Anti-Pornography Campaign Citing 'Progress' In Drive

By DAVID C.L. BAUER
and SEAN KELLY

The second week of an attempted ban of what is called "obscene material," "pornographic materials" began Monday in Morehead with all but three businesses yielding to the demands of the group.

Sales of adult materials have been reported as "above average" at K-Mart and Balfour's drugstore and The Video Library, the remaining stores in a list of 13 that were threatened with boycott last week.

The boycott was threatened in the form of photocopied letters sent by members of the anti-pornography movement.

The action movement, led by the Rev. Mitchell Burch, pastor of Morehead's First Church of God, is affiliated with the efforts of the National Federation of Decency.

Randall Murphree, associate director of the Tupelo, Miss.-based federation, said in a telephone interview earlier this week that the federation's efforts are designed to protect "anyone who is a target of moral value."

The federation, which has been in existence for seven years, has been the target of numerous accusations claiming the group members are acting like extremists. Murphree explained that to the group, "Censorship is not the goal. It's really a matter of degree. As far as the people yelling about First Amendment rights and free speech, what about child pornography, just as an example? Anyone with any concern for others will say 'no, that doesn't belong.'"

Some of the magazines that the local group has cited as being "obscene" or "obscure" include Playboy, Penthouse, and Harvard.

Playboy, according to Murphree, may be the worst offender, because of the magazine's attempts to "use an aura of respectability."

A spokesperson for Playboy magazine's office in Chicago, Paul White, called the efforts of the federation "misguided."

"The federation is very ineffective," Engleman said, adding that its membership is 20,000 across the U.S., as opposed to "the four and a half million loyal Playboy readers."

In regard to the assertions made that the sales of pornography or obscene material is related to an increase in teenage pregnancies, cerebral diseases and exposure to children in recent years, Engleman said "It's so silly, almost ridiculous to comment on an assertion like that. It's so absurd."

Rev. Burch, citing a list of stores that have complied with the letters, known as "friendly compliance,"

Student Group Forms; Opposes 'Censorship'

By SEAN KELLY
Staff Writer

A group of Morehead State University students and local residents, calling themselves American Citizens for Freedom of Choice began organizing "Sunday to oppose the local anti-pornography campaign" being carried out by 15 Morehead area churches.

The group is circulating a petition opposing the "friendly compliance" citizens in the anti-pornography drive have used in threatening boycott of stores that continue to carry adult literature or video tapes.

Beverly Alexander, 21, of Paris, Ky., said she and friends decided to organize the group Sunday during a discussion of the anti-pornography drive.

"We were sitting around Sunday night and decided to do something about a minority mass-censoring reading material for the rest of the community."

She said the petition, which at present has about 500 signatures, will be presented to those businesses which have removed adult literature from their shelves.

At present, only Balfour's drugstore was selling adult magazines, while The Video Library was the last store in Morehead selling adult video cassettes.

The idea for the petition, according to Alexander, was designed to make the storeowners in Morehead realize that "it was a small percentage of the community that made that decision (to rent the anti-pornography letters) and that there are dissenting views."

"It's just that we want the idea that 200 or so people can make such a decision for a community of 14,000."

said "I think it (the progress) speaks for itself."

Rev. Burch said there are no further actions being planned at this time.

"I think what the community really wants? From what I've seen, the answer is 'yes,'" Rev. Burch commented.

people," Alexander said.

The Rev. Mitchell Burch, aware of the anti-pornography efforts, said he has been in contact with the group and said, "They are carrying out their campaign in good faith."

"I understand their position," he said, but added, "I do not believe the anti-pornography campaign is censorship."

Playboy magazine, when contacted in regard to the situation earlier this week, commented through spokesperson Paul Engleman that he "thinks the citizens of Morehead State University (and the others involved in the anti-pornography campaign) for standing up to this anti-pornography campaign."

"They are doing exactly what's right."

In a related matter, the Rowan County Fiscal Court voted unanimously November 8 to investigate the selling of hard-core pornography material in the county.

County Judge-Executive Jim Nickell initiated the action after telling the court that he had received numerous complaints about the sales and rentals of films described to him as being rated X to XXX.

