Snout-Nose Beetle Hits Tulip Poplars

Was the snout-nose beetle, a pest that hit Kentucky tulip poplars and magnolia trees this June, a new pest? Or was it an old standby pest that suddenly increased its destructiveness? Hard to say, says Dr. R. L. Miller, the UK Ag Extension Service's entomologist. Probably a little bit of both, though the statement doesn't seem to be completely true, recently was identified by the USDA.

Damage in that period - but there is no indication it was. Why did it suddenly erupt this year? "We simply don't know," Dr. Miller admitted. "It's one of those mysteries of nature. We can guess - but that's all it is." Right now, UK entomologists are watching the situation closely. The June brood of the snout-nose has long since been killed, or has completed its life cycle, or has completed its life cycle.

People Of United States Fail To Push For Shelters

A little over a year ago, Congress passed an administration's bill authorizing some $207,000,000 as a Civil Defense appropriation, specifically with fallout shelters as the goal. This year, the administration proposed a $460,000,000 "shelter-incentive" program which would have the purpose of helping localities build public shelters in schools, libraries, and other non-profit institutions. The goal this year was the modification of existing facilities in order to give protection to a majority of U.S. citizens. The President had earlier announced the goal — to have fallout protection for every American by 1967. From January to June of this year, the President did not push the shelter program, nor was it the main concern of the administration's hierarchy. Recently, Representative Carl Vinson, the Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, stated that he did not believe the country was at this time ready for the shelter-incentive program. The reader might well ask what has occurred to make the change of heart in congressional appropriations, as well as the lack of push by the administration in their civil defense efforts. Certainly there has been no change in the strategic need for this program. The failure to carry out this program is probably because the general public was not aware of the danger involved in a tragedy. It may well cost us our country. The fact that the country is well prepared with shelters and could withstand a nuclear attack would be the very best insurance our country could have that we would not receive such a blow.

Presidents That Are Great

Seventy-five students of American history were recently asked to select the great Presidents of the United States, and the near-great, and the results might be surprising to many Americans.

Of course, the identity of the seventy-five students of American history could have a direct bearing on the outcome of the poll, especially if they were all considered liberals, or all of one philosophy, generally speaking. The seven great Presidents, are said to have included a broad selection of party representatives.

In any event, whether this is right or wrong, the seventy-five chose Lincoln, Washington, Franklin Roosevelt, Wilson and Jefferson as the five greatest Presidents our country has had.

Interestingly, of the six near-greats, one now living ex-President was among them. He was not Dwight D. Eisenhower but Harry S. Truman. Truman was given credit for saving Greece and Turkey from Communism with the Truman Doctrine, for having restored Western Europe with the Marshall Plan, for having saved Berlin with the Berlin Airlift and for having initiated Point Four, NATO and military defense of South Korea.

Along with Truman, who ranked fourth in the listing of the six, near-great Presidents were Andrew Jackson, Theodore Roosevelt, James Polk, John Adams and Grover Cleveland.

Yet Lincoln, the first Republican, was rated the greatest, even though George Washington, the founder of the country and the general who led our armies to victory in the Revolution, had to be downgraded to second for Lincoln to take the number one spot.

Just after Washington and Lincoln came Franklin D. Roosevelt. The students of American history who took part in the poll obviously did not agree with critics of Roosevelt, that he was quite the villain many now make him out to be.

The one characteristic trait all these Presidents seem to have possessed was a deep conviction, and moral sense, that the mass of people must have a better life, and that the mass of people, and their aspirations, take precedence over entrenched groups and interests and influential elements in society.

Drownings Take Heavy Toll

Every year at about this time we read of tragic drownings and one of the most tragic in recent years occurred recently in Florida. There a Sunday school teacher and seventeen children drowned in a small boat just a hundred yards from land.

Seven children of one family were lost in the accident. The small boat went under suddenly, when on the 25-year-old Sunday school teacher, Joseph Bouar, 25, lost control of things and his own life, as well as that of the seven children.

One can scarcely imagine such a tragedy. If the children could not swim, certainly they should have been wearing life preservers. If they could not swim, they should not have ventured into water above their heads.

As it happened, they died in water only seven feet deep. Preparing a picnic lunch for them on shore Mrs. Alvera Green watched the children go under. Said she: "All of a sudden the boat started sinking. It went down so fast they didn't have time to say anything. They just reached up their hands and went down."

Surely the lesson of this is obvious, as is the reaction of the congregation and members. Children deserve a better fate, and better odds than this. Yet every year this happens, in various ways, in various parts of the country.

Khrushchev says Russia now has a projectile that can hit a fly in space. If so it may be in error to say Russia is lagging behind the U.S. in miniaturization.

Many people are pronouncing "Telstar" as if it were spelled "Teletar," probably because the latter is pronounced with more 's'.

THE KIDNAPERS' GO DDBYES

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RCHS Needs Football Team; Morehead Needs Little League

The Editor: After reading the Rowan County News for this week, an item carried on your front page came to my attention. The item I refer to was one about Rowan County High and their new football field. As I read it, I thought I realize that this new era of football at Rowan County meant possible doom for Little League baseball in Morehead.

Morehead more so than any other community of its size in Kentucky, has always been strong in its support of athletics, and its civic responsibility toward such matters is tremendous.

Rowan County High must support their new football team as well as the previous Seminars and schools used to be developed.

The same, the very same, is true with our Little League. Youngsters who are attending the public school and lost a brilliant career in athletics in doing so, have blossomed into true stars, and now that the playing field, better adults.

Not many years ago the Morehead Little League matched the Kiwanis with a baseball league for their own. This league was for older boys and called the Morehead Junior League.

In its heyday the Junior League produced some honest no-nonsense baseball stars, and some of them, such as Charles "Dudley" Caudill and Jack Carter, signed actual Major League baseball contracts.

From this Junior League grew the Rowan State Amateur League baseball tournament. This Junior League drew on the Rowan State Amateur League for its talent and, for an example, one Little League member through the ranks of the Kentucky State Amateur League.

For the past two seasons he has been chosen to the tough All-OKC baseball teams and has been mentioned for All-American honors. Athletes such as the aforementioned are the very best examples of the tremendous work of Morehead's Kiwanis Little League.

Something such as our Little League, or even be impaired by something such as our Little League, field.

Morehead can, and I am certain they will, remedy this situation, and next spring Morehead's Little League will appear cheering their teams on to victory.

Ronald M. Bach, Director of Physical Activity, Dempsie Brewster School, Morehead, Ky.

