Ford Is Named President Of Bert Combs' Boosters

Wendell H. Ford was named president of Young Kentuckians for Bert Combs Friday at an organizational meeting in Louisville.

Ford is an Owensboro businessman and a former president of both the Kentucky and U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

David Wipe of Louisiana was named secretary of the group. Ford said each of the state's 129 counties would be organized. He said the group would ask the state's youthful voters to "invest their votes" in Combs.

Young people should take a more active interest in politics, Ford said. He added that participation in the governor's race was a good way to start.

Man Claims Dog Had Been Drinking

A dog was blamed by a defendant for causing him to pay a fine of $100 and costs in Georgetown Police Court on a drunk driving count.

The defendant, Charles Jones of Harlan, told Police Judge M. L. (Peter) Ranson: "I admit I smelled like I had been drinking, but I hadn't. It was because of that dern dog in the back seat. He had been drinking and had been rubbing his face on my clothing."

No two cooks make the same kind of broth. A complacent day keeps the quarrels away.

Ginger Lists Four Needs Of Education

UK Professor Speaks At NEA Meeting

The American people just won't realize that in public education they're going to get only what they're willing to pay for, the president of the National Education Association declared this week at Cleveland, O.

Dr. Lyman Ginger of the University of Kentucky, in a new conference kicking off the NEA's 96th annual convention, added: "Money alone won't cure the ills of public education, but we'll never cure them without more money."

He said the four most crucial needs of education are adequate financial support to enable the schools to get better teachers, better programs of teacher preparation, stepped-up classroom construction to end overcrowding and half-day sessions, and expanded guidance and counseling services.

"It's just not conceivable to me that this nation can not support public education," Dr. Ginger said. "We're going to have to tackle this problem at every level—in the communities, the states and on the federal levels."

"The local school systems must be willing to assume their full share of the load. The states will have to help out where the communities can't do the job. And in some areas, the federal government must step in.

Dr. Ginger acknowledged many goals of the NEA probably won't be realized for years.

For instance, in a proposed new platform which will come up for discussion during the convention there is the plank that no basic learning classes in elementary schools should have more than 25 pupils per teacher.

This would require about 200,000 more grade school teachers, and the country is already short some 125,000 teachers.

The national average now is about 30 pupils per teacher in grade school. The recommended figure of 25 is basic," Dr. Ginger said, on reports from classroom teachers across the nation.

"This is a long-term program," Dr. Ginger said. "It may be 15 to 20 years before we realize it. But we have to keep trying."

The new program also calls for instruction programs which teach about—but do not advocate—communism and all forms of totalitarianism.

Five State Lakes Cited For Best Bass Fishing

Kentucky's five big lakes were named among the 100 best bass lakes in the United States in the current issue of Outdoor Life magazine.

Kentucky lakes named were Herrington Deway, Dale Hollow, Cumberland and Kentucky.

Auburn Wynn Davis in telling how the selection was made said: "This was such a large order that it took three years and eight months to dig up the facts and come up with the answer."

200 expert anglers—men and women—in all 48 states were sent questionnaires, 107 answered, saying they'd be glad to help and sent in their first choice of lakes. The total was a staggering 1,200 lakes.

By checking and cross-checking with many different sources, the author says, the number of lakes was whittled down to 100.

Cigarette Production At All-Time High

Recessions and nimble fingers apparently go together, as far as cigarettes are concerned.

So said the U. S. Agriculture Department when it reported a considerable increase in retail cigarette smokers.

The department said the use of manufactured cigarettes also is increasing.

Total national cigarette output for the year ending Monday was estimated at 44 billion, up 27 per cent from 1936 and an all-time high.

The smoking tobacco used in roll-rolled cigarettes was up 7 per cent.

The report said Kentucky farmers get 40 per cent of their income from tobacco. It added North Carolina is the only other state with a higher percentage.

4-H Camp Is Scheduled At Carter Caves

The annual 4-H Camp for this area will be held at Carter Caves, July 14-18, and will be attended by members from Rowan, Fleming, Mason, Lewis, Bath and Robertson counties.

Handicraft, safety, and cook-outs will be included in the day's activities. Swimming and folk games are part of the recreation. Visitors are welcome on especially Thursday night, July 17, to see the candle-lighting service and observe camp activities.

Rowan County is allowed 40 campers. Boys and girls may register until July 10 in the Extension Office and pay the fee of $2.50. The bus will leave for camp on Monday, July 14, at 10 a. m. from the courthouse.

Work To Start On Olive Hill Armory

Low bidder on construction of the new Armory at Olive Hill is Fain and John, Lexington, who proposed to do the work for $234,823.

It will be located on the Evans Tract.

Work is expected to start this month. The building will also be available for community meetings and recreation. Plans call for a basketball court, auditorium and ample parking.

The project was spearheaded by Carter County Representative Roger Qualls.

CIVIL DEFENSE SHAKE-UP

The House Government Operations Committee has approved a report supporting President Eisenhower's plan to reorganize civil defense because nothing could make the setup "worse."

The committee by voice vote adopted the report of the House Military Operations subcommittee, which gave its support on a trial basis.

The subcommittee said it would not oppose the plan because there was always a chance "something might improve the civil defense program."

Businesses Need A Health Check-Up, Too!

Businesses are a lot like people. They can get hardening of the arteries. They can grow old, decline and die. But in one important respect a business differs from a human being: With proper care it can stay young a long time . . . perhaps even forever.

There's no one magic cure that will mend ALL sick businesses, of course. But there is a simple formula that will help tremendously to KEEP them healthy.

The life blood of any business is sales. No business has ever failed from selling more goods than its competitors. And one of the easiest ways to SELL more goods is to REACH more people and tell them what it is you have to sell AND WHY THEY WILL BENEFIT BY BUYING IT.

That's where we come in. Our newspaper reaches more people at less cost to you than any other advertising medium. People read our paper THOROUGHLY . . . they read and act on the advertisements in it. They have a huge amount of money to spend on goods and services that might just as well be yours. We can help you plan your advertising for faster, better results, too. We'll be glad to work with you or your advertising manager; and remember, this extra service costs you nothing.

Independence Was Not Easily Won For The United States

The adoption of a resolution authorized by five members of the Continental Congress, July 4, 1776, is one of the great days of democratic civilization and history.

The resolution was authorized by Thomas Jefferson, chairman, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Roger Livingston. Adoption of the resolution dissolving ties between England and the American colonies, required courage and faith.

