Eisenhowers Are Welcomed At Gettysburg
 Their Gettysburg, Pa., neighbors have poured out their affection for Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower. About 1,500 of them stood in snow in 18-degree temperature to cheer the Eisenhowers' arrival at the Hotel Gettysburg where they were honored at a dinner.

"We are at last home," the former President told the cheering crowd.

He said he and Mrs. Eisenhower decided in 1953 to establish their permanent residence at Gettysburg. "This is where we would like to live," he said.

He said it was the first time since the Eisenhowers have been coming to their farm home near Gettysburg that no one could call him on the telephone and say, "You have to come home this evening."

Hard work still represents the main essential ingredient of success in life.

People who lose their tempers playing a game ought not to play chess.

Kentucky Will Participate In Civil War Fete

Kentucky will be a major participant in the 100th anniversary of the Civil War Centennial, 1961 through 1965.

The Blue Grass state has many landmarks, battle sites, memorials and homes dating back to the great struggle. One of the most notable is the Lincoln Memorial National Historical Park in America Square and Jefferson Davis Monument at Fairview.

The Lincoln Memorial is a park dedicated to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, "the Great Emancipator." The Civil War Centennial, 1961 through 1965, is a time when the Union Within the Park is a state's grand structure which houses the nation's largest collection of Civil War artifacts. The 50-state leading up to the presidential march the life span of the great liberator.

The Blue Grass state's great liberator, winding their way through the park grounds, lend an atmosphere reminiscent of the Lincoln era. Other attractions at the park are the "huge" boundary oak - estimated to be over 200 years old and the souvenir shop, where souvenirs of the Lincoln age may be purchased.

Standing in Fairview is a towering 300-foot high concrete obelisk erected in honor of Jefferson Davis, Civil War President of the Confederacy. The monument, one of the largest in America, stands on a daily and elevator service is provided to an observation point near the top which can be reached on the surrounding countryside may be seen for a distance of 35 miles.

The monument is located on the farm where Jefferson Davis was born, in 1808. The Davis family moved to Mississippi, but young Jefferson returned to attend school at historic Barbours and Transylvania in Lexington.

In the 20-acre state park, are spacious picnic grounds for the convenience of visitors and a replica of the house of Captain Samuel Davis, Revolutionary War soldier and father of the President of the Confederacy.

NEW B-52
 An Air Force B-52 with two test models under each wing has been completed. The missile-launching bomber, built at the Boeing Airplane Company plant at Wichita, Kan., will have more power and a longer range than any present B-52G series. Among advantages of the B-52 Skybolt, the Air Force says, is that the bomber carries the weapon can be recalled from its mission up to the instant before it releases the missile.

Kentucky's New Program Of Indigent Health Aid Is Causing Headache

State officials say they are being bombarded with questions about who is eligible for Kentucky's new medical care program for the needy and aged.

Prospective recipients want to know if they qualify for the state aid and how they can apply. Doctors and hospitals are interested in knowing how they can identify eligible recipients.

The program is only three weeks old and already has gotten under way with payments ranging from assistance for an 80-year-old man with pneumonia to a 4-year-old boy suffering from an intestinal and stomach infection.

Officials in the Division of Medical Care in the State Health Department say the major problem is getting the program off the ground and understood by recipients and vendors alike.

To Issue ID Cards
 The Department of Economic Security, which also has responsibility for the medical care program, plans to issue identification cards to eligible recipients sometime next month so doctors, dentists, hospital and druggists will know who can participate.

Meanwhile, they are being urged to contact local public assistance offices to verify the eligibility of patients for the program. Those who should also contact their local public assistance office.

Health department officials emphasized a patient has a free choice of a vendor, such as a doctor and the physician, dentist or other vendor also must decide according to his own policies whether to accept a case of aid.

Will Be Repaid
 Participation by the vendors is only at their discretion. When they provide services to an eligible recipient, the program can not and does not entitle recipients to all the medical services they may need. One official said, because of the limited funds available.

Changes Planned
 As the program progresses, the state health department will be made to bring the program more in line with the essential requirements of good medical care for Kentucky's indigents.

"This state is at the beginning of a long-range program of care for the needy," the official added, "and there is little existing information on which to base estimates of services required and the portion of money needed to finance a specific service."

Limitations Set
 Hospitals presently will be reimbursed for three day care per admission, physicians for two home office visits a month per recipient, dentists for a maximum of $8 a month or $24 a year, and pharmacists for drugs dispensed according to a prescribed list.

But these limitations are not intended to tell the vendors that they must accept a patient for these services or only for these services. The spokesman said.

