Lynn who arr. at this site ca. 1800 with a party of hunters fro Bowling Green, Va. He or his party is said to have gotten lost and the remains of the old camp site on the ne bank of the ck. were noted 2 yrs later by a search party, which then named the ck. When the L&N Rl reached this vic. in 1882 it named its sta. Lynn Camp."
The po, est. on July 24, 1883 by storekeeper James Eaton was called Cummins for the town's proprietor & founder Nelson Cummins who was instrumental in getting the rr sta. located here. On Jan. 2, 1885, the po was renamed by Eaton for Rev. Jas. Corbin Floyd, a minister of the local Christian Chu., whom he held in high re­gard. Since Eaton was also the L&N's local agent, the sta. was also renamed Corbin. The town was inc. in 1902." (Book-P. 68); Acc. to 1895-6 Gaz, it had a pop of 2000; Its pop. (in yr. 2000) was 7742. Whitley Co' sect=5877 and Knox Co's. sect. = 1865 (Census); C. ha a CSX diesel-maintenance facility (1992). The rr employed 750 workers in the early 1990s;
CUMMINS (Whitley Co., Ky): Nelson Cummins (12/25/1831 to 7/25/1905), son of John & Esther Boyd Cummins. A businessman and landowner. His name was suggested for the Corbin p.o. but there was already such a p.o. in Rock. Co. Nelson marr. Margaret Cox and then America E. Sears. He served in the C.W. (Acc. to 1994 Whitley Co. hist., P. 203);
CORBIN (Whitley Co.): po est. as Cummins, 7/2 1883, Jas. L. Eaton; 1/9/1884, Stephen J. Watts; n.ch. to Corbin, 1/2/1885, ibid. ...5/2 1889, Nelson Cummins... (NA); Named in 1885 by Jim Eaton. He was 1st postmaster, 1st storekeeper and first rr sta. agent. Main line of L&N RR built thru that vic. in 1883 and came to Jellico, Tenn., in '86. The sta. was called Lynn Camp Creek and the po was Cummins. J.L. Eaton was rr's 1st agent, 1884. Named the po for Nelson Cummins who was instrumental in getting sta. located there. POD told him the po needed another name since there was another Cummins po in Rock. Co. Acc. to Eaton's testimony a few years before his death on 4/11/1937.
"when I rec'd. that letter Rev. James Corbin Floyd was in the office and told me to name it Corbin. He was the best man I ever knew and I told him that I would name the town after him....The railway sta. was then calle Lynn Camp, but there was another Lynn Camp in Knox Co., so the rr co. changed the name to Corbin....Mr. Nelson Cummins was the father of the town and too much could not be said in praise of his untiring efforts to locate the town here. I...owned the first store in Corbin...."...(Dean Eagle, "Corbin Had Hard Time Getting..." LEX. LEADER, 6/30/1938, Sec 3, P. 11:1-4);
CORBIN (Whitley Co.): 1st called Cummins by 1st storekeeper James Eaton for the town's founder & proprietor, Nelson Cummins, while the rr sta. was called Lynn Camp. The following yr. he was informed by the POD of the need for another name since Cummins was then the name of a Rockcastle Co. PO. Another Lynn Camp Sta. in Knox Co. When Eaton rec'd. th letter from the POD, as he told it, "Rev. Jas. Corbin Floyd was in the office, and tol me to name the town Corbin. He was the best man I ever knew, and I told him that would be the town's name." The L&N also applied th Corbin name to its local sta. Eaton was the rr's 1st agent there, 1884. ("Postmaster Picks Name for Village" CORBIN DAILY TRIB., 75th anni. ed. Newsp. section, 2/23/1967, P. 9:1); Lynn Camp Creek was named for the camp of Wm. Lynn who, with a party of hunter from Bowling Green, Va. in the late 1790s or after the turn of the cent., came to the sit of Corbin and discovered this creek. They were "reported lost and a vol. group from Old Va. set out in hunt of him (sic). Two years later (sic) they came upon the remains of an old campsite on the ne side of (the) creek...(They) were found later safe back in Va. It was this searching party that (named) the creek and also the entire region extending beyond what is now Gray, Ky. Lynn Camp Creek. "...the old Barton settlement still bears the name of Lynn Camp." "The earliest settlement in what is now a part of Corbin was on Bacon Creek, another trib. of Lynn-Camp Creek." House built there in 1812. Another settlement several mi. w. and another called Whippoorwill which had a trading post, po, 2-3 log houses. The McHargues lived here. The Shotwell Settlement (for Jim Shotwell who had a mill there)....For years this vic. was called simply Lynn Camp. When the post. it was to be called Cummins Sta. for Nelson Cummins in whose home it would be located. Name was shortlived for another po in state with this name prompted a change. Woodbine or the Joe Fields preceded Corbin. The rr really created the city 3 mi. north of Woodbine at Lynn-Camp on a main n-s trading rte....The rr reached Corbin in late 1882...The Lynn Camp Bottoms site of Corbin was swampy land and for a long time devoid of much settlement. Only pop. of c. 200 covered a large area in 3 counties. Served by Woodbine and Whippoorwill PO's. A Mr. McHargue ran a trading post just n. of the creek. Corbin po was est. in the Whitley Co. part of the new city. Nelson Cummins was the 1st pm. The po was never called Lynn Camp. That name applied only to a large area "extending all the way to Gray." Lynn Camp couldn't be used for the new po for it wasn't definite enough. The POD authorized James Eaton, L&N RR agent there to choose a name. "He had just rec'd. the letter requesting a ch. in name, and he showed it to the first person that he met. The Rev. James Floyd, a minister of th Xian. Chu. who jokingly said, 'Why not name it for me? My middle name is Corbin.' Mr. Eaton promptly answered the Postal Dept. and suggested the name Corbin, which was accepted. This occurred during the late 1880s." The name was adopted about the time the work on the Cumb. Val. Div. of the L&N began, on 4/29/1886...Corbin's growth & dev stemmed from the opening of rr service...
