Offer Reward In Slaying Of Mrs. Stamper

85,000 Posted For Information Leading To Woman's Slayer

A $50,000 reward was posted this morning for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the man who is believed to have slain Mrs. Stamper...

Memorable, the district State Police officer at Morehead reported every lead had come to an apparent end...

The reward money was put up by Mrs. Stamper's estate. She was a wealthy woman and motive for the crime is believed to be that she had been placed in the best considerable sums of cash in the general store she operated at Grassy Creek...

Circumstances of the slaying are substantially this: About 7:45 on the morning of Nov. 20, Mrs. Stamper was in a black automobile, believed to be an Oldsmobile, with gasoline at the front of the store...

Forty-five minutes later her body was found by Joe Gibson, a farm hand who was bound and gagged and death resulted from strangulation and a blow on the head...

Police showed that the murderer, or murderers, were acquainted with Mrs. Stamper since she locked back doors each morning while preparing breakfast...

Almost the entire nation east of the Rockies was hit with the exception of the southeast tip of Florida. Loss was heavy in the citrus fruit sections of Texas...

No alarm was turned in at the Morehead Fire Department as trucks would have been unable to travel the about one mile road to the residence, which goes past the Herb Caudill farm...

Rising Temperature Follows Cold Wave

The cold wave which brought sub-zero temperatures over the week end to this area has apparently broken and the weatherman promised the mercury will continue to climb...

A mass of Arctic air, preceded by high winds, hit the area last night with light snow flurries. The thermometer registered below zero at Ashland Monday day. It was four below at Morehead and about the same in other parts of the region...

Fortunately, the snow was light in Northern Kentucky and highways were quickly cleared. The thermometer climbed to 48 degrees yesterday as friendly clouds of air came from the southwest.

Bullet Wound Not The Cause Of Death

Adam Holden, Blackpoint, England, carried a bullet around in his skull ever since his days as a soldier in World War I. "If it was removed," he once told his wife, "it would kill me."

He died last week at the age of 70, and everyone thought the old wound had finally caught up with him. But when a autopsy, Dr. Peter Harvey decided that Holden's death was due to weakened heart muscles. The coroner's verdict: "Death from natural causes."

Merit System Proposed For Health Division

The Kentucky Department of Mental Health is adopting a merit rating system to judge ability and performance of employees.

According to the agency's News-Service letter, "Each employee in the department—in the hospitals and in the Community Service Division—will be rated on a regular basis by his immediate supervisor on the quality and quantity of his work, his judgment, job interest, and his ability to get along with others and other things."

The Newsletter continued, "The new merit rating program will be used as one of several guides in deciding individual promotions, salary increases and possible demotions. At first, each employee will be rated twice a year, and his ratings will become a permanent part of his personnel folder."

Commissioner H. L. McPheters said, "The department needs the written rating system so that each employee's abilities may be noted and recorded. It is felt that the system places employee evaluation on a more objective basis than the rather informal method used previously."

EXTINGUISHERS Needed On Most Farms

Suitable fire extinguishers effectively located are the first line of defense against farm fires.

"Every farm should be equipped with suitable, practical hand extinguishers, well located and properly maintained," says F. R. Wilsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist.

"The proper number and location of fire extinguishers is a matter of judgment, but the farm home kitchen is a daily source of fire hazards. Wilsey reminds a fire extinguisher for the kitchen, then, is essential. A dry chemical type affords the protection against any type of fire which might occur in the kitchen. Extinguishers should also be provided for other areas in the farm home, and the location should be determined by the accessibility from other areas in the home.

"Extinguishers should be located at accessible positions in farm buildings and work areas as well as in the home," Wilsey points out. "The farm shop normally has a great number of potential fire hazards, and a fire extinguisher should be standard equipment.

"Tractors and self-propelled farm equipment should also be provided with a hand extinguisher. dry chemical type, conveniently located and without the need of operator. Many serious fires which occur in field operations can be averted and costly equipment saved with fire extinguishers on hand. Also check the farm truck, and the family automobile if

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Good Marks In School Of Lasting Value

It will turn out that there is a consistency in the performance of any individual. If he is a "B" student, he may get a "C" now and then, but he doesn't slip to the "C" student level unless he slips himself to do so.

Are grades all-important? As mentioned above, the mark earned in a course represents an evaluation, not only of what has been learned, but as well as the effort that has been put forth. Consistent as a good student, who works at it, will earn good marks.

While one poor mark doesn't make a student a poor student, every youngster should remember that every mark he earns during his school career is marked often and becomes part of an important permanent record—a record that will be part of the credentials he needs to get into college or to secure a good job.

The student who is thinking about his future will be working for better school marks today.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation you wish to make, write to FRAY ELECTRIC CO., 111 N. WASHINGTON STREET, MOREHEAD, KY.

Teenage boy says: "My folks are always furling about my grades in school. I can't understand why it's so earth-shattering if I get a 'C' instead of a 'B' in some course. Learning something should be as important as the mark you get on a test."

Learning is the important thing, but the grade or mark earned is important because it represents an evaluation of what has been learned. If you have

New Building Regulation Is In Effect

Persons planning to construct or modify a public building now must fill out a new survey sheet to be forwarded by local health departments to the Kentucky Department of Health's plumbing division.