Not only physicians and dentists, but also nurses, hospital and other personnel are expected to follow their own policies in accepting and caring for patients. The spokesman said, but will be reimbursed only for the specified services.

Those Eligible Listed
 Eligible persons on public assistance rolls include those drawing aid payments, or payments in lieu of aid, from the state or federal government, or those who are blind, disabled or dependent children.

Other eligible persons over 65 years of age not on public assistance rolls are eligible for the program, but it is limited to physicians and hospitalization services and the recipients may not have over limited income and property.

The program can not and does not entitle recipients to all the medical services they may need. One official said, because of the limited funds available.

Kentucky Dam Again Tops For Tourists
 Kentucky Dam was the top tourist attraction in the vast T.V.A. system during 1960, according to officials of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The massive dam near Gilberton, Ky., attracted 1,600,000 visitors from the 10,400,000 tourists who visited T.V.A. dams and steam plants last year.

The Paradise Steam Plant, now under construction in Muhlenberg County, drew 318,000 visitors during the same period.

The largest Tennessee Valley Authority dam, Kentucky Dam, which stretches 24 miles through Kentucky and Tennessee, the lake's 2,380 miles of shoreline make it one of the most famous fishing areas in America.

Kentucky Dam is one of many attractions to be enjoyed at Kentucky Dam Village State Park, one of two state vacation parks on Kentucky Lake. The modern parks offer a variety of recreational activity - water sports and excellent overnight accommodations and dining facilities.

Jackie Smiles, But Pat Has Difficult Time Holding Back Tears

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, who had just become president of the United States, looked at his wife and smiled. Jackie Kennedy, who had just become First Lady of the land, smiled back at the man of the hour. At that moment, she obviously was the proudest wife in the world.

But only two seats away sat a woman who could barely hold back her tears. She was Pat Nixon, who had just become First Lady. Her face was a mirror of sadness. At times she tried to smile but mostly she closed her eyes and tilted her head to the side. Once in a while she heaved a heavy sigh.

Does Kennedy's Speech Mark 'The Land Of Beginning Again'?

Back in 1933, according to the files of this newspaper, a man running for County Office placed an advertisement charging that his opponent was "For That New Deal". In the next issue the Democratic nominee came back with: "I don't know much about this rumored New Deal . . . but, I know plenty about Tom's (his opponent) old deals."

Now, 28 years later, we have "The New Frontier". And, according to the most learned men of the nation, this world may destroy itself or rise to unprecedented economy for all its peoples during the next 10 years.

President Kennedy said in his inaugural address which he wrote and rewrote 17 times, that we are beginning again. We are reminded of a poem that Adron Doran recited in his inaugural address at Morehead State College in 1954, and the subsequent growth of that institution of higher learning. He quoted:

"God has provided a wonderful place Called the 'Land of beginning again.' Where all our mistakes, our heartaches And our poor selfish pride May be dropped like a shabby old coat At the door, And never put on again."

Most leading journalists have so favorably analyzed President Kennedy's speech there is nothing we can add or detract, unless it would be to draw the parallel between what he said and the legislation already introduced in the Senate for the depressed areas, including our county and area.

From the President's inaugural address, the following direct quotations are more forceful than any observations we could make —

"We observe today not a victory of party but a celebration of freedom."

"Man hold in his mortal hands the power to abolish all form of human poverty and to abolish all form of human life."

"The rights of man come not from the generosity of the state but from the hand of God."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Advise Moreheadians To Start Leveling Them Hills

The Editor: I have been reading in your paper about all that gold, diamonds and oil in that land around Morehead.

Then, in another part of your paper I read that three things are cheaper now than during the depression; chickens, turkeys and moving dirt.

So, I can tell you how to solve your problem. Start digging out some of those hills and create subdivisions on them. The view, particularly over beautiful Morehead State College, would be wonderful. Then, you'd see the prices drop and a lot of weeping and wailing from the gold miners.

E. A. McClure Sandusky, Oa.
Editor's Note: Really, the land situation and prices, are mostly hypothetical. People have built these prices up in their minds, and a general of deed transfers and affixed stamps reveals few buyers. It's sort of like a little boy waiting for Santa Claus. This newspaper uses a few real estate sales, but prices are generally higher than what the owner has offered to bid. It's worth, anyway, Morehead College has turned to your "digging off the hill" plan and later we'll see that engineers and architects may propose a three-terrace campus, etc.