County Attorney Hank Pennington has been directed by the formal motion to investigate pornography laws and should any establishment be found violating the laws, pursue corrective action through law enforcement agencies.

Editor in Chief's note: Shortly before press time, Rev. Burch, one of the stores named on a list of area businesses carrying what the anti-pornography campaign deemed "obscene," withdrew the stores former policy, and discontinued its sales of adult magazines.

Miss MSU Preliminary Held, Thirteen To Compete In Pageant

By STEPHEN QUINN
Staff Writer

A preliminary competition was held for the first time for the Miss Morehead State University Scholarship Pageant. The preliminary was held this past Friday evening and contestants were chosen on the basis of their interview and talent.

"This year there's only going to be one night of pageant competition," said Marc Howard, a junior from Louisville and producer of the pageant. "The pageant has been narrowed down so that the audience is treated to the best talent in one evening."

Original entries were for the judges to choose 12 finalists; however, a tie between two of the candidates moved the number to 13. The Scholarship Pageant is to be held March 28. Monday it was announced a thirteenth contestant will be competing in the pageant. The twelve which were chosen Friday evening were Elizabeth Peiffer, LaToya Montgomery, Jill Goldsmith, Molly Large, Leslie McBrayer, Jeanine Kirkpatrick, Tammy Jo Wiley, Melissa Schunk, Angela Hamilton, Stephanie Kirk, Penny Childers and Connie Weninger. Also Shelly Webb, who was added to the list Monday will be competing in March.

The preliminary which was scheduled to begin at 9 p.m. started late because of the length of time it took for the contestants' interviews. "The pageant went a lot smoother than expected," said Howard. "I think the judges had a tough decision. Many people in the audience didn't realize that the interview was just as important as the talent."

"I thought the preliminary went even though I started late, I was pleased with the support that the university showed."

"One Spectacular Sensation" is the theme for the MSU Scholarship Pageant and the master of ceremonies is Denny Keller from Mayville who was a judge for the competition last year. Miss Kentucky, Kelly Lynn Brumagin, will be present for the pageant.

For the preliminaries only the candidate interview and talent presentation were factors in choosing the candidates who will go on to the main competition.

The Contestants:

- Penny Childers
- Jill Goldsmith
- Angela Hamilton
- Jeanine Kirkpatrick
- Stephanie Kirk
- Molly Large
- Leslie McBrayer
- LaToya Montgomery
- Elizabeth Peiffer
- Melissa Schunk
- Shelly Webb
- Connie Weninger
- Tammy Jo Wiley

The 1985 Miss MSU will be chosen according to the talent competition, which will comprise 50 percent of the total score, and candidate interviews, the evening gown competition and the swimsuit competition, which will comprise the remaining 50 percent.

Education Meeting Scheduled Students Asked To Voice Opinions

A New England-style town meeting on education will be held in Rowan County High School's cafeteria tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. as part of a statewide program being sponsored by the Pritchard Committee for Education, the Kentucky Department of Education, the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform, and the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc.

About 140 meetings will be held statewide as 175 of Kentucky's 180 school districts participate.

The purpose of the meetings is to involve as many Kentucky citizens as possible in discussion of what should be done for the state's schools on both the state and local levels.

At 8 p.m. those attending the forum will view a live address to be televised on Kentucky Educational Television featuring Governor Martha Layne Collins, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald and Edward F. Pritchard Jr., chairman of the Pritchard Committee.

Audience members will be able to discuss education after viewing the broadcast and their comments will be compiled by a notetaker.

Comments will be listed by priority and submitted to the Pritchard Committee, which will put together a statewide report which may present the views of the citizens in the 1986 General Assembly.

Throughout His Career

Dr. Mont Whitson, professor of sociology at Morehead State University, discusses a demographic map and the use of that data in applying for research funds.

Professor Has Received 21 Grants

Persistence and luck are only part of his success, according to Dr. Mont Whitson, professor of sociology at Morehead State University. Whitson has received funding for 21 grant proposals from universities, state and national organizations throughout his career.

"I guess, fundamentally, it's believing you can do it... being willing to take the time to think a project through and write your proposal, then submit it according to the requirements of the foundation (for which you're applying for a grant)," Whitson said.

