

THE ROWAN COUNTY WAR.

The COURIER-JOURNAL'S special correspondent, at Morehead, in a telegram published this morning, gives at length a history of the trouble in Rowan county. Mr. T. G. WATKINS, of the COURIER-JOURNAL staff, is in the disturbed section for the purpose of getting the bottom facts, and his first report will be found as interesting as it is reliable. One faction, the TOLIVERS, was master of the field yesterday. There was no shooting during the day; and it is said by our Frankfort correspondent that a compromise has been effected, so that there will be no necessity for the presence of State troops.
