Board Of Education Names Cassidy As New Superintendent

Members Say Man Best Fitted For Position

In a surprising move Monday the Board of Education of Morehead elected Clifford Cassidy, Superintendent of Schools, Education Director, to succeed Mr. Elmore Clegg who has held the post for the past two years.

A Board member told this newspaper that the man who was to succeed Clegg had been selected by a vote of 10-0. Cassidy, 42, was born in Morehead and has been in the school system since 1910.

Cassidy was elected unanimously at an annual meeting of the board which was held in the school building on Monday.

It is noted that the Superintendent will be elected after the first of January and the Board meeting will be held on the 24th day of the year so that Mr. Cassidy would have no more than a year to serve.

The Board said they felt Mr. Cassidy was the best man for the job. Cassidy has been in the school system since 1910 and has held the position of Superintendent since 1938.

Members of the Board of Education who voted for Cassidy are: Fred Calvert, chairman, Carl Lewis, vice-chairman, Ivan Brooks, Clyde White and Sam Linton.

In another move the Board transferred Cassidy from his job as Education Director to the position of Superintendent of Schools starting Jan. 15.

The present Morehead Graded Principal, Mrs. Thelma Caudill, has a year's sick leave. This means the Board will have to fill the Graded School vacancy before the fall term starts unless Mrs. Caudill returns to the position.

James Botts, teacher at Elliottville, was named as the new principal starting Jan. 15.

Mr. Cassidy, native of Martin County, graduated from the High School and received his A. B. degree at Morehead State College in 1910. He was awarded his Masters from the same institution in 1933.

He has taught or been principal at Walden for 63 years.

Mr. Cassidy married Miss Margaret Miles of Morehead in 1940 and they reside at 324 West Sun Street along with their 8 1/2 month old daughter, Katherine Ann.

Referendum Approved By Large Vote

Farmers Decision Insures Burley Controls For Three Years

Tobacco farmers voted overwhelmingly last week to accept street government marketing quotas during the next three years.

The referendum returns to the Agriculture Department showed 260,222 out of 352,203 growers of burley tobacco in eight states voted to accept the strict crop control measure for 1946 through 1948.

The referendum was held at the high level of 90 per cent participation.

The "yes" vote for quotas was 812 per cent. A total of 9,071 "no" votes were cast. Approval by a two-thirds vote was needed to put the quotas into effect.

Tobacco growers in Maryland also voted to accept marketing quotas on Maryland-type tobacco. The preliminary vote at a referendum was 5,634 for quotas and 857 per cent against.

Virginia growers of Maryland-type tobacco voted 4,019 for and 81 per cent against.

Quotas on Virginia sun-cured tobacco are more modest - 1,370 to 2,870, or 88.3 per cent.

Burley and Virginia sun-cured tobacco both have been under quota for several years.

Growers have turned from cotton on Maryland tobacco in the last two referenda.

Growers of Pennsylvania cigar filler tobacco followed their usual course by overwhelming approval of the marketing quotas. The vote was 1,670 to 88.3 per cent opposed.

Rejection of quotas bars tobacco growers from effective government price plans and still subjects them to acreage restrictions on their 1950 crop.

Growers of five-cured tobacco were not asked to vote in a referendum last July.

New Gadgets Make Way To Beauty Easy

Cosmetic firms are always creating new gadgets, or greatly improving the old ones, to simplify the way to beauty.

Take hair curlers. The latest have perforations to increase the air ventilation and speed up the hair drying. And the curler clamp remains in one place as the winding rod spins to roll up the hair swiftly and smoothly.

These curlers are available in a variety of sizes to suit curl pattern. The tiniest are for the neckline to catch all those short hair wisps and bring them to curl.

The old-faithful magnifying mirror gets a curved band extending from it. This fastens the mirror around the neck at just the right view angle and leaves both hands free for beauty work.

Exfoliate tweezers can be had that are fashioned like scissors with a finger loop at end of each handle for easy gripping and manipulation. These same tweezers are also angled so you can see exactly where you're picking.

