INDIAN WEDDING.

Pierre, DAK., August 30.—Word has reached Pierre that the long-expected marriage of Carline-Dupree took place Saturday afternoon at Standing Rock, 18 miles north of this city. It was the great event of the season, as it was the first ceremonial marriage of the country that a white man has a marriage. The groom, Charles Carline, a Territorial Governor of Illinois, and the son of Colonel Carline, of the Carline family, who are the relatives of Frederick Dupree, a French halfbreed. Her mother is the Queen of the Sitting Bull, and the wedding ceremony was performed by Justice Kinner of this city, in the presence of 1,000 Sioux from the surrounding reservations.

After the formal ceremony was performed, the wedding party started for the valley. The medicine man of the Blackfoot tribe, with his buffalo robe, was attended by the Great Spirit, after which the Indian rode white ponies across the plains and brought the bridal party to the home of T. F. Taylor, who was declared the winner as the approval of the Great Spirit.

The feast then commenced, which continued throughout the night. The guests were furnished with hundreds of dogs boiled in soup. The latter was not served by the white people.

The wedding party was composed of the following members: Mr. and Mrs. Carline, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Dupree.

GOING HOME.

Return of the Soldiy from Morehead—Young Man Got Him—Doesn’t Get Them.

Lexington, Ky., September 4.—The soldiers of the 22nd Ohio were passed through here this evening on their way to Louisville, where they are to join the 7th Kentucky at Sterling. They were met at the town by a large crowd of citizens, who escorted them to the train and wished them a safe journey.

The soldiers were received with great enthusiasm, and the townspeople were delighted to see their friends again. The men were all in high spirits and appeared eager to continue their journey.

MOREREAD.

Piggam and Perry Acquitted.

Pierre, S. Dak., September 3.—The jury today declined to indict Hiram Piggam and Perry for the murder of Craig Toliver, and the prisoners walked out of the jail.

The prosecution conducted by four attorneys, assisting the Commonwealth’s Attorney, was unsuccessful, as the jury did not agree on a verdict for the State, after doing all the examining of the important witnesses, which they had heard and seen, and after a careful consideration of the evidence in the background, never asking a question of a witness during the trial.

Taylor Young, whose name has been so indubitably bound up with the troubles of the district, was in court, but the jury took no notice of him, and the verdict was rendered without his presence.

A SERIOUS QUESTION.

Some of the jurors whether or not the prisoners were guilty were the subject of much discussion, and they did not agree on a verdict. After several days of deliberation, the jury decided to acquit the prisoners, and the verdict was rendered without their presence.

The two men, who were charged with the murder of the district, were acquitted, and the trial ended with a verdict of not guilty.

AN ACQUITTAL.

Whether or not they were guilty, the jury decided that the interests of the community would be best served by their acquittal.

The trial ended with a verdict of not guilty, and the jury decided that the interests of the community would be best served by acquitting the prisoners.

Many people regard the result of the trial as a victory, and whether or not they are correct, time only can tell.