Submission of the sheet is a step in assuring that installation and operation of plumbing in public buildings complies with the state plumbing code.

New information required concerns products handled or manufactured, number of employees and customers, distance from water source to possible source of contamination, waste products expected and possible amount each day and percolation test results.

Other information required includes name and address of owner; type and location of establishment; source and treatment of water; volume of water to be used monthly and sewage disposal methods.

In addition, the survey sheet lists detailed instructions for submission of building plans, which with the above must be submitted in triplicate.

Public buildings are those included for public use or built with public funds and include schools, industrial establishments, housing projects, restaurants, food handling establishments, private clubs, theaters, retail parks, camping areas, hospitals, nursing homes, hotels and rooming houses.

Spacing Of Berry Plants Held Advisable

Spacing strawberry plants one-by-three feet in beds proved best of four spacing methods used in a Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station test this year.

The one-by-three bed produced 216 crates of two-quart containers per acre, says Carl Chaplin, horticulturist.

Second best was a one-by-one spacing which yielded 171 crates, while the one-by-one spacing, while the conventional four-by-two spacing produced 454 crates.

Horticultural Chaplin said, while spaced beds are on one-by-one spaced beds, removal of runners in the growing season was "quite difficult." Until chemical materials can be developed to control the runners, or in labor factor be another way, close planting will require considerable labor.

In the one-by-one bed, Chaplin kept the runners trimmed all seasons. On the one-by-three, the mother plant was allowed to produce two daughter plants; on the one-by-one, two.

On the one-by-one spacing, two daughter plants, while the four-by-two beds were allowed to become the standard method.

Mulching with plastic was no particular benefit on one-by-one but did keep down weeds, Chaplin found. He said production in all spacings was about the same, but the one-by-three yielded 156 crates (an acre) was significantly better than the other spacings.

Era Of Passenger Trains In America Nearing End

When it comes to trains, most men (and some women) have a soft spot in their hearts. Every father wants junior to get his Christmas train set each year so that he can supervise the operation of the train, the laying of tracks, etc.

However, it must be admitted that the day of the passenger train is coming to an end. Even the government—through one of its studies by the Interstate Commerce Commission—has predicted that by 1975 there will be only a few commuter passenger trains left in operation.

But as for going from New York to Los Angeles, or New York to Chicago or Miami, or Dallas, or the like, the time consumed will be too great. A jet will be making the cross-country run in three and a half hours, or less. The train ride would consume three days. The conclusion is obvious.

Nevertheless, the trains and the railroad system of the country will continue to be valuable for freight purposes. But since trains are moving in to the freight class almost exclusively, new thought must be given to the problem caused by grade crossings.

In some cities, trains (freight or passenger) are still allowed to block several highway or main street traffic arteries for long periods of time. This is now a relic of the times ago. Just about everyone these days travels by automobile. In some cities, the time and a freight train, or shifting engine with a string of freight cars, should no longer be permitted to disrupt the transportation of tows and autos, inconveniencing hundreds or thousands of people, sometimes for half hour or more.

Coffee Breaks In Labor Issue

The Chrysler Corporation recently ran into a hassle with some 7,000 workers over working conditions, one of the issues being the question of coffee breaks. The thing was settled over 40,000 workers struck and car production was held up for eighteen days.

In the end the union was guaranteed two twelve minute breaks a day and another five minutes off every two hours. After the dispute had been settled, the workers went back to work and the company was able to operate again. A serious loss, however, inevitably results from such a situation.

As far as coffee breaks are concerned, we will be termed reactionary, but the idea that management must pamper workers, provide them unemployment benefits when they are laid off, raise their pay whether or not prospects or profits warrant it, etc., goes some. A break a day would be fine. Maybe two a day (an eight-hour day) would be all right.

But five minutes every two hours plus twelve minutes for happy coffee time every morning and afternoon approaches the hour itself. What that means is that workers are being paid to sit paid for eight hours while working about seven. The ruler of France came from the fire of his works totally deteriorated. The strength of Germany, today and yesterday, is in the willingness of the people of Germany to work.

The strength of America has been the willingness of workers to do their jobs. They get things they are on the job. With a forty-hour week, many fringe benefits, ample machinery to make work easy in many cases, we do not think an eight-hour work day, with thirty minutes off for lunch, plus a couple of short breaks a day (five or ten minutes) would hurt anyone.

Eating Contests Another Fad

One of the woes of this existence is the vogue in some sections to stage eating contests. Some stunt man or other comes up with an idea to stage a contest to see who can eat the most and there are, often, enough spectators in the vicinity to provide the human element necessary.

To glut one's stomach with an overload of food is dangerous from the standpoint of good health and a bad example for those seeing the "contests." Of course, we don't suppose any great harm is done as a usual thing, but a man did die not too long ago after overeating in competition with others. So it can happen.

Doctors unanimously agree that overeating (the over-eating or other excesses) is bad for the heart, and bad for the body in general. Thus eating contests are strictly for the birds. And, there are enough unannounced contests going on daily at American dinner tables (with melancholy results) to suffice, we think, as far as these contests are concerned. We Americans are the most over-fed, unexercised people of the major countries of the world. A more sensible diet and more exercise would do nicely plenty of us much good.