Foreboredened nails, or ones that break unexpectedly, and mar a nicely manicure, can be made long and tapering within minutes. A special kit with plastic preparation lets you actually build onto your own nail, hardening there, with standing film.

Brucellosis Program In State Changed

Two significant changes in the Brucellosis Control Program in Kentucky were announced today by Ben J. Butler, the State's new Commissioner of Agriculture.

The first of these changes is the removal of indemnity payments for cattle infected with the disease and sent to slaughter. Under the former procedure, such cattle were appraised and then sold for slaughter.

Farmers were eligible to receive a federal payment equal to one-third the difference between the appraised and the appraised value. Such payment could not exceed twenty-five dollars per head for grade cattle or fifty dollars for purebred cattle.

The average indemnity payment in Kentucky has been about $28.00. In explaining this action by the Kentucky Board of Agriculture, Butler stated:

"We have only about 30 per cent of our Federal money to last us for 50 per cent of the fiscal year. So these indemnities contribute about 20 per cent of our costs in the program, this appeared to be our only feasible solution to the pressing money problem."

Teachers Can Also Be Bus Drivers

Kentucky school teachers also may serve as school bus drivers—provided the duties of one do not interfere with those of the other—it was ruled by Assistant Attorney General W. Owen Keller in an opinion to L. D. Eate, Danbury.

Only qualification drawn by Keller was that the combined salaries of the two positions not exceed $7,200 a year—the constitutional limit.

AUTOS

Business leaders are closely watching the automobile market at this time. In the months of October and November a total of 1,215,000 new cars were made. During these two months, dealers sold 1,064,000 new cars, leaving a total of 150,000 to be added to inventories.

The question is: Will the sale of new cars keep pace with the manufacturers? Business is waiting to find this out.

Carter County Coroner Accuses His Brother

Carter County Coroner C. W. Henderson, Jr. has charged his brother with removing the body of an accident victim without permission.

The brothers' rival Olive Hill's two funeral homes, Leslie A. Henderson Funeral Home and the C. W. Henderson Funeral Home, Inc.

Justice of the Peace Henry Cunningham issued a warrant at the coroner's request, charging Leslie with removing the body of Millard Barkley, 50, of Olive Hill after an auto accident Friday.

The coroner said the move was without his permission and without an inquest. Cunningham said the case will be taken before the Carter County Grand Jury in March. Leslie Henderson is under $500 bond.

Barkley, an Olive Hill restaurateur and businessman, was struck by a car while he was walking on U. S. 60 near the city limits.

Temperance League Favors Liquor Stamps

The order of the State Department of Revenue restoring the stamp tax method—rather than the "reporting" method—of collecting taxes on distilled spirits and wine drew a kind word from the official spokesman for the Temperance League of Kentucky.

The change was ordered after requests under the "reporting" system fell some $600,000 under the previous stamp method of effecting collections. Commissioner of Revenue James E. Luckett ordered the change as an aid to protecting the revenues due to the state.

The Rev. Walter C. House, Executive Director of the Temperance League, wired Governor Chandler. The directive would aid law enforcement. He wired the Governor:

"You are to be commended for re-establishing the liquor tax system. We believe your directive will help prevent bootlegging in dry territory. It will also aid law enforcement officers in tracing illegal sales and illegal suppliers. Congratulations and Best wishes."

New, Robert H. Harper
Vain Teacher Considered in God.
Lesson for January 8: Luke 12: 22-34.
Golden Text: Luke 12: 29-31.

The lesson for today is enough to do away with all doubts of men and lead them out of all discouragement and gloom. There is perhaps no passage of Scripture more familiar to readers of the Bible. All doubts should be banished from the mind as we read that the heavenly Father, who feeds the ravens, that neither sow nor spin, that neither till nor spin, more richly than Solomon in all his purple-and-golden splendor, will love and care for the men who trust in him.

And Jesus teaches us to have the right sense of proportion and perspective in regard to the things of life. He does not say that money is the root of all evil, but he does bid us to seek first the things of God, trusting that then all these things of earth will be added unto us.