General Washington, in general orders to his troops, reminded them of the general hopes that this important event will serve as fresh incentive to every officer and soldier... the peace and safety of his country depends, under God, solely on the success of our arms.

Most Americans know of the long, bitter struggle which ensued. Independence and freedom were not easily won. Many paid with their lives. Ever since, this freedom, our independence, has been jealously guarded and defended. On July 4th we think of it anew and weigh its value.

In 1958 we face the challenge of Communism, military and economic. In principle, the test we face has not changed. Once again America must rise to the challenge and meet the issue. It is a sobering thought as we look back on July 4th, 1776. We cannot afford to fail.

July Takes Name From Caesar

The month of July takes its name from Julius Caesar. It contains many historic American anniversaries—Independence Day on the 4th, the anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd, etc.

Calvin Coolidge was born on the 4th, in 1872 at Plymouth, Vermont. The first admiral in the U. S. Navy, David G. Farragut, was born at Knoxville, Tenn., on July 13th, 1801. The Republican Party was founded July 6, 1854 at Jackson, Michigan.

John D. Rockefeller was born July 8th, 1839. John Quincy Adams, sixth U. S. President, was born July 11th, 1767, at Quincy, Massachusetts. Nathan B. Forrest was born in Marshall County, Tennessee, July 13th, 1821. And John Paul Jones was born in Scotland July 18th, 1747.

July is the month of full-blown summer, or mid-summer. After June, it is "spare"; even in hot August, that summer is running out. It is the month of vacations, holidays, swimming and outdoor pleasures, and then memories of summer and beautiful days and nights—memories for winter.

July is a month to enjoy, as well as an historic one, so enjoy it!

Making Man Feel Like A Bird

From New Jersey comes a report of a test engineer who has been jumping about "like a bird" in what is called a rocket-powered jump belt. The jump belt is the invention of Alexander Bohr, Raymond E. Welch, and Harry Burdette.

The inventors are currently getting the jump belt patented according to the report and details of its nature are as yet unknown.

However, the test engineer says that the jump belt makes man feel like a bird. It is capable of propelling a man up a mountain, over a river, or in other words, of accomplishing the feats of Buck Rogers. The army has used the space-age jump belt, and its existence has created curiosity and interest in other circles. The inventors claim that it gives "man a feeling of being in outer space, or on another planet, since the jump belt is designed to counteract gravity. This makes the wearer of the jump belt practically weightless, and the thrust provided can be varied by body movements—according to reports.

We have been awaiting such a belt for many years, ever since it was first considered buying jumping shoes from magazine advertisements some decades ago. And, if the jump belt would get the poor heeoped husband out of his house in a hurry, it might be one of the most significant scientific advances of our era.

With reference to telling why his plan for reorganizing the Defense Department should be adopted, President Eisenhower is finding it extremely difficult to tell it to the Marines.

The Administration through several departments isn't asking us to do much for the ailing economy—merely that we buy a lot of goods and services to end the recession, and buy a lot of Government bonds to combat inflation.

Any wife who has had successful experience in teaching a kitten to lap up cream should be able to follow the advice of a psychologist that wives teach their husbands to be lazy.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I'll take me all summer to give over some of them commencement addresses. I'm reading in the papers, "The country faces a period of great unrest," says one of them distinguished speakers. "America has come to the cross roads," says another speaker. "This country does not want war," expounds another genius.

Such junk ought to be agin the law, even in a country where free speech is allowed. Any 18-year-old knows the world is in a mess and that we've got to work on the problem.

I think we ought to make a new law this summer that commencement speakers are to be dependent for the rest of their lives. They spout them, they're little and cute, and can't understand why they grow up with all that irresponsibility.

In a delightful book titled "The Story of Human Emotions," Dr. George M. Lott, a psychiatrist, gives directions for making your child grow up "with a maximum of handicaps and undesirable character traits." Here are a few:

"First, do everything for the child, so he can't learn to do for himself. Lie down with him to get him to sleep. Help him to dress, and do not let him participate. Pick up after him so he won't learn to put away his toys. Usually keep him in or after he won't be hurt or get dirty. Allow no playmates of his own age, and take his side and protect him in his struggles with his contemporaries. Deny him little, so that he will expect too much.

Follow the above directions and you are guaranteed to raise a young child who will grow up to be a hypochondriac and a spoiled brat. And when in the course of human events, it becomes necessary to cut out the program strings, he'll fall flat on his face.

Franchises And the Foundation Progr'm Bear Major Burden

So, you think your school tax burden in Rowan County is heavy. In one respect you are correct—it is the maximum allowed—$13.00 on each $100 assessment.

But, in the overall total, the foundation tax is the heaviest real and personal taxes paid by the farmers and the town property owners is less than one sixth. For every dollar you pay the Sheriff in school taxes the Board of Education receives about $5.10 from other sources.

The utility companies, which have large plants running through the county, the C&O Railroad, etc. fork over more than two times what you do. All the land-owners in Rowan County pay $89,000 in franchise taxes—$199,000.

The Foundation Program sends in the big portion—$256,000. Fact is that TIT, Texas East, and the other companies which have laid the natural gas lines from Texas to the East that pass through our county, pay more than $1,000,000 in franchise taxes to the Rowan County schools than all of you other Rowan County taxpayers combined.

It is questions like this that will come up within the next few months at the Board of Education for each child in school? Breaking down the budget to find out that it costs about $190 a year for each child in grade or high school. If you are a parent of a fourth grade child, your family has obtained $9,120 in direct educational services. Now you figure, how much of that $9,120 you paid in school taxes. Your real estate assessment is a drop in the bucket.

And of course, this is about half the cost in Ohio and most other states. The Fourteenth Our Favorite Garden Party. When we were a boy we always had a garden. It was the one thing, besides parades and fireworks.

It was the time when we always had tomatoes from our garden. In our book home grown tomatoes are the finest of all vegetables (or is it a fruit?)

It will be worse Sunday when they return. The saddest thing we would have next issue is write our obituary—that you were one of those killed in this holiday traffic. Unless your business is real urgent we suggest you keep your car in the garage until Monday.

We know the above is repetition of what we write in this column before every holiday, but it is worthy of repeating many times if we can save one life.

And we again urge those who pick up a bottle or two in Ohio, or Maxville, before coming into our territory to wait until you get home before opening it.

Now It's Time To Get Going. These warm nights are bringing out the bugs. You can get a mighty tasty meal of these crackers on nearly any stream or pond.

We were talking with a half dozen farmers the other day and they were all in accord that the last thing we would eat is a bull frog.

