Button's Renovation Currently at Standstill

By LOLA POTTER
Staff Writer

Button Auditorium is scheduled for the second phase of its renovation project — but it won't go through quite as smoothly as did the first.

The first phase, the outside of the auditorium, was paid out of the state capital construction fund, but the money for the second phase was delayed by the 1980 General Assembly's construction freeze.

The university requested $256,000 the summer of 1979 for this phase, however the estimated construction costs have increased 12 to 15 percent since then.

University spokesman Keith Kappes says an additional $40,000 was asked of the state, but university budget director Porter Dailey was not optimistic that the extra money will be granted.

Kappes said it will probably be a week to 10 days before MSU officials can know whether or not the money will come through.

What will be repaired or replaced in the auditorium is another problem.

Theater students, who use the auditorium most, say the lighting board in the auditorium is not only educationally nonfunctional, but claim it is actually dangerous to operate.

Lyle Miller, theater professor closely associated with the function of the board, says sparks do fly occasionally in the electrical system, but that he does not think "a student could get electrocuted" by running the board itself.

However, the board did catch fire, according to students, in the fall of 1979.

Miller claimed it was because "dust collects in the brushes" of the electrical system, and that it is now cleaned twice a year.

A couple of theater students disagreed and said that the dimmers in the board are sticking and rubbing together, causing sparks.

The students think that the board is so outdated that it is actually nonfunctional in their education.

Student Scott Russell, who runs the board often, said, "When we go out into the professional world, into professional situations, we won't have the experience on the newer types of lighting equipment we'll find there."

Another student, Bill Harrison, says, "Nowhere are we going to go to work are they going to have a light board like that."

Harrison added, "I've been shocked by the board itself on a number of occasions."

Activities, Competition Highlight MSU Pageant

By GARY SLAVENS
Staff Writer

Miss America 1981, Susan Powell, will perform at the Miss MSU Scholarship Pageant which will be held Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Presented under the theme "Mountain Glory," the pageant will be emceed by Kathryn Parker, Miss Kentucky of 1979 and a graduate student at MSU.

Special guests performing at the pageant will include fiddler Leo Blair, bluegrass group Spur of the Moment, the square dance group Dixie Squares, and the Kentucky Chimes, a clogging group.

This year, a preliminary pageant was held to narrow the field of 53 hopefuls to 27.

Kelly Holdren, representative for Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, said, "There's a lot of competition this year. The preliminaries really narrowed it down. Everyone's doing a super job, and it'll all be up to the judges."

Nunn Hall representative Tammy

Smith said the preliminary pageant consisted of swimsuit and talent competitions.

"Everything's right on schedule with the stage, and practices have been very organized. The talent is phenomenal and there's really going to be a tight race," said Michele Harrod, representative for the American Marketing Association.

Holdren said, "The people working here have done a super job on this. They've been working on the pageant ever since the Miss Kentucky pageant last year."

As for the sense of competition, these contestants have contradicted the image of ruthless contestants.

Holdren said, "I've met a lot of girls this way, and it's been a lot of fun."

"I've made some closer friends and learned a lot as far as ways to improve myself," Harrod said.

She said the secret to preparing for the Miss MSU pageant is to be the best you can be, so you find ways to improve yourself.

Contestants in the pageant are: Debbie Adams, Claudia Asbury, Terry Branham, Karen Brooks, Kimberly Brown, Kelly Brumagen, Robin Buckland, Jan Burge, Teresa Conley, Denise Craig, Robin Douglas, Monica Harmon, Kelly Holdren, Michele Harrod, Lynne Harrell, Ruby Hyde, Harriet (Patty) Leidy, Rudene Nelson, Kendra Pyle, Kerith Preston, Lisa Sayble, Jessica Slonkosky, Tammy Smith, Lisa Sutherland, Mary Thom, Darris Toney and Tammy Jo Worthington.

Ooops!

Due to a misprint in last week's tuition fee revenue story, MSU Budget Director Porter Dailey was quoted as saying that 40 percent of MSU tuition fee revenues are channelled into salary increases for faculty and staff. The correct figure should have read 80 percent with the remaining 20 percent for fixed items such as utilities and traveling expenses.

Student Association Elections Approach

Presidential candidates are Todd Holdren, Tom Langston Jr. and Bobby Rowe.

The three candidates running for treasurer are Tom (Chino) Ballachino, Michael Campbell and Linda Wetterer. In the general election, candidates running for vice-president are Nanci Gabbard and David L. Holton II. Reporter candidates are Debra Baskin and Brent Lester.

Candidates running for program directors are Jade Adams and Rusty Thurman. Vicki Mueller is the unopposed candidate for secretary.

The general election will take place on the first floor lobby of ADUC, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Students must present valid student identification to vote.