Seminars To Be Held at Morehead: On Sept. 20, there will be a Public Safety Seminar conducted on the campus of Morehead State College. This session will begin at 9:30 a.m. and should be adjourned around 4:00 p.m. The main purpose of this Seminar is to discuss the various problems which confront the Department of Public Safety in our everyday efforts.

There will be a special session on Driver Licensing, which legislation is needed in the entire area of Driver Licensing? Do we need more License Examiners? Do we need Periodic Re-examination of all Drivers? How can we cope

The News welcomes letters from its readers, particularly on subjects of general interest. The author must sign the letter and his name will be used. The publisher reserves the right to condense.

These questions were all asked with the previous Seminars and solutions used to be developed. Doug J. Sullivan, Director of Driver Licensing, Frankfort, Ky.

No EXTENDED BENEFITS: President Kennedy's request for renewal of additional unemployment benefits was passed by the House Ways and Means Committee by a vote of 13-12. Democrats and the administration were shocked at the outcome. Republicans quickly pulled the committee action.

Kentucky was the second state to set up a state-supported system of mental hospitals (1816).

Frontier Editor explored. For instance, Ed claimed he was reading a piece about a Cannibal Chief in a book about a post where he was getting a victim ready for dinner. Ed allowed as how the post was down that way in a U.S. Department of Agriculture pamphlet titled, "100 Ways to Serve Mammoth."

Dear Mister Editor: I reckon we had what them Congressmen would call a filibuster at the country store Saturday night. Ed Doolittle took the floor and it was harder to get him to get down than to get Senator Morse to shut up.

First off, Ed was upset over reading in the papers where Senator Gruening of Alaska got up in the Senate the other day and give a long speech for his new state. He announced that men was out-numbering women in Alaska by 22,000 as of now and advised women to hurry to Alaska afore the ban closed.

Clara Weikert allowed as how they used the Senate for voting else and he didn't see nothing in that. She was trying to get rid of the bachelors in Alaska. He recollected met when Schatzky of Virginia got up in the Senate and give a recipe for apple pie, advising that nothing but Virginia apples was fit for the best pies. Furthermore, claimed Clem, Senator Byrd even had the recipe printed in the Congressional Record. Anyhow, even if Clem, bachelors ain't voted for raising no more families, coming along to meet the tax load. Come to think about it, said Clem, it was a mighty pathetic thing for Senator Gruening to get up in the Senate and advertise the shortage of women in Alaska.

But Hookum was lamenting it was a great pity them Senators didn't spend more time on items like the shortage of women in Alaska and appear in Virginia and less time on stockpiling and foreign aid. He said it was a pity the taxpayers would pay for Zeke Grabb, who is a authority on women, put the lid on this subject by claiming there was a dead issue by now anyhow. Zeke reckoned that 24 hours after the Senator announced that Alaska was stampeding with women.

Another item Ed claimed upset him a bit was that piece on our latest pamphlet from the Department of Agriculture announcing some college boys doing some melon vines that would grow six or eight melons to the vine like tomato vines. Ed claimed the country was already overstocked with watermelons and also we knew if the taxpayers would pay money for them for storing the surplus.

All that nonsense, we agreed that folks would have more peace of mind if the Department of Agriculture would quit raising out any more pamphlets till we get the News.

Kentucky, which manufactures 30 per cent of the world's Bourbon whiskey, was the birth-state of Carrie Nation, mother of the prohibition movement.

A record-high 1,776 mentally and physically handicapped Kentuckians were rehabilitated during the last fiscal year by the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services of the Kentucky Department of Education.

Morehead Won't Be Very Short On Business Rooms

Morehead will soon have several new businesses... at least we are certain of several more business openings. The office boy figured this morning there are now, or soon will be, 11 new (or vacated or renovated) store rooms available this fall. Some businesses are moving to new locations, but that leaves a vacancy for somebody else at the location. (For details read the advertising columns.)

Pass Up A Demise At Your Peril

We conjecture what you would think of this newspaper if the editor refused to print an obituary about a local citizen... a member of our family.

Russell L. Metz, editor of the Owingville News-Outline makes this point — "I read about one editor who steadfastly refused to publish an obituary on any person in his community who did not have his papers. He concluded that anyone who died without his papers being found around him while he lived had not actually lived and therefore worthy about his death was a waste of space."

Editor Metz continues — "I haven't gone that far in the News-Outline. We still print about anything that's fit to print and we don't care who dies. It's a fellow's privilege to choose between taking our paper or not, and what's going to happen to even a fellow who has not amounted to much while he lived will be mentioned in our paper when he dies because that may be the one and only newsworthy thing he has done."

We don't have to worry much about this at the RCH because just about everybody in this county area, takes the paper... the few who don't are generally without money. By that, that we mean they don't have enough money to pay for the paper. Then, unfortunately, they still have a few who can't read or write.

More than 50 per cent of our subscribers are over 50 per cent blind, many are blind to the RCH than there are families in Rowan County. Of course, these are not (nearby counties) subscribers, and to people who have moved away.

If the New York Times covered its immediate trade area (Greater New York) in the same percentage ratio as the Rowan County News covers its immediate trade area (Greater Morehead), the New York Times would have delivered 4 or 5 million papers three or four times a day.

Getting back to Editor Metz's comments — we know of several companies that do job applicants if they subscribe (or read) their local newspaper. If the answer is "no," a big black mark is registered against that person on the premise that anyone who isn't interested enough in what is going on in his home community won't have much interest in his job.

DATE — Make only one plan for Sunday, Sept. 23. The Robin oral polio vaccine clinic at Morehead. No matter your age or previous status you should get this. The vaccine is harmless... only two drops on a lump of sugar.

DRESSING UP — We've written reams about the pitiful condition of the Rowan County courthouse. It's so bad that Sheriff C. E. Lewis has painted and renovated his own office at his own expense.

STILL TIME — Folks tell us this is the biggest State Fair ever. It ends Sunday at Louisville. It was so big last Sunday many had to be turned away. The Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center is the finest in the U.S.

REDS DOWNFALL — If the Reds had won all the games they have lost when they were ahead with two men out in the 9th inning the Reds would be in first place. REGISTRATION — Deadline has passed to register for the Nov. 6 general election. We'll have the Rowan figures from Clerk Otis Elam next issue.

PROUD OF THEM — The College of Dentistry at UK opened last week. A total of 133 applied for admittance, but only 37 could be accepted in the first class. Of the 27 approved two are from Morehead — Keith A. Brooks and Joel Sautzer.

PROPER — Of all the legal documents we read the last will and testament of John M. Palmer seems the best worded, most concisely and properly expressed, etc.

HOUSING — People are all but sleeping on the streets of Morehead. The college opened this week and then came the influx of the spread men (and families) laying the gas transmission loop through the town of Carter and through Rowan.

