Democrats Sweep County

Just under half the eligible voters in the county went to the polls Tuesday as the Democrats made a complete sweep of all the offices on the ballot.

The vote was overwhelmingly Democratic, something that is highly unexpected since Rowan Democrats outnumber Republicans by more than 2 1/2 to one. The only race that was close was the contest for magistrate in District 3, where Democrat Herman Mabry edged out Republican Gary Fouch by 24 votes, 50 to 47.

That race was so close until Mabry did not know he had won until after the absentee ballots were counted, a process that took much longer than normal.

Among the county-wide races, the closest contest was between incumbent Circuit Court Clerk Wathan Armstrong and Republican challenger Neil Bland, who received more votes than any other Republican, Armstrong won the race with 60 percent of the vote, 3,239 to 2,135.

Republicans failed to carry all the offices in any precinct, although they made a strong showing in Lower Farmers, winning three of the seven races in which they had candidates running.

Most of the county-wide races were decided in the primary, when Republican candidates failed to file for several of the 13 posts. Those who were unopposed on the full ballot, all Democrats, included: Pete Worthington, state representative, 7th district; Dr. Walter Blevins Jr., state representative, 71st district; James M. Richardson, district court judge, division one; James E. Clay, district court judge, division two; Truman L. Dehner, commonwealth attorney; Harvey T. Pennington, county attorney; and Jim Barker, county clerk. John B. "Pat" Hamm was also unopposed in his bid to fill an unexpired term on the Rowan County Board of Education.

Here's a rundown on how the contested races went:
Judge/executive — Jim Nickell, D, 3,735; George W. Calvert, R, 1,713. Nickell, the current sheriff, pulled in 69 percent of the vote, losing in only the Lower Farmers (188-113) and Upper Farmers (89-78) precincts. Nickell's largest margin of victory came at Hogtown (254 votes).

Circuit Clerk — Wathan Armstrong, D, 3,239; Neil B. Bland, R, 2,135. Armstrong, the incumbent, received 60 percent of the vote, and lost in only two precincts, Lower Farmers (166-131) and Pine Grove (240-201). His largest margin of victory (196 votes) came at the Easton precinct.

County Clerk — Jean W. Bailey, D, 3,718; Norman N. Roberts, R, 1,420. Bailey, the incumbent, received 70 percent of the vote, losing only in the Lower Farmers precinct by seven votes, 496 to 413. Black a Democrat, pulled in 68 percent of the vote. Butler's best showing was in the Brushy precinct where he tied Black's 196 votes.

Magistrates
In the four races for county magistrate, all the Democrats emerged victorious, even though the vote in one district was so close that it wasn't decided for certain until the absentee ballots were counted.

The county Fiscal Court that takes office in January will be completely new, with four different magistrates and a new county judge/executive. In District 1, the new magistrate is Democrat Don Litton. He defeated A.D. Coleman, 1,065 to 636. In getting 61 percent of the vote, Litton lost only in one precinct, Fleming, 122 to 90. Litton's largest margin of victory (148 votes) came in the Pine Hills precinct.

Also in District 1, John Black defeated Jackie Butler for the constable's job, 866 to 413. Black a Democrat, pulled in 68 percent of the vote. Butler's best showing was in the Brushy precinct where he tied Black's 196 votes.

In District 2, Bridges Johnson, the Democrat, will be the new magistrate in January. He received 64 percent of the vote in his win over Republican Travis Cornett. Johnson won all four precincts.

In the only other District 2 race, Wilson Conn, who was unopposed for constable, received 851 votes.

In District 3, Herman Mabry defeated Republican Gary Lee Fouch by 24 votes, in what was the closest election for a county office. Mabry got 51 percent of the 976 votes cast. He lost in three of the four precincts, but his margin in the Hogtown precinct (239 to 154) was enough to get him the victory. Both men had to wait until the absentee votes amounting to 66 percent (2,003 to 1,015). The amendment failed to carry one precinct in the county.

Statewide, unofficial results showed the amendment losing by nearly the same margin statewide. In Fayette County voters rejected the amendment by a margin of about 59 to 41 percent.

Of the estimated 5,500 voters who cast ballots in Rowan County, only about 55 percent — 3,018 — even bothered to vote on the issue.

In one newspaper, Brown was quoted as saying of the amendment's defeat, "It's apparent the people didn't want to change, and I'll accept that. In my own mind it boils down to whether good government can compete with politics in Kentucky. Apparently it can't, so we'll just accept that and go on."

The governor added that he believes the amendment failed because "people are afraid to change."

Several local Democrats in conversations after the election said they were surprised at the margin of defeat for the amendment in Rowan County. One success would be passing in the county because of its heavy Democratic voter registration.

Republican Chairman Was Disappointed

Disappointment — That word summarizes Rowan County Republican Chairman Kenny Bland's feelings about Tuesday's general election.

"I was naturally disappointed," he said. "Even though realizing that we are out registered by a large majority, I felt with the quality of our candidates, we should have had some winners."

Bland said Republicans fared no better than he had expected in any race in the election. Bland, whose wife was defeated in her bid for Rowan Circuit Clerk, said he was equally disappointed in all the races for county offices. Republicans failed to get more than 40

Demo Chairman Not Surprised By Election

Rowan County Democratic Chairman Ottis Elam said she was not surprised by any of the results in Tuesday's general election.

"She said she was 'ama, county races that she felt might be closer than they were. 'But I felt at all times that the Democrats would win."

The Democratic candidate every single race in the county, winning all the major offices with at least 60 percent of the vote. The closest race was for magistrate in District 3, where Herman Mabry won with 51 percent of the total. Democrats were unopposed in seven races.

Elam, former county clerk, also said that she was not really surprised about the defeat of the Succession Amendment.

Rowan County Voters Say 'No' To Succession, 'Yes' To Property Tax Question

As did voters across the state, Rowan candidates routinely rejected a proposed amendment to Kentucky's Constitution that would have permitted the state's highest officials to serve for seven years, to seek a second consecutive four-year term. It would have permitted a sheriff to succeed himself for an unlimited number of terms. The amendment, which had the support of Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., was looked upon in some circles as a vote of confidence in the administration of the governor, to seek a second consecutive four-year term. It would have permitted a sheriff to succeed himself for

Mistake Could Be Costly To Utility Plant Board

A mistake in the wage rate applied to contracts for the Morehead Utility Plant Board's water expansion project could end up costing the city as much as $134,000.

The complicated situation came to light recently when the Morehead Utility Plant Board was notified by the Kentucky Department of Labor that it may have improperly applied 1978, rather than 1980, wage rates to the contracts on the $5.23 million water project. The labor department established rates that agencies must pay contractors when federal or state money is used.

An advertisement for bids on the project was placed in The Morehead News on Aug. 22, 1980, one week after then-labor Commissioner Eugene Land signed documents implementing the new wage rates. Had the advertisements been placed on or before Aug. 15, the old wage rates, which had been in effect since 1978, would have applied.

Plant Board attorney Paul Blair said Tuesday that he and other city officials met with representatives of the Department of Labor on Monday, at which time they were told of the details of the problem.

Blair explained that the utility's engineer, Howard K. Bell, had asked the labor department for wage rates that would apply on the project. Bell had told the department that the project would be advertised for bids prior to Aug. 15, which meant that the 1978 wage rates would have been in effect.

The engineer, however, postponed the date of the advertisement for bids, but apparently failed to notify the labor department of the change.

Blair stated that there was no advertisement or notification by the department that wage rates would be changed on Aug. 15, although notice had been given that they would be changing. Blair said the Aug. 15 date just happened to be when the labor commissioner got around to signing the documents.

The utility's attorney added, "These wage rates are not revised just every day. This revision on Aug. 15 was the first for approximately two and one-half years."

Blair said that it will cost the Plant Board between $90,000 and $110,000, if a determination is made that the new rates should apply. In addition, state law provides for a statutory penalty of up to $100 per day that the violation existed. Each day is considered a separate offense. That could amount to another $24,000 because work orders were issued in early spring.

Blair said there is enough money in contingency funds in the project to pay for any additional payroll costs, which would be retroactive for workers who have already been employed and paid.

Police Say Election Quiet

The polling places in Morehead and Rowan County were quiet and orderly, according to city, county and state law enforcement officers.

One reported incident of alcoholic beverages being given away to voters was unfounded, said Morehead Police Department Chief Fred Barnsdale.

"I drove over to the poll that was reported to have someone giving away alcoholic beverages, and didn't see a thing," said Barnsdale. "I went in an unmarked car, and drove by two or three times during the day. It was quiet from what I could see."

Barnsdale said a call of a disturbance at the courthouse following the polls closing was answered promptly, but that nothing out of the ordinary was found.

"We sent an officer, but when he

Judge's Appointment Is Still Undecided

Appointment of a Rowan County judge/executive to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge W.C. Flannery this week had not been made at press time yesterday.