MSU to Purchase Computer System

By DWAYNE DAVIS
Staff Writer

In an effort to save both money and energy, Morehead State University has decided to purchase a computerized "energy management system" to monitor heating, cooling and other electrical equipment on campus.

The system is scheduled to be installed by late summer or early fall.

According to Glen Boody, Director of the Physical Plant, the $335,000 system could save up to one-third on the University's electric bill and pay for itself within three years.

For example, the EMS would automatically shut off unneeded heating and cooling units during peak hours of energy use. It would also turn off heating and cooling units in buildings when they are not in use and turn the units on again just before the buildings will be occupied.

The EMS could be controlled manually or programmed automatically to carry out its functions and will be located in the Rice Service Building.

Boody said he is unsure how many buildings will be served by the system, but hopes to serve at least 16 to 17 of the academic buildings.

Boody said Western Kentucky University, Eastern Kentucky University, and Northern Kentucky University have or are in the process of installing similar systems.

'Australian Evening' Planned April 7

cations."

"It (the light board) is in such condition that it could possibly blow," added Russell.

The theater people hope that new lighting and lighting control equipment will be a part of the inside renovation. But, that is yet another rough spot in this 2nd phase.

The architects, Graves, Sherman, and Carter, of Lexington, expect to provide new lighting, lighting control equipment, sound equipment, carpeting, painting and ceiling repair.

The building will be brought to new fire code standards, such as proper alarm systems and exits.

Steve Sherman, of that firm, says representatives were instructed to go through the auditorium and identify everything that needed to be done.

Sherman said that President Norfleet also gave them a list of things he specifically wanted done, such as the replacement of the lighting and lighting control systems.

Sherman said that these were among

Resident Hall Week Draws to a Close

By ROSE MARIE REGISTER
Staff Writer

Recreational activities and a faculty-student open house characterized MSU Residence Hall Week which winds up tomorrow.

Although the residence hall councils, dorm directors, and the Program Council put a lot of preparation into the activities for the week long event, student response was less than expected, according to Jean Flannery, director of Mignon Tower.

Several reasons possibly account for the lack of student participation. With the end of the semester near, many students are working on assignments which will soon be due.

Senior Vicki Tackett said, "I just don't have time to participate in a lot of extra-curricular activities. There are too many last minute assignments I have to get done."

Although flyers were placed in dorm rooms and posters placed around campus, many students cited the lack of publicity as the reason for lack of participation.

"They should have put up more signs around campus," said Butch Gum, resident adviser at Wilson Hall. "I guess the RAs could have done more too."

Some students voiced opinions similar to that of Tracy Debo, "It's pretty nice. At least it gives people something to do."

Many faculty were invited to visit students' rooms during the open houses held in each of the residence halls.

President Morris Norfleet visited many of the dorms during open house.

"I think it (open house) is great! This is a way for the faculty and staff to meet in the homes of the students," Norfleet said.

Flannery said the open house was a way of breaking down walls between faculty and students.

Criminal Assault Charges Filed

Stacy Bush pled not guilty yesterday to a criminal charge filed by Kathryn Howard.

The charge of criminal assault in the 2nd degree was filed against Bush in the Rowan County Circuit Court office March 26.

The warrant was issued in regard to the March 25 incident in which Bush allegedly threatened Howard with a knife.

Howard has requested that a peace bond be issued against Bush; however, one had not been filed as of yesterday.

The trial is set for April 20 at 1 p.m.

How Does Morehead Get Its Concerts?

By KEN HART
Arts and Entertainment Editor

Concerts are one of the most popular forms of entertainment today. Millions of fans attend concerts annually at arenas and clubs across the country and around the world. Most music lovers can tell you that there are few things around that can equal the power and excitement of a live show.

But what most fans don't realize is that obtaining concerts is a long, drawn-out process. The work for getting a concert here at MSU will begin weeks in advance of the actual show.

According to Student Association President Steve O'Connor, the first step in getting a concert involves talking to an agent or "middle man."

"The middle men go out and find out who's available and try to sell the date to promoters, colleges, fairs, and things like that," said O'Connor. "When they call, they'll usually talk to Todd Holdren, who's the entertainment chairman; so at any given time, he'll have a list of who's available."

The next step, according to O'Connor is to pair up who is touring in the area with the dates when Wetherby Gym is available. The list of potential concerts then goes to student congress for approval.

Feature

O'Connor said that during the approval process, student preferences for shows are considered. "We try to take into consideration the entertainment survey that was taken at the beginning of the year where students picked the bands who they wanted to see. We try to find names who were on that," he said.

After the list is approved, said O'Connor "We go back to the agents and say 'What is our best shot?' After this is determined, the Student Association goes back to Student Affairs with the concert to do."

"Student Affairs then sends a telegram to the middle man agreeing to pay X amount of dollars for a show on a particular day," said O'Connor. "Essentially, we're giving the middle man permission to negotiate for us."

