On Clear Ck, nr Wildie, Thos. Fish built a log home in 1800. His sons early settled in Renfro Val. Also the Abraham Brandman home.... (Ibid., P. 23); The Rock. R's. main tribs: Roundstone, Skaggs, Horse Lick Cks. Rounds.' main tribs: Crooked, Brush, Renfro, & Clear Cks. (Ibid., P. 74);
Isaac Lindsey, who came here with a hunting party in 1767, observed a lone rock which resembled an ancient castle. From this the river was named, later the county. Dr. Thomas Walker and party, first white men to visit the interior of Kentucky, were at this rock as early as 1750."

(Highway marker, Courthouse yard, Mt. Vernon, acc. to GUIDE, No. 1254, P. 280); Org. 1810 from sect's. of Lincoln, Pul., Madison, & Knox Co's, the state's 52nd co. Named for the river "bordering it on the se." (Robt. Mullins, WPA ms, c. late 1930s); The co. is in the so. edge of the Bluegrass & foothills of the Cum. Mts. (Floyd Owens
ROCKCASTLE COUNTY, KY: 318 sq. mi. "This co. was est. in 1810 from parts of Knox, Lincoln, Madison, and Pulaski Co's. and named for the Rockcastle R., a trib. of the Cum. R, which flows along its se border with Laurel Co. The r. was 1st named Lawless R. by Dr. Walker in 1750 for a member of his exploring party. It was renamed in 1767 by long hunter (sic) Isaac Lindsey for a huge rock with an overhang that could provide shelter for a large no. of persons. The pioneers often called these natural formations 'rock castles' while their smaller counterparts were merely 'rock houses'. Historians have never agreed on the precise location of this rock." (Book-P. 254);
ROCKCASTLE COUNTY, KY: The law creating the co. was enacted 1/8/1810, eff. 4/1/1810; Among the co's. pion. settlers: Langfords, Bufords, Hendersons, McCalls, Kincaids, Jones, Terrills, Smiths, Elkins, Millers, W.P. ROCKCASTLE Co. (Ky.): Named for the Rockcastle River. The river was first named Lawless River by Dr. Walker & party in 1750 for a man named Lawless, a member of the party. It was renamed Rockcastle R. in 1767. (John Lair, "Hist. of Mt. V. and R. Co." MT: VERNON SIGNAL, 11/28/1968, P. 12:1-8,4). Isaac Lindsey, one of the Long Hunters from S.C., 1767, changed the name. The co. was named for the river when it was formed in 1810. "Lindsey said that he named the river for a large and romantic looking rock he found there. There is a difference of opinion as to just which rock he had in mind. Many people believe it was the big rock on the Laurel side of the river abou
3 mi. upstream from Livingston, which does bear considerable resemblance to an old rock castle. J. Stoddard Johnson, outstanding authority on early settlement in Ky., writing in 1898 of Dr. Walker's expedition is inclined to believe that it was this rock Dr. Walker described and which served as a shelter for him and his party for several days. As I read Walker's journal, however, I am inclined to doubt this. He indicated that the rock, or cliff, he had in mind was situated on a creek some distance from the river and that the cavity beneath it could have furnished ample shelter for 200 men....It was customary in pioneer days, to speak of big sheltering cliffs as Rock Houses and those that were exceptionally large, were called Rock Castles...." (sic) (Ibid. P. 13:3-4); ROCKCASTLE CO., KY: Coal produced in the e sect. of the co. Commercial limestone. Hilly e. sect. of the co. and rolling hills in the west. Good farming. By mid 1960s 70% of the co. was forested. (Floyd Owens, "A Brief Sum. of R. Co." undated brochure); 52nd co. org. 318 sq. mi. Named for the river. In 1825 the e sect. of the co. was taken to form Laurel Co. with the river serving as its bound. ½ of co. is in Dan. Boone Nat'l. For. Much of the co's. terrain is rugged for it's in the w'end of the Knobs. "Narrow vals. & steep hillsides and swift winding cks." long impeded movement. Much of co. was inaccessibl till late 19 cent. Agri. is main source of co's. econ. with some ind. dev. Pop. (1970)=12,305, (1980)=13,973, (1990)=14,803. (J. Allen Singleton in KY. ENCY, P. 778);

BURNT BRIDGE (Rockcastle Co., Ky): A ridge at the edge of the co. at the summit of Big Hill. Here is a string of c. 20 houses. The Burnt Bridge Rd. is off US421. Adjacent is the Berea Coll. For. in Madison Co. The ridge forms the dividing line of the Clear Creek and Red Lick watersheds. Clear Creek flows past Disputanta. Cow Bell Hollow is a branch of Red Lick. Nearby is Pigg Hollow. "From Burnt Bridge, all the land in every direction slopes and sometimes falls over high sandstone and limestone cliffs of the Pottsville escarpment into the deep valleys below. All the hillsides are covered with trees." The place is called Burnt Bridge, not Burnt Ridge. Presumably named for one or more fires on this feature. Jess Wilson relates the Miracle at Burnt Bridge....

