County batters striking out into double plays. In both cases, the inning opened with a single, the first batter to remain close for long as Morehead bunched 10 runs into the next three innings.

Post 126 made it 6-3 in the last of the fourth on a walk to Joslin, a single by Pollock, a fielder's choice, and another error by the second baseman.

Before Morehead's next turn at bat, Harrison County coach Mac Whittaker had a league with Brad Muntz. The new Thorobred pitcher had as much control trouble as the old, however, walking the first two batters he faced. Muntz re-loaded the bases, struck the passes, and both later scored on the

Pro Golfers Don't Have Much Sympathy For Ball Players

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI) — Professional golfers pride themselves on being prime examples of free American enterprise. They make only what they earn and aren't guaranteed a dime, so you can imagine how much sympathy the golfers here at the U.S. Open have for the striking major league ballplayers.

The most outspoken is J.C. Sneed, who started out as a professional ballplayer 19 years ago in the Washington Senators' chain, then stuck his bat back in the rack in favor of a golf club. The switch didn't work out badly, either, considering he has earned more than $1.1 million since giving up the outfield for the fairway.

"I think they're nuts," Sneed said of the striking players. "What do they talk about all the traveling they do and how it wears them out. Well, I've traveled more than they have since the first of the year and I've worked my ears off and I haven't made what some of them do just for sitting on the bench."

Sneed, 39, the Virginia-born nephew of Sammy Sneed, has won $46,421 so far this year. He isn't going by anything he reads in the newspapers. He knows first-hand.

"I rode those raggedy buses and made the hamburger circuit on $7 meal money a day," he said. "My salary was $250 a month when I started out and I got up to $500 a month before switching to golf. Guys like me and all the others out here on the circuit get paid on performance only. I'd like to see the ballplayers do that. Once they sign their contracts, a lot of 'em act like they don't give a darn."

Tom Watson, winner of three tournaments this year and the circuit's leading money earner with $332,492 so far, comes from Kansas City and is a big fan of the Royals. He wasn't as rough on the players as Sneed, although he sided with the owners.

"I can see what the players are trying to do and I can see what management is trying to do," said the PGA's four-time Player of the Year. "Right now, I tend to agree with management. They're the ones putting out the money."

Commenting on the fact that the average big league salary is somewhere around $150,000 and a number of part-time players make even more, Lee Elder, who has earned $41,219 this year, said laughingly, "See, I'm in the wrong sport."

"I don't feel the ballplayers should bite the hand that feeds them," he said. "Our situation is much different than the ballplayers. Their salary is guaranteed no matter what they do. We lose money if we don't play well and our expenses are phenomenal. You sometimes don't even make expenses."

Like Sneed, Chi Chi Rodriguez, with 21 years on the tour, originally wanted to be a big league ballplayer, but said the players' strike doesn't bother him particularly because he no longer cares too much about baseball.

"I used to watch a lot of games while I was playing the tour, but I lost interest when all this free agency came in," he said.

Rodriguez said he doesn't envy the big money ballplayers are getting. "I've made nearly $900,000 playing golf and I've spent a million," he remarked wryly.

Jim Simons, a Pittsburgh native who led the U.S. Open for 63 holes as an amateur the last time it was played at Merion 10 years ago, was a Pirates' fan as a kid. He also wanted to be a ballplayer once and said he dislikes seeing a strike because he feels "it tarnishes the sport."

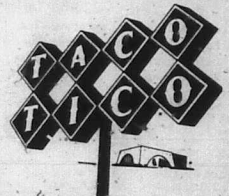

"Playing baseball is hard to compare with playing golf," he said. "Those guys may be averaging more than $120,000 a year and I'm making $60,000 working twice as hard, but that's just the way it is. Baseball is more popular with the public than golf. I guess if we were making a million dollars each tournament people would be bad-mouthing us, too."

Secret Glee

The United States, of course, cannot afford to seem to endorse Israel's bombing of the Iraqi atomic reactor. U.S. weaponry is sold only for defensive use, and the Israelis used U.S. planes on the raid.

That does not mean, though, that government officials and members of the public are not entitled to harbor a little glee in their hearts.

There is every reason to believe that Iraq intended to build an atomic bomb, and it is hard to imagine a worse situation than that of a nutty, unstable nation such as Iraq possessing atomic weapons.

India does, and that is bad enough. The United States muffed its chance to really discourage other developing countries from imitating India when the Carter administration tried to sell atomic fuel to India despite her violation of international agreement in building the bomb.

Now Israel, which would have been the most likely target of an Arab bomb, has demonstrated a far more effective means of controlling nuclear proliferation.