HARD TO FIND — Kentucky State College students are exempt from the $10 City of Morehead state sticker tax, only their residence in the city is subject to the tax. If John Smith lives in Morehead, and his residence is in the city, he is subject to the tax. But, if Jimmy Jones lives at Ashland and attends college at MSC he doesn't have to pay.

OUR STATE — Here's some info about our state that might interest you — Kentucky ranks second to North Carolina in tobacco production. In 1958, Boone was captured by Indians while making salt at Lee's Blue Licks. Prior to the Civil War Kentucky was the major producer of salt... Kentucky produces more hogheadhayed than any state in the Union. Reminiscing — When a young teacher was in grade school the teacher, discussing the Mormons, asked: "Have any of you ever been to Salt Lake?" Our offspring was the only one to hold up her hand. When asked to describe her visit it developed she thought the teacher wanted to know if any had visited Salt Lake (in nearby Bath County).

The "worst enemy of advertising is inefficient, sloppy advertising and there is a lot of it." "People who extend liberal support to the churches seldom worry about what they get in return." "Many people who claim they do not believe the Bible have never tried to find out what it says." "Planned judgment is the difference between wisdom and foolishness."

Republicans Open Drive At Somerset

Sen. Thurston B. Morton continued to pound away on what he termed the basic issue in his campaign for re-election in November to a second six-year term in the United States Senate.

Officially opening his campaign in Somerset Saturday, the Republican senator said the top issue is which candidate is best qualified to deal with the problems of the nation and the state during the next six years.

A statewide radio network and a crowd estimated at from 2,000 by some observers, "5,000 a little better" by Somerset Police Chief Harold Catton heard Morton describe the specific issues as:

1. "The so-called medicare bill. The (Kennedy) administration proposal is not medicare but limited hospital and nursing-home care."

2. "The administration's agricultural program. I don't think the federal government should have the authority to take over the farms, which is what Secretary Freeman asked for."

3. "The problems of education in the State of Kentucky. I am convinced that the only practical answer is a 'pull' in the needy states and districts in need of their construction needs for primary and secondary schools."

4. "The atheist-communist conspiracy with its fountainhead in Russia poses the greatest threat to our way of life. I have had substantial experience in dealing with the communist menace."

The former congressman and assistant secretary of state said, "I know that the Communists are pressed only by hard-boiled reality. We have won when we have stood firm and backed bold words with bold deeds. We must clearly state our position and we must always have the strength and courage back up our position."

The people of Kentucky realize that there are already too many fuzzy-thinking advisers around the president in this connection.

Morton was introduced by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, of Somerset, who said, "The way a crowd has stuck in this rain is the greatest testimony you can give that you intend to stick with Sen. Morton."

He called for "the traditional majority of 50,000 votes from this district" (the former 5th Congressional District now the 5th District).

Cooper described what he sees as two great issues: 1. "Our present situation is a 'pull' in the Communist camp that cannot make up its mind." 2. "The uncertainty that arises about Cuba."

Sheep Vote Could Be Controversial

By J. E. Starford (Ky. Farm Bureau)

An important referendum for farmers who produce sheep will be held September 30 to 21 to determine whether the check-off of one cent per pound for wool shall be continued from payments due producers under the Federal Wool Act.

The referendum is being held under Section 708, a provision of the National Wool Act which provides discretionary authority for a government check-off for promotion and advertising of the wool.

The check-off of one cent per pound of wool is not at issue.

This check-off has amounted to about three million dollars per year or a total of some 18 million dollars since 1935. This money has been made available to the American Sheep Producers Council by the government for promotion and advertising of wool and lamb.

To be continued, the check-off must be approved by two-thirds of the wool producers voting or by approval of two-thirds of the wool represented in the referendum.

Although a majority of those voting in past referendums have favored the check-off, a very large number of producers failed to vote. It is significant that the majority of eligible voters express themselves at the forthcoming referendum after giving as fully informed as possible.

The proposal to continue compulsory deductions of one cent per dollar per year from payments due producers should be considered carefully in the light of the disappointing results to date. On the basis of six years of experience, it appears that producers have little to gain from check-offs to finance the promotion and advertising of wool and lamb.

It is evident that the programs carried out during the past six years have been disappointing since the price and consumption of lamb and wool have dropped and the use of man-made synthetic fibers and the use of other meats has increased. A recent report by the USDA forecasts a further reduction of five per cent in wool and four per cent in lamb production this year.

Farm Bureau urges each producer to study the facts and vote his convictions.

Five Added To Faculty At Morehead

Five new faculty members have been added to the Department of Social Studies at Morehead State College, President Adron Duran announced this week.

The newly named faculty members are: Dr. Lillalye Akers, Associate Professor of Sociology; Dr. Dee Akers, Associate Professor of Economics and Political Science; Joe LaPage, Assistant Professor of History; Don Platt, Instructor in History; and Harold L. Whiteman, Instructor in Geography.

Dr. Lillalye Akers comes to Morehead from Midway Junior College where she has been Chairman of the Department of the Social Science Department and Co-Director of the Guidance and Counseling Department since 1955. She holds the AB degree from Wheaton College and the MA and PhD degrees from the University of Kentucky. She served in the Pacific theatre for the American Red Cross from 1942 to 1947 and was an instructor in the Department of the University of Kentucky during the 1944-45 school year.

Dr. Dee Akers, who holds the AB, LL.B. and PhD degrees from the University of Kentucky, has served as a member of the Legislative Research Commission in Frankfort and has had a private law practice. He received the PhD degree this summer.

LaPage has worked for the Louisville Chamber of Commerce, was an administrative analyst for the Legislative Research Commission, and has served on the staff of the Commissioner of Highways. He holds the AB and MA degrees from the University of Missouri and has completed all of the class work for the PhD degree from the University of Kentucky.

Platt has taught at Owingville High School for the past two years and holds the AA degree from West-Hardeman College and the AB and MA degrees from Morehead State College.

Whiteman, a four-year veteran of the Army, taught in the New Castle, Ind., school system in 1950-51 and was a graduate assistant at Ball State College in 1951-52. He has worked for the Ball Band Division of the U.S. Rubber Corporation and for the Bendix Aviation Corporation. He holds the BS and MA degrees from Ball State College.

Dr. Clifford Rader, Chairman of the Division of Social Studies, calls the new faculty members "assistants in their fields of endeavor."

"These five people will add great strength to our program and are looking forward to working with them in the days ahead," Dr. Rader added.