"Women of America tell the nation's home builders they want wider doors."—Press report. Many of them probably find it embarrassing for their mother to see them trying to turn sideways to get through the front door.

Eastern State Hospital Is Proud Of Record Last Year

Editor, The News:

Truly this has been a Christmas with the spirit of Christ has been made known to our entire "hospital family." Friends in the local community and many in the other 39 counties of our districts have sent gifts. A present with the name of the individual on it was given to each of the 1,612 patients at Eastern State Hospital. In a large hospital, individuality means a great deal.

Many have provided special parties and entertainment and the patients' friends have visited and given of themselves. Our employees have also given of their means and worked many extra hours over-time this special season, one that will long be remembered by all of us. Thank to each of you and may you have a prosperous New Year.

Here at Eastern State, we have approximately 100 less patients than a year ago. Early treatment of mentally ill persons is advisable and as soon as they have received sufficient treatment to go home, arrangements are made for their release. Anyone desiring to obtain information about the admission of a patient to a hospital should contact the Social Service Department. Workshops are being held for the public health nurses in our district and they can be

Liked Policy Of Rowan County News

Editor, The News:
While attending a writer's workshop at Morehead State College it was my opportunity to read the Rowan County News and I liked it very much.

Your people should be proud of having a newspaper like this. You are to be particularly commended for: 1. Knowing what would go in a newspaper. 2. As apparent full knowledge of your town, county and your region. 3. Treatment of the local news and the great amount you carried. 4. Recognition of what the general public needs. Morehead State College, means to your town and Eastern Kentucky. 5. A knowledge of who the people are in the community who get things done and have real civic interest, and properly publicizing those people.

REMEMBERING WITH LES STEWART

Vermont Was Not One Of Original States

By R. Lee Stewart
Samuel de Champlain was perhaps the first white man to enter the state, now Vermont, and the name was suggested by some unidentified person naming it Vertigone (French for Green Mountain).

Vermont, like Texas, was an independent republic. She controlled her own money and naturalized citizens of foreign countries, such as New York. Independence still the quality most prized by the people. Historians claim Vermont was the first state to have in all history to make every claim of human slavery unlawful, and the first state in the union to give every male citizen the right to vote.

Vermont is so solid and substantial in its qualities that many people are under the impression that Vermont was one of its original states. It was admitted into the Union March 4, 1793, as the 14th.

In the Saratoga campaign, Vermonters fought as allies rather than as a part of the Continental Army. As a club to compel recognition as a state, the government of Vermont bought the idea of joining Great Britain and Ethan Allen and his brother, Ira, negotiated the exchange of prisoners with the authorities of Canada.

Claig Sprout

Dear Mister Editor:
I was at the country store Saturday night Ed Doolittle was giving us a piece of his mind on what he thought about the new Congressmen messing in the dental profession.

Back during the war Ed got hissed a set of store teeth from a mail order house. Ed says the upper has got broke up over the years on account of him eating so much store bought meat, so he ordered himself some new upper.

He got a note from the mail order house saying it was now a piece of law to send store teeth through the mail. It seems a Congressman from Georgia ordered a complete set from some company and they sent him two uppers and no lowers. When he tried to get his teeth set out, the mail order house had done gone out of business. So this Congressman writes his opinion on things to send store teeth through the mail no more. Ed was mighty upset about it if he had he wouldn't even mess with store bought teeth.

Under our system of Government ever jackass has got a right to express his opinion on things that's going on in the country. I'd like to express mine about this lecture tour over here. He's in the time ain't far off when nobody but the few farmers who are allowed to vote the law. He says they've had that system in England since 1259. If England is so glad to swap us their kind of ideas for the money we're sending over there, she can keep her ideas and we'll keep our money.

According to his plan, only the farmer and rancher that worked

THE EDITOR'S PEN

Final tabulations won't be available until the end of the month, but the conclusion is happily impressive. The weather bureau published itself as a burly marketing center for this area of Kentucky.

The Morehead Warehouse will handle over four million pounds, the price was high and farmers are praising the treatment they received. Messrs. Sanders, Con. Foster, Dykes, etc. have done a good job.

This was a critical year for the wheat and corn harvests is almost a certain guarantee that the warehouse will increase right substantially next season.

This warehouse is the culmination of achievement through community effort, unwavering confidence, dogged determination, and the confidence of the mountain grower.

Did You Overlook This Year's Present?
It has been our custom each year to issue a list of names giving a little present each or otherwise to Morehead's three school collectors who don't make much money, but performing a mighty fine job of removing our dirt and rubbish.

But, in our Christmas edition this year we overlooked this little, but somewhat important, matter. If you didn't send the garbage collectors anything you can still do so. Write to Morehead, Ky. Why don't you mail them a little check today, explaining as we did it was an oversight. The address is City Hall.

Morehead May Be Relief Center
If a storage building of 40,000, or more, cubic feet can be obtained Morehead will soon be the distribution center for federal relief supplies in nine counties of the region.

Efforts are being made to secure a coach which will be adequate for about 11,000 people. The government is presently making cheese, dried milk, etc.