All right, the United States cannot publicly crow about it, but we all can enjoy it.

Agree Or Not

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky tourist promotion campaign running in the state now that features Gov. and Mrs. John Y. Brown Jr. will end June 30, and the end of this fiscal year.

Mark Holthaus, deputy commissioner of the department of Tourism, said Doe Anderson advertising agency in Louisville is working on a proposed campaign for next fiscal year.

The new budget contains $900,000 for tourist promotion, Holthaus said.

Lou Karbo, commissioner of parks, said the 15 resort parks in the state system are booked through Labor Day for all practical purposes. The parks do not keep a waiting list, Karbo explained, "but there is always the opportunity that a person or family could luck into a cancellation." The camping areas at these parks are not full.

When asked whether doing away with the central reservation system had hurt, Karbo said, "We seem to be doing just fine. We don't miss it."

Room prices in the lodges are $218.25 for a single and $36.25 for double. Prices for the cottages vary, depending on the number of bedrooms, from one to four or the large luxury cottages at Kentucky Dam Village.

The state first planned to spend $1.4 million on tourist promotion this year, but when there was a large shortfall in the budget, the campaign planned by Doe Anderson was put on hold in March, Holthaus said, and the unspent $250,000 of the money was returned to the general fund.

However, he said Gov. Brown had second thoughts about the matter after thinking about the money already invested in the television films and print media ads. Of the total amount, $150,000 had been spent. The state still owns this property.

Holthaus said that "We scraped together a little more than $250,000 to run the ads in Kentucky."

He said the feeling was that people nearby would come anyway without advertising; however, there was concern if Kentuckians weren't encouraged to vacation in the state that some money would be lost.

He said other states have been watching Kentucky for several years and are now trying to compete with the state for the tourist dollar. He called tourism a $2 billion industry for Kentucky.

It was pointed out to him that his estimate is double that of the previous administration when the Parks Commission Bruce Montgomery crowed somewhat in announcing that tourism had reached one billion.

When asked about the criticism the ad campaign has drawn as being a promotion for the governor and his wife, maybe as a potential presidential candidate next time, or as an ego trip, Holthaus said "the criticism is totally unjustified."

He defended the idea as being an excellent one since those concerned with the campaign felt that "a person is a better welcome than an impersonal approach."

He also defended the idea of spending the money in state although the parks are virtually booked for the season.

He also pointed out that the television film promotions and the advertising for the print media prepared but not used this year is the property of the state and can be used in the future.

"We won't have to go through all that much production expense for the next campaign," he said.

As one of the economy measures when revenues fell short, Gov. Brown did away with the Department of Public Information and created the department of Tourism out of sight, out of mind.

Several jobs were eliminated. The governor said the media could spend its own money getting state government news and that he had the feeling that Public Information was created more or less to say good things about governors.

Questions About Vietnam Memorial Go Beyond Simply Appearance

By GARY SCHMITT

Another Memorial Day has come and passed. Or, more accurately, another Memorial three-day weekend has come and gone. Turning civic holidays into days designed for private-a-political pursuits now seems to be an American pastime. Indeed, if the TV news people were not there to cover the local wreath-laying it is doubtful whether there would be any public perception at all of the original intent of the day. Like Lincoln's and Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day has bitten the dust.

It is not surprising, then, that the newest proposed capital monument, the Vietnam Memorial, should be of the same a-political genre.

Under the aegis of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund a jury composed of two architects, two landscape architects, three sculptors and one design critic met in early May to select a design for a memorial which would commemorate those who had died in the Vietnam War. Out of some 1,400 entries the jury chose a design surrounded by Maya Ying Lin, a 21-year-old Yale undergraduate.

Her proposal for the memorial is for two, black granite walls to be wedged into the earth to form a stark, V-shaped retaining wall. Plans are for the memorial to be built on two acres in the northwest corner of the Washington Mall. With its contoured ground surrounding it, the monument will affect the visitor with something akin to the feeling that he has just "stumbled upon it." According to Lin, the monument is meant to appear as an unexpected, black "rift in the earth."

The structure's color and its sinkhole character will be in striking contrast to the white, upright monuments toward which the wings of the Vietnam Memorial will point—the Washington Memorial and the Lincoln Memorial. Never appearing over the horizon of the Mall, the monument's dominant theme seems to be: "Out of sight, out of mind." Or, when in sight: an abyss.