Prices Paid Teachers And Common Laborer
The Editor: The last story in your Jan. 19 edition implied me to do a bit of arithmetic. Thundersous crises have been raised here and there over the state in many newspapers, "now that the people have supplied the money with a sales tax, demanding to know why schools have been so better these past dozen or so years than that 'oldies' were raised nearly five months ago, and education per child is costing 70 per cent as much as the national average."

The 1959 General Assembly raised the minimum salary for a legally qualified teacher, with four years of college to $3,225. This is for 36 weeks of work. The same General Assembly raised the minimum wage for Wage Scale Bill which resulted in the setting of the minimum wage for a common laborer in Rowan County at $2.40 per hour. Thirty-six 40-hour weeks with no overtime pay would give the common laborer a gross pay of $3,456, or $36 more than the college graduate teacher. In your own "Editor's Pen" column, on the other hand, you have attacked the teacher tenure law as being unnecessary. If the latter statement is sound, the former is untrue. If the former statement is true, then tenure laws are desperately needed.

Seriously, I know you have long been a public education and in higher education. I do feel, though,

The News continues letters from readers, particularly on subjects of local interest. The author must sign the letter and his name will be used, unless otherwise indicated.

That someone should bring together, for the sake of comparison, the strange actions of a governing body which apparently sees no inconsistency in setting the minimum wage of the digger of the cesspool at a new school building at Cranston at $1 per week more than the minimum wage for a college graduate teacher in the same community. Only the editor of a curious journal would fail to boggle at such a set of warped values.

Loans Available To Expanding Businesses
The Editor: Loan applications are now being taken at this office from businesses in need of medium term credit for purposes of expansion whose growth will benefit Kentucky's economy.

Authority to establish this type of privately managed and financed business-lending corporation was granted by Kentucky's 1960 General Assembly after J. A. Governor Wilson W. Wyatt investigated the success of a similar organization in North Carolina. Wyatt has declared that the "better Kentucky B.D.C. to be the "most broadly-based development corporation in existence," and that formation of Business Development Corporation is "the most important single step in Kentucky's new economic development program."

His Board of Directors is made up of 21 members: Kentucky business leaders; they are the representatives of 24 participating Kentucky banks, insurance companies, utilities companies and other business interests. The B.D.C. has $2.5 million in private funds contributed or pledged by these business concerns for growth loans to industry and business.

The Business Development Corporation of Kentucky will function as a vital segment of the program to bring additional jobs and investment to the state, develop new and expand existing ones.

Morehead Banks' Cance All But 6 Former Holidays

Reaction to Morehead banks closing Saturday, remains the same on Wednesday afternoons and until 5 p. m. Fridays, most widespread approval is even from customers who usually complain of any change.

Economic forecasters of the nation visualize a five day week for all businesses within the next three or four years, and a four day week by 1970.

Some misundstanding resulted in that the banks stated they would be open Saturday mornings if a holiday fell during that week.

Kentucky has 13 legislative proclaimed holidays. Although not all are observed, the banks will observe all but six. The six holidays the Morehead banks will observe are: New Year's, Memorial Day, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The week of these six holidays the banks will be open Saturday or Sunday. Considering that the banks are actually open, on the average, be open only around four Saturdays during the year.

State officers will observe all 13 holidays enacted through the years, by the Senate and House.

The way past legislatures can be looked on for in the future. We wouldn't be surprised if they couldn't get them to declare a holiday — that's this Editor's bedtime.

Seriously, the next General Assembly ought to remove the seven listed holidays. Only the Virgin Islands and Kentucky have proclaimed the holiday of FDR — a legal holiday.

Good News To A Disappointed Fan
We have an agreement with Morehead's Steve Hamilton that he will report to the newspaper, often-commended, generally-cussed but always "right Editor with a box set when Steve pitches in a World Series.

Stranger things have happened. Yesterday, Steve received notice to report to the newspaper for spring training Feb. 22 at Tucson, Ariz. After an extantive pitching rest last year with class AAAA's, Cleveland is short on pitchers — you can't have them all, all to Steve's advantage.

Of course, there's always the possibility of a "Moose" picture of him. Lane, who used to referee basketball games at Morehead, Cleveland newspapers have been reading him hard and the Indians management — and improvement money at the box office from lack of attendance by a disgruntled public.

Four Recessions In 12 Years

While no editor can claim to be an economic prophet, nor would any intelligent one attempt to do so, it would seem that there are some encouraging signs on the economic horizon — pertaining to the 1960-61 slump.

It is now generally admitted that we are experiencing the fourth recession in twelve years. Since last spring the economy has taken a steady slide downward, though not a heavy one.

The economic experts differ on what 1961 will bring. However, in the last few weeks and months a greater number of economists have forecast an upturn in the U. S. economy later in the year.