And men are urged to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousnesses that they may gain first the treasures of heaven that are beyond the reach of rust and fame and spoil. Worse than a moth-eaten garment is a moth-eaten heart, a heart ruined by selfishness and greed.

Farm Facts For Kentucky Folks

Use Of Machinery, Other Farm Improvements Make Credit Important Factor

"How's your credit this year?" This seems an appropriate question to start the new year. Farm Facts because as we enter 1935 we find credit of ever increasing importance. The need for credit has increased greatly during recent years because farmers have substituted self-sought tractors, fuel and living essentials for farm-raised horse power, feed and food. And farmers are just naturally trying to enjoy a little living as their city cousins have, and such things as electricity, water, auto and modern homes with radios and televisions have added much to the cost of farm living.

Credit is simply the ability to borrow money. It is one of man's most valuable assets. It is based not only upon his worldly possessions but also upon his character and his ability to produce. A person should do everything in his power to develop a good credit rating. He should know when he must need a loan. Each year, at this season, every farmer should examine his credit status and, where making New Year's Resolutions, resolve to maintain and improve his credit rating. There are some definite things that he can do to improve it. One is to make at least once a year, a financial statement which will help him analyze his spending and determine whether he is going beyond his slipping budget. Another is to try to get all his production and production costs at the price. It hurts one's credit standing to have debts scattered around. One of the first principles of maintaining good credit is to meet obligations promptly, or if impossible to do so, to arrange the situation with the creditor. When borrowing, one should have a definite plan for repayment and the loan should be for a necessity or a need rather than just something to fill a desire. A farm record-book showing all income and expenditures, is not only a good book for farm management but is also a prop to a better credit rating.

Farm Income Lower—Farm income is expected to be lower this year than last while city income is predicted to compare its previous record. Thus, if a farmer upon examining his financial statement finds that he just cannot make ends meet he may find the time now to get his act with the bank for additional loans. Foreign Seed Stock Good—Reports from Washington indicate that some version of the Soil Bank plan is almost certain to be enacted this year. If it is, there will be a great demand for grain, and genuine seed because of the fact that the seed of the past year is almost gone, and the fact that farmers who have to buy seed should do so early.

EXPORTS SURPLUS... Agriculture secretary Ezra Taft Benson (center) announced plan to distribute $7,700,000 food and grain surplus to hungry people overseas, as E. Norris Wilson (left) of Church World Service, and Mrs. Edw. Swanson of Catholic Relief Service examine grain from model theater.

Senators Urge High Livestock Prices

These Democratic senators have demanded that the secretary of Agriculture should take immediate action to better livestock prices. They urge that the secretary should take immediate action to better livestock prices. They urge that the secretary should take immediate action to better livestock prices.

Bratton Branch Has Community Tree

The Bratton Branch community tree and program, sponsored by the school and the teacher, Elva Mink, was a success. A large crowd enjoyed the 1 1/2 hour program which highlighted "The Lord's Prayer" rendered by the 12 girls of the school chorus. A Christmas carol was sung by the church. C. O. Leach gave a reading of the Christmas Story from St. Luke. The program was concluded by distribution of gifts.

Butler Charges That Martin Reneged On Promise To Give Him Job In State Government

The Kentucky Department of Education, which directs the state's public school system, was reorganized Monday.

It is set up four bureaus, including a new one.

Butler, from Metcalfe County, claimed he and Martin had an agreement based on the conviction that his experience and leadership would be an asset to the administration.

"This understanding was not secret and it was generally understood throughout Kentucky by school people and laymen alike," Butler said.

He added that he regretted to see Martin had informed him his services would no longer be needed. The former superintendent said he had endured Martin, then finance director of the department, and supported his candidacy both as Democrats.

Butler's statements were in the draft of a letter he said he would mail to local superintendents and principals.

Martin said he had just read "the purported letter," which Butler released to the press, adding: "Naturally, I am disappointed that Mr. Butler has come to the end of the term for which he was elected by the people with a feeling of frustration and bitterness. It is difficult for me to reconcile his expressed concern for the foundation program and the future of education with this statement which is wholly calculated to hurt the advance of education. The foundation program for education is more important than the personal wishes of any individual or group of individuals."

