Holdren Defeats Rowe in SA Election

By LINDA STEINER and GARY SLAVENS
Staff Writers

Todd Holdren was elected Student Association president in elections held Tuesday over Bob Rowe, by a vote of 478 to 419.

Holdren, a sophomore government and history major from Chillicothe, Ohio, said, "I'm glad the campaign's over. Now I just want to get to work."

When asked about the lack of campaign promises this year, Holdren said, "Both of us realized we couldn't make a bunch of promises that we couldn't keep. Promises I made are goals I have in mind, but they depend on what the students have to say."

Rowe, a junior government major from Raceland, said, "In my platform, I've made no promises. Until there's better communication between students and the SA, the SA's not strong enough to the point where any candidate could make such promises."

Holdren said, "(Being SA president) is something I've always dreamed of doing ever since high school. The experience I've had (in SA) won't give me all the answers, but it'll go a long way."

Students participating in the vote numbered 934, or 21.06 percent of the total student body, as opposed to a turnout of 974 in last year's election.

Clyde James, director of student organizations, said, "(The election) went smoothly. The desire of the students has been expressed."

The candidates also had views to express earlier that day, leading to charges being filed by both candidates concerning campaign rule violations.

Holdren received reports that "some of my opponents' literature" was placed under some student's doors the evening before the election, while Rowe claimed a Holdren "sandwich board" appeared in ADUC Tuesday afternoon. Both of these are violations of SA rulings.

After results were tabulated and the winners were announced, charges were dropped by both parties.

In other results, David L. Holton II was elected SA Vice President over Nanci Gabbard, by a vote of 573 to 253.

Holton, a freshman pre-law major from Louisville, said, "I appreciate the student support. The only promise I'll make is to do my best and continue to listen to the student's concerns."

Vicki Mueller ran for secretary unopposed. She received 664 votes.

In a close race, freshman Linda Wetterer received 459 votes to win over Michael Campbell who received 422 votes.

Brent Lester, sophomore, was elected reporter with 487 votes against freshman Debra Baskins' 358 votes.

Junior Jade Adams defeated sophomore Rusty Thurman to be re-elected program director with 511 votes to his 331.

Tuition, Other Fees Will Increase Next Fall

By LISA YORK
Staff Writer

A nine percent boost in tuition and increases in other fees were approved by the Morehead State University Board of Regents in its meeting Wednesday.

The tuition increase, mandated for all state colleges by the Kentucky Council for Higher Education, is an attempt to supplement the state's reduction of $7.7 million to Kentucky's institutions of higher learning.

The increase in tuition will add approximately $400,000 to MSU's operating budget.

Full-time tuition for Kentucky residents will increase from $270 to $293 for undergraduates and from $287 to $311 for graduate students. Out-of-state full-time tuition will increase from $725 to $870 for undergraduates and from $800 to $910 for graduates.

Residence halls fees will range from $30 to $50 more per semester for both men's and women's halls. Fields, Thompson, Waterfield and Butler will see a jump from $230 to $260 per semester. All other residence halls will increase $50, from $240 to $290.

Married student housing was included in the overall room rental increases with trailers going from $120 to $140 per month and efficiencies in Lakewood Terrace increasing from $110 to $130. The largest increase for student housing was in Normal Hall, from $125 to $155 per month.

Faculty and staff rental rates jumped as much as $50 for dwellings at Fifth North Wilson, College View Court, and 107 Fifth Street, bringing those rental prices to $225 per month. The smallest increase was $25 at Caillou—North Wilson from $125 to $150.

Board members also approved an 800 percent increase in the fee charged to students who register late for classes. The increase, from $3 to $25 was described by MSU President Morris Norfleet as an "incentive" to get students to register during the formal

Track is Dead at MSU, Other Programs Reborn

By DAVID WILLIAMS
Sports Editor

With a nearly unanimous vote, the Board of Regents brought about the death of intercollegiate track, the birth of women's golf and the resurrection of soccer, swimming and two cheerleaders at Morehead State University.

These and other decisions were made following a self-study requested by MSU President Morris Norfleet which was made by the Division of Athletics. The rationale of the decision to drop men's and women's track and field was "due to the condition of both the indoor running track and the lack of funds to properly repair," according to the report issued by the Athletic Committee.

Director of Athletics G.E. (Sonny) Moran illustrated the problem by pointing to MSU's hosting of the Ohio Valley Conference indoor championships two years ago. "We asked the state for $90,000 for repairs and received $12,000."

In summing up the problem, Moran said, "When you don't have the facility it's hard to justify the sport."

Dr. Rodger Hammonds, chairman of the self-study committee added because of the poor conditions, "there have been more injuries than ever before."

With the move, there will be a recurring expense savings of nearly $17,000 in budgeted supplies and travel and

Breck Parents Voice Concern Over School

By LISA SAYBLE
Managing Editor

President Norfleet's proposal to begin discussion with the Rowan County School Board concerning the "phasing out" of University Breckinridge School grades 6-12 met with strong objections from parents during the Board of Regents meeting yesterday.

Over twenty parents of UBS students expressed their concern over the issue by attending the Regents meeting held in the overcrowded ADUC Riggie Room.

Norfleet introduced his proposal by giving a history of UBS as a laboratory school. He related the decision by the Council on Higher Education to close all laboratory schools and said the CHE was told it could not legally order the closing of UBS.

A copy of the proposal was not made available to the public.