There are several factors which any student of history, and any good newspaper man, will recall, which could give justification for optimism.

In the first place, the slump that, in 1958, came after the period of heavy business expansion and new plants was sharply curtailed. The economic rise in the last few years has not been as rapid as that, prior to 1958, and spending has been trimmed to a lesser degree.

Secondly, inventories and stocks were trimmed more sharply, in a sharper slump in 1958 than has been the case in the 1960-61 dip. Business inventories do not seem to be so low today that they can be cut sharply at this time. In fact, inventories have been reduced steadily and, in many cases, they will not be reduced further.

Thirdly, it will be recalled in the 1958 recession, defense spending was being curtailed and this contributed to the slump. The opposite is true today. Defense spending is almost certain to increase in the Kennedy administration. For these reasons, then, there seems to be some justification for the belief that the slump will come to an end and an upturn occur in 1961.

Baseball Gaining In Popularity

While basketball was formerly the most popular spectator-sport in the United States, a recent Gallup Poll shows that the most popular spectator-sport in the United States today is baseball.

It seems that television has had a lot to do with this, although the poll is not conclusive evidence, or the last word on this question, and one cannot accept the results of it as authoritative.

Nevertheless, the latest poll showed that among men and women who were queried, baseball was the favorite of 24 per cent of them, football the favorite sport of 21 per cent of them and basketball the favorite sport of 9 per cent of them.

Baseball and football were preferred by more men than women, while women preferred basketball, bowling (the count here was 8:1 women over men) and wrestling. More women preferred these sports than men.

Reflecting the popularity of football in colleges and universities, a poll of college educated men and women showed that football was their favorite sport. However, when the poll included those with high school training, baseball forged into the lead.

An interesting aspect of the recent poll was that education seems to play a role in determining one's favorite sport. For example, wrestling is among the top three favorite sports of persons with only grade school education; it is not one among the top five-favorites of persons with college training.

Thus, while the trend in the United States is toward sports, what we need more of is individual participation in sports and outdoor activities, in preference to sitting in soft chairs before a television set.

Militarily, the United States may not be sitting on top of the world, but the other day one of our submarines was doing so.

"If you have cold feet, you may have poor circulation," said a physician. Yes, and on the other hand, you may be psychic.

A group picture of the Kennedy kin shows that all members evidently have good teeth and an altogether adequate supply of them.

Those who are predicting a mild winter are mistaken — they are, that is unless arrangements have been made for abolishing February.

On his way to Williba to check on hydrophobia and other unsanitary things, C. M. Fry, the sanitarian, ran upon four nice white rocks right out in the big road. Fry stopped his vehicle and got out and picked up those four gravelly and got them into his pocket. He claims that he just didn't have the heart to run over these pretty gravels and they were the first ones that he had seen since he had left the bucket of good mud to fill the bucket of good mud. He had to give the good fresh mud to the boys this time and he took the powdered milk for himself.

Number of Teachers Is On Increase The number of 1961 graduates from Kentucky's 23 colleges and universities who will be qualified to teach in elementary and high schools this year will be 8,800, or over 10 percent more than last year.

Butler said a statewide study under the supervision of Miss Louise Combs, state supervisor of Teacher Education and Certification, showed a 1961 supply of 8,800 new teachers, up from 7,900 in 1960.

During the 1959-60 school year, there were 8,500 teachers in Kentucky schools serving an estimated 1,100,000 students. This year, there has been an 8.5 per cent increase in the number of new teachers graduating from Kentucky schools.

According to Superintendent Butler, the increasing supply of college graduates, prepared to teach, plus the higher salaries provided by the state this year, is gradually helping to reduce the teacher shortage.

Kentucky teachers with college degrees are expected to average $900 per year in 1961.

Claig Sprout

says . . .

Dear Mister Editor:

Our new President says America has got to move ahead in the sixties. I don't know if it's ahead, behind, or sideways but we're being moving pretty fast now for a long spell.

They was discussing this move-ahead business at the county store Saturday night and most all the fellers had a stem or two for debate. Ed Doolittle, fer instance, said the medical and dental professions was moving ahead real good. Ed said his old lady got a bill from her dentist. "To Professional Service $20." He allowed as how this dentist would have a fit if he got a bill from his druggist. "To Items $4.28." It was agreed by one and all that doctors and dentists was getting too far ahead when they quit itemizing their bills.