"Pilot Knob is in the center of the Red Lick Valley. When you are on top of the cliff you can see Burnt Bridge ridge and the highway snaking up the Big Hill....the top of the knob which must not be over an acre and a half....The bridge that burned was across a gap in the ridge. It was a dry land bridge.

(first) called Reeds-ville thru most of the 19th cent. Acc. to a taped interview with local resident, John Payne, 2 post offices served the area--Reeds-ville and Uno (sic) (the latter up the hill to Big Hill). Both were closed. Local effort to re-est. a single office and both names were suggested. Each had its partisans who couldn't agree. Residents "left it up to..."
Col. Jim Marette (sic), (then) editor of the Mt. Vernon Signal. He named it Disputanta (Latin for 'that which is disputed')." But most residents--past and current--call the community Clear Creek. (Pp. iv-v) The com. is centered on the chu. & tanyard. Tannery was owned by a Lex. family of Reeds for whom the commu. was first named. Tannery in operation at least by the Civil War. Probably the community's 1st industry. The tanyard was on the s. side of Todd Branch at its confluence with Clear Creek....The Reeds also owned almost 600 acres of forest around the tanyard and other, smaller land parcels in the area.

The Reeds=H.W. & A.P. Reid who bought the yard from Travis Dodd in 1855. And "expanded the operation". The Reids (Reeds) remained outsiders employing local men. Many workers lived in company-owned houses. Company also had a commissary next to the tanyard... GREAT SALTPETER CAVE (Rockcastle Co., Ky): ca. 13 mi e of Mt. V. and 3 mi from the Jackson Co. line. Formally discovered 1798 by John Baker, a hunter, tho' evidence that it was visited much earlier by whites. Geo. Montgomery is said to have begun mining the saltpeter there with imported (from other states) workers before Dr. Brown reported on the cave to the American Philosophical Soc. in Phil. in 1804. This op'n. is also said to have been the region's biggest industry at one time. It was the biggest supplier of saltpeter for gunpowder in the W. of 1812 and the Mex. War. Cave was used as a C.W. hosp., a "haven for moonshiners" even before prohibition, and as a stage and dance floor for Lair's Renfro Val. prod'ns. (Bill Estep. "Heritage is Up For Sale at Renfro Valley Cave" LHL, 8/26/1985, Pp. A1,10); James Kincaid "was actively mining salt­­-­peter from the cave by 1800". In 1989 the cave was again sold to an hist'c. preservation group. The prop's. mgt. was invested in the National Speleological Soc. for the exploration, conservation, and study of US caves. Now called the Great Saltpetre Cave Hist'c. Preserve for cave's cleanup and restoration. (from their undated brochure);
GREAT SALTPETER CAVE (Rockcastle Co, Ky): The cave is said to have been discovered in 1792 but the saltpetre deposits there weren't discovered till 1797. The cave was used as a hiding place for livestock during the C.W. and for moonshining op'ns. during prohibition. ca. 8 mi from Ronfro Val. (J.C. McKinney, Jr. of Dunmor, Ky. 1949 ms. on the cave in the Ky. Libr. at WKU);
GREAT SALTPETER CAVE (Rockcastle Co., Ky): 8 mi ne of Mt. V. and 4 mi n of Pine Hill Sta. (L&N), 7 mi ne of Liv. on US 25. Discovered by pion. John Baker. From it were taken saltpeter for gunpowder (during the War of 1812 & Mex. War). The cave passes thru a Big Hill spur for 3/4 mi. 21 ft high n. entrance and 15 ft hi s. entrance. Main chamber and several branch-off room with 10-39 inch veins of saltpeter mined there and hauled out by oxen. The road betw. the 2 entrances was level and straight. The rooms and passageways are named.... (Robt. Mullins, wpa ms, late 1930s); The cave is 0.8 mi long with 2½ mi of caverns. Callele the Gt. Saltpeter Cave. John Lair owned the cave since the 1930s and it was sold by auction on 8/31/
1985 to Stanley Rain. Lair sometimes used the cave for his Renfro Val. barn dance performances. The cave, which overlooks Crooked Ck, was discovered in 1798. In 1804 Dr. Sam'l. Brown of Lex., Ky. discovered saltpetere deposits there. Soon its then owner Geo. Montgomery began mining the saltpeter. (Kit Wagar, "Auction of Cave Brings Memories" LHL 9/1/1985, Pp. B1, B5); Cave was discovered 1790 by Baker in (the present) Crooked Ck. commu, 15 mi n of Mt. V....Gunpowder used in W of 1812, Mex. War, & C.W. was made from the saltpeter mined here. Cave is ½ mi long. Still evidences therein of the mining op'n. Names some of its features....(ms. on cave, unauthored & undated, in KY. Rm., MSU Libr.);