Students at UBS wrote a letter to Norfleet stating their concerns about the proposed merger. However he mainly criticized the "way the decision is being made." The students said no one was taking their views into consideration.

Norfleet commended the students of UBS for both writing the letter and for their accomplishments in the past.

After Norfleet spoke, Truman Dehner, an attorney and father of two UBS students, was recognized by the Regents as a representative of the parents present.

Dehner opened by saying he wished Norfleet had waited to bring the proposal before the Board of Regents because "Morris is a good friend of mine, and the things I must say aren't easy for me."

He said, "This innocuous, innocent sounding recommendation is the first step toward the administration's plan to turn UBS over to the Rowan County School System."

Dehner mentioned the "original" proposal made by Dean Michael Davis of the School of Education which recommended the high school section of UBS be ended gradually. Dehner said this proposal was the one given to Faculty and staff of UBS Monday.

"The administration has already decided they want to close Breck," Dehner said, "What they are asking you today is not to consider whether or not it (UBS) be closed, but how it will be merged with the Rowan County System."

After Dehner and two other representatives of the parents addressed the Regents, Board members responded. Most members agreed not enough work had been done, and not enough parents, faculty and students had been consulted.

Vice-President of Student Affairs Buford Cragger reminded the crowd that the original recommendations were by Dean Davis to Norfleet.

He said no one should be complacent in thinking this proposal reflected the feelings of the administration as a whole.

After much emotional discussion, Norfleet changed his proposal to a recommendation for a committee to study the "future of University Breckinridge School."

The crowd applauded as the Regents voted unanimously to support Norfleet's revised proposal.

Grill Closing Controversial

By DWAYNE DAVIS
Staff Writer

Several MSU students remaining on campus last weekend for the Easter holiday were surprised to learn that all university cafeterias and grills were closed for the entire weekend.

"I went over to eat, and there was this sign (on the door of the Alumni Tower Cafeteria) saying the cafeteria was closed," said Tony Chiulli, freshman business major. "They should have let us know it would be closed."

Alumni Cafeteria Director Bernard Ewers said a notice was posted on Monday telling the time the cafeteria would close and re-open.

"I had a sign on the door. It was there all week," Ewers said.

Jean Wells, director of ADUC Cafeteria, said the announcement that ADUC cafeteria would be closed had been posted all week in ADUC.

However, several sources said the notice was not posted all week as Ewers claimed.

"I certainly didn't see the sign there all week," said Steve Champion, sophomore management and marketing major. "I don't think it was posted until Thursday afternoon."

One student on a meal plan was given $15 by Ewers from his own personal funds because the student said he had no money or food for the weekend. The student was reportedly missing eight meals due to the closing of the cafeteria.

The question of refunds to students on a meal plan who missed meals last weekend remains unanswered.

The Trail Blazer attempted to contact Vice President for Fiscal Affairs John Graham but was unable to reach him. MSU food services are under the direction of Fiscal Affairs.

Ewers said it was customary to close the cafeterias on three-day weekends.

"We decided there wasn't enough students on campus to keep the cafeterias open. We've found this to be true in the past."

Jim Morton, director of student housing, said his office included information on cafeteria and grill closings in memos sent to students when the residence halls closed. However, since residence halls were open, no memos were sent. Morton said his office was not required to include this information in memos and merely did so "as a courtesy for students."

The Kentucky Council on Higher Education in Frankfort said there was no law requiring the universities to keep an eating facility open during vacations or holidays and that the decision was left up to each university.

Morehead is not the only university to close its eating facilities during holidays. Larry Martin, director of food services for Eastern Kentucky University, said that Eastern also closed all its cafeterias for holiday vacations.

Wood May Be the Answer

By BECKY EVANS
Staff Writer

The next time you want to go to Mount Sterling just fill your car up with wood!

Dr. Harry LaFontaine has developed a wood-fueled gas producer that will power vehicles. LaFontaine is a wood gasification expert who has been retained by Pacific Northwest Laboratory, operated for the U.S. Department of Energy, to conduct seminars on Biomass Producer Gas-Generator Technology. He discussed and demonstrated his device Wednesday in Reed Hall from 1 to 5 p.m.

LaFontaine was part of a team of engineers in Denmark who developed the technique of using wood-fueled gas producers during W.W. II to power their trucks and tractors when the Germans took control of gasoline and

Now LaFontaine has used the technique to run a $48,000 Lincoln Continental limousine. He says he only uses the car with wood for demonstrations, but it is capable of going 3,200 miles for a cost of only $55. He said it is not the solution to gasoline shortages, but may be used in emergencies.

The device, which can be built for $500, consists of a cylinder in which wood is burned. Air is drawn in through an opening in the cylinder and goes over the coals produced at the bottom. As the carbon monoxide is combined with methane and hydrogen, the gas is drawn into the engine.

Jim Kurz, director of business development at MSU's Appalachian Development Center, said this may be "unique to Eastern Kentucky" because "you should keep in mind that there are woods all around us."

registration time, rather than waiting until the first day of classes to register.

The board also approved a set of personnel guidelines establishing salary increments for university employees.

Any salary increase of more than nine percent must be justified through proper channels to the president and any salary increment of less than 7.5 percent must be justified to the individual by the immediate supervisor.

Faculty who receive the doctoral degree or the master's degree prior to the fall 1981 semester will receive an additional $1,000 and $400 respectively.