And Clem Webster noted that we'd moved ahead into a brand new economic system for the working man. It used to be, allowed Clem, that a working man set his pay a little higher he thought he was worth for a honest day's work. But now he sets it according to what he thinks his boss is able to pay without going broke. The fellers agreed that if this trend keeps up, the store clerk will have to call the bank to see what you're able to pay afore he gives you the price on a pair of shoes.

And real move-ahead signs was noted by the fellers in other fields.

Zeke Grubb said it used to be that country editors always run a page ever week telling the farmers how to farm, what to plant and when and how. Now, claims Zeke, the weekly newspapers is leaving such matters up to the city boys in the Department of Agriculture. Bug Hookum noted that we'd moved ahead so fur in the last 20 year in taxes that them fellers could now get blood out of a turnip. But the greatest progress in the move-ahead program, according to Josh Clodhopper, was in the teen-age field. Josh said all juvenile delinquents was improved to where we ain't got nothing to worry about but: problem children.

It's hard to predict where this move-ahead program will take us in the sixties but I'm all in favor of it. I see where one Congressman, fer instance, is advocating we print our paper money in fancy colors so's it'll have more glamor to it. Personally, Mister Editor, I ain't never saw a unglamorous $20 bill but if it takes it to move ahead they can print it in bed-room pink and kitchen yellow.

And as we get ready to move ahead in the sixties, like goes back to his farm. Farming is the nearest thing to war a feller can find and I predict good ole ole will be happy back there estimating and rotating his crops fer Uncle Sam.

Yours truly,
Claig Sprout

Engineer Office

The major questions today for this area are:

1. Where will the complement of engineers now stationed at Morehead be transferred and when?

2. What will happen to the office personnel (clerks, typists, etc.) at Morehead, as well as road men and field men connected with that office?

3. Will the present engineering building, the best in eastern Kentucky, be discontinued at Morehead, or will the State use it for some other purpose?

4. What will the Commonwealth do with the land (Triula property) already bought and paid for at Morehead?

5. Can quarters be found at Flemingsburg for the new offices? The state has limited upstairs office space there now.

6. Will 70 percent of the bondholders approve Ward's recommendations?

Ward said four new positions will be created in each district. They are:

1. An assistant district engineer for design, planning and right of way.
2. An assistant district engineer for construction, materials and research.
3. An assistant district engineer for maintenance, traffic and equipment.
4. An administrative manager for records, personnel and other office details.

Appointments to these positions will be announced prior to March 1, Ward said.

MOREHEAD STATE COLLEGE

By BILLY JOE HALL (Director of Alumni Affairs)

Contacts between Morehead State College and the outside public are becoming much stronger in these weeks, as the institution's alumni in the various areas gather together in their separate residential areas to form organized alumni groups.

During the past two weeks, two organizations have been formed, spreading the word of Morehead State College into broader areas. On Wednesday, a service organization for their alma mater, Thursday, Jan. 19, a similar group in the Columbus, O. area also was formally begun as an alumni club.

The Dayton group selected Julian Campbell, Springfield, a 1960 graduate of Morehead State College, as its president with Dan E. Hall, Fairborn; Patsy L. Hillman, Covington; Helen C. Vanderpool, Waynesville; and Anna K. Jackson, Dayton, chosen to fill the posts of vice president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary and treasurer respectively.

The Columbus area graduates met at Circleville and selected Hugh W. Stumbo, Columbus, as president. Other officers elected were Bill Salisbury, Circleville; vice-president, and Barbara H. Barlow, Columbus, secretary-treasurer.

These two groups follow similar graduates in Johnson, Carter and Floyd counties in Kentucky in acting upon their vision of the need of organized alumni support of the Morehead campus.

Alumni clubs are tied together on the basis of a desire for three major objectives. These are (1) to assist them (the alumni) in promoting and strengthening fraternity and fellowship among the members; (2) to enable them (the alumni) to serve better their alma mater; and (3) to enable the college to serve better the members of the club.

Membership in the local alumni clubs is made up of graduates of Morehead State College, their husbands and wives and friends of the college. Persons eligible for membership in the parent Morehead State College Alumni Association are eligible for active membership in the local club. Others are entitled to associate membership in the club, giving them all privileges except voting and holding office. The actual organizational procedures of the club initiators are directed by the alumni director, Billy Joe Hall, and are begun after an invitation has been given by interested alumni in the general vicinity where clusters of alumni reside. Any group which desires to form an organization should contact the director.

Three County Area Wants Road Prong

Leaders of Elliott, Morgan, Carter and Boyd counties mapped plans at a meeting in Sandy Hook Monday to urge Gov. Combs to add a "northeast prong" to his proposed four-lane highway into the mountains.