The middle man then goes to the artist and his agency with the university's offer. The agency will then try to put together several dates for a tour, or find an open date on a current tour.

"We give them deadlines in the telegram," said O'Connor. "The middle man will call back before the deadline and say 'we have a confirmation.'"

According to O'Connor, the role the university administration plays is that of the contractual buyer "because this is a binding agreement using university facilities," he said.

"A lot of people have the misconception that the university selects the concerts," O'Connor said. "This is simply not the case. They've never told me 'don't get this group,' or 'This group is unacceptable.'"

As for problems with the concerts, O'Connor said that one of the biggest ones is routing. "Morehead is close enough to I-75 that it's not too much of a problem," he said. "But it's a problem in that we're far enough north that a lot of acts won't come through in the winter, because they're in Florida or California or some other place where it's warm."

The artists' hospitality requirements can also present a problem, added O'Connor. "Their hospitality requirements can be pretty elaborate," he said. "They'll want ethnic food, or vegetarian meals, or other things that this town just doesn't cater to."

Another problem, said O'Connor is the size of Wetherby Gym. "There are some people who just won't play in a 3,000-seat hall because they're such a big act. Their equipment is so big, so technical that it's just almost impossible to do them," he said.

As for the $20 activity fee paid at the beginning of each semester, O'Connor said that only about 5 or 6 dollars goes for concerts. "People in the town have asked me, 'Can I pay $20 and get in for what the students get in for?'" he added.

As for security, Director of Student Activities and Organizations Clyde James said that the procedures followed for concerts at MSU have been in existence since 1974.

"The same amount of police are at a concert as at a basketball game," said James. "But if a group came that attracted a rowdy crowd, I might recommend extra security."

James went on to say that security is rarely ever a problem at the shows. "The biggest problem we have is drunks," he said.

Kevin Hurley, MSU's stage manager, is in charge of the crew that sets up equipment for the concerts. He has done so for every concert at MSU for the last four years.

"We usually start setting up for a show at about 12:00 noon," said Hurley. "At about 5 p.m. we stop to eat, and the group does their sound check."

Hurley added that it usually takes about 4 hours to set up, and about one and a half hours to take down.

"It's just like that Jackson Browne song, 'The Load Out.' We're the first to come and the last to leave, working for that minimum wage."

Sex Harassment Is Unfair Problem

Sex has been a driving force throughout the course of history. Never let it be said that Morehead isn't an historical town and Morehead State, a university founded on tradition.

One problem derived from this segment of history is the situation of a subtle sexual harassment scheme used by some of the faculty on their students.

When parents send their child to this institution, it is with the understanding that he will learn responsibility and gain self-esteem. This in itself is an uphill battle when our instructors use our examples of responsible adulthood, are trying to lure us into a "relationship" or gain our attention using our grade as a carrot stick.

Something is terribly wrong with an educational system that would allow this dilemma of sexual harassment to occur time after time. It's not as if the problem is unknown...practically everyone has run across it in some form at one time or another. It's just that no one is sure what to do about it.

According to the student catalog, school policy requires you to speak to the instructor involved and try to resolve the conflict. The next step would be to meet with the vice-president for student affairs, the dean of the school, the adviser and the instructor in question. It makes one wonder what would be done in this situation which seems to be slightly overpowering for the student.

Something must be done to insure students don't suffer because of the whims of instructors. The university has a student disciplinary board, why not have the same thing for instructors? Why not judge their misconduct toward students whether male or female?

A committee could be formed upon the basis of the student disciplinary board using a "grand jury" system made up of responsible students and possibly even a few select staff members. Anyone "convicted" by that board would be brought before the board of regents.

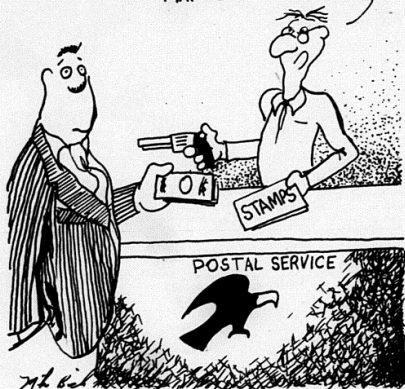

Are we such dominated individuals that we are forced to choose between our self-respect and our grades? Surely that's one choice we aren't expected to make.

We, the students, must speak out against all incidents of this harassment scam. Let Professor X know there is something to be done on the students part to challenge unbecoming conduct, whether it be a squeeze on the shoulder, a whispered suggestion, or an all out proposition. Although not eliminating every incident of this type, it could drastically reduce the numbers of such cases. Once our instructors realize we are taking this seriously, they may think twice before making an offending proposal to a student.

Oh, to return to the time when all one had to do to receive an A in a class was to complete homework and score well on exams!

Insignificant Freedom?