On the black granite walls the names of the 57,892 men who died in the war will be carved. The names are not to appear in alphabetical order. Instead, they are to be etched into the stone in a chronological sequence, the sequence in which the individuals died. The list will begin on one wall at the vertex of the "V," go to the end, pick up on the end of the other wall and end at the vertex. This face of the design has been described as indicating that the "war's beginning and end thus meet. The war is complete."

Guest Editorial

Mr. Schmitt is a Senate Staff Member.

But, of course, it is not complete. How can the memorial be complete and make no mention at all of Vietnam? The listing could be of traffic fatalities for an undifferentiated "overseer might know. Undifferentiated paths appears to be the object.

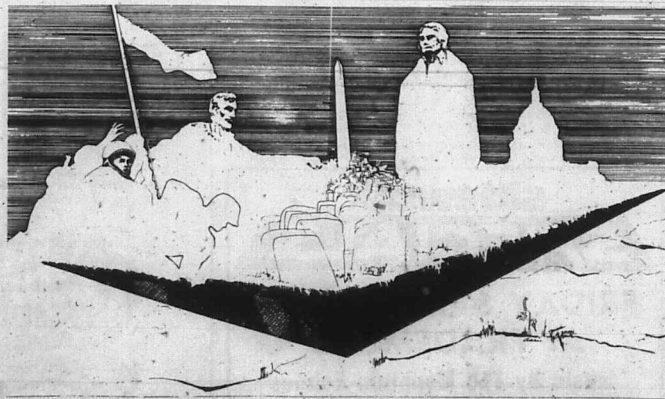

The mere listing of the names and the absence of any specific reference to the war is consistent with the Fund's charge to the jury to select a design that would make no political statement about the war. The memorial was to be at once a-political and something which "best honors the memory..." Yet is the bare fact that one has died removed entirely from the context in which it happens, something to honor? After all, we all do the sooner or later.

The assumption undoubtedly lurking behind the instruction given the jury is that the war was simply a waste. To quote the words of former president Jimmy Carter, it was an effort of "intellectual and moral poverty." The tragedy was not that the war was lost but that it was ever begun. Those who died, died without reason.

The Vietnam Memorial will be, in the final analysis, a monument to victims. It will not be a monument to men who died for an unsuccessful yet essentially correct cause. It is no small irony that this selection, with its victims motif, should occur only a few short months after the fanfare directed toward the American hostages who were held in Iran. The latter were truly victims and yet they were treated as heroes. We should be capable of seeing the difference.

But, of course, it is not complete. How can the memorial be complete and make no mention at all of Vietnam? The listing could be of traffic fatalities for an undifferentiated "overseer might know. Undifferentiated paths appears to be the object.

Lin's design robs the dead of the context that gives meaning to their deaths. Her design, minimal in nature, reflects a minimal understanding of war and of memorials that follow them. It is not true, as one of the jurors stated, that a "confused world needs simple answers." To abstract the soldiers' deaths from the war only serves to minimize the sacrifices that they made. The historical truth that the Republic of South Vietnam was finally overrun by a resolute and malevolent enemy from the north hardly substantiates the claim that the war and the deaths that occurred were simply meaningless. Without a doubt, the way in which the war was carried out and the way in which it ended were tragic. Yet that fact should not overwhelm and certainly cannot invalidate the moral conviction that guided the American attempt to contain the advance of communism and totalitarianism. In light of the events which have transpired in Indochina since 1975 that conviction should only be stronger. The Vietnam Memorial should reflect that conviction. It should not minimize the deaths by being a-political, by being a memorial.

Air Board Seeking Tenant For Trailer

By ALICE AKIN
Staff Writer

Rowan County Air Board met briefly Wednesday night and agreed to advertise for a tenant to occupy the airport trailer.

The decision came after Steve Watts, chairman of the board, read a letter from Buddy Salyer notifying the board he had moved out of the trailer.

"My leaving the trailer in no way indicates a diminishing interest in the airport and I want to assure you that I wish to continue with the Air Board in any way possible to see that our airport grows and improves," stated Salyer in his letter dated June 2.

Salyer also said that he would take care of any bills he was responsible for up until his moving out last month and for the trailer; the board noted that $100 rent per month would be charged.

The occupant or occupants will, in addition to the rent and utilities, be responsible for security and general maintenance of the airport which mainly consists of keeping the grounds mowed during the summer months. The board designated Saturday for members and pilots to mow the grounds and perform other maintenance tasks. It is also asking the Gateway Aviation Association to help with Saturday's clean-up project.

In other discussion, the board moved to bill pilots for tie-down fees at a rate of $10 per month effective July 1.

It also decided to collect back fees at the old rate of $5 per month.