He received his first award as a fellowship from the Tennessee Public Health Department when he was 19 years old. A stint in service during World War II made him eligible for funds from the GI Bill program. That was followed by fellowships, scholarships, and special national and state grants he received while working on his graduate degrees. From the beginning of his undergraduate work in 1944 until the completion of his doctorate in 1961, Whitson funded his entire college education with grants and fellowships.

Dr. Whitson said the grants, which are funds from private or public organizations awarded for research and compilation of findings on a problem or subject within a field of study, have allowed him to take either credit courses or fellowship type studies at 15 universities across the country during the past three decades.

"I am involved in a wider world than I would have been otherwise, understanding different types of people and those that have majored in different areas," said Whitson of the grants. "And so the greatest advantage has been my sharing information with others and their sharing with me. I've been able to share that directly, or indirectly, with students over the years."

It is a worthwhile experience for every faculty member, according to Whitson. He especially encourages younger faculty members to pursue grants. He said the grants are a way to "broaden experiences," and study at various universities in a variety of fields.

But receiving the grant is a challenge, according to Whitson. One or two weeks during Christmas break may be used simply researching and writing proposals for the grants.

Each proposal, Whitson said, must show that the applicant has an understanding of the problem being researched and that the writer can contribute to the project or study group. He also advises sending out at least three or four proposals in order to receive one response.

Grant availability is not widely publicized, Whitson said, so it is a matter of "keeping your eyes and ears open." He recommends reading as many publications as possible, especially the "Chronicle of Higher Education." Subscribing to the mailing list of various foundations, such as the National Endowment for the Humanities, also helps.

The grants he has received have allowed Whitson to explore a variety of topics, ranging from plant closures in Roman to civil religion, in a variety of fields. Getting proposal research published is a definite possibility and is even encouraged, he said, once you have presented your material to the foundation.

World Hunger Observed This Week

By JEFF SPRADLING
Staff Writer

In conjunction with National World Hunger Week Morehead State University's Campus Ministry Association is sponsoring Hunger Awareness Week.

This week is to help students be aware of hunger in the world, according to the Rev. Larry Gouding, minister at Jesus Our Savior Catholic Church.

The ministry will present a slide show about world hunger in the ADIC grill at lunchtime Thursday and Friday. The group will also hold a soup supper at the Bulfinch room at 5 p.m. Thursday night.

"We are asking that students eat a little less at their lunch meals and donate the remainder of what they would have spent to help fight hunger," Gouding said.

"On Thursday night we ask students to attend the soup supper and eat only soup and crackers for that meal, donating the rest of what they would have spent on that meal," he said.

Proceeds from Hunger Awareness Week will go to OXFAM, a national organization responsible for making people aware of world hunger.

READER'S VIEWS

Young Republican distrustful

Dear Editor:
In an October 31, 1984 Trail Blazer reader's view, it seems odd that Lawrence Ray Carmichael of the Kentucky Young Republican Federation should use such words as "chose" and "opportunity." And phrases such as "develop their potential without compromise" and "common goal of a free and just society."
Odd because none of those words or phrases applied to me this election day.
Due to the irresponsibility of the Young Republicans, who registered voters in ADCU, my name (in a change of precinct due to moving) was not sent to be processed.
About a month ago, I approached a Young Republican at the table in ADCU with the intention of transferring to another precinct.
I filled out the information on the card. He asked which candidate I supported, when I declined to give a specific answer, he offered Reagan / Bush bumper stickers and buttons. Once I had refused the material, he turned to my companion at the table and said, "It's another one of those."

But the gentleman assumed the transfer would be taken care of. Even though I am a Democrat.
Having put my trust in this organization, I eagerly waited this day, November 6, so I could exercise my most valuable right — my right to vote.
It's a shame this trust was ill-earned.
This morning, my husband and I added for the polls. Since my husband had changed precincts at the county house, he had no problems. On the other hand, there was no record of my registration at the precinct. We went to our old voting house to find that the Young Republican had, indeed, not done what I had entrusted him to do.