"I suppose the last 12 months in which I have campaigned for office, I have used every means possible to assure the citizen that I was not and would not be the candidate of the Department of Education," Mr. Butler, on any other individual or group of individuals. I have determined that if at all it would be the unlettered candidate of all professional and other people who are interested in the improvement of education and the development of a professional department of education. That is my sole purpose and my sole aim."

"New personnel for the Department of Education, have been chosen on the basis of their professional and professional competence without regard to political considerations. Present personnel will be continued in their positions only on the same basis. Involvement in partisan and professional activities will not be tolerated. After the reorganization and the necessary preliminary period have been completed, I shall request the government to place the Department of Education under the merit system. This will be a great step forward in developing a professional department of education to serve the schools of Kentucky."

Martin named James L. Sublett, 37, assistant superintendent of Jefferson County school, assistant state superintendent.

Gordie Young, 70, Frankfort, retired from that post last year after 28 years' service in the department but continued on there. He was named an administrative assistant for a year by Martin.

Conservation Programs Are On Increase

Kentucky Farmers Are Receiving Federal Aid On Projects

By John D. Alexander

Kentucky farmers in greater numbers than ever are working with their local Soil Conservation Districts and the Soil Conservation Service in planning and applying soil and water programs on their farm lands.

On June 30, 1955, a total of 80,600 farmers, about 40 per cent of all Kentucky farmers—were district cooperators. During the 1955 fiscal year 3,271 farmers enrolled in the district program. District co-operators own and operate 9,279,255 acres of the 20,500,000 acres in Kentucky farms.

Complete soil and water conservation programs have been developed by 37,109 of these farmers; the remaining 43,500 co-operators have plans in progress which they expect to complete within the next few years.

Districts reported that complete soil and water conservation plans have been completed on 3,569 farms.

During fiscal year 1955 the Soil Conservation Service gave technical on-the-farm assistance to 24,800 farmer-district co-operators in planning and applying their conservation programs.

The Soil Conservation Service completed 1,176 community watershed work plans covering 23,940 acres.

The Soil Conservation Service, in carrying out its responsibility for technical assistance on certain practices in the Agricultural Conservation Program, has assisted 31,200 ACP co-operators during the 1955 calendar year.

Soil Scientists of the S.C.S. have made soil maps on 11,744,334 acres of Kentucky's farm land; 1,008,228 acres were mapped during fiscal year 1955.

The Rowan County Soil Conservation District gained 50 new co-operators during the 1955 calendar year. This makes a total of 582 farmers cooperating with the local soil conservation district. This is 32 per cent of all farms in Rowan County. Some of the accomplishments of the Rowan County Soil Conservation District during 1955 were: 50 farm roads constructed; 25 acres of sod waterway established; 50 ponds stocked with fish; 7700 mile drainage ditch constructed; and 3.2 miles of terraces installed.

Joe Louis Has Tax Debt Of Million

Joe Louis owes the government "well over $1,000,000 in back taxes" according to an article in Jan. 7 issue of the Saturday Evening Post under the byline "By Joe Louis. As told to Edward Linn." He said his gross purses during his ring career totaled $4,065,721.69.

The article said Louis doesn't actually know how much the tax took and figures he never can get even because "he's like a young roadblock on a treadmill." Louis wrote he owed some thing like $700,000 a year ago of which $344,375 was the original assessment and the remainder interest at six per cent. He said a new claim was filed against

State Salary Situation Is Under Study

Salary payments for 1956 to employees of the state government are being studied by the Governor's Cabinet, pending a thorough study of the entire state situation.

Each individual case is to stand on its own merits, rather than being undertaken by a Commission following a stated length of service. The "flexible" order is mainly applicable in the Executive Branch of government, and is not applicable in schools or the State Police Department.

The study of salary question is being undertaken by a Commission which includes Dr. James W. Rowe, Entertainer, a public relations firm and two from refereeing wrestling matches. Louis said there were no dividends from his 20 per cent share of JBC stock "because believe me, the JBC does not make money."