The warehouse must be large enough to hold a 60 day supply and preferably be near the C&O Railroad as the commodities are shipped to Morehead by rail.

Don't Believe
Some of our informed friends give "Don't Believe" forecasts which we pass along. A Kentucky college basketball coach whose last name starts the same as an infidel for the Cincinnati Redlegs, will soon resign. (One of Cincinnati's infidels is McMillan.)

Morehead College's new football coach will have the same last name as a coin. Well, there's a nickel, penny, quarter and a dollar.

The local lineup in the Democratic Governor's race will be announced in the next few days. Governor (We'll let you know in about a week whether there's anything in this.)

A nearby banker will soon announce for State Treasurer. (Who could it be?)

Frankly, we take all the above with a grain of salt, but you might just know what they are talking about. We'll wager though we have better sources of information than they.

Come At An Appropriate Time
During the second half of the Morehead-Bellarmine basketball game Monday evening some boys placed a lighted firecracker in a garbage can in the foyer of the fieldhouse. It sounded like a 44. The score was tied at the time. Morehead went on to make quick points and ate out a sloppy and probably unexcused victory. The firecracker was not nearly so disconcerting to the fans as was the Eagles performance.

These Warnings
Kentucky's Department of Agriculture is constantly issuing warnings to be careful, and sure of your ground, when dealing with one of these pest control contracts. Last week they revealed the illness of the West Kentucky Termite Control Co. Ovestashop.

For "defrauding the public through the use of deceptive business by misrepresentation of property damage."

This thing looks a lot like the old lightning rod deal that rotted so many a people, particularly farmers, a few years ago.

Pictures Didn't Arrive In Time
We had hoped to use the same pictures this week that the Courier-Journal did about Rowan County's first fire. The pictures were taken by Wallace Forestry Award and a $500 check, but the plates didn't arrive in time.

Mr. and Mrs. Caudill and their family deserve all possible credit for their fine work in Rowan County. Their many achievements result from hard work and a few dollars' worth of recommended farming practices.

The Pictures Has Changed
When the Mercury hit four below zero at Morehead Monday morning people were warm in their homes and businesses. The gas supply was more than ample in nine counties of the region.

We thought back to about 12 years ago when our source of natural gas was a few, inadequate North Fork wells. Everytime a cold wave hit people started erecting coal heaters and most of us nearly froze.

We are further reminded of attending a controversial hearing in Washington which resulted in the Federal Power Commission granting Morehead the right to purchase TGT gas, eliminating its contract with the concern that provided little but hot air.

The opposition produced voluminous records and charts on underground gas flow, pressures, etc.

When Curt Hitchcock, a local business man, testified, he was asked if he knew anything about these charts and such technical matters.

"No," Curt replied. "But, I do know when I'm cold."

The statue, grained broadly by this and this editor knew that Morehead had won its case. The decision that gives you the gas you are burning today.

Eagles Face Three Foes During Week

The 'on-again' and 'off-again' Morehead College Eagles have three basketball games scheduled during the week, two of them important matches against an Ohio Valley Conference foe.

Bob Laughlin's unpredictable cagers journey to East Tennessee this (Thursday) evening, meet St. Francis, of Pennsylvania, at the Fieldhouse Monday and collide with East Tennessee again on the Morehead floor next Thursday.

The Eagles are favored, according to Dunkel ratings, in all three skirmishes, but if they perform as they did Monday against Bellarmine the Moreheadians could lose them all.

Morehead finally eked out a 67-61 victory over the Bellarmine Knights from Louisville in a comedy of errors.

The Eagles clearly showed the effects of a two weeks' lay-off during the holidays and ended with the poorest shooting percentage of any Morehead team in years.

Star Thornton Hill made 17 points, but with his normal accuracy could have accounted for 30 and blown the game wide open. His teammates were also definitely state and Laughlin used every possible combination in an effort to shake them from their delirious rump.

All that saved Morehead was a sloppy game by the Knights who just lost eight of their nine games this year.

Morehead now has a 5-2 record, but haven't been showing anything like they did in two good performances against Western and Ohio University.

Rudy Montgomery, Bellarmine's 6-3 stand-out, was high point man for the evening with 24.

Youth Afflame As He Jumps From Burning Home

Minutes after a father started a fire in the kitchen stove of his farm home near Orange City in Fleming County at 6 a. m. Friday flames enveloped the house and transformed Joseph Reeves, Jr., 20, into a living inferno.

With his night clothes blazing, the youth jumped from the second story bedroom window onto the frozen ground.

The roof was about to collapse before the boy jumped, the father was quoted as saying.

The victim's death was the second tragedy that had befallen the heartbroken parents Joseph and Bessie Reeves. On April 25, 1954, their 13-year-old daughter, Dixie Jean, drowned in Fox Creek, near Fairview while swimming in the waters of a stream giving into the Licking River.

Homestead Park Has Lincoln Lore

Repository of fact, legend and relic of Abraham Lincoln's childhood in Kentucky is Lincoln Homestead State Park, Springfield, and surrounding country.

In this park are replicas of the cabin of Lincoln's grandmother, Bersheba, and the house where lived Nancy Hanks when wooed by the president's father, Thomas. Bersheba Lincoln built her cabin shortly after moving to Washington County and in it raised five children, including the president's father.