Restrictions Cut On Narcotic Sales. District Director of Internal Revenue Win M. Gray has announced that all dealers in narcotics, as well as physicians, dentists, veterinary surgeons, and druggists, must renew their license to distribute, give away, or administer narcotic drugs to patients. This renewal must be done on or before July 15.

Further announced that penalties would be incurred by any one failing to file or renew their license on or before the date stated.

It is surprising that a public speaker will say to gain publicity, "... and this is Harry's den."

... and this is Harry's den.

Mental Health Workshop Starts At Morehead

A Workshop in Mental Health is being held on the Morehead State College campus from June 30 to July 18.

The purpose of the Workshop is to acquaint teachers with the types of mental health problems encountered in classroom or school situations.

Grass And Legume Mixtures Advised For Dairy Herds

Two pasture mixtures—each a combination of a grass and two legumes—yielded well and maintained milk production at a high rate in a three-year test by the Kentucky Experiment Station Dairy and Agronomy departments.

The mixtures were orchard grass, alfalfa and ladino clover; and smooth bromegrass, alfalfa and ladino.

The orchardgrass-legume mixture averaged 3,390 pounds of milk per acre, while the bromegrass-alfalfa-ladino mixture yielded 3,061 pounds of milk per acre.

These pastures, on which lactating dairy cows were used, also performed well in milk production, says Dr. M. M. Seath, dairy researcher. The orchardgrass-legume mixture averaged 1.83 pounds of milk a day (41-cent) milk an acre during the test. The bromegrass-legume mixture averaged 1.83 pounds of milk a day (41-cent) milk an acre during the test. ### Paducah Editor Blasts Political Fund Policy

Edwin J. Paxton, publisher editor of the Paducah Sun Democrat, Saturday called on Democratic gubernatorial candidates to take a stand against compelling state workers to contribute to political campaign funds.

In his Sunday column, Editor's Notebook, Paxton writes: "The three candidates for nomination on the Democratic ticket for governor are writing letters to friends and making personal calls asking for advice as to how to conduct their campaigns."

"We have a suggestion to every one of them: former Mayor Wilson Wyatt of Louisville, Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterford and former Justice Bert T. Combs.

"Announce right now that they will put an end to the vicious practice of many years' standing in Kentucky of compelling every state employee to contribute 2 per cent of their salaries to a fund to be used by the governor and his associates for political purposes.

"Now let's see how much political courage these gentlemen have. We think we bespeak the sentiments of every honest voter in the whole Commonwealth when we make this suggestion."

NOT ALWAYS LATE

By F. L. Rowley

ANNIE SIMPSON smiled sweetly as Gre Hopkins unlocked the front door of his general store. She followed him across the creek floor until they reached the counter. There she waited patiently until he checked the watch that turned on the big lights.

"Shoulda made you wait until morning," he grumbled. "Never in my life saw a woman who put everything off until the last minute the way you do, Annie. You know I close at nine o'clock."

"I'm sorry, Gre, but I suddenly decided to buy one of those new dresses that you got in last week."

Gre shook his head. "You too. Haven't sold new dresses so fast since I've been in business. Ever since the girls hereabouts heard that Eddie King is coming to town there's been a rush on fancy dresses. And he isn't coming until next month. What's the hurry?"

Annie blushed. "Eddie might come to town tomorrow."

"Ain't likely. He's booked for next month. And even though Eddie King's a home town I don't think he'll be spending a month here. The quiet. Those actors like bright lights and noise."

"But Eddie King is so good-looking."

"Sure, and millions of girls know it. So what chance would a girl like you have with Eddie? In you're pretty enough, I guess. The way you are always late though, even your girl in town will beak you to the station. Just like most of 'em beat you to buying dresses."

"Eddie doesn't know that," Annie said sweetly.

"No, I suppose not. But being late is a bad habit. How about that trip you took with your class last winter? The other girls are laughing over the way you missed the bus for the station."

Annie chuckled. "And I even missed the train on the way home. But you know, Gre, I did it on purpose. I had some money left."

and I was having such a grand time on the coast—no missed the train. But don't tell anyone—please."

Gre shook his head. "You're a strange girl, Annie. Oh, oh! Shirley White has just come in. No doubt she wants a new dress too. I might just as well take my sign down—nobody pays any attention to closing time any more."

"Hello Gre!" said Shirley. Saw your light on. Do I have time to pick out a dress? Well — Annie Simpson! Don't tell me you got here before the store closed!"

"She's here, ain't she?" Gre grunted.

"So I see. But of course the Eddie King book couldn't have bitten your eye—could it, Annie?"

"I think Eddie's great!" Annie said warmly.

"Well, well—looks like I've got competition," Shirley purled.

Annie held a dress at arm's length. "Does blue flatter me?" she asked.

"It might your mood—after Eddie's visit—could it, Annie?"

"You're green," Annie reminded her.

"I heard that Eddie hates you and you're always late!" snapped Shirley. She slammed the door.

"Gre threw up his hands. "Wanna see? I didn't have to make a living. I'd close the store. Talk! Talk! late customers—phooey!"

"Poor Gre," Annie said softly. "You need something to cheer you up." She reached into her purse and drew out a ring. "See that? It's my engagement ring. Who gave it to me? Eddie King. When I was three days late coming home after that trip to the coast last winter."

"Gre drew a deep breath and let out a whistle. "You mean that you and Eddie King are going to get married?" he asked.

"Right. After his booking here, and how many dresses would he have sold if every girl in town knew about that?"

Farm Facts For Kentucky Folks

Two most dangerous places in America today are the highways and the farms of the nation. The farm is doubly dangerous because it combines all the hazards of the modern home and adds electrical gadgets with those of fast moving farm machinery. Add to these the dangers of the farmer's use of firearms, danger of agitated fires and injuries resulting from handling livestock, and you find a larger per cent of injuries and deaths by accident on the farm in any segment of the American population.

Farm equipment is more dangerous than industrial machinery because much of that used on the farm—such as combine, corn plow, tractor, etc.—is used for only a few days each year, thus giving the operator little opportunity to develop a technique, or safe pattern of movement. Tractors on our hilly Kentucky fields are particularly dangerous, too.

But probably the most important factor in the dangers on the farm is the natural carelessness of many farm people long and in regular hours of work are not content with an orderly check-up of danger points, and farm people are prone to overlook little things that might cause accidents or a broken board in the barn door, rotten steps, rubbish left idly around are all booby traps of danger.