The highway into the mountains already surveyed and soon to be built, extends from Winchester to Campton where it forks, one prong going east through Salyersville and Prestonburg to Pikeville, and the other prong going southeast through Jackson and Hazard to Whitesburg.

Addition of a northeast prong to run from the junction at Campton through West Liberty and Sandy Hook to Grayson to connect with US-50 and the new Interstate-64, was proposed a year ago by political leaders in Morgan County. Later Elliott, Carter and Boyd counties joined in the movement, each endorsing the new road through resolutions of civic and business clubs, and more recently the Rural Development area committee endorsed the proposal.

The meeting in Sandy Hook, sponsored by the Sandy Hook Rotary Club, was to form a committee composed of representatives of each county that would visit Gov. Combs and point out the need for the northeast prong.

Burley Association Appears At Washington Hearing; Ask 10 Percent Hike In Quotas

A 10 per cent increase in burley acreage allotments for 1961—marketing quota of at least 33 million pounds—is necessary to eliminate a competitive disadvantage which has cost burley growers 10 million dollars a year, the Burley Auction Warehouse Association reported Monday in Washington.

The 10 per cent increase apparently was the basic proposal of the industry as a whole at a meeting with the U.S. Department of Agriculture on 1961 acreage quotas.

Recommendations of the warehouse association was presented by Albert G. Clay, Mt. Sterling, president.

A report prepared by the BAWA noted that the association has pleaded with the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the last five years to raise burley acreage quotas.

"Each time, we warned that unless adequate supplies were provided at competitive prices burley would lose existing markets that would cost our growers millions of dollars," the report declared.

Substitutions Made

"We are now convinced that our predictions have come true and that domestic and foreign buyers have been forced to make substitutions that have cost burley growers in excess of 10 million dollars a year," the report said.

To support its recommendations,

the BAWA stated, "the record":

1. Burley disappearance has exceeded total production for six consecutive years—causing burley to lose its competitive position with other types of tobacco.
2. Domestic manufacturers and foreign buyers have stated their preference for burley and will testify that they have had to alter their requirements because of the lack of certain grades and the high market prices compared to other types.
3. More burley continues to be produced abroad during the period 1947-51 production of burley in foreign areas averaged only 56 million pounds annually. It has now increased to more than 116 million pounds—a gain of more than 100 per cent.
4. Cigarette consumption is increasing at the rate of four per cent a year, but burley is not substituting its fair share because substitutions are definitely being made.

The warehouse association's report cited these reasons for the existing situation:

1. Disappearance Gains

Total disappearance during the marketing year ended Sept. 30, 1960, was 33.2 million pounds, a gain of 17.5 million pounds or 3.3 per cent. Total disappearance of fire-cured during the marketing year ended July 1, 1960, was 1,186 million pounds, a gain of only six million pounds from the previous year or one-half of one per cent.

The BAWA noted that burley prices have remained consistently higher than fire-cured for the past six years and the spread between market prices and support prices has been greater. This alone reflects the scarcity of the burley type and is even more significant because that several of the major crop years were lower in quality, it added.

"Government loan stocks of burley are at the lowest level in six years. They are now only 49 million, while fire-cured stocks are more than 500 million.

Burley production has been stagnant for the past six years while fire-cured has shown an upward trend over the past four years. This indicates that the burley producer has been able to control output effectively.

Burley stocks in trade channels have increased while fire-cured stocks have declined. This reflects the trader's concern over the scarcity of burley and the dwindling stocks of CCC holdings.

Blue-Cured Quota

"The 1961 national marketing quota for fire-cured has been set at 1,112 million or an increase of 108 million pounds over 1960. Estimated disappearance, normal year's domestic consumption and normal export figures were adjusted so that fire-cured would not have to take a cut in acreage.

If the 1960 acreage yield had been used in computing the average yield (as in the case of burley) the figure would have been 1,625 pounds per acre instead of the 1,509 figure that was used. If the fire-cured formula were computed with the high convenience factor, total acreage for 1961 would have been 668,307 or a cut of three per cent over 1960.

Many Chinese May Be Starving

A Hong Kong Chinese just returned from a visit to Communist China says:

"Everyone is hungry in my home village. Food is all they talk about—when there are no considerations here."

Among the baggage he was carrying upon his arrival was a box of small fried cakes. A cousin approached him and offered to carry his baggage.

"It'll be about two miles. How much money do you want?" the man from Hong Kong asked.

"Are you joking? What can I buy with money? I only want 10 of your cakes."

The whole matter settled for less than 10 U.S. cents, in Hong Kong.