Although the $10 increased rate was approved at the board's October meeting of last year, board member Dr. Dean Owen pointed out that the pilots had not been officially notified of the fee hike and had not been billed in writing.

Fred Bate, a pilot from Vanceburg, who was present at Wednesday's meeting, agreed with Dr. Owen that there should be formal notification to the pilots of the air board's actions.

"It is the air board's function to enforce policies that you set up for operation of the airport," Bate said. "No one notified me." Bate continued, adding, "when I get a bill, I'll pay it."

Paul Caudill, secretary-treasurer of the board, said that he felt most of the pilots who had their planes tied down at the airport, were aware of the rates and still had neglected to pay them over a long period of time.

Dr. Owen stressed that no effort had been made to collect the bills.

Caudill said that he would post bills to all owners of aircraft tied down at the airport.

In other business, Watts told the board that if the airport's immediate debts to the state are not paid, there is a risk of termination of state assistance.

He read a letter from the State Department of Transportation noting that a $2,400 annual payment on the trailer as well as a $1,039 bill for painting the runway were past due.

The yearly trailer payment is toward a $16,000 loan secured last year from the Kentucky Airport Development Fund.

Watts said the board will be able to pay those debts July 1 from its $5,000 cash allotment made in the 1981-82 proposed budget of Rowan Fiscal Court which was approved Tuesday.

The board will also receive from the court $2,000 to cover utilities.

In other discussion, Watts said that he had been contacted by Kenney Engineers, a consulting engineering firm in Lexington, which is offering to finalize plans for the proposed administration building, runway extension and fuel installation at the airport at a fee of $1,000.

The board's consensus of opinion on those plans, however, was that such improvements were long-range and that it would have to deal with its present financial troubles before tackling any new projects.

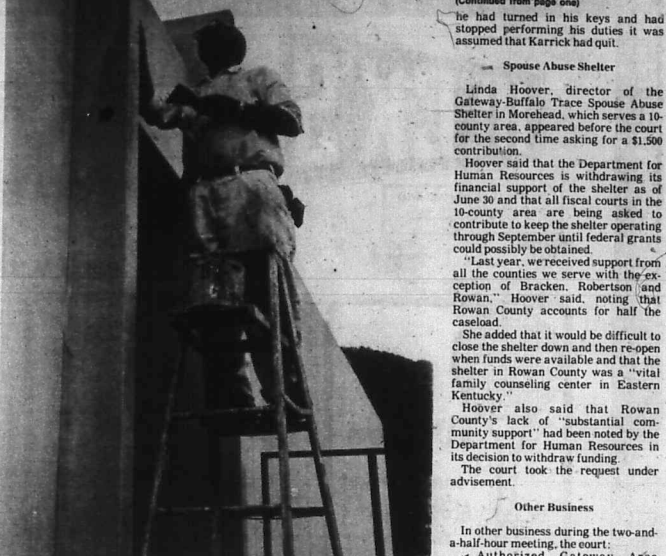

Dr. Owen suggested that when the time comes for implementing the plans local talent should be used instead of hiring a firm from outside the region.

"We have plenty of talent here not being tapped," Dr. Owen said, pointing out that Morehead State University students under supervision could assist in the projects.

Wednesday's meeting, which lasted about an hour, was the first session the board has held since April.

In addition to Watts, Caudill, and Dr. Owen, Jerry Collins was present.

Absent were Terry Anderson, who has not attended a meeting in several months, and Alan Watts.

Morehead Police Report

No injuries were reported in a two car accident involving two Morehead women late Monday afternoon on the corner of Second Street and Hargis Avenue in front of the Church of God parking lot.

Belinda L. Holley, 20, was turning left in her 1980 Chevrolet onto Second Street when she hit the left side of a 1970 Ford driven by Stephanie L. Dunaway, 16.

Dunaway had reportedly stopped at a stop sign.

Both cars received damages.

Officer Kenneth B. Trent investigated the accident.

Two car speakers, valued at $175, were stolen from a pickup truck Tuesday evening in The Place parking lot just off Main Street in Morehead.

Kevin Evans, 19, Hodge Street, told police he had parked his brown Ford pickup outside The Place at 11:15 p.m. only to return at 11:30 p.m. to find the speakers missing.

Evans reportedly left his doors unlocked.

Officer John Brown reported the theft.

Det. Bob Wright is investigating the incident.

Tollesboro Man Hurt In Accident

A Tollesboro man is listed in stable condition at Fleming County Hospital after being involved in a two-car accident Tuesday afternoon six miles east of Burlington in Lewis County.

Ronald E. Holt, 18, of Rt. 1 Tollesboro, was traveling east on Mt. Zion Ridge Road when he lost control of his vehicle in a curve and struck another vehicle driven by David E.