The period July 20th, has been proclaimed Farm Safety Week. It will probably pass by as another one of "those weeks" but Kentucky farm people could save many an accident, much money and probably—some lives! if they

Corn Yields Hiked With Nitrogen

Nitrogen fertilizer on corn can help increase yields significantly, says a report from the University of Kentucky.

The tests were conducted by E. C. Butler, Kentucky Experiment Station fertility specialist. The corn crop followed best results and he used 25 pounds of nitrogen per acre, and ample supplies of phosphorus and potassium to insure balanced fertilizer. Nitrogen was applied at varying rates.

On the "no-nitrogen" yield was 75 bushels an acre, with 20 pounds an acre of nitrogen fertilizer, the yield was 100 bushels an acre, it was 75 bushels.

Two Preachers Arrested At Snake Handling Services

Den," the sheriff said. Jailor J. Matt Sizemore reported that the two men said "no man can make us stop" as they were freed on bond.

One of the cultists, Mrs. Jack Ester, said she was a "member of the faith" and would handle the five-foot reptile confiscated by the sheriff "should the Lord tell me to do so."

The Kentucky National Guard has let a $75,232 contract for construction of a maintenance hangar at Capital City Airport, Frankfort.

Construction will be started during July by the Standler & Coomer Construction Co., Lexington, which was awarded the contract.

The building will serve as headquarters for maintenance of all National Guard liaison aircraft operating in Kentucky. The State has authorized 26 planes of this type.

The new building will contain about 6,000 square feet and will have a large apron. It will have space for parts and parachute storage, administration and operations. It will employ eight mechanics.

Also to be built at the Frankfort airport are an office building for the United States Property and Fiscal Officer and a warehouse. Recently completed is a new National Guard armory.

National Guard Lets Contract For New Hangar

The five-foot rattlesnake was found in a partly-erected foot square wooden box underneath a bench on which a woman was sitting.

Sizemore said he had sent his deputies to the service after members of the congregation came to his office Saturday to request protection from drunks who had disturbed them Friday night.

The deputies waited outside the building and, when no drunks appeared, went inside. When they discovered that the crowd was handling the snakes, they arrested the two preachers and the unidentified man, Sizemore said.

The sheriff said Collins and Messer continued their preaching and singing as they were being booked at Clay County jail. Their audience consisted of 30 other prisoners, most of whom had been jailed a few hours earlier for being drunk.

He said the two preachers then read aloud from Revelations 2:19: "Fear none of those things which they shall suffer. Behold the Devil shall cast some of you into prison that you may be tried. And you shall have tribulations ten days. Be they faithful unto death. I will give thee a crown of life."

After reading the scripture, the men sang "Daniel In the Lion's

Nation's Traffic Death Toll Drops

The national traffic death toll declined in May—for the ninth month in a row.

The National Safety Council so reported this week. But it coupled the good news with a recognition of the fact the season of heavy vacation travel has just begun.

There were 2,910 traffic deaths in May compared with 3,000 in May last year. The reduction was 3 per cent.

The total for the first five months of this year was 13,240. That was 7 per cent below the 14,300 recorded in the corresponding period of last year.

Disabling injuries for the first five months this year were estimated at 450,000.

"The real test is just ahead," the council said. "The Fourth of July week end will bring the biggest traffic jam of the year so far."

"We may have better legislation when we have better legislators, but we won't get them until we have better people."

Top Cigarette Tobacco Supply Will Be Lower

The Agriculture Department says supplies of major cigarette tobaccos—flue-cured and burley—probably will be lower in the 1958-59 marketing year than in the current one.

Carryover supplies are still comparatively large, the department said, but this year's production may be below the total of domestic use and exports. This projection of production assumes yields near the average of recent years.

The department said that after declining for the past few years, domestic use of cigarette tobaccos may increase a little this year and next.

The Problem of Teenage Marriages

What is the answer, or is there an answer, to the question of teenage marriages?

This is a much too difficult problem to come up with a straight "it is fall right" or "teenagers should not get married" answer. To begin with, many teenagers are too immature for marriage.

mentally they are still children. On the other hand, I have known many successful marriages where both parties were teenagers when they married. Most important, I think is for the teenager who is considering marriage to seek the advice and counsel of his parents and minister. They have the experience and ability to help the teenager with his problem.

The economic problems created by teenage marriages are many and not easily overcome. From this point of view, the teenager should take a long, steady look at the future before he or she plans a wedding.

Any young couple planning marriage must face this problem realistically. Should the boy delay the marriage until he has completed or well advanced his studies or job training? I think so.

To all teenagers, I would say, plan your future. Your marriage, your life—you will find that this planning will insure a future of happiness and not tragedy.

If you have a teenage problem you wish to discuss, write to: FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Court Rules Circuit Judges Can't Draw Increased Pay

Franklin Circuit Court ruled, Friday at Frankfort, Kentucky's 28 circuit court judges can not draw the increased salary voted by the 1956 legislature.

Chief Judge Ruscov A. Tartar of Somerset the extra $7,500 a year was pegged on the fact that one of the judges is drawing only $7,500 a year.

Atty. Gen. Jo Ferguson said the decision would be taken by the Court of Appeals, which convenes from its summer recess July 7 for some interim work.

The legislature voted to give the circuit judges an annual salary of $8,400 a year starting July 1.

At present, the state pays the circuit judges $7,500 a year but the Constitution enables fiscal courts to supplement the pay by $900—a total of $8,400.

The judges last year began seeking the full $8,400. But the Constitution prohibits a change of salary in the term to which an official is elected.

The judges were elected last November to six year terms starting Jan. 6.

The higher pay couldn't begin until the start of the new fiscal year, July 2, and to comply with the Constitution, the judges agreed with the counties in their circuits

Leroy Ferguson pitched a no-hit, no-run game to lead the Tigers to a 6-0 victory over the Pirates to open the Junior League baseball season at Jayne Stadium last week.

The Tigers won their second game and are now leading the league, with the Cubs and Cards tied for second place.

Chairman of the league, Sonny Allen, released the schedule for remainder of first half of summer's program. Allen said the league is open to youngsters 13 and included boys who will be seniors in high school this fall.

Games will begin at 4 p. m., except when a doubleheader is scheduled, when game time will be 3 p. m. Any game rained out will be played the following day.

Chances For O. Hill Road Are Improved

Martin indicates State, Property Owners Near Agreement

Chances for Olive Hill to get its Main Street highway (U.S. 60) appear better today, than at any time since a community controversy over high prices for rights-of-way.

Mr. James W. Martin, who retired Monday as Kentucky Highway Commissioner, said he had been conferring with Mayor J. A. Rayburn, and other citizens, for months trying to get the matter straightened out.