Development program, is the most practical and effective action considered by the present Congress for Eastern Kentucky and for the underdeveloped areas in the Appalachian region. It is our intention to work further for the elimination of such a program limited to severely distressed and underdeveloped areas and to the creation of most needed public facilities, as a permanent program to provide the basic development that is essential in these areas," Wyatt said.

Combs, who noted that the public works program was recommended by the Conference of Appalachian Governors through the President's Task Force on Area Development named to the committee his special assistant for development programs, John D. Whisman, as chairman; Robert Cornett, director of the Division of the Budget; and Walter Shouse, director of the Division of Planning and Zoning in the Department of Commerce.

Local offices of the Planning Division will have information on the program at a later date. The purpose of the committee and the expedient will not be to take applications or to make recommendations, Whisman explained, "but will be to provide full information about the program to state agency and community officials as quickly as possible."

Wyatt included the program in an eight-step proposal for development of Kentucky's coal region in a special Labor Day speech to the United Mine Workers at Jena.

Beef Plentiful In Stores This Fall

You'll find plenty of beef on grocery meat counters this fall, according to Mrs. Letta Jasper, UK ES, extension specialist in consumer marketing. Beef will be somewhat more plentiful than it was last fall, but less pork, chicken and turkey are expected on this fall's markets than a year ago.

Beef prices will average about the same or slightly lower than those of last fall—with steaks, roasts and hamburger showing the price declines, Mrs. Jasper says. Last year's record-high production and low prices received by producers account for the lower turkey and chicken production this year.

More eggs will be available the rest of the year than during the first six months, she predicts. Small and medium-sized eggs will be the better buys for a few weeks; then, heavy supplies of large-size eggs will again be seen.

Fresh fish supplies will continue plentiful through September, and processed supplies will insure plenty of frozen and canned supplies throughout the coming year. Clams, fish sticks and perfumes, halibut, lake trout, scallops, white fish, whiting, yellow perch, fillets of cod, flounder, haddock, and ocean perch are among the better buys in this area. Dealers now are busy on local markets, too.

At the first opening in September, you'll see more and more apples; not so many melons; increasing supply and variety of grapes; and a wide range of Western peaches; about the same amount of citrus fruits, avocados and bananas; a strange amount of Western peaches and plums; and smaller amounts of berries.

Cabbage, carrots, celery, head lettuce, peppers, potatoes (both white and sweet), and winter squash are among the vegetables that will be good buys this month. Hot, dry weather has limited the supply and shortened the season of many vegetable crops in this area, Mrs. Jasper points out. This means prices will be higher than many times, since they must be shipped in from other sections of the country.

Maximum Aid Aim Of Kentucky

Special action to gain maximum dollars and jobs from the federal public works program now being in Congress has been taken in Kentucky even in advance of final approval of the bill, according to a joint announcement by Governor Bert Comb and Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt.

A special state three-man expediting committee to insure early approval of the bill, according to project proposals has been at work since early June, the governor said. Arrangements have been made for the employment of a full-time expediter who will work with the committee in securing grants for state agency projects, as well as local community projects.

The expediter will go to work as soon as the bill becomes law, according to the governor, who said that funds for the purpose have been made available from the governor's Emergency Fund.

The governor did not name the expediter, pointing out that several applicants are under consideration.

"Kentucky has more areas eligible to qualify under this program than any other state except Pennsylvania," the governor said, and we intend to make every effort, not only to get the maximum number of dollars and jobs from this program in Kentucky, but to use it wherever possible to create the basic facilities so essential to development in many of our areas and communities. The criteria of such facilities are often not possible under the criteria of present programs. There are many problems of criteria qualification of many Kentucky communities even under this program, and that is our reason for planning in advance to expedite Kentucky's efforts."

Wyatt included the program in an eight-step proposal for development of Kentucky's coal region in a special Labor Day speech to the United Mine Workers at Jena.

Morehead Fashionettes Score Lexington Hat Show Success

Mrs. Deane Tant devastated two hundred Lexington Woman's Club devotees with a dazzling showing of fall millinery Tuesday afternoon in the Phoenix Hotel Ballroom.

WOMAN AT WORK! Two hundred Lexington ladies craned eagerly to see the satin turban swirly face form.

In charge of the local Lexington arrangements was Mrs. Lucille Caudill Little, a well known Morehead native, now a prominent Lexington clubwoman.

Five stunning chapeaux were modeled in the show and another 125 were displayed in what Lexington fashion experts declared was the most outstanding fall collection of hats in the tri-state region.

The highlight of the show was when Deane demonstrated the decorative and artistic hat-making process. Working deftly and swiftly, she fashioned a sharp chapeau from some satin and several materials she had brought along for the purpose.

Mrs. D. B. Caudill won a beautiful cake made in the form of a pink bow.

The stylish sextet of Moreheadians who went along to lend their support, both moral and actual, to Deane in the show were the conventional focus of the afternoon with their avant garde millinery styling. The ladies agreed upon one thing: Above all, the Right hat!

Among those from Morehead attending the annual Cooper family reunion Sunday in Fleming County were Mrs. James Cornett and children, Jean, Connie, Jimmy and Sammie Frank, Frankie Lee, Ferguson, John N. Ferguson, Jr. and Mrs. Don Erwin and son, Jackie.

LUCKY LUCILLE LITTLE got the hat in the drawing for the door prize at the Fall Fashion Revue staged by Deane (Mrs. Norman Tant) for the Women's Club of Lexington Tuesday in the Phoenix Hotel Ballroom.

Farmers Should Guard Against House Burning; Top-Dressing Of Pastures Pays Dividends

By Adrian M. Rizer (Rowan Agricultural Agent)

Let's watch our tobacco barns closely. When tobacco remains in high case at the barn for a period of 24 hours, there is a danger of house burn starting. Close the barn at night to keep out the fog and dampness and open it in the day if the sun is shining and weather is dry. Movement of air through the barn is important to carrying off moisture releases.

In periods of wet weather we may need to use heat, and, for that reason, a supply of coke is valuable. We usually think a pound of coke will cure a pound of tobacco. This is a rule of thumb, but, of course, in cases where the firing is done continually, it probably won't hold true.

Pastures Should Be Top-Dressed. If you haven't top-dressed your pastures this year, now is a good time to do so. A soil test is a guide to determine what analysis to use. A well-fertilized pasture never "plays out".

Plant Beds Are Valuable. This is a good time to turn those soy beans that you sowed in your plant beds when you finished setting tobacco. This will let them decay and be in good shape to sterilize in the next few weeks.

Full fertilization will pay large dividends on next year's tobacco crop. Use any of these methods—burning, methyl bromide or one of the soil drenches. If not only gets a job out of the way, but it will do more for insuring good disease-free plants than anything we know.