Lykins, 16, also of Rt. 1 Tollesboro.

Holt, who received shoulder injuries, was removed by the Lewis County Ambulance Service.

Lykins was not injured.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Roger Fuller of the Morehead post is investigating the accident.

Four Charged In Theft At Menfee Quarry

Three Menfee County men and one Winchester woman were arrested by Kentucky State Police in connection with the June 12 burglary of the Walker Indian Creek Quarry in Menfee County.

John Millard Dennis, 28; Frenchburg, David Richard Dennis, 22; Frenchburg, Thomas Scott Ingram, 19; Frenchburg, and Carla Sue Newton, 27; Winchester, are accused in the theft.

The men were charged with theft by unlawful taking and taken to the Menfee County Jail. Newton was charged with receiving stolen property and was taken to the Bath County Jail.

Recovered was $1,865 of office equipment.

Det. Randy Frizzell was the arresting trooper and is investigating the case.

Jennings was born Aug. 16, 1950 in Morgan County but lived in Rowan County where he worked as a farmer. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Services were yesterday (Thursday) at Lane-Stucky-Back Funeral Home with burial in the Peery Cemetery in Morgan County. Clifford Price was the minister.

His brothers and brothers-in-law served as casket bearers.

Kentucky Brief

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A Maysville carpet store owner and an employee pleaded guilty Wednesday in Mason District Court to illegally selling fireworks. Omar McDaniel, 55, and Deborah Brandenburg, 22, were each sentenced to 20 days and put on two years probation. McDaniel was also fined $300 and Brandenburg $100. The two were arrested June 2 following a raid by local and state police at Lewis County Carpet Sales. More than $30,000 worth of fireworks and 23 half-gallons of moonshine were recovered from the store. The U.S. Attorney's office in Lexington is awaiting results of investigation by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms before deciding whether federal charges will be brought against the pair.

Fiscal Court

— Spouse Abuse Shelter

Linda Hoover, director of the Gateway-Buffer Trace Spouse Abuse Shelter in Morehead, which serves a 10-county area, appeared before the fiscal court for the second time asking for a $1,500 contribution.

Hoover said that the Department for Human Resources is withdrawing its financial support of the shelter as of June 30 and that all fiscal courts in the 10-county area are being asked to contribute to keep the shelter operating through September until federal grants could possibly be obtained.

"Last year, we received support from all the counties we serve with the exception of Bracken, Robertson and Rowan," Hoover said, noting that Rowan County accounts for half the caseload.

She added that it would be difficult to close the shelter down and then reopen when funds were available and that the shelter in Rowan County was a "vital family counseling center in Eastern Kentucky."

Hoover also said that Rowan County's lack of "substantial community support" had been noted by the Department for Human Resources in its decision to withdraw funding.

The court took the request under advisement.

Other Business

In other business during the two-and-a-half-hour meeting, the court:

- Authorized Gateway Area Development District to complete final application for monies in the amount of $125,046 for Rowan County with the money to be utilized to extend sewer lines to the new Rowan County High School. The court authorized payment of the money to Rowan Water Inc. by the court for the county executive as needed.
- Took under advisement until the next meeting what to do with 2,400 square feet of space on the second floor of the courthouse which is unfinished. (Lytle and Plank said they were now willing to accept the previous offer of Denver Kinney to lease the space. Lytle made a motion to that effect but withdrew it.)
- Authorized Judge Flannery to execute the reimbursement request for the courthouse facility in the amount of $68,825 for calendar year 1981.
- Approved a request from Pete Hamm, of the Morehead-Rowan County Ambulance Service, to remove two air conditioners from the old courthouse to be used in the ambulance service building on Flemingsburg Road. (The court also granted Judge Flannery permission to remove the air conditioner from his old office which had been given to him by former Judge Ott Caldwell.)
- Directed Judge Flannery to contact Beth Rual Water to remove a speed bump it had constructed on Old US 60 in West Farmers.
- Ordered payment of $160 to Dennis Lewis for dozen work.
- Authorized Judge Flannery to purchase eight new tires for county trucks on the state pricing contract.

The court had been expected to approve the expansion of cable television in the county following Morehead City Council's final reading of an ordinance last Thursday night, June 11.

Under the terms of the city ordinance, customers will be able to have 20 channels at cost of $9 per month, or maintain their present 12 channels at the current rate of $5 per month.

However, no representative of OVC Telecommunications was present at Tuesday's meeting and the court took no action.

Before actual work is begun on the project, OVC must gain the approval of Fiscal Court.

