Molly Large, a junior from Irionton, Ohio, seeks cover from the rain at Saturday's Homecoming game against Tennessee Tech. The rain sprinkled in Morehead during most of last week's Homecoming activities and throughout the entire game Saturday. However, the rain did not dampen the Eagles' spirits as they went on to defeat Tennessee Tech by a score of 43-14.

Room Inspection No Longer Held 'Negative Reaction' One Reason

By JANIE BOWLING
Staff Writer

Scheduled room inspections will no longer be held in Morehead State University's residence halls as of Oct. 21.

James Morton, director of the Office of Student Housing, said, "We have every legal right to hold room inspections," but explained the inspections will be being stopped for two reasons.

The first reason, Morton said, is the "negative reactions we have received from students where they feel their privacy is being compromised," and the second is personal questionnaires completed by hall directors "revealed they spent a rather large percentage of their time holding room inspections."

The main purpose of room inspection was to identify and report needed repairs, but Morton said he thinks the inspections "are not that necessary in reporting repairs," and "one benefit may be that repairs may be done more quickly."

Broken lights, damaged towel bars, broken closet doors, and refrigerator failures were some of the problems located for during room inspection.

Morton wanted to point out to students that "along with what they may consider an increased freedom goes an increase in their own responsibility," as students must now report needed repairs either to their resident room advisors or to their own room. Room inspections may still be held for inventory purposes. These inspections will be posted and announced at least 24 hours in advance.

Faculty Elects Senate Members, Replaces Concerns Committee

By JEFF SPRAWLING
Staff Writer

Members of the new Faculty Senate have been elected and will replace the Faculty Concerns Committee.

The Faculty Senate was formed to generate more activity from the University Senate which has been relatively inactive on campus.

The election results were released Thursday, Oct. 18 at the last formal meeting of the Faculty Concerns Committee.

Officials of the Concerns Committee said there was a good turnout of faculty voters with nearly two-thirds of those eligible voting.

The new faculty senators will serve either a one, two or three year term. The length of terms for the senators was determined by a random draw, with the term groups being divided into thirds.

The varying term-length is being used to allow for rotation of senators as the newly formed committee.

The Faculty Concerns Committee was responsible for the proposal and the election of the Faculty Senate. The committee hopes the new Faculty Senate will be more effective in addressing topics of concern on campus.

To provide a smooth transition from the Faculty Concerns Committee to the new Faculty Senate, the Concerns Committee voted to hold an informal information meeting with the newly elected senators on Nov. 1. Eleven of the new Faculty Senate members were also members of the Faculty Concerns Committee.

The newly elected senators by department and term length include:

College of Arts and Sciences: Art, Ryan Howard, one year; Biological and Environmental Sciences, David McNeely, three years; Communications, Robert Paige, three years; Mathematics, Charlie Jones, one year; Music, Larry Kernan, three years; English, Foreign Languages, and Philosophy, Judy Rogers, two years; Geography, Government, and History, John Kleber, one year; Physical Sciences, Herb Hodgcock, three years. Other senators, were David Brumagen, one year; Ron Fiel, two years; Betty Gurley, two years; James Quisenberry, one year.

From the College of Applied Sciences and Technology: Home Economics, Betty Woodard, two years; Nursing and Allied Health, Rae Smith, one year; Industrial Education and Technology, Wayne Morrell, one year; Agriculture and Natural Resources, Bob Wolfe, two years; Military Science, Roger Cline, two years; and Dennis Karawaka, three years.

College of Professional Studies: Business and Economics, Alex Meyers, three years; Education, Bob Needham, three years; Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, Mike Brown, two years; Psychology and Sociology, Patsy Whitson, one year.

Senators at large are Dan Thomas, one year; Frank Osborne, one year; Jerry Franklin, one year; Randy Wells, two years; Brad Cough, two years; Steve Young, three years; and Diane Cox, three years.

Residence Hall Night Clerks Facing Possible Cutbacks

By ROBIN ANN COX
Staff Writer

Cutback in the full-staff night clerks for the residence halls is one option being discussed by members of the President's Cabinet at Morehead State University to decrease costs in housing funding.

This option has been discussed for some time, however the plan will be finalized before early next semester and probably will not be in effect until next fall, according to Dr. Steve Taylor, director of Counseling, Testing and Evaluation Services.

Taylor said that there is a possibility that this change will not be made.

Another alternative may be to have one night clerk for every two residence halls.

There has been discussion made over the possibility of totally disbanding the night clerk staff. Taylor said that three to seven of them will leave by choice sometime in the next year.