The other two-story building is a replica of the house of Francis Berry, who gave a home to his cousin, Nancy Hanks, when she was 10. She lived there until her marriage to Thomas Lincoln in 1806. The Berry home was moved from nearby Bechtold and reconstructed in the park. A wooden stand before the fireplace was actually used by Nancy Hanks.

Some say Thomas and Nancy were married in the Berry house; others claim the marriage took place in a cabin at Beech Fork, now moved to Harrodsburg.

In the county clerk's office in Washington County Court House, Springfield, are the marriage bond of Thomas Lincoln, signed by him, and the certificate of the Rev. Jesse Head, who performed the ceremony. Other records include tax lists and original signatures and marriage bonds of other members of the Lincoln family.

At the county clerk's office at Bardonia, is a document showing the president's grandfather, Abraham Lincoln, was a resident of Washington County when killed by an Indian. This is an arrangement of his estate.

The Jews Are Being Gathered Back To Palestine

Read the 36th chapter of Ezekiel. Verse 26 declares the work of God concerning Israel in these last days. "For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land." For years that they would never return to possess their land again. But God must be true though every man be found a liar, and today we are an independent nation for the first time in 2,500 years. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon carried her away captive in 605 B. C. at the beginning of the "times of the Gentiles," that is, the period during which Jerusalem and the land were to be in the hands of the Gentile (or heathen) nations. Read the words of Christ in Luke 21:24. "And they (the Jews) shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations; and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." But Israel was so judged because she received not the Lord Jesus Christ as her Saviour and King. As a nation, she is still blinded to the gospel, but Romanism shall be broken down of the Lord Jesus Christ as her Saviour and King. What are the "Christian Churches"?

One of a series of reports about the Christian Churches (Division of Christ, the largest religious body in America)

THEY ARE usually called "The First Christian Church of Your town."

Today we see a "brotherhood" of more than 4,000 churches, with more than two million members in the United States and Canada.

Our "brotherhood" had its beginnings in America in the early 1800's — to work for two goals:

First was to realize the ideal of the early churches of the New Testament. We have never created special creeds, and we have felt each individual should be free to interpret the Bible for himself.

Second was to work for real unity among all Christians. We have led in promoting Christian cooperation among all Christians (the "ecumenical" movement) for we believe that all share the same basic beliefs.

We hope you will feel a warm welcome in any one of our churches. The door of every Christian Church is open to you.

Panel Plans To Help Children Choose Career

Helping children choose a career will be the subject of a special session at the 47th annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Jan. 27-30.

To discuss principles and practices of career selection, a panel of five Kentucky educators have been selected. They are Dr. Doris Soward, UK dean of women; Dr. John Chenuit, UK counseling director; Dr. Leroy Ulrich, Centre College dean; T. T. Knight, Louisville Southern High School principal; and Dr. Curtis Phipps, State Department of Education. The session will be held Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 28. Dean Stanley Wall of the UK College of Agriculture and Home Economics said:

"Youngsters, particularly high school youngsters, lack much knowledge in how to choose careers. They need assistance in answering such questions as how to find out what careers are available, what type of education they need to prepare for such a career and where they can get information on education needed for their chosen careers."

Name Ringo To Key Post For Waterfield

Frenchburg Editor Will Organize State's Young Democrats

JERRY RINGO

Jerry F. Ringo, one of Kentucky's bright young civic leaders and businessmen, will direct the organization of young Kentuckians in behalf of Harry Lee Waterfield's campaign for governor.

Carroll Hubbard, Jr., an outstanding senior at Georgetown College, will organize the students of voting age in colleges and high schools.

Joseph J. Leary, campaign manager for Lt. Gov. Waterfield this week announced that Ringo will be state chairman of Young Kentuckians for Waterfield, and that Hubbard will be co-chairman of the Committee of Young Kentuckians.

Ringo is the 22-year-old publisher of the Menifee County Journal, a biweekly at Frenchburg, and has served as national vice president of the Future Farmers of America and as president of the Kentucky FFA. He is a senior in the University of Kentucky School of Journalism.

Hubbard, 21, of St. Matthews, is editor of the Georgetown week newspaper of Georgetown College; president of the college's chapter of Kappa Alpha fraternity; and is listed in the Who's Who of America Colleges and Universities.

Leary described Ringo and Hubbard as "two of Kentucky's distinguished young men," and added: "We are proud to have with us two young men who are so dedicated to Kentucky's advancement. They are intensely interested in helping develop our state and in assisting the cooperation of other young men and women who are doing their best future in Kentucky."

A young college woman will be appointed soon as the other co-chairman of Hubbard's committee. Ringo's talents as a public speaker and leader began appearing in 1952 when as a freshman in Frenchburg High School he served on a debating team which won the state debating tournament. He won the state FFA public speaking contest in 1953, was the Kentucky winner of the National Forensic League extemporaneous speaking contest in 1954, and captured the Kentucky and national championships of the American Farm Bureau Talk Meet in 1955.

In 1956 he was the keynote speaker at President Eisenhower's Safety Conference in Washington. Last fall Ringo spent two and a half months traveling in Japan and the Philippines as a representative of the U. S. Department of State's Educational Exchange. He was chosen for the assignment from among 380,000 members of the Future Farmers of America.