The board accepted the resignations of 30 employees and approved the hiring of 39 additional employees. Among the resignations were: William A. Bradford, associate director of admissions; Ward McIntosh, instructor of real estate; Carl Masters, farm manager; Fred Stewart, news services editor, David Livers, security officer; Charles West, associate professor of management; Tom Jones, assistant football coach; and Gail Franks, Donna Lawson and Rebecca Wise, all instructors of nursing.

Leaves of absence were granted to Doug Adams, associate professor of art; Russell White, instructor of music; John McNeely, instructor of graphics communication; George Dickinson, department head and professor of sociology; Paul Wright, instructor of journalism.

The board accepted the retirement of 11 university employees, most notably Dr. J. E. Duncan, dean of the School of Humanities, and Elmer Anderson, assistant to the president, director of Student Financial Aid and Veterans Affairs, and assistant professor of history.

Duncan will continue to serve as a part-time faculty member.

Gregory Says Country Is Run By Mob

By TIM SCOWDEN
Staff Writer

"As of tonight, I will vow to eat no more solid food until the entire truth comes out in the Atlanta child-murder cases."

Those were the closing words of a lecture given by Dick Gregory in the Crager Room of the ADUC Tuesday night.

Gregory began a career in the mid 1960's as a stand-up comedian and later became a nationally known civil rights activist.

Though Gregory's appearance was sponsored by the Student Association as part of Black Awareness Week, his talk did not focus solely on the problems some blacks face in today's society. Instead, much attention was given to the American governmental system and how different it is from the democracy it is praised as being.

Gregory insisted that the entire country is ruled by a few manipulators who are heavily involved in organizations like the Central Intelligence Agency, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Mafia.

Gregory insisted that the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy was only one such plot.

He offered as proof a photo that was allegedly found in Lee Harvey Oswald's apartment following the killing. The picture was one of Oswald holding the guns which were determined to have been used in the murder.

Gregory pointed out lighting in the picture which appeared to be artificial, which would indicate that the picture had been posed.

There were also indications, said Gregory, that the murder of Kennedy's brother, Senator Robert Kennedy, was another conspiracy within the United States government.

According to documents Gregory had in his possession, Robert Kennedy was shot three times from behind. He pointed out that the accused killer was in front of Kennedy at the time the shots were fired.

Gregory also said that at the time Robert Kennedy was put into an ambulance he had only sustained two gunshot wounds. He expressed his belief that the third shot was fired while Kennedy was en route to the hospital. He then added, "If the government were interested in knowing who really killed Robert Kennedy, I could tell them where he lives and where he works in Burbank (California), but they already know."

Gregory added that President Nixon thought that someone was going to make an attempt on his life.

He called attention to one time Nixon was advised by doctors to enter the hospital for a case of phlebitis. Nixon went on record as saying he did not want to be admitted to the hospital. "If I go in," he said, "I may never come back out."

A more recent event that Gregory discussed was the attempted murder of President Reagan, and how, on March 30, the president's limousine was not parked in its designated space, making the president more vulnerable to a "planned attempt on his life".

Gregory went on to say that Reagan was actually shot on his way to the hospital by a Secret Service agent, as opposed to being hit before getting into the car.

"It is also interesting," said Gregory "that Reagan was speaking to the same union organization that President Ford was addressing when one attempt was made on his life."

Gregory also claimed to know the real reason the slugs were so abruptly removed from the president's body and those of the other two victims.

He says they were not, in fact, the "devastator" bullets the FBI claimed them to be. Instead, they were removed because more than one weapon was used and the "organization" did not want the public to know this. Gregory added that a seventh slug was recovered from a nearby bank building and that the .22 caliber pistol used by the person accused of the assassination attempt, John Hinckley, Jr., could only hold six cartridges.

Gregory also spoke of how presidential elections are often rigged by so-called "manipulators". He pointed to

Personnel Roster Matter of Record

It is obvious MSU is already feeling the ramifications of projected federal and state budget cuts. Whether in the form of rumors about cuts in programs, (i.e. cuts in faculty positions), or the fact that many first year faculty have not had their contracts renewed, this subject is of growing concern to faculty, staff and students.

Will Morehead be able to keep its diversity in class offerings and will they be able to retain good faculty and offer competitive salaries to attract new faculty?

In view of this, The Trail Blazer is publishing in this issue the 1980-81 Personnel Roster which includes the positions and salaries of all faculty, staff and administration.

However, it has come to our attention that many faculty and staff are apprehensive about requesting to view the roster, because of an implied threat to their positions.

Whether this fear is real or imagined is irrelevant. However, the important fact is that all state employees not only have the right to request this document, but also to seek an explanation for any disparities which they may perceive exist.

Therefore, we have decided to publish the personnel roster as a public service to our readers. Due to publication deadlines, The Trail Blazer will not analyze the implications of this document at this time.

The analysis, we feel, should be made by those whom these facts impact most.

University Crime Can Be Stopped

Universities are a standing invitation to any and all who would accost the virtues of young adults on their own for the first time.

Rapists, murderers, kidnappers and various other criminals can have a field day because of the air of alienation in an institution of higher learning. Many university students are from various parts of the U.S. and other countries. Students often find it hard to make friends or confidants quickly, thus providing an opportunity for the criminal to home in on the prey.

When a violent crime happens on a campus, students usually are the last to know. Whether it is from fear of panic or fear of losing enrollment, universities tend to shy away from publicizing or even acknowledging crime on or near their campuses.