Organization On Farms To Be Discussed

Farm organization for profit in three geographical areas of Kentucky will be discussed at a "profit-organizing" Farm and Home Week session.

The meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 2, starting at 1 p. m. (EST) in Gignol Theater on the University campus in Lexington. It is part of the 4th Farm-Home Week scheduled Jan. 31-Feb. 3.

The speakers will be discussed by Wilmer Browning, and precision planning by J. F. Thompson, UK economist.

The program: Apple production from 1920-1960, W. W. Magill, K. Extension Service horticulturist; Ohio Valley apple production in the future, J. R. Magness, USDA Research Center, Beltsville, Md.; "How I Produced the Sweepstakes Bushel of Apples for the 1960 State Fair Exhibit," J. O. Young, Grayson County; a modern spray schedule, Frank Brown, Fleming County; a grower's spray schedule for the best control job, Don Hamilton, USDA Horticultural Center, Vincennes, Ind.; and the Horticultural Society's president's address by Joe Garrett, Woodford County. Cecil Blackwell, Birmingham, Ala., magazine editor will discuss "Apple Competition From the South."

Nuts to you, says the Kentucky Nut-Growers Association. But not like you think the group means it. Rather, it's what the Kentucky nut industry can do income-wise for the state.

This will be discussed by the industry's specialist at 7:45 p. m. Feb. 1, at the Livestock Pavilion as part of Farm-Home Week.

J. G. Graves, Fayette County farmer, will explain how nuts are a neglected crop. Kentucky agriculture, C. C. Cavender, Stockton, Mo., and A. G. Mick, Stanford, officials of nut products firms, will talk on Kentucky's famed black walnut industry. W. D. Armstrong, Princeton Experiment Station specialist, will demonstrate "top-working" walnuts and pecans; and W. E. Boggs, McCreary County agent, will explain his county's extensive nut production program.

The meeting will end with a discussion on promoting the state's nut industry.

Cooper's Aide Joins Staff Of President

A top aide to Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) has switched over to the "New Frontiers" of President John F. Kennedy.

Lee C. White, 37, who left as administrative assistant to Cooper to become a Kennedy aide, told a reporter that no shift in party loyalty is required.

In fact, he said he really is going back to Kentucky, since he never worked for him when he was a senator.

"I was always been a Democrat," he explained, "Senator Cooper and I discussed this when I first went to work for him three years ago. He told me then, 'If you do your work, it won't make any difference. It never once bothered me.'"

"After all, he gets along pretty well with everybody. The Cooper-Kennedy relationship, for instance, has always been a warm one."

At the White House, White will be an assistant to Theodore Sorensen, special counsel to the President.

More Teachers Remaining In State

Kentucky's 23 colleges and universities this year will graduate 240 more students qualified to teach in grade and high schools than they did last year.

Wendell B. Butler, superintendent of public instruction, released the figures after a state-wide survey. The 1961 supply of new teachers will be 2,883 up nine per cent from 2,643 in 1960.

At the same time, Butler said the number of emergency teachers will be reduced by about 700 by the end of the school year.

During the 1960-61 term, there were approximately 2,800 teachers serving on an emergency basis. Butler expects the number to be reduced to 2,100 this year.

Castro Willing To Bury Hatchet

Prime Minister Castro Friday night offered to bury the political hatchet with the United States.

Castro also said, "We are not waiting for any favor or economic aid from Washington."

Wearing a military beret as he spoke from the floodlit balcony of the president's palace in Havana, the prime minister called off the three-week alert against the "Yankee invasion" that never came.

"We expect increased state appropriations for salaries will continue to attract more qualified teachers so that within the next two-year period the need for emergency teachers will be virtually eliminated from Kentucky schools," Butler said.

Emergency certificates are given persons with some preparation in education, but who lack college degrees.

To Explore Phase Of Early History

With the development of Big Bone Lick in Boone County as one of five new Kentucky State Parks, a phase of ancient Kentucky history, dating back 200,000 years, will be explored and developed.

Evidence of the herbivorous animal life dating back to the Ice Age has been discovered in the form of bones and perfect skeletons in the Big Bone Lick and Blue Lick regions area. During this Pleistocene age, great herds of these animals came to the salt licks of the area, where many perished in the heavy, salt-laden soil.

Following the herb-eating animals into the Big Bone Lick county were the giant flesh-eating animals of that age. There has been such evidence of these animals discovered in the area. Bones of the Mammoth and of the Tyrannosaurus, teeth and tusks of the huge mastodon and bones and impressions of many other animals have been found in abundance throughout northeastern Kentucky.