According to Taylor, Morehead State is currently the only state university which has a full-time night clerk staff. If disbandment is agreed upon, the finances saved will be used for funding student activities.

President Herb F. Reinhard is concerned with protecting the employment of the night clerk staff if disbandment occurs and may offer jobs in other areas at MSU where employment is needed, according to Taylor.

A possibility which has been discussed in the proposal of disbandment of the staff is to increase protection from the Office of Safety and Security.

In conjunction with increased protection, suggestions have been made to issue "security cards" to students.

These cards would be inserted into a slot which would open the front door of the residence hall if the correct card was entered.

The 'Raconteur' Available

Distribution of Morehead State University's 1984 yearbook The Raconteur began Monday, Oct. 22 in the Brockbridge cafeteria.

Books will be distributed Monday-Thursday from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Students may pick up their books by presenting their student identification card. Students who graduated last year will be mailed their yearbooks.

Mona Sabie Receives Title Of 1984 Homecoming Queen

By DALE CONYERS

"I was shocked. I had someone else picked out to win. I'm sure this was evident when they called my name," said Mona Sabie.

Sabie was crowned by President and Mrs. Herb F. Reinhard at the 1984 Morehead State University Homecoming Queen Friday night during the Homecoming Dance.

Sabie, a junior from Morehead, is the daughter of Dr. Mohammed and Layla Sabie. Dr. Mohammed Sabie is a professor of health, physical education and recreation, and Dr. Layla Sabie is an assistant professor of education at MSU.

"I was shocked. I had someone else picked out to win. I'm sure that it was evident when they called my name."

good," she said.

Mona was chosen over 10 other finalists and was sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. She said she was overjoyed when they chose her to represent the university.

Members of the Queen's Court are: Lisa Adkins, sponsored by Sigma Sigma Sigma; Jackie Brookhanks, sponsored by Delta Gamma sorority; Helen Curtis, sponsored by Alpha Tau; Teresa Gaj, sponsored by Migma Tower; Roberta Glikson, sponsored by Theta Chi; Dana Graham, sponsored by Cardinal Key honor society; Tom Hart, sponsored by Chi Omega sorority; Sandy Hughes, sponsored by Sigma Nu Fraternity; Debra Stone, sponsored by Carthage Hall; and Vicki Taylor, sponsored by Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

Mona now goes to the Mt. Laurel Festival as a representative of MSU.

Mona is a member of the Lady Eagles tennis team and a sister of the Delta Gamma sorority. She was escorted to the dance by Troy Putnam, a Franklin, Ohio native.

Clinic Continues Birth Control Services, Plans To Stop Selling Contraceptives

By DEBBIE POWELL
Managing Editor

Birth control services have been offered at Morehead State University's Caudill Health Clinic for the past year; however, this week one change has been made in the program. According to Dr. Steve Taylor, acting vice president of Student Development, contraceptives are no longer sold at the clinic. Instead, contraceptives ranging from condoms to the birth control pill were sold to Morehead State students at about one-third the average price.

Students who have been offered examinations and birth control pills, the most used contraceptive, for the year for about $45.

An administrative change stopped the selling of the devices, but the clinic is still offering birth control services and counseling to students.

According to Jane Blair, acting physical examinations are available for $12 and pap smears are available for $4 to full-time students. There is also a charge for pregnancy testing. All the necessary examinations and counseling, even the prescription for the student's desired contraceptive may be obtained from the clinic. However, the student has to have the prescription filled somewhere other than the Caudill Health Clinic.

MSU has a contract with a local clinic, of about $95,000 for all services at the clinic which require a physician's assistance, such as treating injuries or giving physical examinations.

Last year's birth control program cost about $10,000 including $67,000 for physician's assistance and $34,000 to stock contraceptives at the university clinic. Part of the cost was state funded.

Previously a student made an appointment at the clinic, watched a series of films concerning contraceptives, received counseling on contraceptives, had a physical examination and was given the contraceptive of his choice at a designated price set by the clinic.

Blair said the staff at the clinic is stressing their services and counseling, just not selling the devices as before.

She said the program has been needed at the university for a long time because of the long waiting list at the Rowan County Clinic.

The clinic may only accommodate a set quota of birth control patients each month based on the number of residents in the area. At times there may be a three month waiting list for family planning counseling, according to Blair.

Taylor said he saw no negative effect on this program because of this one change. He said administrators are looking at the educational aspect and promoting the services offered. For pregnant students who consider abortions, Blair said counseling is also available. She said the staff at the university clinic offers alternatives and even suggests programs such as one offered by Dr. Clare Medical Center where help is offered for medical expenses and possibly handles adoption.