September Is Shrub Planting Month. Have you been planning to do some landscaping around the home?

If so, September is a good month to plant evergreens. Be sure to use shrubs from a reputable nursery and follow a landscape plan.

This Is Soil Test Month. Soil testing is an important guide in a sound fertilizer-liming program. No crop can produce top yields if there is a shortage of any one element in the soil. If you want to know what your soil is lacking, send a sample and bring it to the Extension Office and we will test it for you. This is probably the best time of the year to take samples.

Trying To Dope Our Farmers. We saw two out-of-state pickup trucks in Morehead with spray painting rigs.

We have some of them every spring, and fall, and they usually "take" some of our people by using poor grades of paint that comes off at the first rain. Don't fall for any of their sales talk either if you have painting to do, deal with someone you know and can depend upon.

Investors Told Insurance Stock Value Is Up By Over 40 Percent

Stockholders and contract policy holders of National Investors Life Insurance of Kentucky heard a favorable financial report of growth and progress from President Harry Lee Waterfield at an area dinner-business meeting Thursday at Doran Student House in Morehead.

About 250 attended from Rowan, Carter, Elliott and Menifee counties.

Waterfield, who was the guiding hand in founding the insurance firm 16 months ago reported —

Company stock which sold at $5 a share is currently quoted, across the counter, at Louisville at $7, or an increase of 40 per cent. No additional stock offer is anticipated.

The company sold over $34 million in insurance last year, a record high for any insurance concern in Kentucky.

Purchasers of the "unit policies" have an exceptionally sound investment. (Each stockholder was permitted four contract policies).

In its first year the company made about $14 million.

Of the 1,400 life insurance companies in the nation, Investors Life of Kentucky, has, in 16 months, become larger than 600 others.

Waterfield told the group the company hadn't embarked on any costly advertising, public relations and promotion campaigns, but "we have operated soundly and progressed more rapidly than anticipated primarily because of the work of our 125 agents."

The forecast continued progress and increasing net worth of the company Waterfield said "first year profits are being piled back into the company this year 'to make our position ever sounder."

STOCKHOLDERS, POLICY HOLDERS—These are the Rowan Countyans who attended the area meeting of the National Investors Life Insurance Company of Kentucky Thursday at Doran Student House in Morehead. President Harry Lee Waterfield is at extreme left, front row. These stockholders and contract policy holders heard a report the company sold over $34 million in insurance the past year, and their stock had increased in value at least 40 percent.

Police Graduate A Record Class

The Kentucky State Police Academy has just graduated its largest class of cadets since its founding in 1960. Forty men were in the class.

Herold Conley, Lancaster, was class valedictorian. His average for the course was 91.05. Gerald Archer, East Point, was runner-up with an average of 92.15.

Among subjects studied were criminal and traffic law, techniques of arrest, court preparation and testimony, scientific aids to investigation and self defense.

THEY INVESTED—Prof. William Caudill and Mrs. Caudill told Harry Lee Waterfield at Morehead Thursday: "We bought stock in your company because we knew of your integrity." It has proved a remunerative investment.

Gasoline Refund Deadline Near

Farmers have until Sept. 30 to file for federal tax refunds on gasoline used for farming purposes during the past fiscal year (July 1, 1961 to June 30, 1962).

This reminder comes from Stephen Q. Allen, UK Extension specialist in agricultural economics.

Farmers must use Federal Internal Revenue Service Form 2230 to claim for this refund. These forms are available from the office of the District Director, Internal Revenue, Louisville 2, Ky., or from your county extension agent.

The amount of the tax refund is four cents for each gallon of gasoline used for agricultural purposes off the highway. Allen concludes.

Call For Reservists Under Study

Senior military officials, believe it would be unnecessary to call to duty only a relatively few reservists or National Guardsmen in event of another emergency on the scale of last year's Berlin crisis.

However, any more serious new threat in Berlin or Cuba — or both — likely would bring as big a mobilization as the summer of 1961. Then 145,000 Army-Air force and Navy reservists and National Guardsmen were mustered into federal service for a year.

Whatever the diplomatic reasons might be, President Kennedy's report to Congress, Friday, for authority to call up a new batch of 150,000 reservists and Guardsmen was regarded from the purely military standpoint as a standby action.

No special mobilization schedule has been ordered for the immediate future, informed sources said.

However, there always are mobilization plans in the files of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the individual armed services — in deal with various potential threats.

The United States now has 15 combat-ready Army divisions. A total will be in ready-to-flight shape by Oct. 15.

In the summer of 1961, the United States had only 11 combat Army divisions and three independent strength divisions used mainly for training recruits.

The three training divisions were brought to a war footing when the Soviets began their first diplomatic push against the Western position in Berlin. At the same time, two Army National Guard divisions were mobilized.

All the Army, Navy and Air Force reservists and Guardsmen who saw Berlin crisis duty have had a year's training in the Supreme Court — "God, save the United States and this honorable Army National Guard division and the court" — which might be used 608 Armored, of Texas.

Kentucky Has Law On Unwed Mothers

Gov. Bert Combs said this week a new state law permitting the courts to take children away from unwed mothers when their home conditions are unsuitable "ought to be strictly enforced"—at least for a trial period.

"Let us see what strict enforcement will do," the governor told the Henry County Social Services Advisory Committee, one of 120 such county committees that advise the State Division of Public Assistance on welfare matters.

Romblin' Thru Williba

Them hot rodding airplane drivers have just about ruined all the poultry in Williba. Ain't no ducks and chickens hardly a tail what have hatcheted this summer. Them airplanes a busting the atmosphere have ruined the setting egg worse than thunder does.

Not only have them Sonic Bums destructed the poultry hatcheting but they've done considerable damage otherwise. Fellers just can't hardly stand them things especially when he is sort of nervous and sore up because of the troubles the Congress are a having a setting the Farm Bills and Medicare Bills passed up there in Washington.

Mac Crech tells us she thinks she and shoot that Sonic Bum right out of the air. She would have already done so but that busting bang gets her so rattled that the airplane is gone before she can get straitened up enough to know what done happened.

Mom's neck is still cricked. She had just eat a bite of supper and set down out on the porch and set down. One of them Sonic Bums went by and she thought it lifted one of her good legs right off the refrigerator and tossed it onto the floor and she had to pick it up. Mom had come out on the porch and that banging noise made her jump so quick and nervous like that she jerked a crick in her neck and she can't turn her head now. Mom aims to destruct them planes if she ever does get a bits of one of them. She can't stand such foolishness out of the Air Force or nobody else. She thinks they ought to bust and frichten them Russians and Cubans and things like that and let us have some peace.