Dear Editor

Debby Porter's article in the editorial of March 26, was on target, as usual. However, Steve Chaplin's article left me asking many questions. At first we thought that his article had been written only to drum up some kind of a response for the letters to the editor section, especially since the editors note which appeared below Steve's article welcomed our comments. If this was the case, count us as some of the suckers who fell for it.

How can Steve conclude that a large portion of alcohol related income would be absorbed into the "increased" amount of alcohol related expenses? How does he know it would be more than is spent now with no alcohol related revenue? Has Steve ever heard of the multiplier effect? (Ask someone in the Economics Department) Is the solution to the problem of the mill worker or tobacco farmer who spends money on booze instead of his needy family or the problem of the college student who buys alcohol instead of saving for tuition to make them drive out of town to get it?

Let's put the question of alcohol aside for the moment to address the real reason we wrote this letter. Steve, could you please explain to us what an "insignificant freedom" is? We never dreamed we would hear this phrase from an American (we assume you are an American). Evidently, alcohol is insignificant enough that a person should not be free to use it, or did we misunderstand? Finally, could you explain to, say.....the workers of Poland what an "insignificant freedom" is?

Is Cooper Hall a 'Sweat Box'?

Dear Editor:

I am in total agreement with Ed Arnold over Alumni Tower, regarding his letter to the editor concerning the Efficiency Problems in halls. Just to enlarge the whole ugly picture, over here at Cooper Hall, not a morning or afternoon goes by when you can see a few custodians sitting in the lobby, either telling jokes and having a good old time, or just watching their "daytime soap operas." One thing is certain...if you ever need to find a janitor over here, between the hours of 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and around 11:30 (in time for the "The Price is Right") to almost 3 p.m., you can check the lobby before any other place. Motivation is DEFINITELY LACKING with these men of maintenance.

Why don't these men work for their pay? Another dirty picture: many times when the janitors "mop" the halls (if they do at all) they use the same dirty mop water day after day! After a few days, the halls smell like locker rooms. I've witnessed this a few times myself. And once, I asked a janitor if he changed the water yet. He proudly replied, "I put some ammonia in it," (which only adds to the odor!) You know it's really thrilling to walk out into the halls after you wake-up, and get your lungs filled with that "sweet aroma" (or should I say "sweet aroma.")

Let's have something done about this. And if any janitors read this, why don't you try to straightened this out YOURSELVES?

Humane Society Could be the Answer

By DEBBY L. PORTER
Editorial Writer

There are varying degrees of cruelty to animals, ranging from being "too tired to feed the kitty" to mutilating starving exotics such as birds, monkeys, etc.

Every one of us, at one time or another, is cruel to animals. A sad fact is that most who do the abuse are not even aware they are doing it.

Common in this area is the practice of "dumping" unwanted animals alongside roads. Most times the damage is done through either not knowing or caring about the humane treatment of an animal. Extreme examples include beating a dog mercilessly for not obeying a new command, or riding a horse to death because the owner thought his animal could handle it.

Thought? It doesn't seem these people thought about anything except their own pleasure and satisfaction.

Too many times animals are the brunt of the frustrations and rejections humans feel. Instead of blaming themselves for failures, people like to take their frustrations out on the nearest living object. Generally the object is smaller and/or weaker than the frustrated person and this smaller object is usually an animal.

In Rowan County, it is hard to find the county dog catcher if you did want to put an unwanted animal in the shelter or to report a cruelty case. A common method to contact the elusive catcher is to call the county judge's office and leave a message there for him. There seem to be no direct lines of communication to him.

So, here we have a situation that is a proverbial Catch-22. We have cruelty to animals here, but it is nearly impossible to find anyone to stop it. Are there any answers? Yes.

There are basically three answers. The first is to be sure you want and can care for the fuzzy kitten, wooly puppy, or cute little colt before you purchase it. (This includes the Easter duckies and chickies.)

The second is to take an unwanted animal to the Humane Society in Lexington. But, for most people here, Lexington is too far to get rid of an old, messy or burdening pet when the road is so much closer.

The third, and most plausible answer, is to create a group like a humane society group in Rowan County.

Although not a new answer, the third is one that deserves more attention and consideration than received in the past.

But Rowan County does need an answer to the cruelty to animals and the stray dog problem that has plagued us for years.

Many obstacles stop the creation of a humane society. The largest is funding. The majority of monies come from donations and in these economic times of inflation and recession, people have little money free to donate, especially to animals. Also, time involved in creating a humane society is more than most people want to give.

The basic requirements for a humane society are here. We have an animal shelter (although not the best, it is one of the few existing in Kentucky) and some public awareness of the need.

But, what good would it do us to have a humane society besides picking up strays and stopping instances of cruelty? Politically, it would make us look good in relation to other counties, showing we can solve our problems ourselves; also it would cut back on the number of rabid dogs in the county (150 reported cases in Kentucky last year) as well as generating some extra county funds from the licensing of dogs.