He said if the student decides to have an abortion, the clinic will offer information on such services in the region. However, the clinic does not perform or schedule abortions. Counseling is also available to students after the abortion if help is needed.

As part of the clinic's promotion of birth control education, Blair said the staff from the clinic will be visiting residence halls to present the films to residents. Such a program was held Monday night in Alumni Tower.

Taylor said there tends to be a barrier which has led males to leave birth control to females. He said less than one percent of males, who used the facilities at the clinic last year indicated this stereotyping on campus.

He said he wants the students to be aware that services are available to them if they take the responsibility which accompanies the services.

According to Blair last year's program was a success. Reported pregnancies are less than at this time last year, an indicator that the program has been successful, she said.

Other state universities, such as Eastern Kentucky University and Murray State University, have received federal grants which contract the area health departments to provide birth control services on campus. In these programs none of university staff is involved in the program. The health departments handle everything from examinations to payment for contraceptives.

Blair said the investigation funding for such a program for Morehead State, but she said there is no funding available at this time.

She said she encourages any student who wants information on birth control services to call or stop by the clinic. All birth control services are available to students by appointment.

Morehead State University's Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity will be supporting the Arthritis Campaign for Rowan County. Jeff Wells of Morehead has been named 1984 Arthritis Campaign chairperson for the county.

The Arthritis Foundation is the only voluntary health organization working in the field of arthritis which offers over 500,000 Kentuckians.

Center is still continuing, according to Gary Messer, director of University Safety and Security.

Campus security, with the cooperation of the Kentucky State Police, is investigating the theft of $340 in cash and tokens from the office of Jack Henson, director of the University Center.

Messer said, "All indications show that a key man have been shown in the burglary and that two ADUC employees have been polygraphed by a state police expert so far."

Henson said, "There may be more tests in the future, I don't know for sure." Henson also said "he didn't know why" only two tests have been given after such a long period of time.

Precautions have been taken to prevent further thefts, Henson said. "All of the locks have been changed and there is no master key, nor are there any extra keys."

Volleyball Loses Hope For Post-Season Play

By DINA PIERCE
Staff Writer

One win and two losses at Eastern Kentucky University last weekend ended the post-season playoff hopes for the Lady Eagles volleyball team.

The Lady Eagles lost to Akron Friday in five games by scores of 16-14, 3-15, 14-16, 15-4, 7-15.

"Once Akron beat us, we knew we were done," said Head Coach Jim McCellan, "but we came right back to beat Youngstown State in three games."

McCellan said his team put up a good fight with Akron but just couldn't pull it off.

On Saturday, the Lady Eagles beat YSU 16-14, 15-11, 15-10. EKU then beat the Lady Eagles 6-15, 5-15, 2-15.

The Lady Eagles are now 12-12 for the season and 4-6 in the Ohio Valley Conference. McCellan said the team's goal is to win 70 percent of its games this year.

The OVC is divided into two divisions. The top two teams from both divisions make the post-season tournament. MSU is fourth in the conference and third in the division. The latter is what knocks the Lady Eagles out of the playoffs.

McCellan said he would like to see this changed because, as it is now, the four best teams do not always make the playoffs.

On not making the playoffs, McCellan said, "I feel worse for the seniors than for the others."

a warmup for the OVC tourney.

Team members competed in a 3.1 mile run. Chris Brunner, Ashland freshman, came in second overall with a time of 18:13.

The women's team would not participate in the competition, but will be traveling to EKU this weekend. Coach Wiley said both teams were

First Win After Dropping Six

Eagles Foil Tennessee Tech

By LORI KINCAID
Sports Editor

The Morehead State University Eagles bounced back after a six game losing streak Saturday, beating the Golden Eagles of Tennessee Tech University, 41-14 in front of 5,500 in a rain-drenched homecoming match-up.

MSU led throughout the entire game keeping the Golden Eagles scoreless until the latter part of the third quarter. TTU, who dropped to 0-7 on the day, did manage to score two touchdowns against the Eagle defense, the most points for the Golden Eagles in any game this season.

Eagle Tennis Bows To UK; Bounces Back At Western

Morehead State University women's team, ranked fifth in the nation in Division II, bounced back Saturday with a 7-1 win over Western after a disappointing 9-2 loss to Division I powerhouse University of Kentucky two days before.

The only victories against UK for the Eagles came from Helen Haddon in singles and the team of Sally Anne Birch and Helen Curtis in doubles.