Industrial dev. paced "the expansion of rr facilities....The opening of coal mines in (the 3 counties) accelerated business in Corbin." Corbin was the trade ctr. for a part of the 3 counties....Inc. as a 6th cl. city in 1902. Lynn Camp Creek divides Whitley and Knox Co. at Corbin. Conversion to diesel and decline in coal prod'n. led to unemployment and fear of econ. depression. The L&N RR payroll had been the chief econ. basis for the commu. But within a short time new industries brought in and depression was short-lived. Econ. revival...Textiles, Nat's Standard plant, coal washing plant...
Now: Greater Corbin's pop. = probably double that of the city itself. The valley is "filled" and homes now occupy the surrounding plateaus... Trad. ctr. for over 70,000 pop.... ("A Hist. of Corbin" by John D. "Pete" Feather, CORBIN DAILY TRIB. Corbin sect. of the 7th anni. ed. of the newsp, 2/23/1967, Pp. 2ff);

"In Whitley County, there is a place called 'Idiot's Branch.' It is said that at one time, an old man lived alone in a little cabin beside the road which runs along beside the small creek. He was a cross old fellow and didn't like to be disturbed. When boys traveled that road at night, whooping and calling to each other, he would come out and curse them and call them 'Idiots,'--so it became 'Idiots Branch.'"

Earlier called Stillwater Br.
JELLICO (Whitley Co., Ky): "This rail ctr. on the Tenn. state line, 9 (air) m i s of Williamsb., is generally identified with Tenn. tho' a sect. of it is clearly in Ky. This town, the nearby stream and commu. of Jellico Creek, the ex coal town of Bon Jellico, the Jellico and Bon Jellico Mts—all in W. Co.—may have been named for a mt. in McCreary Co. called Angelica Mt. by the early pion's. The mt., in turn, is said to have been named for the angelica root found locally and supposed to have some medicinal value. This name was locally corrupted to djihl/ə/kee and later to djehl/ə/koh. J. Ck. is said to have been so identified before 1818. Yet it has also been said that the town, which was settled before 1800 and may first have been called Smithburg for the large no. of Smiths among its early settlers, was inc. as Jericho, and that Jellico had derived from a typographical error in the charter." (Book-P. 153);

Jellico was named by the E. Tenn., Va., and Georgia RI Co. which began constructing line from Caryville to Smithburg in 1979, completing it in the winter of 1882-3. In 1884-5 the So. Ry. acquired this line. (Geo. F. Allen in LaFollette Press, 1/23/1958); JELLICO (Whitley Co., Ky. and Tennessee): Rec'd. this"name in the early 1880s when it was changed from the earlier Smithville because of the coal of that name. Geologist had already baptized a certain seam as the 'Jellico Seam' which was then just beginning to be exploited with the arrival of both the Lou. & Nash. and So. RR's. in the young town."The Jellico Seam was so called because it was first tapped in the Jellico Mts which lie to the west of the town--and beyond which flows the Jellico Creek from Tenn northward into the Cumb. R. (sic) (Jellico is not on Jellico Creek at all--and is actually at some distance.)/"Jellico Creek first appears in the old records (the earliest is 1812) as Gelco River with several variants with both 'J' and 'G' and a Tenn. map of the 1830s shows it clearly as Angelicarner.="/"And indeed the Angelica Root did grow profusely in the region. My informant of the 1930s, then an old man, wa a native of the region, and told me that th root was used for 'medicinal purposes' but also as an intoxicator.="/"So, town from the coal, the coal from the mountain with same name of the creek (sic) (it seems to have lost its status as a river) and ultimately from a plant./"Still, I suppose Jellico natives today might tell an investigator that the name...was a mistake and should have been Jericho! And as for that "'Gelca Root' it has long since been supplanted by gensing (sic) and marijuana and few today may ever have heard of it....." (James Hayden Siler, Oak Park, Ill. 60302, letter to me, 7/8/1986)