MSU really is no different from other universities nor is Morehead different from other college towns. If you think of Morehead and the MSU campus as a haven of safety, you should listen to the local news or read the papers. We have murders, robberies and rapes right just like they do in the big cities.

In the past year, the city of Morehead recorded these crime statistics:

Assaults	10
Suicide	1
Murder	1
Armed Robbery	2
Wanted Endangerment	2

The difference between robbery and burglary is the matter of confrontation. When there is a personal confrontation during the act, it is robbery. In burglary there is no confrontation between individuals.

Wanted endangerment includes brandishing a weapon with intent to do bodily harm.

Assault includes intent to do harm with a weapon, but is a completion, that is hitting with the weapon.

On the MSU campus in the past year, the following were reported:

Assaults	2
Wanted Endangerment	1
Rape	1

Both assault charges were cleared as was the wanted endangerment cases. The rape charge has yet to go to court and is considered as alleged rape.

Some safety-minded individuals are trying to unite MSU students into a force to stop crime before it happens. Their premise is that 20-20 hindsight is as useful as a gun without bullets, after having been attacked or killed. We should not let criminals get a foothold in Morehead because of our ignorance.

Until we decide to stop it, violent crime will continue to be an everyday occurrence just under the surface of our society. Whether in Los Angeles or Morehead, crime must be stopped.

MSU security officers conduct crime awareness programs on campus. These include "Operation Identification" in residence halls, "Rape Awareness," "Neighborhood Watch" for thefts and a general program to answer common questions about crime.

The bottom line in crime awareness is that to prevent crime, you must be aware of crime. If you are the victim or witness of a crime, report it immediately! Police cannot do anything about crime if they do not know about it.

Crime does not have to be among your college memories.

MSU Needs a Consistent Attendance Policy

Why hasn't MSU adopted a consistent class attendance policy? The question is frequently asked by MSU students.

The answer to the question is MSU has a standard class attendance policy. Located on page one of the 1980-81 MSU Eagle Handbook, it reads: "Students are required to be prompt and regular in class attendance; deliberate 'cuts' are not excused. However, absences are excused for the following reasons: illness, field trips, representing the university in a recognized activity and at the instructor's discretion are considered excused absences. The handbook concludes: "Cases of extended or repeated absence are reported by the faculty to the dean of the school in which the student is enrolled."

The important question is how effective is this policy? The general opinion received after talking with several deans, faculty members, and students is that its effectiveness cannot be dependent upon any one of these groups.

Faculty members, many overworked, may not have the time or feel it necessary to report excessively absent students who maintain passing grades. All too often an "E" is the easiest way to get turned in for absences.

The deans, who can threaten and punish with no mercy, are often left calling the dean after the tape is broken. Being in the position of executing authority, such as punishment, often leaves one little room to be a rehabilitator.

As for the main cog in this awesome machine, the students, we can risk categorizing her or she in a variation of these five molds: 1) The Achiever: Perfect attendance, attempts to understand work, deserves an "A" just for effort. 2) The "Go for the Grade" student: Above average attendance, sits through class in a dream state but completes required work. 3) The "Go to Get By" student: Attends only when it's a must, which is usually for test reviews. Settles for any passing grade. 4) The "Don't Give a Damn" student: Never goes to class, usually "D" or "E" work. He usually doesn't last long. 5) The "Disenchanted" student: Attendance is relative to class appeal.

Capable of anything from an "A" to "E."

The point of this categorization is to realize the degrees at which people will acquire their education. If it is true that one's education is only as good as the piece of paper he or she receives, then there are a lot of people struggling with false aspirations.

Sooner or later, most students come to the realization that an education greater than test scores display can be achieved through consistent attendance. Though it is only part of the even greater responsibility to one's self to get the best possible education, going to class will insure a refund in the future.

Campus Security Looking For Student Workers

By JOE ADAMS
Editor

If you see a student directing a parking ticket for your car or directing you across the street next semester don't be surprised. Student workers in Safety and Security will soon become reality.

A program being implemented by the Bureau of Student Affairs Division of Safety and Security will utilize student workers beginning next semester. The program will be under the direction of Gary Messer, director of the Division of Safety and Security.

According to Buford Crager, vice-president of the Bureau of Student Affairs, students may contact Messer in Mays Hall room 4 or call 783-2189 to receive applications and information for the program. Crager said May 8 was the deadline for applications.

"We are interested in both males and females, sophomores and older. No prior experience is necessary. Student applicants must be on good standing with the university and cannot be on social or academic probation," said Crager.

Although work hours have not been determined, Crager said four to eight students would be selected and would work approximately 12 to 15 hours a week.

Students will be paid through either an institutional or federal workshop, depending upon which they qualify.

Crager said student workers would be used in the following ways:

- ✓ Write traffic assessments.
- ✓ Assist in directing traffic.
- ✓ Assist in parking cars.
- ✓ Patrol parking lost during athletic contests, concerts and other events.
- ✓ Patrol parking lots at night.
- ✓ Operate manually controlled campus lighting
- ✓ Provide foot escort across campus at night for female students.
- ✓ Work the crosswalk at University Breckinridge at morning and afternoon and work the crosswalks in front of ADUC during exercise traffic.
- ✓ Periodically accompany security officers on patrol.
- ✓ Check campus buildings at night with security officers.

assist with office duties in Safety and Security.