However, Otis Elam, chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee, said that Flannery's wife, Arlene, had been recommended for the position.

"I have recommended they appoint Mrs. Flannery for the unexpired term," said Elam. "I feel that is the wishes of most of the committee."

Elam added that she had made her recommendation in writing to Gov.

Arrests Made In Jewelry Theft

Two Lexington men were charged Tuesday in connection with the Sept. 30 burglary of LeRoy's Jewelry Store in the Trademore Center.

Charged with burglary in the third degree were James William Lovejoy, 33, and Phillip Porter, 29, both of 405 Leeny Drive, Lexington.

The men are lodged in the Fayette County jail, each under a $60,000 bond.

The bond also covers other burglary charges the men are facing from Huntington, W. Va., and Winchester, Ky.

Kentucky State Police say the charges were made following investigation by Detectives Donald Dillon and Randy Frizzell, both of Morehead Post 8, with assistance from officers in Huntington and Winchester.

The burglary charges were made in the Lexington jail, where the two are facing other burglary charges.

The LeRoy's store burglary netted "several thousand dollars" worth of jewelry. More specific information was not available, said a KSP spokesman, because the investigation is ongoing.

Council Will Vote On Board Appointment

Mayor Crayton Jackson plans to submit Gary Bishop's name before the City Council Monday evening to fill the expired term of former Morehead Utility Plant Board chairman Clayton Perkins.

In September, Jackson was of the opinion that he had the authority to replace Plant Board members without prior approval of the council.

mayor was overstepping his authority when he informed Bishop by letter in early September that he had been appointed to the MUPB.

After researching the matter, city attorney Buddy R. Sawyer concluded that, since nothing had happened to change the original ordinance adopting the MUPB back in 1949, the council did indeed have to approve any plant board

Two Indicted In Alleged Tobacco Scheme

One of the present partners and one former partner in the Morehead Tobacco Warehouse Company have been indicted by a federal grand jury in Lexington on charges that manipulations of the warehouse's tobacco scale in 1978 was an attempt to defraud the federal government.

William Cecil Moore of Live Oak, Fla., a present partner, and Robert D. Oldham, Nashville, Tenn., a former partner in the warehouse company, were two of 10 individuals charged in the 15-count indictment.

The indictment, announced in a press release by the United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky Joseph L. Famularo, charges the individuals with conspiracy to defraud the U.S. Government and submission of false statements to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The indictment charges that a conspiracy existed at the Morehead Tobacco Warehouse to consistently short-weight some farmers' crops in the 1978 marketing season. The baskets of tobacco were allegedly underweighed and the surplus tobacco was transferred at night to other baskets. The tobacco was then sold on Moore's dealer card, the indictment says.

Payoffs were allegedly made to Greenwell, then director of the Kentucky State Division of Weights and Measures, in return for notification of scheduled inspections at the warehouse.

Also named in the indictments were Bill Peters, Hartsville, Tenn.; Reid Duncan, Sweetwater, Tenn.; Donnie Steve Walters, Orrum, N.C.; Alfred Dalton, Live Oak, Fla.; Paul Walker, Pilot Mountain, N.C.; Robert Walker, Springfield, Ky.; and William "Bibb" Johnson, Mullins, S.C. All seven were associates or employees of Moore and Oldham.

Assistant United States Attorney John M. Compton said in the news release that the grand jury charges are the first indictments following a lengthy investigation by U.S. Department of Agriculture agents in the Office of Inspector General into the burley and appointment tobacco operations of Moore and Oldham.

The men, two of the largest independent tobacco dealers in the nation, are operating in Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, North Carolina and Florida.

According to Compton, the maximum penalty for the charges is up to 10 years in prison and a $500,000 fine.

Mistake Could

Asked if the engineer were responsible for the situation, Blair was non-committal. He said, "If the engineer should have known that there was a new wage rate becoming effective Aug. 14 or 15, then certainly he should have made every effort to advertise prior to that time. I'm not going to say he should have known or that it was possible for him to know that."

Correction

The Morehead resident injured in a Saturday auto accident, Charles R. Prather, 21, of 340 Old Flemingsburg Road, was incorrectly reported to be the son of Kenny and Nell Bland, 411 Bishop Court, Charles W. Prather, 19, is the son of the Blands.

The injured man is the son of Grover and Lodusta Prather. He is reported to be in critical, but stable, condition at the University of Kentucky Medical Center at Lexington.

The accident occurred on West Sun Street at 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Charles R. Prather was alone in the vehicle and suffered what was described as a "major head injury" and internal body injuries.

He added, "Our position is that we told them (the labor department) that we were going to advertise on or after the 15th and they made a note of that request." Blair said the department should have notified the utility that there was going to be a change.

Blair also said, "It's my opinion we have shown good faith. The engineer did request a rate and did receive one. "As I understand it, the Department of Labor's position is that, had they been advised that it (the advertisement for bids) was being postponed, we would have then been advised of the new wage rate."

Those who attended the meeting in Frankfort Monday were: Blair; City Attorney Buddy Salyer, Councilmember H.G. Pratt, Howard K. Bell, Engineer Donald Fugette, Deputy Labor Commissioner Howard Lawson, Acting General Counsel for the department Thomas A. Dockett, Assistant County Mark Miller and Charles E. McCoy of the labor department.

Blair said he planned to gather more information to submit it to the department before a final determination on the proper rate is made.

Gas Officials May Complete Testing Soon

Tennessee Gas Company workers conducted tests on the main line into Morehead Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The tests were conducted to determine if any section of the pipe was weak and needed replacing, or if there were any leaks.

Glenn Gilkison, chief of the project, said late Wednesday afternoon that no problems had developed and that, if everything went according to plan, the testing would be complete by Saturday. "We are hoping to have the line hooked back up with gas Saturday, maybe Monday," Gilkison said.

The company tests the gas line by pumping large amounts of water through it. "We conduct the tests in order to protect the public. If there is any bad pipe, we want to get rid of it," Gilkison said.

While the testing was under way, city gas customers received their gas supply through the old W.C. Eyr, L.C. Young line, which was upgraded and repaired within the last three weeks in order to handle the expected pressure load.

Appointment

Jackson was under the impression that changes made in the 1980 General Assembly, which dealt with fourth class cities, gave him the power to make all appointments, without council approval.

Salyer requested an Attorney General's opinion on the matter and upon reading the reply, Jackson concluded that it is proper for the mayor to submit the names of potential plant board members to the city council for its approval.

The issue boiled down to this question: Is the ordinance, adopted in 1949, that created the Utility Plant Board, still effective in view of legislative changes made in 1980 pertaining to the government of Kentucky cities?

Attorney General Steve Beshear's office, in an opinion written by assistant deputy attorney general Walter Herdman wrote, "The ordinance in question complies with the present law and continues to remain effective until repealed."

Bishop is currently serving on the MUPB on a temporary basis until the vacancy is filled by the City Council.

Wathan Armstrong, left, Bridges Johnson, foreground, and Jim Nickell exchanged congratulations during a District 2 and Nickell, currently the sheriff, was elected county clerk; Johnson was elected magistrate in the election. Armstrong won re-election to another six-year term as county clerk; Johnson was elected magistrate in District 2; and Nickell, currently the sheriff, was elected judge/executive. All three are Democrats. (Staff photo by Joe Lamb.)

Amendment No. 2 Passes

Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins, who opposed the amendment, said of the outcome, "I'm not surprised at the result because we predicted that it would lose by a substantial margin."

Amendment 2 Passes

Almost as surprising to some as the margin of defeat for the succession amendment was the fact that a second amendment regarding extension of the homestead exemption on property taxes passed.

That amendment, which would reduce property taxes for disabled homeowners and give a tax break to owners of renovated buildings, passed by only six votes in Rowan County, 1,295 to 1,289.

The amendment was losing when the machine tally was figured but gained enough votes from the absentees, which were counted much later than normal, to win. The absentee votes were 57 for and 38 against.

The no votes won in seven of the county's 18 precincts, and the yes votes carried by a total of only 10 votes in four others. The largest margin of victory for the amendment came in North Morehead, where it passed by 20 votes. The largest margin of defeat for it was in Hogtown, where the no votes exceeded the yes votes by 85.

Only about 47 percent, or 2,584, of the estimated 5,500 persons who cast ballots voted on the issue.

Tobacco

Punishment provided by law on each of the 15 counts is a fine of $10,000 or five years imprisonment, or both.

Officials at the Morehead Tobacco Warehouse said they would not comment on the charges at this time.

Con Man Takes IGA For $100

A clerk at the IGA West was conned out of $100 Wednesday, according to Morehead Police Department Chief Fred Barnsdale.

Barnsdale said the department received a call at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, saying the store had been bilked by the unknown man.

The man had bought an item and paid for it with a $100 bill. Then, through smooth talk and fast hands, the man recovered his change, the $100 bill, and the item. He then left the store, according to Barnsdale.