So we have an answer to the problem that could be accomplished by a few interested people (as few as two or three sincere individuals.) If we had a program here, we have Vet Tech and Pre-Vet students who could get experience for the future, and other interested individuals who would give time to solve our animal problem.

It is up to us as citizens (even if for only four years) to get a hold on this dilemma and settle the scourge of cruelty to animals once and for all. And because it is our fault the cruelty is here, it is our responsibility to do so.

No matter what the degree of cruelty, it is time animals in Rowan County had rights besides being right to be at the mercy of sadistic owners and trainers.

Coach Says 'No Coverage'

Editor:

We have submitted three articles to The Trail Blazer and none have appeared in the school newspaper. Also we were interviewed over two weeks ago - as usual nothing in the paper. This seems like the only way that the bowling teams can get anything in The Trail Blazer. It is very difficult for us to get any publicity about our bowling team. We have to earn our money for travel, entry fees, hotel costs.

Last year the women's team finished the season ranked 14th in the nation, and this year we have been ranked 12th and now we are ranked 10th in the nation - this is TENTH in the nation, not the state - region - but the United States.

We know that they would have space for club sports if they would not print stories about UK or other sports at other universities. All articles in the T. B. should be about our school, not other schools.

We have called the T. B. about this problem and all we get is - I understand!!! But nothing gets done about it. The women's team will be leaving Thursday, April 2, 1981 to go to Knoxville, Tenn. to compete in the sectional tournament. The winner of this tournament will compete in the national tournament in St. Louis, Mo. on May 7-8-9.

The proposed amendments were agenda items at the March 4, 1981 meeting of the Student Congress.

These amendments must be approved by a two-thirds majority of students voting in a campus-wide election, and would not become effective until after August 1, 1981. These changes will not affect the upcoming Executive Officer elections. This year's Executive Officers and the Representatives of the Student Congress recommend the adoption of these proposed amendments.

'One-Acts' Provide Four Times the Fun

By CHARLEY RICKETT
Reviewer

MSU Theater and Theta Alpha Phi's production of Four One-Act Plays is over, unfortunately. They ran four nights, with the last three sold out. They were humorous and melancholy, thought-provoking and disturbing, exciting and boring.

The evening opened with Demon Rum, a student-written play by Billy Nichols, who is known for his portrayal of Ravensbane in The Scarecrow. The play was directed by William Callihan.

I had problems following the action in Demon Rum because the plot was a bit hard to understand. I think it was the story of a young boy possessed by demons.

David Banfield did a good job in the role of the boy, Jamie. Banfield was the heart of the show, the other characters were weak. This could have come from the direction they were given, or the script itself.

The bright point of the show was the make-up for the demons. A round of applause should go to Blane Robinson for the design.

Next on the bill was a one-act written by George Bernard Shaw, Passion, Poison, and Petrification. It was directed by Elizabeth BuSteed. The play was done as a farce on melodrama.

P.P. and P's villain was Fitz-tollamache, played by Bill Harrison. He is green with jealousy because his wife has a lover. He poisons the Lover, and then, to save his marriage, Fitz-tollamache tells them the antidote to the poison, which is plaster.

The wife, portrayed by Dieder Bernard-McDaniel, and the Lover, acted by Tim Connelly, along with Harrison made this a humorous and interesting episode. Gwen Gardner gave a strong performance as a dumb maid. She also designed the costumes, which added to the overall mood.

After intermission, a second student-written play, Dodge the Alligators, was performed. The play dealt with a mother trying desperately to cope with her pregnant, unwed daughter and her overall disappointment with a wasted life.

Janet Rose fit the part of the daughter like a glove, and Pam Hammonds gave a fine portrayal of the mother. Hammonds' monologue at the end, along with some very touching background music, helped to make this one-act the best of the evening. Hats off to Scott Cooper for a fine job of directing this one, and to William Callihan for an excellent script.

Next, by Terrence McNally, closed out the evening. It told the story of a 48-year-old man who has been drafted, but thinks it's a mistake. Debbie Jackson and Jim Bateman both gave strong performances, while Bill Burks handled the directing chores.

Bateman's timing was a bit off on some of the "laugh lines," and this caused the show to drag. But Bateman gave all he could, and overall, this one-act was a success.

I rate these one-acts overall as fine night of entertainment. Best on the bill was Dodge the Alligators, with Passion, Poison, and Petrification second, Next third, and Demon Rum last.

Morehead Bowlers Invade The National Top Ten

By LINDA STEINER
Beats Editor

At this time, the women's bowling team is ranked 10th in their conference. The women won in regional competition against five states on February 13 and 14. This qualified them to go to the sectionals in April. The team proved themselves worthy of all this success throughout their whole season.

On February 21 and 22, the team traveled to Bristol, Tennessee, to compete in the conference rollofts on Saturday. This puts the winner of Division I against the winner of Division II.