- ✓ Assist with crowd control at MSU events.
- ✓ To be on call during emergencies as are senior officers.
- ✓ Assist with fire drills.
- ✓ Assist Security in Project Identification, a crime prevention program.
- ✓ Help conduct educational programs involving safety and security.

Crager said he did not think students will be hindered in enforcing the law to other students.

"We feel students can deal with students just as effectively if not more so than our senior officers can," said Crager.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:

Mr. Bowling's editorial entitled "Is Christian Faith Really Irrational?" was not as convincing as should be expected from a Christian representative.

First, the title was not fitting (Was The Trail Blazer responsible for the misnaming?). The editorial contained not one "rational" tenet of Christianity or any philosophical arguments supporting Christian beliefs. Second, the editorials' content did little to promote Christian Faith; more likely the opposite. There were seven paragraphs in the editorial. Mr. Bowling used three of them to criticize certain unnamed sinning professors. He even uses some "glib accusations" as one of the crimes the professors are accused. Is it in Christian best interests to criticize others for slight moral infractions? Or would reasoned suggestions for better behavior be more Christianly constructive and useful? Another two paragraphs sounded like a shallow sermon, not concerned with helping folk reason into faith, but rather to help the preacher crow about his Christ-based self-worth.

Christian self-realization and happiness are marvelous, but can hardly be as convincing in Christian promotion as a reasoned pro-Christian argument. One paragraph was used to help explain Aldous Huxley's thoughts on atheism, as well as motives held by some philosophers to support their lack of faith. The paragraph contained insight into Mr. Huxley's past, and delved a bit into philosophical motive, but can such confessions of an atheist be used to benefit folks spiritually? Or will they be used to help balloon the egos of those only able to criticize unfortunate unbelievers, rather than reason with them? Finally, there was a paragraph used in that Christianities best interests would have been better left out. Mr. Bowling improperly defines science as meaning "to know." According to the American Heritage Dictionary, science means "the observation, identification, description, experimental investigation, and theoretical explanation of natural phenomena." Is it proper for those utterly ignorant of science to represent Christianity in the continuing creation debate? Does such representation make Christians out as fools? Since the meaning of science is apparently beyond the understanding of Mr. Bowling, perhaps this helps explain why the meaning and best interest of Christianity is also beyond his grasp.

STUDENT POSITIONS NOW BEING ACCEPTED in Safety & Security

Any student of sophomore, junior, senior or graduate standing may now apply to work with the Division of Safety and Security for the Fall Semester of 1981. To apply, contact Gary Messer, Director of Safety and Security, Mays Hall Room 4, write UPO 1251 or call 783-2189.

Thanks for the Effort

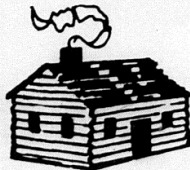

Editor:

I would like to thank the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the local merchants who contributed food, and all of the people that contributed in whatever way toward the Marathon Basketball game that was played on behalf of P.A.L.

While the goal of 101 hours was not realized, the effort was successful in that the Morehead P.A.L. will realize in excess of $250 as a result of the effort. So often attention is focused on negative activities that a few young men and women get involved in, that we fail to notice the positive accomplishments that occur so often. Our community should be proud of the young people, not only of S.A.E. but all of the fraternities and sororities that work hard in behalf of other people.

Again, thanks to all involved.

Art Show Displays Graduate Talent

By LOUIS MAGDA
Art Reviewer

Seven of MSU's graduate art students are presenting an exhibit in the Claypool-Young galleries for the remainder of the week. The only problem is there's so much to see with little time to see it.

The exhibit, which ends Friday, includes Eagle Lake, a colorful oil painting on paper by Robert Komer. His other works include drawings, collages (one in particular called The Reaper shows the figurescape of the grim one floating above humans fighting below), and a multiple medium work entitled Churchill Downs, which is appropriate to the season.

Allen Lake's work consists of photography and ceramics. The photographs' subject matter are rural Morehead and urban Cincinnati, Ohio. The views of Cincinnati portray the city as lonely and empty, a world to itself.

Pam Quisenberry's work consists of hand-made paper collages. Her landscapes are to be organic they appear to be alive, with their dried weeds and great detail. She also uses the paper beautifully in etchings and aquatints.

Epitomy is a drawing that seems to show a familiar face on first glance, but further examination reveals that Jan Stephens has portrayed Barbara Streisand as the Mona Lisa. Initial Air-temple is Stephens' first shot at steel sculpture.

Other works by Stephens are realist sketches of Gubser's Cafe, and The Eyes Have it, a photo collage.

Barney Pruetting's watercolor painting, Portland Harbor, is outstanding. He uses foggy pastel hues in the painting of ships entering a harbor. Pruetting also has oils and ceramic works in the show.

Impression Kentucky, a mixed media by David Butler, is as atmospherically cloudy and wet as an Appalachian spring day. It also seems to be influenced by Oriental landscapes in watercolor.

Butler also has two self-portraits in the exhibition. Oral Hygiene, represents the Monday morning blues. The artist is shown leaning heavily on a sink with a toothbrush bulging in his cheek.

The other painting is done in oil and is simply entitled Self Portrait. It is a super-sized head done in tones of black and white. Fig. 1, a hand-colored lithograph, and Don Meets Another Don are both excellent works of print-making.