Fortunately, I was able to vote in my old precinct.
Unfortunately, the students who may not have been previously registered in a local precinct as I was, probably didn't vote — if they entrusted their registration with the Young Republicans. They probably couldn't vote.
I called the court house to find that they could do nothing. I was also informed that I had better rush to the courthouse and straighten out the mess before I was fined for voting in the wrong precinct.
All because the Young Republicans did not realize the grave responsibility of upholding the trust in a most treasured civil right.

Good education depends on You!

As college students we can identify with problems experienced in the elementary and secondary level. We can also realize the need to improve instruction in order to reach every child.
Many students at Morehead State are majoring in education. People who are involved in education must care for these students and do their best to prepare them for their future. However, teachers and school officials cannot do the entire job; they have to have support, encouragement, other ideas and financial help to complete their duties.
Many of us will probably have children of our own in the future and what is being done in the local school systems now will affect those children.
We have to be concerned and get involved.
Even though we are students and many of us do not have children now, we can help. We can vote in the elections which supply the demand for officials for our public schools. We can also be informed of the situation in education and what's happening in the local school systems.

By telling the elected representatives how we feel about the school system and offering them ideas for improvement and reform, we can help have an educational system to be proud of.
We, the voters in Kentucky, are responsible for the education students receive in our public schools. We need to be constantly aware of this fact and continually remind ourselves that we can do something about the needs, goals and hopes for our educational program.
Tomorrow night town meetings on education are being held throughout the state of Kentucky. These meetings are being sponsored by the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, the Kentucky Department of Education, the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform and the Kentucky Educational Foundation Inc. Portions will be televised by Kentucky Educational Television.

Morehead's local meeting will be held in Rowan County High School cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. View at The Trail Blazer on courage everyone, especially Morehead State University students, faculty and staff members, to attend this meeting.
The meeting will focus on "I think our school ought to be" information will be summarized and sent to the Prichard Committee.
As Kentucky citizens we elect the officials who are responsible for many of the actions related to our educational programs. From the governor of Kentucky to the state's Superintendent of Public Instruction, to each local school board we choose the individuals mainly responsible for the quality of education provided in our public schools.

Anti-porno tests Constitution

Dear Editor:
The 1973 Supreme Court ruling on obscenity said, in effect, that it would be impossible to decide on a single standard to define obscenity; therefore, the responsibility of defining obscene material should be determined according to community standards.
I find it hard to believe that the community of Morehead will sit back and allow a group of 200 people to set the standards for 14,000 residents. I find it harder to believe that most of the business knuckled under to pressure from such a small group of citizens.
This is not simply a case of banning the sale of pornography, but it is a test of the basic principles for which the United States of America was founded. We live in a country that was founded by men and women who believed in freedom; freedom of speech; freedom of religion; and freedom of choice. The right to choose what you would like to read, like all rights guaranteed or implied in the Constitution, should be left up to the individual. It was upon this principle that "American Democracy" was established.

There are countries where citizens do not have the right to read the material of their choice. There are countries where the government makes decisions on morality and imposes censorship on its citizens. America is none of these countries.
As an American citizen you are guaranteed certain rights. As an American citizen you are also obligated to uphold these rights so that your children, and future generations will be allowed to make their own decisions.

To Batson's Drug Store and to Rev. and the Video Library, I give my respect and admiration for upholding the basic principles of American society. In addition to that, I will also give you my business.

Dear Editor:
My thanks go to Reverend Mitchell Burch of the First Church of God. He wants to sweep porn out of Rowan County and I am all for it. But why stop with Playboy and Penthouse? I think we should ban everything obscene and pornographic. Let's start with MTV. Too much sex and violence. The Sunday papers also have a few too many underwear ads for women. And what about Ronald Reagan? A limited nuclear war certainly fits my definition of obscene. Add to that a war in Central America.

and Playboy graphically display that love with some good journalism. They have never promoted child sex to my knowledge. And I enjoyed researching that last statement.
The real reason that Rev. Burch is down on Playboy is because catching child molesters is really difficult and pulling a few soft porn mag makes real good press (and is easy to do). But will those acts stop abuse? Probably not.
If we want to stop abuse let us make a few low range goals that might be achievable. Start with loving our children more in the home. Add an acknowledgement of adolescent sex (they are going to do it anyway) and spice with a love for a human body. It is the temple of the Lord and if love was wrong then God would not have made it feel so right. Scientific research concerning this can be found in the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, page 10, November 1975.