Until Thursday the team was undefeated and now the Eagles hold a 10-1 record for season play. Eight out of ten of the teams win were against Division I teams. Haddon still maintains a perfect 9-0 record while teammates Angela Longo and Helen Curtis have only lost one match this season.

"It has been an excellent season," said Coach Beverly Mayhew, "I couldn't have hoped for anything better. We hope to be 1-1 going into the Kentucky State Tourney."

The Eagle tennis team has lost all the Kentucky teams except UK this season and is now preparing for the Kentucky State Tourney.

"The Eagle Hotline will be up-

The Eagles scored six touchdowns themselves, the first time MSU has scored that many points since 1978. Tom Buzynski, Steve Collins, Brian Shimer and Mike Trooper all caught passes for touchdowns, while Mike Hanlin and John Dunn ran in two TD's.

Although he did not score during the game, freshman running back Daman Stephens rushed for 175 yards, the first time an Eagle has had more than 100 yards rushing in a game since Dunn ran for 109 against Liberty Baptist last November.

"With the early lead, we got our self confidence back and started playing like earlier in the year," said Head Football Coach Bill Baldrige.

The Eagles will try to continue their winning ways against Western Kentucky University.

The Hilltoppers, who were 4-0 prior to last Saturday, won their last game alone, a 17-10 win over the Colonels of Eastern Kentucky University.

"We've just got to play football and not make ourselves. If they beat us, we've got to make them earn it," said Baldrige.

"I hope we can just beat somebody," said Cross Country team Coach Robert Wiley in reference to the team's participation in the upcoming weekend's Ohio Valley Conference tournament at Eastern Kentucky University.

The men's team traveled to Pulaski County last weekend to participate in a high school invitational at Somerset. Several college teams also participated in the competition. According to Wiley the competition was a warmup for the OVC tourney. Team members competed in a 3.1 mile run. Chris Brunner, Ashland freshman, came in second overall with a time of 18:13.

Louisville senior Tony Stevens placed fourth overall with a 18:31 time.

Kenny Williams, sophomore from Lexington, placed fifth overall with a time of 18:34.

The women's team would not participate in the competition, but will be traveling to EKU this weekend. Coach Wiley said both teams were the underdogs in the OVC tournament because MSU offers no scholarships for this team and also has no track program. "We just hope to beat somebody," said Wiley.

Going For The Gold

Homecoming Activities Viewed As A Success By MSU Officials

By JEFF SPRADLING
Staff Writer

Morehead State University officials believe this year's Homecoming activities were a success and were attended by more people than last year's Homecoming events.

The events included a week of student activities and weekend activities for alumni. While university officials do not feel student activity was optimal, they do feel that alumni participation was better than last year, according to Don Young of the Alumni Center.

The queen for the Homecoming activities was Mona Sabie, sponsored by Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. After the crowning of the queen there was a dance that was well attended according to Young.

Thursday night approximately 2,500 people attended the Waylon Jennings concert also part of the schedule of events.

Other activities included a candlelight dinner, continental breakfast at the president's home, an after-game get-together, and a tail-gate party at the Academic Athletic Center.

Waylon Creates High Energy In Concert But Winds Down Performance Too Soon

By JEFF SPRADLING
Staff Writer

If you were on the floor at the Waylon Jennings concert, it would have been easy to feel the energy a performer like Waylon can generate. In his laid-back style, Waylon produces more enthusiasm than many high-energy performers.

His fans love him. When the lights went down Thursday night the orderly rows of seats were quickly rearranged into a jumbled mess. These were fans reflecting the attitude that Waylon projects: fun-loving and slightly renegade.

Tony Joe White opened for Jennings. While his vocals were not the most inspiring, his hard-driving blues sound created a mood that characterizes how Jennings fans feel.

Review

Waylon opened with "This Outlaw Business Has Done Got Out of Hand." This song may sum up the history of Jennings. He was an "outlaw" long before anyone in music identified with it. Now the image is popular among entertainers and fans.

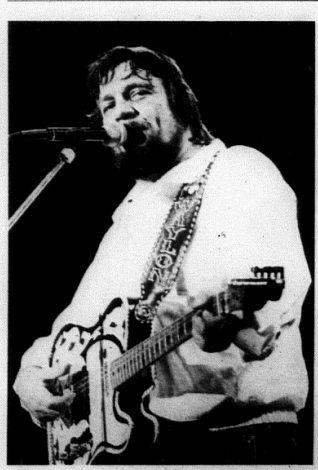

Waylon is, in my opinion, a classic, and songs like "Tonight the Bottle Let Me Down" and "Honky Tonk Heroes" show just how deep his roots in country music are. These songs typify, if not glorify, what country music is all about: bars and "lovable losers" (as "Honky Tonk Heroes" calls them).