Denise Spencer's exhibitions include figure drawings, ceramics, and oil paintings. Her talent in ceramics is fantastic. The pots that she has in the display are all distinctively tall ones.

These students all deserve a great amount of credit for their work. The time and effort invested in these works should be remembered by everyone who views them, because after all, there's more to art than a first impression.

Oak Ridge Boys Deliver Country Flavored Treat

By ROSE MARIE REGISTER
Staff Writer

MSU's country music fans made themselves quite evident last Wednesday night, as the sweet sounds of the Oak Ridge Boys and Gene Cotton filled the air and kept the crowd on their feet.

And what a crowd it was! It seems that many people were anxious to hear one of the top vocal groups in country music. The concert was completely sold out before Wednesday.

The melodies that rang through the gym were sure to bring about screams and whistles, but the skin-tight jeans worn by the performers may have added to the excitement for the ladies.

The Oak Ridge Boys started off with some of their older hits like "Sail Away," and then threw in a batch of hopeful hits from an upcoming album. They also threw in several of their gospel tunes.

The tremendous amount of energy that the Oaks displayed on stage was sure to have left them drained, but they returned for an encore with just as much vigor and enthusiasm.

The Oak Ridge Boys were preceded by a fine musician who left the audience ready for the blaze of excitement that followed.

Gene Cotton appeared as a solo act without the frill of a back-up band. He cut a lone figure with just his entourage of well-worn guitars. Cotton's voice penetrated the air with a lonely, spooky quality that resembled that of the voices of James Taylor or Dan Fogelberg.

Cotton rounded out his set with more ballads, all of which seemed to carry a deep message. The climax of the performance came when he brought former MSU student Janet Hogg onstage to help him sing "You're a Part of Me."

All in all, the show proved to be quite entertaining. Everyone got involved in the music and had a good time. The overall response heard as people filed out of the gym and flocked to the tables selling T-shirts, posters, and other souvenirs was "Hey! That was really good!"

NPR Relives Jonestown

by Lisa York
Staff Writer

Once, in a far-off land, there was a community. In this community lived the rich, the poor, the weak, and the strong, in harmony. These people gathered together to escape persecution, to worship as they pleased. They followed the teachings of a man who said and did what they thought to be honest things.

The place—Jonestown, Guyana. The man—Jim Jones.

The story of Jones and his People's Temple's mass suicide is well known by most people in America. But what is not known is exactly what went on during those last months in South America.

Recently, the whole story of Jones and his followers was documented by author James Reston, Jr. Reston completed Father Cares—The Last of Jonestown after listening to over nine hundred hours of tapes found in the jungles of Guyana.

The documentary will be broadcast over National Public Radio on WMKY-FM at 9 p.m. April 23. Afterwards, there will be a call-in panel discussion with Bill Moyer. The number to call for the discussion is (202) 857-0888.

The recordings were made over a period of 18 months, chronicling Jones' sermons and messages to his people. The reactions of his congregation are also recorded.

The tapes were just recently released to Reston by the U.S. government, and he spent over two months listening and compiling them.

Reston edited the tapes into a 90-minute documentary. He has described the recordings as "beyond description—authentic evil, a return to bestiality."

Reston found that the mass suicide of the People's Temple was recorded, but he did not use this horrifying sequence in the documentary.

Father Cares—The Last of Jonestown may stun a listener with its chilling realism. The frightening power of Jim Jones comes through clearly on the tapes. This documentary is just tuning into. It gives a scary insight into the twisted mind of "Father" Jim Jones.

Oak Ridge Boys Chief Technician Discusses How He Lives on the Road

By Lola Potter
Staff Writer

"And when that rollin' sun comes beatin' down, you're gonna wake up in your town. But we'll be scheduled to appear a thousand miles away from here. . . ."

The life Jackson Browne sings of is still on the road, is Bruno Burnett, who began as being full of glamour, romanticism, and a certain kind of freedom: the stage crew roadie. For many, it is an illusion: those who learn quickly the hours of work, the low pay, motel rooms, and the lack of good food.

One such man, who learned well but is still on the road, is Bruno Burnett, who helped move the Oak Ridge Boys into, and out of Morehead last week.

"It's something you do until you get to your end," Burnett says of the profession he began in his late teens with a local Missouri rock band. He is an electrical technician.

"I'd get to go to all the good bars, drink plenty of beer, and meet the ladies and all. I liked it, so I've stuck with it," Burnett explained.

The crew arrived in Morehead about noon Wednesday with a huge semis filled with equipment, including one of the most sophisticated light shows ever experienced by a Weatherby gymnasium crowd.

Upon entering the gym, Burnett immediately walked all around the stage, occasionally testing it by slightly jumping up and down.

His first concern was, of course, "Is the electrician here yet?"

As equipment was unloaded and stage hands began putting pieces together like a puzzle, Burnett was laying cable, testing the lights, rewiring, testing, and soldering.

Finally the lights were up, most of the cable was laid, and most sound and wiring was completed.

Then, someone was needed to run the light board as lights were being adjusted.

"I've only got about five hundred other things to do," Burnett remarked, but not sarcastically.

The band and "the Boys" came by Weatherby around 3 p.m. to test the sound, and get a feel for the stage.

Crewhands danced as they worked; the sounds patting feet and a frequent howl filled the air. An omnipotent "energy" filled the air, as if the stage hands were indeed an intricate part of the music to which they were listening.