MPD Patrolman Barker initiated the investigation, which is continuing.

ment in the county. "I expected it to be defeated here in the county from the people I talked to," she said, adding, "There was not really any organized group that was working for it."

Elam also said she did not think the amendment's defeat was any reflection on the administration of Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., who supported the constitutional change that would have permitted him to seek office again. She said, "It's just that some people think that, in the sheriff's office, they might not want a sheriff for two consecutive terms. They would have the right to vote him out, but they were afraid of building up a machine."

As for plans for the next four years, Elam said, "I want to let people know we've still got an organization and continue to be known and do things for the party."

percent in a single county-wide contest.

The Republican chairman was also disappointed at the turnout of Republicans at the polls. "I would guess if 60 percent of the Republicans had voted, the election would have been turned around in many of the races."

Blair was not surprised at the outcome of the succession amendment in Rowan County. The issue was defeated by nearly a two to one margin. He admitted, however, that it was not a partisan issue, and when asked if he felt the vote was a vote on the administration of Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., he said, "I'm not so sure that it's strictly a reflection on Brown's administration."

Most people feel like the constitution is well written with safeguards and they're not ready to change it."

Of both the succession amendment and an amendment to allow property tax exemptions for disabled property owners and owners who renovate buildings, Blair said, "I really and truly feel that the people, when they have voted for and in favor of constitutional amendments, sometimes wish afterwards that they hadn't."

For that reason, Blair said he was not surprised at the closeness of the second amendment, which passed in the county by six votes.

Asked about the direction of the Republican party in Rowan County after such a sound defeat, Blair said, "The Republican party definitely has a future, and I think a good future, in Rowan County. We'll take some time to reflect on the outcome and just build for the future."

The chairman said there are no definite plans for any action to increase GOP registration here, he said, "It certainly will be a topic of discussion within the next few weeks."

votes were counted before they knew of four precincts in getting 62 percent of the vote. Williams lost the Pine Grove precinct, 247 to 224. His largest margin of victory (141 votes) came in the Rodburn precinct.

In District 4, Glenn Williams easily outpaced Republican Jimmie Allen Stacy, 871, to 546. Williams won three

House Speaker William Kenton Dies Thursday

LEXINGTON — Kentucky House Speaker William G. Kenton, critically ill since emergency surgery Monday to remove a blood clot, died at 9:40 a.m. Thursday at Lexington's University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Hospital spokeswoman Sue Myers read a statement from Kenton's chief surgeon, Dr. Edward P. Todd, saying death was due to "acute renal kidney failure."

Todd said despite the use of "the most potent drugs" to try to keep the 46-year-old Lexington lawmaker alive, his blood pressure could not be sustained.

Kenton, D-Lexington, was unopposed for re-election to his 75th District seat Tuesday.

Kenton, a native of Maysville, would have sought an unprecedented fourth consecutive term as House Speaker at a pre-legislative session late this month.

He was considered a likely contender for a statewide office — either governor, lieutenant governor or U.S. representative — in 1983 or 1987.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 6, 1981

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I had a complete physical that was required by a firm I started with recently. I am a healthy young woman 23 and this was my first thorough internal examination by a physician.

The doctor peered into every crevice with lights and poked with instruments. The exam lasted at least 20 minutes. He didn't say ONE word the whole time. After I put my clothes on he said I was very healthy and the results of the blood test and urinalysis would arrive in the mail.

The doctor is extremely competent and highly respected, but on a scale of 1 to 10, I would give him a 6. Why? Because he didn't utter one word throughout the entire examination. If he had said just a few phrases—

"Everything is fine here" or, "No problem" looks excellent," he would have made me feel so much better. Silence during a physical examination can be terribly frightening to a patient.

Please print my letter, Ann. So many doctors need to know this, and it's something they don't teach in medical school. I live in Chicago.

Dear Chic: I hope every person who has an appointment for a physical will clip this column and hand it to the doctor BEFORE going into the examining room. It's amazing how many competent physicians are insensitive or unaware of this critical aspect of patient care. Thanks for all the good you did today.

Dear Ann: My husband has a habit that drives me nuts. After every sentence he says, "Right?"

The man is not always right and I don't think he should expect people to agree with him every time he opens his mouth. Sometimes he doesn't even wait for an answer. He says, "Right?" and keeps on talking. I feel about this but he keeps doing it anyway. Any suggestions on how to get him to stop?—Vermont Reader.

Dear Vermont: That irksome speech habit became popular a few years ago. I agree, it can be annoying—like any word or phrase repeated over and over. (Another clinker is "You know?")

He won't stop, so your best bet is to construct a psychological defense mechanism. Whenever your husband says, "Right?" say to yourself, "Wrong." It will help keep your blood pressure down.

Dear Ann Landers: I was taken aback by the letter from "Pleased to Meet You" and amazed at your answer.

There is one exception to the hand-shake rule. When someone offers his or her hand, it must be assumed the person doesn't know better. Such ignoramuses belong in the same category with lip-smackers and coffee-blowers. The lady should respond with a light clasp. (You called it a "dead fish.")

I am 42, so don't label me an out-of-date eld. Remember, we may be thinking the same about you when you hold out your hand to us.—A True Southern Lady.

Dear Lady: I always stand when a gentleman of distinction or advanced age enters a room, and I shake hands with both men and women—no dead fishes either. If that makes me a dud in your eyes, it wouldn't exactly ruin my day.

Cleveland — A federal judge Wednesday scheduled a Nov. 17 hearing on a preliminary injunction sought by the Marathon Oil Co. in an effort to prevent a $5.1 billion takeover attempt by the Mobil Corp.

New York — At least five members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries have cut their crude oil prices by between 86 cents and $2.50 a barrel in line with the cartel's decision to reunify prices, industry sources said Wednesday.

Washington — Chicago's Commonwealth Edison would have to raise rates between $47 million and $156 million a year through 1986 to cover the cost of closing its Zion nuclear plant as a safety risk, a congressional agency reported Wednesday.

New York — The nation's home-heating oil stocks edged down below the Department of Energy's average range last week for the first time this season, the American Petroleum Institute reported Wednesday.

Lagos — Nigeria, America's second largest foreign oil supplier, produced only 706,571 barrels a day of crude in August, the OPEC news agency reported Wednesday.

Hazard Festival Drew $3 Million, 150,000 People

What can a festival do for a community? Ask Hazard residents, suggests state tourism director Mark Holthaus.

Hazard will never be the same. The first "Black Gold Festival" a month ago drew some 150,000 people to a city of less than 20,000 population. Festival organizers figure the four-day event put Hazard on the map, and its benefits will be felt for a long time.

The festival was held Sept. 18-20, Holthaus said, because it had all the needed ingredients: a hard-working festival committee, a great drawing card and enough organization money to plan the festival properly.

Other community festivals could not be expected to gain national publicity as the Black Gold Festival did by attracting "Dukes of Hazard" cast members to the event, Holthaus said. But any community with the determination and support to do so can organize a festival that will bring tourists by the droves, he noted.

Revenue estimates show it is worth the effort, Holthaus added.

Hazard's 150,000 festival visitors spent about $3 million during the four days, said festival organizer Danny Martin. In fact, the festival was nearly too successful. The crowds were so big that shopping was difficult, so even more money might have been spent with somewhat smaller crowds, he said.

In any case the festival's immediate benefits pale in comparison to what organizers hope it will accomplish. "We want people (to visit) here every weekend," Martin said. He said he didn't know how the 30-member committee was going to top this year's celebration, but they are already at work on next year's event.

Holthaus said the state Office of Tourism Development lends technical assistance to a number of festivals throughout the state. "We'd be happy to help any community that wants to organize a festival. They are a great way to enhance a town's image and generate revenue," he said.

IRS Has Refund Checks

John J. Jennings, district director of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), has released the names of those Kentucky taxpayers to whom federal tax refund checks were issued in 1981, but returned to IRS as "undeliverable." Some refund checks belong to individuals, others to businesses. The list includes 590 individual tax refund checks totaling $181,449.12. The individual taxpayer refund checks range from the lowly $1 to the highest at $6,264.20 with an average check of $307.54.

The list also includes 82 business tax refund checks totaling $66,161.26. The business refund checks range from the lowest at $1.26 to the highest at $11,564.51, with an average check of $732.67.

Jennings says the taxpayers may have moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the IRS, or their handwriting may simply be illegible.

When a refund is returned by the Postal Service, the IRS attempts to find the taxpayer and deliver the checks, but there are always some who cannot be found. If you think you may be due a refund and have moved or changed your name during the year, contact the IRS.

The IRS lists the following persons in this region as having had income tax refund checks returned:

Finely Marion and Wanda Stone, Clifton and Roseella HJaywood, Pearl Fuller, Laila L. Potter, William W. and Catherine L. Shely, Roy and Teresa Byrd, and Joseph Gomers.