At the age of 19, he attended the Democratic National Convention in Chicago and was the youngest delegate in the convention's history. He also is publisher of the Young Rural Kentuckian, a farm youth magazine; an advisory director of the Kentucky Industries Trust Company, Louisville; and congressional chairman of the Frenchburg United Presbyterian Church. He is the son of Mrs. Bernice Ringo of Rothwell, Menifee County.

There has been considerable secrecy by the White House on the new flag just to keep flag manufacturers from getting advance word, Hagerty said.

David Finley, chairman of the House Select Committee on the new flag design that would have made it even easier to add a 50th star. But Hagerty said it was not selected because a flag manufacturer had been advertising just that design for two or three months.

The design the manufacturer was plugging as his own on stationery and ads, Hagerty said, would have provided for four rows of six stars each, alternated with five rows of five stars each.

Robison Says He Would Be Aspirant

Rep. John Robison, Jr. (R-Ky.) said this week he would seriously consider running for governor of Kentucky if he is convinced of substantial grassroots desire that he be a candidate.

Robison, defeated by Democrat Frank B. Rowan in his re-election bid in November, said he had heard nothing about a draft movement when he left Kentucky a week ago to wind up his affairs in Washington.

"I have no idea of running for governor," he told a reporter, "I announced in November that I was out of politics and did not plan to run for political office again."

Robison said during the past week there appeared to have been a movement to draft him into the Republican race for governor in the May primary.

Seven Rows Of Stars In New Flag

President Makes Final Choice After Study Of Several Designs

The new U. S. flag, chosen with an eye to the addition of a 50th state, has 49 stars arranged in seven rows of seven, with the over-rows indented.

President Eisenhower unfurled the new design last week at a money-proclaiming Alaska 50th state.

By law, the familiar 13 red and white stripes, depicting the 13 original states, remain unchanged but a new star must be added for each new state.

Other Proportions Unchanged
Except for the change in the stars, the proportions of the overall flag and the canton or field of blue remain the same.

The old flag, with its six rows of eight stars each, set in a blue field, makes way for the new version which comes into official use July 4.

The White House announced that display of the new flag before July 4—the anniversary of U. S. independence—would be improper.

And it said the present 48-star flag can be flown beyond the July 4 date as long as they are not being used.

Approved Flag Last Friday
The President approved the new flag design at his Gettysburg, Pa., home last Friday on the advice of a four-man committee including the secretaries of state, defense, treasury and the chairman of the Fine Arts Commission.

Eisenhower flew to Washington by helicopter to make the new flag official, signing the executive order with six pens. A new flag, made by the Army Quartermaster Corps and standing lightly furled in a standard, was then stretched to the length by the President for the first public display.

Eisenhower noted that he is the first president to get an opportunity to add a state and star since 1912. The flag was changed then to add stars for the states of New Mexico and Arizona.

Is Nation's 26th Flag
The flag displayed last week—the nation's 26th—might have been different if it weren't for an unidentified flag manufacturer.

While House Press Secretary James H. Hagerty said the President told Robert Atwood, chairman of the Alaskan Statehood Commission, that there was another new flag design that would have made it even easier to add a 50th star. But Hagerty said it was not selected because a flag manufacturer had been advertising just that design for two or three months.

The design the manufacturer was plugging as his own on stationery and ads, Hagerty said, would have provided for four rows of six stars each, alternated with five rows of five stars each.

There has been considerable secrecy by the White House on the new flag just to keep flag manufacturers from getting advance word, Hagerty said.

Alaska Officially Our 49th State
Alaska became the 49th state of the Union Saturday by proclamation of President Eisenhower.

The President signed the historic document at midnight of the new 49-star flag at a five-minute White House ceremony.

The time coincided with the expiration of the 85th Congress which approved Alaskan statehood after a 23-year struggle by the vast territory to the northwest.

position, he recalled, "We forced on the Pentagon last year an extra 600 million dollars for Polarix missiles. They resisted it, but now they are going ahead with the program as we financed it."

He voiced concern over the capability of the Army to fight a limited war, asserting that "the Army has been putting major stress on the big punch, and I wonder if we have neglected the possibility of little wars."

Mahon said he has observed "no change in the world situation that would lessen or modify our problems."

"We are still confronted with the threat of communism," he said. "We can not afford to relax, regardless of the cost."

What 2 Prominent Farmers Say About The Morehead Tobacco Warehouse

This Voluntary

Statement By Mr. Clevever And Mr. Howard Is Typical Of What Hundreds Of Growers Have Said About The Warehouse Built To Serve The Farmers Of Eastern Kentucky

We both grow tobacco in Elliott County and heard and read much about the establishment of a warehouse at Morehead by serve Eastern Kentucky farmers.

We decided to sell our entire crop this year at Morehead. It was a wise move and on other markets, but never have we received the kind of courtesy and fair treatment as we did this time. We intend to sell our crops at Morehead next year and urge every farmer to do the same.

The service we received at Morehead was excellent, and so different from that we got sometimes in the past on other markets that didn't seem to care much for the mountain grower.