"The relationship between the crew and the band? It's getting better between this crew and band. . . no, it never was bad, but it just takes time for everybody to get used to everybody," Burnett explained.

No one took time to sit down and relax. Everyone who set up the stage helped adjust the sound and light systems, and completed the hundreds of seemingly trivial things that must be done before the show.

At one point, a loud crack and then smoke dispersed from his electrical distribution corner. Burnett jumped back, shook his head, and said, "Yeah, I'm alright." He continued his work.

Later, he found that someone had taken the malfunctioning headset he'd laid out earlier, so all the headsets had to be tested to find the lemon.

Even during the concert, Burnett

Unbelievably, Jim Jones recorded his own descent into hell.

This 90-minute exclusive NPR documentary is based on 900 hours of audio tape found at the Jonestown settlement in Guyana in November, 1978.

Cult leader Jim Jones had been taping himself and his followers for months before he urged them—911 men, women, and children—to commit mass suicide; a tragedy beyond understanding that stunned the world.

But by listening to Jim Jones, the fears of his followers and their gradual descent together into hell, Jonestown becomes a horror story we can all finally comprehend.

to," said program supervisor Messer, "is a certain type of student or faculty member who would create problems anyway."

Since the student workers will not be sworn police officers, they will not carry firearms. However, they would carry a police radio.

"These students will not carry firearms or have anything to do with firearms," said Crager.

He said plans for implementing student workers in Security and Safety have been discussed three years earlier.

Crager said plans had been curtailed for two reasons: financing and the lack of available personnel to supervise student workers.

Messer said MSU currently has the smallest task force of police officers than any other state university.

"Currently, we have seven full time staff and one part-time officer," said Messer.

The total does not include the Jan. 7, resignation of officer Steve Arnold and the March 31 departure David Livers for health reasons.

Crager said the program will not begin until the fall because of present staff limitations.

"Our attitude is that if we can fill our two vacant positions we have, we can begin the program. Hopefully when it is implemented, student workers will be doing some of the things our present staff is doing now and some things we are not giving attention to at this time," Crager said.

Messer said the program could be beneficial in various ways.

"The program will free our senior officers to do more campus programs and lectures. Hopefully, if we get someone who is interested in law enforcement the program will help them on making a decision about their career one way or another."

soldered some electrical equipment which he called "six-packs," and soldered one pair of headsets twice.

At first glance, one would think of Burnett as a rough-looking man. But a closer look gave way to gentle eyes that could tell tales of where he has been. His attitude toward his sometimes misconceived work, as he described it is different than that of some of his fellow crew members.

One of the popular fantasies about his way of life involves a lot of ladies and drugs. Says Burnett, "Yeah, at first I was into that, but it gets old. Quick."

He continued, "Some guys do drugs on the job, but never to the point where you can't function. You lose your job then. We can't afford to have someone out here working who doesn't know what he's doing or where he is."

Later, he confided, "They used to call me 'the Hawk,' because I'd stand outside the bus and eye the girls to see which ones we might want."

Burnett quit the road once because of what he calls, "my own stupidity." During that time, he met a lady in his Missouri hometown, went back on the road, and fell in love with her (in that order!).

There is, undeniably, a mystical attraction to what appears to be complete disorganization of one's life. Bruno Burnett likes to say he is only doing this work until he can get electrical equipment to set up his own electrical shop in Missouri.

However, when he talked about when he might leave the road, Burnett, with a touch of humor in his voice said, "Probably when I die."

the fact that the World Book Encyclopedia listed Ronald Reagan as "the fortieth President of the United States" in an edition of the book which was published in September, 1980, more than a month before he was actually elected to the Oval Office. He said the publishers of that encyclopedia knew, in advance, that the election had been fixed.

Various other instances were also called conspiracies by Gregory.

He spoke of the recent Las Vegas hotel fires and how he believed them to be deliberately set by the mob in order to create a valid reason to move their operations to "where the action is", referring to Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Gregory also talked of the Three Mile Island incident being instigated by the government, and how it was no coincidence that Mount St. Helens erupted exactly one year after the nuclear accident.

Perhaps the most thought provoking statement made by Gregory was his opinion that 90 percent of the United States population will no longer exist within a span of a few years, simply because the manipulators will no longer need us.

almost $30,000 in salaries.

Under the plan, scholarships, currently amounting to an estimated $69,000, would be terminated in an "equitable fashion." The report states the grants-in-aid are one year commitments only.

The total savings with the abolishment of the program will be $115,067 according to the committee's report.

The women's golf team was elevated to varsity level at the cost of $3,000, to "equalize the number of intercollegiate sports sponsored for men and women."

While equalization was the goal, it was not entirely achieved. The men's golf team receives four scholarships. The women will have none.

Moran said the university was "off-setting" this situation by giving three grants-in-aid for the women's cross country team next fall to individuals. Coach Mary Silvani signed prior to the cutbacks.

Swimming, dropped from varsity status in 1976, will also be a non-scholarship sport. As of yet, a coach has not been secured though Moran indicated there are, "people on campus who have expertise. We hope to get somebody off our present staff."

According to the committee report, the cost of the program is $8,000.

Moran later listed several reasons why the swimming program was dropped five years ago, such as the non-regulation length of Senff Natatorium.

Also, few schools in Kentucky had swimming programs at the time, and the university was already fighting a problem with the percentage of out-of-state students saying, "It did not make sense to leave Kentucky to recruit," he said.