The hold-up has been reluctance of some property owners to accept prices arrived at by highway right-of-way personnel, the Ashland Real Estate Board.

Martin indicated progress had been made and "cooperation with civic minded citizens has been very much improved."

Full reports, and the file, was turned over to the new Commissioner, Ward Oates.

Olive Hill's rights-of-way problem met the headlines when accusations were made against former Highway Commissioner Bert Riser, who lives there. Gov. Chandler later said he wanted to build the Main Street, but property owners asked too much.

The new highway has been built to the west of the town for about five miles, eliminating some of the most dangerous curves on U.S. 60. At one time the state threatened to bypass Olive Hill unless some property owners reduced their asking price.

The matter has been in status quo for a year and Martin's statement Monday was the first concrete official word that progress had been made and feeling had subsided.

Canning And Freezing Both Are Economical

By Dixie Higgins
County Home Dem. Agent

When a freezer is in the home, often canning, drying and storing are forgotten. Would it be wise to use some of each method for the preservation of food?

Food produced at home logically would help toward economic home food preservation. Carefully evaluate buying food for home preservation.

It is known to have a freezer as a thrifty part of the household, there should be a turnover of food at least twice a year. No food should stay in the freezer longer than 12 months. Small amounts should be frozen with a maximum of 6 pounds per cubic feet for each 24 hours. Consider what foods freeze well. Certain varieties of fruits and vegetables produce a better tasting texture product than do other varieties. (Check Circular 527, Home Freezing of Foods, available in the County Extension Office.)

Many families still have their canning equipment. Members of the family acquired a taste for canned foods and still prefer some foods canned to frozen.

It is more economical to can along with freezing. Make a food preservation plan and decide which shall be frozen, which canned, dried or stored.

Clay Sheriff Nabs 41st Moonshine Still

Moonshine stills in Clay County, Sheriff T. C. Sizemore thinks, reproduce faster than rabbits.

Sizemore and his deputies this week captured their 41st still in six months—the 19th to be seized in the tiny Ephraim Branch section of Clay County.

This still, containing 150 gallons of mash, would have produced 15 gallons of moonshine, the sheriff said.

Officers who found the still said it had just been freshly run. They also reported seeing a barbeque hat, about 17, take to the hills as they approached.

The youth outran officers and escaped into the woods.

Now That You've Picked And Harvested Strawberries Think Of Your 1959 Crop

By Adrian M. Ryan
(Rowan County Farm Agent)

Most strawberry pickers in Rowan County have not picked their crop in 1958. They are those folks who plan to pick the same fields next year to save their labor.

Strawberry fields that are fairly clean of weeds, have no sign of vine-weevil infestation and are well weeded should, if properly taken care of, make a good yield every year. We have several fields in the county this year that were picked for the third year and returned profitable yields to the grower.

Assuming that you plan to re-use your field, following are steps to take:

1. Take a mowing machine and mow the berries off two or three inches high being sure that you do not injure the crowns of the plants. Where there is very much foliage rake this off the patch.
2. Apply 600 pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 per acre in the row area.
3. Use a small turning plow, rustras, double shovel or tractor cultivated over the soil and break up the middles leaving 18 to 20 inches of the old picking row between the new rows.
4. Pick the new row for the next year from the crowns that are left.
5. Some of the best management of the rest of the management of the patch is to continue to keep it clean as possible as you dig the first year and the second year care is taken, berry patches have been known to yield as high as 125 crates per acre in the second year.
6. Also, if you have any trouble from leaf spot, spray or sprinkle with a 4-4-50 Niponite lime mixture.

BLACK ROT SERIOUS DISEASE TO GRAPES

Black rot of grapes is probably the most serious disease which is affecting this crop. This trouble which is prevalent in this county every year can very easily be prevented with a few good sprays.

Have three mixtures that

Eagles To Play 24 Basketball Games

A rugged 24-game schedule faces the graduation ridded Morehead State College basketball team in 1958-59.

The Eagles of Bob Laughlin, with three starts at the graduation route, will have to depend on sophomores from last year's outstanding freshman in a rebuilding year for Morehead.

The Eagles, who have captured the Ohio Valley Conference crown of the past three years, finished ranked 31, Frances, Mississippi State, the colonial South-eastern Conference power which ledged the Eagles to the round of the Mississippi State holiday tourney last year. March 1st, the team was ranked 1st squad last year, Miami, Fla., Tampa, Ohio University, Morris Harvey, David Lipscomb and Bellemine.

Playing in the new Morehead Fieldhouse will be Western Kentucky, Murray State, Eastern Kentucky, Middle Tennessee, Tennessee Tech, East Tennessee, Marshall, Ohio University, Morris Harvey, St. Francis, David Lipscomb and Bellemine.

The Eagles open with six home games before venturing out of the friendly confines of the Morehead Fieldhouse to the Bradley University and the Bradley University. Howell led Mississippi State Maroons on Dec. 19.

The Morehead schedule:

- Dec. 1—Morris Harvey, Morehead.
- Dec. 4—Alummi, Morehead.
- Dec. 6—Tennessee Tech, Morehead.
- Dec. 9—David Lipscomb, Morehead.
- Dec. 13—Western Kentucky, Morehead.
- Dec. 15—Ohio University, Morehead.
- Dec. 19—Mississippi State—State College, Miss.

Glasgow Burley Market Pays Highest Average

Farmers selling at Glasgow's burley tobacco market received an average price of $62.99 a hundredweight, highest of the 1957-58 season.

This was reported by the State Agriculture Department, which said the Lexington market was the leading market in volume with 23,601,000 pounds. The Glasgow market sold the next six markets in order of tonnage were Maysville, Shelby, Carrollton, Horse Cave, Glasgow and Cynthiana.

Russellville led western Kentucky dark tobacco markets in volume and average price—6,983,020 pounds at an average of $37.20.

Agriculture Commissioner Ben Rindler, who issued the official tabulations on 1957-58 tobacco sales, reported that the crop ran less than the 1956 crop in total pounds and money for growers.

The report said a total of 274,741,414 pounds of burley went across the scales during the 1957-58 season, bringing farmers $198,342,913. The previous year, 338,291,477 pounds sold for $217,106,599. This year's average was $61.07, last year's, $63.18.

Growers of dark tobacco realized $11,483,734 for 30,175,427 pounds in 1957-58, compared with $12,853,374 and 31,722,664 pounds in 1956-57. Averages were $35.66 for 1957-58 and $39.55 for the previous year.