HUMMEL (Rockcastle Co.): Named for David Hummel, ne Germany, to US 1841. Died 3/1894. He founded a masonry co. in Cincy, the David Hummel Bldg. Co., now called Hummel Industries Inc. He was ne Wurttemberg, 1822. The commu. was named for the company by the area's residents. Several quarries and mills. Before 1930 the commu. had a sch., the Hummel Bapt. Chu., depot-po-commissary bldg. Between Wildie and Langford Sta. on the Ky. Cent. RR (L&N) & Roundstone Cr. Several spur lines that are now gravel roads "connected the quarries and mills with the main rr line." Hummel was sparsely settled rural area betw. Wildie and L.S.--a rr siding.
The area was a cheap source of bldg. stone for the Hummel Co. In 1896 the co. acquired the holdings of a Lex-based freestone quarrying co. Hummel was there for the next 30 yrs. Freestone="A fine grain, even textured sandstone. (it) is easily cut and carved and was a pop. bldg. material during the late 19th and early 20th cent. for both interior and exterior work." The Lex. group had bought 100 acres "adjoining the right o way nr. Langford Sta." They called themselves Ky. Freestone Co., Inc. This co. was bought in 1895 by the Hummel Co. and kept this name. Under the management of Dave Carter. Quarry and stone sawing mill. Most employees were local farmers....The area's sole industry. The co. provided the site for the sch and chu. The commu. until 1930"revolved around the quarry and mill." With the end of freestone's popularity as a bldg. material during WWI and the appeal of easier to acquire Indiana limestone, the company ended the quarry operations by 1925. Closed the mill in 1927 and all the land and equipment was disposed of by 1928. Now: no sch., chu., mill, commissary, depot and the spur line tracks are gone too. The Hummel Rd. now is gravel surfaced. Nothing left but the ruins and some isolated homes.

Reason for renaming it Maretburg: He had prevented the collision of 2 trains. The rr did the naming. He had no connection with the place and lived in Mt. V. (Opp Bussell, Jr., interview, 4/29/1978); MAREETBURGH (sic) (Rockcastle Co., Ky.) "...was originally known as Mt. Guthrie and undoubtedly was so named in honor of James Guthrie, the first president (of the L&N RR). Its name was changed to Mareetburgh in 1880...as a tribute to Colonel Jim Maret, famed Rockcastle County citizen, who was then an operator on the Lebanon Branch. Colonel Jim averted a serious mix-up when he detected a mis-reading of train orders which would have had two trains meeting at Mt. Guthrie instead of Mt. Vernon. Then and there, the management decided that the Lebanon Branch had too many 'Mt.'s' and too close together so the name of Mt. Guthrie was changed to Mareetburgh. Colonel Jim later became famous for his work for good roads in Kentucky and was responsible for many Rockcastle County 'firsts,' including its first newspaper, the Mt. Vernon Signal, and its first telephone line and telephone exchange." (RR South, "Our Station Names" L&N MAG., 11/49, P. 14).