The University of Tennessee, in Division I, bowled against Morehead, in Division II.

The rollofts consisted of five games or matchgame points. Morehead won the first game by 205 pins, second game by 56 pins, third game by 132 pins. The women lost the fifth game by 22 points. The team did not bowl the last game because they were bowling match points, therefore had no reason to. There were 90 points possible in match points. The team that wins 46, wins the match. After the fourth game, Morehead already won 52 points. The University of Tennessee had 12 points. The scores for the women were: Donna Wizecki-963, Dianne Wright-915, Melissa Clark-841, Joan Vogt-839, and Bev VanDyke-791. Morehead won with 4349 points.

On Sunday, the women bowled against all the other schools in the Mid-South Conference. Once again, they won. However, the women had to work harder for the victory. After the second frame, the team was only 36 pins ahead of University of Tennessee, and 86 pins ahead of Marshall. This marked the first time this season anyone had come that close after two frames.

In the end, the women won the tournament by 111 pins over Marshall University.

On February 28 and March 1, the team traveled to Evansville, Indiana to compete in the Indiana State University at Evansville Screaming Eagle Bowling Tournament. Eleven women teams competed in the tournament. The scores were MSU 2729 to 2644 the first time, and 8911 to 7962 the second.

Donna Wizecki won the singles with a 641 series and Melissa Clark came in third place with a 601 series. Melissa and Donna teamed up to come in second place in the doubles competition with a score of 1148. What has made the team so successful this year? "I think our success can be accredited to the total team effort, every pin counts," said Wizecki. Another member of the team, Bev VanDyke commented, "We are like a big family. We cheer each other on."

By beating the team ranked second in the nation, there is a good chance Morehead will be ranked in the top ten teams in the nation.

The future for the team consists of attending the sectionals, this weekend in Knoxville, Tennessee, and provided they win, attending the nationals in May.

Lies Abound...

You Can't Believe Everything You Hear

Rocks may fly. After all, Director of Athletics Sonny Moran said "no stone has been left unturned."

With the term "budget cuts" now a household phrase, Moran put the situation in perspective: "with the total university tightening its belt there is no reason why we should not expect the same in athletics."

The athletic department is currently undergoing a self study which could, when it becomes public, start the aforementioned rocks in motion. For now, all there is to be done is sit and sort the rumors and wait for the truth. The truth may or may not be as interesting as the rumor, but the possibility exists. The athletic committee has met since mid-February and

by David
Williams

formed a subcommittee whose job is to make recommendations to President Norfleet.

Moran, a member of that committee, indicated that after a meeting Friday, some recommendations could be submitted.

What has actually taken place in the meetings was termed "very confidential" by Moran although he indicated everything from scholarships to the importance of the Ohio Valley Conference was discussed. The topics in between the two mentioned by Moran have become the source of the rumors.

Some of the rumors are the standard fare while others took some imagination. The most popular involve the changing of status for some sports from varsity to club level.

With the excellent swimming facilities in the new Academic-Athletic Center, discussion arises about the chance of swimming becoming a varsity sport.

In these times where things are more likely to be cut than added, a change in status from varsity to club is a more likely topic of discussion. In this vein, track and field has rumor-wise, fallen into that category.

Until the decisions, if any, are made, the best policy is to listen intently to every comment, think about it for a while, look deep into your source's eyes with a straight face, say "Oh really," then walk away knowing you've just been lied to.

New Coach, Philosophy For Football Eagles

By SAM STEPHENS
Staff Writer

Morehead State's football Eagles began spring practice Saturday with a new philosophy under the youngest collegiate head coach in America, Steve Loney. "It was a great learning session," said the 28-year-old Loney. "We had a good, quick, crisp practice, and the attitude was excellent."

Under NCAA guidelines, the Eagles have 30 days to complete 20 spring practice sessions. The workouts wind up with the annual Blue-Gold Game April 27 at 7 p.m. in Jayne Stadium. "We're starting from scratch," said Coach Loney. "You'll see no major, wholesale changes, since I was offensive coordinator last year. But there will be changes in emphasis and philosophy.

"In our off-season, we felt we had to inspire mental toughness and intensity. We were killed in the fourth quarter last year."

The Eagles scored only 14 points in the final period last season enroute to a 4-7 overall record. However, the Eagles suffered several close losses. Fourteen timely points by MSU could have resulted in an impressive 8-3 win-loss state in 1980.

Coaches were pleased Saturday with the physical and mental dividends of their off-season conditioning program.

"They were in good shape," said Coach Loney. "The only problem was too much quickness. The defense was over-pursuing the ball."