Stolen Auto Is Returned

A stolen 1978 Ford Fairmont owned by an Elliottville woman was recovered by the Kentucky State Police of the Ashland post Monday afternoon.

Owner, Shelia Daily, 19, told police she had parked the vehicle in the Trademore Center parking lot May 26 before work to find it stolen upon her return.

ABANDONED MINE INVENTORY

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is requesting information about abandoned mine lands which present a potential danger to human life, health, safety, and/or property. A statewide inventory is needed before that state can begin funding reclamation projects for the abandoned mines. In order for the land to qualify for this inventory, activity on the mine must have stopped before August 3, 1977, the date that Public Law 95-87 was enacted. Examples of dangers include unsafe abandoned tipples, unsealed mine openings or shafts, landslides, burning mine refuse piles, and dangerous mine water impoundments. Dangers should be near residences or where people regularly travel. The public is asked to submit, in writing, by July 6, 1981, details of the locations and conditions of any such sites to:

Tornado Touches Down In Bath County

An apparent tornado touched down in Bath County Tuesday afternoon in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Brashear Sr. on Pine Grove Road, ripping down two huge pine trees which crushed a parked pickup truck and 1968 Ford automobile (top photo) belonging to the Brashears' son, Oakley Brashear Jr.

Mrs. Brashear said the tornado hit her yard about 2:45 p.m., snapping and uprooting the pines which were more than 100 years old and barely missing her house and the mobile home of her son.

Her granddaughter, Anita Gail Brashear, 10, pictured in photo at right, was standing on the side porch of her grandparents' home at the time the twister hit and had to wrap herself around a porch post until the powerful wind passed.

Mrs. Brashear said that she was also blown back against a door when she attempted to go outside her house to see what was happening.

"I didn't see a funnel myself but my nephew, Stewart Brashear, who lives up the road did see it coming over the hill and getting lower and lower," Mrs. Brashear said.

The Brashears did not report the incident to authorities but did contact their insurance agent. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $4,850.

The twister did not hit any other section of the road which is located off KY 36 between Owingsville and Frenchburg. (Staff photos by Alice Akin)

County Judges Convene

71 Honored At EKU

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Issues ranging from jails to use of independent contractors for road work will be discussed during the two-day meeting of the Kentucky County Judge-Executives Association which began in Frankfort today.

Representatives of Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. and Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins were scheduled to welcome the group to the Capital, followed by the appearance of several other state officials. Mrs. Collins was scheduled to host a reception for the judges tonight at the lieutenant governor's mansion.

One of the biggest issues facing the judges involves a lawsuit which has been filed against 78 judges and jailers alleging they are housing juvenile prisoners with adults in violation of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act.

According to Ed Logsdon, executive director of the Kentucky Association of Counties, the judges are concerned that they may be personally liable if any juvenile is injured while incarcerated with adults.

"Many of the county judges are now ready to close the jails (to juveniles) rather than wait to be slapped with a lawsuit," Logsdon said.

Logsdon said most of the counties don't have the money to provide separate facilities for juvenile offenders, and neither does the state. Any long way toward solving the overall problem of having to have jails in each of the 120 counties.

One possible solution which has been offered is the concept of regional jails serving several counties.

Justice Secretary Neil J. Welch will join several other panelists, including the director of the jailers' association, for a panel discussion of problems facing the jails.

Another major concern to the judges is the proposed lifting of the property tax lid imposed by House Bill 44 passed by the 1979 special session of the General Assembly.

The governor has said he would push for the repeal of House Bill 44 or at least some modification allowing more than the 4 percent annual growth now imposed.

Brown may not be able to meet with the judges because of his trip to Washington to meet with Reagan Administration officials on the request to declare eight eastern Kentucky counties disaster areas following recent flooding.

RICHMOND — Seventy-one classified employees with five or more years of service at Eastern Kentucky University were honored June 9 during the fourth annual Service Recognition Program luncheon, attended by 625 persons.

Youth Jobs Open

FRANKFORT, Ky. — More than 6,000 federally funded summer jobs for disadvantaged Kentucky youths, ages 16 through 21, are available in 91 counties.

Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo said the Summer Youth Employment Programs are being administered by the Human Resources Department's local Manpower Services offices.

Most job projects are already under way, said Stumbo. But there are still vacancies in some counties and, of course, there is the possibility of turnover among the summer workers, he added.

In addition to the jobs funded by federal sources, the state Human Resources Department has contracted with eight private non-profit agencies to provide another 234 jobs.