The Jellico po in Tenn was est. 10/29/1878 as Smithburgh with Thos. M. Smith, pm. N.Ch. to Jellico on 8/6/83. It was inc. as a town 3/7/1885. (Jas. H. Siler); Acc. to 1930 Census, it had a pop. of 405;
JELLICO (Whitley Co.): Jellico, Tenn. was 1st called Smithsburg for the large no. of Smiths among the early settlers. It was inc as Jerrico "but through a typo. error in the chartar it became Jellico." There was a settlement here as early as 1795. The bituminoous coal in the area "burns slowly and has low ash content." (TENNESSEE: A GUIDE TO THE STATE, Am. Guide Series, NY: Hastings House, 1939, Pp 332-4);
JELLICO (Tenn): Seat of Campbell Co. Named for the angelica root growing in that area. Pioneer settlers "are said to have made an intoxicating drink called 'jelca' or 'gelca' from this root. Until 1883 the settlement was known as Smithburg for the many Smiths that lived there from its est'mt. Major industries (in the 1930s) were coal mining, drug manu., rain coat factory, coffee manu. Commu. settled 1795. Inc. 1885, 1903, and 1907. (Sources included James H. Siler, local historian....) (CAMPBELL CO.--Its Cities, Towns, and Points of Interest--Pamphlet published by Bonnie M. Page of Lake City, Ten. from Fed. Writers Proj.. data, 1936)
JELLICO (Whitley Co., Ky): On I-75 and the Tenn. state line. First called Smithtown. Locally renamed Jericho. Misspelled by error on the incorp. papers. (Dr. Larry S. Nichols, Rt. 3, Box 12, Salyersville, Ky. "In a Nutshell: Christians are Volunteers" col. in THE PRESTONSBURG POST, 5/29/1985, P. 16:1=4)
JELLICO COAL: so identified by Crandall by 1885. Coal was discovered in Jellico Mt. in the late 1870s. (Jas. H. Siler). W. Co. was Ky's 2nd leading coal producing co. in the 1890s. (Ibid.) Named for angelical root. The mt. range was 1st called Gilico and the coal seam, etc. took its name from that. N.ch. to Jellico by the E. Tenr Va. & Geo. RR Co. which began constructing a line from Caryville to Smithburg in 1879, completing it in the winter of 1882-3. In 1884-5 the So. Ry. acquired this line. (Geo. F. Allen in LaFollette Press, 1/23/1958);

JONES CREEK (Whitley Co., Ky): At its head Wm. Jones had a corn mill. (1994 co. hist., P. 13);
JONESES SWITCH AT MOUNTAIN ASH (Whitley Co., Ky): Mr. Jones had a farm at the forks of the river. The rr wanted to come thru there and everyone was getting big prices for their land. He said "Well, I'll let you have my land at a reasonable price..but you must put up a sign here that says Jones on it. And I want all the local trains to stop here if I put the flag out." So they agreed to it. And for yrs local trains would stop at Joneses Switch....One of his sons...U.S. Jones later became a prominent businessman in Jellico. His first name I believe was Isom. They called him Honey Isom (but dk why)...I think he called everybody 'Honey'. Now nothing, not even a sign; only a switch, never a commu. (Verbatim acct. by Gene Siler, interv., 6/23/78);
"JULIP (Whitley Co., Ky): "This po on Ky 92, at the mouth of Deep Br. of Cumb. R, 4½ (air) mi e of Williamsb., was est. on 10/17/1917 with Mrs. Nora Sullivan, pm. At this time, acc. to one acct., 'If You Wore a Tulip' was a pop song and Rosa Sullivan fancied the rhyming reference to 'julip' in the last line and submitted that word to the POD. However, J.W. Sullivan, local historian and long-lime storekeeper, recalled that the Julip name had been applied to the commu. long before the po was est."