Loney stepped in as head coach at the end of last season when former mentor Tom Lichtenberg packed up and went to Notre Dame. Returning from last year's coaching staff are Defensive Coordinator Marshall Burdette and Running Back Coach Stan Hixon. New arrivals include Offensive Coordinator Jim Stalnaker, Defensive Secondary Coach Bob Coleman, and Assistant Head Coach Jay Adcox. Graduate Assistant Kevin Gundy will arrive from Missouri Western this fall.

Eighty-three candidates trotted on the practice field Saturday, all hoping to earn starting assignments. In spring practice, no one's job is secure, even if he started last year. "We have to start with a clean slate," said Coach Loney. "Don Reeves will be hard to beat at quarterback, but we have to begin wide open so we can experiment."

The Eagles will carry 105 players this fall, including 83 scholarship recipients. The team has already elected five co-captains: seniors Ken Hopkins and Ron Hardy, and juniors Dan Gooch, Reeves and Keith Watts.

Seventeen high school seniors have signed national letters of intent to play football for MSU this fall. Linebacker Rob Lockhart of West Virginia tops the list. He was highly recruited by several major college football powers, and was ranked among the top 15 high school players in the country by Notre Dame. MSU sought and gained size this recruiting season, landing five linemen between 6 feet 4 and 6 feet 8 inches tall, weighing between 220 and 270 pounds.

Can Female Tracksters Break Records?

By LINDA STIENER
Beats Editor

The women's track team finished fourth out of ten teams at the Marshall Invitational in their opening meet on March 21. With the opening of the outdoor season came the setting of five new Morehead State women's track records.

D.J. Ross and Pat Reynar finished fourth in the discus relay with 206 feet, 7 inches. In the shot-put relay, the two set a record with a distance of 79-4. MSU now holds the record on Marshall's track for the shot-put.

Susie Horner, Linda Newsum, Priscilla Blake and Donna Smitherman set the record in the 440-yard relay with a time of 0:49.8. Horner, Smitherman, Newsum and Sally Wampler set another record in the medley 880 relay with a time of 1:52.3.

The fifth record was set 880-yard relay by Horner, Naomi, West, Blake and Cindy Rust with a time of 1:47.

The team opened their season not only against good teams, but also with a small squad. "There were a lot of other teams that have really big squads, and are pretty strong in all areas. We have a quality team, but not quantity. I was very pleased, they performed well, and gave it all they had," said Mary Silvani, head coach of the women's track team.

The women attended their second meet on March 28 placing first out of eight teams. It was in this meet where the individuals pulled together to double-up in the events.

The discus was won by Morehead, as Pat Reynar finished fifth. In the long jump, Priscilla Blake and Charlie Crockett placed third and third. In the 400 yard, first place was won, and a new school record was set from the previous record of 51.3 in 1978 to 49.2 by Horner, Newsum, Blake, and Smitherman. In the 400 meter, Cindy Rust placed second with 62.2. Smitherman equaled her record who set last year in the 100 meter hurdles with 15.1. The 200 meters resulted in a dead heat, meaning a decision could not be made concerning who placed first. Both women are decided as placing first, Horner placed for Morehead. In the 880 meter, Horner, Smitherman, Blake, and Newsum set a new record at 1:47.8. The mile relay was won by Smitherman, Wampler, Rust, and Ross. "This was an outstanding performance from all of the team," Silvani said, "it took a lot of guts."

Positive Attitude Means Wins For Men's Track Team

There was a smile on Bob Willey's face Monday. It was a smile extraordinary for a Monday. It was a smile expected from the coach of the men's track team, whose team placed first in an invitational against twelve other teams.

The men's track team opened their outdoor season on March 21 in the Early Bird Relays, finishing sixth out of twelve teams. This was a bad start for the team, and a fear that the disappointing indoor season had carried to the outdoor season began. However, an invitational held Saturday, March 28 stopped this idea. "The team's attitude has changed," explained Coach Willey. "It used to be they were depressed, but now they realize they that they are good. They have a positive attitude," he said.

Although all the members of the team contributed to Saturday's win, several members were recognized individually. Herb Newton received the High Point Trophy. This trophy is awarded to the person who scores the most points. He also anchored the mile relay, and placed fourth in the long jump. Paul Babits, Dave Wolley, and Ron King also contributed to the win.

Young Team is Asset

By LINDA STIENER
Beats Editor

Having a young team has not seemed to cause as many problems as expected for the baseball team. On March 25, Morehead went up against U.K., beating them 10-0. "They made the plays they were supposed to make," Steve Hamilton, coach of the baseball team said. "The pitchers did a great job. We probably played the best game of the year."

On March 27 and 28, Morehead met Purdue at home. The team won the first double-header. The second day, the team split a double-header.

The team was scheduled to play Marshall away on March 30, however, due to a muddy field, the game was postponed, and rescheduled for March 31.

If there has been any problems having a young team, freshman pitcher Brad Redmon explained a solution. "We just need some game experience, and time to adjust to college level."

If the team exhibits any more wins like the one against UK, it could mean the problem is resolved.

