

Dear Dr. Gregory,

I have carefully reviewed the requests to classify librarians as faculty members.

After consulting with several colleagues and considering the fact that MSU librarians do not belong to an academic department (since we do not have a library science degree program), and do not teach more than 50% of the time, there is no support for classifying librarians as faculty members.

Please share this message with all librarians and staff in the Camden-Carroll Library.

Thank you.

Raj