If you are still wondering about your refund check for this year, please call the IRS at the following number toll free: 1-800-428-9100.

Boys, Girls Basketball

Breck Teams Each Drop Opener

By KURT PICKERING
Sports Staff Writer

Lady Hornets 52
Lady Eagles 22

Fact! Don't look now, but University Breckinridge School still has a basketball program after all.

Although the girls' half of the program suffered a surprisingly sound thrashing Wednesday night in the first round of the Foothills Conference Tournament, the boys followed by giving their opposition all they could handle before dropping an eight-point decision. This from a school where there were real — although fleeting — doubts about the very existence of the program as recently as August.

The FHC tourney, played this year at Magoffin County High School's stylish new arena in Salyersville, sets up its brackets by draw of schools rather than teams to keep down travel costs; thus, the UBS girls met the host Magoffin County girls in the opener of the first round double-header and the boys' teams of the same schools followed.

The Lady Eagles clearly underestimated the Lady Hornets, who entered the game 0-1. Magoffin County has obviously improved itself after fielding a team that last year lost to Menifee County, which provided Breck with two of its five wins last season. Breck and Magoffin did not meet during the campaign.

All that aside, the Lady Hornets bused back the unsuspecting Lady Eagles in the opening period, breaking to quick, huge lead on the way to a 32-22 cakewalk.

But the boys, a club that lost every expected 1981-82 starter to Rowan County High School in the recent merger, stayed with the Hornets for most of four quarters before settling for a 62-54 loss.

Jennifer Rife and Jodi Miller combined to score all of Magoffin County's first 15 points as the Lady Hornets raced to a 19-4 lead after one quarter.

"We just froze," coach Kim Cecil said. "I hope it was just first-game jitters. In practice we executed a lot of things that we just didn't execute in the game."

"There were a lot of mental mistakes, like walking. And we had only two girls looking to put the ball in the basket. Wendy (Carpenter) and Ellen (Brown). No one else wanted to shoot."

Magoffin County scored first on a Rife layup. A turnaround jumper tied it about a minute later, but then Rife hit a bank shot that ignited a 13-point run and put the Lady Hornets far ahead for good.

After an almost total turnover in personnel, the team was expected to look as different from last year's 5-23 team as "Tennessee from Brownshoe. But many of the problems of last year seem to remain — primarily turnovers, poor shooting and a lack of rebounding.

"We tried to rebound flat-footed," Cecil said. "These girls have shown me they're willing to jump, but they didn't tonight."

Many of the turnovers were mental errors such as traveling, but many also came after jump balls that were forced when Magoffin County players tied up Breck ball handlers, especially after rebounds and before shots.

When that was pointed out to Cecil, she nodded and replied, "I told our girls at halftime. They're not going to be nice to you. They want the basketball. It went in one ear and out the other."

Another harbinger to last season was the long distance shooting of Brown, something Cecil had said would be avoided this season in favor of an inside game. "Once we got so far behind, though," Cecil said, "I had to resort to that."

The Lady Eagles trailed 29-7 at halftime, then raised their hopes briefly by scoring the first six points of the third quarter to close to within 11 points. One reason may have been that Lady Hornet coach Jack Howard put just one starter on the floor for the second-half tipoff.

Howard said the change was not out of niceness or because of the lead. "I keep (my) first five in there as long as I possibly can because my bench is my weakest point," Howard said. "We were just in such foul trouble that I really didn't have any choice." Howard was well aware of what foul trouble can mean, as the Lady Hornets took the memory of their season opener into the game. Magoffin County outscored its first opponent by six field goals but was called for 33 fouls and lost the game at

Vikings Start Second Season Tonight

Rowan County begins its second football season tonight. The playoffs, or season, will last as long as the team continues to win. It could last four games, with the last game for the championship of Class AA, on Nov. 27th.

The first step toward that goal takes place tonight. The Vikings travel to Bath County to play the Wildcats for the district championship, and the right to participate in the regional championship contest on Nov. 13th.

The Vikings defeated Bath County 33-0 back on September 4th.

It was the second of six shutouts for Rowan County this season.

The Viking defense allowed Bath

County just 10 yards rushing. The Wildcats did rack up 119 yards passing in the contest, played in Morehead.

Rowan County totaled 334 yards in total offense. All but 56 of those yards came on the ground.

Marvin Adkins led the way with 165 yards and two touchdowns.

Head coach Ray Graham was asked if he thought his team might take it. Wildcats lightly considering how easily they handled them earlier in the season.

"The kids are fired up to play Bath County. It's a rivalry, because they are just down the road, and then you have the family factor with uncle Gary and Greg Ramey. I don't think there is any chance we will overlook them," Graham said.

The coach pointed to the fact that Bath County built a winning streak after the Rowan County game.

The Wildcats won seven straight games after visiting Morehead. The outscored their opponents 190-47 during that span, before losing to East Carter, 22-6 last Friday night.

"They are quick and have some big play people," Graham said.

Doctors have informed Graham that senior Bill Brock, who has been sidelined the past two games with a shoulder injury, may be able to play tonight.

"Bill is a question mark, we might not decide until right at game time, or even into the game if he will play," the coach said.

Steve Moore, who has been hampered with an ankle injury, will start tonight.

"We have made the statement that we couldn't beat them twice in one season. There are a lot of motivations," Graham said.

In "Losers Bowl"

Perhaps it should be called the Losers Bowl. At 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, Morehead State, 0-7, and loser of 11 out of its last 12 football games, will host Liberty Baptist, 0-8, and loser to schools called Mars Hill, and Catawba.

Don't laugh, because the Lynchburg, Va. team beat the Eagles last season, 23-20, and according to MSU head coach Steve Loney, the Flames have improved, despite their record.

"Liberty Baptist is a better team than they were a year ago, and I like to think we are a better team also," Loney said during an interview in his gymnasium office this week.

The coach described Liberty Baptist as a better squad at most positions, except for the offensive line and quarterback.

"They utilize their players well. They present more problems than they did a year ago," the Eagle coach said. Loney is unsure of his own quarterback position as of Thursday.

Freshman Mike Hanlin, who in his first start last Saturday as an Eagle, completed 14 out of 29 passes for 186 yards against Western, and added a 40 yard run for a touchdown, injured his left shoulder. Loney describes the St. Mary's, W. Va., product as a question mark for Saturday.

Earlier this season, in a game against Austin Peay, Hanlin entered the game late in the third quarter and passed for 294 yards and three touchdowns before the game was over.

According to the most recent Ohio Valley Conference statistics, the Eagles sport the league's third best offense and the best passing game, but injuries and turnovers have kept them from

The Eagles have suffered 18 interceptions (a league high) and have lost eight fumbles.

When asked if he thought there would be a revenge factor in Saturday's game, Loney said, "The loss last year was the most embarrassing one of the season for us. I'm sure the kids who were here were at that game will remember it, and try to prevent it from

Agree Or Not

FRANKFORT — When the political posturing and the public criticisms are stripped away from the state's Sikorsky helicopter and the governor's promise to sell it, the bare financial facts are that it is just an expensive mode of transportation.

First off, the actual base price on the plane under the lease purchase agreement is $1,433,966 according to the contract in the Finance Department.

The money was borrowed from the First Security National Bank of Lexington at eight percent interest. The contract calls for monthly payments broken down into two-year periods running to 1988 with the payments escalating every two years.

The first period ends next June 15 when the monthly payments escalate from $12,500 to $25,700 to run until June 1984. Then, the payments jump to $29,000 per month until June 15, 1986 when the payments go to $40,100 per month until June 1988 when the state must make a decision to pay off the balance of the contract or return the plane to the bank and Sikorsky. The balance due in 1988 will be about $76,000.

But this balance is reached after the state has paid out an approximate total of $3.3 million.

Next June 15 the state's equity in the plane will be $6,795.00. This would be the amount the governor would be able to turn over to education, according to his promise to sell the plane, that is, if the state should receive the original purchase price for the plane in the present very soft market.

When Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.'s 1982 budget ends June 30, 1984, the state will still owe $1,487,444, and that's six months after his term ends in December 1983.

While the aircraft industry figures operating cost on a commercial basis for the Sikorsky at $1,275 per hour, the state figures the cost at $750 per hour. Bob Kellogg said he had no knowledge of the commercial cost, but gave the $750 cost for the state which includes all the costs involved in its operation, including the investment and maintenance.

The state charges other departments of government $275 per hour for use of the plane and also charges Phyllis George Brown the same amount when she uses it to fly to Cincinnati to catch a plane for New York each weekend to do her NFL Today program for CBS.

Kellogg said this figure includes actual fuel costs and the pilot's salaries, but none of the overhead, such as maintenance, investment, etc. This fixed cost would be there anyway. Kellogg said if the plane were left to sit on the pad Kellogg made no differentiation whether Mrs. Brown is on her private business for CBS or for the state.

The governor uses the plane much of the time to travel from his home in Fayette County to his office in Frankfort and then back home.