The MSU women's tennis team ran up three straight victories this week in opening matches against Ball State, University of Cincinnati and Ohio University.

Downing Ball State 8-1 Friday, and Cincinnati 7-2 Saturday in home play, the Lady Eagles went on the road Tuesday to clock an 8-1 win over Ohio. Their 1980-81 record now stands at 14-4.

"I knew we would be strong this season but I had no idea we would handle three major Division One schools with such ease," said Coach Mayhew.

Morehead teamsters swept aside Ball State without the loss of a set in singles play, conceding only 11 games altogether. In doubles, third pair, Kerstin Wictorin and Patty Zuniga pushed the opposition to three sets, but eventually went down 3-6, 6-4, 3-6.

The Cincinnati matchup was a similar story with Miriam Hard dropping the only singles game in three sets at number four. Wictorin and Zuniga lost a 3-6, 1-6 decision in the doubles.

closer than the score would suggest. The Eagles stretched the opposition to seven tie-breakers, yet failed to win any of the seven.

Against West Virginia, King lost his first match of the season, 3-6, 6-0, 4-6. Nick Lee pulled through a three-setter at the number five position, 6-7, 7-6, 7-5, for the lone MSU win.

Against Akron, Morehead won all the singles matches with the exception of the number six position. A doubles loss by Ronen Graciano and Mark Arlinger gave Akron their only other win of the day.

Said coach George Sadler, "I am pleased with the team as it is coming along. We need as much of this type of play as possible to prepare ourselves for the conference."

The season continues with home matches against the Indiana, Tennessee Tech and Louisville.

The Lady Eagles continued their winning streak against Ohio, trouncing all singles opposition and dropping only the number three doubles. Hard came through a three-setter at number three singles 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 on top.

The week's play sees sophomore Alison Hill and junior Jennie Circle both with personal records standing at 16-2.

The Lady Eagles go on the road again next week to meet Carson Newman, Appalachian State, and Eastern Tennessee, returning Monday to tackle Eastern Kentucky.

The Morehead State tennis Eagles scored wins over Marshall, Akron and Louisville but fell to Middle Tennessee and West Virginia along the way in a run of road matches this week.

Losing 1-8 at Middle Tennessee in the opener, MSU picked up a 7-2 victory over Marshall on Tuesday, then fell to West Virginia 1-8 Friday. Undaunted, the Eagles then crushed Akron on Saturday and Louisville this Tuesday both by 7-2 counts.

Against Middle Tennessee, Phillip King's singles victory at number one gave MSU its only win of the day.

Marshall however, posed less of a problem with MSU's Leighton Jones, long plagued by a back injury, and Jimmy Lykins dropping their singles matches for the only loss.

Tom Langston, Jr. for S.A. President

WHY?

Why should you vote for Tom Langston, Jr. for Student Association President? Because for too long Morehead State University has lacked clear, decisive and innovative leadership of the student body. While other universities around the state march toward a better and more productive social and academic future, MSU is all but stagnant by comparison. The Student Association cannot change that, but the student body can with the S.A. providing the proper leadership.

This is where Tom Langston, Jr. comes in. He is well qualified, having served as president of both the MSU Young Democrats and the MSU Mining Society. He has been a University Senator since the fall of 1979 through the present time. He is also Senior Representative to the S.A., so he knows what it takes to make the system work for the students of MSU.

Tom was selected to the 1980-81 Who's Who Among American University and College Students. In all of these jobs, he has been a voice for progress and has shown that he can work with university administrators without becoming a "Yes Stamp".

Tom will ask questions that need to be asked of this University! Why are there no co-ed resident halls on campus? Why is there no real hint of discussion of this issue? Why is there not at least the option for certain students who favor this lifestyle? Why does the University wish to keep Open House to a minimum, or at least under extreme control? We the student body are adults and it is time that we are treated as adults.

Why must the student news service be under full control of the University? The school can easily control what the student knows by their veto power over our news services. Restore FREEDOM OF THE PRESS to MSU!

Why must the students only be allowed to make suggestions during one week each year through the Campus Improvement Committee? Tom will put up permanent suggestion boxes on this campus.

These are not questions that can be answered properly overnight. However, these questions can get a good start to being answered, provided that the S.A. has the high caliber leadership of Tom Langston, Jr.

Tom is an Industrial Tech major from Shelbyville, Kentucky. He is active in the University as a member of S.A., University Senate, MSU Young Democrats, MSU Mining Society. Although not a member of any Greek organization, he does see the advantages that the Greek system offers to students and the University and will strive to keep it that way.

In the past, the students at Morehead State have been dormant and silent. We can change this. Elect Tom Langston, Jr.!

If you care, you will VOTE. If you care enough to vote wisely, you will vote for TOM LANGSTON, JR. PRESIDENT OF THE STUDENT ASSOCIATION.