The Indians, and later the early settlers, were impressed by the "big bones" which they discovered in this area. As early as 1729, the French explorer, deLongueville, remarked on the interesting material found at Big Bone Lick in Boone County; in 1751, Christopher Gist brought a mastodon's tooth from this locality.

The Mammoths were ancient elephants with dense, woolly hair. The huge animal stood about nine feet high at the shoulders and its immense tusks had a tendency to curl upward. Perfect skeletons of the Mammoth have been found at Big Bone Lick.

Garden And Greenhouse To Be Discussed

Garden and greenhouse "greenbacks" is the subject of a horticultural session at the 49th annual Farm-Home Week conference at Lexington Jan. 31-Feb. 3.

The "greenback" session is Thursday, Feb. 2, in the Livestock Pavilion building. It opens at 9 a. m. G. A. Marlowe, UK Extension Service vegetable specialist, will preside.

Horticulture department men will cover the subject. They are: Hobby and commercial greenhouses, Marlowe; better housing and ventilation of greenhouses, D. J. Cotter; greenhouse crops, D. E. Knavel; fertilization and watering, Marlowe; tomato culture special techniques, Cotter; pest control, D. C. Martin and Marlowe; the Kentucky home-garden program, Hubert Davis; and new varieties for yield and quality, Knavel and Martin.

Layer-Flock Management Is Farm-Home Agenda

Kentucky poultrymen with layer flocks will air problems at a Farm-Home Week conference session this year.

The layer-flock meeting is Thursday, Feb. 2 in the Dairy Products building of the University at 1:30 p. m. It is one of many meetings of the 49th annual Farm-Home Week.

A panel will open the meeting, discussing "What Are the Problems?" Jay Young, Ashland, will discuss pullet growing; Davis Marrett, Smithfield, production phases; and L. C. McLeod, Hilliard, manager of the Ohio Valley Egg Co-operative, will handle processing and marketing.

John W. Tuttle, Kentucky Poultry-Improvement Association official, will preside.

Modest Increase Seen In Hog Production

A modest increase in hog production for 1961 is forecast by the UK agricultural economics department's bi-weekly outlook letter.

Production this year probably will not be expanded enough that farmers will get unfavorable prices, the economists say.

Hog slaughter through June probably will be slightly lower than the same period of 1960, the letter says. But by July 1, the slaughter level probably will be about the same level as for 1960.

Farmers' hog-breeding intentions through May indicate a 4 per cent higher level in the U.S. than for the same period last year. In Kentucky, a 3 per cent farrowing increase is expected for the period.

Hog prices through June probably will average higher than for the first half of 1960. In the second half of the year, prices likely will average lower than for the same period in 1960.

Space Needs Are Different For Cattle

Cattle that are hand-fed have different space requirements than self-fed cattle.

Here are some guide rules from George Fundergras, UK Cooperative Extension Service beef specialist:

For cattle that are hand-fed: One linear foot of bunk space per animal when silage is fed intermittently; for hand feeding grain, two feet per animal; grain self-fed, a third of a foot of bunk space per animal; and free-access to hay rack, a third of a foot per animal; one linear foot of water trough to 10 animals; and 25 animals to one automatic waterer.

Fattening Bred Sows No Guarantee Of Pig Litters

Fattening bred sows does not guarantee a good pig crop, says Grady Sellards, UK Cooperative Extension Service swine specialist.

It may have an opposite effect. Bred sows on fairly light rations produced better pigs and had better farrowing records.

For instance: Bred sows that got 2 pounds of feed daily and were on legume pastures, did fine. They had normal litters of satisfactory pig size. In dry lot, sows on 3 pounds of corn and 1 1/2 pounds of protein supplement had a better litters than sows more heavily fed. Sellards says research indicates a gain of 50 to 75 pounds per sow during gestation is sufficient. Green sun-cured alfalfa or lespedeza hay is a good source of protein for sows. It also has vitamins and minerals.

Many farmers self feed bred sows the following ration: 900 pounds ground corn, 600 pounds ground oats, 650 pounds alfalfa meal or chopped alfalfa hay and 150 pounds of sow supplement (about 32 per cent protein). But many sows took on too much fat during gestation. Sellards suggests farmers increase the chopped alfalfa hay or meal proportion, if sows get too fat.

Graham Praises Kennedy Election

Billy Graham, evangelist, said this week in Palm Beach that the election of John F. Kennedy, Catholic, to the presidency of the United States has "helped relations between the churches."

"Certainly a better understanding between Protestant and Catholic churches in the United States has emerged," said Graham.