Soccer was dropped at the same time though Moran indicated the program was "enhanced instead of suffering" while it was on the club level. He said the transition back to the varsity level will be a smooth one.

The cost to reinstate men's and women's soccer, also a non-scholarship sport, will be $5,000.

Other recommendations approved by the Regents were the appointment of a full-time assistant coach for sports

women's basketball, a women's volleyball-softball coach and a women's trainer. The combined cost for those positions is $24,000.

An allotment of $1,000 was made for two additional cheerleaders. There are currently eight two of which are alternates and do not make road trips. There will now be eight cheerleaders and two alternates.

"With the opening of the new Academic-Athletic Center which will enlarge the cheering section and the need to provide cheerleaders for every women's home basketball game, an increase in the number of cheerleaders is required," according to the recommendation which passed.

Also three graduate assistants will be added to provide "better coverage of women's athletics and to provide more practical learning experiences for the graduate students." The cost will be $7,500.

The decision was also made to either reseed or reseed the practice football field at the cost of $10,000.

The university will provide minimum upkeep on the outdoor athletic track for a five-year period, and the indoor track will be sold.

According to the report, the cost of the changes will be $58,500 making the net savings for the change $146,567 to the university.

Lady Eagles Take OVC Crown

By Liz Oosthuizen
Staff Writer

Two years ago, the Lady Eagles failed to score a single point in the Ohio Valley Conference Tennis Tournament. Last spring, they finished a disappointing sixth out of seven teams.

However, as dusk approached Morehead Saturday, and the OVC tourney slipped into its final stages, there they were—poised and ready to take the OVC 1981 Women's Tennis Championship.

And take it they did. For the first time ever, MSU reigned supreme over the OVC in tennis.

With only one match remaining, Morehead State and Murray were tied with 30 points. Alison Hill and Jenny Circle rose to the occasion and pulled out a dramatic 6-4, 6-3 doubles win to clinch the OVC title for the Eagles.

MSU had difficulty in the first round, though, and the Eagles were in third place behind Murray and Middle Tennessee at the end of day one.

Eagle Charmaine Olivier, No. 1, defeated defending OVC title holder Sherry Harrison, but lost in straight sets in the second round to Western's Sandy Leslie. Leslie went on to win the event.

No. 2 Eagle Alison Hill fell to Murray's April Horning in straight sets while Eagle Miriam Hard lost to Jorann Eid of Murray in the third flight. Eagle Kerstin Wictorin, No. 4, survived one round, but lost to eventual winner Carla Ambrosio of Murray.

Nevertheless, MSU scored well on Friday. Liz Oosthuizen and Jenny Circle were winners in singles and earned spots in the finals.

All three of MSU's doubles teams were also victorious on day one of the OVC tourney.

MSU began play Saturday with 19 points. Eagle Coach Bev Mayhew said "All we could hope was that Murray and Middle would cancel each other out, and we would pick up as much as possible on the doubles." Murray had 24 and Middle 22 points as play began Saturday.

An MSU tennis player fires back a return.

Mayhew's words proved prophetic. Murray came through with only one singles victory while Middle managed only two singles wins on Saturday. Meanwhile, Eagles Circle and Oosthuizen both pulled minor upsets and won their singles finals for two individual titles.

Although MSU produced two OVC champions in singles play, the Eagles compiled most of their points in doubles competition Saturday.

The Eagle doubles team of Hard and Wictorin won its first round match, but lost to the Eastern team of Watson and Balin.

In the second flight, the Eagle doubles team of Hill and Circle swept to the title without the loss of a set in both matches.

Olivier and Oosthuizen won over Murray in a tight three-setter in the semi-finals of their doubles flight. The MSU pair dropped the first set 1-6 but came back to win the title 6-3, 6-4 in the second and third sets.

The OVC victory was a dream come true for Mayhew. "It was my goal this year to finish in the top three in the OVC," said the third-year coach. "As it happened, we had a good draw and picked up a lot of points in first round victories."

"However, the top three teams, Murray, Middle and Morehead, were all very close and I guess it just came down to which team wanted it the most. My girls played with a lot of heart and I would attribute our success on the whole, to this."

The Lady Eagles play Marshall at home tomorrow.

Jones' Streak Halts at 30

BOWLING GREEN — Eagle left fielder Glenn Jones' OVC record hitting streak ended at 30 games here Saturday as Western swept a doubleheader from Morehead State, 5-0 and 7-3. The losses dipped MSU's season record to 16-15, and conference mark to 2-5.

Jones' streak came to a halt in the sixth inning of the first game when he flied out to center field. The junior had walked, and reached base on a fielder's choice in his first two at-bats.

In the second game, Jones went 1 for 3 with a lead-off triple and a sacrifice RBI. Jones leads the Eagles with a .471 batting average and 8 home runs.

Eagle Glenn Napier (1-2) suffered the first game loss. He shut out the Hilltoppers through three innings, but tossed up two consecutive home run pithes in the fourth inning, resulting in four runs.

Ricky Layne (3-1) took his first loss of the season in the second game.

Morehead State mustered only five hits in the twin bill with Western, including two hits in the first game and three in the second.

The Eagles hope to remain above the 500 mark through their three remaining regular season games. MSU faces Eastern today in a doubleheader at Richmond. The Eagles wind up at home in Sonny Allen Field with a single game against Kentucky Monday at 2 p.m.

The OVC playoffs run Thursday through May 2 at a site to be announced.