Our crops brought $69.46 and $67.87 at Morehead this year.

Steady, But Not Too Rapid, Increase In Business Is Foreseen For Coming Year

A government-sponsored survey of the 1959 outlook for industry points to a steady but not spectacular rise in business activity. The Commerce Department has made public a far-ranging consensus of expert opinion pin-pointing three elements as the key to anticipated improvement in the new year.

1. A predicted 30 per cent increase in auto production.
2. Record activity in the construction field—the nation's biggest single industry.
3. A prospective continuation of the strong recovery in steel output.

The report, reflecting sentiment in both government and industry gave this appraisal of the auto outlook:

"The skies are clearing in this industry whose operating level affects so vitally many segments of the U. S. economy. Production of 9½ million passenger cars was forecast—a 30 per cent rise over 1958's 10-year low. A 20 per cent increase in truck production, to 1 million units, was foreseen.

All of this, the department said, bodes well for four industries which get most of their business from the auto makers—metal, glass, rubber and upholstery leather.

The report said construction activity will top 50 billion dollars for the first time and mark a new high in physical volume as well as dollar volume.

Advance estimates put construction spending at $52,300,000, up 1 per cent from 1958. Construction of about 1,200,000 new homes was predicted.

Public construction, including road building, is expected to jump 14 per cent while private building is figured for a 4 per cent gain. This expansion will be reflected in rising sales of building materials and heating equipment, the department said.

Ingot production of steel was forecast at 105 to 110 million tons up from 85 million tons in 1958 but still below the 1955 record of 117 million tons.

The report said this forecast "assumes no major strikes in steel-producing raw material or steel-consuming industries." It conceded that midway negotiations on a new industry contract with the steel workers union "could inject a new element into the picture."

Improving business conditions plus inventory buildups were cited as the basis for the expected rise in steel output.

Hoover Leaves For Month's Fishing

Former President Herbert Hoover left Sunday for a month's fishing on Florida's keys.

Hoover, 84, flew in a National Airlines jet plane, his first flight in such a craft.

He left praising the Soviet's new rocket, saying, "It is a great scientific accomplishment and credit ought to be given to Russian scientists."

BUILDING FUTURE LEADERS—Local Scout officials explain that you can write your name in the heart of a boy by contributing to the $250,000 camp development for the Boy Scouts of the Blue Grass Council. By your gift, you give your wholehearted support to thousands of boys who take this oath in the future: "On my honor, I will do my best: To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law; to help other people at all times; and to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

Mother Of Year Sought In Kentucky

The search is on for Kentucky's 1959 "State Mother of the Year."

She will be selected from nominations sent to Mrs. Harry Peters, Trenton, Ky., chairman of the American Mothers Committee for Kentucky. Nomination blanks are being distributed statewide to women's organizations, religious groups, individuals and others.

"When the Mother of 1959 is selected she will be especially honored in her own state with a citation at a ceremony, Mrs. Peters said. The Kentucky mother will be eligible for selection as American Mother of 1959 which will be made by the American Mothers Committee from the state winners.

The state and national mothers are chosen each year, Mrs. Peters said, "as symbols of ideal motherhood, to emphasize the importance of the role of the mother in the home, the community, the nation and the world, and to highlight the career of motherhood."

The primary objective avowed by the committee is "to develop and strengthen the moral and spiritual foundation of the American home."

Mrs. Peters appointed these district leaders to aid with distribution of nomination blanks: Mrs. Ernest Hilliard, Clinton; Mrs. Ruth Galloway Moss, Bowling Green; Mrs. Ruth Scott, Irvington; Mrs. Harriet Akers, Carrollton; Mrs. R. C. Mohler, Richmond; Elizabeth Holiday, Jackson; Mrs. Gertrude Hilton, Mt. Vernon, and Mrs. Grady Schneider, Louisville. Mrs. Moberly was state mother in 1945 and Mrs. Holiday in 1958.

Hinton Participates In Army Maneuvers

Army Pfc. Morris D. Hinton, whose wife, Marjorie, lives on Route 3, Morehead, recently participated with the 4th Armored Division in combat efficiency training tests in Germany.

Hinton, a radio operator in Headquarters Company of the division's 32d Armor in Erlangen, entered the Army in May 1957 and completed basic combat training at Fort Hood, Tex.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1957 graduate of Morehead High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Hinton, live in Haldeman.

Public Should Fully Accept Alcoholism Is Mental Illness And Treat Disease As Same

By J. Collis Ringo, Executive Director, Ky. Commission on Alcoholism

It is the consensus that public acceptance of alcoholism as an illness and understanding that alcoholics can be helped is essential to progress in combating the problem.

The known fact that clergyman and physicians are most likely to be consulted first is being capitalized in Kentucky. During Jan. 9-23 a three-day seminar on alcoholism, limited to members of the clergy, will be held at Eastern State Hospital at Lexington. Dr. Seilen Bacon, director of the Center of Alcohol Studies at Yale University, will lead this institute. Dr. Robert Straus, professor of medical sociology at the University of Kentucky and a former member of the staff at the Yale Center, will deliver two lectures. Other nationally recognized authorities in the field of pastoral counseling on alcoholism will conduct classes.