Dr. Robert Warren, deputy secretary of Finance, rationalizes the lease deal by saying it is a good business deal for the state since the state is borrowing money at eight percent while loaning $3 million received from the sale of most of the state's plane fleet at 15 to 17 percent. He says "it is a wise business decision."

Warren also said state people are doing a lot less flying. Even though the state has some personal service contracts leasing planes, the cost is a lot less than spent by the previous administration when $800,000 was budgeted for planes and maintenance, plus one million dollars agencies of government were billed for use of the planes through inter-accounting.

No one will argue reasonably that the state should not have aircraft in this modern age for business use, but the demagoguery should be cut out and the truth laid on the table.

Past history shows that plane choice and use has become a status symbol with governors. Gov. Louie B. Nunn sold the old Beechcraft used by the Combs and Breathitt administrations and took a lease contract on a jet. Gov. Wendell Ford campaigned against the jet and promptly cancelled the lease when he went into office, only to enter a similar contract for a plane of his choice.

Gov. Julian Carroll wasn't satisfied with the plane Ford had and he bought two Merlins.

Now, Brown sold off the two Merlins, a Fairchild, two Navajos, a Bell helicopter and the Aero Commander used by the Department of Photogrammetry in the Highway Department.

Brown bought the Sikorsky. Eyes of governors are satisfied at the taxpayers' expense.

Disabled American Veterans...They Paid The Price For Peace

The screams of the wounded and the stench of gunpowder surrounded Robert Richardson, a private in America's Continental Army, but he fought on until a British cannonball

Guest Editorial . . .

The editorial deals with America's disabled veterans and serves as our way of marking Veterans Day, which will be observed Wednesday, Nov. 11.

struck his hand spike. It broke in two, one end tearing his belly open. The wind from the cannonball left his right arm useless. Richardson's blood had paid the price of peace and freedom. But, for the rest of his life, he was totally disabled.

For a while, the Continental Congress provided the Revolutionary War veteran a disability pension of half his military salary. It helped, but Richardson was unable to support himself on this meager allowance. Even his pitance ended shortly after the War of Independence when the new national government turned responsibility for disabled veterans over to the individual states and their Poor Law systems.

Life was tough—really tough—for Richardson and other patriots wounded in the struggle for free America from colonial chains. Many were reduced to begging.

Things are better for the 2-1/2 million disabled veterans living in today's America. But, on Veterans Day this year, it's appropriate to recall what happened to the disabled veterans of our Revolutionary War. What happened to them established a pattern that has, to some extent, been played out after each of our country's nine wars—a pattern of forgetfulness that's playing itself out again today, just six years after the last American was killed in Vietnam, our most recent war.

Perhaps that's understandable. When wars end, people want to get back to normal, peacetime life, leaving the turmoil and anxiety of war behind. Following the Vietnam War—the most unpopular war in our nation's history with the single exception of the Civil War—the process of forgetting has been unusually rapid. People want to bury the bitter social division of the Vietnam years. That's good, but there's a tragedy in the way we're going about it: When people forget about wars, they tend to forget about the sacrifices that veterans, particularly disabled veterans, have made. And when the public forgets the needs of disabled veterans, so do their elected representatives.

Maybe that's why the Veterans Administration (VA) hospital system has been hit by one budget cut after another for the past five years, forcing the VA to turn thousands of eligible veterans away from the doors of its health care facilities. Maybe that explains why job programs for disabled and Vietnam era veterans have been kept too small to make a serious dent in the employment problems these veterans have experienced. Maybe that's why we've seen, for the first time this year, curtailments in GI Bill educational programs.

Maybe that's the reason veterans' preference in federal employment was attacked so viciously back in 1977 and 1978. Maybe that's why the VA and other federal agencies were so slow initially in recognizing the seriousness of such problems as the defoliant Agent Orange, the exposure of Cold War veterans to radiation in atomic weapons tests, and the post-traumatic stress difficulties of half a million or more Vietnam veterans.

Think about it. Could it be that the American people have forgotten the warriors as they went about the process of forgetting the trying times of war? The 700,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) believes this is exactly what happened—not just after Vietnam, but after World War I, World War II, and the Korean War as well. But no veteran of any war should ever be forgotten. Without the sacrifices these men and women made, there would be no United States.

Back in 1903, Theodore Roosevelt said something that never every American would probably agree with: "A man who is good enough to shed his blood for his country is good enough to get a square deal afterward," he stated. Looking at veterans' programs realistically, it's unlikely that our country would ever let the plight of its disabled veterans get as bad as it was for Private Richardson and his disabled comrades following the American Revolution. But it would be a mistake to simply assume, without giving it much thought, that all of our political leaders are bending over backward to make sure veterans—even disabled veterans—are getting the kind of "square deal" Roosevelt was talking about.

On Veterans Day, 1981, we must ask ourselves a very basic question. Can we do too much to guarantee a square deal for a sailor whose arms were crushed when a Nazi torpedo smashed through the hull of his ship . . . for the pilot whose body was burned and disfigured when his plane was shot down over Korea . . . for the Marine whose legs were blown off by a Viet Cong booby trap in the Mekong Delta . . . for the

Letters To The Editor

The Editor: Faculty members at Kentucky's regional universities are very concerned about the 1982-84 budget proposals recently made by the staff of the Council on Higher Education. Those proposals would dramatically reduce the percentage of the state's higher education budget going to the regional universities.

Citizens and parents of students at these universities should know that the majority of the university students in the Commonwealth would be seriously hurt if these proposals are adopted.

The recently published Prichard Committee Report recommended increased funding for higher education in Kentucky. Instead, the CHE staff has proposed giving less money to the regional universities during the 1982-83 year than was originally appropriated to them for 1981-82. Last weekend the Congress of Senate Faculty Leaders characterized these budget proposals as "most inappropriate in light of our current crisis in higher education."

The planned budget cut (misleadingly called a "no-growth" budget) will lead to fewer library and laboratory resources, large classes, seriously inadequate faculty salaries, the loss of better faculty members, and a general reduction in services for students.

I encourage all voters, and especially parents of students currently attending Kentucky's regional universities (Murray, Western, Eastern Kentucky State, Northern, and Morehead), to contact their elected representatives immediately and express their concern for equitable support of higher education at all of Kentucky's universities.

Sincerely,
Thomas B. Posey,
President of the
Murray State University
Faculty Senate.

the free throw line. After Breck's first two buckets made it 27-14, Howard quickly sent the regulars back in, fouls and all. The rest of the frame was fairly even and ended with MCHS ahead 35-20.

The Lady Hornets made it a blowout by scoring the first 15 points of the fourth quarter before the clubs traded the last two buckets. The trade came after the reserves went back in with 2:01 left and a 50-20 lead.

Rife led all scorers with 19, but Miller added 14 and Sadie Shepherd scored 11. Breck's only double-digit scorer was center Melissa Powers, who managed 10 points despite several trips into and out of the game on the foul trouble shuttle.

The Lady Eaglets host FHC and Eastern Kentucky Conference foe Elliott County at 7 p.m. Monday in the opener of a four-game homestand.

Hornets 62
Eaglets 54

The Eaglets obviously haven't been listening to all the talk about low expectations for this season, likely to be Breck's last as a high school.

Playing a team that was coming off a 27-point win in its only previous game.

It took just four seconds for Breck to get its first lead of the season. Jeff Bryant took the opening tap from David Saxton and put it in.

Magoffin County then scored eight of the next nine points, thus giving Breck the first of many chances to roll over and give up. But trailing 8-3 with 4:35 left in the first quarter, UBS used a jump shot and a turnaround jumper to make it 8-7. Although Magoffin edged the difference back up to four once, the Eaglets were down just 14-13 when the quarter ended.

During the frame, the Eaglets served ample notice of their 1981-82 intentions. With their experience level gutted by the transfer situation — only Bryant has any appreciable varsity game time — plus a lack of any dominating player, not much height, average speed and some shaky shooting, the Eaglets plan to do what's left: hustle.

Adjectives like swarming and heads-up just begin to explain the style of play that emerged in the first quarter of Gary Gartin's career as a high school coach. "We did have a good first quarter," Gartin said later. "It was important to us as a confidence factor. We didn't want to let the tempo get away from us early away from home." The play from both sides was a bit more ragged in the second quarter, but the result was the same as Magoffin County won the quarter by a point to go up by two, 24-22, at halftime. The Eaglets trailed by as many as five, but a followup bucket by Bryant, a rebound and subsequent solo fastbreak layup by Jeff Warren and a bucket by Rick Altman brought the Eaglets from that point to a 19-18 lead in a span of less than a minute.

After Magoffin regained the lead on a jumper, Matt Hill took a perfect feed from Altman in the lane and laid it in. He was fouled on the shot but could not convert the three-point play, and the Hornets put up four of the period's last five points for their two-point in-termission lead.