(Book-P. 156); PO was est. by Nora Sullivan on 10/17/1917. She was succeeded on 1/26/1921 by Rosa B. Sullivan (POR-NA); Acc. to 1900 Census, John W. Sullivan (1/53) wife Eliza (7/65) lived with daughters Nora L. (7/91) & Rosa B. (2/97), etc;
JULIP (Whitley Co.): Est. 11/26/1917 by Rosa B. Sullivan. The POD would accept her preferred name. Was asked to submit a list of 10 and they'd pick. "I just couldn't find one for the tenth. I was humming the song, then new to me 'When you wore a tulip and I a red, red rose, Your lips were sweeter than julep (sic), etc. So the p.o.d. picked Julep which is spelled that way. A beverage to drink but the Dept. spelled it Julip." (Rosa B. Sullivan, Rt. 1, Box 94, Williamsburg, Ky. in letter to Miss Delphine Haley, 10/31/1974);
JULIP (Whitley Co.): po est. 10/17/1917, Nora Sullivan... (NA); only an active po. now (obs. 6/1978); ("Djülap") Active po. Acc. to Ms. Sullivan who was the 1st pm, at the time the po was est., there was a pop. song "If You Want a Tulip" and some reference to a julip. She liked the song and so she submitted that name to the POD. She was still living until a yr. or so ago. Now: only po bldg. Doesnt think it ever had another name. Rosa Sullivan was the person Siler had interviewed. Nora could have been her mother. His informant indicated that she had been the 1st pm. (Eugene Siler, 6/23/1978);

LOT (Whitley Co., Ky): Acc. to Alvin Harlow in WEep NO MORE MY LADY, this was a small settlement called Bosstown in 1856. It was later called Boston. One mi. n. of the state line & 10 mi. s. of Williamsburg. It was named for Francis Faulkner, a pioneer settler, who was locally called "Boss." Said to have been the scene of political violence during the 1856 election (pres.) (Acc. to Jas. H. Siler in App. Notes, Vol. 2(1), 1st q., 1974, Pp. 14-5).
LOT (Whitley Co.): po est. in Knox Co. 7/6/1853; Jas. Faulkner (then into Whitley Co.)...Disc. (7/31/1863); Re-est. 7/17/1866, John W. "You could cast your eyes over Lot and somebody did that in thinking of a name for the new depot--rr sta. (He) said 'that reminds me of the plains of Lot in the Bible.' This is all fertile, it's all level and it's the sort of territory that Lot chose when he was given the choice to make..Before that it was called Boston. ("B(aw)s/ tan") and the schoolhouse over there is still called Boston Sch. And this came not from Boston, Mass. but from a man whose name was Boss Faulkner and so they called it Boston because he was a prominent citizen there. I believe he had a store...I guess people related the name of Boston, Mass. to Boss Faulkner so they gave it this name of Boston....Faulkner is a prominent family in this area." DK if James Faulkner was Boss or if Boss was the man's real name or a nickname. Thinks that the Lott spelling was an error....Thriving commu. in its early days with a now defunct Masonic lodge, 2 stores, chu. Now: sch. 2 mi. away (that is the Boston Sch.), no store, a chu.\c. 2 mi. s. of Lot is Mud Creek which was probably named for its very muddy appearance. The stream goes clear up the Bell Co. line, to the Greasy Creek Gap.... (Eugene Siler, Sr., interview, 6/23/78); DK anything about its naming; probably for the Biblical character. Thus only one "t". Now: farm homes; not sure there's even a store there. Voting place there. Locally still referred to by that name. (John L. Crawford, 6/22/1978);
LOT (Whitley Co., Ky): Boston was named for Boss Faulkner, storekeeper. Lot was named for acre lots surveyed and the flat land of the Bible. THREE POINT (Whitley Co., Ky): c. 2 mi. n. of Williamsburg, nr. Ky. 26. (F754) Nr. Watts Creek. "In the late '30's or early '40's, a small store and small service station was built there called Longworth's. When the Longworths went out of business Everett and Mary Buhl leased the property and operated a small grocery store and a Texaco station there. This property was at the junction of three busy roads and we called it '3-Point.'" (Everett Buhl, Williamsburg, Ky., letter to me, 4/25/1987).
I would still like to know its precise location: i.e. which three roads join at the site of Buhl's store and its distance and direction from Wofford and the Gatliff Fish Hatchery. I'd also like to know if there was a community, as such, centered at this store or a p.o. and if the store is still there.
TIDALWAVE (Whitley Co., Ky): "Ky. mountain people used to call the flood of a stream a big tide. When I was a kid I heard my dad say 'Well, there's a big tide on East Fork.' That meant it was flooded. And why they called it a tide, I don't know except that most of our people from this area came from (the British Isles) and lived close to the coast and they were used to ocean tides. So that's the one reason I know you would find the use of tides for flood stages here. And Tidalwave is just, I imagine, somebody said well, you've got a big tide in this branch here. And this evolved into Tidalwave. I guess there was a flood at the time it was named but I don't really know." (John L. Crawford, Corbin, Ky., 6/22/1978)