Kentucky has 30 burley and 10 dark tobacco auction markets.

Waterfield Climate For This Ask The Opportunity of Leadership

"More is at stake than testing the prevailing political winds. Public trust is nothing less than moral character plus the competency to go ahead. There can be no neutrality on whether Kentucky will make the most of its finest hour."

"I believe in the goals of our present programs of state government. Your must be expanded. Your expressions and your actions indicate that these also are the objectives sought by the majority of Kentuckians."

"My fervent prayer is that I may merit your active support and good will for the program I will propose in the course of my campaign. I will be responsive always to your call for democratic and capable government."

"I let us put first things first. Let us take positive steps to obtain our basic long range program."

"I pledge my utmost efforts to bring about a better industrial and business climate wherein space will be provided for all to prosper. To move ever forward in better living for ourselves and our children should be our common desire. It is not this which we really desire."

Despite Recession, State Parks Show Higher Receipts Now

If you were to judge solely by the way people are going to Kentucky's state parks for vacations and week ends you might find it hard to believe what you read about the current depression.

In fact, it is just the other way so far as the parks indicate, according to reports to Mrs. Ben Kilgore, state parks director. She said park receipts through May of this year are $100,213 ahead of that time last year and indications are that visitors during this June will outnumber those of June a year ago.

Kentucky parks got off to a late start this year, Mrs. Kilgore said, due to the late spring. However, the nationwide increase in the number of people who go to state parks for outdoor vacations began to show again by May. She predicts a big tourist year not only in Kentucky but throughout the nation despite the recession. The National Association of Travel Organizations reports the increase of recent years is continuing.

That organization finds that the public wants more camping facilities, more boat-docking facilities, more historical areas preserved as state parks and more outdoor dramas. Kentucky stands high in those respects and Mrs. Kilgore says this state surpasses all other Southern states and ranks about third in the nation.

In a few weeks the state is going to put on sale $5.5 million worth of park bonds to make improvements and attract more visitors. Mrs. Kilgore said changes will include additional cottages, improved swimming facilities, additional camping areas and recreational facilities and air-conditioning of buildings.

Mrs. Kilgore cited a number of improvements made in the past year and said the Breaks Interstate Park being developed by Kentucky and Virginia will open its picnic and camping grounds and a place to rest in about six weeks. "Including the Breaks, Kentucky has 28 state parks and shrines," she added.

The outdoor drama "Endless Waters," with narration by Conrad Nagel of a script written by Eben Henson of Danville in co-operation with Mrs. Kilgore, was started this spring at Cumberland Falls. It is presented nightly from the script on the 23rd Psalm.

Opening of Wickland, which has been the home of three governors, has added to the state's historical shrines. The Georgian type house was built in 1812 by Charles Anderson Wickliffe, 12th governor of Kentucky. His son, Robert Wickliffe, was governor of Louisiana and Charles Anderson Wickliffe's grandson, J. C. W. Beckham, twice was elected governor of Kentucky.

Mrs. Kilgore said Kenlake Hotel at Kenlake State Park already has been completely air-conditioned and that other recent improvements include a swimming pool at Levi Jackson State Park, a new boys' day camp at Kenlake Hotel, an expanded recreation program at the state park, an appointment of directors for Kentucky Dam, Kentucky Lake, Natural Bridge and Pine Bluff State Parks, and houseboats for four or six persons at Lake Cumberland, Kentucky Lake and the Dain State Parks. Also, baby sitters are provided

Simplicity
7 H.P. GARDEN TRACTOR
MODEL VB

With the power improvements to its 1958 line of garden tractors, Simplicity Manufacturing Co., of Port Washington, Wis., has added an average of nearly two-horsepower per unit to each of its three tractor models in the past five years.

This trend meets the growing public demand for equipment that will do garden and lawn chores quickly, smoothly and with abundant power, according to Simplicity dealer, Monarch Supply Store, of Morehead.

All three 1958 Simplicity garden tractors, the Models "A", "FC" and "VB", are power package units, versatile in the jobs they can tackle. These range from tilling, cultivating, lawn mowing, weed cutting and snow plowing to hauling heavy loads. All are designed for four-season utility.

This season, according to Glennis Fraley of the Monarch Supply Store, both the VB, the heavy duty model in the Simplicity line, and the middle-line FC are equipped with dualistic, two-speed axle that permits six forward and two reverse speeds. The FC has been increased from 2 1/2 to 4 h.p. and the VB from 2 to 7 h.p. The former finds a good market in the agricultural field for farmers who use it in supplementary gardening and weeding.

The VB is valuable to farmers and truck gardeners as well as municipal maintenance shops, anywhere that extreme power in tilling or earth moving and plowing is required. The VB also is a handy unit for auxiliary power for irrigation pumps, generators, compressors, elevators, concrete mixers and milking machines.

The lightest model of the line, Model "A" generates 2 1/2 h.p., and this year has a reduced (4.00 x 8) tire size to facilitate storage for the suburban home owner and small gardener who comprise the principal market for the line.

Other products of Simplicity Manufacturing Company, pioneer manufacturer of power garden equipment, are the "Roticut" rotary tiller-cultivator, and the Wonder-Boy four-wheel riding mower.

The 1958 model of the Simplicity Roticut has been equipped with pace-setting push-button reverse gear and now eliminates the back-breaking hauling away from fences, hedges and other obstacles.

In its second year, the Wonder-Boy has been speeded up 100 per cent to a top of 5 mph and furnished with a dualistic axle that permits two forward speeds and one reverse. A simple knob-actuated worm gear makes it possible to raise or lower the rotary blade without leaving the riding seat.

at the major state parks. She added that religious services for visitors and park personnel are conducted at some of the major parks.

"The idea behind the Kentucky parks is that they are good for a family vacation, good atmosphere and surroundings and recreation for every member of a family—adults and children." She added that they "are reasonably priced but not so as to underprice enterprise."

All Kentucky state parks have been opened by Gov. Chandler to Negroes as well as whites.

Auto May Save Your Life In Enemy Attack

Report Shows Necessity Of Family Car

Most families in the United States have four wheels on the road to survival. These are on the family car. How well it serves depends on the quality of its preparations—things which may spell the difference between life and death in emergency, whether from natural disaster or enemy attack, say Kentucky Civil Defense experts.

Many survival actions, especially in an evacuation, depend on the ability to move away from a probable area of danger. The car provides this ability.

The car should be kept in the best possible mechanical condition, with tires properly inflated, battery in tip-top shape, and the gas tank more than half full at all times.