Breck might have held a substantial lead at the half if not for one glaring weakness, foul shooting. The Eaglets missed seven of eight free throws in the second quarter alone, and three of the misses came on the front ends of bonus situations, making a total of 10 missed chances for point in the quarter.

Comparatively, Magoffin hit two of four from the stripe. Both misses were bonus beginners, so the Hornets missed four chances for point.

Two more chances to give up came and went unnoticed in the third quarter. The Eaglets fell behind by six with 4:48 to go but narrowed that to two in about 1½ minutes, then slipped to 11 down with 1:39 to go.

"I remember thinking, 'If we're down by 10 when the buzzer goes off, we're in trouble,'" Gartin recalled later. The players passed that test, cutting the difference to just six at the horn.

Breck's last realistic effort followed early in the fourth quarter when, 2:11 into the frame, the score was 45-43. But a 14-4 Hornet surge finally put the game out of reach as Magoffin County took a 59-47 lead with 2:12 to play.

Even then, the Eaglets played as hard in the waning seconds as at any other time, closing the gap to eight at the final horn.

Gartin was not surprised at the Eaglets' play. "We have never felt like we were a weak club," he said. "We realize we're not very talented but effort and execution can cover a lot of that. Our execution tonight was decent and the effort was very good."

Hill wound up with 16 points for game scoring honors. Two teammates joined him in double figures, Kevin Stephens with 12 and Saxton with 10. Stephens led the carom crew with nine rebounds.

Magoffin County's scoring was somewhat more balanced. Two players, Robbie Johnson and Brian Lovely, scored a dozen each. Paul Arnett and Tim Stamper added 10 each.

The Eaglets were hurt by whistles. At halftime, Gartin had one starter carrying three fouls and three others with two each.

On any club that lists a lack of experience as a problem, there is always the question of how much better the group will be by March, when it really counts as tournament season opens. When Gartin was asked if his club would be much better by then, he quipped, "Yeah, but we'll probably still be six feet tall across the front line."

The same two clubs, by coincidence, will meet again Tuesday at Wetherby Gym. How much of a factor the home court advantage is usually is a hairy affair, but on this occasion, it may be a little better comparison since the two clubs will meet again so soon.

FIRST TWO — It took a moment to decide, but this shot by Jeff Bryant (not shown) finally fell through for the first points of the 1981-82 Breck basketball season. The Eaglets gearing up for the rebound are David Saxton and Jeff Warren. (Staff photo by Kirk Pickering)

Bath County Woman's Knitting Is Being Modeled By Celebrities

By ALICE AKIN
Staff Writer

OWINGSVILLE — Seventeen years ago, Bath County's Gaye Hall picked up a pair of knitting needles and pursued the craft on her own.

Today, the self-taught knitter's sweaters are appearing on the backs of celebrities from Kentucky to Beverly Hills.

Most recently, one of her works, a pink turtleneck maternity sweater, was presented as a gift from Kentucky's First Lady Phyllis George Brown to Mary Ann Rogers, wife of country singer Kenny Rogers.

The gift was given during the opening of the Oh! Kentucky boutique at Neiman-Marcus's Beverly Hills store.

The sweater for Mrs. Rogers took Mrs. Hall well over 100 hours to make, she said.

"It took longer than any other sweater I have made," she added, saying that she had taken a regular pattern sent to her by Phyllis George and adapted it to fit the expectant mother.

"I'm pleased the sweater went to Mary Ann Rogers," Mrs. Hall commented. "I'm a great fan of Kenny Rogers."

Mrs. Hall, a native of Menifee County and resident of Bath County since 1977, began knitting when her son, Leslie, now a junior at Morehead State University, was three years old.

"I taught myself because I couldn't afford to buy him sweaters," she smiled.

Using a "learn-how-to-book" as well as trial and error, Mrs. Hall's competency in the craft matured throughout the years and her speed increased until she now can "assurely" turn out a sweater in two or three days.

Her contact with Phyllis George Brown came last January after Mrs. Hall's mother, Ruby Ferrell, of Frankfort, sent pictures of her daughter's work to the First Lady.

"She answered with a letter and expressed an interest," Mrs. Hall explained.

The letter was followed by a phone call from Karen Horseman who was working with Mrs. Brown on her Kentucky arts and crafts promotion.

In August, Mrs. Hall and her mother were asked to bring some knitted articles along with quilts to Frankfort and meet with Lois Mateus, Commissioner of the Kentucky Department of the Arts.

From that meeting to the present, Mrs. Hall has completed seven orders for the department to be used as samples in exploring "marketing" potential for her work.

"They're trying to find a market for my knitting," Mrs. Hall said, explaining that she is "pretty much excited" about the possibility of her work being ordered by world-famous department stores.

In addition to knitting, Mrs. Hall and her mother are also looking for an outlet for their quilted pieces.

"We entered two quilts in the Harvest Festival this fall in Morehead and were really pleased with the results," Mrs. Hall said.

Gaye Hall, who modestly says she is a fast knitter even when the patterns are complicated, has also done some custom-sewn Western and square dance clothing.

Mrs. Hall is excited about the prospect of producing merchandise for national buyers.

And her enthusiasm has received an additional boost this week.

Commissioner Mateus phoned her Monday morning and made a date for Thursday to talk with Mrs. Hall at her home in Owingsville.

The topic of the meeting is one which Mrs. Hall has been waiting for.

"She said she was coming here to talk about an order for Bloomingdale's," Mrs. Hall said.

Brown Says Farmer Leaving Democrat Party's Top Spot

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. Wednesday confirmed state Democratic Party chairman Tracy Farmer has resigned his post to take a position in state government.

Brown, at a Frankfort news conference called to discuss the defeat of the succession amendment, declined to say what post Farmer would be accepting in state government. He said the announcement would be made tomorrow afternoon.

Farmer has called a news conference Thursday to announce his resignation, which was officially made Monday, before Tuesday's election and the defeat of the amendment that would have allowed Brown and other constitutional officers to run for a second consecutive term.

According to sources close to Farmer who did not want to be identified for fear of endangering their relationship with the Democratic Party boss, Brown has asked Farmer to assume control of the Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet.

Brown declined to say whether that was the position considered.

Those same sources say some members of the administration are concerned about Farmer's holdings in a Cynthia bank and some restaurants could create possible conflicts for Farmer in that position. Public Protection regulates the state's banking industry and administers the issuance of liquor licenses.

The post of Secretary for Public Protection and Regulation has been vacant since this summer, when former Lexington Mayor Foster Pettit resigned. Farmer could not be reached for comment Wednesday to confirm or deny the reports.

Brown declined to say who he was considering to appoint as a successor to Farmer.

Brown said Farmer's resignation had no connection with his performance as party boss, and complimented Farmer on the good showing Democrats made in Tuesday's election. He also said his own campaign for passage of the succession amendment was "well run."

Brown maintained the resounding defeat of the amendment was not a negative vote for his administration or him personally, but was due to the controversial nature of the issue.

"I think the people were just afraid of the abuses of the power of the governor's office," Brown said. "I don't think it's a repudiation of this administration."

there are too many factors."

Brown discounted reports that the defeat of the succession amendment will hurt his political future, saying, "this doesn't effect me, it should be dissociated."

Brown said he did have second thoughts about his decision to step up his involvement in the campaign in the last few weeks leading up to the election.

"Perhaps I shouldn't have gotten so involved," Brown said. "But I can't do anything halfway, it's like being a little bit pregnant."

Marketing Outlook

The Soviet Union will probably continue to import large quantities of U.S. grain and remain a major buyer in the world grain trade, according to University of Chicago economics professor D. Gale Johnson. The U.S. is still the least expensive supplier of large amounts of grain to the Soviets. Johnson said the continued poor Soviet grain yields partially result from the problems in those areas that support agriculture such as farm machinery, rather than the actual producers. A lack of spare parts for farm equipment and unreliable machinery are ongoing problems in the Soviet Union.

Johnson and other economists maintain that there still is great potential for massive Soviet imports of U.S. grain in both the near and long term. Trade analysts, however, still fear that Soviet imports will not reach this potential unless the U.S. is willing to guarantee that once purchased the grain will not be embargoed. Observers have said that the State Department is not enthusiastic about making such assurances — particularly in light of deepening tensions between the Soviet Union and Poland.

Argentina's 1981 corn crop is now estimated at a record 13 million metric tons — more than double last year's output. Venezuela is still planning to import white corn from the U.S. and the responsibility for importing it has been turned over entirely to the private sector. For the first time in history, U.S. Feed Grains Council Latin American Director Jim Myrick is currently leading a delegation from FROENAL, a major Venezuelan food importer, through the U.S. They are assessing the current U.S. white corn crop, mainly in Kentucky, for their 1982 importing needs. Although downward pressure on prices has occurred as a result of a high carry-over and larger than usual yields of white corn, economists and traders are both predicting that white corn will move from the U.S. this fall.