Harris Hood Kidd planted him a big watermelon patch upon the hillside and he had him a lot of good big melons a growing but them planes they set to flying and a making them bang so loud

Them Airplanes Breaking Sound Barrier Is Ruining Chicken, Duck Hatchings

By Clennie Hollon

That it jolted his melons loose from the vines and they have all rolled off'n the hill into the hollow. We ain't checked on this but we nearly sold it were so. Hood ain't plumb pleased with the Air Force and their Sonic Bums. He tells us them things have got him a doing the Twist and he thinks a doing the Twist is wrong but he can't help it when them planes goes off.

Cesar Koid says he nearly knows that he will swallow a knife or fork before them Sonic Bums quit flying around up there in them spaces. Nearly ever time he begins eat supper them Sonic Bums begin to boss around up there in the atmosphere and them big banging noise causes them much nervousness and tenseness and he knows that if the bang goes off when he has got a eating meal next to his mouth, he will swallow it and maybe smotherate.

Bob Noble is a fat man and his heart is stubborn. He just can't hardly stand them Sonic Bums a playing around up there. Them banging noises jolt Bob up a right and he lies up on a steep hill and he's scared they will upset him so bad that he will roll jump over the hill and get brained up real bad. He could tear one of them Sonic Bums to pieces if he could get a bolts of one of them.

Pap and Mam Hollon went out to eat a bite with Lace Crech and Pap got choked real bad when one of them Sonic Bums banged off. Pap wouldn't have got choked so bad while eating supper but the noise of that plane caused Mrs. Lace Crech to jump upon the table and this frightened Pap worse and he got choked on the grubstuff he were a eating. Them Sonic Bums are a disturbing the peace and quietness of Williba and frichten them folks both mentally and physically.

Mac Combs will say rough words but he is nearly as nervous as ever (one of them things busts up there. He says it sort of plebs him to say harsh words when other fellers are around but he just can't help it when them noises come so sudden like. Mac was nearly farrered over the eating table 'other night 'supper and when he finished eating he nearly cut his throat while he was shaving. A feller couldn't shave when them Sonic Bums are a busting around up yanner in space.

Feed Bryant says them things wouldn't be so bad if they would sort of warn a feller but they bang off and then they let their airplane go to making a airplane noise.

The hears of Williba are a peaking. Them Sonic Bums ought to quieten down some.

Mr. Doc Wee won't live thru the antics of them Sonic Bums if it don't look like. He is a nervous feller and he hunt for no rabbits or nothing else.

'Stay-in-School' Urged By Combs

The 1961-62 school year in Kentucky has been proclaimed "Stay-in-School Year" by Gov. Bert Combs. The proclamation points out that "the individual's economic prosperity and personal well-being, and the contribution he can make to our American way of life is dependent on his level of education," and urges Kentuckians to acquaint themselves with the non-enrollment problem and drop-out of students from their local schools.

POLL TAX BAN GETS O.K.

Ending a 32-year battle, Congress has approved a proposed Constitutional amendment which could ban poll tax in federal elections. The vote was 295 to 96. The House completed its action on a resolution submitting to the state legislatures the proposition of making it constitutionally wrong to require payment of poll tax to vote in elections of federal officials. Now it is up to the states, which will have seven years to make up their minds.

State Christens New Western Lake

Lake Beesher in Western Kentucky has been officially christened.

State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlick led the honors in special ceremonies held at Dawson Springs.

As chairman of Gov. Bert Combs' Lake Development Committee, Matlick made the announcement for the 857-acre impoundment in Caldwell and Christian counties near Dawson Springs. The lake is part of the state's small lakes program for which the 1960 General Assembly appropriated $1 million.

It is named for the late Fred Beesher, Hopkins County civic leader and four-time member of the State Legislature.

Other state officials who spoke were Highway Commissioner Henry Ward and Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Minor Clark. Dawson Springs Mayor Norman Dixon was master of ceremonies.

Matlick said that 17 lakes are in construction, planning or investigation phases in the Chain-of-Lakes Program. He added that seven will be completed this year. "Of these, nine are highway fills converted into dams, and eight are conventional type dams such

TAX PROVISION PASSED

The administration was victorious when the Senate voted to keep in the tax revision bill an investment credit provision designed to encourage American business to modernize its plants. Considered a key provision in the complicated measure, it was one of the reasons President Kennedy decided to put off until next year seeking an across-the-board tax cut.

"An unprecedented 75 new classroom units for teachers of exceptional children have been approved by the State Department of Education. Children suffering from physical and mental limitations are designated as exceptional.

Shell engineer uses stethoscope to help detect noise the ear alone can't hear. Super Shell fights three different engine noises to give you top performance.

How 3 of Super Shell's 9 ingredients fight engine noise—including one hard-to-hear form of knock that could lead to real damage

SHELL scientists will tell you that any good gasoline should reduce engine noise. That's why they include no less than three noise-fighters in Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend. Here's how they work to help give you a soft-spoken engine—and top performance.

This cluster is actually a series of premature explosions. They're caused by glowing deposits that ignite the fuel too soon.

Super Shell's famous TCP* additive tackles this problem. It acts as "fireproof" deposits that might glow. Result: chance of wild ping is greatly reduced.

Gum preventive helps keep carburetors clean inside.

Platformate is for extra mileage.

Butane is for quick starts.

Pentane mix is for fast warm-ups.

Anti-icer (added in cold weather) helps check carburetor icing.

Try a tankful of Super Shell today. Then, you'll know what top performance really is.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2892,112.

How Super Shell fights high-speed knock

High-speed knock makes a sharp, high-pitched noise—like metal tapping against metal. Because it's most likely to occur in hot engines at turnpike speeds, high-speed knock is often difficult to hear.

But even though you may not hear it, high-speed knock can pound away at pistons—even lead to costly damage.

Fortunately, high-speed knock isn't too common. But Shell scientists have known about it for a long time. Ever since they pioneered the development of a substance called Alkylate to help control high-speed knock in aircraft engines. Today, Alkylate is an ingredient in Super Shell gasoline.

How Super Shell fights ordinary knock

Most people have heard ordinary knock. It may sound to you like marbles dropping into an empty oil drum.

Super Shell's anti-knock mix is so powerful that a teaspoon per gallon is enough to raise anti-knock rating a full five points.

This anti-knock mix helps regulate the combustion of Super Shell. Thus, each piston gets a firm, even push. Not a sharp, jarring jolt.

Now, read how the other six ingredients in Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend help you get top performance.

How Super Shell's other ingredients help you get top performance

Cracked gasoline helps your engine deliver smooth, even power.

Wild ping doesn't last long. It sounds like the erratic beat of a nervous drummer.