...(Floyd Owen, brochure on Rock. Co., c1970);
Acc. to Collins (1st ed.) Robert Langford built a home nr. Mt. V. later occupied by Judge Wm. McClure. About that time, his son, Stephen built the Langford Tavern in Mt. V. These two bldgs. are believed to be oldest in the co. (Ralph Griffin, "Brief Hist. of R. Co." MT. V. SIGNAL, 11/30/1939, reprinted in ibid., 11/28/1969, p. 8).
MT. VERNON (Rockcastle Co., Ky): Centers at jct. of 25/150, 2 mi w of I-75. Vic. 1st settled by 1790 at what was called Spout Springs. Acc. to trad., Stephen Langford, i founder, named it for Geo. Washington's Va. home. On. the Wilderness Rd which was rerouted thru here in 1792. Its pop. was only 750 before 1900. Stephen Langford's Sta. was a travelers' inn. The town's 1st business was the Rev. Jas. McCall's tanyard nr the springs. It was the 1st comm. enterprise. Modern ind. dev't. didn't come till the completion of I-75. Mt. V. Plastics Corp. (1980). 5th cl city with pop. of 1639 (1970), 2334 (1980), and 2654 (1990). (Singleton in KY. ENCY. 1992, Pp. 658-9);
MOUNT VERNON (Rockcastle Co.): ("Mownt Ver\nan") The Langfords were early settlers in the county, perhaps the 1st (He thinks it was James). DK the site of early day Langford. DK who were the 1st settlers of present day Mt. V. (Opp. Bussell, Jr., interview, 4/29/1978); Mt. V. was at one time called White Rock ("W(eye)t R(ah)k") when the co. was est. c1810. Just a big white rock at the site where they later had a lime kiln (c. 50 yrs. ago) at the site of the present fertilizer factory. The Mt. V. name was applied when the town itself was est. for Wash's. home in Va. The Langford commu.
was at site of the later Langford Sta. at Hummel. ("L(ae)ferd"). Can't recall the particular—Langford it was named for.
(Charley Carter, interview, 4/29/1978);
Mt. V. was the co's. only town till the arr. of the Knoxv. Br. of the L&N in 1868 but it was soon joined by Brodhead, Pine Hill, Liv., etc. (Mt. V. Signal, 1901, repro. in KY. EXPL. Vol. 16 (10), 4/2002, Pp. 42-3);
I. MOUNT VERNON (Rockcastle Co., Ky): Pop. (2000)=2592. On the L&N's Knoxv. Div. 1890, 1870, 1881, 1883; Site of Langford's Station, occupied by Stephen Langford who may not have built it. His father Robert lived nearby. Another possible Langford's Sta. was on the Rock. R. between Ft. Sequoyah & the mouth of Skaggs Ck (sic). The route way of Skaggs Trace). (Lair, Recollections, 1991, Pp. 36-7); Wm. Handerson, Va-born surveyor, here by 1794. Surveyed for self 1000 acres. Said to have built 1st house in vic. Later sold it to Stephen Langford who was living there by 1810. He (or was it Stephen) is said to have named the hs Mt. V. for "its fancied resemblance" to Washington's Va. home and suggested the town be named that too which it wa when it became the co's seat. He also was one of those who named the co. for the river. (Lair, Roots, Pp. 76-7);
MOUNT VERNON (Rockcastle Co.): Stephen Langford, acc. to Collins' HIST. was (one of) the 1st settlers in the co. and (one of) the 1st residents of the Mt. V. site. (John Lair, "Hist. of Mt. V. and R. Co." MT. VERNON SIGNAL, 11/28/1968, P. 14:5); The 1st settlers were in there before 1814 and by then the largest commu. in the co. was Mt. V. (Ibid. P. 14:7); The old Langford Inn was built there at least by 1792. This house may have been built in 1790. But Lair mentions that Chas. Henderson had "written an acct." in the SIGNAL several yrs. before "in which he stated that Col. Wm. Henderson had this log mansion built soon after the founding of Boonesboro...as a way station between his home in NC and Boonesboro, and that on frequent horseback journeys betw. his 2 properties he always stopped and spent some time in this home, which he called Mt. Vernon because of its location being so similar to that of Geo. Washington's home, Mt. V. Both were long bldgs. and both were on the brow of a hill with a long sloping lawn in front of it. One, of course, was a colonial mansion, the other a crude log house....When a little vil. grew up around it, what more natural than that it should be called Mt. Vernon." And by this name it was inc. on 2/3/1818. (Ibid Pp. 14:8-15:1-2). Stephen Langford from NC before 1800 and was son of Bob Langford. Stephen owned extensive land in Rock. and adjoining co's. (Ibid. P.15:6-7)

SCAFFOLD CANE (Rockcastle Co., Ky): Chu. & settlement at jct. of rds to Crab Orchard & Boonesb. The latter crossed Big Hill. 1st settled 1784. "...a profuse growth of cane--mentioned in many of the old diaries ....The name.. is a reminder of these early hunting days, for Dr. Draper in his ms. bio. of Dan'l. Boone gives a minute acct. of the hunters' practice of constructing scaffolds of the cane, on which they placed their half-dressed furs to protect them from the wild beasts until enough could be gathered to make up a pack for the market in Va. or N.C. .... Trad'n. among the settlers holds that the cane scaffolds were used to dry ginseng which abounded in that sect., and also that the Indians used it to construct temporary huts while they were on their hunting expeditions in the country. A few of the cane patches may yet to seen. Trad'n. supports this origin of the name of the settlement and an old map of 1812...even attaches to it the Rock. R. It has been applied to a ridge...and later to the pike that comes to Berea."