Yes Rev. Burch, the Lord does work in mysterious ways.

Homecoming '84

Dear Editor:
On behalf of the members of the Morehead State Alumni Association, Inc., I wish to express our gratitude to the students, faculty and administration of MSU for your enthusiastic support of Homecoming '84.
We hope you enjoyed the activities. The work of the Student Association, Alumni Homecoming Committee, MSU faculty and staff, and their truly cooperative efforts should be an example to all of us as we strive to strengthen Morehead State University.
I am privileged to serve for the next two years as president of the Alumni Association. I look forward to a continued growth and development of our institution under President Rasmussen's strong leadership.
Thank you again for a great Homecoming.
David Boli, President
MSU Alumni Association, Inc.

And what about the Bible? Every chapter in it has killings, wars, and plenty of beating. Do we wait our children exposed to that? In fact, most dictionaries define pornography as something that promotes lust. Now I want all you women to stop wearing fashions. Forget your waifing saits and really nice haircuts. But most important, I demand that you not marry because we all know what that leads to.
So what do the Reverend Burch's views leave us with? Frightened, lonely people out of touch (literally and figuratively) with themselves and others. Do we want this? What can stop this kind of thinking other than logic opinion?
Well just like the good Reverend, I too have an opinion. Yes, abuse of kind (and I mean all kinds) is bad. But how can anyone compare love between two normal people to love molesting? These Penthouse

Arts In Morehead Brings Love Story, 'Children Of A Lesser God' To MSU

The Asolo State Theatre Company of Fla. is the second presentation in the Arts in Morehead (AIM) series with a production of Mark Medoff's "Children Of A Lesser God" in Burton Auditorium Thursday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m.

"Children Of A Lesser God," the Tony Award-winning play of 1980, is an extraordinary and touching love story between a speech therapist and a young deaf woman who refuses to speak. Conversation between the two is possible only through a graceful and dynamic flutter of hands called signing and facial expressions that are more telling than words. James pursues Sarah through an affecting aged often amusing courtship and eventually they marry. Through poetic and engaging scenes of listening to music, ordering at a restaurant and adjusting to marriage Medoff introduces us to Sarah's world; one she calls "a silence full of sounds" and one she maintains is just as rich as the world of sound.

In communicating the speech of the deaf, the actors in "Children Of A Lesser God" must be skilled professionals and also adept in American Sign or English Sign Language. Three Asolo actors are either totally deaf or seriously hearing impaired.

"Children" was first produced at New Mexico State University, where Medoff is head of the drama department. The production later played in Los Angeles Mark Taper Forum and opened in New York in 1980 to enthusiastic audiences and critical acclaim. The Broadway production won accolades for its stars Phyllis Frelich and John Rubenstein, bringing them Tony Awards for their performances. Forrest called the drama "an extraordinary play... illuminating, interesting and moving." The New York Times deemed it "the find of the season, a play unlike any other... always engaging... warmly, winningly personal."

Asolo's cast members for the drama include many players from the Broadway and national productions of "Children." This production will be directed by Lucy Martin, who has played in the Broadway cast and has been affiliated with numerous productions of the show.

A dramatic workshop, including members of the Asolo cast, is scheduled for Thursday at 1 p.m. in Burton Drill Room.

Tickets for the performance are available at the door. The cost is $6 adult and $2.50 for students under 18. For more information, call 783-2483.

IF THERE'S LEADERSHIP IN YOU, OCS CAN BRING IT OUT.

OCS (Army Officer Candidate School) is a 14-week challenge to all that's in you... the mental, the physical, the spirit that are part of what makes a leader.

If OCS were easy, it couldn't do the job. It wouldn't bring out the leader in you, or help you discover what you have inside.

But when you finish and graduate as a commissioned officer in the Army, you'll know. You'll know you have what it takes to lead. And you'll be trim, alert, fit, and ready to exercise the leadership skills that civilian companies look for.

If you're about to get your degree and you want to develop your leadership ability, take the OCS challenge.

Call your local Army Recruiter, and ask about OCS.