Each successive song that Waylon did seemed to make the fans more excited. It was amazing how much reaction a "turn of the hat" from Jennings caused.

His band was tight and their musical ability was apparent. His steel guitar player was the best I've heard in a long time.

But there was a problem with the concert. Jennings barely played for an hour. It was out of character for a professional like Waylon to play for such a short time. While I'm sure his fans think no less of him for it, I'm also sure they can name two or three other songs they would like to have heard.

In fact, he could have played for several hours and not have scratched the surface of his long list of hits. Maybe Jennings felt he gave us our money's worth on Thursday, but for some of us, it was a let down to see the concert end so soon.

WMKY Begins Fundraiser, Seeks Audience Support

Jazz and rock music fans, classical buffs, folk music listeners and other WMKY-FM public radio audience members will be accepting phone calls, taking pledges and performing with their favorite air personalities during the Second Annual Fundraiser for Morehead State University's public radio station.

The fundraiser, set for Sunday, Oct. 28 through Saturday, Nov. 3, will feature listeners and fans coming to the WMKY studio to cobost regularly scheduled jazz segments and classical and folk music broadcasts. The early morning program,

"New Day," from 6 a.m. until 8 a.m., will feature live interviews with special guests. Other well-known regular programs during the week-long funding effort, such as "Music from the Mountains," "Blugrass Division," "A Prairie Home Companion," "Let's Talk Sports" and "Portraits in Blue," have special guests and presentations scheduled.

On Sunday, Oct. 28, the first day of the fundraiser, WMKY will host its annual Open House from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The public is encouraged to tour the studio and meet the people whose voices are heard daily on FM 90.3. The facilities are at 124 Henry Ward Place on the MSU campus.

WMKY features a mix of news, public affairs, blugrass and folk, jazz and classical music. Programs originate locally or they come over the satellite from national networks. Broadcasting 18 hours a day with eight full-time and two part-time staff members and up to 35 students and volunteers, the station serves Northeastern Kentucky as well as parts of Ohio and West Virginia.

WMKY is one of 282 non-commercial radio stations across the country which rely more and more on the financial support of their listening audience.

Speech Team Takes Third In Ohio Rosebowl Tourney

Morehead State University's speech team placed third overall at Miami University's Rosebowl Tournament in Ohio last weekend.

Twenty-four schools from eight states, including eight of the top ten ranked teams in the nation were in attendance.

Individual achievements, at the tournament included Margaret Hoff, sophomore from Radcliff, placing third in the Epidectic speaking category. This type of speech either praises or blames someone. Hoff's speech praised the efforts of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers. She also placed fifth in Rhetorical Criticism.

Cynthia freshman Julie Jones won first place in Duo Interpretation with her partner Brian Waddle, Shepherdsville freshman. Their cutting was from the play "Where Are You Going, Hollis I?"

Waddle also won first place in After Dinner Speaking, a humorous speech with a serious point. Waddle discussed the topic of "If something works, why fix it?"

Tara Laft, freshman from Cynthia, placed sixth in Duo Interpretation with partner Bob Stafford, Vansburg junior, with a cutting from the play "Farewell to Love". Stafford also placed third in the Epidectic Speaking category by praising the Special Olympics.

Sophomore Vonda Ramey, from Morehead, won first place in the Informative Speaking category by discussing gossip, the reasons for gossip and the different types of gossip.

With a speech on the persuasive elements in "Family Fraud," Lisa Shemwell, sophomore from Winchester, took third in Rhetorical Criticism.

Qwyn Taylor, senior from Jeffersonville, Jeff Spradling, junior from Wellington, and Kevin Cockroft, Jeffersonville freshman, helped Morehead State obtain their third place trophy by contributing sweepstakes points.

The last tournament of the semester will be Nov. 29 through Dec. 2 when the team travels to the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Sign Letters Stolen Recently From Wesley Foundation

Three aluminum letters, valued at $150, were stolen from the Wesley Foundation's sign at 304 University Street, Saturday, Oct. 13, according to Morehead City Police.

David Cheeks, campus minister, reported the theft, which occurred sometime between Friday night or early Saturday morning. Cheeks noticed the letters missing around noon.

The Morehead Police Department is investigating the case.