Bracken Boy In Tractor Contest

Kenny Gerhard knows a lot about tractors — enough to win the state 4-H Tractor Operators' Contest with a perfect score on the written exam at last year's State Fair.

The regional contest, where winners of 4-H Tractor Operators' Contests from 26 central and western states will compete, will be held on the Ohio State University campus.

The 26-year-old Bracken County boy hopes to equal the performance of Kentucky's representative in last year's regional contest and bring the championship back to Kentucky for the second year in a row.

Last fall, Carroll Crider, Caldwell County, won the regional contest, which was held in Texas.

Nursing Home Plan Pushed In State

A major expansion of the state's medical-care program designed to provide better nursing home care for the newly aged will go into effect Jan. 1.

The program has been approved by the Advisory Council for Medical Assistance, a group appointed by the governor, and will be administered by the Department of Economic Security and Health.

The new program will provide up to 120 days of full per diem costs of care in selected "higher criterion" nursing homes for some newly cases. All licensed nursing homes in the state will be eligible for $125 monthly payments from the state for pre-authorized aged and public assistance recipients, depending on their other sources of income.

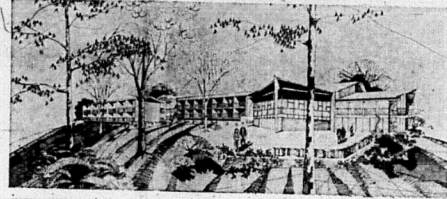

Under the new program public assistance recipients requiring nursing home care will receive an increase of about $18 per month, with the payments going directly to the nursing homes.

State Health Commissioner Dr. Russell Teague said the new program is "admittedly conservative, but it is the best we can do now, but it is the best we can do now, and he considers it as necessary."

Earle V. Powell, economic security commissioner, said the program "is the best possible time-wise and money-wise."

The council also approved a broadened dental care program for indigents to include 14 additional dental services, including denture repair and fluoride treatments, subject to review by the Health and Economic Security department.

The fluoridation program could reduce the incidence of cavities among youngsters by 40 per cent and save thousands of dollars of state funds in the future, according to Dr. C. D. Carter, a council member.

NEW LODGE at Jenny Wiley State Park near Prestonburg will be dedicated Sept. 22nd, the fifth in the series of new State parks lodges and lodge additions being opened this summer and fall. The ultra-modern 50-room lodge overlooking Dewey Lake will be formally opened to the public in ceremonies attended by Gov. Bert Combs, State Parks Commissioner Edward

V. Fox and other State and local dignitaries. Each guest room in the $775,515 structure will have its own private balcony overlooking the lake. The 200-seat dining room (at right on architect's sketch) projects outward to give diners a commanding vista of the lake through wide expanses of glass.

Pennyrile Park Gets New Lodge

A third new lodge in Kentucky's $18-million parks expansion program — this one at Pennyrile State Park — has been officially welcomed into the state park family.

State officials on hand for the dedication ceremonies included Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt, acting in behalf of Gov. Bert Combs, who was unable to attend. Lt. Gov. Wyatt shipped the ribbon that marked the official opening of the lodge.

Besides Wyatt, others who spoke were Highway Commissioner Henry Board, chairman of the State Parks Board; Parks Commissioner Edward V. Fox; and Mack Sisk, director of Kentucky's Division of Industrial Promotion. Dr. A. W. Spriggs, Mayor Norman Dixon served as master of ceremonies.

The 24-room air-conditioned addition, built as a wing to the existing dining room and lodge, is the third new state park lodge to be dedicated this summer. Others were at Kentucky Dam Village and Carter Caves State Parks. A total of eight new lodges and lodge additions will have been built and dedicated before the summer vacation.

tion season opens next year. Construction is scheduled to begin on two other lodges this fall.

Following the lodge dedication, Wyatt, Ward and Fox took part in groundbreaking ceremonies for the nine-hole golf course to be built at the park.

Fox described the formal opening of the lodge as the "final touch" in converting an ugly duckling tract into a principal Kentucky vacation resort.

He said the area was once 14,000 acres of eroded, cut-over timberland, but is now a model of good soil conservation.

Wyatt praised the people of the Dawson Springs area — first for their foresight in saving long ago the possibilities of Pennyrile as a tourist spot, and also for their tireless efforts in helping to develop that vision.

The average youngster can tell his or her parents how life should be lived, and then some.

Drop Out of State Students Is Alarming

An intensive study of what can be done to reduce the high drop-out rate of state students is being conducted by the State Department of Education.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler announced this week that Billy Braden, Cave City, has been appointed state supervisor of guidance studies.

Butler will conduct the study under supervision of a drop-out study committee appointed by Butler. Dr. Frank Braden, statistical services director, is chairman of the committee.

It will be Braden's task, Butler said, to establish a system for an annual collection of data on school drop-outs in Kentucky. The department has no system for determining why a student drops out, and if he subsequently enrolls in another school.

Butler said the objective of the study is to create an awareness of the loss of the power of Kentucky's schools in relation to state and national norms. He hopes results of the study will stimulate local school districts to accept their responsibility to educate all school-age children to the maximum of the students' ability.

A recent state study showed holding power increased by 5.9 per cent during 1950-51 but the state is still below the national average.

The study said that for each 1,000 students enrolled in the fifth grade in Kentucky public schools in 1951, only 420 completed high school in 1951.

The national average of public and non-public schools in 1950 was 684 high school graduates for each 1,000 students who entered the fifth grade in 1950.

Butler called the drop-out problem one of the most distressing facing education. He noted President Kennedy's Labor Day message to the young people of America, urging them to return to school. The President said an estimated 7,500,000 students had failed to finish high school in the 1950's unless the nation takes positive steps to prevent it.

Braden came to the Department of Education from Ft. Campbell Dependents Camp, where he was guidance director. He has also taught at Lattin and Meade County high schools.

He was graduated from Cayuga High School in 1921 and received a master's degree in education from Western Kentucky State College in 1950.

Beauty Queen Owes Her Title To Diet

Take it from Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayor, girls, it pays to diet. As a chubby little girl in Sandusky, O., Jackie dreamed of being Miss America. Today she is looking fresh and bright-eyed even though she slept only from 4 a. m. to 8 p. m., Sunday Jackie met reporters and photographers at her first news conference since being crowned Miss America of 1962 Saturday night in Atlantic City, N. J.

"I've always had this dream, and I never thought I would have a chance to become Miss America," she said. "As a child I was always chubby until I was about 16 years old. I guess it's all right to say it — I weighed 150 pounds."