Energy At A Glance

Washington — The United Mine Workers Bargaining Council Wednesday overwhelmingly approved a tentative contract for mine construction workers and sent it to the coal fields for ratification.

Oak Ridge, Tenn. — A government-owned facility where 53 workers were exposed to a radioactive mist last month has accidentally released 11,270 pounds of radioactive uranium since the facility opened in 1945, Department of Energy officials confirmed Wednesday.

Geneva, Switzerland — A special OPEC committee met Wednesday to discuss price and production levels in the face of a worldwide oil glut that has crippled the cartel's economic power.

Kuwait — Kuwait's oil Minister predicted Wednesday the world oil market glut would disappear by the end of the year.

Kuwait — The Organization of Arab

Petroleum Exporting Countries said Wednesday that it had not been asked to convene any emergency meeting to discuss measures to be enacted against the United States if the Americans veto U.N. Security Council resolutions against Israel.

New York — Sun Co.'s Sunmark Industries said Wednesday it has lowered its wholesale gasoline, heating oil and diesel fuel prices by as much as 4.5 cents a gallon on a regional basis.

Washington — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission approved a low-power permit for a Tennessee reactor Wednesday while saying it may soon drop the two-step licensing process has used since the 1979 Three Mile Island accident.

New York — U.S. crude imports plummeted last week to their lowest level since mid-April as oil companies cut back slightly on refining operations.

Gorge Camping

Several members of Farmers Boy Scout Troop 58 recently went camping in the Red River Gorge. During the two days they camped out, the scouts visited Gray's Arch, Double Arch, Tight Hollow, Natural Bridge and the D. Boone Hut. Those pictured are: Mark Cline, Chris Thomas, Alex Karwatska, Aaron Johnson, Brian Hood, Jim McGuire, Mike Thomas and Dennis Karwatska. Any area boy, 11 years or older, is eligible to join this new troop. He only has to phone any member or leader for specific information.

Local Answers Are Needed For Loss Of Farm Land

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Several state officials told members of the Agriculture Land Study and Policy Committee recently that the solutions to loss of farm land in Kentucky will be found at the local level.

"Local groups must make the decisions for their own areas," said Council on Agriculture Chairman Tom Harris. Solutions won't come easily, but the first step is to get land-use priorities in order, he said.

Topping the list should be food, fiber and fuel, said Harris. The council chairman told the committee the "real answer" to loss of farm land is to make it profitable to produce food, thereby strengthening the incentive to keep land in farms.

The agricultural policy committee plans to hold public meetings across the state in July to solicit citizen comments.

Ewing-Fleming County Fair Set For July 6-11

FLEMINGSBURG — The annual Ewing-Fleming County Fair will be held July 6-11 at the Ewing Fairgrounds, according to J.L. Kachler, president.
The fairgrounds are located on KY 165 between Ewing and Fairview. Highlights of the fair include three special night promotions, beauty pageant, youth talent show, tobacco spitting and pipe smoking contest, floral hall exhibits, greased pig contest, livestock shows, decorated bicycle contest and the traditional three-night horse show.

A draft horse show is scheduled for Tuesday night, July 7.

"Because of increasing interest and attendance at the fair, new events and attractions have been added this year," Kachler said.
Among the special events is a pet show and milking goat show and poultry show on Saturday afternoon, July 11.

Wrestling on Friday, July 3, at 8:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds.
More information about entering contests and exhibits in the Fair may be obtained by phoning 606-267-1717 or writing Ewing-Fleming County Fair, Rt. 2, Ewing, Ky. 41029.

Menifee Man Shot After He Is Called To Car

An unknown female voice resulted in an unwelcome visit and a gun wound for a Menifee County man shortly after midnight Tuesday morning outside his home on Scranton road just off KY 1274.
 Ollie Whitaker, 26, received arm wounds as a result of a gun blast from an unknown assailant outside his home.
 Whitaker told Kentucky State Police he was called outside his home by a woman in a car he did not recognize shortly after midnight. Whitaker was then reportedly shot in the arm by a backseat passenger.
 Whitaker said he recognized neither the vehicle nor the female's voice.
 He was not taken to the hospital.
 Morehead Post Trooper Randy Frizell is investigating the shooting.

Fleming Firm Receives Loan

FLEMINGSBURG — The Kentucky Development Finance Authority has agreed to grant a $175,000 loan to a Fleming County manufacturing firm.

Contrail, a new company, is expected to employ 20 people in producing truck trailers.

According to Roger Peterman, executive director of the authority, the loan will help finance construction of a 15,000-square-foot building to be owned by the Flemingsburg-Fleming County Industrial Authority. Contrail will lease the building from the authority.