Recently, two high-level Reagan administration officials have warned that the U.S. will retaliate in the European Community continues to subsidize its exports while considering action to restrict imports. In Japan, a recent survey by the Tobacco and Salt Public Corporation (JTS) indicates a drop in Japanese tobacco consumption. A 20 percent increase in cigarette prices last April is the major reason for the decline in tobacco consumption.

Burley Sale Date Sticks At Nov. 23

Opening of the 1981-82 burley tobacco sales season will not be earlier than Monday, Nov. 23, according to James A. Finch, Maysville, president of the Burley Auction Warehouse Association in Mt. Sterling.

The Burley Sales Committee voted not to change resolutions it adopted on Oct. 15.

Finch, who is committee chairman, said the decision was made after considering information from growers, buying companies and the two price support organizations. Other members of the Burley Sales Committee are William N. Hendricks, Abingdon, Va.; Gene Rose, Lexington; Lawrence Russell, New Tazewell, Tenn.; Gene Pittenger, Maysville; Ansel Herndon, Danville; Tom Dowler, Kentucky Department of Agriculture; Larry Maggard, Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation; Milton Shuffett, College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky; Alvin Beckley, Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association; and Dale Wilkinson, Tennessee Department of Agriculture.

Mining Firm Fined $10,000

Daugherty Surface Mining, Inc., Oneida, Tenn. has been fined $10,000 by U.S. District Judge Eugene E. Siler Jr. for removing coal illegally from National Forest lands. The incident involved the removal of an estimated 11,000 tons of coal from lands on the Daniel Boone National Forest on Anderson Mountain in McCreary County between the period of Jan. 1, 1975, to Dec. 31, 1977. Three men were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in London on Aug. 19, after an investigation by the U.S. Forest Service. A guilty plea was entered by the corporation on behalf of the three men — Tom Daugherty and Dale Daugherty of Oneida, Tenn., and Walter Crabtree of Pine Knot, Ky.

Widespread rains and high humidity during the early part of last week made conditions favorable for tobacco bulking and stripping. The latter part of the week was unseasonably mild and ideal for harvesting corn and soybeans. Statewide nearly four days were favorable for field work. Other activities included sowing winter wheat and sterilizing tobacco beds. Soil moisture was reported at 19 percent short. 75 percent adequate and six percent surplus.

Tobacco: Burley tobacco stripping made good progress the early part of the week and is currently estimated at 25 percent complete, ahead of last year's 19 percent and the average of 21 percent. As stripping progresses, the options on burley yield continues to be highly variable. Generally growers feel their crop is on the light side but quality is good. Many growers are indicating they are finding a little more houseburn than expected, but it is not severe. Some late cut tobacco is showing the undesirable "pie-bald" character.

Corn: Harvest of corn has progressed to 82 percent complete, behind last year's 89 percent complete but ahead of the five-year average of 78 percent. Reporters indicate that about 60 percent of the corn harvested is going into on-farm storage for later sale or use. Another 12 percent is being placed in off-farm storage. The remaining corn is being sold at harvest time. The current market and future market are both weak at this time.

Soybeans: With corn harvest nearing completion in Western counties, full attention has been turned to soybeans. In most areas the killing frost helped the soybean harvest; however, some late planted beans were damaged. Harvest has advanced to 45 percent complete, 18 points above last week, but still behind last year's 80 percent, and the five-year average of 68 percent. Most reporters indicate that yields have been fair to good.

Other Crops: Rains improved conditions for wheat seeding, which is estimated at 65 percent complete, about average, but behind last year's 78 percent. Condition of early seeded wheat is generally good. Rains were beneficial for germination and growth. Fall pastures are in mostly good condition, but could use additional moisture. Moisture is also needed to fill ponds and improve stream flow in most areas. Some sorghum was damaged by the freeze, but overall sorghum yields are reported to be good.

Weather Week Ending Sunday, Nov. 1: Unseasonably mild weather summed up Kentucky's weather pattern last week. Widespread rain fell across the state early in the week while the latter part was dry. Mean temperatures averaged four to six degrees above normal, with readings mostly in the upper 50's. Precipitation totaled more than an inch at most locations with amounts around 1.5 to 2 inches above normal.

Rainfall at the Grayson reporting station was .56 inch last week, bringing the total since April 1 to 31.23, a deviation of 4.16 inches more than normal. Last week's high air temperature was 76 degrees, compared to a low of 34 degrees and a mean average temperature of 57.

Annual FFA Steer Show Today In Fleming County

FLEMINGSBURG — The 40th Annual Fleming County 4-H and FFA Steer Show and Sale will be Friday, Nov. 6, (today) at the Fleming County High School FFA Barn.

The activities will begin with the steer weigh-in at 9 a.m. The show starts at 1:30. A banquet will begin at 5 p.m. and the sale will follow immediately. Those 4-H and FFA members eligible to exhibit this year are: Randy Bailey, Steve Hinton, Terry Vise, Beth Cooper, Kay McCormack, Mary Lou McCormack, Ray Conley, Keith Lytle, Nathaniel Perkins, Polly Perkins, Matt Perkins, Jeff Perkins, Jimmy Perkins, Angie Stamm, Chris Gehring, Jamie Jolley, Randy Jolley and Chris Cannon.

The 4-H and FFA members must nominate their steers in early May for the show. Each steer was weighed in during the second week of May. The members were required to exhibit their steer at the Ewing-Fleming County Fair in July.

Each 4-H and FFA member spends many hours and months preparing for this show and sale. Feeding and caring for the steer, breaking the animal to lead, and teaching the steer to show require many hours of hard work for each member.

Fleming County is known for having one of the best 4-H and FFA Steer Show and Sales across the state.

Since its inception in 1942, over 850 boys and girls have raised and fitted animals. Also, numerous businesses, organizations, and individuals have supported this event by contributing prize money, awards and buying steers.

Donnie Hinton is serving as chairman for this year's show and sale. Other members of the committee are: Dye Spencer, John Masters, Clyde Cannon, L.C. Skaggs, Charles Berry, Rick Hord, Gerald Atkinson, and David Miles.

The public is invited to attend the show Friday afternoon.

For more information concerning the 4-H and FFA Steer Show and Sale, please contact the Fleming County Extension office or the Vocational Agriculture Department.

No Opposition For City Seats

In the races for seats on the governing boards of the county's two cities, there was no opposition. John Will Holbrook Jr., currently serving as a member of Morehead City Council, will become mayor in January, succeeding Crayton Jackson who did not seek re-election. Holbrook received 1,281 votes.

Seats on Morehead City Council were also decided during the May primary. The new council members and the number of votes they received in the general election are: Herman Brown, 1,281; Jack Fraley, 1,245; Jack Roe, 1,196; Don Greenhill, 1,219; H.G. Pratt, 1,203; and Mary Reynolds Levee, 1,124. Fraley and Roe are both incumbents.

There were no challenges for any seats on the commission of Rowan County's newest city, Lakeview Heights. Woodrow Barber will become the new mayor of the sixth class city. He got 64 votes in the election.

Members of the commission and the votes they received are: Earl Bentley, 63; Troy L. Burchett, 55; R. Thomas Fossett, 65 and Barbara Finch Tucker, 52.

Spring Fires Among Worst
The spring of 1981 was one of the worst periods of wildfire on record in Kentucky. The number of fires has been exceeded only four times since 1941.

With the fall fires yet to be added, 1981 may easily set a new record.

Governor's Comments Please KEA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Kentucky Education Association (KEA) president Joyce Dotson says her organization is pleased by recent statements of Governor John Y. Brown, Jr., and Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber that education is their top priority.

"We expect to see that the governor's priority is upheld when the executive budget is introduced," she said. "And we look forward to seeing Superintendent Barber fulfill his pledge to restore some of the funds that have been cut from the education budget."

Both the governor and the state superintendent made their comments in talks Monday at an informational meeting in Frankfort for local school superintendents and board chairmen.

KEA has criticized the funding cuts, contending they are causing the quality of education to suffer.

"We are glad that Governor Brown and Superintendent Barber have gone on record about education as their number one priority," said the KEA president. "We are glad they are going to join us in demonstrating their commitment."

At the same meeting Governor Brown said he continues to support legislation requiring public school teachers and school boards to discuss their differences, as he did in the 1980 General Assembly.

Dotson said the KEA board of directors and the KEA Committee on Professional Negotiation will meet in December to determine the type of negotiations legislation that KEA will seek.

Handicaps May Be Corrected

Parents — did you know that many children who are born with or acquire a physical and/or mental condition which handicaps their normal growth and development, may be helped or completely corrected if their parents recognize the problem early and seek help?

That's what officials at the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children (BEEC) in Frankfort say, as they begin November and the annual child-find month.

According to Harry P. Brown, Director of the educational consortium known as the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC) of Ashland, who coordinates four programs involving 21 school districts for handicapped educational services, October was to have been the month for emphasis on child-find; however, a busy fall schedule has pushed this activity into November.