After near win against Eastern

Eagles End Season Against YSU

By LORI KINCAID
Sports Editor

The Eastern Kentucky University Colonels wrapped up the Ohio Valley Conference title for the fourth consecutive year and will be participating in the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs for the sixth straight season after a fourth-quarter win over the Morehead State Eagles' Sar. 48-38.

At the half, the Eagles were playing better than in previous years, it looked as though it would be another big victory by OVC champion EKV. But MSU came back and totally dominated the third quarter. During the first 18 minutes of the second half, Eastern had just 14 yards and no first downs.

Three consecutive touchdown passes from Eagle quarterback Mike Hanlin to Brian Shimer, Tod Short and Tom Barninski and a 31 yard field goal by Matt Tilton gave Morehead 25 points and a four point, 38-34, lead heading into the final quarter of the game.

MSU's first victory against Eastern in 13 years seemed to be within reach. But not for long. With less than eight minutes remaining in the game, David Hensley made a two-yard touchdown run, putting the Colonels up by three.

On MSU's next drive, their last chance for a comeback, the Eagles were in a 4-4 situation on the Colonels 44 yard line. Hanlin went back to pass, but Eastern defense ended blitzed and the pass fell incomplete. May told another reporter, "I just tried to get to him as quick as possible. Hanlin is quick, and I knew I didn't have much time. After I hit him, he looked up and I just said, 'That's pride and tradition.' He didn't say anything. I knew we had him."

The Colonels scored another touchdown with only 26 seconds left, making the final score 48-38. Hanlin was the leading force behind the Eagles. The senior from Sayre, Ky., was rushed for 96 yards and completed 20 of 35 passes for 281 yards and four touchdowns.

MSU will finish out the season against Youngstown State University Saturday at Jayne Stadium. YSU, currently 6-4 overall and 4-2 in the OVC, was picked to finish seventh in the conference but will wind up the season tied for second with Murray State University if the Penguins defeat the Eagles.

Last year the Eagles brought home a 27-20 victory against YSU, the last victory for Head Coach Steve Loney.

We're number one. Or at least Eagles Brian Shimer and Tod Short think so. After scoring 25 points straight during the third quarter, MSU lost to the Colonels of EKV, 48-38.

Bowling Wins First Event Against Six Teams

By DEBBIE POWELL
Managing Editor

The Morehead State University

men's bowling team won first overall in the team event, six games, last weekend in a tourney involving six teams held at Morehead.

Teams from Indiana University, Virginia Tech, Murray State University, Western Kentucky University and Eastern Kentucky University participated in the event.

The Eagles placed second in Indiana University in the all-events category involving 12 games.

Individual scores out of 12 games were Randy Chandler, a senior from West Union, Ohio, fourth place win and Jeff Vandergift, a freshman from Parkersburg, W.Va., a fifth place win.

In single's competition out of six games, Jim Gray, a junior from Clearfield, placed fourth; Randy Chandler placed sixth. The ladies' team came in third place in both the all-events and team event categories.

Pam Byrd, a freshman from Alexandria, placed eighth in individual all events.

Suzie Biven placed fifth in single's division.

The teams will be participating the weekend of Nov. 24 at St. Louis, Missouri in the National Team Match games.

Volleyball Finishes With Loss To Miami

DINA PIERCE
Staff Writer

The Lady Eagle volleyball team came on strong during the second half of the season to post a winning record. The season ended last night when Morehead State University hosted Miami University of Ohio in Webber Gymnasium.

"We didn't make the playoffs so it is a somewhat disappointing season," said Coach Jim McCellan. "We didn't win near as many games as we wanted; we wanted to win 70 percent of the games but will only be around 60 percent."

Monday night, in Cincinnati, the Lady Eagles lost to Xavier University, 6-15, 15-13, 15-11. The loss followed two wins on Nov. 9 and 10 in Bowling Green, Ohio. One win came against Middle Tennessee State University by scores of 15-7, 15-4, 15-5. The other victory was over Austin Peay State University, 15-12, 13-15, 15-13 and 15-12.

The season may have been a disappointing one for the team, but it was a good one. McCellan says the Eagles beat two or three of the Lady Eagles to make the All-Ohio Valley Conference team. The OVC team will be announced Friday.

McCellan is now looking to recruiting for next season. "We have three scholarships available and we're looking for some tall players."