Candidates Are Fined For Filing Late Reports

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — In an effort to crack down on abuses of the state election law, the state Registry of Election Finance is fining candidates up to $500 found guilty of not filing reports on election spending or filing the reports late for the May 26 primary.

The state Registry held a hearing Wednesday to consider the cases of late reporting and the absence of reporting by candidates. Lamar Garon, staff assistant for the Register, said 150 candidates failed to file one or both of the required reports.

Kentucky law states a candidate must file a report twice: once 30 days before the election and once 12 days before the election.

Garon said the total number of reports not filed is unknown because some candidates didn't file any reports. He also said the didn't know the number of late reports because "they've been coming in every day."

John W. Craig, executive director of the Register, said candidate who filed late reports would be fined $10 for each day of delinquency. Those who didn't file one or both of the reports would have to pay $25 dollars for each delinquent day.

Craig said some candidates had to pay only a nominal amount, but others were fined as high as $500.

He said if the fine isn't paid within 10 days, it would jump to $100 a day and the candidate's name would be turned over to the Commonwealth attorney's office.

The Registry also heard charges against two Fayette County sheriff candidates in the May 26 primary. The charges were filed by John Coreman against current Sheriff Lones Taubee and Geoffrey Scott Reed for allegedly putting up election billboards without a notice of who paid for them — a violation of state law.

Registry chairman Foster Ockerman said the charges were dismissed because of Coreman's absence at the hearing and Taubee and Reed's correction of the situation. Ockerman said the two put "paid for" notices on their billboards when they discovered they were in violation of the law.

Similar charges filed by Mae Peniston against former Henry County Judge Roy Smith were also dismissed by the Register.

Ockerman said he hopes the hearings will call attention "to the law that all ad material must contain a 'paid for by whoever' tag."

Two other cases of alleged election law violations will be heard by the Register at a future date.

One was filed by James B. Raymond, a candidate for Henderson County property valuation administrator, against James A. Newman. Raymond alleges Newman mailed out campaign material on stationary paid for by Henderson County and which wasn't labeled as being political advertising.

The other was filed by Kenton County coroner candidate William T. McElhinney against Robert E. Reichert for running in two newspapers political advertisements paid for by the St. Elizabeth Medical Center through its board of trustees.

Ockerman said dates for hearings on these cases would be set at a later date.

Astronaut Leaves NASA To Paint Moonscapes

HOUSTON (UPI) — For 18 years, astronaut Alan Bean has lived an almost secret second life, working publicly in the space program during the day and privately on his paintings nights and weekends.

Bean, 49, the fourth man to walk the moon, announced Wednesday he will resign from the space agency June 26 and become a full-time artist, concentrating on the moon because "I was there and I had never seen a painting of it really."

"I haven't told anyone," Bean said. "They were only aware that I was interested and that I painted as a hobby. I haven't been broadcasting it because I've been trying to develop the skills."

"You want to make sure you can do something before you say you're doing it."

Bean, who plans to live on his Navy captain's retirement pension and savings until he can establish himself as a painter, said he realized some observers might think his decision odd.

"To the passerby, it has an interesting ring to it, like someone is dropping out," Bean said. "It's just the opposite. I'm working as hard as this as I have anything else. I'm a person who believes in going for your dreams."

"I've loved the job at NASA. I plan to bring the same devotion to (painting) as flying planes and space ships. I want to make a contribution to the field of art."

"I've saved my money and plan to spend whatever time it takes to do it just right."

Bean, who always had an interest, began painting seriously as a Navy pilot trainee two decades ago and is aiming for a personal show in a gallery, possibly in Houston.

So far he has produced "about 60 (paintings) I'm fairly satisfied with and five I'm very satisfied with." He, 25 and is working hard to produce them.

Bean, divorced and father of two grown children, confessed to some apprehension about the change.

"It isn't as risky (as spaceflight) in terms of life-threatening," he said. "But as far as your ego's concerned, if you've been very successful in one particular sphere of your life, it is something to change that."

"It's difficult to impart what was on the moon to canvas... The lighting's different. There's no atmosphere. It's fairly stark and yet I wanted to make it beautiful. I think almost everyone that's been there thinks it's a beautiful place."

Johnson Space Center spokesman John Lawrence said Bean is the eleventh of 12 astronauts who went to the moon to leave the space program. John Young is the only moon-flight veteran remaining in the program.

Bean was lunar module pilot on Apollo 12 in November 1969. From July to September 1973, he was commander of the second Skylab mission. Then he was backup spacecraft commander for the Soviet-American Apollo-Soyuz flight.