The advance registration for this institute has exceeded expectations and assures the commonwealth at least 25 competent counselors in strategic geographical locations. Any clergyman interested in attending this institute can get full details from Rev. Leonard Morgan, supervising chaplain in Eastern State Hospital.

In April, 1959, the general practitioners section of the Kentucky Medical Society will devote a portion of its annual state meeting at Louisville to alcoholism. Dr. Donald Brodie of Indianapolis, a former member of the Indiana Commission on Alcoholism and a medical authority on the subject, will deliver two addresses to this group.

This public recognition by these two highly placed professional groups is heartening. Their willingness to accept the responsibility of positive action are important steps toward the ultimate goal. 1959 will see further progress in public acceptance of alcoholism as a treatable illness. No one yet knows why six or seven out of every hundred who drink become victims of alcoholism but knowledge that they are ill people, not moral degenerates, will speed the seeking of help, a return to normal living.

Soaring Population Seen By Kiplinger

A 20 per cent increase in population and a soaring birth rate is predicted for the next decade by the Kiplinger organization in its annual report on population and business growth in the United States, released this week.

The "Soaring Sixties" will bring another wave of economic expansion and further shifts in the habits and needs of the population. For this country, Kiplinger says, in the late 60's population will be 1958 total of 175 million. And the birth rate will jump from an average of 19 million babies to a five million a year.

"Also more babies per family. Parents used to want two . . . now want three. The trends have been well established and there is nothing in sight to change them," the report says. "This means among other things, a much greater market for children's goods, a demand for bigger houses with more bedrooms."

"The coming high tide of marriages is now only three years off. Children born in the 60's, when the spectacular high birth rate began, will marry in the 60's, pushing the marriage rate a third above today's rate. Average marriage age probably will continue about as now, men at age 23, women at age 20.

The result of this high marriage rate will be a stepped-up demand for houses, furniture, home appliances, cars and all the other things that are needed to equip new families.

According to the Kiplinger report, "By the late 60's, there will be 20 million oldsters, over 65. Now there are 15 million. Length of widowhood will be about what it is now, nine years."

The future will see 75 million

Christmas And New Year's Means That Druggists Will Do Big Business In Aspirin

By Clement Mellon Christmas is over and most headaches have cleared up and the strong desire for good cold water early in the morning is almost gone. Much cold water, no doubt, were swallowed to cool that sickened burning stomach and many little aspirins were swallowed to relieve that head containing millions of little demons with their hammers and chisels trying desperately to chisel themselves out of a hard, thick skull. Even New Year's is over and many well used resolutions standing out in made resolving not to let things get out of control no more like they did during Christmas.

Do you think you have enjoyed yourself? How will you spread your goodwill among your community?
 Maybe you can do better next year.
 You make your resolutions. Now stick with them. Help them along.
 You have to have a more joyful
 Christmas next year.

President Eisenhower gave gen-spending top priority at a conference with Republican congress-

Cooper Proposes Debate Limit Vote

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) suggested this week the Senate make it possible to cut off debate by a three-fifths majority vote.

His figure popped up as a possible compromise in the impending Senate battle over changing the filibuster rule. Southern senators generally are fighting to keep the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of all senators to limit floor debate.

Cooper's suggestion calls for a less drastic change than one put forth by some of the group of self-styled liberal-conservatives who have nominated him for Senate GOP leader in opposition to Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.).
 Two of the GOP insurgents, Sen. Clifford Case (N.J.) and Jacob K. Javits (N.Y.), have teamed up with Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) and Hubert Humphrey (D-Min.) on a proposal to allow a majority vote of the 8 senators after 15 days.

Cooper, in a radio-TV interview, said he could not go along with a proposal that two-thirds of the senators present—instead of all the Senate membership—be permitted to halt debate.

The two-thirds present vote proposal (put forth by Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas) "would leave us where we are," he said.

He added that "something like three-fifths would be better."
 Cooper did not amplify his suggestion.

In separate filmed TV interviews, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) argued that the Senate make it easier to halt filibuster and Sen.

John Stennis (D-Miss.) said the nation wants the rule kept substantially as it is.

Mansfield, the assistant majority leader in the heavily Democratic Senate, expressed hope in his interview that the Senate will "at least advance as far" as to permit filibusters to be choked off by two-thirds of the senators present.

Stennis, in his interview, said the Senate would be largely destroyed as a free forum and a defender of states rights if debate could be cut off by majority vote.
 He conceded there might be some modification of the present rule.

The two Democratic senators differed also over whether the new Congress will pass civil rights legislation. Mansfield predicted it would but Stennis said he foresaw nothing substantial aside this line.

Cooper said he favored legislation which would make it easier for the Attorney General to move in on civil rights cases.

The filibuster and civil rights questions are closely linked in the battle that hangs over the Senate as the 86th Congress prepares to swing into action this week.

Stennis said the real issue is to prevent legislation from being passed by bare majority vote under a gag rule.

Mansfield predicted Congress would vote to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission, due to expire in September, and also pass legislation to impose penalties for bombing schools, churches and similar places.

Stennis said he thought it would be "very very difficult to pass any additional civil rights legislation" at this session. He said a bill extending the commission's life might get through, however.