"Actually, we have found with our handicapped projects that child-find is really a continuous process," Brown said. "From the time a parent or teacher suspects a handicapping problem, through the time when a child is referred for and receives the entire testing, evaluation and placement process."

Additionally, Brown said that his organization has data supporting the figure of 10 percent of the child population having some kind of handicap and therefore in need of some type of specialized service.

"That's one reason why the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children has designated November as child-find month, with the theme of 'What Is The Worst Thing That Can Happen To A Handicapped Child?' Nothing," Brown said.

"Additionally, we are assisting the distribution of a brochure that should help parents in better and earlier identification and possible treatment of those early warning problems."

Under Brown's direction, EKEDC coordinates two Diagnostic Service Centers in the Big Sandy area which involve the following 10 school districts: Pike, Morgan, Magoffin and Floyd counties; Pikeville Independent, Johnson, Elliott, Lawrence and Martin counties and Paintsville Independent. Particular emphasis in these centers given to diagnostics, with the inclusion of testing and evaluation, plus inservice training, child-find, dissemination and inter-agency coordination.

More Funds Sought For School Districts

FRANKFORT — Local school superintendents and board chairmen got some encouraging news recently from Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber who said he will ask for increased funds to local districts in his 1982-84 budget request.
 Barber's remarks came during a meeting in Frankfort to brief local school officials on significant educational issues.
 Barber said he will request a zero-based budget for the Department of Education during the first year of the next biennium. Mandatory 5 percent salary increases will be financed through staff reductions, he added.
 This would put the department in a better position to ask for expansion of funds that flow through to local districts, Barber said.
 "However, we are going to need your help," he explained. "All who are interested in the future financial state of education in Kentucky need your help."
 He asked the group to join in lobbying in local legislators.
 Barber went on to say some "old-fashioned horse trading" and revision of priorities might have to be done to keep money in critical areas.
 Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. also addressed the group praising the school officials for their professional handling of budget cuts.

 "I think we're in better shape than any state across the U.S. at this point," he said, "but we've got to continue to be good managers."

Brown reassured the superintendents and chairmen that no segment of the budget would get a higher priority than education.

Alice McDonald, head of the office of federal programs in the Department of Education, told those attending that Kentucky can expect further reductions in federal funds for 1982-83 and ensuing years.

"It is difficult to give you an estimated figure at this point for 1982-83 but I estimate the dollar figure could be as low as $150 million for Kentucky or as high as $170 million," she said.
 McDonald went on to say the block grant which has been given so much attention has been somewhat "over introduced."
 "Only $7 million of approximately $177 million that will come to Kentucky next year will be in the form of a block grant," she said.
 McDonald did emphasize, however, the trend is toward block grants; and more consolidation of federal school programs into block grant form will be seen in the future.

Kentucky Publishing Company, Inc. vs. Levee's Thom McAn Shoe Store, claim in the sum of $430.60, continued.

Morehead Man Wins $1,000

Finding the word "real" under a pop bottle cap may not seem like such a big deal, unless one is playing the Coca-Cola game.

Steve Pelfrey of Rt. 5, Morehead, won $1,000 by finding the words to "Coke the real thing." Pelfrey said he at first didn't believe his luck. He is especially happy with his winnings as recently he was married and he "has a lot of bills."

Ron Craycraft, plant manager at Bluegrass Coca-Cola, presented the check to the Spring Grove Dairy employee six months to the day after his marriage to Connie Call of Fleming County.

According to Craycraft, the plant distributed only 31 caps with the word "real." Pelfrey is the first winner in Craycraft's eight county division.

Fouch Seeks Vote Recount

As of yesterday morning, one no candidate had asked for a canvass of votes in the general election.

Gary Fouch, who lost his race for magistrate in District 3 by 24 votes, filed for the recount Thursday morning.

Fouch, the Republican, won three out of four precincts but lost the Hogtown precinct to Herman Mabry by a margin that was sufficient to give the victory to the Democrat.

Mabry got 500 votes, compared to 476 for Fouch.

Candidates have until 72 hours after the election to ask for a recount.

Meanwhile, County Clerk Jean Bailey says that as of Thursday morning, the election results had not been certified to her.

She said it would be "a while" before the number of voters at each precinct is available.

Herman Mabry, left, had more to worry about than any Democratic candidate Tuesday night. He had to wait until absentee ballots were tabulated before knowing for certain whether or not he won.

With all the alternatives available to nurses, why do top notch professionals turn to geriatric nursing? Perhaps they discovered a way to recapture the spirit of nursing. Not the tense, high pressure of acute care, but rather a casual stroll with an elderly woman. Sharing a letter with someone's grandfather. Reading a story to banish loneliness. Having the time to listen, to love, to care... to nurse. Life Care Center of Morehead is looking for qualified RN's & LPN's for its 111-bed nursing care facility. New positions are being created in the interest of upgrading professional services. Find out more. # 96 Years Slow Rhythm Of Francis Gillum's Music

By DANNY R. WRIGHT
Staff Writer

ISONVILLE — Francis Gillum has played music for 84 years, but he doesn't play much anymore. The 96-year-old Francis, living with his daughter Sophia at Isonville, has played all over Elliott County, he said. Now, Alvie Green, the musician he used to play with the most, is gone.

"Alvie kicked out on me," Francis said. "Yeh, he died a while back." Francis' long life has taken some of the rhythm from his music-playing, and it came less and less often 'til now he almost never plays. His banjo, fiddle, and mouth organ are seldom used. He will blow a little mouth organ for a visitor, though, and when he's finished blowing, he'll try to sell the visitor something.

"What'll you give me for that?" he asks as he holds up a miniature pistol keychain. He holds up a miniature rifle keychain and asks the same question. Then, holding up the two keychains, and adding still another, he makes another offer.

"Will you give me $5 for the whole bunch?" he said. Francis trades for the items at a weekly swap meet at the Paintsville stockyards. Sophia explains: She takes him up there every week.

"They got a big restaurant up there, they wanted me to play music, but I never did," Francis said.

Francis was born and raised at Isonville. Though he never stopped playing music, he always held some sort of job.

"I was sheriff once for nine months," he said.

He also spent many years running general stores, the first one beginning when he was 23. That was for someone else in Isonville, but he left with his wife and bought a store in Portsmouth, Ohio. After a few years there, they returned to Isonville and bought a farm.

"I had 35- or 40 head of cattle, pigs, and clear fields," Francis said. "But she died about 15 years ago, and if I cut a limb now, it'll be accidental."

Sophia said she had Francis move into her family's home since he became sick last spring. Now, she spends four days a week taking Francis to the Senior Citizens' dinners in Sandy Hook. Francis used to be president of the group.

"I gave that up, though," Francis said. "I wanted the younger people to have it."

Sophia used to be part of Francis' music, she said. Every time the Isonville school held a fund-raising drive, Francis would go play music and Sophia would dress like Minnie Pearl and dance.

"Monee, I've been playing Minnie Pearl for 20 years now," she said. "In the Tobacco Festival Parade, I was Minnie Pearl on the float just behind the buggy Francis was in."

She pulled out some photo albums and showed pictures of Francis blowing mouth organ while she danced. In the pictures she was wearing a flat, straw hat with the price tag still hanging on it, just the way the real Minnie does.

"At least once every year, every time I wanted to make money, I'd play Minnie Pearl," Sophia said. "I'd beat it while he played it."

Building the fiddle, Sophia explained, meant using knitting needles, or pencils, or something shaped like them, to keep a rhythm on the strings while Francis played a melody.

"If you do it right, it sounds just like a banjo keeping rhythm," she said. "But, I'd rather dance."

Sophia said it had been a few years since she and Francis had played music and danced. Now, she spends a lot of time taking Francis to the Senior Citizens, and to Paintsville every Saturday. Francis just doesn't play anymore, and Sophia doesn't dress like Minnie Pearl.

Francis, who used to trade horses and mules, now trades trinkets, watches, and jewelry at the stockyard.

"No, I don't trade knives," Francis said with a smile. His pale blue eyes glinted behind wire-framed glasses, and his white hair stuck out in unruly tufts. "I'm too lazy to whittle."

Education Week Is Nov. 15-21

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — "American Education and You: Partners in Our Children's Future" is this year's theme for American Education Week, which takes place November 15-21.

Local education associations affiliated with the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) are planning observations in many communities.

KEA president Joyce Dotson said American Education Week seeks to encourage local citizen support and active participation in the improvement of education. This year the effort focuses on the need for bringing parents, teachers, students, and local communities together as partners in shaping the future of children through education.

American Education Week, observed since 1921, is sponsored by the National Education Association, the National School Boards Association, The American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Department of Education.

Governor John Y. Brown, Jr., proclaiming American Education Week in Kentucky, said the observance encourages all citizens to reaffirm their commitment to improving education on all levels.