Most cars today can move some 250 miles on a full tank of gasoline. While it may not be necessary to move that far at any one time under emergency conditions, it may well be a difficult problem to obtain additional gasoline for quite a while after an attack.

Gasoline can be conserved by keeping the car engine in proper mechanical adjustment and operating the car at the most efficient speed, usually between 30 and 40 m.p.h. The Federal Civil Defense Administration advises that a car can push or pull another car with little increase in gasoline consumption.

Tests under an actual atomic explosion in Nevada proved that most modern cars, especially those with turret top construction, give a degree of protection against blast, heat and radiation.

Before an attack, roll the windows down to equalize the pressures and to prevent glass breakage. Crouch or lie down, below the level of the windows. After an attack, windows should be raised to keep out as much dust as possible. If the car is contaminated by radio-active fallout.

FCDA urges motorists to keep on hand maps of the cities in which they live and of surrounding areas. In an evacuation, maps will be important, since it may be necessary for the official traffic broadcasts to route traffic over unfamiliar roads.

Important to remember during evacuation are rules of Civil Defense driving: Obey police, and other civil authorities. Pick up walking evacuees, if there is room in the car. Do not crowd or try to beat the other fellow. If the car becomes disabled, try to get off the road.

Thirty-four Northern Kentucky cities were added this week to the previously-published list of 50 observing Daylight Saving Time in the Central Standard Time Zone of Kentucky.

Carl B. Wachs, executive secretary of the Kentucky Municipal League, who reported the 34 additional cities as the League received returns from a letter poll, explained that though they are in the Northern Kentucky area, they are not in the Eastern Standard Time Zone as are Covington and Newport.

He said that the EST zone boundary is the southern tracks of the C&O running from Cincinnati to Cincinnati. Cities through which the railroad runs are entirely in the Eastern zone, but those south and west of the tracks are in the Central zone.

Wachs added that other cities may yet be added to the Daylight Saving Time list, since not all replies to the League's poll have been received. To date, the 84 cities known to be observing Daylight Saving Time, at least for this year, as shown in polls conducted by the Kentucky Municipal League and The Lexington Herald-Leader, are:

Chandler Gets Compliments Unexpectedly

Letters From Foes In Louisville Surprise Governor

Gov. A. B. Chandler got two unexpected compliments Friday.

One came from former state conservation commissioner Henry Ward, Louisville, and the other from Jefferson County Judge "B. C. Van Arsdale.

Ward, active campaigner against Chandler in the 1955 gubernatorial race, sent the governor a letter saying he wanted to join in the praise for outgoing highway commissioner James W. Martin.

"Having had an opportunity for more than 25 years to observe the good that he has done for the state," the letter said, "I have a keen appreciation of his worth."

Ward also congratulated Chandler for naming Finance Commissioner Ward J. Oates to succeed Martin.

Van Arsdale sent a letter thanking Chandler for a gift of land near Hounz Lane to be used in development of a county park.

Chandler, often at political odds with Jefferson County leaders, commented:

"It is so seldom that we get credit for the things we do for the people over there."

Massey Succeeds Gabbard At Ky. State Park

R. I. Massey, former superintendent of Levi Jackson State Park, has been named acting superintendent at Natural Bridge State Park, it was announced at Stanton by a representative of the State Parks Division.

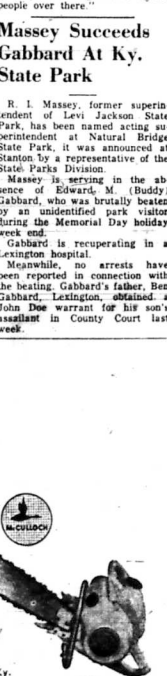

Massey is serving in the absence of Edward M. (Buddy) Gabbard, who was brutally beaten by an unidentified park visitor during the Memorial Day holiday week end.

Gabbard is recuperating in a Lexington hospital.

Meanwhile, no arrests have been reported in connection with the beating Gabbard's father, Ben Gabbard, Lexington, obtained a John Doe warrant for his son's assailant in County Court last week.

Legion Elects Kenneth Fern Commander

Flemingsburg Resident Will Head State Body

Kenneth Fern was elected department commander Sunday as the Kentucky American Legion closed its 40th annual convention in Louisville.

Fern, a rural mail carrier from Flemingsburg and veteran of five years in the Army Air Corps during World War II, succeeds William C. Allen, Marion.

Robert McEnnis, Louisville, was elected chaplain and Ralph Baker, Versailles, was named sergeant-at-arms.

The convention voted to hold the state's Southern Dixie Frolics at Paducah in 1959 rather than at Louisville as was decided last year.

The president of the nine-state group, Fred E. Homra, Fulton, said high traffic, and Louisville area were possible factors behind the shift.

The Legionnaires chose Lexington as the 1959 convention site. Dr. Daniel L. Bower, Williamsburg, department surgeon, cited the advanced age of many Legionnaires and asked members to support several aid-to-veterans projects.

Park Receipts Show Increase From Last Year

In spite of the cool spring weather, gross receipts from our State parks for the fiscal year just ending far exceed last year's total," Mrs. Ben Kilgore, director, said recently.

There were more visitors at the parks during May and June, 1958, than in corresponding months last year, Mrs. Kilgore continued.

Indications are that this will be an outstanding tourist season in Kentucky, the director added, and we are doing everything to show vacationers a good time while visiting our parks.

Mrs. Kilgore was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Rotary Club in Corbin.

Several Million To Be Spent On Atomic Plants

Several million dollars will be spent on Ohio-Kentucky atomic facilities next year—if Congress is willing.

The items are contained in a $77 million dollar atomic construction bill prepared by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Spending would be at Fernhall (near Cincinnati), Miamiport, Ohio, Portsmouth, Ohio, and Paducah, Ky.

The Portsmouth-Paducah money is lumped with an expenditure for Oak Ridge, Tenn. so an exact total cannot be made for any of the three states.

The Ohio and Kentucky expenditures are believed fairly certain to be forthcoming. They have the approval of President Eisenhower, or, unlike a number of other items in the bill.

At Oak Ridge, Paducah, and Portsmouth, $11,900,000 will be spent for additional fire protection.

The over-all objective is to reduce the vulnerability of these production facilities to potential fire hazards (and) to reduce the damage to production facilities during a minimum in case of fire, the commission said.