"But when I was a sophomore in high school," continued the hazel-eyed 20-year-old beauty, "I decided it was about time to lose some weight. We ate at the school cafeteria, so I saved money by having lunch. I also watched my evening meals and hardly ever ate breakfast."

Although her 36.2236 figure gave no evidence of it, Miss Mayor said she still has to be careful of what she eats to remain at her 115 pounds. She is five feet, five inches tall.

Jackie, as her friends call her, was an exchange high school student at Kapfenberg, Austria, during the 1959-60 school year, and her weight rose above 130 pounds, she said.

"But you're only in Austria just once, and I enjoyed the food too much to worry about it," she added.

She said she also exercises "occasionally" — when I'm in the mood "to tone her muscles."

Miss America aspired to be an actress, but she said she first wants to complete her education. She attended Northwestern University last year and is to be a sophomore when her reign is over.

Jackie said she "never gets steady" but has "some steady" at present, however, there is no one boy in the picture. She said she won't care whether her husband is "tall or short, fat or thin, just as long as he has integrity and sincerity and believes in himself and what he is doing."

The Miss America title carries with it a $10,000 scholarship, and Jackie's personal appearance during the year are expected to bring her an estimated $75,000.

Investigation Is Sought In Meat Prices

The National Farmers Organization asked the U.S. Justice Department this week to investigate newly announced meat price increases.

Oren Leo Staley, of Rea, Mo., NFO president, said he sent the Justice Department a telegram saying the organization has reports indicating that the price increases may be the result of "collusion and price fixing by a major packer and chain store."

The NFO is sponsoring a move to keep livestock off the market in an effort to force meat processors to sign contracts agreeing to pay higher prices to farmers for their meat animals.

After a week of sharply reduced livestock receipts, major packers and chain stores announced Friday that retail meat prices would be increased this week. They said the increases might run 10 to 15 cents a pound on some cuts.

Staley has termed the meat price increases uncalculated and unjustified. He said the holding action thus far has increased prices received by farmers for their livestock by 3 to 5 per cent, whereas the proposed retail price increases "will run as much as 20 per cent on some cuts."

SBA Loans May Be Made Much Easier

Small businessmen in the Ohio and Kentucky areas should find it easier to get a bank-backed Business Administration loan as the result of a new lending program now in effect, James G. Garwick, SBA Regional Director, said this week.

The new program was developed jointly by SBA and the American Bankers Association, Garwick said. SBA Administrator John E. Horne and Alan M. Fleming, President of the American Bankers Association, have urged all of the nation's commercial banks to participate.

"This loan plan has the full and enthusiastic backing of the American Bankers Association," Garwick said. "I believe the banks will find it offers them substantial advantages and will help them do a better job of meeting the credit needs of their small business customers."

Under this new program it should be easier for small business men to obtain secured term loans up to 10 years from their banker, with the federal government underwriting a large part of the transaction.

"In essence," Garwick said, "the program is this: The banks will make and service the loans and provide at least half of the loan remainder. The bank's share of the loan will be repaid before SBA starts collecting a cent on its share of the loan principal."

As explained by Garwick, here is the way the program works: If a small businessman needs, say $100,000, for qualified business purposes and can repay the loan in 10 years — SBA will advance up to 50 per cent of the money, with the bank taking a corresponding share. All repayments on the part of the bank for the first five years. The SBA will defer collection on the above until after the bank's share has been retired.

"Under this program the small businessman needing a loan will deal entirely with his bank," Garwick said. "He need never visit an SBA office."

"One of the greatest needs of small businessmen is long-term loans to help them expand and create more jobs," he said. "SBA is aware that banks have ample resources to finance small business, but many of them are understandably reluctant to enter the term financing field. Yet longer maturities often are essential to properly finance some needs of the business concern."

"We believe we have developed a loan plan which meets SBA's dual objectives of providing small business financing, while at the same time utilizing the resources of the private banking system," he said. "SBA will in most instances rely substantially on the bank credit judgment, but sufficient safeguards are provided to protect the government's interest."

Garwick said his office would work closely with the banks in this area and that SBA officials would be glad to explain details of the new loan plan to any interested businessman or banker.

The SBA serves small businesses in Ohio and Kentucky. The Regional Office is located at 1270 Ontario St., Standard Building, Cleveland, O. The Branch Office is in the Commonwealth Building, Fourth and Broadway, Louisville.

Bootlegging Criticized In Floyd County

Organized bootlegging in Floyd County reminiscent of Chicago's days of gangsterism, was described by Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill in the grand jury as that body prepared to begin an investigation of crime.

In his talk instituting the grand jury, he suggested that State Police and the sheriff's office should band together to put an immediate stop to the situation. He said it is rumored that one individual has the wholesale liquor rights in the county.

A few weeks ago, Judge Hill told the jury, a "liquor load" from the Blue Grass came to or from the block building on the lease or purchase of property on which has been built a concrete block building into which a truck could be driven. He pointed out that this building is located behind a residence, and added, "It could hardly be a grocery store."

The block building referred to by the judge is on Brandy Keg, a short distance outside Jerry Wiley State Park. County court records show that the property was sold by James E. Stone to W. B. Williams, Dec. 5, 1960. If Williams has sold the property, the deed has not been recorded. A cousin of the community said a woman at the property recently said she was Mrs. W. B. Williams and that she had the deed proposed to make of the property their summer home.

"Needed in these hills, comparatively isolated, we are now getting a good road, a college, public housing, fire facilities at the lake, thanks to our good governor. I think it is time to clean up our town and stop bootlegging in the city corner," Judge Hill told the jury.

PLEASE, DON'T HURT MY LITTLE GIRL

THIS WEEK, my daughter who is seven years old, will start a new year in school. Her name is Dorothy. Sometimes we call her Dot. She'll wear a dark blue dress with a white collar. She'll have on black shoes with colorful anklets. Her dog "Scottie" will say good-bye to her at the front porch — and whine his canine disbelief at the folly of education. And Dot will leave for the Hall of Learning.

Last night we talked about school . . . all those vitally important little-girl things. She went up to bed and slept with Prince Edward — that's her doll — cuddled in her arms.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? I'm her father and as Dads are sometimes prone to think, little girls are very, very special. When her doll is broken or her finger cut or her head gets scraped, I can fix that. But when she starts to school . . . crosses the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a sweet little girl and I'm proud of her. She can run like a deer and dart like a chipmunk. We have great fun together on summer picnics and swimming in the pool. But now school starts again. I can't be with her all the time . . . I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her.

Please drive carefully, drive slowly past the schools and intersections . . . and please do remember that children sometimes do run from behind parked cars.

Please don't hurt my little girl. YOUR NEIGHBOR