Ramblin' Thru Williba

Cool Days Bring Cut Worms; Crows Are Eating Most Of The Mulberries Around Williba

By Glennia Mallon

Della Hall and his woman and their youngun, Lenville, and his woman and their younguns were in Williba a few days ago to buy them a few cans of pole sallis and get some plum prazny seeds. Lenville and his woman had three younguns and they all live way out there in Louisville and he works in a big bank and helps them count their money. He said it was harder to find Williba than you would think; but it ain't much hard for me to find a tall.

The past cool days have been awful good weather for cut worms to cut things down. Most fellers are just setting around a growin' and ain't a doing nothing about the cut worm situation. They're a sure way of getting rid of cut worms and it is a way that has been used for years and years. Of course these modern fellers thinks everything has to be done in a scientific way. But if you want a get rid of cut worms, just get you a good rifle. Of course the old fashioned bow rifle is best. Go to the north end of your field and shoot a straight line toward the south. Then go to the East side of your field and shoot a straight line toward the West. This "X" that you have shot across your field of corn, tobacco, or garden will absolutely protect you from cut worm damage. Cut worms simply disappear whenever you "X" your fields with rifle shooting.

A lot of fellers are a buying 22 shells for to kill cut worms with they say and to keep the crows from eating up all the mulberries.

Mulberry pies are good. Some folks a lot of fellers are a killing the mulberry trees in 'em and the squirrel season ain't in 'em and if the crows are allowed to grub the mulberries they won't be any for the squirrels.

They ain't much damage done by big lay grub worms but the grub worms sprouts into sasafraz bushes. Most anyone can tell you of grubbing a little sasafraz bush what has sprouted right out of the back of a big grub worm. A fellow found a grub worm in Williba once what had two bushes a sprouting out of its back and he set the trees out near his house and they are still a growing there. These Extension men will tell you that grub worms makes June bugs and not sasafraz bushes but all them fellers knows just what they read in them school books. They probably don't know that a June bug is a first cousin to a tumble bug. Of course you can't plant grub worms and grow sasafraz bushes because nature didn't provide for such actions. Tractors have nearly eliminated tumble bugs.

We hate to hear of our mail boy, Ray Spencer, a being sick. He's a discuss many things with fellers but everybody will tell you that they think it's the best mail boy they ever did see.

These cool mornings in June have made us sort of envious like Sherman Adams up there in Washington. We know he can set around in that good warm vicious coat and feel right comfortable. Of course he would feel a right smart more comfortable like a them fellers who he come about with the cats. Sometimes we guess he wishes there weren't no vicanna animals nowadays.

Cats are the most noisest creatures on earth whenever they get a courting of a night. They usually do most of their sparking on some neighbor's back porch and nobody can get any sleep while these cats are in an amorous mood. One night a while back several cats got on the back porch of Virgil Hill down there at the county seat and they got to making more noise than you ever did hear. Virgil couldn't go to sleep a wink. He scatted at them several times but it didn't do no good. Finally he got up and got him a coffee sack and he aimed to go out and get them cats and put them in that sack and go over and dump them right into the Kentucky River and drown the infernal things. He stepped out on the porch and grabbed him a big old tom cat and never in his life did he grab the like of that before. That cat was all over Virgil a scratching and a biting. Virgil just couldn't turn the thing a loose. After the tom cat felt that it had taught Virgil to stop molesting cats during their sparking days, he jumped off of him and hunted up his girl friend again. That cat done enough damage to Virgil to cost him fifty dollars in doctor's bills. Cats can scratch and bite awful good.

Little Jimmy Wilson told me he wanted me to put it in the paper that he scared his dog mighty bad 't'other day. So we hope that the editors can get this in their papers 'bout Little Jimmy a scaring his little dog a right smart like he said he did.

George Lee Deaton watched preacher Duane Raye plowing in his garden with his rototiller power. Then he remarked, "Why if I had a knowed it, I could have loaned the preacher a couple of my old settin' hens and he could have held them by the tail and got more dirt stirred up than he can with that thing. Would have been cheaper too."

A lot of fellers are a fishing a dab these days but they ought to know you can't catch no fish when the Laurel are in full bloom like they are now. Fish won't bite when Laurel is in bloom.

SOCIAL SECURITY

For the first time in its history the Social Security System is paying out more in benefits this year than it is taking in from taxes and interest. Its trustees reported to Congress recently that the Old Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund will drop about $428,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, and may show a total decline of $5,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 for the five-year period ending June 30, 1962.

Filmed Records Save Money, Floor Space

Sixty-five filing cabinets of state documents are being reduced to two, without discarding any of the official papers.

Mrs. Thelma Stovall, secretary of state, who is supervising the process, does not claim to be a magician. She explains that the document shrinking is done by microfilming, which reduces an 8 1/2 by 14 inch page to the size of a postage stamp.

Mrs. Stovall says an article in the Commonwealth magazine, not only is gaining more floor space for her staff and equipment, but is saving money for the state and increasing the efficiency of her office.

Among records kept for the state by the secretary's office are:

Articles of incorporation of all firms doing business in Kentucky; executive journals, or daily accounts of all the official activity of the governor; deeds to all property owned by the state; land office records, or original titles to all land in the state; registration of trademarks; the original signed bills and resolutions of the Legislature and certified copies of Kentucky Revised Statutes; annual reports of government departments, and records of state and district elections.

Mrs. Stovall inaugurated the microfilming with the incorporation papers. The 65 filing cabinets containing them take up 270 square feet of floor space. The more than 40,000 pieces of paper in the cabinets can be put on film and stored in two cabinets taking up about 15 square feet. Other records will be filmed later.

In the process, tiny pictures on strips of film replace photostated copies of official documents at far less cost. No longer is it necessary to search through sheafs of papers or large bound volumes for a particular record. It is at fingertip and can be projected to its original size in a viewer.

LABOR BILL VOTED

The Senate has passed the Kennedy-lives labor bill. The vote was 88-1. The dissenter was Senator George W. Malone, Republican of Nevada. The bill now goes to the House of Representatives, where its future is doubtful. Most observers believe the House is not disposed to act, but a drive by the leadership could reverse that. If enacted, the bill would be the first general labor law since the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947.

Touch the pocket-book nerve and you scare some people to death.

Maybe some problems could be solved if we ran Europe and Europeans ran the United States.

They Put Their Country First!

The 56 patriots who signed the Declaration of Independence put the interests of their country above all personal considerations. Their example is still an inspiration.

ATOMIC RESEARCH LIMITED

The Administration, for reasons of economy, has drastically curtailed construction of research facilities for the Atomic Energy Commission. As a result the commission will be unable to begin work on new laboratories and research facilities that scientists in the laboratories and the commission feel are necessary to advance United States knowledge of nuclear energy.
